KIDNAPPED TYLER CHILD FOUND SAFE, ASLEEP

TAYLOR NAN IS CHARGED IN WIFE'S MURDER

By United Press
GEORGETOWN, Texas, Dec. 18.—John Walker, unemployed ice manufacturer, was charged with the slaying of his wife Taylor last night. Walker, 48, was found lying on her bed last night. She died three hours later in a Taylor hospital. Officers found a ready dinner on the Walker dining table, set for three. The food had not been touched. Walker was beaten on the head with an 18-inch pipe wrench and knocked to the floor. Her head was deeply crushed in four places. Apparently her slayer had picked up from the floor and placed on top of her. Authorities believed Walker was sent over failure to find a

Missionaries Slain in China

Slain by Chinese bandits who had demanded $20,000 ransom, the bodies of John C. Stam, 27, and his wife Elizabeth, 25, above, were found eight miles from their mission in Tsingteh. The U. S. government has demanded immediate punishment of the killers. The 2-month-old daughter of the victims is believed prisoner of the outlaws.

REV. WELBURN IS CONVICTED IN PERJURY CASE

By United Press
SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 18.—William Welburn Jr., former pastor of the Government Hill Methodist church, was convicted by a district court jury today on a charge of perjury. Sentence was set at seven years in the state penitentiary. The jury deliberated all night. Welburn was charged in connection with testimony he gave last summer when Mrs. Wineta Welburn obtained a barely contested divorce from him. The minister contended then and reiterated during the perjury trial that he never married Mrs. Welburn and was not the father of her child. Testimony in both trials brought out that the preacher and Mrs. Welburn were intimate on several occasions before their marriage.

Impolite, but She Can't Stop It

It isn't really painful, but it's so tiresome that Mrs. Harold McKee of Morrison, Ill., could scream, she says between yawns. She started yawning Dec. 9 and has been doing it continually since, at an average rate of a dozen an hour. She has eaten only liquid foods and slept with the aid of drugs during that period. Physicians believe her affliction due to nervous strain of financial worries, as the family is on relief rolls.

ROOSEVELT TO TAKE UP POWER RATE BATTLE

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The power fight waxed hotter today when President Roosevelt revealed he had interested himself in the New York city fight for lower utility rates. The president revealed that Mayor LaGuardia and Maurice Davison, New York commissioner of water, gas and electricity, would confer with him in a few days. The conference with the officials came after a bristling exchange between the Edison Electric Light Institute and federal power commission regarding the president's program of power "yardsticks" and especially the TVA experiment. The president's interest in the New York city fight was taken to indicate his intention of forcing the fight for lower utility rates along all fronts. The LaGuardia administration has hinted it may build its own power plant for supplying the city, due to high power rates. Davison has rejected bids for supplying light, power and steam for 1935 on the grounds the costs are excessive. In announcing his coming conference with LaGuardia and Davison, the white house recalled that once before Mr. Roosevelt had interested himself to lower New York electric rates.

Frank and Sassy Is Huey's Aide

Right-hand man of Huey Long, Seymour Weiss, above, told a U. S. Senate investigating group that certain financial deals were "none of their business," and got away with it—thus far. Weiss heads the New Orleans Dock Board, boosted by the Kingfish from previous jobs as shoe clerk and barber shop manager.

FOUND IN CAR AT COURTHOUSE BY POLICEMAN

Was Frightened And Unable To Tell What Had Happened.

By United Press
TYLER, Texas, Dec. 18.—The strange kidnaping of Ray Larrison, three-year-old Tyler youth, was believed near solution today when the boy was returned as mysteriously as he was stolen. All during the night officers and relatives searched the countryside for traces of the boy, who was kidnaped as he lay sleeping in his father's car yesterday afternoon. The night's search failed to uncover a single clue or trace of the kidnaped child. At 6:30 a policeman noticed a car resembling that of the boy's father parked on the courthouse square about two blocks from the scene of the kidnaping. The policeman investigated and found the boy in the car. He was so frightened that he could not talk and was unable to tell police at once how long he had been there or any details of the kidnaping. He was unharmed. Police notified the boy's parents, who live on a farm near here. Officers said there were no clues in the car that might lead to the kidnapers.

Freezing Weather To Hit the State Predictions Say

By United Press
Freezing temperatures were predicted for North Texas as a low pressure area moved across the state today. Dallas was at the center of the pressure area. The temperature there was around 49 degrees. The Panhandle—the mercury fell at 32 degrees with a light falling. Snow flurries were seen over most of the area. The unsettled weather brought light rains for most of the day. South and east sections of the state reported high showers. At Paso it was clear.

Employment of CCC Workers Urged By Relief Officer

In a letter to this paper H. E. Driscoll, county relief administrator, points out that many young men will be released from the CCC camps after one year of service, and that they are in need of employment. The co-operation of the people of the county is being urged in aiding these men in securing employment, as they have proved in the past that they are reliable and are good workers. The letter, which explains the situation, reads as follows: "There will be discharged on or about Dec. 31 approximately 1,400 young men from the civilian conservation corps. "These young men have served the maximum time in the CCC that is allowed by federal regulations. They have been allowed to remain in camp during the past year only because they have been successful in performing their required duties. "The fact that they have completed the maximum terms proves that they have been successful in their jobs since map commanders may discharge any enrollee at the close of each three months if it is felt that the enrollee is unworthy of further service. "We are particularly interested in the man who has successfully completed his maximum term of enrollment. Regulations prevent the re-enrollment of these men, so we feel we are obligated to assist in any possible way in their endeavors to secure employment. These young men are proud of the fact that they have been able to contribute to the support of their dependents and are eager to continue in that capacity. By securing employment in a reasonable length of time we may expect that they will retain their present spirit and morale. "We shall be glad to secure individual references from the war department for any employer who might wish further information regarding the enrollee's employment while in the civilian conservation corps, and we are confident all local civic organizations will do much in combination with the efforts of the Eastland county relief board staff in endeavoring to place these young men at work. "Yours very truly,
"H. E. DRISCOLL,
"County Administrator."

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The congress which convenes Jan. 3 has caused banks and industry to move toward a defensive coalition with the administration. But political straws indicate congress will be less radical in action than business leaders have believed. A survey of issues confronting the 73rd congress suggest that on most controversial legislation President Roosevelt will be able to prevent either the house or the senate from bolting to comparatively radical programs. In whatever form President Roosevelt finally submits his legislative program, it will fall into five general classifications: 1. Regular appropriation bills and other routine legislation. 2. Emergency spending bills. 3. Social-security, industrial, labor and financial policies. 4. Taxation. 5. National defense. The regular appropriations are supply bills for the department of government and the agencies developed before emergency organizations were created to combat depression. Revision of NRA and other industrial legislation, spending, social security and banking legislation will create the most controversy this winter. Embraced by the general classifications are bills to be sponsored by the administration and programs which powerful groups in and out of congress will try to compel Mr. Roosevelt to accept. Spending includes inflation, housing, unemployment relief, veterans' bonus, continuation of the CC and a variety of policies which require financing from the treasury. The decision of Mr. Roosevelt and congress for spending for instance will determine when and how the budget shall be balanced. That decision will inform the administration how much it must continue to borrow to meet its deficit. When the probable volume of new government borrowing is known, the administration will know the extent to which it must obtain control over banks to insure a source of supply for the money it needs to finance emergency expenditures. Legislation dealing with social security, industrial, labor and finance will consist largely of rules and conditions under which the people shall live and work. Most of the spending involves, in these latter policies will be done from private funds. Banking and industrial proposals that business co-operate with the new deal in future recovery efforts are generally interpreted as a move to obtain white house aid against an unpredictable congress. Including an unusually large delegation of freshmen members, it is feared

French Minister Scores Makers of War Materials

By United Press
PARIS, Dec. 18.—A chamber of deputies debate on supplementary war credits developed today into a bitter attack on private manufacture of armaments. "We know positively," said former Air Minister Pierre Cot, "that whereas any soldier who had relations with the enemy in war time was shot, certain French industrialists throughout the World War maintained contact with German industrialists." Insisting the government open an inquiry into activities of armament manufacture, Cot said: "Private manufacture of arms and munitions cannot be defended, either morally or financially. Arms makers must be prevented from poisoning the public minds by acquiring newspapers." COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 18.—Texas' share of the $98,351,600 spent by the government in drouth cattle purchases, through Nov. 7, was $29,148,150, an AAA report disclosed today. Further purchases in Texas under a $2,738,000 allotment to 127 counties are being made under direction of drouth directors, according to George Barnes, in charge of the program.

Eastland Man Dies; Funeral to Be Held At Pleasant Grove

J. L. Wheat, 47, of Eastland, died this morning at 4:35 at his home, 217 South Walnut street, after a long illness. Funeral services are to be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Pleasant Grove, with K. C. Edmonds of Ranger officiating. The decedent is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. F. Wheat, his wife and eight children, six boys and two girls. He is also survived by four brothers and three sisters. Death was attributed to pneumonia.

Resident Highway Engineer's Office To Brownwood

Removal of the resident highway engineer's office at Eastland to Brownwood on about Jan. 1 has been ordered by the state highway department. Wesley Hall, engineer, who has made residence in Eastland since Jan. 1 of last year when it was moved from Brownwood, stated Monday the latter office would be in nearer proximity to highway construction activities. When the office was moved to Eastland last year, highway construction was in progress at several points in the county.

Two Jugo Slavian Ministers Resign As Riots Staged

By United Press
BELGRADE, Dec. 18.—Foreign Minister Bogoljub Jevtic and Minister of Agriculture Dragutin Jolic offered their resignations today after a riotous demonstration in the streets against settlement of the Jugo-Slavian-Hungarian controversy. The cabinet did not immediately accept the resignations. It was announced negotiations are under way to settle the difficulty and the trouble was expected to be smoothed over. Meanwhile the ministers will remain in the cabinet for the present. The cabinet crisis was precipitated by the anger of thousands of Jugo-Slavians over the League of Nations settlement of the quarrel with Hungary, growing out of the assassination of King Alexander. The league, Italy and Hungary were assailed by mobs who attempted to mob the Italian and Hungarian consulates, shouting "we will avenge our martyred king." All police were called into action and the demonstrators failed to wreck the legations.

Reserve Officers Of Oil Belt Elect For Coming Year

Members of the Oil Belt Reserve Officers association, composed of men from Eastland, Pecos, Cisco and Pecos, met in the county courtroom Monday and elected officers for the coming year. Major Ray A. Lerner of Eastland was elected president. First James A. Jarboe of Ranger was elected vice president, Second L. Peacock of Ranger was elected secretary-treasurer, and Major Stewart Pearce of Cisco was elected chaplain. The meeting date was set for the first Monday in each month, the meetings to be rotated among the cities in the organization. The meeting will be held at Cisco January 21, 1935. After the chapter business was up an interesting hour's program was presented with Sgt. L. H. Griffin giving an interesting talk on toxic and antitoxic gases, first in case of as poisoning and the use of the gas mask. Following the talk three reels of motion pictures, showing defense against chemical warfare were shown. There were 14 members of the organization present at the meeting.

That reminds me...

Taking another swing among the good stores of Eastland we took in the ABC Grocery and Market operated by Mr. Gooty and found an interesting boss still on the job with plenty of everything worth while for the table. He is an Eastland optimist and gives one plenty of inspiration to huy when in the store. Coming back up the street, there was good old Frank Roberson and his crew of workers all happy and working. Frank runs the Superior Garage and what we mean is he runs it right, and what Frank doesn't know about any make of automobile isn't in the book. The fact of the business is Frank has been fooling with automobiles so long that he knows every nut and screw on the thing, besides that he does body repairing, has a first class wrecking towing car, handles batteries, recharges them and all that, and when Frank puts an O. K. on a job you can just drive out and feel like you're riding in a better than new car.

Work Orders Are Issued On Rising Star Highway Job

Work orders have been issued from Austin are to start the Rising Star highway improvement north of that city to near Romney have been received in Eastland at the resident highway engineer's office. The contractors, E. T. Boey & Sons, are expected to start by Jan. 1.

Civic clubs, the city, church classes and other organizations have made contributions that will be given children at the community Christmas tree Dec. 21, according to information from the Civic league, sponsor of the event. A partial list of offerings and their donors: Fruits, nuts and candies for 675 sacks—Lion and Rotary clubs, American Legion, Civic league and Knights of Pythias. Money donation for materials used in repair of toys at toy factory at Chamber of Commerce—9-49 Bible class. Several wool jackets to be distributed to small boys—9-49 Bible class. Fruits and toys—Baptist church Sunday school class.

Claims Killed Six Ducks In One Shot

Ernest Halkias of Eastland got into shooting position—ducks flew into view—he fired his shotgun—and down fell five ducks, he says. He obtained a sixth by "chasing him down." The asserted duck massacre occurred at a lake in Cisco, he states. "And I'm not fooling, either," Halkias concludes.

Mass Mini Speaks At City Dedication

By United Press
PITTORIA, Italy, Dec. 18.—Prime Minister Mussolini, in a speech inaugurating the new province of Liguria today emphasized the necessity of military strength. Addressing colonists of this ancient Pontine marshes, Mussolini said: "The nation must be strong in the military viewpoint. It is the plow cuts deep into the soil but it is the soil that defends the plow. Both the plow and sword made of sharpened steel, similar to the faith which burns in our hearts." In his speech he said: "Fighting is more important to fascists than victory itself, because when fighting is crowned by a strong willpower victor yearns."

ALLOWABLE IN TEXAS RAISED BY NEW ORDER

By United Press
AUSTIN, Dec. 18.—Texas oil wells were on an increased allowable today. The order takes up most of a 65,000-barrel daily increase in market demands found to exist by the federal oil administration. If all oil sold at $1 a barrel, the increase for the remainder of this month and for January would amount to nearly $3,000,000. The federal estimate covers that period. The estimates fixed the daily market demand for Texas oil at 1,006,800 barrels. The state railroad commission, by an order last night, allocated 1,001,657 of this, leaving a margin of 5,143 barrels to care for growth of the East Texas field and for new wells or fields. Included in the increases granted are Panhandle field, 2,000 barrels a day; Southwest Texas, 362. There was no change for West Central Texas and the new order decreased the government well's allowable 410 barrels.

Dictatorship Reflects Faults By Slaughter of Its Critics

Once more a European dictator presents America with a first-rate object lesson in the bloody price that any people must pay for submitting to autocratic rule.

This time the lesson comes from Russia. A few months ago it came from Germany. A relatively short time before that it came from Austria. And though the course of events differed in each case, the lesson to be derived therefrom is the same.

The assassination of Sergel Maronovich Kiroff, member of the Soviet Political Bureau, is answered in the only way an autocratic country can answer such a deed—by wholesale arrests, rapid-fire trials and an appalling number of executions. At last accounts, 66 people have been executed in reprisal—the reprisal being the government's way of replying to the only kind of criticism that is available to a Russian nowadays.

And that is just the point of all of these tragedies. Where free discussion is shut off, ballot boxes are sealed and ordinary processes of self-government are abolished, there is only one way in which a man can express his opposition to government policies: by violence.

The uprising in Austria which resulted in the murder of Dollfuss, the German plot which led Hitler to order the execution of such men as Roehm and Von Schleicher, and now this Russian upheaval which sent 66 people are part and parcel of the autocratic process. They come with the bicycle. If you treat yourself to a dictatorship, there is no way in which you can escape such things.

Now we have been told in recent years that the tide is setting away from democratic processes, that freedom is a luxury too expensive for the modern world and that self-government is too inefficient and cumbersome to be tolerated in a high-speed, mechanized commonwealth.

There is a substratum of truth in these assertions. People have grown disillusioned with democracy; freedom can be retained only by making sacrifices; democratic governments cannot always act with speed and decisiveness.

But assassinations and mass executions go on the other side of the ledger. They reflect an inefficiency greater and more costly than anything to be found in a democracy; the inefficiency of despotism, by which the inevitable manifestations of human dissent can be expressed and answered only by bloody violence.

You should light the match of enthusiasm with the fire of energy. The success of your city will be in direct proportion to the interest your citizens put into its development.

A Chamber of Commerce is working all the time to make every dream and ambition of the home city come true.

These are competitive times. It is invariably the business concern who uses continuous advertising that gets the business.

Now is the time to change frowns for smiles.

Crop Values Are Up for Year 1934

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The farm value of 1934 crops, based on prices as of Dec. 1, is $4,782,626,000, the department of agriculture estimated today.
Last year's crop was estimated at $4,114,265,000, and the 1932 harvest at $2,882,195,000.

Neaw Deal—

by business men the new congress might bolt the administration to devise a more radical new deal of its own.
Mr. Roosevelt, 15 days before congress meets, appears to be fairly secure against serious congressional trouble except on the issue of paying the veterans' bonus. Every president who tried to impose economy on the veterans has been defeated on Capitol Hill. Mr. Roosevelt probably will be able to find a compromise which will turn congress away from the $2,200,000,000 outright inflation involved in paying the bonus. But he scarcely can hope to dispose of the issue without giving some ground.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ANN HOLLISTER, pretty and 20, breaks by enlisting in TONY MICKLE's commercial unit, because of his credit and general appearance. The same day PETER KENDALL, wealthy and prominent, learns how VALERIA BENNETT, his fiancée, has deceived him, and tells her everything is over between them.

Ann and Peter, both heart-broken and disillusioned, meet in a restaurant. When Peter asks her to marry him, Ann agrees.

They are married that night and set out for Florida. They spend several weeks there happily until Peter is called home again because of business. All of the Kendall family, except Ann, except Peter's sister, MILLENT, who becomes a staunch friend. Peter's grandfather refuses to see Ann and urges his grandson to divorce her.

Trouble with the employees breaks out at the Kendall factory. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII
OLD Peter Kendall smiled. There was no use trying to threaten his grandson. This thing would have to work itself out. Give the marriage six months and young Peter would doubtless be ready to put the whole thing in a lawyer's hands.

Meanwhile there was the trouble at the factory to be straightened out. He told Peter about Eric Oleson and the committee. There might be difficulty in going forward with his plans.

"I'll drop by and have a talk with Oscar," Peter said. "I can use Eric on a job in town."
"That might be a good idea. I would take him back but right now it wouldn't do. It would be setting a bad precedent. The boys must know they cannot start trouble at the factory."

Peter drove to Eric's house which he found shut and padlocked.
A small boy from the poken next door volunteered information. "Eric's gone away. He took his wife and the children to Oscar's house."

"Thanks, Sonny," Peter got into his car and drove to Oscar's place, a quarter of a mile away. Smoke curled from the chimney of the small, weather-beaten home where Oscar had lived since Peter was a child. He had an idea that it must be crowded with the extra family.

Oscar opened the door. He shook hands with Peter, but there was a look in his eyes that was new. The genial, gray-haired foreman Peter had known from babyhood had vanished. Here was a tired, bitter, dispirited old man.

Four children, ranging in age from around two to eight years, were playing in the back of the room. Eric's wife, a faded, work-worn woman, prematurely aged, sat near the fire, holding a small baby in her arms.

ERIC was out looking for work. His father told Peter abruptly opening the subject uppermost in his mind.
"That's what I came to see you about," Peter said. "I can use Eric on a job in town."
Oscar shook his head. "I'm afraid Eric won't take it, Mr. Peter. We're not looking for charity yet. Eric's hard up, but he wouldn't want a job from you after your granddad kicked him out. We Olesons have put a lot of ourselves in the factory and what have we got from it? Eric was fired without warning because he was a little hot-headed."
"There are two sides to this, Oscar," Peter said, "but this isn't the time for argument. Eric talked too much at a critical period. At any other time my grandfather would have overlooked it. Meanwhile Eric must have work to support his family."

"He'll have to find it some place else," Mr. Peter. As I said, we don't want charity. He can stay here until he can open his place again."

Peter drove home soberly, thinking of Oscar's words. What had they gotten out of the factory? Not even security. Eric's small, barren house was closed. Oscar's meager $150 a month stretched to cover the needs of two families instead of one.

As he passed Kendallwood the big old-fashioned house was wrapped in shadow—shadows that seemed deeper than usual. Omicron.

Peter let himself in his office. A girl turned, reaching out her hand. "Hello, Peter."

Peter said, "Hello Valeria." She continued to sit, smiling at him.

"Peter sat down and waited. 'You can't refuse me this. I need your help. I haven't confidence in anyone else.'"

"What's the trouble?" Peter spoke curtly. This was carrying things a little too far—Valeria coming to his office and waiting after the others had gone.

Valeria explained sweetly. She and her aunt were moving back to their country place because the cost of living in town was so great. With prices rising it was the only sensible thing to do. But the place in the country was impossible. It would be necessary to have the old house modernized.

"I'm awfully busy right now," Peter said. "I'd rather you'd get someone else." He was frowning.

"I wouldn't trust it to anyone else. It surely won't take much time. Only a trip or two out there."

PETER was thinking that he would not put Paul on the job after he went over the place and decided what was needed.

Beside the work on hand, he had another job which would be a surprise to someone. Doing over the interior of the home he had purchased. Peter hadn't been able to resist buying the place because he had decided when he saw it that it looked as though it had been built for Ann.

"You will help me, won't you? It's unfair to be unfriendly when I've forgiven you for everything."
"When do you want me to go over the place?"
"Couldn't we drive out tomorrow afternoon?"
"I'm going to be busy until about four. Suppose I meet you there between four and five?"
"Aunt Louise and I will be there all afternoon. Come when you are ready. Peter, I let Aunt Louise take the car on home. I planned to take a taxi, but if you could drive me by on your way—"

Millicent saw them leave the building and get into Peter's car. Millicent dropped in unexpectedly on Ann next morning and went straight to the point. "Ann, it might be well to watch Valeria. I saw her leave Peter's office yesterday and drive off with him. As a rule, I don't tattle. But Valeria is such an old hand at the game. I thought I should warn you."
"Thanks, Millicent," Ann said.

"I'm afraid there's nothing I can do. Peter has a right to choose his own friends."
"Nonsense. Of course there's plenty you can do. Plenty any girl can do to put a stop to such things."
Millicent thought Ann had taken the news like a good sport. She respected her for it. Peter was lucky because Ann would never whine or nag.

"Don't worry too much. Peter's really not the double-crossing kind. But Valeria has a bag full of tricks. Keep your eyes open and if you don't like what you see, tell Peter so."

The next few weeks were unusually quiet for Ann, with Peter's time so occupied. He was busy. It was only necessary to stay inside the downtown quarters where typewriters were clattering, people coming and going, and the telephone ringing constantly to know that.

Ann thought of Sarah going about her work, and envied her. In the big apartment Ann had nothing at all to do. Everything was done by servants, quickly and efficiently. Ever since Millicent's dance, Peter had seemed a different person—rushing away each morning, quiet and thoughtful when he was at home.

More than once Ann had planned to talk to him about themselves and the solution of their problem. But something held her back. She had simply drifted, waiting. Waiting for something to happen—she did not know what.

On an impulse she called Sarah one day. "It's been such an age since I've seen you, Ann said. "That's what I've been thinking. Trying to high-hat me?"
"I don't know what the matter. Maybe I'm developing spring fever."
"What's on your mind?"
"Sarah, have lunch with me downtown."
"I'd love it. What about friend husband?"
"Busy," Ann said, trying to sound nonchalant and bright, and not succeeding.

Sarah hung up, troubled, deciding things were not moving any too well in the Kendall ménage. What a queer world! There was Ann, who loved going places and doing things, shut up in an apartment. It was not very sporting of Peter to neglect her so soon. Somehow Sarah had expected him to behave differently.

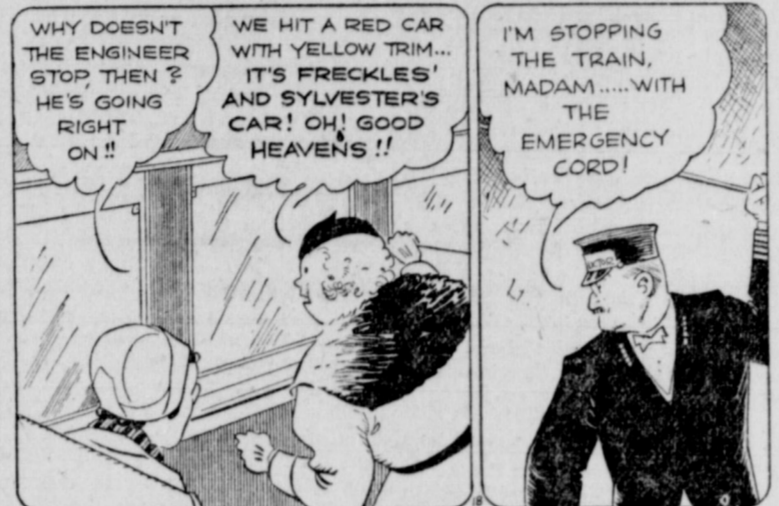

And here was Tony, as savage and unhappy as ever. Every time Sarah looked at Tony she thought of fire, smoldering, ready to burst out at any moment into a fierce flame.

Once she had attempted to talk to Tony but he had met her effort with a ferocious, "Pipe down, Sarah."
She met Ann at a smart downtown tea room. Ann was waiting for her. After giving their orders, Sarah began a brisk outline of happenings at the library. Suddenly she realized Ann was not listening. Sarah, following the direction of Ann's gaze, saw a smart-looking blond girl at a table in a corner. She recognized Valeria Bennett.

Valeria had seen Ann and bowed and smiled. She laid aside her cigaret and came to their table.

MAY REGAIN LAW RIGHTS

CLEVELAND, O.—Thomas W. Fleming, former city councilman, released recently from Ohio penitentiary, Columbus, for accepting a bribe, will probably be reinstated to practice of law, the executive committee of common pleas court indicated in announcing it would recommend the journal entry disbarring Fleming be modified.

Charlie Dawes "out of the depression by summer" sounds so much like Henry Ford's "out of the trenches by Christmas" that we're almost prepared to dig in for a longer siege.

How Texas Cities Got Their Names

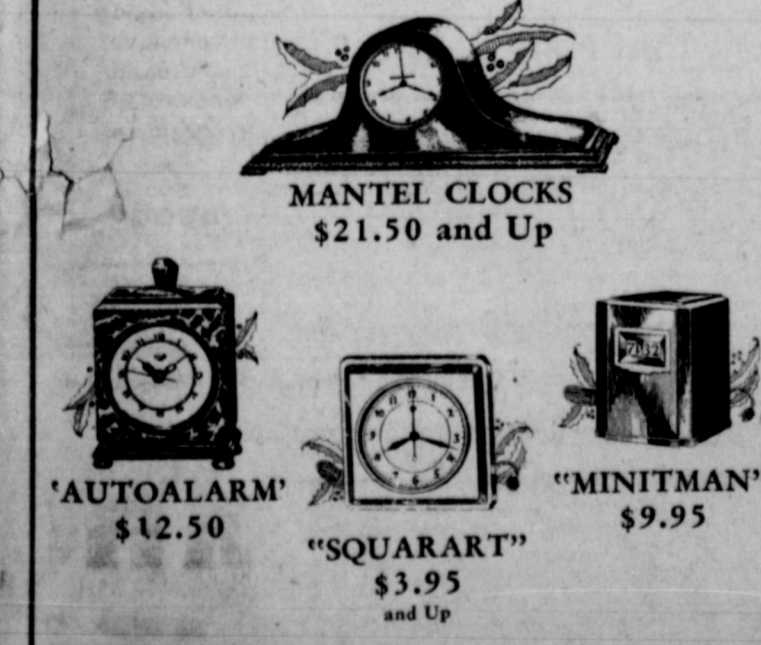

By United Press
Galveston, Texas' island city, is credited in history as receiving its name from a trio of high Spanish officers of colonial Mexican fame. Three members of the Galvez family, two of them viceroys at Mexico City, were prominent in early southwest history.
Jose de Galvez was the first to visit America. He was sent as "visitador," special administration investigator of the Spanish king.

Matias de Galvez, Jose's brother, became 48th viceroy of the New Spain in 1483. Bernardo de Galvez, son of Matias, was associated most closely with Galveston. He was a dashing soldier in Louisiana, governor-general of Cuba, Florida and Louisiana, and 49th viceroy of New Spain.

Florida is hoping for another boom, if those who remember the last one will at least keep quiet about it.

Martha Dorcas Party

The Martha Dorcas class of the Methodist church will entertain their membership at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with a Christmas tree gift exchange, at the home of the house hostess, Mrs. M. B. Griffin.

Booster Class

The booster class meeting of Sunday morning in Methodist church, with their president, Mrs. C. W. Price, in charge, opened with an ensemble carol, "Silent Night," and prayer by Mrs. Wayne Jones.

The choir appointed a committee with Ed Willman as chairman, to send a Christmas gift to the Methodist home in Waco.

The framed copy of the class prayer, a pleasing gift, was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Stephen to the class.

Judge W. P. Leslie brought a splendid lesson, based on the topic, "The Christian and the Lord's Supper," dwelling principally upon our personal attitude when we partake of the Holy Communion.

Home Makers Class

Mrs. W. P. Palm presided over the Home Makers Bible class session of Sunday morning in Baptist church, with meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. Larner, who brought the lesson, on subject, current in all churches, "The Christian and the Lord's Supper."

High lights brought that the Christian should realize Christ's presence in the Supper, and what this means to a Christian.

The verse from First Corinthians was quoted, "For as often as ye eat this bread and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death 'til He come."

Vesper Services

The vesper service from 6 to 7 p. m., Sunday, of the Methodist church presented in the lower auditorium before an immense audience that filled it to overflowing, was splendidly presented by the Young People's Epworth League of the church, with Ralph Mahon Jr., presiding, and interlinking the numbers with explanatory background.

The congregational hymns were accompanied, piano and violin, by Misses Clara June Kimble and Jo Earl Utz.

"Joy to the World" and "Come All Ye Faithful" prefaced the explanation of purpose of program, and of the annual Christmas offering for the Methodist home for children in Waco.

Parker Brown told of the Waco home; and the hymn, by congregation, "There's a Song in the Air," followed.

A playlet, "Three Boxes," told in quaint fashion, how and where much money is spent; cast, The Candy Box, Miss Carolyn Doss; The Flower Box, Miss Joan Johnson; The Mite Box, Miss Adrienne Flurry.

Hymn, ensemble, "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem," prefaced the playlet, "A Letter From an Old Friend," with parts taken by R. L. Perkins Jr., Wendell Seibert, Bob Sikes, Raymond Pipkin, John Hart, Clyde Chaney, and Harry B. Brogdon.

An illustration of "Christian culture" presented by Tom Harrison, under title, "Orange Culture," stated, he was a new Burbank, and had discovered a new culture. He reversed the orange in his hand, showing the hollowed out space filled with money and checks, gifts for the Waco home, and called the culturists to the front, who brought their oranges, likewise filled with cash gifts for the home.

A pantomime, "How the Great Guest Came," was given by Miss Betty Perkins.

Cast, The Old Cobble, Billy Satterwhite; The Neighbors, Kathleen Cottingham and Dorothy Perkins; The Beggar, Ed Stanford; The Old

Crone, Catherine Garrett, and The Little Child, Harriet Stanford.

Music for the production was played by Mrs. J. M. Perkins.

Martha Dorcas Class

The Sunday morning session of the Martha Dorcas class of the Methodist church was opened by their president, Mrs. Mack O'Neal, with the carols, ensemble, "Joy to the World," and "There's a Song in the Air," led by Mrs. June Kimble, with Mrs. C. J. Germany as pianist.

During the business period the class planned for a Christmas shower, to be given a family with five children, and members are requested to take these gifts to the Christmas party at Mrs. M. B. Griffin's Wednesday afternoon.

Each member was also urged to bring an exchange membership gift for the Christmas tree.

Mrs. C. W. Hoffman and assistants were given a rising vote of thanks for the successful Martha Dorcas banquet and Rev. E. R. Stanford made a touching appeal for an offering for the Methodist home. He also thanked the class for the all-church dinner.

Mrs. C. C. Robey voiced a sincere appeal for the Waco home. A pleasing reading, "Keep on Keeping," was given by Jack Germany.

Mrs. Robey brought the class lesson, a very fine explanation of the text and of the sacredness of the Lord's Supper.

There were 29 members in attendance.

Truth Seekers Class

Mrs. Clyde L. Garrett presented an unusually fine lesson at the Truth Seekers class meeting Sunday morning, held in Baptist church, opened by their president, Mrs. L. G. Rogers.

Mrs. Garrett stated that the Christian and the Lord's Supper meant a memorial and she dwelt particularly on the proper observance of this the greatest supper in the world, and held in memoriam and remembrance of the greatest man that ever lived, and the humblest.

There was an average attendance of members.

Book Club Inviets

The Book Club of Eastland has extended an open invitation to the public to attend the review of the book, "The Folks," to be given by Mrs. A. Neill, Wednesday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock in clubroom of community clubhouse.

Mrs. Neill is a member of the faculty of the Ranger Junior College.

The First Christmas Cantata Draws Crowd

The colorful and striking cantata by Ira B. Wilson, "The First Christmas" was magnificently presented by the Baptist church choir Sunday evening to an audience that crowded the church auditorium, and included members of the Methodist church a large group, whose service closed in time for them to attend the cantata given under direction of Mrs. O. B. Darby, a talented musician.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated, small silver trees on either side of the altar, and grouped poinsettias, ferns and cedar, that also veiled the choir railing.

The baptisml loft was filled with poinsettias and ferns. The choir was in costume of uniform black with white bishop collars. The piano prelude, "The First Christmas" was wonderfully played by Mrs. D. L. Kinnaid, and followed with prayer offered by the pastor, O. B. Darby.

The cantata, in 13 parts, opened with, "The People That Walk in Darkness," women's chorus, with baritone solo by E. W. Trimble.

The contrast in the phrasing of this chorus was truly artistic. Part 3, "Bethlehem," brought a voice solo by Mrs. W. P. Palm, soprano, an introduction to Part 4, that carried a soprano solo, with chorus by choir, by Miss Roberta Kinnaird.

These soprano solos were outstanding numbers of the cantata, "And It Came to Pass," part 5, solo, W. E. Trimble, with women's chorus, brought a fine climatic effect, repeated in the Shepherd's Vision, colorfully interpreted.

A tender and beautiful phrase, "An Angels Song," tenor solo by

A. M. Hearn, had the interwoven refrain carried by the choir.

The Star and The Song, a duet for soprano and alto, was a fine harmony by Miss Kinnaird and Mrs. Schaffner.

No Room in the Inn, solo by E. W. Trimble, had a very fine quartet that carried the motif of the cantata, sang by tenors, and bass, A. M. Hearn, E. W. Trimble, W. D. R. Owen and G. S. Karkalis.

Sweet and lovely was the chorus by the choir, "O Babe in Bethlehem Manger," followed with "A Christmas Lullaby," interpreted in musicianly form by E. W. Trimble.

A duet by Hearn and Trimble, "The Heart of God," brought the climax of the cantata, "Blessed Be the Lord," a glorious harmony that ended in a magnificent climatic effect.

This was one of the outstanding productions in the annual Christmas cantata of this church and indicated careful rehearsing.

Members of the choir, Mmes. W. P. Palm, J. A. Ross, S. D. Phillips, W. A. Stiles, Schaffner, and J. B. Overton; Messes Roberta Kinnaird, Lavelle Hendrick, Karkalis, Reik, Mildred Hearn; Messes Schaffner, A. M. Hearn, G. S. Karkalis, W. D. R. Owen and E. W. Trimble.

Mrs. D. L. Kinnaid, pianist, and Mrs. O. B. Darby, director.

products, and incidentally "Red" Neal, hustling agent for the Texas Company was standing off smiling every time a car rolled up to fill up, and there was a string of them, and believe us Guy was on the job every time sometimes filling two cars at a time, while his courteous helpers were doing the same trick with another bunch on the opposite side. Guy also sells the famous Firestone Tires which all of us have heard so much about and found out that they do give service.

Crossing the street, here's the Williams boys and their crew of druggists all filled up with Santa Claus items from front to back—a beautiful display of everything—and when one wanders around the store there are smiles and more of them... and their stock of drugs needs no apology because it is complete. Right next door is Perry Brothers. Here we find a variety of articles which every home can fill its needs with. Mr. Fredregail, the said boss of the thing in terms of manager is all around the store seeing that customers are taken care of in every way. His pretty salesladies who wait on the customers are radiant with enthusiasm and one can't help but buy when they go in there. He has a wonderful assortment of Christmas toys, and boys is he filling Santa's orders, and how. Just had to hob into Chili King and get a cup of good coffee. Being early wasn't very hungry, but this popular cafe makes one hungry just to go in there, and Chili King has always a pleasant word for all who enter there. Passing Earl Dick's barber shop there is an atmosphere of cleanliness and from what we hear he and his co-workers know their tonorial "onions"—satisfied customers always.

Then we come to an establishment which is three in one so to speak—all different bosses, but there they are. Earl Johnson greets one with a smile and he heads the Farm Loan business and trades in real estate. Big old pleasant George Brogden runs Eastland Abstract Company and he knows his abstract business—of course he always smiles whether in the shop or on the street. Then there is K. B. Tanner, who manages the Freyschlag Insurance Company. He is also president of the Eastland Independent School board. Tanner is really a chip off the old block in the manner of his distinguished father, whose obsession for doing good for Eastland for many years before his death was of a devotional nature. Mr. Tanner knows the insurance business from A to Z and handles all kinds. Miss Joe Martin, organization doesn't let anyone get away without her pleasing personality and winsome smile making a lasting impression.

Then we come to the Fashion Shop, one of West Texas' most popular exclusive women's shops. Here everything is gloriously represented for women and among the lot is the highest quality of dresses, coats, hats, shoes, and accessories that one may ever find to select from. The store is beautifully decorated in the Christmas atmosphere, and one really feels that they are in a shop worth while when there. Mrs. Dave Wolf, ably

Classification Talk Delivered By Dr. W. Chaney

Causes of pyrrhoea, preventative and restorative measures were explained by Dr. W. E. Chaney in a classification talk to Rotarians Monday.

The toothpick was singled out as one of the causes of gum trouble by Dr. Chaney. Considered interesting by the group, was mention that in years ago men carried instruments of gold.

A report of the Rotary committee on projects was brought by Ben Hamner and Leslie Gray. Hamner stated that projects, according to information from the relief office, were keeping the majority of men working. Suggestion of projects possible for submission was made by Hamner.

Miss Jennie Tolbert, Eastland violinist, accompanied by Miss Wilda Drago, rendered one number.

Visitors were E. Hinrichs, of Eastland and Lyndsay D. Hawkins of Breckenridge.
