Durbin Stays Awake One Night For Tiring Role

It's not often that a girl deliberately plans to stay up all night, just so she'll be tired the next day.

However, that is exactly what Deanna Durbin did — all because of her most difficult scenes in Universal's "Christmas Holiday," which co-stars Miss Durbin and Gene Kelly, showing today at the Ritz theatre.

The sequence is Christmas Eve mass, which Deanna attends with Dean Harens, whom she has just met. According to the story, as originally written by Somerset Maugham, Deanna is so deeply touched by the religious services that she breaks into heavy sobs, bordering on hysteria.

Genuine Cry

If the script calls for a crying scene, Deanna has to work herself up to a state where she really feels like crying. From past experience, she has learned that she cries more easily when she is terribly tired.

So, since she knew that she would have to spend virtually an entire day sobbing as if her heart were breaking, the star decided that the best start for such a performance would be to report for work literally exhausted.

"Did you ever try staying up all night with nothing in particular to do?" Deanna asks. "I never before knew that a night could be so long. I listened to the radio, read books, wrote letters, played the phonograph for what seemed like endless hours.

Alarm Clock

"Finally my alarm went off at 5:30, the time for which it's always set. I had set it just as a precaution, in case I did fall asleep. Usually it's my pet hate. But that morning it was the nicest sound in the world. I took a shower, changed clothes, made some coffee and drove to the studio.

"When my hairdresser saw me she exclaimed, 'Good heavens,

Something New In Musicals At Lyric As Andrews Sisters Head Top Feature

Something completely new in musical hilarity is Universal's latest starring vehicle for the celebrated Andrews Sisters which came today to the screen of the Lyric theatre. The rollicking comedy-musical is titled "Swingtime Johnny" and it features a brilliant supporting cast including Harriet Hilliard, Peter Cookson, Matt Willis, Bill Phillips and Tim Ryan.

In addition to the list of capable performers, Mitch Ayres and his orchestra supply a satisfying fund of medodic interludes and entertainment.

The highly amusing story deals mainly with the tribulations encountered by a somewhat stuffy young man, Jonathan Chadwick III, portrayed by Peter Cookson, in his effort to convert the Chadwick Pipe Organ Company to the war-time manufacture of high explosive shells for Uncle Sam.

The Andrews Sisters and Harriet Hilliard, headlined with Mitch Ayres and his orchestra at a night club, quit their jobs en masse to fulfill their patriotic duty by working in a war plant.

Their laugh-provoking antics and melodious interludes that result during employment at the Chadwick factory converge with the plot when Miss Hilliard falls in love with Cookson and foils the crooked scheming of Tim Ryan, a shady promoter, to sabotage Chadwick's war effort and gain control of Jonathan's holdings.

Interspersed during apropos moments throughout the gay and timely story, the Andrews Sisters offer seven song selections, including "Boogie Woogie Choo Choo," "I May Be Wrong," "Old Time Medley," "You Better Give Me Lots of Lovin', Honey," "Let the Neils," "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

Miss Hilliard vocalizes two numbers: "Sweet and Low," "Ta-Ra-Ra-Boom-De-E."

When my hairdresser saw me she exclaimed, "Good heavens,

State Theatre Featuring Double Bill Of Riotous Comedy Today

"Brooklyn Orchid," the new Hal Roach comedy streamliner, stars William Bendix, Joe Sawyer, Marjorie Woodworth and Grace Bradley and is slated for its local premiere at the State Theatre today and Monday through United Artists release. It was directed by Kurt Neumann and its supporting cast features Skeets Gallagher, Florine McKinney and Leonid Kinskey.

The story of a "Brooklyn Orchid" concerns two taxicab tycoons who become involved with a blonde beauty contest winner, known as the Brooklyn Orchid, when they fish her out of a river into which she had plunged in an attempt to end it all. Being married men, their Brooklyn Orchid brings many complications into their otherwise complicated lives and leads to a large series of hilarious events.

Beautiful Rosemary La Planche, who was crowned "Miss America 1941," plays the leading femme role opposite Jimmy Rogers, Noah Beery, Jr., and Marjorie Woodworth in the new Hal Roach streamliner, "Prairie Chickens," a comedy packed with mirth, girls, gags and romance, and slated for its local premiere at the State Theatre today and Monday.

"Prairie Chickens" was directed by Hal Roach, Jr., and was filmed from a screenplay by Arnold Belgard and Earle Snell. Its fun-filled story revolves around the screwy adventures of the happy-go-lucky young cowboy pals, Jimmy Rogers and Noah Beery, Jr., who become mixed up with a young millionaire, who is going West to collect a ranch that he inherited.

The boys bow into high society when their car blows up and they are rescued by the millionaire's chauffeur. Pressed to kill in borrowed finery, they are mistaken for celebrities and given a royal welcome by the townspeople while the real millionaire is sampling the neighborhood saloons. The hoax is finally exposed, the boys tie up with a bevy of college queens, escape to the ranch and stumble over a dastardly plot to doublecross the rich man. Emerging as heroes, they decide to continue their trek and to find real jobs.

The supporting cast in "Prairie Chickens" includes Joe Sawyer, Jack Norton and Raymond Hatton, and the impressive musical score was composed by Edward Ward. "Prairie Chickens" is a light comedy built especially for entertainment.

Regulars Question Mark In Forecasting County

How will Howard county go in the general election Nov. 7? That, of course, is a question unanswerable until after Nov. 7 balloting is complete, but there will have to be a marked disruption of trends of the past decade to reverse the support previously accorded the Roosevelt ticket.

Interesting and different elements. In the 1936 campaign, when President Roosevelt was asking re-election for the first time, and again in 1940, when he ran for the third term, there were only two major choices open—the republican and democratic tickets. This year there is a third column vying for interest—that of Texas Regulars, a section of the democratic party which is avowedly anti-Roosevelt, yet which has been disinclined to join forces with state Republicans.

While the Republicans may be expected to show greater strength if their trend of the past decade is maintained, they have a long way to go to a majority. Only actual results will reveal the polling strength of the Regulars.

In 1936, the democrats (Roosevelt) gathered 3,095 votes to 230 for the republicans (Landon) in Howard county. There were three votes for the socialist ticket, four for the union and one for the communists.

Four years later the democrats (Roosevelt) got 4,333 votes of 4,976 polled, and the republicans (the late Wendell Willkie) received 367, or 7.6 per cent of the vote. The prohibitionists mustered three votes, the socialist two and the communists got their perennial one.

This year the registered voting strength of the county is 6,803 (5,648 polls and 1,155 exemptions). The democratic primary in July brought out only 3,354 votes, but the general election admittedly possesses more interest. Added to this is the probability of scores of soldier votes.

Still it is not considered probable at this stage that the record vote established in 1940 will be exceeded. If it is, election judges and clerks may be making paper dolls out of the bulky ballots before it is all over.

WHAT HE MEANT TO US

What he meant to us can never be expressed. We loved him—but we were too soon depressed.

He brought sunshine, glory, and rest. And we can always say he did his best.

He was kind, thoughtful, and unselfish. Unlike most boys that are devilish.

He didn't mind work—day or night. And for his own rights he would fight.

He had everything pertaining to fact. Yes, that will always be one published fact.

Dear Mother, Dad, and loved ones, you loved him so, But Jesus called him and he had to go.

Weldon, there is a vacant chair at the table. Although to us it will always be inexplicable.

We will meet you someday, as the Golden Gates are opened wide. For everyone on this earth to come inside.

Dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hartin and family in memory of Weldon. By a friend, (adv.) Edna Faye Stevenson.

Letters To Editor—

Reader Makes Observations On Local

Dear Editor: The great event has taken place. I mean the great Senator O'Daniel honored our fair city by paying us a visit and making one of his speeches. He also informed us he was a democrat and I am glad that he made that point clear for myself I did not know just what he was. Not only did he speak, but he had his boys give us a copy of the O'Daniel News as we entered the auditorium and you cannot imagine how I was thrilled. I had been making many trips to the could not swipe a copy of his paper—and then to have one given to me I feel it is cheaper than stealing.

Those fortunate enough to receive a copy of the paper, I would like to suggest you neatly fold it—well, if you want to look it over and read the advertisements and then refold it—and place it neatly in your wastepaper basket to help the waste paper drive. I understand our senator says he is not the Daddy of the O'Daniel News, still I notice the paper

Star-Telegram War Correspondent Hurt

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27 (AP) — Stanley Gunn, the Star-Telegram and Houston Chronicle war correspondent in the Pacific, has been injured in the Philippines. In a message forwarded from General MacArthur's headquarters in the Philippines, Gunn notified his wife here Friday that he had sustained a broken leg. The message did not relate the circumstances under which Gunn received the injury, but said that he would return to the United States within a few weeks.

Accredited to General MacArthur's forces, Gunn landed with the fifth wave of American troops in the invasion of Leyte, and since has been sending back accounts of the participation of Texans in the fighting to reconquer the Philippines.

His first dispatch from the Philippines was dated Oct. 21. Gunn is a 30-year-old native Texan who received his bachelor of journalism degree from the University of Texas in 1937 and worked on the San Antonio Light and the Austin Daily Tribune before joining the Star-Telegram staff in 1943.

His wife and two children, Cathleen and Terry, live here. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Gunn of Austin.

says plainly "The W. Lee O'Daniel News. I feel like if there was some way to take a blood test, well you know what I mean. I noticed where a man in Oklahoma subscribed $10,000 for the O'Daniel News, and by the way that man was a republican, so no wonder we poor men have not been able up until now to get a copy. We just didn't have the price. So, much for that. There was a large crowd and there was some applause and some boos and it seemed to me the loudest applause came during the question period. Well, one question asked was by a gentleman with three boys in the armed services wanting to know if the senator did not think Roosevelt and Truman could do more for his boys both during and after the war than Dewey and Bricker. He sure got plenty of applause. Our senator replied that it was a matter of personal opinion. My own impression of our senator's speech was that he was digging his own political grave and at the same time preaching his own political funeral. It is a sad spectacle that a man so honored would sell his birthright for a mess of porridge. I would like to follow his logic (that Roosevelt has been there too long) to its proper conclusion. Well why not dismiss Eisenhower, General MacArthur and General Marshall and many others for haven't they been there since before the war started? Whether O'Daniel likes it or not, Roosevelt will be our president when the election is over. Respectfully, W. H. Hart.

WAVE Dies In Fire At Farragut Base

FARRAGUT, Idaho, Oct. 27 (AP) — A WAVE burned to death and several other navy service women were injured in a fire which swept barracks at the U.S. Naval Hospital, Farragut Naval Training Center, last night, the center reported today.

Name of the victim was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Ensign Emil Giordano, fire marshal, said the blaze started on the first floor of the two-story building from an unknown cause and that many women were temporarily trapped upstairs. More than 100 WAVES and a number of civilian workers were housed in the building.

Girls were jumping from second story windows when navy firemen arrived. Others had fashioned bed-sheet ladders to slide to safety. Most of the injuries were suffered by those who jumped, Ensign Giordano said.

Yates Field Yielded Record Well, Made University Rich

(Editor's Note—This is one of a series of Texas oil romance coupled with the 25th anniversary of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.)

The well on the Yates ranch, marking the discovery of one of the greatest oil fields ever known, was a birthday present for Ira Yates as it was past midnight on October 29, his sixty-seventh birthday, that the tool-dresser came to the ranch house and woke him up with the news. Here is Yates' own account:

"I went back to bed and slept until my regular getting-up time. My son John and I got up about 5 o'clock, made coffee, had breakfast and then drove on up to the well. We talked to the men, looked the thing over, stood around a while and then, about 7 or 8 o'clock, there was an awful rumbly down in the well. I said, 'John, we'd better get away from here; something is coming out of here pretty soon.'

"We drove about half a mile away, around to a place where we could get a good view of the well. In a little bit, the oil came from the well with a rush, throwing small rocks out of the hole along with the gas and oil. It made a lot of noise and smeared the hillside for several hundred yards with oil. We did not know much about oil but we knew we had something.

"The news spread to McCamey and Rankin and was soon telephoned to Fort Stockton, San Angelo, Ozona, Sonora, Big Lake and Texon. In a little while, you could see the clouds of dust set up by motor cars as the people came to the well to see what had really taken place. Excitement was pretty high but John and I tried to keep cool. I had not expected oil at any such shallow depth and the information I had was that oil from shallow wells was short-life production—a sort of flash in the pan. I said to John, 'Son, we will sell enough leases while the excitement is running high to pay all the debts we owe and then, if they still keep buying, we will sell a little more while the buying lasts.'

The well produced 135 barrels an hour from the top of the Big Lake lime at 997 feet. When deepened to 1,005 feet, the well increased to 390 barrels an hour. Deepened to 1,033 feet, it stepped up to 3,200 barrels an hour and, still later, when drilled to 1,150 feet, its output was 2,950 barrels an hour.

A writer, P. J. R. MacIntosh, who visited the gusher, records that the field, for remoteness, inaccessibility and "utter wildness of its surrounding," was in a class by itself—a wildly rugged and picturesque region, the Southwest of fiction and the moving pictures, the haunt of outlaws and desperadoes in bygone days when 'No law west of the Pecos' was a common saying throughout the West."

Huge as the first well had been, it was dwarfed by the Mid-Kansas and Trans-continental's No. 30-A Yates. Oil from this spouter surged out of a 15-inch hole and leaped 80 feet into the air, spreading to a width of 20 feet before beginning its decent. Rocks were hurled 500 feet high and "whistled like shells on the Western front."

On September 23, 1929, this well produced 8,528.40 barrels in an hour, which was at the rate of 204,682 barrels a day. The depth was 1,070 feet.

At that time, the field was rated as capable of producing 5,000,000 barrels a day, which was almost double the actual output of the entire United States! The towns of Iraan (named for Ira and Ann Yates) and Red Barn sprang up.

Believed due to improper ceproration in Texas. Litigation involving vast sums dragged its way through the courts, in some instances embittering the last years of elderly ranch folk who had lived simple and contented lives until the ill-favored land they had held so long blossomed with derricks, and thereby became worth a fortune.

Vacancy suits enriched the public school fund of Texas—a vacancy is a piece of land between surveys, which has never been sold and therefore is still owned by the State.

Bonuses and rentals on school lands and royalties from wells on the lands had brought $6,835,000 to the schools up to March 1, 1944, according to records of State Land Commissioner Giles. The schools' one-fourth of the gross production tax from Yates field oil has passed $1,250,000. So the public schools have received more than $8,085,000—and the field is expected to yield additional millions to the schools of Texas through the years.

On its seventeenth birthday, the Yates field was acclaimed a model for conservation and unrivaled for heavy production at shallow depths at low drilling costs. There were then 512 flowing and 42 pumping wells, the field being eight miles northwest to northeast, with an average width of five miles. It was estimated the area would continue to flow for a minimum of 10 years or, at a lesser daily allowable, for 30 years. Total production of the field on that date had passed 271,500,000 barrels which, at an average price of 80 cents, represented $163,000,000. And it was believed that nearly two-thirds of the recoverable oil was still underground.

All in all, not a bad achievement for Ira Yates' windswept, wild and barren acres west of the Pecos.

Let the children prepare salads and simple desserts. While they are having fun mother is giving a simple lesson in nutrition.

Lewter Accepts Sample From Various Crops

Durward Lewter, county agent, inspected and selected samples from various kinds of field crops and vegetables from Charlie Robinson's farm in the Midway community Friday morning. Samples selected were hegar, mlo, sweet sudan, turnips, cotton, okra and pumpkins.

Robinson sold $134 of okra from one-fourth acre, $107.40 of cantaloupes from about the same amount of land. He has numerous other records from his turnips, peas, beans and other vegetables. This was made with the natural rainfall which fell on the Robinson farm. Mr. Robinson estimated the rainfall less than six inches.

Robinson is also making over one-half bale of cotton per acre. From 20 acres which was pulled over this morning made 14, the first pulling. There will be a fair second picking.

While Lewter selected four Chester White pigs from Robinson's herd for 4-H club feeding for the March fat stock show.

WOUNDED: Pfc. Donald W. Cauble, a member of the 118th Infantry, Company C of Division 80, was wounded in action in the French theatre of war on October 2nd according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cauble of Route 2, Big Spring. The message was released by the War Department.

Nov. 20 Will Open Sixth War Loan Drive Here

Howard county will have an over-all quota of $1,420,000, of which at least $365,000 must be in E bonds, in the Sixth War Loan drive opening November 20.

The figures were announced Saturday by Ira Thurman, county bond chairman, on receipt of word from Lockett Shelton, Abilene, assistant regional chairman.

Ted O. Groebel, again named war loan chairman by Thurman, said the figures compared with an over-all quota of $1,590,000 in the Fifth War Loan in June and July and a $435,000 E-bond quota then. Over-all sales in the Fifth were $2,146,905 and E bonds $309,068, said Groebel.

Although the drive does not start until Nov. 20, all E bond sales after Nov. 1 will count on the quota, said Thurman.

Groebel said that no organization efforts were contemplated immediately for "the county as a whole" but that he has a job to do on his community chest obligation and he wants leaders of this important campaign to have an opportunity to clean up this drive.

Previously, Thurman had announced Groebel, who has headed four previous campaigns, and generalissimo of the Sixth War Loan with Pat Kenney as co-chairman, Mrs. Douglas Orme head of the women's division and Mrs. Louise Griffin in charge of the office.

Moore No. 1 Being Watched For Pocket

John I. Moore No. 1 Cosden, wildcat Clear Fork test adjacent to Cosden refinery, was being watched closely during the week-end as it neared the horizon where the Dick Graham No. 1 Great West hit a tremendous air pocket eight years ago.

The test, located in section 38-32-1n, T&P, was at 1,170 feet in shale, anhydrite and salt, similar to the formations in the great air well where the issue was hit near 1,400 feet.

In south central Borden county Northern Ordovician No. 1 Clayton and Johnson, section 32-31-1n, T&P, was cleaned out after a 640 shot from 5,870. Plugged back depth is 5,877.

Continental No. 1-D Settles, Howard-Glasscock Ordovician test in section 133-29, W&NW, set 9 5-8 string and drilled to 3,629 in brown lime. Continental No. 7-E Clay, section 138-29, W&NW, waited on cement to set around seven inch string at 2,110 feet. Continental No. 4-S Settles, section 133-29, W&NW, set 8 5-8 inch casing at 178 feet and moved in rotary.

Lily Oil Co. No. 1 B. F. McKinney, section 42-30-1n, T&P, was rigging up cable tools for an interesting wildcat north of Coahoma.

Cosden No. 3-A Read, section 48-30-1n, T&P, drilled ahead to 2,265 feet in lime in eastern Howard county. Cosden No. 2 W. L. Foster, section 43-31-1n, T&P, set eight-inch casing at 1,735 feet and drilled to 1,740 feet. Ray Oil Co. No. 2-B Read, section 42-29-1n, T&P, was below 2,650 feet in lime.

Fifty-three Yearlings On Preliminary Test

Fifty-three yearlings secured from the Sonora experiment station are on preliminary feed at the US Experiment Farm and will be divided into six lots Wednesday for the third of the current series of annual feeding tests.

Relative values of maize and corn will be tested as well as the effect of certain minerals or urinary calculi will be tested in the feeding. Maize, fed with two ounces limestone flour supplement has shown a distinct weight and economy value over corn the past two years.

W. H. Black, Washington, head of the beef cattle division of the bureau of animal husbandry, and J. M. Jones, animal husbandman for Texas experiment stations, are due here Wednesday to assist F. E. Keating, farm superintendent, in division of the cattle. The five extra animals will be maintained for replacements if losses occur in feeding. The farm has an abundance of trench insilage and, virtually enough grain for feeding the steers, which will go on test weighing between 440 and 450 pounds.

420,000 with $365,000 of it in E bonds. These should be easily within reach—and the latter affords us an opportunity to make up for E bond deficits for the past three months.

Today we are little over $7,000 from our community war chest goal. Cosden, always a community bulwark in campaigns, came through gloriously with approximately $2,700 from employees and company. That's a mighty fine record and one that turned the tide to put us to the point where contributions from all who have delayed giving will help us succeed. What have you given to the chest fund? Won't you give? Can you give more?

Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary paid fitting tribute last week to parents of four or more children in the service. Mothers were presented with bars with stars for each son or daughter—bars which they may well wear with high honor. No one can make greater sacrifice and show more love for the nation than to give up their own flesh and blood in its defense. Yes, every Mother and Dad with a son or daughter in uniform understands the war.

IN NEW GUINEA

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Myers have received word from their son, T/Sgt. Joe R. Myers that he has arrived in New Guinea. The young intelligence clerk reported the big island was "rough" with rain seven out of every eight days.

Singers Invited To Lubbock

Singers in this area have been invited to participate in the South Plains Sacred Harp Singing convention, set for Nov. 4-5 in Lubbock. The convention, which features old time singing, will be held at the Foursquare Gospel church at 8th and Ave Q, said Dr. A. L. Stringer, president.

Applications Received For Cotton Pickers

According to County Agent Durward Lewter, 1,524 applications have been received by that office for cotton pickers, 300 coming in last week. Out of the 1,524 applications, 350 pickers were located for the farmers of Howard county last week.

So far, 25 per cent of the cotton has been gathered.

Bad weather such as a heavy rain or strong wind will nudge the cotton a grade lower, losing as much as $20 to $30 per bale and 20 to 30 per cent of the cotton itself, he said.

Those able to aid the farmers with the picking problem should contact Lewter at the county agent's office.

Included in the Halloween festivities will be a special dance Tuesday evening at the Settles, Clarence Fox said Saturday. The affair is to start at 9 p. m. with the Palm Room orchestra furnishing the music. Decorations will carry out the Halloween motif, said Fox.

A ring mold will make ordinary noodles, rice and gelatine desserts extra special.

Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

The Psalmist said: "Unite my heart to fear thy name." Why did he say it? He evidently knew that with a divided heart he would hardly be able to render a true or a loyal service. With a united heart he knew that he would be able to concentrate his affections, his energies, and his attentions on the things of God. If education is to progress, those who go forward in it must of necessity get their thoughts centered on what they are about. Anything that unifies the soul, mobilizes and correlates the energies of mind, renders an immense contribution to the cause of the education of that individual. This is exactly what religion does. This is exactly what we are attempting to do with the religious training in our church schools.

Stay Beautiful With Plenty Of Exercise
And Restful Slumber

Girls who want to retain their beauty, in spite of the hectic strain of wartime living, until their soldier husbands or sweethearts return, should concentrate on getting some exercise and as much rest as possible. Both are good beauty treatments and they don't cost a cent.

To enjoy the right kind of sleep every night — the kind that makes one fresh and sparkling as the morning dew — some help is required from the mattress and bed-spring. A mattress which is full of bumps and depressions, or a bed spring which has lost its buoyancy and sags in spots, does not permit comfortable relaxation. On the other hand, a resilient bed-spring and mattress which offer firm, level support encourage relaxation.

Exercise before bedtime, provided it is not too strenuous, is a great aid to starting this process of relaxation — particularly if one is tense and tied up in knots. A long walk, deep breathing exercises, lying on the floor, extending arms and legs as far as possible in opposite directions, or a rowing machine, will untie the knots and act as sedatives.

A good bed will further relax weary muscles until sleep takes over. Wornout bedding will undo all the good that has been done by the exercise because it can not support relaxed posture, but support relaxed posture, but rather causes tenseness to return.

Mrs. H. N. Robinson, Mrs. W. D. McDonald, Mrs. Arthur Pickle, Mrs. Burgess Dixon, and Mrs. Joe Pickle Sr. left Friday for Lubbock to visit relatives and friends.

Sheffield Passes To Scruggs For Lone Owl Tally Upsetting Texas

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
HOUSTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—Big Bucky Sheffield didn't get to play much today but he was in there entirely too long to suit the Texas Longhorns. The giant fullback completing a pass to Bill Scruggs that went for a total of 63 yards and brought the Rice Owls a 7-0 upset victory over the defending Southwest conference champions.

Rice thus rolled into the top spot in the title drive and the boys in blue earned the victory in every way. Not only did they outgain Texas but four times drove deep into enemy territory while the Longhorns only once seriously threatened the Owl goal line.

The touchdown play was a thriller in a bushel of thrills that kept a crowd of 25,000 in a continuous uproar.

Sheffield was making a periodic appearance in the Rice lineup, nabbing for Carl Russ, who has battered the Texas line full of holes. It was early in the fourth period and Rice held the ball on its 38. An off-side penalty set Rice back but little George Walmesley, the jack rabbit of the Owl backfield, almost made it up with a line plunge. Then Sheffield passed in the flat to Scruggs for seven yards, and with three blockers piloting him along, Little Bill sped without being touched for the touchdown that broke the Longhorns' heart.

It was a bitterly-fought battle with line play sparking on both sides and with Bobby Layne and towering Hubert Bechtel keeping Texas in the ball game to the final gun.

Natue Dame Takes Lucky 13-7 Win

By JERRY LISKA
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 28 (AP)—Achille (Chick) Maggioli, a slender Italian Marine trainee playing his final game for Notre Dame, saved the undefeated Irish from humiliation by a determined, swift Illinois eleven today as he galloped 65 yards for a last period touchdown that spilled the Illini 13-7 before 65,114 fans.

Maggioli, who leaves Monday for Parris Island, S. C., Marine base, exploded away with a short lateral from Bob Kelly to complete a lightning quick pass play that covered 71 yards early in the last period when the Irish were trailing, 7-6.

Texas Ags Tear NTAC Defenses Apart To Take Top-Heavy 61 to 0 Victory

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Texas Aggies tore North Texas Agricultural college's defenses to shreds on Kyle field today and scammed, plunged and passed and blocked punts to bury the junior aggies from Arlington 61-0.

Two first period touchdowns probed the way; the senior aggies built to a peak of 33 points in the second period and tapered off with 15 points in the third. By the start of the last quarter Coach Homer Norton had sent in his fourth and fifth stringers; the Aggies had all the score they wanted and it was just a question of waiting for the final gun.

As the Aggies raced toward the NTAC goal line in that wild first half the speedy Paul Yates, Aggie fullback from Fort Worth, returned a punt 80 yards for a touchdown; Mann Scott of Athens, Cadet right half, counted twice on runs of 45 and 43 yards; and end

Cotton Howell of Nacogdoches blocked a punt, scooped it up and ran for a counter.

Bob Lee Butchofsky of Ysleta, Tom Daniel of Kingsville and George McAllister of Eden completed the first half scoring with the Aggies leading 46-0.

Charles Shiras' third period kickoff was fumbled back to the 10 and a bad pass from the NTAC center gave the Aggies a safety. The free kick went to the Aggies on the 46, and Daniel passed to Howe for the touchdown. The Aggies final score came after Sheets, El Paso tackle, intercepted a pass on the Aggie 5 and ran to NTAC's 33 before being caught from behind. Gene Spires tossed to Don Kingsley of Lake Charles, then to Bill Geer of Fort Worth for the score. McAllister, Morton Higgins of Galveston, and Abrahams kicked the extra points.

NTAC got a break on the first play after the second kickoff in the third. A pass from I. Rogers intended for J. W. McLean was batted around by several Aggies. McLean finally got the ball and ran 59 yards to the 21 where Yates bulldozed him by the belt. NTAC tried to pass to a touchdown but Sheets snagged one on the 5 than made his return to NTAC's 33.

Tulane Sweeps Over Mustangs To 27-7 Tune As SMU Takes Early 7-Point Lead

By SKIPPER PATRICK
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28 (AP)—Tulane's crushing power crumbled a game Southern Methodist Mustang defense here today and the Green Wave rolled to a 27 to 7 victory in the second half.

Southern Methodist scored in the second period when End Eugene Wilson recovered Dub Jones' fumble on the Greenies' 3 yard line and Billy Squires broke through guard on third down for the touchdown. Kotlarich converted from placement and SMU led 7-0.

The Greenies struck back quickly, substitute wingback Harry "Hurricane" Robinson breaking through tackle on a quick-opening play scampering 88 yards for the score. Jones converted to tie the count.

Tulane took a 14-7 lead in the third period when Fullback Marvin McCain streaked through center and ran straight down the middle 36 yards for the touchdown. Jones again kicked the point.

The Greenies got two touchdowns in the final period. Joe Benfro, battling wingback, raced 6 yards on a reverse for one marker and substitute fullback Reynolds crashed over from the one in the last minute of play. An intercepted pass set up the last score. Jones added the point, his third of the day.

The Greenies got two touchdowns in the final period. Joe Benfro, battling wingback, raced 6 yards on a reverse for one marker and substitute fullback Reynolds crashed over from the one in the last minute of play. An intercepted pass set up the last score. Jones added the point, his third of the day.

Duke, although beaten three times previously, lived up to expectations by giving the power-packed Cadets a battle through the early stages of the bruising battle—the Blue Devils tossing a scare into the previously untested Army corps by holding a 7-6 edge at the half.

The last half was all Army, however, the Cadets exploding for two quick touchdowns early in the third session. Dale Hall skirted his right end for the touchdown without a hand being laid on him. The next drive started on Army's 26, and 16 plays later—all on the ground—John Minor plunged three yards into the end zone to put the Cadets out front 20 to 7 as Walterhouse converted both extra points.

Just as the period ended tackle Dewitt Coulter recovered a blocked punt for the Army, and on the second play of the final session Blanchard whipped around end for 21 yards to the two, and then blasted over on the next play for the final marker. Again Walterhouse converted.

One Way To Progress Reconversion Big Problem

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT—One of the major worries of the nation's automobile makers in the reconversion of their plants to peacetime work will be the millions of dollars worth of government-owned tools, dies, fixtures and other equipment now crowding the factory floor space.

The government's Defense Plant Corp. will want to sell the equipment and the automobile manufacturers will want to buy some of it.

Tooling will be the biggest of all problems in the reconversion task but only a relatively small part of the machine tools and other equipment now in the factories can be adapted to car manufacture without major alterations.

When the industry went into war production it cleared its factories in a hurry by moving car making machinery into storage, often in open fields with oils, greases and coverings of water-proofed packing materials as the only protection.

There have been blunt assertions from some of the manufacturers and broad intimations from others that similar disposal might be made of government-owned equipment in their plants if delay in moving it threatened to hold back the resumption of civilian passenger car production.

Whether or not the car industry can reconvert to peacetime production as quickly as it toolled up for war is a subject of divergent views among the top motor executives.

In the opinion of some whose plant reconversion problems are not very complicated, idleness during the transition will be of short duration, probably comparable to that experienced in normal times between the end of one model year and the beginning of another.

They emphasize, however, that they would measure the degree of unemployment on the basis of prewar employment standards rather than on the basis of wartime peaks. Overall employment in the Detroit metropolitan area, which includes all of Wayne and parts of three adjoining counties jumped from 859,846 men and women in March, 1940, to 1,098,515 in June, 1944, according to the Census Bureau.

Not all of these were employed in the former motorcar factories but most of them were. Accurate comparisons for the car industry are impracticable because of the scores of new sub-contractors and others who entered business following the outbreak of the war.

Because the automobile manufacturers will be returning to a task with which they are thoroughly familiar and are planning no major design changes in the initial models, this writer believes reconversion of the car industry can be accomplished as quickly as was the conversion to all-out war production.

At the same time, because of the huge backlog of demand piled up by the absence of any production since February, 1942, it will be many months after car manufacture is resumed before deliveries can be expected on anything like a normal basis.

gradually grown morose under the responsibility of leading green boys to their slaughter. Buck spoke of one sergeant especially, a brave and hardened man, who went to his captain and asked him to be reduced to a private in the lines.

"I know it ain't my fault that they get killed," Buck finally said. "And I do the best I can for them, but I've got so I feel like it's me killin' 'em instead of a German. I've got so I feel like a murderer. I hate to look at them when the new ones come in."

Buck himself has been fortunate. Once he was shot through the arm. His own mind and wisdom have saved him many times, but luck has saved him countless other times.

One night Buck and an officer took refuge from shelling in a two-room Italian stone house. As they sat there, a shell came through the wall of the far room, crossed the room and buried itself in the middle wall with its nose pointing upward. It didn't go off.

Another time Buck was leading his platoon on a night attack. They were walking in Indian file. Suddenly a mine went off, and killed the entire squad following Buck. He himself had miraculously walked through the mine field without hitting a one.

One day Buck went stalking a German officer in close combat, and wound up with the German on one side of a farmhouse and Buck on the other. They kept throwing grenades over the house at each other without success. Finally Buck stepped around one corner of the house, and came face to face with the German who'd had the same idea.

Buck was ready and pulled the trigger first. His slug hit the German just above the heart. The German had a wonderful pair of binoculars slung over his shoulders, and the bullet smashed them to bits. Buck had wanted some German binoculars for a long time.

The ties that grow up between men who live savagely and die relentlessly together are ties of great strength. There is a sense of fidelity to each other among little corps of men who have endured so long and whose hope in the end can be but so small.

One afternoon while I was with the company Sgt. Buck Eversole's turn came to go back to rest camp for five days. The company was due to attack that night.

Buck went to his company commander and said, "Lieutenant, I don't think I better go. I'll stay if you need me."

The lieutenant said, "Of course I need you, Buck, I always need you. But it's your turn and I want you to go. In fact, you're ordered to go."

The truck taking the few boys away to rest camp left just at dusk. It was drizzling and the valleys were swathed in a dismal mist. Artillery of both sides flashed and rumbled around the horizon. The encroaching darkness was heavy and foreboding.

Buck came to the little group of old-timers in the company with whom I was standing, to say goodbye. You'd have thought he was leaving forever. He shook hands all around, and his smile seemed sick and vulnerable. He was a man stalling off his departure.

He said, "Well, good luck to you all." And then he said, "I'll be back in just five days." He said goodbye all around and slowly started away. But he stopped and said goodbye all around again, and he said, "Well, good luck to you all."

I walked with him toward the truck in the dusk. He kept his eyes on the ground, and I think he would have cried if he knew how, and he said to me very quietly:

"This is the first battle I've ever missed that this battalion has been in. Even when I was in the hospital with my arm they were in bivouac. This will be the first one I've ever missed. I sure do hope they have good luck."

And then he said: "I feel like a deserter."

He climbed in, and the truck dissolved into the blackness. I went back and lay down on the ground among my other friends, waiting for the night orders to march. I lay there in the darkness thinking—terribly touched by the great simple devotion of this soldier who was a cowboy—and thinking of the millions far away at home who must remain forever unaware of the powerful fraternalism in the ghastly brotherhood of war.

Another time Buck was leading his platoon on a night attack. They were walking in Indian file. Suddenly a mine went off, and killed the entire squad following Buck. He himself had miraculously walked through the mine field without hitting a one.

Today And Tomorrow Duty Of Next War President

By WALTER LIPPMANN

After Governor Dewey's speech at Minneapolis, and the telegrams from the Republican Congressional leaders which he read, the Dumbarton Oaks proposals are established more firmly than ever as a bipartisan commitment. They must not, he said, "be subject to a reservation that would require our representative to return to Congress for authority every time he had to make a decision. Obviously, Congress and only Congress, has the Constitutional power to determine what quotas and what discretion it will give our representative to use that force."

No one, I think, on either side of the party line, provided he has understood what the Dumbarton Oaks conference settled and what it left for future settlement, could now be more precise. There is every reason to think that the Governor's statement is the work of advisors who have been completely informed about Dumbarton Oaks and are entirely sympathetic. To be more precise would involve the examination of complex technical problems which had much better be left until after election.

Only under one circumstance could the sincerity of this Republican commitment be questioned. That would be if Republicans argued that they will fulfill it only if Mr. Dewey is elected, that they will renege if Mr. Roosevelt is elected.

We shall be indulging in serious self-deception if we assume that agreement on Dumbarton Oaks solves the real problems of making a good peace. Before the Dumbarton Oaks proposals can become more than a project on paper the war in Europe and in the Pacific has to be conducted not only victoriously by arms but successfully by diplomacy. For nothing could be further from the truth than the notion that the President who takes office in January will be a peace President. He will be a war President not only when he is inaugurated but for a long time thereafter.

It is possible, to be sure, that organized fighting in the German war may have ended, or be near its end. But there is not now the faintest probability that the end of the Japanese war will be in sight, even supposing that General MacArthur's best expectations in the Philippines are fulfilled. For the Philippines are to Japan about what North Africa was to Germany—a forward position that had to be taken before the Allies could even prepare to come to grips with the main forces of the enemy.

The President who is in office after January, 1945, will not be able to treat the war as an enterprise which, so far as he is concerned, will go forward automatically under the guidance of General Marshall and Admiral King, while he devotes himself to reforming the New Deal reforms. The next President's paramount concern will be the problem of how to conclude the German war and how to reorganize and reorient not only the armed forces of the United States but also the armed forces of our allies.

The shifting of supplies can be planned and directed by the professionals. But the problems of men, American, British and Russian, of how to turn great armies from one finished war to another unfinished war, of how to manage the transition for the civilians here and in Europe, are among the most difficult problems of the whole war. They are the problems not only of the Pentagon Building but of a war President and Commander in Chief in the White House, and of Whitehall and the Prime Minister, and of the Kremlin.

What has been projected at Dumbarton Oaks can become a reality only if the problems of this complex transition are successfully managed. It will be necessary not only to force the Germans to surrender but to deal with Europe immediately after the armistice in such a way that Great Britain and the Soviet Union can turn from Europe to Asia in maximum force. Neither they nor we can become snarled up and bogged down in Europe if we are to mobilize the whole power of the United Nations which is applicable to the defeat of Japan.

There is a terrible urgency in these problems, which are of the very highest strategic and diplomatic importance. For if they are not solved, if there is a long period of uncertainty, if agreement is postponed and decisions stalled, the war weariness of the European peoples, including the British and the Russians, can make the problem of the transition to the Pacific unmanageable. We could then find ourselves having to fight single-handed a protracted war on the mainland of Asia.

Therefore, we dare not accept the view that the war is now automatic and that agreement on Dumbarton Oaks settles the peace. We have to face the fact that we are choosing a President who will have to conduct the war, strategically and diplomatically, in a phase which is as hard in terms of lives and treasure as any that we have seen, and in many ways more complicated and delicate. We must think of him as confronted with the problems he will actually face, not as dealing with the issues he would rather talk about now.

Spirit of Tolerance

Little more than one week separates the nation from another presidential election. Worlds of heat already have been generated and in the remaining time we may expect some torrid exchanges to be made. Very little of it will influence anyone to change at this stage of the game.

There is no escaping the sharpness of feeling in these campaigns, for none wants to deviate a moment from our constitutional provisions for regular elections, which will always give the people the power to do what they want to do about their government.

One of the penalties of this cherished right, however, is that in the heat of campaigns, men on any and all sides are seized with phobias and obsessions. Their side can do no wrong, and there can be nothing but evil in the opposition. Every thing that has happened or might happen can be attributed either to the republicans or the democrats. Really, there is good and bad in most any party and any person is entitled to choose any party to his liking. The American spirit of tolerance will let it be so and accept the results of an election in good spirit. The less intolerance exhibited beforehand, the easier it is to compose differences afterwards.

log of demand piled up by the absence of any production since February, 1942, it will be many months after car manufacture is resumed before deliveries can be expected on anything like a normal basis.

gradually grown morose under the responsibility of leading green boys to their slaughter. Buck spoke of one sergeant especially, a brave and hardened man, who went to his captain and asked him to be reduced to a private in the lines.

"I know it ain't my fault that they get killed," Buck finally said. "And I do the best I can for them, but I've got so I feel like it's me killin' 'em instead of a German. I've got so I feel like a murderer. I hate to look at them when the new ones come in."

Buck himself has been fortunate. Once he was shot through the arm. His own mind and wisdom have saved him many times, but luck has saved him countless other times.

One night Buck and an officer took refuge from shelling in a two-room Italian stone house. As they sat there, a shell came through the wall of the far room, crossed the room and buried itself in the middle wall with its nose pointing upward. It didn't go off.

Another time Buck was leading his platoon on a night attack. They were walking in Indian file. Suddenly a mine went off, and killed the entire squad following Buck. He himself had miraculously walked through the mine field without hitting a one.

One day Buck went stalking a German officer in close combat, and wound up with the German on one side of a farmhouse and Buck on the other. They kept throwing grenades over the house at each other without success. Finally Buck stepped around one corner of the house, and came face to face with the German who'd had the same idea.

Buck was ready and pulled the trigger first. His slug hit the German just above the heart. The German had a wonderful pair of binoculars slung over his shoulders, and the bullet smashed them to bits. Buck had wanted some German binoculars for a long time.

The ties that grow up between men who live savagely and die relentlessly together are ties of great strength. There is a sense of fidelity to each other among little corps of men who have endured so long and whose hope in the end can be but so small.

One afternoon while I was with the company Sgt. Buck Eversole's turn came to go back to rest camp for five days. The company was due to attack that night.

Buck went to his company commander and said, "Lieutenant, I don't think I better go. I'll stay if you need me."

The lieutenant said, "Of course I need you, Buck, I always need you. But it's your turn and I want you to go. In fact, you're ordered to go."

The truck taking the few boys away to rest camp left just at dusk. It was drizzling and the valleys were swathed in a dismal mist. Artillery of both sides flashed and rumbled around the horizon. The encroaching darkness was heavy and foreboding.

Buck came to the little group of old-timers in the company with whom I was standing, to say goodbye. You'd have thought he was leaving forever. He shook hands all around, and his smile seemed sick and vulnerable. He was a man stalling off his departure.

He said, "Well, good luck to you all." And then he said, "I'll be back in just five days." He said goodbye all around and slowly started away. But he stopped and said goodbye all around again, and he said, "Well, good luck to you all."

I walked with him toward the truck in the dusk. He kept his eyes on the ground, and I think he would have cried if he knew how, and he said to me very quietly:

"This is the first battle I've ever missed that this battalion has been in. Even when I was in the hospital with my arm they were in bivouac. This will be the first one I've ever missed. I sure do hope they have good luck."

Wage Earners Should Have Only One Card For Social Security

Emphasizing that no wage earner should ever have more than one social security account number, Elliott W. Adams, manager of the San Angelo office of the Social Security Board, declared that some workers have the false impression that it makes no difference whether they have more than one number or whether they use someone else's name and number when they work. The fact is, he added, "workers jeopardize their own rights as well as their survivors' rights to insurance benefits in the event of death if the worker fails to show his correct account number to each employer."

Recently, a worker died leaving a widow and small child. When the widow called at the field office to file her claim for Old - Age and Survivors Insurance, she furnished her husband's social security card. When the field office secured the deceased worker's wage record, it was found that no wages were credited to the account; consequently, neither the widow nor child was entitled to any insurance payments based on this account. The widow, however, knew her husband had worked in employment covered by the Social Security Act in several other states and was able to furnish the names and addresses of some of the employers and it was discovered that the wage earner had obtained a second social security card, which he used without requesting cancellation of the extra card. Fortunately, in this case, the widow knew where her husband had worked.

Clear Fork Pool Looms In Gains

By JOHN B. BREWER

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 28—Indicated opening of a Clear Fork pool in southern Gaines county and a half mile south extension to the Wheeler Ellenburger field in eastern Winkler county shared interest in West Texas development this week with the staking of locations for eight wildcats in seven counties.

The Gaines discovery, Humble No. 1 M. S. Doss, C SW SW 9-A24-pal, 3 1-2 miles northwest of the one-well Robertson pool, flowed 31 gravity oil at a rate of eight barrels hourly for 24 hours through a one-half inch tubing choke. The oil came through casing perforations between 7,030-80 feet following treatment with 6,000 gallons of acid. The well drilled to 9,049 feet and plugged back to 7,080.

Stanolind-Shell No. 1-B R. A. Wheeler in Winkler county, C NW NW 16-46-1s-T&P, recovered 28 stands of oil on a 40-minute drillstem test of the Ellenburger from 10,565-614 feet. It cemented 5 1-2 inch casing on bottom at 10,643 feet for perforating.

The Texas Co. No. 1 George D. Hogg, 660 feet out of the southeast corner of the west half of section 24-B10 pal, gave promise of a 1 1-3 mile northwest extension to the North Monahans (Tubb) field in southeastern Winkler county by recovering 720 feet of oil and gas-cut mud on a 10-minute drillstem test from 6,088 to 6,250 feet. It conditioned the hole for a Schlumberger survey.

Richardson & Bass rigged rotary for No. 1 S. W. Sanford C NE SE 25-B-2-pal, 2 3-4 miles south of production in the Keystone Ellenburger field.

Richmond Drilling Co. No. 1 J. W. Nelson, prospective small discovery producer from the Permian line in northwestern Dawson county, C SE SW 34-M-EL&RR, struck sulphur water in drilling to 5,003 feet. Swabbing indicated a shutoff by plugging back to 4,965 feet and shooting at around 4,830-54 feet was expected.

Shell-Cities Service test had passed 9,428 feet in shale and lime. Shell completed No. 4 Sealy-Smith as the third producer in and five-eighths mile south extension to the Monahans Ellenburger field in northeastern Ward county with a daily potential of 1,038 barrels of oil and gas-oil ratio of 1,790-1. The well, near the C NE NE 39-A-G&MMB&A, logged pay from the Ellenburger top at 10,192 feet to 10,406, the total depth, and when bottomed at 10,225 was acidized with 5,000 gallons.

North Texas Methodists Will Back Colleges

DALLAS, Oct. 27 (AP)—The North Texas Methodist conference has consented to back financial enlargement drives at three colleges and universities.

Dr. Humphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, asked and received conference support yesterday of the SMU program of long-time expansion. Howard Knox of Southwestern university asked conference backing on a $3,500,000 financial drive, which was approved, as was the $1,500,000 drive at Texas Wesleyan college, Fort Worth.

The amount of the SMU campaign was not announced. Fifteen young preachers were ordained.

Navy's "Father" Is Remembered By Head

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—A wreath of dark green palm leaves bearing a card inscribed "The President" was placed today upon the grave of President Theodore Roosevelt in commemoration of the birthday of the president often called the father of the modern American navy.

Col. David E. Cain, commanding officer at Camp Upton, acted in behalf of President Franklin D. Roosevelt at the simple ceremony in Youn's memorial cemetery.

From the cemetery, Col. Cain, his aide and two members of the WAC went to call upon the widow of the 26th president at her home, Sagamore Hill.

What do Wacs do in Army Hospitals?

U. S. ARMY HOSPITALS NEED 22,000 MEDICAL TECHNICIANS IN THE WAC!

ARE YOU?

Perhaps you wonder why you are called upon to give more this year to your Community War Fund. Look about you and see the answer. No ruined buildings, no homeless children here but your money helps care for wives, children, aged and needy relatives of boys still overseas fighting for you.

Part of your gift will help the United Seaman's Seryic furnish badly needed rest for men who have survived sinkings of war supply ships. Part will help War Prisoners' Aid assuage the deadly monotony Americans endure in enemy prison camps.
