Reports are to effect that the car driven by Mrs. Lucas when going down Seaman towards town was struck by the other which was coming off West Valley onto Seaman, the impact of the crash causing a complete turn-around and half turn-over of the Lucas car.

Miss Ila Mae Coleman, who was with Mrs. Lucas and children at the time of the accident, was unaffected. Though the Lucas car was considerably damaged the other car had only bent front fenders, according to reports.

Post Office Site Meeting Postponed Until October 2nd

RANGER, Texas, Sept. 19.—At a meeting of the members and directors of the chamber of commerce, held in the Gholson hotel Tuesday afternoon, discussion on the site for a post office for Ranger was postponed until Oct. 2.

Those who attended the meeting were not prepared to offer the proper information needed and they were instructed to have the available sites listed, with a written description of each, giving the size, location and price wanted for the site. These are then to be taken before the proper authority in Washington in order to speed the work.

Those who have lots they wish to list as prospective sites for a post office have been requested to have the written information turned in to the chamber of commerce before Oct. 2 so that they may be submitted to the meeting called at that time.

Love Suit Echoes Toledo Strike

Echoing the turbulent Toledo, O., Electric Auto-Lite Co. strike, trouble visited the home of J. Arthur Minch, vice president of the concern, in the form of a $100,000 suit for alleged alienation of affections, filed against his wife, Mrs. Goldie Minch, above. Suit was brought by Mrs. Florence DeLisi, of Napoleon, O., who charged that Mrs. Minch captured the affections of her husband, Daniel G. DeLisi, a strike guard at the Minch home. Mr. Minch denied all allegations.

EVIDENCE OF ARMS LOBBY BROUGHT OUT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Evidence of lobbying by the Federal Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, against anti-tear gas legislation in congress, was disclosed today to the senate munitions committee. Senator Homer Bone, democrat, Washington, read a letter by John W. Young, president of the company, in 1932, which said: "We had to do considerable lobbying in our national capital and also in state capitols to prevent unfavorable legislation against the use of tear gas."

Testimony the same company paid an active U. S. naval officer in 1933 to inspect bombs sold to Honduras also was given by Young.

Textile Union May Call Out More Men

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The United Textile Workers Union executive council today voted full authority to continue and extend the national textile walkout without restriction. Chairman Francis J. Gorman said his group would meet tonight to decide whether to call out 110,000 additional textile workers as authorized by the council.

Americas Cup Race Is Becalmed Today

Aboard U. S. Coast Guard Cutter, Argo, off Newport, R. I., Sept. 19.—The third heat of the America's cup series between Harold Vanderbilt's American defender, Rainbow, and the British challenger, Endeavor, was called off today because of failure of wind.

Methvin Hearing Opened at Miami

MIAMI, Okla., Sept. 19.—Henry Methvin, pardoned Texas convict, was to be given preliminary hearing today on a charge of murder in the death of Cal Campbell, constable at Commerce. Campbell was slain in a clash with Clyde Barrow, Bonnie Parker and a second man in April.

Changes In State Constitution To Be Voted Upon At General Election To Bring Out Many of State's Voters

AUSTIN, Tex.—General election day will not pass in Texas this year with the usual perfunctory vote. Not that any fear by Democrats that its state ticket will be defeated, but because the state's million or more voters will ballot the same day on the proposed state new deal.

Eight sweeping changes in the state constitution will get approval or be rejected Nov. 6. They are: a limit on taxation; different tax rate for real estate and other property; abolishment of the fee system; combination of counties; salary fixing powers for county governments; taxation of the University of Texas' vast land areas; four year terms for municipal officers; and rights of cities to change their charters annually.

The tax limit amendment pegs at $11.25 per person the total amount of revenue the state may collect annually from taxes, licenses, permits and fees. Based on 6,000,000 population, that is approximately what the state collected from such sources in 1933. The $68,000,000 so collected left a big state deficit. The amendment has been proposed to prevent any legislative spending spree.

Opponents of the plan to permit different tax rates for real estate and for all other property grouped by reasonable classification, expect help against the amendment from the small home-owners. An amendment of several years ago exempted $3,000 of homestead property from tax. The new amendment, it is said, will abolish that exemption by its provision that "Taxation of real property shall be equal and uniform."

Larger units of local government are sought by an amendment to permit abolishing and consolidating counties. A clause in it provides that no county shall be created with an area of less than 900 square miles, nor any existing county be reduced to contain less than 900 square miles unless both the new and remaining county have a population of 50,000 or more. In border counties the 900 square miles total may be varied if it is impractical. It will be possible to make city and county boundaries coincide under the amendment on counties. The provision on small counties with not less than 50,000 population permits this.

Abolition of fees for district and county officers has with it an accompanying amendment which gives county commissioners courts powers to fix fees of county-wide or precinct officers, and to combine offices within the county. The three foregoing amendments are all part of a plan to reduce the cost of local government. Western counties will continue to receive taxes on the vast tracts of University of Texas lands, under the proposed amendment. A former amendment made them taxable. The new one provides that the taxes shall be paid by direct state appropriation. The University land was once tax exempt. Counties and school districts complained that the large areas of the tax free land not only prevented ample provision for schools and other facilities but blocked issuance of bonds for such purposes.

Municipalities are especially interested in two proposals that will be voted upon. One makes it possible to have three or four year city terms of office, instead of two years; the other permits charter cities to amend their charters annually instead of biennially.

CIRCUS LION CAUSES PANIC AT A PARADE

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19.—A densely packed crowd of 15,000 was thrown into panic today when a lion of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus escaped from a cage during a street parade. The lion tore from its prison soon after the parade left the state fair grounds and swung down a street. It trotted menacingly half a block, driving thousands of men, women and children before it. Then a circus horse was straight in its path. The beast sprang on the horse and clawed it to pieces in a few seconds. Meanwhile circus attendants and police cornered the lion and killed it. One man, wounded when a policeman shot at the lion and missed, was taken to a hospital.

Employment In August Was Up

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Secretary of Labor Perkins today pointed to increased employment and payrolls in August as an indication the recovery program is going forward in spite of labor unrest. According to the labor department bureau of labor statistics, factory employment increased 1 per cent from July to August and payrolls advanced 3 per cent. Employment increases, the statistical bureau reported, were exhibited in 30 of the 48 states, gains ranging from .01 per cent to 13.9 per cent.

DEATH TOLL IN TEXTILE STRIKE MOUNTS TO 15

The death toll in the general textile strike mounted to 15 today as violence flared in New England and the south. A striker died of bayonet wounds at Belmont, N. C., to add the latest fatality.

Georgia state troops maintained martial law over many textile centers. About 150 pickets were interned in a barbed wire fence. Six more mills were reopened.

Maine guardsmen arrested 10 pickets from a contingent of 225 girls who had marched to Lewiston to force closing of a plant. Several were injured in a riot at Waterville, Me.

In Washington further peace negotiations were held in abeyance pending a report on the strike from President Roosevelt's special board.

2nd Meet Little Theater Tuesday Evening at 7:30

Enthusiasts of the yet to be organized Little Theater in Eastland who attended a meet aimed for a test of interest in the move Tuesday night at the city hall moved for the holding of a second meeting to be held Tuesday night at 7:30 in the county courtroom.

Judge O. C. Funderburk, past president of a former organization who presided over the Tuesday night meet cited chief errors of the former organization as (1) Lack of definite program and foresight; (2) Exclusiveness of the organization resulting in the small number of membership from which to recruit casts, and (3) Lack of cooperation among members. Judge Funderburk stated the faults should be remedied if a new organization was perfected.

Membership from surrounding cities was favored by those in attendance.

Pastors-Laymen to Attend Meeting

Pastors and laymen from Stephens county today were coming into Eastland to attend the Cisco District Bible Conference and Bible Institute, which will open Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Eastland Methodist church.

Rev. E. R. Stanford of the Eastland Methodist church stated today that pastors of 19 churches would likely attend the meet and Rev. O. F. Sensabaugh of Cisco, presiding elder for the district, would be in attendance Thursday.

An address, "Adult Work in Cisco District," by Rev. C. C. Henson is scheduled to open the meet tonight.

Expense Statement Pleases Stewards

The financial statement of the Methodist church presented to the board of stewards at their meeting Tuesday night by N. A. Moore, secretary-treasurer, was encouraging and pleasing to the group. Rev. E. R. Stanford, pastor of the Eastland church, stated Wednesday.

Two months period until the annual conference remain for the officials of the church to balance the budget out in full, the pastor stated, and success is expected to be reached.

HOUSE VOTES RESOLUTION ON OPEN GAMBLING

AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—The house today decided to purify Austin and let the rest of the state do as it pleases. By a vote of 74 to 73 it tabled a resolution requesting Governor Ferguson to submit a state-wide investigation of liquor and gambling to the session.

Almost immediately it adopted a resolution calling on the Travis county district attorney to investigate an alleged open keno game within a few blocks of the state capitol.

The state-wide investigation had been proposed by Representative Henry Kyle of San Marcos, author of the bill to repeal the horse race betting law.

House and senate conferees today began compromising differences between two relief bond bills passed by the two branches. A compromise bill providing bread bonds for relief of destitution was expected from the committee before tomorrow evening.

"Pretty Boy" Is Still In the News

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, who apparently retired from active competition a year or so ago and permitted his title of No. 1 bad man of the southwest to go to others by default, still breaks into the news now and then when persons report seeing him. His wife, Ruby, who is making crime pay by appearing at theatres and telling folks that it doesn't pay, refuses to discuss her husband and says she hasn't heard from him in a year. Police place little credence in reports that he is dead.

One recent story, told by a Pawhuska, Okla., woman, was that she and a companion picked up a bent old lady along an Oklahoma highway and gave her a ride to the outskirts of Oklahoma City. As the woman alighted she asked the name and address of the driver. A few days later the woman received a postcard. The note said: "Thanks for the ride. Pretty Boy Floyd."

Sending post cards is an old custom with Floyd. When he was named in connection with the Union station massacre here he wrote a note to police assuring them he had no part in the machine gunning of the five men. He frequently, in his active days, sent cards to Oklahoma police.

NO ARREST IS MADE AFTER A SHORT INQUIRY

Witnesses Tell of Double Tragedy In Wilson County Farm Home.

NIXON, Texas, Sept. 19.—An 18-year-old farm girl today shot her father to death to avenge the slaying of her 36-year-old sweetheart, officers investigating a double shooting said.

The dead were Gus Passmore, 50, Wilson county farmer, who lived four miles south of here, and Clyde Chaffin, his hired man. Justice of the Peace Reed Montgomery of Pandora and Sheriff J. B. Carnes of Floresville investigated the killing but made no arrest.

They said Passmore shot Chaffin because he objected to attention the hired man paid to his pretty daughter, Inez. Witnesses told Sheriff Carnes Passmore then went in search of his wife, threatening to shoot her.

The girl, Carnes said, ran into a room adjoining the one where Chaffin was slain, obtained a pistol, and returning, fired three shots at her father, who fell dead.

Pollard Trial Is Opened at Austin

AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—Defense of former Attorney General Claud Pollard on a charge of consenting to use of counterfeit cigarette tax stamps opened today. Judge W. F. Robertson late yesterday overruled a motion for an instructed acquittal.

In support of the defense contention Pollard was victimized and did not know the real purpose of an inner group of the association of wholesale tobacco jobbers of Texas, which employed him, various members of the association were put on the stand and testified they considered it a legitimate organization.

Girl Is Indicted In Extortion Plot

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 19.—Mamie Crouch, Texas girl, was indicted today in connection with an extortion threat against the life of Jane Ann Slaughter, invalid daughter of a Hollis banker. The Crouch girl lived at Childress. A Childress youth charged in the case was freed.

County authorities said at the time of the attempt they believed the girl sought to obtain money for an operation on her mother.

Two States Elect Demos to Congress

The senate gained a new candidate who promises to "raise more hell than Huey Long" and Wisconsin failed to give clear omens of the success of the La Follette third party experiment, election returns showed today.

Former Governor Bilbo presented himself today as Huey Long's rival at "hell raising." He defeated Senator Hubert Stevens in a run-off contest for the democratic senatorial nomination in Mississippi.

Col. Albert C. Schmedeman easily won the democratic primary in Wisconsin. Former Gov. Phillip La Follette took the nomination practically unopposed.

AMERICAN PUBLISHER CALLS FOR ANNULMENT OF MONROE DOCTRINE

And it has come to pass that the publisher of an important string of American newspapers has called for the annulment of the Monroe Doctrine. Roy W. Howard is touring South American countries. He lit in the city of Buenos Aires. He addressed the leaders of the Argentine republic. Disclaiming any political allegiance, Tourist Howard praised President Roosevelt's foreign policy resulting in the withdrawal of the United States marines from Nicaragua and Haiti.

This was its climax: "But after that one important task remains—to annul the Monroe Doctrine. This doctrine was conceived in the highest ideals and aimed at increasing the understanding among American nations. Actually it has become a barrier to understanding."

It was conceived in the highest of ideals. It was aimed at increasing the understanding among American nations and it was a distinct warning to European nations as well as the Asiatic countries to hands off North and South America in the years to come. It was a direct message from the secretary of state of a great democratic President in the long ago that the South American countries as well as the United States should not be molested or invaded by Europeans or Asians.

Perhaps it has become "a barrier to understanding." Perhaps it would be as well for Uncle Sam to attend to his own business under his own flag and permit all other peoples and countries to shape their own careers or destinies in their own way.

ROUNDING UP DILLINGER'S AIDES

(From the Dallas Times-Herald)

With a dogged persistence that does them much credit, federal operatives have ferreted out the group of persons who assisted John Dillinger in concealing himself and in his drastic efforts to disguise himself.

Of course, some of the persons arrested may be innocent, but three of them, including two doctors who performed the "face-lifting operation, have confessed. They are not likely to be let off with light punishment.

Persons who knowingly and willingly harbor fugitives from justice are, obviously, in the same class with the indicted public enemies. They not only enable the criminals to continue to prey upon the public, but keep them in position to deal out death to arresting officers.

When a criminal remains at large for a long period after his indictment, it becomes plain that he has friends on the outside. It is just as important to bring these conspirators to justice as it is to catch the culprit that they assist. Persons who help one criminal are apt to help others.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS RAEBURN, IS and pretty, elegant with RUSSELL LEAD handsome swimming instructor Russ goes to Miami, promising to send for her later, and Boots gets a job in a New York department store.

Russ does not write. Months pass and then Russ comes that he has been killed in a motorboat accident.

Too proud to ask her parents for help, Boots struggles on alone she meets DENIS PENWAY young author, who introduces her to EDWARD VAN SCIVER and beautiful KAY CHILCHINGFORD. He tells Boots get a job in a book shop Van Sciver, whom she has been avoiding, turns up again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVI

BOOTS faced Edward soberly across the small table. In a corner, screened behind flowering shrubs in green tubs, a string of orchestra softly played.

"I don't honestly know," she confessed. "I don't know what to say."

Russ had been dead for eight months now. Whenever she thought of him it was with a little tug of pain at her heartstrings. She knew now that what she had felt for Russ was merely attraction. If he had lived their life together would have been a mockery. Just the same, she was not ready to be Edward's wife. It wasn't right—it wasn't decent—that Russ, with his big smile and his hearty voice and his cheerful swagger, should be so soon forgotten.

"We could slip away and be married very quietly, if you see," Edward was saying ingratiatingly. "No publicity."

She made a little movement of dissent. "You're rushing me so," she complained. "I only said I would consider it."

"You like me, don't you?" Edward stared at her rather disconcertedly.

"Of course I do. But that's not enough."

"Nonsense," said Edward triumphantly and with the air of settling the discussion.

The thought flashed into Boots' mind that marriage with Edward would square off old scores with Sylvia and Patty and all the girls who had hurt her during that last summer in Larchneck. Oh, did all that matter? When she married it must be for love and love alone, not because her ring would make Sylvia Rivers open her eyes more widely.

Ah, but what Edward didn't understand was that liking wasn't enough to justify marriage. She had rushed pell-mell into marriage before, reconsidering like a child playing a new game. Her lesson had been brief and bitter.

Edward had everything to recommend him. She reminded herself. Looks, money, family position. He had an equable disposition. His big laugh rang out heartily on every occasion. What mattered then if her pulses did not race at this approach? It was madness to expect that racing of the pulses. Denis who stirred this response in her belonged to someone else. . .

As though divining her thoughts, Edward said carelessly, "Saw Kay and Denis last night."

Her heart raced like a wild thing; stopped; raced again. Her voice was very cool, unseeing. "Did you really?"

"Ummmm. At the Casino. Kay looked a knockout."

How did Denis look, cried her hungry heart. Was he thin and fine drawn, silent and aloof? Was he mocking and cruel? Did he speak of me?

Aloud she said, "She's very good looking."

Edward ate caviar with relish, nodding. He liked good food, good wines. He always had the best table at restaurant or night club. He had ringside seats at the fights, aisle seats for first nights of good plays. If she married Edward she wouldn't have to worry about bills. She would have supplies furs to wrap around her, sleek chauffeurs and storks fine faces.

"What's on your mind, love?" She smiled at him. "Will Denis and Kay be married soon, do you think?"

"Don't know. They said so last summer. Probably they'll just run down to City Hall some morning and do it without fuss. . ."

Let them do it and be over with it, Boots cried within herself, that icy hand squeezing her heart. Let them marry and send out cards and have a penthouse and a cook and books and beds and the rest of it. Then I'll put him out of my mind forever. I won't be thinking of another woman's husband. . .

Kay as a young wife, dark, glowing, beautiful; Denis bending over her, proud disdainful of all others. No, no, she couldn't bear it! She would be going back and forth to the Bay Tree every day and some day she would meet Denis on the street. Oh, better to be dead and buried than to meet Denis then!

"We'd go abroad after we married," Edward was saying. "You're really a very nice girl. I think you're a lucky girl. Someone else had said that—who? One of the girls at Lacy's. But Frances was different. She was more worldly, more assured and she, too, thought Edward splendid."

Inensibly Boots was affected by these various pronouncements. She was kinder to Edward, gentler with him, sweeter, so that he came to adopt a completely possessive air with her. By October when her year of mourning for Russ was almost up she had met his people, been tacitly approved by them. The web tightened around her. . .

One warm, rainy October morning she was alone in the shop when a slim, middle-aged woman in a bright blue raincoat walked in. She was alighted against the light and Boots came forward with the polite, mechanical smile reserved for customers. Her manner changed abruptly. She rushed into the other woman's arms.

"Mother! Why, mother!" They were laughing and crying all together. Mrs. Raeburn's thin face worked spasmodically. She had to take off her rimless glasses to wipe away the bright drops.

"I—I had to come," she said just the other day. My dear little girl! We thought you were down south and here you've been all this time!"

The fee about Boots' heart melted. She had been steeling her self against this emotion, any emotion; but it seemed now she had been wrong. It was better to feel something, anything, rather than go on as she had been going, half dead, half-alive.

Frances came in, furling a dripping umbrella, and had to be introduced. She was properly interested and cordial. She had heard part—if not all—of Boots' story. Mrs. Raeburn must stay, Frances insisted, and Barbara could take the early lunch hour. It didn't make a scrap of difference.

SO the two women murmured over a scrubbed deal table in the nearby tearoom. There was so much to be said—so much bitterness to be glided over, so many things to explain. . .

"I wrote and wrote," Boots said, her eyes filling at the memory, "but the letters came back unopened."

"I know," Mrs. Raeburn shook her head. "Daddy wouldn't have it. He's softer now, dear. He says he sees how it all happened. He's been doing a lot of thinking since he's been in bed. . ."

Mr. Raeburn, it appeared, had had a light stroke. "He'll be up and about in two weeks but of course he'll have to go very slow. He'll have to be careful," his wife said. "Florida lives with us now all the time. It helps. He's sitting up in a chair this week. I had to come to town to settle some business. I made up my mind I was going to find you. . ."

Daddy's business, she explained had been going down hill for some time. She didn't just know what their plans would be. He had some insurance maturing next month—not much, but enough to keep them afloat for a while. Florida was a paying guest.

"Can help," Boots offered youthfully. "I'm saving some money now. Frances and I have a tiny apartment together and we cook over a gas stove and live on nothing a week."

Mrs. Raeburn stiffened. Boots wasn't to think of it, she said. No she and Daddy would manage; they always had. And she was doing some things for the Women's Exchange. . . Eight dozen rolls every day. And no part-time maid. It was amazing how little the table cost if you shopped at the chain stores. . .

She clung to the girl on parting. She looked definitely older. The lines around her mouth had deepened their parentheses; her neck sagged.

"Come out and see Daddy some weekend," she begged. "He wants to see you. He's dying to, but you know how stubborn he is."

Boots promised. She watched her mother walk away, slim and worn in her rainy day clothes, and her heart ached. There was so much she ought to have to make her comfortable, to make life easier for her. . .

If Boots were Edward's wife she could do all that!

Feature Movie Tells Story of Human Race

By United Press

CHICAGO.—The University of Chicago, for some time a producer and user of educational movies, recently announced the completion and release, by its Oriental Institute, of a full length feature picture, "The Human Adventure."

The eight-reel talking picture, which the Oriental Institute labels "a sketch of man's rise from savagery to civilization," will be "road-showed" to the leading colleges and universities throughout the country in exactly the same manner that a theatrical picture is shown in key cities.

"We believe that the release of 'The Human Adventure,' at the very time when so many organizations are clamoring for better movies, will prove beneficial to the motion picture industry and that it will stimulate further production and use of educational films," declared Charles Brewster, executive secretary of the Oriental Institute.

The film, requiring more than three years to complete, was produced under scientific supervision of Dr. James H. Brewster, famous archeologist and historian, and director of the Oriental Institute, largest archeological research organization in the world.

"The Human Adventure" grows directly out of the researches and explorations of the Institute. The picture carries the audience by airplane through the lands where civilization first arose—Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Anatolia, Iraq, and Persia—where the Institute has dispatched altogether some 14 expeditions. Eight of the latter are observed while actually engaged in the scientific recovery of the lost chapters of the human adventure.

Special planes were chartered and professional cameramen were employed to produce a story which never before has been told on the screen. More than 32,000 feet of film were exposed and many of the pictures were made from the air during more than 9,000 miles of flying.

Midwest Plans To Deny Reports Of Bankruptcy

By United Press

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska newspaper publishers want it known that the recent drought did not bankrupt the Midwest.

Associated dailies of those three states, and possibly Iowa, are launching an advertising and publicity campaign in Eastern publications, newspapers and trade journals, to offset reports that searing heat during July and August left farmers with no income.

The Missouri publishers are putting up $2,000, to be matched with like sums from the other state organizations. Advertising space will be purchased in the publications.

The advertisements will make statistical facts, gathered from the federal government and individual states, showing that farm production has increased. In Missouri, the drought was some $500,000,000, farmers' purchases were estimated at $400,000,000. It was in 1937, the highest prices for hogs, in addition of dollars distributed by federal aid. The newspaper's late activities of the sections to "beat" after the drought. Recent rains, the late corn, planting of new crops, the ground for filled streams, and fresh water to the of livestock.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—Chairman Myron Taylor of the U. S. Steel Corporation heard about President Roosevelt's appointment of a labor relations board for the steel industry and proceeded to act in his customary fashion.

He sent the three members of the board an invitation to come to New York, have dinner with him and some of the other boys, and talk things over.

James Walter Stacy, chairman of the labor board, replied with thanks. The board was busy, but would be glad to see Mr. Taylor at any time he cared to pay it a business visit.

That's part of the background in the battle which many people foresee on the issue of collective bargaining for organized labor.

Elections will be held in steel plants and there is no longer the slightest doubt that the Stacy group will rule that employers win a majority vote as the representative of all workers.

This so-called "majority rule" principle was repudiated by General Johnson and Roosevelt in the automobile settlement, but has been emphatically invoked by the National Labor Relations Board in the Houde case. The steel board is virtually compelled to adopt it.

THE steel board has unmistakably indicated its feeling about company unions—which are the kind which the industry wants. During a hearing on a union discrimination case, Stacy demanded of a company attorney, "What

French Women Want Cops Jobs

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS.—Women long have been in authority in France, but it remains with the municipal council whether or not they are to be accepted as policemen, or rather policewomen.

This idea now has the active sponsorship of M. Armand Massard, whose father, Emile Massard, first proposed the idea that, at that time, appealed only to song writers and cartoonists.

Recognized by Mme. Pichon-Landry, president of the National Council of Women, the Comtesse Romanet, president of Oeuvre des Gares, and Mme. Barbizet, of the International League of Women, M. Massard presented his project to M. Langeron, prefect of police, in explanation, assisted by his feminine constituents, the advantages and necessity of having a band of agents de police.

The prefect did not deny the interest in such a project, but informed the committee that the matter would have to pass through the minds of the municipal council, the manipulators of the budget and several other departments of state before any definite action could be taken.

It is argued that women policemen would be a distinct advantage in railroad stations, dance halls, movies and schools, and that they would exercise more tact and intuition than men in such capacities. Nor would they have to wear a masculine uniform. An insignia would be sufficient to make them accredited policewomen.

West Virginia Faces Dry Fight

By United Press
KEYSER, W. Va.—Organizations opposing repeal of West Virginia's constitutional prohibition amendment today had thrown down the gauntlet at the Mineral county prohibition institute.

The Rev. B. E. Ewing, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league and campaign chairman of the United Dry Forces of West Virginia, said the institute was the first of a series to be held.

The voters will ballot on the repeal issue in November.
J. Lewis Bumgardner, of Beckley, general chairman of the state repeal council, meanwhile announced a vigorous struggle would be made for repeal and "intelligent liquor control."

The Rev. Ewing said half the counties were organized in the dry movement. He named as leaders of various co-operating state committees: H. C. Ogden, Wheeling publisher, publicity; Dr. J. B. Workman, Charleston, ministerial co-operation; Frank A. Thomas, Charleston, finance; and the Rev. Thomas C. Howard, Bluefield, negro department.

After Huey Long's investigation of New Orleans, we ought to have one on Hollywood by Will Hays and on Chicago by Big Bill Thompson.

Spain at Work On Rebuilding Opera

By United Press
MADRID.—After two years' suspension through lack of funds, the task of reconstructing the Madrid opera house has been renewed.
Architect Antonio Florez hopes to have the work finished and the theatre ready for opening in 1937—if money is forthcoming in sufficient quantities to allow the work to continue without another interruption.

But although the work has been begun again, those credits which were not supplied before have not yet been found to the full. The minister of education, however, has set aside out of the general credits, an initial sum of 100,000 pesetas to enable the work to be resumed, but this sum, according to Florez, soon will be exhausted. Nevertheless, Senor Florez is optimistic.

The rise in the cost of materials and in wages has added to the cost of the reconstruction work since it was first planned.

"May Peaches" Are Ripped In August

By United Press
MINERAL WELLS, Texas.—Fruit on two trees near here known as "May peaches" finally ripened during the middle of August, after having shown no more development in July than in April. Drouth retarded development of the fruit, which was heavy on the trees in April. The owner watched closely as the tiny green fruit clung to the trees. It was expected that it finally would drop to the ground. The peaches eventually ripened in August into what the owner described as "delicious fruit."

Hello Girls Are Studying Japanese

LONDON.—"Ohio" and "Sayonara" soon will be heard from the lips of London's telephone girls.

The operators at the International Telephone Exchange are learning Japanese in preparation for the new radio telephone link with Nippon. It soon will be available to the public at a probable cost of $10 a minute.
