RANGER WILL HAVE ANNUAL SHOOT SUNDAY

The American Legion Rifle club of Ranger will be host to an intercity shoot next Sunday, Oct. 21, it has been announced by Jack Roach, secretary of the club. A large crowd of shooters from Eastland, Breckenridge, Abilene, and other nearby towns, with possibly some from Fort Worth and Dallas participating. Prizes will be cash, with an entrance fee charged for each event.

The event scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The complete program for the annual fall tournament:

Small Bore Section
Individual Short Range Match—Course of fire, 20 shot at 50 yards; arm, small bore rifle; sights, metallic; entry fee, 50 cents; prizes per schedule.

Kickers Handicap Match—Course of fire, 20 shots at 100 yards; arm, small bore rifle; sights, metallic; entry fee 50 cents; prizes, per schedule.

Competitors must name their handicap before firing and at time of entry. This figure will be added to their total score; in case the total score is over 100 then two points will be deducted for each point over the 100. Example: If competitor takes 10 points as his handicap and his record score totals 96, the 10 points will be added to the 96 making total score 106; 2 points for each point over 100, will then be deducted from 106 or total of 12 points which will leave actual score of 94; if competitor takes 10 for handicap and his record score totals 88 the 10 points will be added to the 88 making total score 98.

Big Bore Section
Individual 200-Yard Match—Course of fire, 10 shots at 200 yards arm, any rifle cal. 30.06 or larger; sights, metallic; ammunition, any; position, prone; entry fee, $1.00; prizes, per schedule.

Rannging Deer Match—Course of fire, 10 shots at 200 yards; arm, any rifle cal. 30.06 or larger; sights, metallic; ammunition, any; position, offhand (standing); entry fee, $1.00; prizes, per schedule.

Pistol Matches
Twenty-five Yard Slow Fire Pistol Match—Course of fire, two series of five shots each, slow fire, one minute per shot; arm, any pistol or revolver; entry fee, 50 cents; prizes, per schedule.

Twenty-five Yard Novelty Pistol Match—Course of fire, 10 shots, slow fire, one minute per shot; arm, any pistol or revolver; entry fee, 50 cents; prizes, per schedule.

Cash prizes awarded as follows:
Class A—First 30 per cent of total entry fee.
Class B—First 30 per cent of total entry fee.

Competitors in all matches will be classified after the firing has been completed for each match. Classifications to be based on the score of the competitor and will consist of three classifications in each match—A, B and C. Classifications are arrived at by dividing the total number of entries in each match by 3 and the high score of each class will win the prizes: First in classes A, B and C, respectively.

For example, if there were 15 entries in a match this would be divided into three classes after the match had been fired and targets scored; the first five high scores would be in class A, the second five high scores in class B and the third five high scores in class C. The high score of the match would be first in class A, the sixth high score first in class B and the 11th high score first in class C, etc.

This method allows the tyros and who may be out of practice an opportunity to win cash prizes along with the others. In the Kickers handicap and the running deer match the tyro and anyone will have an even chance with the experts to win first prize.

MAKES THEM BEAUTIFUL

Cary Grant is the fascinating, young beauty surgeon, and Genevieve Tobin is his masterpiece in Paramount-B. P. Schulberg's "Kiss and Make-Up," the amusing little satire on woman's search for beauty, which comes Wednesday to the Lyric theatre. Helen Mack and Edward Everett Horton also appear in featured roles in this picture which presents for the first time the 13 Wampas Baby Stars of 1934.

LYRIC SUNDAY

ON TEXAS FARMS

R. J. Kornfuhrer of Weesatche community still forges ahead along the land to greater and greater poultry profits.

Credit for getting "Richard" started in the right way should go to his brother-in-law, Max Weise, a poultry demonstrator.

The demonstration chain seems endless; Max Weise got his start from his brother, Willie Weise, the first poultry demonstrator in the neighborhood.

Anyway, Mr. Kornfuhrer started from scratch with a few mongrel buff leghorn hens from two to eight years old which roosted in trees, lived on a diet of corn and plenty of fresh air and succeeded in laying perhaps 70 eggs per year.

Mr. Kornfuhrer now is the proud possessor of 280 pullets of this year's raising and 150 yearling hens all of outstanding breeding.

He has consistently fed them in the proper manner since breaking away from the old regime, kept them free of body parasites and given them a dosing once or twice a year with gasoline for intestinal worms.

The next thing in order is another 20 by 30 foot house built strictly A. & M. way to supplement his first A. & M. house of the same dimensions.

TAHOKA—A contract to supply A. & M. college with 18,000 cans of black-eyed and cream peas has recently been awarded Mrs. R. W. Fenton, member of the Tahoka Home Demonstration club in Lynn county, according to Miss Sylvia Robb, home demonstration agent. The contract which will pay $2,592 was awarded to Mrs. Fenton after her peas were declared to be the best from a number of sample cans sent to the college from all over the state. Her products have been standardized by the home industries specialist of the extension service. She will begin delivery at College Station about the middle of October.

ELDORADO—"My floor has a much more even color now than it had before I refinished it," says Mrs. G. C. Crosby of Schleicher county, according to Miss Lora Farnsworth, home demonstration year was almost a failure and when the surplus hogs were disposed of during 1932-33 the price was so low that hogs were almost given away.

LA GRANGE—On a one-acre demonstration plot for his 4-H club, Edgar Walla of Fayette county has produced 117.63 bushels of corn, and on another acre he has produced 106.94 bushels, giving an average of 112.28 bushels to the acre, according to W. H. DuPuy, farm demonstration agent. Last year Edgar topped all boys in his county by producing 128.33 bushels to the acre. He attributes his success to good land; good seed; early, deep preparation; and side dressing with a fertilizer of high nitrogen content.

CCC Has Built 7500 Check Dams In Erosion Program

by CCC camps in Texas assigned COLLEGE STATION.—Nearly 7,500 check dams have been built to soil erosion control work since June, 1933, when this particular program in Texas as a CCC project was started. M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer with the Texas extension service, who is directing the camp work, has announced. These camps will enter upon their fourth enrollment period in October when workers who have served the maximum time allowed will be mustered out and new workers enrolled and organized.

There are now 10 of these CCC units operating in Texas in soil erosion work. Two of these will be moved to new locations the beginning of the new period, the Cleburne camp to Hillsboro about Oct. 15, and the Dublin camp to Brenham after that date. The other eight camps are at Farmersville, Collin county; Boyd, Wise county; Weatherford, Parker county; Taylor, Williamson county; Graham, Young county; Coolidge, Limestone county; Belton, Bell county, and Bowie, Montague county.

This work was started in Texas June, 1933, with the organization of seven CCC camps assigned to the forest service, U. S. department of agriculture, financial support being from emergency conservation work funds. Since the extension service already had a state-wide program of erosion control and soil conservation under way, the forest service to that agency for technical supervision and Mr. Bentley was made director of the CCC erosion control program, as outlined by the federal bureau of agricultural engineering, in Texas.

At the end of the first six months period, the original group of seven camps in Texas was increased to 11. That number has carried on a continuous program over the one-year period ending Sept. 30, 1934. Ten of these will continue for the fourth period, beginning in October. The eleventh, formerly stationed at El Paso, is being transferred from erosion control to other work.

The Texas camps, under USDA supervision, survey for terraces but do not build terrace ridges. Their work is confined to the construction of check dams at terrace outlets and outlet ditches for terrace systems. In order that the work may serve as demonstrations, no outlets are constructed except to serve terraces located and built according to approved extension service methods.

Mr. Bentley in directing the work has been assisted by a corps of technical men and construction foremen, eight men being directly in charge of field work at each camp. Of the check dams built, nearly 2,600 are concrete and over 4,700 are of rock masonry. A total of 121,900 sacks of cement were used and 45,700 tons of rock. In setting these dams 28,400 cubic yards of dirt were moved by hand in addition to that moved by landowners with teams where practicable.

365 NIGHTS' PACKED WITH FURIOUS FUN

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH

Mass on Sunday will be at 8 a. m. by Rev. J. Fernandez. Sunday will be the Twenty-Second Sunday after Pentecost. The Epistle read is taken from the Philippines I, 6-11, the Gospel is from St. Matthew XXII 15-21. The Pharisees tried to entrap Jesus by asking Him if it were lawful to give tribute to Caesar. His reply is immortal. All citizens are bound to pay their taxes and support the government of the nation, state, county, city, but taxation should be in proportion to one's income and expenses.

N. Smith, professor of animal husbandry; Miss Lela Vaughan, college dietitian; Mr. Verne Scott, professor of veterinary medicine, and Miss Ima Hensarling, canning specialist for the Kerr Glass company.

At the college farm beginning at 9 a. m., Nov. 2, the course includes killing and dressing two hogs and one yearling and inspection of carcasses; Nov. 10, beginning at 9 a. m., at the college dining hall, those taking the course will cut and cure two hogs and one yearling and identify and compare wholesale and retail cuts of pork and beef. Beginning at 9 a. m., Nov. 17, at the college farm, two sheep, one hog, and one yearling will be killed, and the carcasses inspected. Also in the dining hall basement there will be the re-working of pork in cure. Nov. 24, at 8:30 a. m., in the dining hall basement, two sheep will be cut and wholesale and retail cuts will be identified and compared, also pork in cure will be re-worked. At 10 a. m. and through 4:30 p. m. in the home economics laboratory there will be the preparation and canning of meat and meat products, such as mince meat, beef stew, soup stock, liver paste, chili meat, swiss steak and meat loaf.

Enrollment for the course will be limited to eight teachers of vocational agriculture, so that each man will get the maximum of work and experience.

MAE WEST AT HER BEST IN GLAMOROUS PICTURE OF GORGEOUS NINETIES

Mae West, who admits that she is at her best when she is acting a woman at her worst is at her very best in her newest and gayest contribution to the screen, "Belle of the Nineties," which opens at the Lyric theatre Sunday for a three-day engagement.

As the queen of hearts and diamonds who takes Dixie by storm and charm, Miss West returns to the period of the Gay and Naughty Nineties in a lavishly dressed, handsomely mounted and thoroughly engrossing entertainment. Surrounded by three new "tall, dark and handsome," Rogers Pryor, John Mack Brown and John Miljan, with Duke Ellington and his orchestra, Katherine DeMille, Libby Taylor, Stuart Holmes and Warren Hymer in the supporting cast, Miss West acts the part of a St. Louis Burlesque queen who goes down to New Orleans to win the hearts of the southern cavaliers.

"BLACK CAT" AT THE LYRIC SATURDAY

Everyone remembers Edgar Allan Poe's masterful tale, "The Black Cat." It was full of horror and terror and certainly not the kind of a story one would like to hear on a dark and stormy night. But Universal has come out with its own version of "The Black Cat," which opens at the Lyric theatre Saturday. It was written by Peter Ruric, who took his inspiration from the Poe thriller.

And for a coupe-de-grace, there is "Frankenstein" and "Dracula" together for the first time, in other words, Karloff and Lugosi. There have been horror pictures, thrillers, chillers and mystery pictures. But this one combines all of the best elements of all of these. Together Karloff and Lugosi combine their eerie talents and conspire to produce one of the strangest, weirdest and terrorful pictures ever presented on the screen.

FAMOUS FOOTBALL FEATS!

ONE of the greatest runs ever seen in football involved Jack Elder. The Irish were playing Army in New York in 1929. There had been no score in the first period. In the second, with Notre Dame deep in its own territory, Frank Carideo punted. Perry, Army tackle, blocked the kick on the 13-yard stripe. Johnny Murrell tried the line on the first play, but was stopped. Chris Cagle couldn't pick up much at right tackle. On the next play, Cagle took the ball from center and faded over to the right. He heaved a pass to Messinger, but Elder was there first—right on the three-yard line. Ninety-seven yards he sprinted down the side of the field, almost on the sideline, and never stopped until he had scored. Notre Dame won, 7-0.

THE crescent of the new moon is only that part of the moon on which the sun is shining. The unlighted side usually is invisible, and tends to give the observer the impression that he is looking through empty space between the two horns of the crescent.

Ohio Health Officer Finds Typhoid Germ

CHILLICOTHE, O.—A new germ, related to the typhoid fever group, has been discovered here by L. M. Allwardt, bacteriologist of the Chillicothe and Ross county health departments, after long research. Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Society, described the germ as evidently an atypical member of the typhoid group. Medical society researchers have been unable to find any previous report on the particular type of bacillus discovered by Allwardt, he said. Allwardt began his research when investigating an apparent epidemic here last June. The usual method of typhoid immunization was not effective against the disease. Allwardt induced the disease in animals and produced an effective immunizing agent. The findings will be reported in the American Public Health association publication for November.

Cremation Certificate Issued on Baked Scrip

CLEVELAND, O.—A certificate of cremation for $90 in city of Cleveland scrip was issued by Assistant City Law Director Alfred Lawrence. At the same time, but separately, Citizens Fred L. Hardman and L. L. Banks appeared at baseball team representing Denig Post, American Legion, here, when the team was feted by the Forty and Eight society. This Speaker, banquet speaker, made the presentation. Banks had three $5 certificates, baked nearly black. Hardman had 15 $5 certificates, baked brown. He had put the 15 certificates into a small strongbox into an oven for safekeeping. One cold morning, someone started a fire in the stove and the scrip was cooked. New scrip was given both men. The certificate of cremation, issued by Lawrence, was filed in the city scrip account against the time that the scrip will be redeemed.

Sumption Cattle Program Concluded Thursday Unlikely

Resumption of the cattle program in Eastland county closed Thursday afternoon, it was stated at the county agent's office. Buyers Thursday bought the remaining on the 1,000 head authorized last week. Cattle was transacted at shipping pens in various towns in the county the final week. The 1,000 head bought the week, it is estimated that the program was purchased from 130 owners. Listing of the cattle continued until Thursday although the program ended upon that date. Between 5,000 and 6,000 head of cattle were untraced through the numbers listed, clerks in the county headquarters state. Over 7,600 head of cattle were traced during the program, it is estimated.

"DRUNK-DRIVING" TESTS MADE BY EXPERTS

CLEVELAND, O.—If you consume one ounce of whisky before you go out on the highway, you'll not be in the intoxicated class, but five to eight ounces will definitely impair your driving skill, traffic experts at the twenty-third annual National Safety Council reported here. Dr. H. A. Heise, of Columbia hospital, Milwaukee, revealed results of scientific tests he had made on intoxication with respect to motoring. Columbus, it is said, brought the first orange seed to America, and so planted the first seeds of battle between Florida and California.

Are YOU HAPPY After Meals Or Do Gas on Stomach and Sour Stomach make you Miserable? Too much food, or the wrong kind of food, too much smoking, too much beer, make your body over-acid. Then you have distress after eating, gas on stomach, heartburn, sour stomach. ALKA-SELTZER relieves these troubles promptly, effectively, harmlessly. Use Alka-Seltzer for Headache, Colds, Fatigue, "Morning After Feeling," Muscular, Sciatic and Rheumatic Pains. Alka-Seltzer makes a sparkling alkaline drink. As it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid. Alka-Seltzer tastes like carbonated mineral spring water—works like magic. Contains no dangerous drugs... does not depress the heart... is not laxative. Get a drink at your Drug Store Soda Fountain. HAPPINESS OF BOYHOOD ENDS ON A THRONE

Little Peter Karageorge, who becomes a king at an age when most boys are thinking about schoolwork and games, seems to be one of the least enviable figures you could find in all the world of childhood.

A great many stories have been told about the good fortune of the boy who lives in a palace. But there are several million scrub-nosed kids in the United States whose chances for happiness are almost infinitely better than the chances of this little Serbian youngster.

The throne of Yugo-Slavia lies under a shadow. That part of Europe is not called "the cockpit of Europe" for nothing. The greatest of all wars began there! If another one comes, it is very likely to begin there too. To be king of Yugo-Slavia is to sit amidst powder kegs, waiting for menace to take shape beyond the borders.

But if there is danger from without, there is also danger from within. Since the Serbs won their independence from Turkey in 1804, the land has had eight kings—and only three of them died natural deaths while on the throne. Three were assassinated, one was driven out by revolt and another was forced to abdicate by parliament. Alexander's murder is only the latest in a long series of violent acts.

A turbulent land set down in a troublous and invaluable situation—that is Yugo-Slavia. And the 11-year-old boy who now becomes king of this land is one of the most pathetic figures in modern history.

A king is apt to be a prisoner of his own palace, even in the happiest of lands. The gold braid, the bowing functionaries, the guards of honor and the intricate web of custom and etiquette that surround a throne usually cut off all chance for existence as a normal human being. Whatever a king may do for himself or for his people, the one thing he cannot do is seek happiness in the ordinary way.

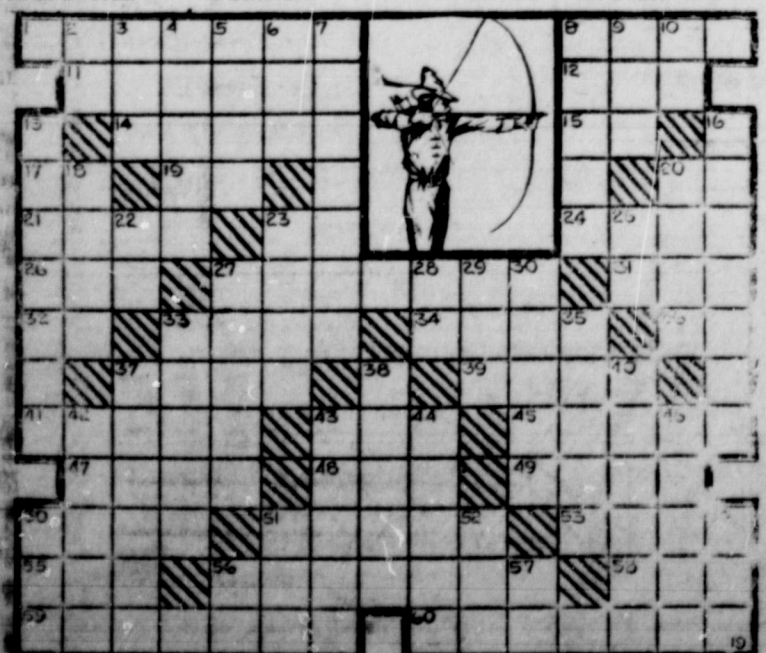

And if this is true for a grown man, how much more is it not true for a schoolboy!

Peter was in school in England when King Alexander was slain. From an English schoolboy he now becomes a king, with court chamberlains to wait on him and a plumed troop of horsemen to attend his coming and going. And the chances are exceedingly good that he will never again be as happy as he was before they fitted a crown on his childish head.

There is no better time than now to write to the lawmakers who represent your district as to how you think you should be taxed and in what way the revenue thus obtained should be spent.

COLONY

Special Correspondent It may not be o'possum hunting time, but the sophomore class hunted them Tuesday night. Those going on the hunt were Misses Mary Bell Anderson, Oneda Bowen, Ethelge Williamson, Geraldine Heans, Johnnie Harrell, Margie Herman, Frances Harrell, Dorothy Davis, Audrey Carey, Viva Briscoe, and Clifton King, G. D. Smith, Jack Stuard and Warford

Moseley. Even though no o'possums were caught everyone had a good time. Several families from the Colony community attended singing at Oakley last Sunday night. Miss Audrey Carey, teacher, visited her father, Mr. W. L. Carey of Caddo, over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Cazez and children attended the State Fair last Friday. Free tickets were given to all school children who wished to go on Friday. Friday was children's day at the fair. Miss Gertrude Griffith, teacher here, attended the State Fair over the week-end. Mrs. K. T. Smith, president of Colony Parent-Teacher association, attended the P. T. A. meeting at Ranger Tuesday afternoon. Plans are being made for a Halloween carnival which is to be held at the Colony schoolhouse on Oct. 31. We want everyone to come and help us enjoy being "spooks" for one night. A small charge will be made for each booth, but in return you will get to see some of the queer things of nature. Don't miss it. The Colony basketball boys and girls were defeated by Morton Valley last Friday afternoon on the Colony court. Even though we were defeated, we take it like real sports and work just a little harder in our practice. Miss Viva Briscoe, primary teacher, visited Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Morton Valley Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Smith, superintendent of school, visited Mrs. Smith's parents of Carbon Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crosland visited in Palo Pinto Saturday. Mr. Crosland is a teacher in the Eastland school, while Mrs. Crosland teaches at Colony. Colony has an active Parent-Teacher association which meets twice a month with Mrs. G. T. Smith as president. They will meet Thursday night of this week with a very interesting program. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Anderson are the proud parents of a baby girl, Joyce Kay. Mrs. Anderson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Smith of this community. Miss Nelle Waters, teacher here, visited her parents in Cisco over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Speer and daughter, Ann, and Mrs. W. W. Speer of Carbon visited Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Smith Wednesday night.

STAFF

Special Correspondent Farmers of this section country are about through harvesting their crops. Some have turning the soil, making preparations for another crop, and are sowing grain. Mrs. Pearl Bourland, Miss from Mrs. M. O. Hazard and Mrs. Hazard were guests of Mrs. Mrs. Berry Elliott of Olden Sunday afternoon. Rev. H. D. Blair of Cisco conducting a revival meeting at Baptist church. Rev. Blair preaching some fine sermons those that fail to hear him really missing something. One is invited to attend these services and bring someone with. This locality is very in need of rain. Grass and water are about a thing of the past. Some are out of water and are hauling water. Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Hazard Eastland visitors Tuesday. Mrs. Holt of Breckenridge dinner guest of her parents and Mrs. O. L. Pollard, last day.

Aromatic Turkish tobacco

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna . . . in the fertile fields of Macedonia . . . from the shores of the Black Sea . . . that's where the best kinds grow . . . the kinds used in making Chesterfields.

THERE are about as many kinds of Turkish tobacco as there are kinds of apples—but they all have a spicy aroma and flavor which seems to "season" a cigarette better than any other kind that grows. The right Turkish is costly—but it adds something to Chesterfield's milder better taste.

When you go on your next cruise, stop at Smyrna and visit our tobacco factory. We think you will find it interesting.

Eastland County Federation Meets Saturday

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Eastland County Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its monthly session in community clubhouse.

The program includes address by Miss Kate Adelle Hill of A. & M., district home demonstration agent; the report of delegates to the short course, and a round-table discussion of county club activities. All clubwomen of the county and Eastland are invited.

Eastland High School Mother-Teacher Club

The executive board members of the Eastland High School Mother-

Teacher club met at the home of Mrs. J. Leroy Arnold, Wednesday afternoon to plan their activities for the coming year and to arrange for the entertaining of the Eastland County Council of Parents and Teachers which will convene in Eastland high school auditorium, Saturday, Oct. 27, at 2 p. m.

The board will call a committee meeting of the presidents of the Eastland P. T. A.'s and plan for the refreshments and other details of the meeting.

Interesting Music Club News

Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite, Sixth district publicity secretary, Texas Federation Music Clubs, announces the following program for Saturday, received from Mrs. Fred A. Gillette, of Houston, state chairman of fairs and exhibits, who arranged this program in connection with Sixth district annual music club convention now being held in Colorado, Texas.

The program will be given at 10 a. m., Saturday, in Dallas, in the fair ground auditorium, and will present Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., organist, of Wichita Falls; the Bal-ladettes, and Balladors, of Amarillo college, these including 80 young men and women in Spanish costume, with choruses directed by Alta Turk, with Hjalmar Bergh accompanist.

Both Mrs. Turk and Mr. Bergh have been on Eastland programs.

The Waco high school orchestra or glee club will appear, directed by Miss Cobby de Stevers.

The Louix XIV Court fiddlers, of Wichita Falls, in ensemble numbers, and in costume, with Ethel Allen Nelson as director.

Those visiting Dallas from Eastland may have the opportunity to hear this splendid program.

Book Club

The Book club "open" meeting held in community clubhouse Wednesday afternoon, presenting their once-a-month book review, was a signal success, and attended by 40 or more women, several of whom came from Ranger.

The session was opened by Mrs. Virgil T. Seaberry, chairman for October program, who announced that similar reviews of latest books would be presented by the Book club on the third Wednesday afternoon of each month, and the next, announced for November, to have review given by Mrs. E. E. Freyschlag.

Mrs. Seaberry concluded by saying the Book club was proud to have Mrs. J. M. Perkins as their first reviewer, and gracefully presented Mrs. Perkins.

"So Red the Rose," by Starke Young, the work under discussion, was exquisitely presented by Mrs. Perkins, who held her audience's tense attention, during the hour given to the interpretation.

Mrs. H. L. Jackson Birthday Honored
When Mrs. H. L. Jackson returned home from spending the afternoon with her sister, Mrs. E. D. Hair, and friend, Mrs. Alfred LeClaire, she was greatly touched and pleased to find a large group of friends awaiting her, who greeted her with the song, "Happy Birthday to You," with Mrs. John Boen at piano and who had gathered to do honor to their friend's birthday.

Mrs. Jackson's face showed the sentiment in her heart, at this thoughtful friendship.

The table in the dining-room was found heaped with many useful and pretty gifts.

At close of afternoon, those present served refreshments of ice cream and delicious home-baked cakes, to Mmes. E. Cooper, Dee Williamson, A. E. LeClaire, B. Bennett, Rachel McFee, Pope, L. Kellett, Underwood, Judson, I. Kellett, Sawyer, Lilly Herndon, Hughes, O'Neil, Boen, Payne, Tucker, Liles, E. D. Hair, Price, Van Geem, Ben Tucker, and Mrs. G. Williamson.

The Claw of the Forgotten Murder

By CARLETON KENDRAKE ©1936 NEA Service

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When DAN BLEEKER, publisher of The Blade, learns that CHARLES MORDEN, police reporter, has been mysteriously killed, he determines to employ SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminalist.

Then MORDEN is found dead and a few hours later comes news that CATHAY is dead—possibly a victim.

SIDNEY GRIFF undertakes the case. He goes to see CHARLES FISHER, CATHAY's lawyer, and then to CATHAY's home. There he sees CARL RACINE, private detective, leaving in CATHAY's car. The chauffeur says hostilely to GRIFF, "You can't see Mrs. CATHAY."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

THE chauffeur accented back behind the wheel of the big car. The gear shift lever snapped home and the automobile, with Racine, the detective, inside, slid smoothly down the driveway, progressing as effortlessly as a trout gliding through the dark depths of a forest pool.

Sidney Griff watched the car until it had turned the corner of the block. Then he stepped to the doorbell and a moment later was handing his card to a solemn-faced butler who assured him that Mrs. CATHAY was receiving no one.

"You can't see Mrs. CATHAY," Griff said to himself. "It is, however, important that I see her. You will explain to her that I am a criminalist and that if she can grant me an audience now it may save her much inconvenience later."

The butler took his card, showed him into a reception hallway. As Griff waited he looked about him, noting the Chinese rug on the floor, the dark wood table and chairs of solid, Tudor design, the maroon silk draperies reaching to the floor. Through the doorway he could see a glimpse of a fireplace with a mirror above the mantel. The furnishings looked expensive. Everything about the house looked expensive and characterless—the typical home turned out by a fashionable interior decorator who knew how to please wealthy clients.

It was only a few moments before the butler came back with the information that Mrs. CATHAY would see Mr. Griff.

The interior of the house was hushed and there was about it the aura of death. A musty smell struggled with the cloying odor of flowers that were dying, and, in turn, were used to ornament death. Griff saw a maid in the next room, noted that the servants walked about on tiptoe, with strained, set faces.

GRUFF followed the butler. In the midst of the atmosphere of hushed restriction the healthy thudding of the criminalist's foot—his were as the influx of an outside life, pushing aside decaying tissues, dissipating dead atmospheres with the tang of a salty sea breeze.

The butler led the way to a smaller room back of the living room. Mrs. CATHAY was there, stretched in a reclining chair. A robe was drawn about her. Her face was white and the eyes were dark-rimmed. Her hands seemed like white wax and there was something pitiously pathetic in the woman's eyes as she stared at the criminalist. They were eyes that held curiosity, grief, tragedy, and—more than all—the dark lustre of fear.

"Please be seated," she said. Sidney Griff thanked her, dropped to a chair.

"Believe me, Mrs. CATHAY," he said, "I had no wish to intrude upon your grief. I came to make a suggestion and a suggestion merely."

"What is it?" she asked. "That you will not," he said, "oppose an autopsy."

She shuddered and said nothing. "I have," the criminalist, "discussed certain phases of the case with your attorney, Mr. Charles Fisher. He tells me that a hurried settlement was completed with The Blade because your husband was taken seriously ill, and you both attributed that illness to mental anxiety caused by the article which had been published."

"Not because of the article," said Mrs. CATHAY. "Not because of that, but because of the tactics of the newspaper people. They were going to blacken Frank's reputation by every means in their power and Frank's reputation was all that he had to live for. Money meant but little to him. That which he prized more than all was his reputation and standing in the community."

HER voice was weak and toneless, without animus, without enthusiasm, without vigor. She spoke as one would speak of a thunder shower which had passed after doing damage to some prize bed of flowers.

"Did you," asked Griff, "let your husband know that you were going to the city to negotiate a settlement?"

She stared at him steadily. "Why do you want me to answer that question?" she asked. "Let it go," he told her, his eyes now focused upon her pale lips. "It is, perhaps, of no matter. But would you mind telling me why you and your husband became so greatly concerned over the fact that a reporter was making an investigation for the purpose of determining facts about Mr. CATHAY's reputation?"

"How do you mean?" she asked. "Was there," he asked, "some specific fact that you were afraid the reporter would uncover?"

"Certainly not. My husband's life has been an open book." "Then why were you so afraid of what the reporter might uncover?" "It wasn't what he might uncover," she said. "It was the idea of the thing; the loss of prestige; the loss of dignity; the certain knowledge that some shrewd attorney would twist and distort the little incidents, the minor matters, so as to make them seem big and important."

"What little incident? What minor matter?" pressed Griff. "Please," she said. "You didn't come here to bait me, but to ask me something or to tell me something. Please get it over with and go."

Griff's voice was low-pitched and confidential. "I want to ask you," he said, "if you knew that the reporter who had been sent by the newspaper to investigate your husband's reputation was murdered, and his body was found yesterday afternoon?"

"Yes," he said. "You hadn't heard about it?" "Murdered!" she said. "Oh my God!"

She dropped back against the chair and lay very still and very motionless.

Griff went to her side, felt her pulse, went to the door of the room and jerked it open. A maid was standing within a few feet of the door, her face flushed.

"Your mistress," said Griff, "has fainted. See what you can do for her."

"The maid stared at him accusingly. "I think," said Griff, "you had better telephone for a physician."

He raised his voice slightly as he made the suggestion, and then turned to regard the still form which reclined in the overstuffed chair. That form stirred. A weak voice said, "No, I don't want a physician. Get me some brandy, Marie."

Griff faced the maid once more. "Under the circumstances," he said, "I will not make any farewells to your mistress. Please tell her that I have gone and that I am grateful for the interview."

The maid said nothing but stared at him with hostile, sullen eyes as Griff found his way out of the house. The butler reached the front door just as Griff had stepped to the porch.

Griff walked rapidly down the cement to the place where his taxicab was waiting.

"Get me," he said to the driver, "to a public telephone where I can put in a long distance call. Don't lose any time."

Griff makes a telephone call in the next installment and gives these instructions: "Trail Carl Racine."

ENGINEERS DONATE SNAKES

By United Press
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O.—Highway department engineers here have decided they don't want to be herpetologists. They brought several copperhead snake eggs into the Belmont county sheriff's office, after killing the parent snake. Deputy Sheriff B. F. Mackey cut open one egg with his penknife. A young snake appeared and struck at him. As the others hatched, the shells and snakes were both preserved and turned over to a Martins Ferry, O., high school biology class.

CIGARET ENDED GHOST SCARE

By United Press
AUBURN, Me.—No more will spectral wraiths flit among Auburn tombstones on dark nights. No more will eerie wails pierce the night from the direction of the "haunted" house. No more will bloody footprints send shudders up Auburn spines. Auburn's ghost scare came to an abrupt end when one of the ghosts lighted a cigaret. A police squad pounced on the spectres and found they were six small boys with a bent for supernatural mischief. Nearby were six sheets and a bucket of blood from an abattoir.
