MAN HELD IN THE JUNE ROBLES KIDNAP CASE

MAN IS KILLED HE HOPPED FREIGHT TRAIN

Sanders of Fort Worth was killed in Ranger about Tuesday afternoon when he jumped to board a fast-moving freight as it pulled out of the yards. The man apparently missed his train and slipped under the wheels which ran over his body, killing him completely in two near-instant moments.

The man who was with Sanders reported to have been heard shouting to try to board the train as it was moving too fast, but he was unable to do so. He was pulled out of the train by the conductor and taken to the hospital where he died.

Sanders was traveling to work, according to G. L. Sanders, his brother-in-law, who was in Ranger to see him off. Sanders had been heard from at Temple, where he had gone to see his father. He was returning from Temple when the accident occurred in Ranger.

Mrs. Mae King on Stand in Murder Trial

Searched as Spy By Nazi Police

Seized as a spy at Munich, Germany, because she was carrying a camera while watching Nazi Storm Troop drills in territory forbidden to the public, Helen Lyster, above, of New Rochelle, N. Y., art student, reported on release that she had been compelled to undergo a search by a police matron during nine hours detention.

SAYS ROBINSON SHOT SELF AS SHE LOOKED ON

Weeps As She Tells Of The Shooting of Gorman Man Last Year.

Choking back tears, wiping her eyes, clogged with tears, Mrs. Mae King today in 91st district court told jurors that Leon Robinson shot himself and that she shot herself twice after the former had killed himself. Mrs. King is charged with the murder of Leon Robinson, allegedly shot and killed in Gorman on the night of Nov. 13.

When asked if she loved Leon Robinson by defense attorney Frank Judkins, she answered emphatically, "I did," as she did when asked if she shot Robinson by saying, "I did not."

The 38 year old woman who revealed to jurors of the affair carried on between herself and Robinson said that when she saw Robinson had shot himself she "wanted to die because he died. He was the only man on earth whom I ever loved," Mrs. King said.

When questioned today by defense attorney Judkins she related that she had come to Desdemona from Ohio in 1919 and met Robinson in 1924 when she was returning from a trip to Fort Worth. She said she arrived at the station late and that Robinson offered to take her home because otherwise she would have had to wait several hours for a train to her destination. She stated that it "was a case of love at first sight." She related several occasions that Robinson had evidenced strong jealousy.

The woman threw a challenge to District Attorney Grady Owen when she told him that "Don't consider you need to know," when interrogated as to the number of changes she made on the train when coming to Gorman the time she met Robinson.

Once the woman said, Robinson was mad at her because he considered she was trifling with him. He came to Desdemona and the pair drove off. He showed her a new rope with which he claimed he was to use in hanging himself, the woman said. When they got to a field out of Desdemona she claimed the man made a noise and then when noticing Mrs. King acting indifferent, made another and chased her when she ran. She fainted, and woke up in the man's lap several hours later, she claimed. A reconciliation was made between them after that, Mrs. King stated.

When asked by District Attorney Owen if she was aware of the fact that Robinson had an invalid wife, Mrs. King said, "I can't help that part of it."

Her husband, R. A. King, was in attendance at the trial and sat beside her during court hours.

On Armistice night of 1933 Mrs. King stated on the stand, she was arrested by Robinson, dragged through the streets, her clothing was torn, shoe left on the street, and finally taken to jail. After several hours, she stated, she was released.

On the night of Nov. 13, she came to town, Mrs. King said, with the intention of seeing other officers and the mayor of Gorman in order to see what could be done about Robinson's cruel treatment toward her.

After seeing one officer there, Mrs. King said, she started to go to her home at Desdemona, but when passing the Gorman clinic saw Robinson who shouted for her to stop as he wished to talk to her. "Lee started to the car, he opened the door. He asked what I was in Gorman for and I told him," Mrs. King told jurors. "I told"

UNHAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR HAUPTMANN'S BABY SON

In the hotel across the street from the jail at Flemington, N. J., where his father, Bruno Hauptmann, is held for trial in the Lindbergh case, Manfred Hauptmann celebrated his first birthday. His mother is shown about to cut the birthday cake, gay with a single bright candle.

DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE IS OVERWHELMING

Democrats today seized two-thirds control of the senate and maintained their powerful majority in the house in the party landslide at the polls at the off-year elections.

Virtually complete returns at noon indicated the following republican senators had been sacrificed in the parade of the new dealers:

Arthur Robinson, Indiana; Henry Hatfield, West Virginia; Simeon D. Fess, Ohio; Felix Hebrert, Felix Herbert, Rhode Island; David A. Reed, Pennsylvania; Hamilton Kean, New Jersey; Roscoe Patterson, Missouri.

The race in New Mexico, where Senator Bronson Cutting, progressive republican, is battling Dennis Chavez, a new dealer, was in doubt. Chavez had a slight lead. The administration was assured of at least 300 members in the house. A total of 265 democrats already had been elected and 31 others were leading. Republicans won 83 seats and 14 others were leading democratic opponents. The representation in the 73rd congress was 309 democrats and 114 republicans.

The extent of the republican route was evident as late returns indicated 21 democratic governors had been swept into office as against five for the republicans.

Democrats won in Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Iowa, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, and Wyoming.

Republican governor were elected in California, Kansas, Michigan, New Hampshire and Vermont.

IS CHARGED UNDER FEDERAL KIDNAP LAW

Was For Several Years Operator of Dance Hall in Tucson.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Oscar Robson, Tucson, Ariz., was charged by the department of justice today with violation of the Lindbergh law in connection with the kidnaping of four-year-old June Robles last spring.

Robson, 31 years old, and for several years operator of a Tucson dance hall, has been taken into custody by federal agents, the department announced.

A complaint is being filed in federal court at Phoenix charging him with violating sections of the Lindbergh law pertaining to sending an extortion threat through the mails.

The Robles girl, daughter of a Tucson electrical contractor, was kidnaped April 25, 1934, and held for 10 days in an underground cage in the desert nine miles east of Tucson.

Liquor Forces Win Five States

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Liquor forces shattered prohibition in five states today, but appeared to have lost their most coveted prize—54-year-old dry Kansas. Wets reached majorities of three to one in some instances added Nebraska, Florida, West Virginia, South Dakota and Wyoming to the column of states permitting hard liquor. A heavy rural vote in Kansas cut sharply into early wet leads and sent prohibition forces ahead.

Off-Year Election Created Interest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A grand total of about 32,000,000 voters went to the polls yesterday in the off-year election and cast almost 16,000,000 votes for democratic candidates, it was estimated today in a United Press survey of 48 states.

Republican candidates polled around 12,500,000 votes and other candidates 1,500,000 votes, the incomplete totals showed.

QUESTION IS RAISED ABOUT HOUSE TERMS

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Speaker of the House Coker Stevenson was to rule this afternoon on whether 68 members of the Texas house of representatives automatically went out of office with yesterday's election.

The question was raised this morning by Rep. Lon D. Alsup of Carthage. He cited Section 3 of Article 4 of the State Constitution saying that terms of office of representatives shall be two years from the day of their election.

Alsup gave notice that arguments will be presented in support of his contention. Speaker Stevenson was included to rule against it on the basis of a former attorney general's opinion that all officers serve until their successors qualify.

The senate plunged away at the $5,000,000 Centennial appropriation bill this morning and fought down scattered attempts to add new counties to the list specified in the bill for local celebrations.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a house and several garages and outbuildings Tuesday night when the fire department answered a belated alarm on Desdemona boulevard. The house was completely destroyed before the department arrived, but part of the outbuildings were saved.

According to city firemen the house had recently been occupied by Houston Strong, who moved out a few days ago. Another tenant was preparing to move in and had planned to move in Wednesday morning.

Library Benefit At Lyric Tonight

The public library, Lyric theatre show benefit tonight, promises to have a most liberal patronage.

The members of the Thursday Afternoon club under general chairmanship of Mrs. W. A. Martin have been working faithfully to dispose of tickets for which the club will receive 25 per cent of all they dispose of in advance.

This fund will be used for the benefit of the library, and its needs.

It is understood that no tickets are sold Thursday by the club, but that those who buy tickets for Wednesday show, and cannot use them tonight may use them for the Thursday night show.

Rev. Ephraim D. Conway, pastor of the Ranger circuit charge of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will not meet his second Sunday appointments at the Bullock and Mt. Zion churches, due to the meeting of the annual conference which is in session November 7th to 10th.

Penny Killed Youthful Singer

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—Four-year-old Raymond Dersheim swallowed a penny while singing in a children's choir at Sunday school. The coin lodged in his esophagus and caused death several days later.

That reminds me...

Can't help but congratulate the entire bunch of boys and girls down Eastland National Bank way for the efficient and smooth manner in which the hundreds of customers were handled on the opening day of the bank. Had a man loaned to the bank from the Mercantile National Bank of Dallas to help out and at the end of the day he simply remarked: "They didn't need me here with the bunch of employees and officers knowing how to do their jobs." He went back home to tell the story of how the people of this entire section were cooperating with the Eastland National Bank and highly elated that he could go back and tell such a wonderful story.

The same good system was in order today and as soon as folks came in to find out what it was all about they got it—pronto.

There are several depositors who signed the power of attorney who have not come in as yet and gotten their statement. Bank officials are urging all that can to do so as soon as possible and incidentally sign their signature card in order to get busy and write their checks to whom and where they wish. Great stuff this banking business in Eastland... never got such a thrill out of a thing in our lives.

And by the way, Thursday is the starting day of the special picture, "The Richest Girl in Town," proceeds of which go to the Thursday Afternoon club from the sale of tickets. Get yours now, the show is on for Thursday and Friday. The tickets are twenty-five cents each. Good old Johnny Burke, manager of the theatre as usual is cooperating with the ladies for this excellent picture entertainment. Mrs. W. A. Martin is general chairman for the occasion.

Can't hardly believe "It ain't gonna rain any more." It always has and always will, but gosh its a long time between sky crying. That's the one thing we need now to cop off the occasion of the new deal. Gets cold one minute and hot another—funny business this weather just at this time, but nothing can be done about it, so we're happy at that.

Those who have stock in the Eastland National Bank will do well to hold on to it. It can be seen right now that something worth while is going to happen to that investment. As a fellow remarked this morning when his stock was handed to him: "Damn if anybody is going to get this stock without paying a premium for it." That's the kind of stuff that it takes to make good banks and good

Defeating Depression Is Complicated Task

Getting Bill Smith through the depression does more than any other single government undertaking to reveal the astounding and perplexing contradictions involved in our effort to get back to good times.

Bill Smith, let us say, is an Arkansas cotton grower; a tenant farmer who has always rented his land. Last year the depression got him right down to the bottom of the barrel. He couldn't rent his farm any more and he couldn't get a job.

He had a wife and five children. The sum total of his worldly goods was a flock of 17 chickens.

Like others in such circumstances, he went on relief. The other day, his family was one of 15 similar families established on a tract of 16,500 acres of government land in northeast Arkansas.

There was a house all ready for Bill Smith; a nice, attractive little cottage, with electric lights, running water, and so on. Back of it and the other houses stretched the 16,500 acres of government land, all grown up with trees.

The scheme is this: Thirty acres are allotted to Bill Smith. He will clear them this winter, the relief administration furnishing him with anything he lacks. Some of this he will pay for with his labor, helping to grade the roads, build a community house, erect bridges, etc.

He spent the summer on a tract the government rented for him, and raised enough foodstuffs to live on all winter until he gets his new land cleared and planted.

He also earned enough to buy a mule, a cow, some more chickens, and a few other things he needed. Now consider what is being done here.

A very worthy end is being attained. Bill Smith, together with hundreds like him, is being made self-supporting. He is regaining his hope and happiness.

There may be some victims of the depression who would like to see our government torn down and replaced by some ism or other, but he isn't one of them.

But look at the contradictions. At a time when the government pays men to reduce cotton production, here is new land being put into the growing of cotton. Marginal farm land is being retired—and here is a new stretch being opened. Forest conservation is being stressed—and here a forest is being cut down.

What's the answer? Heaven only knows. It is contradictory and illogical—and we can't help doing it.

We must get Bill Smith through the depression—even if, by doing so, we raise questions for which we have not the shadow of answer.

James Whitcomb Riley—Born Thirty Years Too Soon

'Dusting the Covers of Texas History' for The Texas Centennial Celebrations of 1936

Cold northers swept down on the Spaniards from the snow-capped mountains at Tigue that winter of 1540-1541 when Coronado and his men were encamped there. The small houses of mud and stones seemed as though they would be blown apart by the next mad gale. Sleet fell, and dreary days of drizzling rain came. Added to the misery of the climate was the diminishing food supply, the Indians revolted.

Coronado had feared that it would be difficult to keep on peaceful terms with the Indians, and he was not greatly surprised when suppressed anger finally broke out in warfare. The fight was rather severe. Some of the Indians were shot by Spanish; some were drowned in the icy waters of the Rio Grande as it swirled on its downward course.

The one terrible blot of Spanish explorations happened during the uprising. A captive Indian had been promised freedom, but the captain of the attacking party was not aware of the promise. Therefore, cruel as it was, for punishment the captive was ordered to die at the stake as a warning to neighboring tribes not to begin any quarrels. Although Coronado tried to reconcile himself and his men with the Indians through various gestures of friendship, he never again had their complete trust and understanding.

Toward the spring tales of gold and silver once more reached the willing ears of the Spanish. "The Turk," captive Plains Indian at Cicuey, gave encouraging stories of the land of Quivira. Probably wishing for freedom, and thinking to gain it by the desire of the Spanish, he was clever enough to know what they wanted him to say. He told them of great wealth and riches in cities to the East, in the far-away land of Quivira. Regardless of protests by Indians who knew the land and knew that the Turk was not telling the truth, Coronado made plans for the trip to Quivira in the spring.

It was with fresh hope and gleeful spirits that the men left Tigue that sunny, balmy spring morning in April 1541. It was well that they did not know disappointment was again in store for them, for their burdens seemed light, and the pathway easy.

him that I wasn't here for nothing else but to see what could be done about the way he treated me," Mrs. King said.

"He got a .38 pistol out of his pocket, raised his hand, I tried to stop him, and then I saw him fall," Mrs. King said. "When I saw him on the ground, rolling and vomiting, I took a gun out of my purse, shot myself," Mrs. King added. "I went over to where he was and shot myself again," Mrs. King said. Tuesday afternoon the state rested at 2:30.

B. J. Jones, Gorman cafe operator, told jurors that once Mrs. King stated, "I've given him the best eight years of my life—he can't trifle now."

New Collapsible Oil Drill Is Made

BEAUMONT, Texas.—A new collapsible drill bit, calculated to revolutionize the oil drilling industry, will be manufactured here soon, according to its inventors.

The bit, invented by L. P. and C. J. Kinnear, both practical drillers and pioneers of South American oil fields, would be used in rotary drilling. The tool was the result of eight years' work.

The outstanding feature of the bit, according to the Kinnears, is in the ability of drillers to maintain rotation of the drill pipe and circulation of drilling fluid while changing the tool. Any desired pressure may be held on the walls of the well during this operation, they said.

This operation is accomplished by a piston-like action in the pipe, controlled by a valve at the top of the hole.

As soon as the new tool is put in use, the entire method of drilling with an ordinary drill pipe and external upset drill casing, will be done away with, the Kinnears said.

Champagne To Be One of France's Finest

By United Press
PARIS.—Great bunches of white and red grapes weigh the vines in the region of Reims and Epernay so the 1934 champagne crop promises to be the best since 1893, the most celebrated of champagne years in the history of France.
Experts, who have inspected the vineyards, estimate that production this year will amount to more than 15,000,000 gallons.
Fog and rain seemed to cooperate throughout the summer to make the present harvest the best in 41 years. It never was too hot during the critical period and there were showers at regular intervals without any heavy downpours.
The various types of grapes used in the blending of champagne include the white grapes of the Oenois, Cramant, Aviz and du Mesnil vineyards and black grapes of the Ay, Mareuil, Bouzy and Reims vineyards, all ripened perfectly.
Connoisseurs, however, will not wait to sample the 1934 champagne for at least another five years as it must be bottled and put in underground warehouses to ac-

Working Toys to Weigh Down Santa

By United Press
NEW YORK.—If you want to make your child happy, put him to work.
That's the new deal in toys for Christmas, 1934. The latest models for Santa's pack, assembled from 32 states for display at the Toy Association, feature educational playthings that exactly reproduce every adult business and housekeeping activity in workable miniature.
Among the new thrills Santa Claus will bring:
Electric trains with extreme stream lines and real chuggers.
A metal loom which reproduces the perfection of industrial weaving for the first time.
An adaptation of the electric eye for playroom use. A mirror device by which you can draw your own pictures even if you have five thumbs. Streamlined doll carriages that have a trunk for doll wardrobes included in the body. Toy autos that set new speed records by running 100 feet a minute. Riveting for playroom builders—without the noise of adult construction, however.
There are a hundred types of building sets for youngsters. They can build every type of modern airplane and boat. A new cardboard boat can be built which will stay in the water for three months.
Juvenile wheel goods are streamlined and geared for transformation tricks. A fireman's hook and ladder can be changed into a dump truck or an ambulance. Sidewalk autos have rumble seats and dump truck attachments.
A new soda jerking set will turn the playroom into an efficient drug store fountain. Grocery stores come complete with counters, scales, dial phones, a safe with a combination, a cash register and an efficient dial typewriter, all in the lowest price ranges.
Children's books combine drawing and painting activities with the mastering of the alphabet.
German storm troopers must prove there has been no Jewish blood in their families since 1800, excepting perhaps the blood their forefathers might have spilled.

The Claw of the Forgotten Murder

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for the Blade, is found dead in a rooming house, the police are puzzled. MORDEN'S MURDER, famous criminologist, to solve the murder. MORDEN'S MURDER, famous criminologist, to solve the murder. MORDEN'S MURDER, famous criminologist, to solve the murder.
"That is whether Morden merely blundered upon the discovery which led to his death, or whether he figured it out by a process of reasoning that was at least brilliant."
"He was not a brilliant man," Bleeker said.
GRUFF closed his eyes. Slowly he shook his head from side to side.
"I am not certain," he said. "At times I feel that he must have been brilliant. It is, perhaps, something we shall never discover."
"What are you referring to?" Bleeker asked. "The location of Sather Ordway?"
"Not that," Griff said.
"Do you think that he knew she was Cathay's daughter?"
"As to that, we cannot say, but I am inclined to think he did not," Griff said.
"How," asked Bleeker, "did you know that she was Cathay's daughter?"
"I didn't know," Griff said. "I watched her lips when she spoke. I knew that she was nervous and that she was lying. I know, also, that her lies were not the swift extemporaneous lies of one who has been unexpectedly cornered, but that they had been carefully rehearsed. They were lies which were not impregnable, but they had been given to her to use for the purpose of delaying investigation until a certain thing could be accomplished."
"And that certain thing?" asked Bleeker.
Griff shrugged his shoulders. "It may already have been accomplished," he said. "Who can tell?"
"Don't you think you're all wet on that business?" Bleeker insisted. "Morden wasn't such a brainy man. He was resourceful. He thought of trying to trace Cathay through his car. He found the garage. In some way, from the garage, he got a lead to the apartment house and someone in the apartment house gave him the information that he wanted. He, therefore, which this young woman was merely a woman in the case, a person whose name might be linked with that of Cathay."
"He went to see her; she was out. He rode around, investigating other clues for an hour or so, and then returned. She was in. He talked with her. Kenneth Boone came in. Boone has a jealous disposition. He is hot-headed and impulsive. We know he carries a weapon. Probably he tried to throw Morden out. Morden would have taken a great deal of throwing out. There was a struggle. Boone lost his head and hit Morden over the head with the gun. That's all there was to it."
"Griff did not argue the point. "Perhaps," he said in a tone that was almost dreamy, "but let's not make the mistake of reconstructing our crime until we have all of the facts."
Here's 222 East Elm street. We're going to get something here."

Non-Inflamable Gas Struck In Water Well

By United Press
CANADIAN, Texas.—Gas experts today were puzzled by the tremendous pressure of an intended water well being drilled at the department of commerce airport here.
The gas "pocket" was struck at 270 feet. Pressure blew tools away from the well and pushed the casing up several feet. Nobody was hurt when the well ran wild. Gas escaped at the rate of 2,000,000 cubic feet daily, and sprayed nearby land with a fine mist mixed with sand. The roar of the well could be heard several hundred feet.
Experts said the gas not only inflammable and therefore had no value as a fuel.
The "strike" was made when airport officials sought a water supply.

Doctor Says Care Should Be Taken After An Illness

AUSTIN.—Speaking of the precautions that should be taken in households, during and at the close of an illness from any of the "catching" diseases, which are prevalent at all seasons, Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, said recently: "Any plan for the prevention or control of this sort, depends upon the intelligent co-operation of individuals and communities with the medical profession and the health authorities for its success."
"Those who are in charge of persons suffering from influenza, pneumonia, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, measles, infantile paralysis or any other of the diseases spread by discharges from the nose or throat, are warned that these discharges are sources of great danger, and are urged to have the patient use paper handkerchiefs or soft cheesecloth, that can be disinfected or burned or otherwise safely disposed of."
"The sterilization of dishes and utensils used in the sick room, by boiling after each use of them, and of the patient's clothing, sheets, towels, and pillow cases, are equally necessary. Then, at the close of the illness, a thorough cleaning of the room, bedding and personal belongings of the patient, scrubbing the floors and woodwork, and opening the place to the fresh air and sunlight, are urged as a final precautionary measure."
"Fortunately, the best disinfectants yet discovered are within the reach of everybody. They are plenty of hot water and soap, fresh air and sunshine."
MAYOR TO RUN AGAIN
CLEVELAND, O.—Though the next mayoralty primary is 12 months away, Mayor Harry L. Davis, Republican, has announced he will seek another term. Davis, thrice mayor before his present term, served one term as governor of Ohio also. His previous terms were nearly a decade ago, his present one representing a political comeback.

THIS CHANGE Helps Children

Intestinal irritation in many growing girls and boys can be traced to one mistake. Are you making this mistake with your children? The "liquid test" will tell.

"What is this 'liquid test' they talk about?" ask mothers. Just this: a simple way of finding out if any boy or girl with irregular or insufficient bowel movements is in need of relief, or is getting the wrong treatment.
Doctors urge a liquid laxative for children. The child who has been convalescing in a hospital will often come out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch. Hospitals give children a liquid laxative of suitable ingredients, suitable strength, and in suitable amount.
The Proper Treatment
Give that sluggish child a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not upset them.
Just give any headachy, bilious child a little of this gentle laxative when constipated, and a little less if dose is repeated until the bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.
How to Begin
Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.
It is not wise to give laxatives of adult strength to a child, just because you give them less frequently or in less amounts.
So, get a bottle of California Syrup of Figs from your druggist, and start tonight, if your child is constipated, giving a good, cleansing dose. Repeat if necessary, giving a little less each time. That's the secret of this treatment—gradually reduced dosage.
When you change to California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you'll risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer and more satisfactory result, too.

Whether good or bad we're not going to say, that's the job for the majority and they have spoken. We're with the majority and will try anything once. If it fails then it can be changed. Florida hopped up and did it up brown as far as constitutional amendments were concerned. That sounds like a portion of the Utopia. If

WERE IT NOT FOR THE POWER OF BIRDS TO MIGRATE, OUR TEMPERATE REGIONS WOULD BE ALMOST BIRDLESS. SCARCITY OF FOOD IN WINTER WOULD CAUSE STARVATION OF ALL BUT A FEW SPECIES.

IN FEBRUARY, 1899, THERE WAS SLEIGHING FOR THREE DAYS NEAR MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA, AND TWO INCHES OF ICE AT NEW ORLEANS.

GUNPOWDER WAS USED BY THE CHINESE LONG BEFORE THE CHRISTIAN ERA, YET THE CROSSBOW IS STILL A POPULAR WEAPON IN THAT COUNTRY.

THE migration of birds to a southern country is due mostly to the problem of securing food, and not to the cold. Several species of birds survive the cold winters of our temperate climes, but all of these birds are especially well fitted for securing food under trying conditions.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—If you handed out $43,000,000 to somebody, you'd expect him to say "Thank you." The big Tri-Boro bridge project up in New York got that much from PWA. Now Secretary Ickes has received a bill from the Tri-Boro Bridge Authority, of which Robert Moses—Republican gubernatorial candidate—is chairman, for $800 to pay for some signs already erected on the construction work. The signs say "Tri-Boro Bridge Project of New York." They don't say anything at all about PWA, which is no less interested in that sort of advertising than any of the other emergency agencies. It's a fair tip to Bob Moses that he may have to wait a long time before that $800 item is okayed.
