POLICE BADGE RETURNED By United Press

Claiborne Eldridge Asks Your Support

I thank you from the depth of my heart for the 478 lead you gave me in the July primary. I have done my best to see and thank you personally but time would not permit me to see each and every one of you. So I'm using this method of telling you how much I would appreciate your vote and influence Aug. 25.

I came to Eastland county in 1903. I lived 19 years at Gorman and 11 years at Carbon. My education was obtained in the rural schools and Hankins Normal College. I began teaching in 1910. I have been teaching continuously since then with the exception of the time I served my country in the war.

As the larger portion of my life has been spent in the rural schools, I am sure I know rural schools and their needs. It is evident that there are certain needs peculiar to the rural school and that the curriculum should be built around those needs. The same curriculum is not exactly suited to both city and rural schools. This does not mean that there could not exist a fine spirit of fellowship and co-operation between them so that in transferring from one to the other the pupil would fit into his environment with little hindrance to his progress.

We all agree that larger school units are more efficient. But I believe rural schools should be allowed the same freedom of action enjoyed by the larger schools. I believe these centers should be maintained, whenever possible, in the rural schools where the large majority of their boys and girls expect to live. Their education should be adapted to their needs, and their community spirit should be built up and kept intact in order to have a happy and prosperous people. In doing this you are helping to improve business conditions in general.

My qualifications are not limited, as one would have you believe. It would be unfair to say that I am better qualified than my opponent. I assure you that I am as well qualified both in experience and college work. That experience is both rural and in the larger schools. I have taught in Gorman and Eastland schools.

The office of county superintendent is primarily a rural job and should be filled by one who is in sympathy with and who has vision for a great system of rural schools. If I am elected your superintendent it shall be my aim to carry out these policies to the best of my ability. At the same time I want to give assurance that my office will at all times be at the services of the larger schools in helping in whatever way possible to solve their many problems.

It seems from the July returns the rural people want me, as I carried the rural boxes by a substantial majority over both of my opponents.

I have never before asked for any public office. So let's try a rural school man just once, and I assure you that no one will appreciate it more than I.

Sincerely yours, CLAIBORNE ELDRIDGE. (Political advertisement)

HOSEA PREACHES GOD'S LOVE

Hos. 11:1-4; 8, 9; 14:4-9

Golden Text: For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life.—John 3:16.

Hosea is pictured as the prophet of divine love, living in his native land, the northern kingdom, and beginning to prophesy in the year B. C. 792. The key word of his book is "Return."

He had a very unhappy and disastrous marriage to a young woman by the name of Gomer.

He probably procured his wife by purchase as was the custom of that day. No doubt but that she was a beautiful young woman but Hosea had not measured the extent or the influence of the degrading, licentious practices of a heathen religion. She soon abandoned her home and sank so deep in degradation that she was placed upon the block in the slave market. Hosea could not forget his love for her and purchased her and brought her home.

Hosea did not let this experience embitter his life but let it widen his vision, seeing in his increasing love for his erring wife, the increasing love of God for his erring people.

He pled with his people, all Israel, to leave their idolatry, social sins, rotten political life, and return to God who had loved and protected them through the ages and who would pardon and cleanse them.

The key text of his book is: "Come, let us return to the Lord, for he hath torn, and he will heal us; he hath smitten, and he will bind us up."

Hosea's experience with his unhappy wife opened his heart to the blinding beauty of this revelation from God. He expressed in beautiful words of praise to God, "Let us know, let us follow on to know Jehovah: his going forth is sure as the morning; and he will come to us as the rain, as the latter rain that watereth the earth."

He pictured God's love to them, "when Israel was a child," how he loved and led them in the days of Egyptian captivity, the wilderness wanderings, and the settlement in Canaan; setting food before them, holding them in his arms and drawing them with cords of love. Also how holy and compassionate was God who would not wholly destroy them but greatly chastise them in their going astray.

How beautiful are the words in the picture of healing, "I will heal their backsliding; I will love them freely; I will be as the dew to Israel," are some of the words that open paths of beauty in the hearts of men down through the ages.

Backsliding, unhappy, comfortless people of today may return, be healed and claim God's promises he made at that time.

"They that dwell under his shadow shall return; they shall revive as the grain, and blossom as the vine of Lebanon."

Could greater comfort enter the heart of man than to know that God, all powerful to keep and to save, loves, watches over and cares for him?

How useless is the unhappy state of man out of God's protecting care. God is love. He so loved that he gave his most precious possession. His only Son. He draws the heart of man of today with cords of love that is often trampled under foot. God does not force his love upon any but stands anxious to receive, pardon and cleanse any who will call upon him and will lead them into a beautiful life of service.

"Who is wise, that he may understand these things?; prudent that he may know them?; for the ways of Jehovah are right, and the just shall walk in them; but transgressors shall fall therein."

HARNESSING RIVERS OF TEXAS "ON THE WAY"

Former State Sen. Alvin J. Wirtz presented a compact word picture "of the potentialities of Buchanan dam on the Colorado river above Burnet, and its far-reaching effects on the future industrial and economic life of Texas."

Following a round table discussion of the possible effects the major project is to have on the usefulness of Austin dam, Senator Wirtz appealed for subordination of any local selfish interest to the bigger interest of all the people whose lives and welfare will be touched by it.

Level-headed as well as common sense advice to all concerned as for the Waco meeting to reclaim the Brazos river as well as to do the harnessing act and provide for the control of flood waters, Congressman J. P. Buchanan gave this advice:

"If Texans want to reclaim the Brazos river, they will do something more than just ask the federal government for a loan of $55,000,000 which will be required to handle the project."

That challenge went home. It did not pass over the heads of the champions of the Brazos river flood control project. The Waco News-Tribune tells of the conclusion:

"Following the challenge of Cong. James P. Buchanan to show some concrete proof that Texas is interested, the Brazos river conservation and reclamation board took the first definite steps toward securing a $55,000,000 loan from the federal government to finance a program for controlling the headwaters of the Brazos."

This was the decisive action taken: "The board unanimously passed a resolution to introduce a bill at the forthcoming session of the Texas legislature (called to meet in special session Aug. 27) which would convert certain funds from the state ad valorem taxes of the district to reclamation. This bill, it was believed by Buchanan, who heads the house appropriation committee, and members of the board, would show the state aid in the project and its willingness. A legislative committee was appointed by President Lewis Mims of Houston to work with him to get the bill introduced at the special session. As early action upon the plan as possible was deemed an all important point toward securing the recognition asked of the federal government."

Never overlook the Buchanan slogan: "If Texans want to reclaim the Brazos river, they will have to do something more than just ask the federal government for a loan of $55,000,000 which will be required to handle the project." Here at home never overlook the advice of Wirtz: "Let's don't spoil the picture by painting into it too many local details. The main thing now is to complete the Buchanan dam," which will be approximately two miles long, 140 feet high at the river section, will draw its water supply from a drainage area comprising approximately 40,000 square miles covering the Edwards plateau region of West Texas, forming a lake which will cover approximately 20,000 to 25,000 acres, and "will be the 11th largest artificial lake in the world."

It is said that builders live forever. Then on with the building program and complete the huge project job at a date as early as possible. "Quick action" should be the demand of all builders everywhere in the southwest.

COTTON CARRYOVER SAID TO BE 10,000,000 BALES

Now an important adviser of one of the recovery set-ups reminds the country that the drouth does not end the farmers' surplus problem. And why? "We still have a cotton carryover of 10,000,000 bales when we need only 5,000,000. We still have stocks of tobacco of certain types three times normal. The wheat carryover may be down close to normal, and the record number of cattle may be brought down by the emergency slaughter program close to normal."

Well, think of Egypt. A locust plague threatens to destroy all the crops in that ancient country. Regardless of the pessimists and the croakers the old world will jog along as it has jogged for millions of years and the people now on earth will march on as countless billions have marched in all the dead ages. Life is not a comic opera joke or play. It is a battle from the cradle to the grave. The weak and the spineless fall by the wayside. The courageous, the men and women with steel backbones, face all the crises of life and carry on from the cradle to the grave.

People should realize that through the development and success of their home towns is to be found the realization of their individual desires.

Huey Long Is Cleaning Up New Orleans

BEACH CLUB GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY SYLVIA RIVERS rates the younger set of Eastland. Football player BOOTS RAEBURN whose family has little money...

OF course it was madness, Boots told herself as she slipped out of the half-wet bathing suit and nervously began to dress. Why, it was just a game they were playing...

"Here, let me hang that up," she said at random, taking a brown crepe frock from her mother's fingers. She fairly flew at the rest of the unpacking and Mrs. Raeburn, who had been telling herself that the child was strange and silent...

"You'd like that, wouldn't you?" INWARDLY Boots shivered. The thought of Aunt Nedda's cold, door brownstone house near the Boston Common made her shiver. And where would Russ be in autumn? Making love to some beautiful Spanish senorita in an embroiderer's shop? She could see herself, going to the library to change books for Aunt Nedda, going to symphony concerts, with pale, drab, decorous people all about them.

"I think I'll have a job by fall," she said vaguely. "A job, darling!" Her mother smiled indulgently. "What could you do?" "Well, Mary Ollivant is helping out in a dress shop in New Martin and she loves it. And some of the other girls—Helen and Louise and Sue—are going to take a business course."

"But, my dear," began her mother in the tone the strain Boots so dreaded, "after all they are newcomers here. They have no traditions to uphold. Why your grand father built the first Manor house the one with the cupola, that the have you in a shop, dear. Daddy and I would never agree to that. Boots sat down on the bed, her eyes glittering her color high. "But I've simply got to do something," she said feverishly. "I can't hang around here all my life, taking an allowance from Daddy knowing that every new pair of shoes I get is practically a family tragedy..."

OAK GROVE

We had some fine singing Sunday afternoon and we certainly appreciate the visitors from Kokomo, Gorman and Alameda. Everyone is invited to come back every third Sunday afternoon and first Sunday night.

Still hot and dry, with the temperature ranging above 100 each afternoon. Cotton is opening prematurely on account of the dry hot weather.

Some of our farmers are thinking of digging peanuts soon to save the hay. A few good rains would make more hay for the farmers now than what we have already grown.

Mrs. M. E. Haslitt is home again after a two weeks visit with friends in Carbon.

C. P. Hastings and family visited in Cisco last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bryant and family spent Saturday night and Sunday in Comanche visiting with relatives.

Marvin D. Hall, who has spent the summer with his brother, W. M. Hall of Sanford, Texas, returned home again and says that crops look better here than they do at Sanford.

Some people are wondering why this drouth is sent to us and some are blaming the government for it and others say "it will rain when it gets ready," but if we will turn to seventh chapter of II Chronicles and read the thirteenth and fourteenth verses perhaps we can find a better solution to the problem than any of the above. Now don't be afraid to read. May the Lord send rain on everyone that reads these verses next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson of Cisco were Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Hall.

Political Announcements

This paper is authorized to announce the following candidates for office, subject to the Democratic run-off primary election, Aug. 25, 1934:

For County School Superintendent: CLAIBORNE ELDRIDGE T. C. WILLIAMS

For County Treasurer: MRS. (FRANCES) THORNTON COOPER JOHN WHITE

For Representative, 106th District: E. A. RINGOLD GEORGE A. DAVISSON, Jr.

Speaking of giving America back to the Indians, maybe we would give Louisiana back to the French, if they'd agree to take Huey Long with it.

It's unusual to hear about a candidate who loses an election because his feet gave out. Most voters would prefer to have the candidates' tonsils give out.

Wonder if we could get some of that grass which Mr. Hoover said would grow in American streets to use as an old-fashioned book marker in Mr. Hoovers' new book?

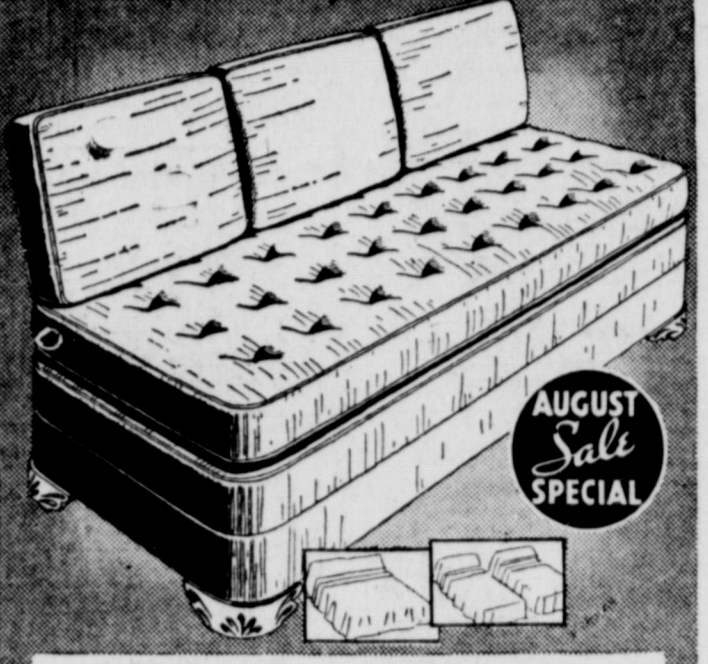

It won't be long now till the frost is on the pumpkin and the sleeves of last year's topcoat prove to be as frayed as we feared they would be.

If it took a tractor and three men to save Byrd, how many tractors and how many men would they need to save Kate Smith?

Government now has mosquitoes working for it in a health campaign. Wonder how Patronage Boss Jim Farley managed to tell which of them were democrat mosquitoes.

Enjoyed Camping

A jolly little group of boys had a royal time, fishing, boating and swimming at Lake Cisco, where they went into camp at noon Tuesday, and returned to Eastland, late Wednesday evening. Their bacon, eggs and fish was cooked over an open fire on the bank, by boys taking turn as chefs, who declared they had a glorious time.

The group included Horace Horton, host; Raymond Lovett, Bobby Dwyer and Randolph Railey.

VARIED ROLES LIFT BAXTER TO STARDOM

Some actors have to have hand-picked stories—but not Warner Baxter. Throughout his colorful career, Baxter has never avoided a role through belief that it might not suit him or his talents exactly. In a large degree, of course, this is due to the fact that Baxter is one of the most versatile film stars of all time.

From dashing buckaroo to artist to theatrical producer, he has played nearly every type of role. And not one of them but has increased his popularity. As a reward for his success, he has been lifted to stardom.

In his latest vehicle, "Such Women Are Dangerous," coming to the Lyric theatre on Sunday, Baxter appears as a sophisticated, romantic author. The play calls for both light, fanciful moods and intensely dramatic moments—and he again proves his ability to enact any given thing.

A partial list of Baxter's successes under the Fox Film banner proves the point:

"In Old Arizona"—a desperado character, with a humorous, lovable side. He spoke broken English to perfection.

"6 Hours to Live"—a dominating politician.

"Daddy Long Legs"—a philanthropist and social worker.

"Cisco Kid"—another romantic bandit.

"Thru Different Eyes"—a painter.

"Stand Up and Cheer"—An emotional, high-strung Broadway producer.

Playing opposite Baxter in "Such Women Are Dangerous" are three lovely feminine stars, Rosemary Ames, Rochelle Hudson and Mona Barrie. Others in the cast are Herbert Mundin, Henrietta Crossman, Irving Pichel, Matt Moore, Richard Carle and Bodil Rosing.

FOUR MILLS BROTHERS SING FAMOUS SONG FOR RADIO ROMANCE

The Mills Brothers sang to a distinguished audience on a First National sound stage, during the production of "Twenty Million Sweethearts," the radio romance which comes to the Lyric theatre on Monday with Pat O'Brien, Dick Powell and Ginger Rogers in the featured roles.

While the quartette's famous number, "Oh, I Heard; Yes, I Heard," was recorded by the camera, listeners gathered from all around the First National lot. Other members of the cast, although not on call, were present including Grant Mitchell, Allen Jenkins, Joseph Cawthorne, Joan Wheeler and Henry O'Neill, as well as many other famous actors of the First studios who had heard the Mills Brothers were going to sing for the picture.

The four boys, with their guitar, sing and play for the green in their inimitable way. Close-ups show how the almost unbelievable orchestra music is produced by simply blowing through cupped hands.

The Mills Brothers furnish one of the thrilling numbers in this comedy romance that is filled with specialties. The picture is based on the story by Paul Pender Moss and Jerry Wald which was adapted to the screen by Warren Duff and Harry Sauber. Ray English directed the picture.

The catchy airs sung by Powell and Miss Rogers are by that ace song writing team of Warren and Dubin.

TYLER, Tex.—Fireman Henry Ginn, an honorable man, told it, as it must be true. In 1922 the department bought a new truck. Whereupon the company's last surviving fire horse, long superannuated, died of jealousy.

CITY NEARER STATE LINE

LA JUNTA, Col.—La Junta now is 15 miles nearer the Colorado-Kansas state line than it used to be, although neither has moved. Straightening of a highway eastward from La Junta shortened the distance.

TO THE CITIZENS OF EASTLAND

Eastland has a candidate for the Legislature. It is or should be a source of residents of this City to have a representative at Austin.

G. A. Davisson, Jr., is a young man, twenty-six years of age. His opponent as a reason why he should not be elected. Neither candidate has had any former experience as a legislator. G. A. Davisson, Jr., has especially prepared himself by a course of study in government and legislative duties.

Napoleon at the age of twenty-four was placed at the head of the French army and the strong English fleet, when other Generals had failed. Castlereagh was but four years older than G. A. Davisson, Jr., and Dan Moody was young when he was elected to the same office. History reveals that the greatest achievements have been achieved by young men.

It is not so much the age as it is the ability to serve the people well, and the prepared to do.

He is energetic, clean, honest, an able debater, has a quick intellect, ambitious and friendly personality. There is nothing that can be truthfully said against him.

All petty objections, if any there be, should be put aside and Eastland should make a united and active effort to secure a unanimous vote at Eastland for G. A. Davisson, Jr., when it means so much to him and probably will result in a future course in life.
