Tears and Laughter
In World of News

If you have tears to spare, shed a few for the Long Island gentleman who got religion at a street corner revival meeting and, as a result, went straight to jail.

Moved by the spirit, this man addressed the crowd and told how he had, in his unregenerate past, stolen two valuable bronze candlesticks from a church in Brooklyn. It was just his hard luck that a detective who was working on that case happened to be in the crowd. Now the repentant convert is in jail on a charge of burglary.

By such odd little twists does the news of the day move. We find, for instance, in White Plains, N. Y., a man remarrying his divorced wife because she is the only bride partner he ever had who could be counted on not to trump his aces. The discovery came less than six months after their divorce.

Then there is the Arizona cattleman who says he had been wanting to "sock a governor" for 20 years, and who finally relieved his feelings by stepping up and hitting Gov. B. R. Moer in the eye—getting, in return, a split lip from the governor's counter blow, and a night in jail.

A French aviator, meanwhile, returns from Russia with the news that the Russians are finishing new fighting planes at the rate of one every two days, and Russia's effort to pay off old debts in the United States by incurring new ones falls flat.

Two English airmen finally finish their part of the England-to-Melbourne race four months late, but console themselves with the thought that they knocked four months off their own previous record for the flight, anyway.

A Philadelphia widow sues a motion picture operator for $10,000 for breaking her heart, and the jury agrees that something ought to be done about it, but marks the damages down to one dollar.

A policeman who was dropped from the force at Columbus, O., on charges of gambling announces his candidacy for mayor, and an English milkman is inspired by the maternal clatter of his bottles and pots to become a high-brow musical composer.

A world's record for fertility in pigdom is set in an English farmyard, where 25 little pigs are born all in one fell swoop. Simultaneously, a relief official in Dallas reports that 64 per cent of all the babies born in Dallas last year were born to parents who were on relief.

And then—just to cap the climax of news oddities—a beaver sneaks into the house of an up-state New York hermit and gnaws off the man's wooden leg!

Eastland Cleanup Day Announced
By Civic League

Mrs. W. P. Leslie, general chairman of the Civic League committee engaged with other city organizations in the cleanup campaign for Eastland, announces that the activities are to commence March 4th, Monday.

The league committee that met at the home of Mrs. Leslie to perfect plans. Messrs. James Horton, W. A. Martin, Eugene Day, E. E. Layton, Milburn McCarty, Curtis A. Hertig, and W. P. Leslie, divided the city into districts with a captain for each.

All organizations are to work in this movement. Mrs. Ray Garner was appointed captain Hillcrest addition; Mrs. W. A. Martin, captain southwest district; Mrs. McCarty captain southeast district; Mrs. Hertig, captain, colored people and Mexico town; Mrs. Horton, chairman Eastland county beautification, and co-chairman, Mmes. Dixie Williamson and W. P. Leslie. These will take care of highways through Eastland and also work with the committee as a whole.

The city will furnish trucks and men to take up trash, and residents are urged to clean their own premises, and have stacks of trash in readiness for trucks to collect, the second week in March.

These chairmen and committees start Monday, Feb. 25, on house-to-house campaign with information of cleanup, and will also list vacant lots, learn of owners, and urge that these lots be cleaned.

Broken down cars are to be removed. The big triangle at Main and Commerce, formed by converging of two highways and owned by city, will be beautified.

Guy Quinn will put in an artistic bed of cactus, and the city defray expense of balance of parking, under co-operation of cleanup committee.

A plot for this parking has been made by Mr. Shirrifs. Committees working under each chairman will be announced soon.

SILKEN SPINDLES
By Laura Lu Brooker © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. He and her 19-year-old brother, Phil, support their invalid father.

Steve Meyers, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days. Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he can learn her name.

Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.

Cal and Steve quarrel, later make up. Vicky tells Brian she wants to get acquainted with the mill workers, on the pretense of helping them. He is pleased, agrees to take her to see Gale. Next evening they call.

Alone with Gale, Vicky tells her that she, Vicky, and Brian are engaged to be married.

Brian comes back after Vicky has gone, but Gale refuses to talk to him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII

The amazing fact that Gale was that everything went on next day, just as it had. The sun shone brightly. Birds were singing as she walked to work—sharp, shrill notes that were a mockery. Two girls, standing beside Gale in the cloak room, laughed and joked as they hung away their coats and hats.

It was all just as it had been the day before.

And yet, how could it be? How could there be laughter and gaiety in the world? How could anything be the same when for Gale there was only blankness and emptiness everywhere? Standing before the pounding machines, staring at the blur of moving hands and jerking bobbins, Gale saw Vicky Thatcher again, drawing her beautiful fur coat around her. She heard Vicky, saying in low-pitched even tones, "It's supposed to be a secret but . . . Brian and I are going to be married. In June sometime. I think June weddings are the nicest, don't you?"

Yes, it was true—not a nightmare, not a hideous, fantastic creation of imagination that could be brushed aside and forgotten. Vicky had sat in the Hendersons' shabby living room and said those words. She and Brian were going to be married.

Something thick clutched about Gale's heart, making her cold all over. She thought, "It's going to be like this from now on. It will always be like this—"

Once during that terrible, endless night Gale had pressed her hands together and buried her face in the pillow, sobbing in a muffled smothered voice, "I can't go on! I can't!"

But she knew that she could. People die, somehow. People all over the world who were suffering and broken-hearted for whom brief visions of happiness had suddenly shattered, managed to piece together their broken lives once more.

Gale thought, "It's better to know it now. I ought to be glad it happened this way."

She should have been, and yet she thought failed to comfort her. She had rehearsed the same arguments the night before. Lying, wide-eyed, in the darkness, she had pictured the scene with Vicky.

"The child shook his head. 'It's that man I want to see,' he repeated. From the rear of the O'Connors' house a shrill voice called, 'Tommy! Oh, Tommy!'"

"That's your mother," Gale said. "You mustn't keep her waiting."

The shrill cry was repeated. Tommy looked up at Gale sorrowfully. "All right," he said. "I'll go, but I'm comin' back! I want to see that man—"

It was Brian whom Tommy wanted to see—Brian with his tricks to amuse youngsters; his gay, flattering speeches that were tricks, too.

She opened the door and called a greeting to her father, then went into the kitchen and methodically began preparing the evening meal.

After they had finished eating, after the dishes had been washed and put away Josie Gridley came. Josie brought the brown dress Gale had promised to help make over. It was wrapped in a newspaper with a strip of plaid silk and a picture from a fashion magazine.

"Look," Josie said, holding the strip of plaid up to her face. "Don't you think it's kind of pretty?"

"Very pretty," Gale nodded. She had forgotten that she had promised to help Josie. She had looked at the fashion picture, "Oh, yes—this is the one we decided on, isn't it?"

She got out newspapers and cut a collar pattern, fitting it about Josie's shoulders. She pinned the paper collar into place and Jose considered herself in the mirror and seemed pleased.

She said, "Gee, Gale, it must be swell to be able to sew like you can. I tried to make a dress once and you should have seen it! Was I a sight?"

Gale was cutting the silk, carefully to keep the edges even. "It just takes practice," she said. "It isn't hard after you've had a little practice."

Maybe that was the way with other things," she thought. Maybe after telling yourself often enough that you didn't care about a person, that you despised them, it would really be true. She hoped it was like that, hoped it with all her heart!

She drew her needle in and out of the silk, taking minute, invisible stitches. She had the binding on one half of the collar when Josie cut in sharply:

"Gale, look—you've got it on the wrong side!"

"Oh, I have, haven't I? I'll have to rip it—"

Josie eyed the other girl shrewdly. She thought for an instant that there were tears in Gale's eyes, but that was ridiculous. Putting the binding of a collar on the wrong way couldn't make anyone cry.

An hour later, Josie rose to leave, the finished dress over her arm. She said, "Gee, Gale, you were swell to do this for me. It's like a new dress—"

"I'm glad I could do it," Gale told her. She really meant it. Sewing for Josie had filled the evening. She said, "Good night, Josie. See you tomorrow!"

And thus the day ended. Tomorrow, Gale told herself as she undressed and got into her plain little white gown, would be easier. Gradually the days would grow easier and she would learn to forget that she had been a silly, ridiculous little fool. She would even, some day, be able to think of Brian Westmore without that sharp, stabbing pain. Maybe she would be able to take the incident as lightly as he had—

But she couldn't do that now. She found out the following evening, coming home from the mill, just how far she was from thinking rationally, impassionately about the whole affair. She had left Josie a block behind. Turning a corner, Gale's heart suddenly ceased beating. There, ahead of her, was Brian.

"OUT OUR WAY" ————— By Williams

PRaise GIVEN
LEGISLATORS
FROM DISTRICT

Praise for Legislators George Davison, Jr., and Cecil Lotief was sounded Saturday by C. W. Hoffman of Eastland, former president of the West Texas Gas & Oil association and director now, who has recently returned from a visit to Austin.

Visitors from Eastland county to Austin have found out Lotief and Davison are opposed to any further increase on the gross production tax, Mr. Hoffman said.

"Eastland county people who have visited at Austin since the legislature has been in session returned home praising the work done by our legislators Cecil Lotief and George Davison, Jr., from Eastland county," Mr. Hoffman commented.

"Both men are working long hours each day in order to keep up with the affairs of our state which so vitally affects their own constituents, as well as continually keeping in mind the well-being of the entire state."

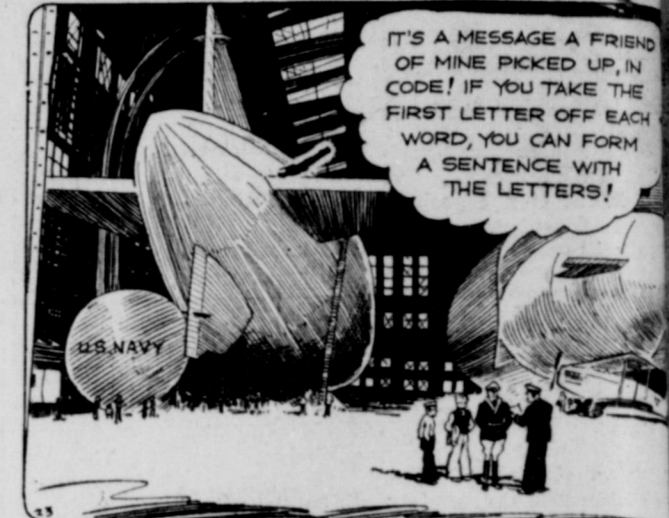

"Mr. Lotief, who so ably filled his first term of office and was re-elected for his second term by a large majority is a member of some of the most important committees that we have in the State of Texas. He is a member of the revenue and taxation committee, a member of the oil and gas committee, which industry pays better than 65 per cent of all the revenue received by the State of Texas, and on numerous other committees.

"Visitors from Eastland county were also very well pleased to know that Mr. Lotief and Mr. Davison are very much opposed to any further increase on the gross production tax which was considered by the revenue and taxation committee last Thursday night. Mr. Lotief making an argument before the entire committee that any increase in the way of gross production tax levied upon the oil industry would mean an additional tax burden on the small independent producer and royalty owners of his two counties Eastland and Callahan which are struggling under an already overtaxed condition."

"Figures showing the gross production tax and ad valorem taxes at the present time makes each independent producer in his county pay in these taxes over 6 per cent of their gross sales which is not equaled by any business or industry in the State of Texas. Any further increase would only tend to exterminate the little producer and be hard on the laboring class of people which both Mr. Lotief and Mr. Davison are trying so hard to protect. It would also stagnate business houses who are already operating under unfavorable conditions. Mr. Lotief also has introduced a number of bills in the house in which he is working. One of the bills was recently passed by the House with a three-fourths majority and now goes to the Senate for its approval."

"George Davison, Jr., who is working equally hard is also on a number of important committees and has a number of bills which he has personally introduced. Among them is a bill to reduce the license on automobiles which has been reported favorably to the House by the committee. This bill will effect more people than any other one piece of legislation which is now in effect in the state. He also has a bill on which he is working at the present which will revise our present truck regulations. Besides these he also has numerous other bills to be introduced which will greatly aid the people of this district.

"Visitors cannot help but be impressed with Mr. Davison's work in the legislature considering that he is serving his first term in the House of Representatives. Mr. Davison is working and is getting results which would do credit to a second or third term legislator."

"Eastland and Callahan counties can point with pride to the work being done by their representatives and can rest assured that these gentlemen are working for the best interests of their counties as well as for the entire State of Texas. Both of them are always glad to see anyone from their districts and are desirous of getting the people's wishes on any and all legislation which is being considered at this time or which is to be considered in the future."

"Present from Cisco was Spencer, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

R. V. Galloway, secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, was present with Smith.

H. C. Davis, chamber of Hamilton McKee, chamber and O. E. Harvey, son of J. E. Lewis, represented Eastland.

JOHN D. HARVEY JOINS FATHER ON SALES FORCE OF HARVEY CHEVROLET MOTOR COMPANY

John D. Harvey, Sales Department Harvey Chevrolet Company

O. E. Harvey, Sole Owner Harvey Chevrolet Company

From soup to nuts, means in the literal term, everything one wants brother in our line. In this instance it is from brand new 1935 model Chevrolets, and there are many of them, to fitting nuts on any make of cars. O. E. Harvey, now sole owner of the Harvey Chevrolet company announces the addition to his sales force his son, John D. Harvey.

John D. Harvey was born and reared at DeLeon. For the past four years he has been principal and head coach of the Rankin high school at Rankin, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey and their young daughter are now located on South Connellie street, full fledged citizens of Eastland.

O. E. Harvey came to Eastland four years ago and established the Harvey Chevrolet company. Later Mr. W. H. Holleman, became financially interested in the firm. Last fall Mr. Harvey purchased the interest of Mr. Butler and during the month of January has purchased the interest of Mr. Holleman.

The present lineup of this popular Chevrolet firm, Harvey Chevrolet company, reminds this community of a live and loyal personnel familiar to all. On the sales force there, O. E. Harvey, J. D. Harvey, "Curly" Maynard and Bill Buhl. Dace Myers, who is head bookkeeper, head of parts department, also assists on the sales force. E. M. Anderson is shop foreman, assisted by W. A. Shiffit and O. M. Hunt. Joe Cagle, expert top and body man, is assisted by Harry Watson, Arthur Jordan and A. L. Dunn are bosses of the porter.

In conversation with Mr. Harvey he stated that he was decidedly optimistic of the future outlook. The improvement in the new 1935 Chevrolets are so marked and important that there is no question but that the general public in this community will respond liberally to the appeal of Chevrolet in improved quality for the lowest priced six-cylinder automobile offered to the public. He stated that sales in 1934 were above the average and that this year he expects them to exceed anything in history. He gave many fine points and details of the remarkable performance and general mechanical makeup of the new Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks, which will be decidedly interesting to prospective buyers.

pective buyers. "We are constantly expanding our repair department, body and paint departments," stated Mr. Harvey. Modern and up-to-date machinery of all kinds for repair work are featured in the shop and an important item of general convenience is that when a customer wishes his car completely overhauled it can be done on terms and includes new tires, battery, in fact anything, even a radio, and the price will be made all in one and convenient terms made.

Besides looking after the interests of his business and seeing that all customers are satisfied, Mr. Harvey is a member of Eastland city commission, and has done very effective and constructive work with his fellow commissioners since being in office and above all he is one of Eastland's staunchest supporters for the upbuilding of the town and community and takes a personal interest in the civic organizations and never falls down on any committee work assigned to him. Maintaining a large number of employes with a substantial payroll, the success of his business will come from citizens who appreciate the value of such a man and the institution he heads and its worthwhile asset to the community.

Work Projects of Past Year Gave Many Jobs and Achieved Much

AUSTIN.—Work projects operated by the Texas Relief Commission last year not only brought an opportunity to work for aid received to thousands of men and women, many of whom had despaired of ever working again, but also left improvements of lasting benefit all over Texas, it was declared by Adam R. Johnson, state administrator, as he scanned the engineering department's annual report.

Significance of work relief projects is apparent in the fact that at the close of the year there were 6,229 projects being operated, and during the month of December there were 158,940 certified work relief cases. Moreover, it is estimated 3,000 projects were completed during the year.

Budgetary labor earned $13,000,000 on these projects between April, closing date of CWA, and Dec. 31, it was estimated.

In all of the nine districts into which the state has been divided for the purpose of expediting the program, there are outstanding permanent improvements to communities made possible by relief labor.

In northeast Texas, the work of Relief Commission is illustrated in Shelby county, where a county-wide project has resulted in rebuilding and replacing 83 bridges on lateral and other roads in the county.

In Harrison count the Relief Commission has constructed 20 houses for rural rehabilitation clients near some lignite mines which have continued in operation through the depression. It is planned for these farmers to supplement their farm produce with extra income from work in the mines.

In southeast Texas the Relief Commission has focused its attention on drainage and sanitation, particularly with regard to malaria control and the elimination of stagnant pools. School ground beautification has been emphasized in Newton, Tyler, Walker, Jasper, Fort Bend, and Orange counties.

In Central West Texas, jobs have included construction work on the municipal airport at Abilene and repairs to the Lake Abilene dam; construction of a low dam across the Paluxy river at Glen Rose, Somervell county; street improvements at Weatherford, Mineral Wells, Llano, Hamlin, Hillsboro, Itasca, Dublin, Stephenville, Cisco, Gatesville, Temple, and other cities; courthouse repairs in Coryell, Erath, and Johnson counties; opening of a road from Highway 66 to the famous Longhorn Cavern in Burnet county.

In Northwest Texas, the Relief Commission is providing labor from relief rolls for a paleontological survey in Donley county, and a control dam to divert flood waters from the city of Clarendon has been built.

Childress county is constructing an airport, using 50 men for approximately 60 days on a project which will cost the Commission approximately $6,000.

In Floyd county, 55 relief laborers are rebuilding a school that burned in December. The job will cost $21,000. Hutchinson county has employed 300 men on a paving job. Borger, scene of this activity, also has a new $19,000 swimming pool built as a Texas Relief Commission project.

One of the most helpful projects from the standpoint of county-wide benefit, is improving of lateral roads. In the engineering district embracing the counties in North Texas along the Red River, every precinct in every county has at least one of these projects in progress.

In Wichita county, the Relief Commission has spent several thousand dollars in maintenance work on the Wichita county irrigation system, and anticipates expenditure of approximately $15,000 more.

Work on the Kell Field airport at Wichita Falls included gravelling the runways, leveling off the field, construction of several buildings for offices and hangars and other improvements.

Among other noteworthy construction jobs may be listed a sewer extension project at Palestine, virtually completed at a cost of about $19,000; a municipal golf course in the state park at Bastrop, employing 50 men and estimated to cost $8,170; drainage and flood control at Waxahatchie and Ennis to cost $32,000.

Park projects in which relief labor has participated perhaps are best exemplified in the development at Fort Worth. Here, 15 miles of additional park drives have been built, a botanic garden covering 30 acres and containing a number of small lakes, a rose garden, annual and perennial garden, have been constructed.

Fort Worth's development of school grounds also is worthy of mention. Campuses have been filled, graded, planted to lawns and shrubs; walks, driveways, fences, drinking fountains, other equipment added until rocky play areas and barren surroundings have given way to beautiful lawns and attractive surroundings generally.

Beaumont's worthy projects include the widening of Highland Avenue from 16 to 36 feet from Washington Boulevard to Lemar College, eliminating a dangerous traffic hazard as well as unsightly drainage ditches which at times stood filled with stagnant water.

A Water line extension project gave added water pressure to business industries, better fire protection, and a lower rate of insurance. Similar projects are being or have been carried on in all metropolitan districts of Texas.

Variety of projects undertaken by the Commission is as wide as the skills employed. Painters, carpenters, brickmasons, stonemasons, lathers, plasterers, sheet metal workers, iron and steel workers, steam fitters, plumbers, blacksmiths, form builders, concrete finishers, electricians, garden supervisors, millwrights, furniture makers, and many types of white collar workers, as well as skilled, semiskilled and unskilled labor have been benefited from these projects.

In addition, several thousand men and women equipped themselves to hold down jobs in industries such as canning and mattress making.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Looking toward more home orchards in Runnels county the county agricultural committee appointed an orchard committee to ask each community agricultural association to canvass and list the persons wanting fruit trees and vines. More than 700 trees were ordered.

Mrs. Ora Montgomery, yard improver demonstrator of Collin county, has a rule that no shrub is to be planted in ground that has not been especially prepared for it. If the ground is tight and waxy it has to be loosened up by working in barnyard manure and cotton waste from the gin before this home beautifier will approve risking the life of one of her plants.

Cold weather in Llano county was the signal for more pecan budding work there. On the ranch of F. H. Westerman, farmers, ranchmen and 4-H club boys gathered to take part in the pecan budding demonstration when Glen Patton, R. H. Nelson, and D. D. Steele, farm demonstration agent, "showed 'em how." Westerman plans to increase the number of top worked trees on his ranch gradually until he has the banks of the San Fernando bordered with fine pecans.

Hardy shrubs proved their worth in the recent freeze according to the report of Miss Effie McClane, home demonstration agent, on the yard improvement work being carried on by rural women in Kleberg county. Plants that were acclimated by nature stood the cold as they stand the long dry spells, while tender though beloved shrubs lost out completely. These probably will be replaced by more hardy varieties to insure no future loss, Miss McClane says.

GREENVILLE—As part of her work as farm food supply demonstrator for her home demonstration club, Mrs. J. F. Greenwade of Hunt county planted 42 different varieties of vegetables in her spring garden, 17 varieties in her fall garden, and canned 1,395 pints of 89 different varieties, according to Miss Bonnie Apple, home demonstration agent. In addition, she helped make 150 gallons of syrup for home use, and planted 25 fruit trees and grape vines during the year.

To aid her neighbors, Mrs. Greenwade canned 300 cans of food for them and helped can 100 more, helped make 100 gallons of syrup, and gave one meat canning demonstration.

LUBBOCK—At a total cost of 15 cents spent for thread and snaps and for having three buttons covered, Mrs. S. V. Johnson, Lubbock county wardrobe demonstrator, has an attractive dress made by her foundation pattern, according to Miss Hazel Bratley, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Johnson used four white cotton crash feed-sacks in making the dress, one of which she dyed blue. The collar and the covered buttons were made from this blue material.

PARIS—From a one and one-half acre garden planted to 21 varieties, Mary Preston of the Midway 4-H club in Lamar county, sold $47.50 worth of vegetables, canned $51.96 worth, used $34.35 worth fresh, and stored $7.20 worth, according to Miss Beulah Blackwell, home demonstration agent. Her whole expense consisted of $2.45 worth of seed she bought and 35 cents worth grown at home.

Her family of 13 was supplied with vegetables throughout the year, and she and her mother canned 114 quarts of vegetables in the spring and 162 quarts of tomatoes in the fall. She also made 76 quarts of fruit valued at $11.40.

PORT WORTH—A net profit of $300.64 was made this year on a swine demonstration conducted by Lee Lillard, Tarrant county 4-H club boy, according to M. C. Counts, farm demonstration agent. Lee started with six Hampshire barrows weighing 190 pounds, valued at $12, and later bought six more barrows and two gilts. During the year he exhibited in four stock shows and his show money amounted to $224. His total expenses were $190.83 and his total receipts $491.37, making his profit $300.64. He kept one duroc and one hamshire gilt, selling the others.

PALESTINE—Ten acres of Elberta peach trees planted in 1928 have yielded more than $100 net profit per acre for the past four years for Jack Cely of the Pert community in Anderson county according to Mack McConnell, farm demonstration agent. In 1934 Mr. Cely sold his fruit at the farm and cleared $1,000 on his 10 acres. He follows methods advocated by the Texas extension service in cultivating his orchard. As a result of the demonstration carried on by Mr. Cely, John Tom Davis of Anderson county has planted 20 acres in Elberta trees this year.

HEREFORD—A section of land chiseled last summer to prepare the soil to receive whatever rains might fall and to throw up clods to help prevent the soil from blowing has held enough moisture to keep the wheat growing on the farm of DuBois Walker of Deaf Smith county despite the continued drought, according to Dewey Reed, farm demonstration agent. Other land just across the road which was cultivated in the manner common to wheat growing sections did not hold enough moisture to produce a good stand of wheat, and what came up has been destroyed because of the blowing of the soil.

Mr. Walker used chisels to make furrows from 10 to 18 inches deep and 42 inches apart, breaking the hard soil underneath the finely pulverized top soil. This subsoil was cracked from furrow to furrow thus enabling the soil to hold the moisture.

Bill to Designate Potatoes as Basic Commodity Urged

WASHINGTON—Representatives of potato growers in 22 states, considering with interested members of congress a bill to designate potatoes a basic agricultural commodity, today struck out provisions for the sale of tax-exemption stamps to finance adminin favor of fixing the national and state production allotments on the basis of production and sales records any three of the years from 1927 to 1933, inclusive. A motion was carried that the method of fixing allotments within states be left to the secretary of agriculture.

Continuing the 'Plowing Under' Idea

A motion to reduce the maximum tax on sales in excess of allotments from three quarters of a cent per pound to one half cent was rejected. This tax is the essence of the control plan, which provides neither processing taxes nor benefit payments.

States from which growers voted in favor of the draft of the bill were Alabama, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Representatives of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania voted against the bill. Michigan, New York and Nebraska representatives voted present. Florida and Louisiana went on record as not voting; and Maryland and California as absent.

The purpose of the measure was described as limiting the quantity that producers would sell. Under the terms of the proposed bill quotas that could be tax free will be established. Committees working in cooperation with the secretary of agriculture would break state quotas into allotments to individual producers. The state quotas would be based on the three highest yields per acre of any state selected from the years 1927 to 1933, inclusive. Years selected for yield need not be the same as selected for acreage. The average production figure obtained in this manner would be the base for the allotment program which has as its goal parity price that obtained in the years 1919 to 1929.

B. Drummond Ayres, of Amac, Va., presided at the meeting which was held in Washington, the Department of Agriculture building.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Feb. 24.

The Golden Text is: "Behold the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom, and to depart from evil, understanding." (Job 28: 28)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all. (1 Chronicles 28: 11)

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is Mind, and God is infinite; hence all is Mind. On this statement rests the Science of being, and the Principle of this Science in divine, demonstrating harmony and immortality." (page 492).

Drilling Slow on Watkins

RISING STAR—No developments of any importance have been reported from Watkins No. 1 three miles east of town and being put down by Charles Fox and associates. About 12 feet of hole has been made since resuming drilling some three weeks ago. The gas flow is still running at around 1,000,000 feet, but little or no oil is in evidence. The line is very hard and drilling necessarily slow. As indicated by the log of the Lee well a quarter of a mile west, there should be about 12 more feet of the lime, it is stated.

Tube Set on Turpening

RISING STAR—Tubing is to be set soon in the Turpening well on the Lee Potet place, near the Lone Star gasoline plant and it is conservatively estimated as good for from 50 to 100 barrels, or more when tubing is set and it is ready to be produced.

The well was drilled in several days ago and given a good heavy charge of acid which seems to have gotten splendid results as shown by a swab which has been used for the past few days. The well is said to be on the extreme east edge of the structure and that better production is expected west of the well. Veteran oil men, who have been out to inspect the well feel sure that the area will come in for some nice play as a result of the Potet well.

Make Location for Deep Test

GRAHAM—Location was made for a well on the J. G. Elliott farm and rotary tools will be moved in by the Gay Hammond Oil company of Fort Worth for a 3900-foot lime test. The rig is being moved from the K. M. A. field.

Stovall 16 Producing Fifty Barrels

GRAHAM—According to reports from the E. C. Stovall No. 16, production has settled to approximately 50 barrels after the well had been shot with 130 quarts of nitroglycerin and treated with 3000 gallons of acid.

The well is in the South Bend pool about 11 miles southwest of Graham and was drilled in at 4225 feet recently.

Sudden Rise From Rags To Riches Proves Tragedy for Bowery

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Frank Greges' sudden rise from rags to riches ended in tragedy today. He was taken to Bellevue hospital in a straight jacket, his twisted mind confirmed in its belief that Frank Greges was God, in a startling and fatal drama.

In the dark lobby of a Bowery flop house he screamed for the benefit of beary-eyed Bowery bums.

To Michael Gueywaes, 40, he said: "I am God and I am going to kill you. I can kill anyone who looks at me."

Gueywaes was amused, stepped from the crowd and looked him full in the face. That very instant he fell dead.

Feb. 5, Greges, 67, was a Bowery bum of the hopelessly carried a sandwich into the Wall Street district one day, which barely sufficed him alive. One day he carried a $45,000 life insurance policy, and turned it in.

From that moment on he lived in a dream world. Money poured in upon him, for the sound of his name on the radio.

A decided change came in his life. He became a millionaire of affairs with a decision on all subjects.

Five policemen were put him into a straight jacket and he was taken to the hospital.

MAKEUP EXPERT TO 24

The allure of Joan Crawford... the glamour of Joan Harlow... the wistful charm of Norma Shearer!

Women the world over have admired... perhaps sometimes envied... these fundamental characteristics which made possible the rise to screen fame achieved by these famous Metro-Goldwyn Mayer stars.

And yet... the illusions of allurements, and glamour, and charm radiated by these stars are accountable in a marked measure to the proper and efficient application of a correct make-up ensemble.

That is the opinion of Marcin Lapine, motion picture make-up expert, who as a Max Factor artist, has had years of experience in making up many of the famed beauties at the mammoth Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Culver City, Calif.

THE POET'S CORNER

GOD'S GARDEN

I like to think of heaven,
As a garden fair,
And all the souls, as flowers
Blooming there.

I picture God as owner
Of this garden fair,
And Jesus as the gardener,
Who tends each flower with care.

The Holy Spirit, here on earth,
Prepares each plant and vine
For that day of days,
Transplanting time.

There are flowers large and small
An flowers of every hue,
They bloom with a radiance
No other garden ever knew.

As I walk in that garden,
By my Saviour's side,
I know, a certain small, sweet flower
Is my little babe, who died.
—By a Mother.
