LEADERS SEEK TO KILL VETO

WASHINGTON, May 20. Leaders of the Patman forces argued vainly with President Roosevelt today to change his mind and approve the $2,200,000,-000 inflationary bill.

Their visit to the white house was futile and the bonus supporters knew it. The president, refreshed by a week-end cruise, already has his message almost comoleted. He was determined to go efore congress Wednesday.

Efforts of the American Legion "turn on the heat" on 12 key members of the senate in an effort win votes to override the veto, apparently were not producing results. Legion efforts were concentrated on a small group said to hold the balance of power. A special fire of telegrams was aimed at the 12 senators. World Lauds Woman, But Scouts Her Ideas

The world does not often go out of its way to acclaim the person who has devoted his life to working for others. It is the go-getter who gets the cheers and the fame, the man who keeps his eye peeled for the main chance who gathers in the laurels-most of the time.

But once in a while it works the other way; and when it does we discover that the race always reserves a special kind of admiration for the person who manages to live a life of pure, selfless usefulness.

They set up a flag-decked pavilion in Washington the other day and arranged for an around-the-world broadcast to do honor to just a person. The ambassadors of England, France, Russia, and Japan were there; words of tribute came over the air from the great capitals of the world; and the central figure was a gray-haired woman of 75, who used the occasion to speak once more the thought that has guide dher life-the simple idea that justice, understanding, intelligence, and plain moral unrightness can get the world through difficulties that look insoluble.

This woman was Chicago's Jane Addams, of Hull House.

The occasion was an international peace broadcast; and it may seem a bit strange to find such a movement joined by powers that are feverishly building up their armies, navies, and air fleets. Nevertheless, join it they did; and Miss Addams gave them this message:

"We believe that we are not obliged to choose between violence and passive acceptance of unjust conditions; on the contrary, that courage, determination, moral energy, active good will can achieve their ends without violence."

This is a strange and welcome slogan for a world relying more and more on instruments of brute force. It would sound too good to be true, except for the fact that people like Miss Addams have had the courage to build their careers about it and to show that it can work.

Miss Addams has lived in Chicago, where there is an most infinite number of "unjust conditions" to contemplete; and she has neither passively accepted them nor opposed them with unthinking violence.

On the contrary, she has gone quietly ahead, for many years, to see what "courage, determination, moral energy, and active good will" can do to help matters, and her work has meant the difference between a good life and black despair to heaven only knows how many obscure people.

. She has made that program work in the Chicago slums; she sees no reason why it could not work in world affairs

The great nations of the earth have paid her their tribute. Is it too much to hope that some day they will pay the greater tribute of adopting some of her ideas?

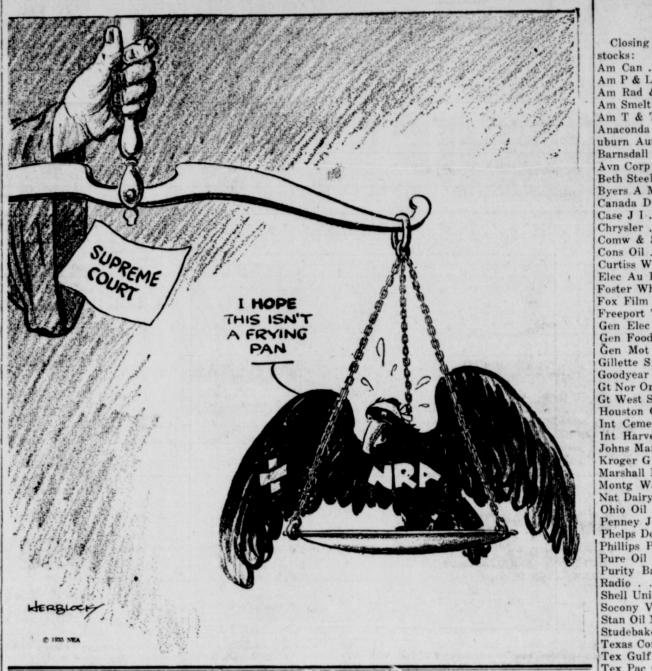

Texas for Highway Use Should Be Applied for Highway Purposes'

Why should the users of the Texas highways be compelled to carry an enormous lead out of all proportion to taxpayers who do not patronize the highways or assist in the forward march of the commonwealth? Why should lawmakers stand for diversion of highway user taxes and why not provide for "discontinuance of any diversion that has been made?" Henry I. Harriman is a past president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. For years the U. S. C. C. membership has repeated declarations in support of the principle that highway users," in addition to being fully subject to all other taxes should special taxes pay the cost of improving and maintaining the highways of general motor use AND THAT THE PROCEEDS OF SUCH SPECIAL TAXES SHOULD BE SUPPLIED EXCLUSIVE-LY FOR HIGHWAYS."

First, they have further declared that the gasoline tax, which is the chief special tax, should be kept down to a point not encouraging large scale evasion. They have reminded the motorists of America that the principle of nondiversion of special highway user taxes was recognized by congress in 1934 in the Hayden-Cartwright act, whereby any state will be dtnied a third of its federal aid fund for highway if by diversion of user taxes it reduces its contribution to the federal aid system. This act of the federal congress should be enforced to the limit. It will assist in stopping further diversion if there is a clear understanding "of the serious effect which this law will have upon future federal contributions to the highway revenues of any state making such diversions."

Again, why should the state break with the highway user? He has accepted his responsibility for the major part of the highway bill. Why should the tax money paid he put to other use? Second, diversion creates resistance to proper and needed highway user taxes. Third, the highway program suffers unless the deficiency is made up from general taxes. Fourth, and lastly, "if, as it already the case if some states, the user taxes are so high as to make evasion profitable to unscrupulous persons, bootlegging of asoline occurs on a large scale and the taxe revenue suf-There are more than 1,000,000 motor cars owned by Texans.
