KIDNAPERS' HIDEOUT IS FOUND IN SPOKANE

that reminds me...

Tuesday, June 11 promises some real entertainment for those who buy tickets for the special showing at the Lyric of "Red Hot Tires," featuring Lyle Talbot and Mary Astor and special comedy, "Our Gang Comedy." This program is sponsored by the senior department of Methodist Sunday school, Johnny Burke, who always cooperates with any worthy cause extended the courtesy of giving the sponsors a commission of the proceeds. Get your tickets now and be sure and attend this unusual motion picture program Tuesday.

The harvesting machinery is in motion throughout the section cutting the grain crops. A few days of sunshine and the whole works will be stored in the grain bins of the farmers. Peaches and plums are finding their way into the markets in greater profusion with ready buyers at a fairly good price. Things look good and we don't mean maybe. Wouldn't it be grand and glorious to have a real bumper year. Possibly there will be added to the present good outlook a siege of oil activity in this community. More wells and bigger payrolls don't hurt nobody.

Merchants report a fairly good business Saturday, and possibly this week will be better than ever. Records have been made this year on several weeks and it is hoped that Eastland will continue to grow and prosper and live up to the slogan, "The best town that cooperation can make."

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The hangout of the Weyerhaeuser kidnapers was located today in Spokane, J. Edgar Hoover revealed. "It is at 1509 West Eleventh street and was identified only about 10 minutes ago." Hoover said after a long-distance telephone call to the west, where his agents are "mopping up" the remnants of the gang which abducted George Weyerhaeuser.

One man and his wife had been arrested in Salt Lake City, while another man is being sought. While Hoover was telling how the cupboard in which the boy was kept, he received a long-distance call from Tacoma.

"Have police guards thrown around the house and don't let anyone go inside," Hoover directed. "We will permit newspapermen to take pictures of the outside of the house only."

Hoover had upon his desk a closely typed statement of some 15 or 20 pages which he said had just arrived by wire from Salt Lake City. He said it was dictated by Harmon Waley and his wife, Margaret, who were arrested Saturday and confessed their part in the kidnaping.

William Mahan, suspect who escaped police in Butte, Mont., Sunday, is the object of a vigorous search by Hoover's agents.

All county commissioners and their judge, Clyde L. Garrett, attended the road meet in Mineral Wells Saturday, where plans were made to ask federal aid in building Texas highways.

Commissioners attending the road meet were H. V. Javenport, Arch Brint, N. C. Crawley and R. O. Jacobs.

"We should have a wonderful system of connected highways throughout the state," Judge Clyde L. Garrett expressed the county's opinion. "I heartily endorse a program," he said.

Resolutions adopted by commissioners and county judges included:

Endorsement of Texas Highway Improvement Program, including request for $100,000,000 federal aid.

To include lateral roads in the highway improvement.

Communication of commissioner or courts of Texas with Texas congressmen at Washington to aid Chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, Harry Hines, in obtaining the federal help.

Ideal Spot Suggested As National Park

Away up in Lake Superior, where the water is blue and cold and the shores are still fringed with gree forests, lies one of the most romantic islands under the American flag—Isle Royale.

Uu to this lonely island, centuries before the first white man came, Indians from bar to the south came in flimsy canoes to mine for copper. Where they came from, how they managed to cross Lake Superior in their frail craft, where they got the metallurgical knowledge that enabled them to dig and use copper—these are questions no one can answer authoritatively.

Some archeologists suspect that these mines were the source of supply for such far-off people as the Toltecs of ancient Mexico and the Mayas of Central America— which gives you a dizzying idea of the scale on which long-range commerce may have been carried on in the days when America was peopled by "savages."

But anyway, Isle Royale lies there, a blue smudge on a blue horizon to the passing freight steamers, covered with virgin timber, inhabited by mose, its icy streams and lakes teeming with fish, a remote and almost untouched bit of wilderness out of 9merica's prehistoric past.

What makes it all worth talking about here is the fact that a movement is now under way to have the entire island set aside as one of Uncle Sam's national parks.

Our great chain of parks already stretches clear cross the country, and its establishment and maintenance represent one of the wisest steps the nation has ever taken.

In it are preserved for the employment of all of us plots of ground of great scenic beauty and strong sentimental charm, where we can go and get ourselves lifted out of the ordinary press of every-day worries and difficulties.

The chain of parks constitutes one of our most precious possessions. It goes without saying that a judicious extension of the chain from time to time is well worth the price; and whenever there is a region like Isle Royale, untouched and lovely and filled with the mystery and romance of ancient tradition, all of us are served when it is added to the chain.

There is another point to consider, also. For obvious reasons, most of the great national parks are in the west. The bulk of the population lies in the east. The Lake Superior region may not be exactly next door to New England and New York, but it is a lot near than the Yellowstone.

The whole park chain should be expanded. It is hard to think of a better place for the expansion to begin than in this remote and glamorous island in the world's greatest lake.

Jack Lamb and Average Catch

Jack Lamb, world renowned expert in the art of casting and who knows bass as does no other man, who will give a casting demonstration here this week. He will also teach novices how to catch fish and will answer all questions from his vast store of information.

Free Fishing Lesson To Be Given Here By a Real Expert

Jack Lamb, Texas' own fisherman who has gained national fame with his rods and reels is coming to Eastland Thursday to conduct a free casting class for the benefit of local novices in the piscatorial art. Everyone in the south who read the papers has heard of Lamb and his uncanny fishing ability. It has been said that he can catch fish out of a dry creek, but Lamb says it can't be done. He does, however, toss in his lures and jerk our members of the finny tribe from many places where the layman would not think a fish could possibly be.

Thousands of fish and planted them all through the state. He stocks every lake and stream he sees that looks like good breeding grounds for bass. If you wake up some morning and see big bass leaping in your barnyard pond, don't be surprised. Jack loads his car with small bass and starts down the road, planting a few seedlings in every pond along the way, regardless of the owner. You can bet he always has plenty of places to fish, too. This noted angler was born in Oklahoma, but came to Fort Worth at the age of 17, and has lived there ever since. He is 40 years old now, but his life in the open has kept him fit as a fiddle, and he can leap over barb-wire fences with the agility of a deer. In 1918 he entered the employ of the Gulf Production company and has spent considerable time in this section in connection with their natural gas properties. It is said that he can create more enthusiasm in fishing than any man in the United States. One thing is certain, whenever he arrives in town, everyone becomes fish-minded, and his bubbling enthusiasm makes everybody's feet itch to get out on the stream. Jack appeared in Shreveport recently, and they estimated that 1,500 cars filled with disciples of Izaak Walton took off

Law's Bell Ends Fun for Pussy

All the fun has gone out of life for Mickey and he yawns disgustedly at these meddling human beings who decreed that every cat in Lake Bluff, Ill., be belled to save bird life in the Chicago suburb. It's tough when the bell warns mice and even tougher to endure Cock Robin's sneers as the tinkle warns the redbreast away.

FAMOUS ATHLETES SAY

A few of the famous athletes who approve of Camel's mildness

BASEBALL: Dizzy Dean; Lou Gehrig; Melvin Ott; Harold Schumacher; Guy Bush.

TENNIS: Ellsworth Vines, Jr.; George M. Lott, Jr.; William T. Tilden, II; Lester R. Stiefen; Bruce Barnes.

GOLF: Gene Sarazen; Craig Wood; Tommy Armour; Willie Macfarlane; Helen Hicks; Denny Shute.

TRACK AND FIELD: Jim Bausch; George Barker; Leo Sexton.

SWIMMING: Helene Madison; Stubby Kruger; Josephine McKim; Susan Vilas.

DIVING: Harold ("Dutch") Smith; Georgia Coleman; Pete Desjardins; Sam Howard.

WINTER SPORTS: Raymond Stevens; Jack Shea; Irving Jaffee; Bill Cook; Paul Thompson.

KEEPING FIT IS JUST AS IMPORTANT TO ME AS TO STAR ATHLETES. CAMELS ARE MILD—NEVER JANGLE MY NERVES!

I LIKE TO KEEP IN TOP CONDITION, SO I SMOKE CAMELS, TOO. I SMOKE A LOT, CAMELS DON'T GET MY WIND, OR RUFFLE MY NERVES.

BUSINESS EXECUTIVE—F. W. Watson

BUSINESS GIRL—Florence Young

HOUSEWIFE—Mrs. Charles F. Ryder

FARMER—I. A. Bailey

So Mild! YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

"Let's have a Camel," says Mel Ott, heavy-hitting Giant outfielder, to Harold Schumacher, ace pitcher. They agree that Camels have real mildness. Mel says: "I smoke all I want, yet keep in good condition. Camels are so mild, they never get my wind or bother my nerves." And Hal adds: "To my mind that settles it! Camel is the cigarette with real mildness. I'd walk a mile for a Camel!" In baseball, and in all the strenuous sports, leading athletes cite the fact that Camels are mild. And to this impressive evidence of Camel's mildness is added the experience of people in every walk of life who wish to smoke freely and keep fit.

She could make it appear that she had discarded Michael.

At the thought of him, Katharine's eyes darkened suddenly. She drew a long breath. She was Michael's wife. The miracle had happened yesterday...

At any moment now he would telephone her. The bell would ring and before one of the maids could answer it Katharine herself would do so.

His voice would sound in her ears. That deep, drawing, wholly delightful voice of Michael's. Katharine bathed and dressed, still wrapped in the dream. Her green linen frock and the brown and white shoes with the buckskin fringes and a string of dull white beads that looked creamy against her sunburn...

But Michael didn't call. Breakfast passed. Bertine said something about missing the rolls for lunch the day before, and Katharine came out of her trance to stare at her stepmother as at a perfect stranger.

"What did you say, Bertine?" "I said that Cook was furious when the rolls didn't arrive yesterday. We waited and waited, Victor," said Bertine, with that infuriating smile of hers, "and this girl never showed up. Nora Willis was here and there wasn't a thing but whole wheat bread in the house. You know Nora hates it."

This went on for some time. Katharine, breaking bits of toast and arranging them in a geometrical pattern on the pink Spode plate, paid little heed. Bertine was trying to irritate her, trying to goad her into some sort of explanation. But this particular morning her stepmother's jibes simply could not reach Katharine.

Her father granted over his newspaper which he had folded back to the financial page. The telephone rang in the study. Katharine could hear the jangling of the bell and every nerve in her taut body responded to the summons. Any moment now Ellen would call her...

But it was only Leonard Willis, making a golf engagement with her father.

Her heart raced and slowed again. Not for her.

The morning droned past. Michael must be angry with her—she must have been too repressive in her manner when he called her last night. Oh, he'd have to learn to understand her better—he'd have to see it meant nothing when she was cool and stand-offish. She had crawled into her shell for so many years that it was hard, all at once, to break the habit. And she what's up? Can I help?" Katharine sat down and the whole story poured from her lips. She held nothing back. Violet Merse did not interrupt once, but her dark eyes reflected a boundless sympathy.

"What am I to do?" Katharine finished dully. "I must have been mad yesterday. He's run away now. Evidently it was all a horrible joke to him..."

Shocked by the other's suffering the older woman sought for words to comfort her. "You couldn't be so wrong in trusting him. He has a good face. I liked him from the start."

The girl lifted her head. "You did? Really and truly?"

"He's not bad," Violet Merse assured her. "There's some mystery here. It can probably be cleared up. Wait and see."

"If my father finds out—or Bertine—Katharine went on, "I might as well be dead."

"Don't talk like that. Do you suppose," ventured Mrs. Merse, "that neither one of them—your father or stepmother—has a single folly with which to reproach themselves?"

"I don't know. Probably not." "Nonsense," said Violet briskly. "Anyhow, you're not to worry about them. Brace up, child. The world hasn't come to an end. I know it looks frightful to you, but probably in a week from now the whole affair will be straightened out."

"You think so?"

"I really do."

But after the girl had gone away Violet Merse was not so certain. What a strange tangle of circumstances it was! Certainly, on the face of it, one wouldn't say that a young man who was engaged to one girl and married to another and who, further, disappeared on the night following the ceremony, sounded particularly honorable. Especially since two detectives had visited him just an hour or two before his departure.

In a hospital ward in the city, high above the turgid stream that was the East River, Michael Heathroe lay. He tossed and turned on his narrow bed, and occasionally muttered an incoherent word or two.

Miss Smithers, the nurse on duty in the ward, glanced at him interestedly as she made an entry in his chart.

"Good-looking fellow," she said to the supervisor who was a friend of hers. "It's too bad."

A newspaper reporter whose "beat" included this particular hospital wrote a brief paragraph about a hatless young man "possibly 27 years old" who had been injured in a taxicab accident at Park avenue and 48th street. The city editor ran a blue pencil through a good many items that

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to Article II, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, by adopting a new Section to be known as Section 51-b, which shall provide that the Legislature shall have the power to provide, under such limitations and restrictions as may be deemed by the Legislature expedient, for old-age assistance and for payment of same not to exceed Fifteen Dollars ($15) per month each to actual bona fide citizens of Texas over the age of sixty-five (65) years, who are not habitual criminals, nor habitual drunkards, nor inmates in any State supported institution; and providing that the requirements for length of time of actual residence in Texas shall never be less than five (5) years during the nine (9) years immediately preceding the application for old-age assistance and continuously for one (1) year immediately preceding such application; and providing that the Legislature shall have the authority to accept from the Government of the United States financial aid for old-age assistance; providing for the necessary proclamation and making an appropriation to defray the expenses of proclamation, publication and election.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas be amended by striking out Section 20a to Section 20e, both inclusive, and substitute in lieu thereof the following:

"ARTICLE XVI. Section 20. (a) The open saloon shall be and is hereby prohibited. The Legislature shall have the power, and it shall be its duty to define the term 'open saloon' and enact laws against such.

Subject to the foregoing, the Legislature shall have the power to regulate the manufacture, sale possession and transportation of intoxicating liquors, including the power to establish a State Monopoly on the sale of distilled liquors.

(b) The Legislature shall enact a law or laws whereby the qualified voters of any county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, may, by a majority vote or those voting, determine from time to time whether the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes shall be prohibited or legalized within the prescribed limits; and such laws shall contain provisions for voting on the sale of intoxicating liquors of various types and various alcoholic content.

(c) In all counties, justice's precincts or incorporated towns or cities wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option elections held under the laws of the State of Texas and in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas, it shall continue to be unlawful to manufacture, sell, barter or exchange in any such county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication or any other intoxicants whatsoever, for beverage purposes, unless and until a majority of the qualified voters in such county or political subdivision thereof voting in an election held for such purpose shall determine such to be lawful; provided that this subsection shall not prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight in cities, counties or political subdivisions thereof in which the qualified voters have voted to legalize such sale under the provisions of Chapter 116, Acts of the Regular Session of the 43rd Legislature."

Sec. 2. Such proposed Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at a special election to be held throughout the State of Texas, on the fourth Saturday in August, 1935, at which election all voters favoring said proposed Amendment, shall write, or have printed on their ballots the words:

"FOR the amendment to the State Constitution repealing State-wide prohibition, prohibiting the open saloon and providing for local option."

And those voters opposed to said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"AGAINST the amendment to the State Constitution repealing State-wide prohibition, prohibiting the open saloon and providing for local option."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have same printed as required by the Constitution and Laws of this State.

Sec. 4. The sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the funds in the Treasury of the State, not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expenses of said publication and election.

The above is a true and correct copy.

GERALD C. MANN, Secretary of State.

DEAREST DAUGHTER,
Thanks so much for sending that delightful little note, remembering my birthday. And please don't feel that its being so short made it any the less welcome.
Besides, I know what it is to have "shoppers headache"--to feel all worn out and dragged down, with your feet as heavy as lead from walking around all day.
But, my dear, why do you do it? I know you and Bob have something of a struggle to make ends meet. It won't always be that way, because I know Bob's a very ambitious young man--ambitious for you as well as for himself.
But take an old lady's advice, dear. Look for bargains--no matter how wealthy you become. But don't make an expedition of it. Make it a tour. You get a newspaper. Look for real bargains there, before you set out. Then you'll know where you're going, and you won't wear yourself out. I know, because I do it.
Give my best to Bob, and give Bob, Jr., a great big kiss from his grandma.
Lots of love, Mother

Attendance Good At Services of Church Sunday
Two good crowds attended both services Sunday at the Nazarene revival. Visitors were present from Fort Worth and near-by places.
Evangelist John L. Knight spoke at the morning hour on "A Test of Consecration." The preacher selected for his evening subject, "The Greatness of Salvation," based on Hebrews 2:3 "So great Salvation." The evangelist began thus: "When man came from the Plastic Hand of God he was clean, pure, innocent and holy. Man walked with God in blessed fellowship and enjoyed sweet communion. His happiness was unmarred. His environment was very pleasant and conducive. He lost his original state of purity; his fellowship was broken, his relationship severed. Man became a victim of sin and the Devil. He drifted from God and all that was holy. But God the Father immediately declared man's restoration for "the seed of the"
