Norsemen Again Dare Atlantic

YOUTH FROM THIS COUNTY IS ON TRIAL

Faces Death In Murder Of Fellow Prisoner On Prison Farm.

By United Press ANGLETON, July 23.—The jury to hear the murder trial of Clyde Thompson, 23, slayer of three men, was completed today.

By United Press ANGLETON, July 23.—Attorneys agreed on four jurors to hear the murder case against Clyde Thompson, 23-year-old convict, who is charged with stabbing a fellow prisoner to death on May 29. A full venire of 100 men was exhausted since the case opened yesterday, but the state and defense believed 12 jurors can be obtained from the 150 new veniremen called. The state will ask a death penalty as an habitual criminal. Defense Attorney Frank Juddkins of Eastland indicated he would enter a plea of self defense and "insanity" for Thompson. Thompson guarded by four Texas Rangers against possibility of escape. Thompson told newspapermen that two fellow convicts charged in the stabbing had no part in it.

ITALY IRED AT JAPAN ON ITS WAR STAND

ROME, July 23.—Suspension of the gold coverage law to finance war purchases—even the prospect of war itself—was subordinated today to a white-hot rage against Japan, which swept the country. Premier Mussolini joined the attack indirectly for his own newspaper thundered an arraignment of Japan for alleged ambitions in Ethiopia. It charged that Japan was championing Ethiopia against Italy, that it had defied the pact of Paris in which nations were supposed to renounce war, in its own fight for a place in the sun, and that it was attempting to break the solemn front with which Great Britain, France and Italy were trying to consolidate European peace. Suspension of the gold law was taken as a patriotic necessity. The decree announcing it today explained it as "being necessary and urgent to secure means for payments abroad of an extensional nature." The decree does not mean Italy has abandoned the gold standard.

Funeral Is Held In Los Angeles For Former Rangente

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 23. Funeral services for Earl H. Cooper of 6716 South Western avenue, owner of the Reliable Key and Cycle shop, were held Saturday at Grace chapel in Inglewood Park cemetery with Rev. Raymond E. Marshall of the First Methodist church of Redondo and Redondo Lodge No. 328, F. & A. M. officiating. Mr. Cooper succumbed last Thursday from a sudden heart attack. He was born 38 years ago in Abilene, Texas, and had resided in Los Angeles for the past six years. He was a member of the First Methodist church of Ranger, Texas, and of the Royal Arch Masons. He was also past patron of the Order of Eastern Star of that city. He leaves his wife, Margaret M.; his mother, Mrs. Howell Cobb of Texas; his stepmother, Mrs. Emma Clegg of Mississippi; two sisters, Mrs. Dolly Quinn of Mississippi and Mrs. Verna Holmes of El Paso; and a brother, Hugh Cobb of El Paso.

Police Are Probing Automobile Crash

WACO, July 23.—Police were investigating today circumstances of an automobile accident that yesterday resulted in the death of Mrs. J. A. Hargett, 70, of Moody, Texas, and Mrs. Geneva Merrell, 78, of Bowie. The two women, who were sisters, were struck by a car driven by a young farmer living near Burlington. The bodies were dragged 150 feet.

Pension Bill Is Called Too Hasty

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Special pension legislation for railroad employees "would be hasty and ill-conceived" at this time, transportation co-ordinator Joseph Eastman has advised Chairman Burton Wheeler of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee. The committee is considering bills to set up new rail pension systems to replace one invalidated by the supreme court.

Reciprocal Tariff Agreements Are Again Beaten Down

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Administration forces today beat down a resolution to beat down the new deal reciprocal tariff agreements. After Senator George Norris, Rep., Neb., warned against considering extraneous matters in connection with the AAA amendment, the senate tabled an amendment which would have required senate ratification of reciprocal trade treaties.

Infant Dives to Glory

Not yet 12 years old, little Mary Hoerger, Miami, Fla., diver stumped veteran observers and participants in the 3-meter springboard event of the National A. A. U. meet at Manhattan Beach, N. Y., when she took top honors. In winning the championship, the little lassie defeated such well-known stars as Mrs. Dorothy Poynton Hill, former Olympic queen, and Claudia Eckert, of Chicago. Mary is shown above in two difficult dives, and below in a jubilant takeoff pose.

MERCHANTS TO BREAK STRIKE BY OPENING

TERRA HAUTE, Ind., July 23. Terra Haute merchants' association voted today to defy union labor and reopen 150 city stores despite a general strike. Encouraged by the support of the Indiana national guards which picketed twice today with union pickets and came off victorious, the merchants voted to open for business and permit the city to restock food supplies despite threats of union boycott.

Plans to Light Valley Highway Being Discussed

EDINBURG, Texas.—A plan to light the lower Rio Grande Valley's 65-mile long "Main Street," State Highway 4 from Mission to Brownsville, with sodium vapor electric lamps has been suggested to Valley chambers of commerce by General Electric company. The new lamps, recently developed, are reported to be in successful use in New York and other states. Seven "test highways" have been selected in Texas for the purpose of testing the illumination provided by the new lamps, and the Texas Highway department has become interested in the proposal, reports indicate. Installation costs of the lights are estimated to be about 10 per cent of the total cost of highway construction.

SOLONS NOT AWARE PACT MADE ON FUND

AUSTIN, July 23.—Senators John Redditt, Luffkin, and Ben Oneal, Wichita Falls, here today expressed surprise at the announcement of Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul that there had been an agreement to take care of Fort Worth when the senate voted the centennial appropriation. Oneal backed the advisory board proration after the amount for the Alamo and San Jacinto were limited. Redditt said he was not a party to such an agreement. "I never heard of it. I was not a party to such agreement," said Senator John Hornsby of Austin. Oneal harked the advisory board of historians. Th most commendable thing the centennial board of control did was selection of the historical board, he said. "The board has worked faithfully and its advice should be followed."

Former Ranger Line Walker Is Still Missing

BRECKENRIDGE, July 23.—Fear for the safety of O. R. Ashcraft, Texas Company pipe line walker, increased today as a search of the pipe line route from here to James was intensified and spread out over the countryside. Ashcraft was last heard from last Wednesday morning as he reported in routine fashions to his company before he left South Bend and since then no trace of him has been found except his tracks on both sides of the Clear Fork in one of two places where he crosses that stream.

Two-Minute Talks, Orchestra Heard At Rotary Meet

Two minute talks by six members of the Rotary club and delivery of three numbers by an orchestra composed of Eastland youths were program features at the organization's meeting Monday. "How to Obtain the Greatest Benefit from Rotary," was the subject of Dr. J. H. Caton. "Visiting Rotarians" was discussed by B. M. Collier. "How Rotarians Can Help Athletics," was told by C. A. Hertz. James Horton told "How to Make Our Town a Better Place to Live In." J. E. Lewis told his observation of the usefulness of the Eastland Rotary club and S. M. Gamble corroborated the impression.

Plans to Light Valley Highway Being Discussed

At the Texas Company offices it was said the river had been dragged for 20 miles and planes sent out and today a plane is scouting the route, and the river is again being dragged. No clues have developed since he left home Tuesday morning and reported Wednesday morning. He never reached a farmhouse where he intended spending the night Wednesday night. It is feared that he met with a serious accident or with foul play because he was in cheerful mood and good health when he left home. The missing man is 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs 135 pounds, blonde, blue eyes, and when last seen was wearing a gray felt hat with black band, army work shoes that had been half soled, size 6, khaki trousers and had his initials tattooed on his right arm. He was transferred here from Ranger by his company about 18 months ago. Th route of his walk was from here to South Bend, to Oil City, to Herron City, to Bunker pool, to Bryson and to James.

New head of the American Bar Association, winner in one of the most bitter election fights in the organization's history, is William M. Ransom, New York, above, Ransom, former New York city court justice and chief counsel for the state public service commission, defeated James M. Beck of Washington for the office.

Crucial Games On American League Schedule Today

By United Press YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, July 23.—More than 50,000 persons, biggest crowd of the season, came to see the Yankees and Detroit Tigers battle for the American league lead in today's double-header. Th Tigers had to win both games to take first place, though but half a game behind the Yankees. The Tigers got off to a two-run lead in the first half of the first inning, with a pair of home runs. Johnnie Allen was pitching for the Yanks and "Schoolboy" Rowe was pitching for the Tigers.

Telegram Sending 'By Dead People' To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Congressional investigation of lobbying against the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill, swung to wider ground today when Senator Hugo Black indicated the federal communications commission would be asked to aid in finding out of telegrams against the bill were signed by people "dead for several years." Black indicated the communications commission would be asked to aid in a survey of charges congressmen were bombarded with unauthorized telegrams against the bill.

FIRE RAZES DISTILLERY IN PEORIA, ILL.

PEORIA, Ill., July 23.—A $3,600,000 fire roared through the Hiram Walker distillery today, fed by thousands of gallons of whisky, until it became such an inferno that the entire fire department was helpless. Not until the huge liquor storehouse, where the flames started, was completely consumed, was it possible to bring the blaze under control. Two men were believed in the smoldering ruins. One hundred girl workers fled from one blazing building before the walls collapsed.

that reminds me...

More intermittent showers scattered here and there, but in spite of the weather remains sultry and close. However no doubt much good has been done by the rains that we have had. Lots of grain is still in the field and that doesn't look so good. Seems like threshers are needed for this season particularly when we do get a good crop in sight as this year.

Time brings remarkable changes

Time brings remarkable changes. One time wife of two millionaires, and highest paid chore girl is listed on the relief rolls of Chicago. She is now only 38, and she is now seeking a divorce from a third millionaire husband. The claim of fate certainly do things with a magic wand unseen in the future—here today, and gone tomorrow—here today, and gone tomorrow—and while all this hubbalooboo about the superiority of an individual who seems to know how to do things better than anyone else only to find out in the end that they didn't know what it was all about—doesn't bother the staid folks in the forks of the creek who get up early in the morning to do the chores, each knowing what they are supposed to do, and before going to bed sitting around the family circle discussing the events of the day, a good night's sleep only to get up in the morning to do it all over again. They are really happy.

Sometimes it looks like something

Sometimes it looks like something in the matter with education after the high school days—for instance when the graduate is turned out of the high school they are also full of ambition, and ready for something to tackle, but after the four years or more grind in the universities they seem to come out in a daze and most of them have a hard time convincing the business man that he can really do something. A six months' business course in many instances bring better results for real service than a four year university course. Don't know why, but it just seems that way.

A Boy Scout of Tyler makes the startling announcement that unless Huey Long apologizes to the president for calling the president a "coward" that he doesn't care to be a Senator Long make an address at the Scout jamboree in Washington. That boy is to be admired for his public courage, and he is absolutely right from the tip of his head to the bottom of his toes. The United States senate has a duty should demand that Huey Long apologize to the president for his undignified words and his malicious pose when slandering the president of the United States. America will go on record as denouncing the tactics of Huey Long in reference to his attitude toward the president and will refuse to perform any function where Senators are scheduled to address Scout leaders can well take notice of this courageous taking a direct stand in vilification of the highest official. Why Not a Defender in Public Service?

New ideas governing the ordinary practices of the law are rare. They appear seldom and they have a hard time getting adopted when they do appear.

One of the best seems to be the proposal for a "public defender system," eloquently sponsored before the annual sessions of the American Bar Association by Mayer C. Goldman of New York.

Mr. Goldman's idea is extremely simple.

We put the prosecution of accused persons in the hands of an attorney paid by the state. That attorney does not get a fee for each case he handles, nor does the size of his compensation vary with the wealth of the different dependants. He is on a straight salary.

Why, then, asks Mr. Goldman, do we not do the same thing with the defense? Why not retain a public defender as well as a public prosecutor, let the one functionary try to convict while the other tries to win acquittal, and take the whole business out of the field of private profit?

If it would do nothing else, the system should wipe out the gross inequalities now prevalent in our criminal courts.

Two men are arrested, charged with crimes. One is poor John Doe, a homeless bum who was desperate by hunger and stuck up a pedestrian on a dark corner for $5. The other is wealthy Richard Roe, bank president, who got his hand caught in the till during the recent boom and took his depositors, stockholders and creditors to the tune of a couple of millions.

John Doe can afford little in the way of counsel fees. Inside of a month he has been tried, convicted and sentenced to a 10-year term.

Richard Roe calls in his best lawyers in the city. Proceedings against him are strung out over two years. In the end, after a couple of hung juries, he gets off scot free.

That sort of thing—the contrast between the kind of justice given to the man too poor to hire good counsel, and the kind which the rich man gets—is too common to need further comment. But it does point to the sort of inequality which a public defender system might be expected to set right.

Determination of the guilt or innocence of a man accused of crime is not a game for keen legal minds to play. It is the crucial part of the whole system of administering justice.

To a layman, it will seem like nothing more than ordinary common sense to suggest that a lot of it be put in the hands of officials paid by the state. Once that is done, we may begin to get some sort of equality before the bar of justice.

World Revives Strife, Faces a New War!

The depression through which the world has been passing during the last five years is an outgrowth of the World War, what about the next war that everybody is waiting for? What sort of economic breakdown will it bring about—and what will it do to our slowly mending business structure?

In such questions as these that the real menace of the world is to be found. If a burned child really does fear the fire, why would we suppose that the world today would be put up with almost anything imaginable rather than to put up with another war. On the contrary, however, it is steadily toward a new one—letting the lesson of the last one go unread and unheeded.

Let us have a look at the extent to which world business conditions have been reviving of late.

Statistics compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board show a slow but appreciable rise in most of the countries by which world prosperity is measured. Business is better in England, Canada, Australia, Germany, Belgium, Spain, Finland and several Latin American countries, for instance, with recessions noted only in Holland, the United States and Mexico.

Employment has been declining in Denmark, Norway, Germany, France, Italy and Great Britain. World production of such important raw materials as wheat, sugar, cotton, rubber, silk and tin are maintaining a steady rise. The physical volume of world trade is higher than it was in 1929.

All of these things make up a definitely encouraging picture. It does begin to look, at last, as if the world were beginning to drag itself out of the morass of trade stagnation. Let these favorable trends continue for another year or so and the world would be well on its way back to normal times.

But no man dares predict that they will continue; and the reason for that is that the shadow of war continues to loom across the horizon. Italy seems committed to a war with Abyssinia, and no mortal man can tell what may come of this. And no one needs to be told that, with the disturbing effect of a new war, all the delicate machinery of the world trade will be thrown out of gear anew.

The world is at the mercy of its own folly these days. After years of suffering from war-born depression, it at last discovers signs of revival—and immediately prepares to rush into a new war.

Leaf Worm is Invading Cotton Fields of State

By United Press
COLLEGE STATION. — The leaf worm is invading Texas cotton fields ahead of usual schedule this year, according to R. R. Reppert, extension entomologist at Texas A. and M. College.

Control measures have become necessary in most of the southern counties, he said.

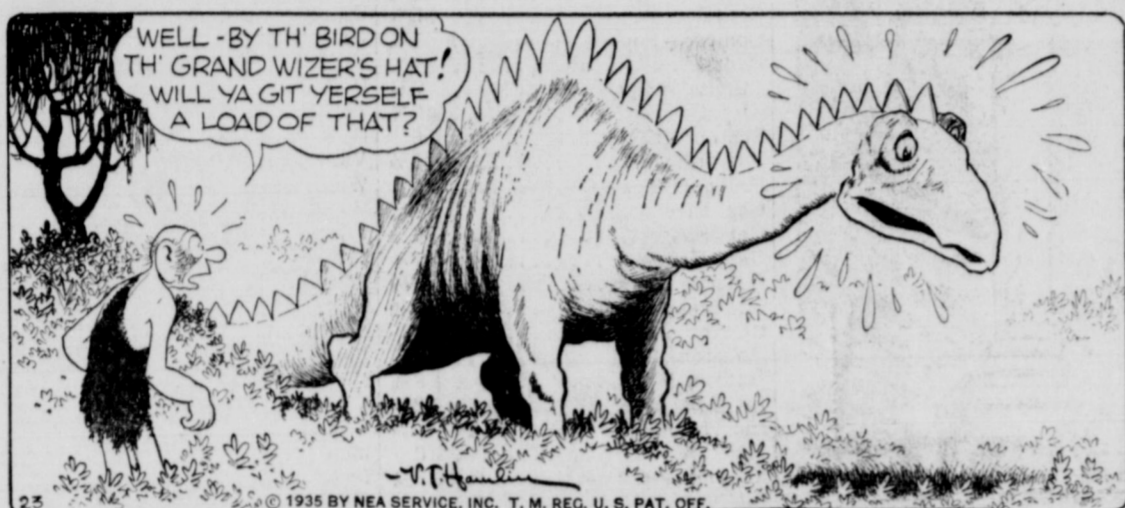

"Frequent showers for the past two weeks have been favorable to the pests multiplication and spread through the hot days have tended to hold it in check. Should cooler weather with showers at the same time develop, damage from this pest will be extensive," Reppert added.

The leaf worm is easily controlled, according to the entomologist pointed out, recommending calcium arsenate as the best method.

He recommended the application of the chemical in dry form where dusting machinery is available and under ordinary conditions.

"Five pounds an acre applied in an even dust cloud should be sufficient except where there is an exceptionally large growth of cotton when 10 pounds an acre should be used. It should be applied early in the morning while there is dew on the plants, although it is effective when applied in midday provided there is no wind."

Color Photos are Test for Maps

By United Press
BOSTON. — Color photography will be put to a scientific test this summer in mapping out the treacherous North Labrador shoals of air.

If the experiment in aero-color photography proves successful, experts will be able to mark in other missing details of the world's present maps.

Dr. Alexander Forbes, professor of research physiology at Harvard University, will leave by airplane soon for Sir Wilfred Grenfell's settlement in Labrador. The plane will be piloted by Charles Hubbard, former Harvard football captain.

By use of the natural color film in pictures taken from an airplane, the shoals will show up white against the blue of the water. Experiments with the color film have demonstrated in the laboratory that it is much more satisfactory in showing the fine distinction in color than the plain black-and-white film, experts said.

Dr. Forbes and Hubbard hope to complete the contour map of the shoals which are dangerous to fishermen and therefore make mapping by water hazardous.

Prof. F. C. Sears of Amherst, an amateur photographer, is taking color pictures of the blue stone geological formations near St. Anthony in another test of the color film.

The pictures, it was explained, are made up of a matrix of exceedingly fine color lines imprinted on the film. As the light passes through the screen, the colors are registered by a combination of the

Plan to Conserve Feed Crops Made

By United Press
COLLEGE STATION. — Plans for a concerted drive to conserve and utilize this year's feed crop in Texas, expected to be one of the largest in recent years, were drafted at a recent meeting of the Texas Extension Service and the Texas Experiment Station.

Emphasis will be placed on the importance of storage and proper utilization of food to be harvested this year from more than four million acres of government-rented land.

H. H. Williamson, extension director, estimates the usual feed acres plus the rented acres normally planted to cotton will probably give Texas in excess of an 18-months adequate feed supply if it is properly conserved.

YOU, TOO, CAN BE A

DUCHESS

In the grand old days of the drand dukes, Her Ladyship held a "little court" for tradespeople every morning in her own apartments.

It was usually while her hair was being powdered. In would troop lace-makers and portrait-painters, a poet with rolls of verses and a peasant who might offer anything from a yellow puppy to a pot of honey. All the wares of the realm were spread before the duchess for her discriminating purchase, and without her putting the toe of her shoe outside the door.

Have you ever thought how much like her you are?

Every day, as you linger over your newspaper, the wares of the world assemble before you in the advertisements. Exciting new fashions from your favorite small shop. Household essentials from the great department stores. Everything for the menu . . . the motor car . . . the mode in make-up, offered to you for your choosing and deciding.

And many of these purchases you'll negotiate with more satisfaction than the duchess enthroned at her dressing table. For, where the duchess had to judge of quality for herself, you have the word of the merchant and the word of the manufacturer for integrity, correctness and cost.

TOURWAY" - - - - - By Williams FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS-By Blosser

SUN-TAN

THE VULGAR BOATMAN.

WHILE RUFFE IS PREPARING TO FLY TO HIS DIAMOND MINE, OTHER WHEELS ARE MOVING, TOO....

HE IS! NO MATTER WHAT HE DOES NOW, HE CAN'T BE IN ANY WORSE FIX THAN HE'S IN ALREADY....

SWELL! THEY'RE LOADING IT NOW! IT'LL FLY, CIRCLES AROUND RUFFE PETTINGILL'S PLANE...AND NOT ONLY THAT, IT'S EQUIPPED WITH TWO MACHINE GUNS!!

BEGIN HERE TODAY JO DARIEN, finishing her first year in college, learns her father is out of work.

NOT THE DREXEL THEY'RE LOOKING FOR ON THOSE ORIENTAL SMUGGLING CHARGES?

IT WAS THEN, WHILE HER EMOTIONS WERE SHARPENED BY A TUNE FROM TIN PAN ALLEY, AND WHILE SHE WAS IN THE ARMS OF A MAN FOR WHOM MILLIONS OF WOMEN LONGED.

JO STARED AT THE MONTGOMERY GIRL ON THE DIVAN, AND FOR A MOMENT THE IMPERIOUS QUESTION MEANT NOTHING.

Letting his beach robe drop, Fragonet ran down to the lake in his crimson trunks, and struck the water like a knife.

When she sensed his presence and opened her eyes, Fragonet was sitting silently, a dripping statue of a man, watching her.

HE MADE A GESTURE OF ANNOYANCE, almost of anger. "Confound it, Jo, I mean what I'm saying now.

At his swift torrent of words, his strange piercing glance, Jo was startled. "I'm afraid I don't understand you."

No More Aid to State Transients

AUSTIN.—The Texas transient bureau no longer will extend aid to state transients, it has been announced by Mrs. Zuleika B. Hicks, assistant director of social service for the Texas Relief Commission.

The regulation, which became effective July 10, is in accordance with a resolution adopted by the State Board of Control, designed to stop transiency in Texas. Hereafter, Texas transients will be urged to return to their legal residences and settle down to become eligible for local work opportunities, either under increasingly improved commercial conditions, or under the Works Progress Administration program.

County administrators have been directed to urge all such transients to return home, and not to grant any relief to a transient when absolutely essential.

"It is not the desire of the Board of Control to make it hard for state transients," Mrs. Hicks said, "but it is recognized that because opportunities for work are greater in a clients home community, there is no social advantage to be gained in moving aimlessly from county to county. It is for the transient's own benefit that he is urged to stay at home."

The regulation does not affect the procedure in handling federal transients. The federal program will continue to function as it has in the past.

G-Men Hustle Kidnap Chiseler Behind Bars

Struggling against going behind the bars, Alfred Otto Wagner (center), called the "No. 1 misery chiseler" for his confessed efforts to obtain money from the relatives of kidnap victims, found resistance futile as the strong arms of the law at the Brooklyn, N. Y. Federal building hustled him to a cell. Wagner, recently released from Sing Sing prison on parole as a kidnaper, was trapped in trying to collect $75,000 for the "release" of 83-year-old Charles D. Towt, missing broker. He admitted having sent ransom demands in the Weyerhaeuser and other cent kidnaping cases.

Mid-West Art Is Ranked Ahead

By United Press

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Thomas Hart Benton, Ozark artist commissioned to embellish walls of the State Capitol with typical Missouri scenes, believes the best cross-section of art in the state is obtained in the small-town court room.

Benton, after observing that country courtrooms are crowded with spectators, resolved to paint a Missouri court room scene.

"It may be in the state capitol, but I don't know. Anyway, I shall paint it somewhere, for nothing is more typical of Missouri than the average court room audience," he declared.

The Middle West, Benton says, is the "center of things." He went further to assert that the best art is developed in this section. He said that the only American artists recognized in Europe are "Grant Wood, Curry and I." Curry is from Kansas. Wood from Iowa and Benton from Missouri.

As candid and outspoken as the fiery Missouri senator of the preceding century, Thomas Hart Benton, a grand uncle of the artist, the Ozarkian barked an answer to a question of why people do not buy more pictures.

"Pictures are insanely high priced because their artistic value has no connection with their market value. The matter is not between artists and art lovers, but between agents and art dealers," he said.

Persons of average means do the right thing when they pass up pictures to invest in automobiles, Benton believes. "There's more pleasure in owning an automobile than a picture hanging lifeless on the wall."

Moreover, a picture might be disturbing. Sometimes the best pictures are hard to live with."

Art galleries and museums are "an awful bore" to Benton, who believes public appreciation of art would be enhanced by hanging fine pictures in restaurants, theaters and public buildings.

Governmental encouragement to young artists through PWA and FERA he finds all to the good.

"Even bums and artists have a right to live," he said. "Society supports them anyway, so the government may as well subsidize them."

"The nation will be assured then of something better of office and public building walls than 'calendar art,'" he concluded.

Vice Multitude is Uneasy As a New Expose Is Planned

By United Press

NEW YORK.—A full-dress vice inquiry, scheduled to start in New York some time next month, has set the stage for an underworld drama that may have numerous ramifications.

"Death to the squealer," law of the half-world, threatens informers.

An uneasy multitude stands behind the curtain, some ready to flee the state, others close-lipped and grim, a third group confident but wary, and on the fringe a frightened remnant, wracked by indecision.

All-in-all, a fragile bulwark, built predominantly on greed and interspersed with fear and courage, the inquiry may reach the heart of the vice morass, but like destroying a huge monster many blows must be struck before there is any sign of weakening.

Vesuvius in Action Daring Drama Packs Thrills And Romance

Erupting with a roar that terrified the surrounding communities, Mount Vesuvius, Italy's most famous volcano, became more active than at any time in years. The swirling plume of smoke and ashes formed a display that attracted tourists to Naples in unprecedented numbers when it became apparent that the cone would not go on a rampage.

St. Louis Asks War Memorial

By United Press

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Establishment of St. Louis as the center of a five-pointed star of main highways, to be known as Gold Star memorial highways, is the latest project of Gold Star mothers in St. Louis. A memorial building within the city for the preservation of patriotic records also is planned.

Gold Star mothers here have been working on the project for some time, and have obtained the backing of the board of aldermen. To complete this project, they are seeking the approval of PWA officials.

Creation of the star of roads would involve landscaping and planting of trees along four highways in Missouri and one in Illinois. This has the approval of the city plan commission of St. Louis and the Missouri state planning board and the state highway commission. All the states have named roads to be included in the project, according to Mrs. Warren F. Drescher, national president of the Gold Star Mothers of the National Society 1917 World War Registrars.

The board of aldermen gave the registrars permission to build a memorial building topped by an electrically-lit gold star at some point in St. Louis. The board has also passed an ordinance creating St. Louis as the Gold Star center of the nation.

AUTO WRECKED

By United Press

NEW BERN, N. C.—When Capt. J. J. Day jerked his car across the road to run over a snake, the machine rolled down an eight-foot embankment. Day and his wife were bruised and shaken. Their 10-year-old daughter sustained a severe cut. The snake was not injured.

A dangerous romance packed with thrilling drama is how coast previewers described Fox Film's "Silk Hat Kid," which comes Wednesday to the Lyric Theatre. The brilliant dialogue and the star-studded cast made "Silk Hat Kid" one of the most daring dramas to come out of Hollywood.

Lew Ayres in the kind of part he likes, a role with insides to it, and incidentally, the kind of role that made him star, portrays the part of a bodyguard to Paul Kelly, owner of a cafe, which is located in the perilous slums of a big city. He meets and falls in love with his employer's girl friend, Mae Clarke, and an intense rivalry results, which reaches the dangerous stage when both men are at the point of gun play. Here the story takes a novel twist and brings the film to an altogether interesting and dramatic conclusion.

Mae Clarke is an ideal choice for the role of the school teacher who becomes the center of the battle between the two men entirely used to getting what they want. Here romance with Lew Ayres is one of the most thrilling ever seen on the screen and has been acclaimed everywhere.

Among the many others included in the cast are such stellar performers as William Harrison, Ralf Haroldo, Billy Lee, John Qualen, Warren Hymer, Vince Barnett and William Benedict.

"Silk Hat Kid" was produced for Fox Film by Joseph Engel and directed by H. Bruce Humberstone.

Device Corrects School Tests

By United Press

NEW YORK—A tiny press, 8½ by 11 inches, heralds the apparent death of the old system of correcting examination papers.

The aluminum press, covered with 288 squares and 1,440 tiny pins, will slash by 1,000 per cent the time to correct papers, according to its inventor, Hardin Lucas.

Lucas, 57, high school teacher in Brooklyn and formerly of Paris, Ky., spent more than $7,000 and four and one-half years to develop his invention.

"It works on the principle of a stereotyping plate," Lucas said. "A few hours are needed to set up the plate, then corrections can be made as fast as papers can be slipped into the press."

The press is particularly applicable to true-false, multiple-choice and matching-type examinations, but there is no limit to its adaptability, Lucas asserted.

Use is simple. A standard sheet of paper, called a lucogram, is given each pupil. This sheet is covered with squares dotted to resemble clock faces.

The pupil then signifies the proper answer by drawing an hour hand on the clock. If the statement is true, he draws a line on one side of the face; if false, on the other.

In multiple choice he draws an hour hand pointing to the number he believes is the right answer.

Soon as he is through he inserts the paper into the marxem press. Pressure forces tiny pins through the paper exactly where numerals usually are placed on clocks.

But only one hole shows on each face. This hole signifies the right answer. The pupil merely checks his own paper and in two or three minutes he knows his own grade. And the teacher prepares more examinations.
