TEC Conducting Time Study Here

A time study, to determine the amount of time involved in the various phases of employment activity, is now being conducted at The Texas Employment Commission here.

Results of the two-week survey which is to be completed Friday will be used by the Department of Agriculture, Labor department, and Veterans Administration in allocating funds for the operation of TEC offices in this district.

During the study, TEC personnel have made records of time spent in clerical work, counselling, interviewing, claims-taking, contacting employers, making agricultural placements, and taking veterans claims. The VA, agriculture and labor departments all contribute to the expenses of the TEC.

Case Of The Discarded Dentures Could Lead To Espionage Charge?

By ERNEST G. WARREN
AP Staff

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. — "I'm not guilty of subversive activities," Rep. Cotton (R-NH) is telling his constituents. "I'm just trying to get rid of my old dentures."

Cotton sends a weekly report to the voters in his district. This week it was a wistful report indeed.

"Old age," he observed, "creeps on apace and once more I am spending time in the dentist's chair. The partial plates I have been wearing no longer suffice."

"Monday I returned from the dentist, depondent, and threw them into the wastebasket."

"Tuesday I was called from the floor of the House and found two members of the capitol police waiting for me. One of them with great ceremony handed me the old dentures."

Cotton said that the more he thought about it, the more the incident worried him.

"Can it be," he wondered, "that I too am under the cloud of suspicion that hangs over Washington, so that even my wastebasket is being watched?"

But that was nothing compared to the really big problem:

"How," he asked his constituents, "am I going to get rid of these dentures? Must I steal down to the Potomac River some dark night and throw them in?"

"Perhaps if I do I shall be seized by the minions of the law and accused of destroying 'pumpkin papers' or other dangerous activity."

"If you read that your representative is guilty of subversive activity," he concluded, "don't believe it."

Natl. Guard Inspection To Start Friday

Lt. Col. G. C. Willette, Fourth Army inspector general, is to start the annual inspection of the National Guard unit here at noon Friday.

The National Guard armory at Municipal airport is to be inspected during the afternoon, while personnel of Battery B, 152nd Field Artillery battalion, will form for review at 7:45 p. m., Capt. T. A. Harris, unit commander, indicated.

To be covered in the afternoon inspection tour will be the battery supply, records, and equipment. Personal inspection and training review are scheduled for Friday night.

Goal for the annual Fourth Army inspection is 100 per cent attendance, Capt. Harris said.

The local Guard unit normally meets for drill each Monday night, but the training period for next week will not be held, the commander announced. Attendance Friday night will count for the drill.

Alien Cases Are Being Delayed

DALLAS, Feb. 23. — The Supreme Court ruling which prevents immigration inspectors from sitting as examiners in deportation hearings has frozen hearings for about 15 aliens in North Texas.

W. C. Young, agent in charge of the immigration service office here, said last night that the case of Jose Estrada, 55, a Mexican hood carrier, is among those. His hearing had been set for today.

The immigration service wants to deport Estrada because, it says, he is a member of an organization advocating the overthrow of the American government by force.

Compulsory arbitration of disputes between labor and management in basic industries may be forced to the earnest attention of Congress as a result of the dangerous situation developing in the coal industry. Labor and management have usually agreed wholeheartedly on one thing: their mutual dislike of compulsory arbitration.

Neither side can get all it wants in a given dispute anyway. If a dispute reaches the strike stage, both sides lose, and lose heavily. The miners' union stands to lose from $12 to $20 million, its entire store of cash. In the present defiance of a court injunction to return to work, even the loss of this huge sum does not impress the miners.

Predetermined Guilt Natural Result Of World's Evil Forces

In September, 1948, Paul Ruedemann, an executive of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, was released from custody in Hungary after signing a confession of sabotage. In New York this week, on learning that Robert A. Vogeler, vice president of the International Telegraph & Telephone company, also an American, had pleaded guilty to espionage in a Hungarian court, Ruedemann commented:

cliques and expressions peculiar to Marxist dialect. They contain all the old familiar pet phrases of the Communist ritual. "I am sorry for the detrimental deeds I committed and I ask for a mild sentence," Vogeler told the court. Does that sound like an American businessman occupying a responsible position? On the contrary they sound like words put into his mouth by his torturers.

U. S. Break With Bulgaria Was Forced By Sofia Government

WASHINGTON'S SEVERANCE OF diplomatic relations with Bulgaria was deliberately forced by the Balkan state. That much is quite clear. The Sofia government created conditions which the United States could not tolerate and still maintain a self-respect.

Court's Search-And-Seizure Decision Controversial One

WASHINGTON—A capital acutely conscious of loyalty checks, of the growing atmosphere of secrecy and the unhappy backwash of suspicion from the Alger Hiss case, is now confronted with a controversial new Supreme Court decision on civil liberties. Liberals swiftly proclaimed the decision a defeat for those who look to the court to stand aloof from the emotions of the hour in the protection of the rights of the citizen.

voted friend and played poker with him over the weekend on the Williamsburg. It is felt here that Vinson is intent on remaking the court into his own moderate image and that he is influencing Mr. Truman to name justices that will make this end possible. The new decision will intensify opinion that such is the shape of things to come on the court.

H-Bomb Threat Spurs Washingtonians To Thinking About Safety Dispersal

WASHINGTON — Republicans will probably wise-crack at this one, but since Russia's discovery of H-bomb and A-bomb secrets, it's likely that the President and Vice President of the United States will not again attend a Jackson Day dinner under the same roof. Regardless of the political party in power, this is not a pleasant kind of internal security precaution to contemplate.

He also has a tremendous liking for people, particularly little people, a characteristically developed in the days when he used to fight consumers' battles against the public utilities as people's counsel of the district. Later Keech became a member of the Public Utilities Commission and served for a time as corporation counsel of the D. C. government before President Truman recognized his talents and made him a White House administrative assistant.

McCarren also fired another staff member, Coleman Rosenberger, whom the Senator from Nevada suspected of being loyal to another Senator. But worst of all, McCarren has hidden out a pro-Nazi on his staff. This man is Otto Dekom, who was kicked out of the Army Signal Corps in 1942 for being pro-Nazi. He was also fired from the Pennsylvania Central Airlines in 1944 for the same reason. After the war, he was turned down as an investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee upon the recommendation of the Army. But in spite of all this, McCarren hired Otto Dekom and assigned him to a trusted job in the judiciary committee.

If Women Want Political Jobs, They'll Have To Run For Them

Leave us, today, talk about the women, bless 'em. Women in the political arena, that is. This is brought about as a result of a statement made at a public gathering by a representative of the Business & Professional Women's club. This esteemed lady said, rather definitely, that when "women have been elected to the city and county commissions, to the school board and to the directorate of the chamber of commerce the B&PW will have served its purpose."

And this is the year that county offices are open to all comers. You can't get anybody elected until somebody becomes a candidate. This is being done in some places. The news dispatches have it that no less than 12 women have announced for various public posts in the town of Childress. They are bidding for places on the city council, on the school board, on the Board of City Development directorate, and on city's Fair board and Hospital board. And some of 'em may win.

Short Income Tax Form May Be Used If You're 'Under $5,000'

WASHINGTON, W. — CAN YOU USE the 1948 short form in filing your 1948 income tax return? You can, if your income was under $5,000. And it makes no difference where your income came from, or what kind, or whether taxes were withheld from it during the year. (Actually, most of the under-$5,000 people who had full tax withheld from their income will use Form 1040-A, discussed yesterday and in previous stories.)

provided their total income was under $5,000. In such a case they'd lose money by not filing jointly on that form. The reason: Under the law, when a couple files jointly, each claims half the income, even though one had none of it. This throws each half into a lower tax bracket. Example: Jones' income was $4,800, his wife had none. If he files alone, his tax is $544. If his wife files jointly with him the tax on the couple is $314. You can see how that works yourself on Page 4 in the columns opposite an income of $4,800.

NEW YORK — IF "THE FATHER OF his country" had returned to America yesterday on his 118th birthday, how would he have found he stood in the hearts of his countrymen? George Washington would be pleased to learn that to many he is still first in American hearts despite the years.

Macaroni And Cheese Makes Good Lent Dish

MACARONI CASSEROLE . . . Satisfying Lenten dish.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Macaroni and cheese once a week is a good idea during Lent because it's just about the most popular of all the macaroni dishes, easy to make, inexpensive and nutritious.

And here's a new idea for spaghetti. Make a savory tomato-eggplant sauce as we suggest in the following recipe.

OLD FASHIONED MACARONI AND CHEESE

Ingredients: 1 tablespoon salt, 4 quarts boiling water, 16 ounces elbow macaroni, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon Worcester sauce, 1/2 pound American cheese (grated).

Method: Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook, uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan over low heat; blend in flour. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Stir in mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and Worcester sauce. Grease a 2-quart casserole; add alternate layers of macaroni and cheese, ending with the cheese. Pour white sauce over macaroni and cheese in casserole. Bake in a moderate (350 F.) oven 35-40 minutes or until top is lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

SPAGHETTI WITH EGGPLANT SAUCE

Ingredients: 1/2 cup olive oil, 1 medium eggplant, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1 clove garlic (minced), 2 No. 2 cans tomato puree, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 2 drops tabasco sauce, 1 tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces spaghetti, grated Parmesan cheese.

Method: Heat olive oil in large skillet. Pare eggplant and cut into small cubes; add to oil in skillet with onion and garlic and saute 5 to 10 minutes. Add tomato puree, 2 teaspoons salt, pepper and tabasco sauce. Cook for 1 hour, stirring frequently. Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan over low heat; blend in flour. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Stir in mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and Worcester sauce. Grease a 2-quart casserole; add alternate layers of macaroni and cheese, ending with the cheese. Pour white sauce over macaroni and cheese in casserole. Bake in a moderate (350 F.) oven 35-40 minutes or until top is lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Vital Nourishment To Be Found In Sweetbreads; Try These Uses

Sweetbreads, liver, brains, heart and fresh tongue, usually known as the variety meats, easily live up to that name.

The use of these fresh meats not only adds variety to meals for the family, but there is an almost endless variety of ways in which they may be prepared. The results range from dishes elegant enough to flatter the connoisseur to sturdy, everyday fare. Or they may be combined as a stew for the ranch party or the backyard crowd.

All variety meats are high in iron and other minerals and are valuable as vitamin sources. There was a time when these meats also were extremely desirable for their low cost (some butcher shops used to give them away), but with recognition of the nutritional values came higher prices.

Must Be Fresh
These meats must be absolutely fresh, firm to the touch and sweet in odor when purchased. They actually are more perishable than the "meat" meats.

It's an old Texas custom to combine all the variety meats in a big stew. The dish originated in the cowcamps and on the ranches, and was always cooked up the day a calf was butchered. The ingredients still are most easily available for those who kill their own calves, but the makings of this stew can sometimes be secured at the abattoir.

The name Texas stew is fairly common. Some call it Ranch stew; others name it Cow Camp stew; or it may be known as Son-of-a-Gun stew, or by still another variant that is not often used in print.

Cowboy stew arouses strong sentiments. Either it is regarded as a rare delicacy, or it is shunned entirely.

Son-of-a-Gun Stew
1 pound Irish tongue, 1/2 pound beef fat, 1 1/2 pounds marrow gut, 1 pound heart, 1 pound sweetbreads, 1/2 pound liver, 1 set brains (membrane removed). Seasonings: Cut tongue, fat, marrow gut, heart and sweetbreads in small pieces. Place in a large pot and cover with about three times as much water. Cook slowly for two hours, add liver, also chopped; cook two more hours, and then put in the brains. At this time add salt, black pepper, and a dash of red pepper. This stew usually is preferred highly seasoned. When it is thoroughly cooked, the gravy may be thickened slightly with about 2 tablespoons flour in a half cup of water. Serve hot. And hot biscuits are almost a must.

Sweetbreads are usually pre-cooked, and then may be prepared in innumerable ways. They may be dipped in egg and crumbs and sauteed or fried in deep hot fat. They may be brushed with melted butter and broiled. A rich cream sauce or a tomato sauce makes a delectable dish. Some prefer to combine sweetbreads in a bechamel or rich white sauce, or with mushrooms in a mushroom sauce. Sweetbreads supreme served on hot waffles or in patty shells achieve the ultimate in good elegance.

Sweetbreads Supreme
2 pairs sweetbreads
2 cups thinly sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
1 recipe bechamel sauce
1-3 cup top milk or cream.
Soak sweetbreads in cold water. Remove all membranes. Simmer in water to cover for 15 minutes, adding 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt for each quart of water. The acid keeps them white. (This is the usual pre-cooking method for sweetbreads.) Drain and cut in cubes. Saute mushrooms in butter until lightly browned. Combined cubed sweetbreads, mushrooms and bechamel sauce; heat thoroughly; season to taste. Makes about 6 servings.

Bechamel Sauce
7/8 cups chicken or real stock
1 teaspoon grated onion
Pinch of thyme
Few grains nutmeg
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cream
Dash cayenne
Salt, pepper to taste
Combine stock, onion, thyme and nutmeg. Bring to boil reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes. Strain and measure, adding water to make one cup if necessary.
Melt butter over low heat, add flour, blend. Gradually stir in milk and strained stock; cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add cream, cayenne, salt and pepper.

Families that have never been eating a fond of liver will probably reverse their opinion if they are served liver in the piece rather than in slices and cooked Swiss style as for round steak.
Swiss-style liver and barbecued liver both fall into the group of braised dishes, for the former is braised with tomatoes and onions, while the latter is cooked with a barbecue sauce for the liquid.

Swiss-Style Liver
1 1/4 pounds liver
Flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 onions
2 1/2 cups tomatoes
Pork or beef liver may be used. Buy liver in one piece. Dredge with flour mixed with salt and pepper. Brown in lard or drippings. Slice onions thinly and add with tomatoes. Cover pan and cook in a moderate oven (35 degrees F.) or simmer on top of range for 1 1/2 hours. Add water if needed. Serve with vegetables poured around liver. Serves 6-8.

The fine flavor of heart is brought out by long slow cooking. Many prefer to cook heart on top of the range, covered in a pot of water which has a teaspoon of salt to the quart. Beef heart will require 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours to be perfectly tender, but after that there are numerous ideas for the final preparation. One that is especially tasty is heart with raisin and brown sugar sauce.

Raisin Sauce
Simmer 1/2 cup raisins in 2 cups heart stock. Combine 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt and few grains of pepper, and blend together with 2 to 4 tablespoons vinegar. Stir into raisins and water, and cook 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour over heart, which may be left whole to be sliced by the host at the table, or over heart slices and bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees, for 30 minutes.

Braised heart with apples is a fine combination. Cook the heart as you would a pot roast, but with quartered apples sprinkled with brown sugar, cloves and crushed bay leaf. Or braise the heart with onions, carrots and other vegetables.
The large beef heart can be filled with a stuffing, skewered across the top and then braised. Or a dressing and brown gravy may be made from the stock of the boiled heart. In this case, place the heart in an open baking dish, surround with the family's favorite breadcrumb dressing, and bake slowly until brown.

Spiced Tongue
1 beef tongue, 2 tablespoons salt, water to cover, 3 pieces celery, 12 whole cloves, 1 large bay leaf, 12 whole peppers. Wash tongue scrubbing it thoroughly in warm water with a small brush. Cover tongue with salted water, and the celery and spices and cook slowly until tender, about 1 hour to pound. Skin and slice.

Cook 2 cups sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups water for 10 minutes. Pour over tongue. Add several small onions, thinly sliced. Store in a cold place and use as desired.
Oh, so many cooks lack imagination when it comes to brains. As far as they are concerned it's just brains and eggs, but there are numerous other ways to serve brains as the result is really a food delicacy. A notable example is broiled brains with bacon.

Turtle eggs and those of the guinea, a giant lizard, are often used for food by South Americans. Iowa produces about one third of U. S. popcorn.

Winning Party In Britain Will Run The Whole Works

BY WILLIAM H. OATIS
AP STAFF

LONDON, Feb. 23. — The British election, unlike elections in the United States, is a winner-take-all affair.

The party that wins will run both the executive and the legislature. If it wins decisively and can make its advantage stick, it is in solid for five years. It won't have to appeal to the voters again until 1953.

The reason for the difference between U. S. and British elections is this: In the states the chief executive — the President — and the two houses of Congress are elected at different intervals.

So there are elections of representatives every two years, the President every four and senators every six.

In Britain, on the other hand, the whole thing is dealt with at one time.

That is because the executive (the prime minister and his cabinet) gets its power from the legislature and only the legislature is elected directly.

The system is laid down in the British constitution which is not a single document like the American counterpart, but a body of written and unwritten law.

Here is how the system works: The British legislature — parliament — has two houses. The house of lords is made up of 260 members who get in through heredity or church position — nobles and bishops. It has little actual power.

Then there is the house of commons, made up of 625 members, chosen by the voters. That's the body which is up for election today.

The house of commons holds the real law making power. The party which controls that house is also the party which takes over the executive.

The main officers in the executive — cabinet and other ministers — are chosen from parliament, most of them from commons.

The British counterpart of the President of the United States is the prime minister.

Like the President, he chooses the cabinet. Unlike the President, however, he is a member of the legislature and picks his cabinet from that body.

Prime Minister Attlee is running for re-election today, but not as prime minister. He is running for re-election to commons.

Even if he himself wins, he cannot go on being prime minister unless his party — labor — gets the majority in commons. In other words he is prime minister only because he is the leader of the majority party.

CROMMELIN TO SPEAK OUT

Navy Captain To Test 'Gag' Order

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23. — Navy order to gag Capt. John G. Crommelin, Jr., outspoken foe of unification, seems headed for a test today.

Crommelin, with 15 speaking engagements on tap including one today, said he had no intention of dropping them unless specifically ordered by his superiors.

The gag order of Adm. Forrest Sherman, chief of naval operations, was made public by Crommelin yesterday and later confirmed by Vice Adm. George D. Murray, commander of the western sea frontier. It said:

"Direct Capt. John G. Crommelin to refrain from public statements, and from statements which may be published, which are critical of the organization or officials of the Department of Defense or are critical of any officer or group of officers."

Crommelin has been blasting "Prussian Pentagon policies" in speeches since his transfer here two months ago from the Navy Staff in Washington, D. C. The transfer followed his vociferous entry into the unification dispute.

Today's meeting at which he had a speaking date was before the San Francisco Business League at noon in the Marinas Memorial Club.

"I do not intend to turn in my suit," Crommelin said in his statement disclosing the ban on his public criticisms.

"I have scheduled 15 invitations to discuss our national security before groups of patriotic Americans during this month and next. Unless specifically ordered by my superiors, I intend to keep each appointment."

City Stands High In Postal Gains

Only one of the 61 other reporting cities exceeded Big Spring's gain in postal receipts in December of 1949, according to statistics released by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Snyder, which increased by 21 percent over the same period in 1948, topped Big Spring on a percentage basis.

Big Spring's postal receipts last December were $22,529, as compared to $17,328 for December of 1948, representing an increase of 29.3 percent.

Snyder's 1948 figures for that month amounted to $9,168, compared to $5,964 in 1948.

In third place among the gainers, was Abilene where receipts increased to $70,078 from $55,028, or 27.4 percent.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

In The Cross Of Christ I Glory

In the Cross of Christ I glory,
Towering o'er the wrecks of time,
All the light of sacred story
Gathers round its head sublime.

When the cross of life o'erwhelms me,
Hopes deceive and fears annoy,
Never shall the Cross forsake me,
Lest I glow with peace and joy.

When the sun of bliss is beaming
Light and love upon my way,
From the Cross the radiance streaming
Adds new lustre to the day.

Bene and blessing, pain and pleasure,
By the Cross are sanctified,
Peace is there that knows no measure,
Joys that through all time abide.

When the roll of great hymns of the cross is called, two glorious lyrics always head the list. One of these is Isaac Watts' masterpiece, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross". The other is Sir John Bowring's inspired hymn, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory".

Matthew Arnold characterized Watts' hymn as the finest in the English language, but many critics prefer Sir John's lyric and it has become universally popular in churches of all Christian denominations. Bowring was inspired to write his beautiful hymn-verse while traveling in the Orient. As consul general for the English government at Hongkong he sailed one day down the Chinese coast to Macao, where several centuries earlier Catholic missionaries and native Christians had erected a stately cathedral on a high point overlooking the sea. Many years before Bowring's visit a hurricane had collapsed the beautiful church, but the cathedral tower surrounded by its triumphant cross, was still standing, silhouetted against the sky far above, the wreckage strewn about on the shore below, the cross seemed to the hymnist to typify destruction. To him, as he gazed skyward, it seemed to give testimony to the eternal nature of spiritual things. Within a few minutes he dashed off the stanzas which ever since have been so precious to hymn lovers.

During the Boxer uprising in China foreigners in Peking had been besieged for many weeks by Chinese troops. Finally the siege was ended with the arrival of allied soldiers, and Christian missionaries grateful for the rescue, gathered in the Temple of Heaven, the famous pagan shrine in the heart of the city where the Chinese emperor was accustomed to worship. Their song of thanksgiving was Bowring's hymn:

"In the cross of Christ I glory,
Towering o'er the wrecks of time;
All the light of sacred story
Gathers 'round its head sublime."

Sir John was a distinguished linguist as well as a statesman and hymn writer. It is said that he was able to converse fluently in 22 different languages. His interest in hymns was as keen in later life as in earlier years when he was writing the gems which have made him famous. He will be best remembered for his hymn of the cross, the title of which was inscribed upon his tombstone, but he wrote several others, including "How Sweetly Floated The Gospel's Sound", "God Is Love!", and "His Mercy Brightens".

Food Competition Is Getting Keener

By SAM DAWSON
AP Staff
NEW YORK, Feb. 22 — Competition in the food business will get rougher in the months ahead. And the one person who seems surest of gaining is the housewife—in lower food prices and better service.

This is the view of a spokesman for the U. S. Wholesale Grocers Assn., a group of some 900 independents who have found themselves increasingly in competition with the chains. Its executive vice-president, Harold O. Smith, Jr., says in an interview: Chain groceries and supermarkets, whether chain or independent, will grow this year. But the months ahead will see a greater increase in the superette—that is the independent neighborhood store, all dolled up (or all streamlined down) to a "little super," with the customer-appeal of the giant food emporiums and comparable prices.

The independent will be fighting hard to hold his present 65 per cent of the business, says Smith. He thinks the chains and supermarkets will be working just as hard to push their 35 per cent to an even 50 per cent, at the expense inevitably of the others. The independents say the present ratio is healthier for the nation. The chains contend their efficiency and pioneering has brought about prices lower than they might have been otherwise and the better service and quality which the housewife enjoys today.

And how are the independents going to hold their own and give the housewife more and better food for her money? Smith thinks it can be done:

1. If equal treatment is assured everybody in the food distribution business—that means "effective enforcement of the anti-trust laws to see that no one company can put the screws on to get price discounts that food processors have to make up by charging other grocers more for their stocks."

2. If the independents (perhaps taking a leaf from the chains) find "better ways of doing a better job."

A way of doing a better job, Smith says, is to help the independent retailer grow: 1. To modernize his store's lay-out, lighting and customer-appeal; 2. To tackle problems of turnover, to determine customer potentialities of his neighborhood, and to keep his stocks balanced; and 3. To know what his competitor's prices are.

New Marks Set In Stock Sale At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 22 (AP)—Three new world records for livestock auctions were claimed here yesterday after the close of the first annual San Antonio livestock exposition and auction.

The record-breaking sales were: A total of $1,800, at $8 a pound, for the grand champion duroc pig shown by Milroy Schneider of Seguin. The 225-pound animal was purchased by Joske's. The previous record was $1,500 established about 20 years ago.

A total of $3,275, at $31 a pound, for the grand champion fat lamb, a blocky 100-pound Southdown, shown by Robert and Thomas Pape of Fredericksburg. It was bought by Richard Friedrich of San Antonio. The previous record was $2,600 paid at the recent Houston show.

A total of $988, at $9.50 a pound, for the reserve grand champion lamb, shown by J. L. Stewardson of San Saba and bought by J. W. Kothmann & Sons Livestock Commission Co. of San Antonio. The animal weighed 104 pounds. Other purchases were high.

Alfalfa Seed Booms

DAVIS Calif. (AP)—There's a booming alfalfa business in California, growing alfalfa seeds for other parts of the U.S.A. Two new kinds of alfalfa are involved — Ranger and Buffalo. Neither grows as good hay here as native alfalfa. But the production of seeds of these varieties for the north-central and northeastern United States has doubled in the past year.

American Denied U. S. Citizenship

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Judge Burnita E. Matthews denied citizenship to a woman who was born in the United States. The woman, a native of Cleveland, married an Hungarian in 1925 and went to Hungary to live. She remained there through the war, although she testified she always represented herself as an American national.

She asked the court to reassert her U.S. citizenship. This was denied because it was established the woman voted in an Hungarian election in 1948. Judge Matthews rejected her plea that she had to vote on pain of being jailed and losing her ration card—and that she voted anti-Communist.

Phantom Burglar Sought In Thefts

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—Police Chief Walter M. Keim is looking for a "phantom hand" who leaves no marks to show how he enters or leaves the scene of his burglary jobs.

The American Legion hall first was burglarized of $250. Then a few weeks later members of the Knights of Columbus lodge reported they had the same sum stolen. The "phantom" return try at the Legion hall was less rewarding because little money was left in the building.

Chief Keim has a theory the burglar hides in the buildings until after the club rooms are closed.

Ghost Of Old-Time Grain Board Seen

By WILLIAM FERRIS
 CHICAGO, Feb. 23. (AP) — Old-time grain men, looking over the present agriculture situation, think they see a ghost.
 It's the ghost of the old Federal Farm Board. Only the ghost is much bigger than the original.
 The Federal Farm Board was established by the last Republican President, Herbert Hoover. Back in the early 1930s it tried to stabilize wheat and cotton prices. Today, the ghost of that old board is the Commodity Credit Corporation. It's trying to stabilize the price of dozens of farm commodities.

 Price stabilization generally has had the approval of farm groups—although there has been dispute over the level of supports.
 This attitude is expressed by Allen Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau, who says adequate price supports are necessary "to guard against the kind of price collapse which history has shown to be ruinous to the farmer and eventually to the whole economy."
 A new plan, advocated by Agriculture Secretary Brannan, would remove price supports from many farm products, but would guarantee income from "production payments"—or "subsidies"—to producers. However, this would not apply to grains.
 The method used by the farm board to keep up prices in wheat was to buy the grain—corn was bought outright and some was acquired by buying futures on the Chicago Board of Trade, and accepting delivery of wheat when the futures fell due.

 To finance its operations the board was provided with $500 million by Congress. Its first chairman was Alexander Legge, then president of International Harvester Corporation. It acted through two subsidiaries—the grain stabilization corporation and the Cotton Stabilization Corp.
 The grain stabilization corporation entered the wheat market twice and in all bought some 350 million bushels, the first operation being completed in the middle of 1935 and the second in the middle of 1937. Wheat sold around $1.25 when the corporation started buying.

As long as the corporation kept buying, it maintained the domestic price above the world price. But, even so, prices declined, and when the corporation ran out of money and couldn't buy any more, the price fell under 90 cents a bushel. The board was left with all the 1939-41 carryover in its possession. This acted as a drag on prices. And, with a new crop coming up, the board was confronted with a problem: What to do with its wheat?

 Some of the wheat was given away to the Red Cross, which had mills grind it into flour to feed people on relief. Some was dumped abroad at a price which, after deducting storage and insurance charges for the time the board held it, netted only a few cents a bushel to the board.

Opposite Numbers In British Election Both Come From The Same Social Class

WINSTON CHURCHILL and CLEMENT ATTLEE, leaders of the opposing parties in the British election, Feb. 23, come from similar social classes. Attlee, a lawyer and son of a lawyer, might be called upper middle class. Churchill, the grandson of a duke, is an aristocrat. Both attended England's privileged public schools. Each was a leader in his party at an early age and each held various cabinet posts when his party was in power. But here the similarity ends.

CHURCHILL has been the dashing soldier, trained at Sandhurst Military Academy. He is the brilliant writer and orator who has command of the telling phrase. He is the Conservative who backs the idea of empire.

At 75, he is more than eight years older than his opponent, Paunchy, with heavy jowls and a rugged jaw, he symbolizes John Bull.

As a soldier, he helped Spain quell rebels in Cuba in 1898, fought an India's frontier in 1907. He was on the Nile in 1908 and in the Boer War in 1900-1901. He first went to parliament in 1900. He was first lord of the Admiralty in 1911-15. And he was an officer in World War I, fighting for part of 1915 and 1916. Then he went back to the government in 1917.

In World War II he became the leader and symbol of his country's fight to defeat Hitler. As the days of appeasement drew to a close he again became first lord of the Admiralty. When war came he was called as prime minister.

His coalition government drew all groups of the nation together. His flaming oratory kept the confidence of the people and stirred his future allies.

After the fall of France, he grimly kept Britain and the empire in the fight—alone.

He had close ties with President Roosevelt and later worked with Joseph Stalin.

"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat," he said when he became prime minister. And after Dunkerque: "We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender."

But when Germany had been beaten, he lost the election to Attlee, the Socialist who had been his deputy prime minister. The people, observers agreed, rejected the Conservative, not the war leader.

Churchill, his cigar clamped in his teeth, his pudgy fingers still making the V for victory sign, joined the opposition. He slanted at Labor programs, scoffed at moves which, he said, rocked up the empire.

Still the Conservative, he fights for a comeback against the tide of socialism.

ATTLEE is the scholar who took honors at Oxford. As a young man he joined the Socialist Party when it was "not quite respectable." He went into the London slums to see how workingmen lived and himself worked for a time on the docks.

Then he went into social work.

With a bushy mustache, Attlee is slight. He smokes a pipe in contrast to the Churchill cigar. His speaking voice is thin and halting. Some observers say he is not brilliant. But they also speak of his clear thinking.

As a young man he worked in settlement houses, talked on street corners, taught in Socialist schools. He said he was a pacifist, but he enlisted in World War I and be-

What Do Women Want? Chivalry Or Equal Rights?

By CYNTHIA LDWY
Associated Newsfeatures Writer

Once again the Congress is debating a constitutional amendment providing equal rights for women. This matter has come up annually for more than a quarter of a century, and opinion on the subject—when not composed of wisecracks—seems to be split wide open.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith, for instance, thinks an amendment would be a fine thing, and she admits that it would mean the end of women's privileges. The account I read of her position did not specify just what those privileges consist of.

The average non-political woman I casually surveyed on the subject mentioned unanimously that such an amendment would mean that men no longer removed their hats in elevators when women were present; no longer gave up seats to women in a crowded public conveyance, and no longer let women go through doors first. As most of us know, this type of privilege is almost as extinct as the antinecessary. At this half century mark we usually encounter such old-world courtesy only when the male is trying to make an impression on the lady he is escorting.

On the other side of the coin, as the saying goes, I find the ladies are dubious about gaining much merely because there's a constitutional amendment.

For instance, will an amendment mean that women by the hundreds immediately jump into high echelon jobs in industry and the professions? It's still a newspaper story when a woman is elected to a board of directors, is elected president of a firm or in some way gets into the class of having maybe two telephones and a bunch of flowers on a tidy desk.

There must be some way to go towards equality—if that's what women are seeking. Itself a highly debatable point—when the happy-marriage experts find it necessary to point out that husbands with regularly employed wives should help with the dishes. Apparently, many husbands still think it's a woman's privilege and inalienable right to monopolize all kitchen drudgery.

In the preliminary vocal skirmishes on the equal rights subject, a gentleman from the south, traditionally inhabited by beautiful and completely protected women, raised his voice in firm opposition. Senator Estes Kefauver pointed out legislation might mean drafting of women into the armed services. If recollection serves, that was just exactly what a lot of women thought would be a good idea in the last war—and what England had. Many a WAC and WAVC volunteer was browned off a few years back when the armed services decided they would cut back on the number of women permitted to serve in the armed forces.

Finally, the Senator suggested that divorce and alimony laws would become void. Apparently, alimony is a woman's privilege. In my time, I've heard of men who received alimony, and there probably would be more of them except that in our society, it's usually the man who makes a higher salary than the woman.

Texans Facing Three-Dollar Haircut

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

Three dollar haircuts? Joe Kanipe predicted them when he closed his 25-year-old barber shop at Corpus Christi recently. Costs are going up, he said. And Kanipe figures, too, the day is coming when you won't find barber shops on downtown streets—just little shops in office buildings. "They'll be upstairs in offices, just like dentists," he told Jim Greenwood of the Caller-Times. "And they'll do business by appointment only."

This latter prediction already has come true in big Texas cities. In Dallas, for instance, there is only one street barber shop in the high rent center of the business area. Shops are in hotels, business buildings and clubs.

Some city barbers already do more than 50 per cent appointment business. The three-dollar haircut hasn't arrived, but by the time you get out the door after a Saturday session with barber, manicurist, shoe shine artist and whitening broom maestro, the total reaches professional status. And we remember the day when Joe Kanipe used to cut our hair for 25 cents.

It isn't the money but the time that is changing the barber's profession. A busy man doesn't object to 50 cents for a daily shave but he hasn't the time to go into a shop for it. He'd rather have a less perfect shave at home, where he can get it in a hurry and perhaps indulge in a little early-morning bathroom harmony. That is, if the rest of the family is out of the way and he can get in the bathroom.

In the country towns, if you go far enough up the forks of the creek, you can still find the old-fashioned barber shop. It will be right on the town square. It is a meeting place for the first citizens of the community, for discussion of everything from President Truman's new automobile to the high school football prospects and the H-bomb. In a big can of hot water on the gas stove is a steaming hot towel, for use on all comers. Barbers say: It's as difficult to cut a child's hair as an adult's, sometimes harder if the child fights and squirms. When you climb into the chair of a strange barber, give him quick directions on how you want your hair cut. . . then forget about it. More shops would have those foot-essing rubber mats around chairs except some owners say they're too hard to keep clean. A good razor costs them $5 to $10. Some barbers home their away in a year, while others use a good razor five years or even 10.

Expert Says Noise Causing Deafness And Inefficiency

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 23. noise research specialist. "is taking its worst beating since the dawn of civilization. And except in some business offices, little is being done about it."

As the result of research at the Navy's shipyard here, industrial noise stands charged with causing deafness, decreasing working efficiency and even divorce.

This finding comes from Willard B. Hargrave, executive director of the National Auricular Foundation, a welfare organization started here 12 years ago to solve speech and hearing problems among children.

As a result of a nationwide survey in schools, the foundation was asked to make an industrial noise study here among 5,000 workers in all categories.

Its conclusions: Mechanical din breeds accidents, contributes to absenteeism and affects emotional stability. Moreover, it is costing American industry millions of dollars yearly.

"Modern living and working conditions are supposed to be better than ever before," Hargrave said. "This is true of such things as lighting, diet, medical care, clothing and housing." But the ear, he added, has been almost completely neglected.

Hargrave has learned that noise causes deafness in direct relation to the degree of loudness and the time in which the ears are exposed. So little work has been done on the subject, he said, that no definite danger line, expressed in decibels (units of sound), has been established.

Of all workers tested here, many of them in relatively quiet jobs less than half had normal hearing. The tests were made with a sensitive sound meter.

By holding this meter next to the ears of craftsmen, Hargrave found that welders, boiler-makers and those who operate pneumatic clipping tools have the noisiest jobs. But high noise levels and significant deafness were found in unsuspected classifications such as painters—using spray guns—and machinists.

Auditory fatigue and middle ear damage are conducive to all sorts of domestic upsets, Hargrave believes.

"Many men have said they were not consciously bothered by noise during working hours. Yet when they get home their tempers are frayed, their children have to be quiet and their wives go around on tiptoe," he said.

What to do about the din: "Some noises can be reduced at the source, but the best way probably is to block the ear," Hargrave suggests.

One member of an experimental group put plugs in his ears and went to a movie. It was great, the man said. He could hear the music and dialogue but not the cruching popcorn bags.

"Industry is going to have to take the lead against deafness by studying noise reduction measures and probably by compelling workers to wear sound-deadening devices," Hargrave declared.

Hargrave's findings and recommendations are being studied in Washington for application to Naval establishments.

"Noise," said the specialist, "is one racket from which nobody profits."

Children Copy Grownups

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Education Writer

Children are happy little copycats. They're never more content than when, arrayed in some of Mother's or Father's castoff garments, they parade—indoors or out—assuming the dignity or graces and airs of their elders.

And because they are such copycats, the National Kindergarten Association asks: "Did you ever happen to think that children are often like community newspapers?" We may read of many habits of family life by watching the boys and girls at play and listening to their conversations.

If teachers are careful and thoughtful readers, says the Association, they will obtain helpful information regarding the home life of their pupils. For example, Tom is kind to little children—when they are hurt, he picks them up and amuses them until they feel better. Tom must always have been treated kindly and must have had practice in being kind, or he would not do such thoughtful acts so naturally.

So, too, with Linda, who runs to accompany her grandmother as she walks out to the automobile. She feels that she is helping, and grandmother enjoys watching her bright eyes and their happy expressions when she is holding her hand. Jack quickly picks up the pencil his teacher has dropped. Marcia never forgets her "thank you" and "please." Susan, when coughing, always remembers to put her handkerchief over her mouth. Clifford rises when Mother's friends speak to him.

Yes, says the association, this represents careful teaching and practice, but what makes the practice enjoyable? Boys and girls are discriminating. When there is someone they like very much, they are apt to copy that person's ways and acts.

This "copycatting" is just as natural as breathing. As long as it does not eventually develop into "keeping-up-with-the-Joneses," and as long as the model is a good one, there is no danger from it. It is full of possibilities to the alert parent.

Take for example the book friends of our children. Often we do not realize how close they are to our boys and girls. Some children live with their heroes and heroines day after day.

So, Mothers and Dads, we should be careful to whom we introduce them. Peter Rabbit, Black Beauty, Timmy Tim and the rest of Bob Cratchit's interesting family, Meg Jo, Beth and Amy—each of these characters and their associations have a very special meaning for every boy and girl.

Berlin Is Smaller, But It Smokes More

BERLIN (AP)—Berlin's population is about one million less than before the war, but its cigarette consumption has increased by two billion a year.

City statistics show that Berliners smoke eight billion cigarettes a year, compared with six billion in pre-war years. This makes an average of 7 or 8 cigarettes a day for each adult. Also more Berlin women have joined the smokers. Only eight per cent used to smoke 20 years ago. Today it's 38 per cent.

Tuberculois need not be a fatal disease. It can be cured, but it is easiest to cure when discovered early and treatment is begun at once.

If You Have The Knowledge, You Can Make Money As Chicken-Sexer

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

Looking for a good-paying occupation in an uncrowded field? You can make upwards of $50 per day as a chicken sexer.

A chicken sexer is a person who can, with lightning rapidity, determine the sex of day-old chicks. This is important in the hatchery business, because some poultry buyers want only pullets. All pullets will cost a buyer up to twice as much as mixed chicks. A hatching of chicks will average half pullets and half roosters.

That's where the chicken sexers come in. The business takes a sharp eye and much training. Fred J. Glass says. Glass, owner of the Texas Chick Hatchery at Arlington added: "It's sort of an art, you might say, and the Japanese are the best at it, or people of Japanese descent."

"The best chicken sexer I ever saw was a man of Japanese parentage named Cecil who hails from Alabama. Cecil works for me now, every Monday. I pay him a cent a chick and Cecil can sex 500 chicks an hour. When he's in a hurry, he can sex 1,200. And he'll be right 99 per cent of the time."

"Cecil lives at Grapevine and he trains other people of Japanese parentage. They work for him. There's also a training place in Pennsylvania called the American Chick Sexing Assn. They train people and send them all over the world. I have known people other than Japanese who were good chicken sexers. And some I have known weren't good at all. I don't know why there aren't more chicken sexers—might be that it requires too much training or ability. But the field certainly isn't crowded.

"Cecil comes in on Monday. He'll put a box of chicks in front of him and empty boxes on each side of him. The pullets go into the box at the right and the cockerels go in the one on his left. Some sexers squeeze a chick when they inspect it—but not Cecil. He doesn't have to. This makes him faster and it's a lot easier on the chick. "Cecil looks to be about 40, seldom says a word to anyone except me and it's a real pleasure to watch him work."

Court Backs Berlin Blockade Smuggling

BERLIN (AP)—A German court has ruled that men who smuggled food into west Berlin during the Russian blockade are innocent of any law breaking. The case invoiced two butchers who were sneaking meat through the Russian blockade.

But the butchers were fined $10 for failing to put their meat at public disposal—at rationed prices. The men sold their meat in the black market.

PROGRAM BEING DRAFTED

Plan To Bolster Jobless Insurance

By CLARKE BEACH
AP Staff

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Administration economists are now convinced that Old Man Depression found a weak spot in the nation's economic defenses when he launched his brief but violent attack in 1949.

The Unemployment Compensation Insurance System proved inadequate in some respects, they believe, although they do credit it with helping to lock the 1949 recession.

The President in two of his messages to Congress announced that he would seek to strengthen the system. Officials are now preparing a bill which the administration will propose.

One of the weakest spots in the system, these officials feel, is that in many states the unemployed don't receive compensation long enough. In the first nine months of 1949 more than one million unemployed workers who had been drawing compensation were cut off because their states would not carry them beyond a certain period. In some states more than half the beneficiaries got into this fix.

The administration feels also that the system doesn't cover so many workers as it should and that some states pay too little in benefits.

The administration's proposal is to require the states to meet certain new standards before they can qualify for federal assistance in financing their systems.

It wants benefits to be paid for 26 weeks if the beneficiary is honestly trying to find work and doesn't refuse a suitable job. It wants maximum benefits to equal 50 per cent of the weekly wage the workers had been earning—up to, but not exceeding, a benefit of $30 a week if the worker is single or $42 a week if he has three or more dependents.

Maximum benefits now paid by the states to single persons range from $15 to $27 per week. Duration of benefits ranges from 12 to 26 1/2 weeks.

About all the states have to do to qualify now is to have an unemployment compensation law, collect a tax on employers to finance it and keep the returns in the federal treasury in a trust fund from which to make payments.

The idea of compelling the states to meet certain federal standards has already aroused opposition. Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) calls it a violation of states rights and the nationalization of the unemployment insurance system. The Council of State Governments had long been opposed to even the control the federal government exercises.

Some state officials say state governments have shown far more interest in taking care of their unemployed than has the federal government. After the present federal unemployment compensation law was passed in 1935, the federal government did so more about the matter. But in the states the system has been repeatedly revised and benefits greatly increased as living costs rose. The average weekly benefit paid in 1939-1940 was $11.

The effect of the injection has to last long enough to give local industry time to recover from whatever it was that caused it to lay off workers. But no one would expect it to provide for the unemployed in a major, prolonged depression. Then other measures, such as public works or a dole, would have to be adopted.

The injection must be substantial in order to be effective, the federal men believe. But the average benefit payment now is only 37 per cent of the wage that had been earned, and in some states it is as low as 20 per cent.

And so few unemployed receive any compensation that the total amount of insurance being paid last year was only one sixth of the employment, according to Robert C. Goodwin, director of the Bureau of Employment Security. This was both because so many had exhausted their benefit rights and also because not all workers are covered.

Thirty per cent of the persons who work for other persons are not covered. One of the administration proposals is to levy the unemployment insurance tax on all employers who have one or more employees, instead of eight or more as now provided. The administration would also remove some of the present exemptions, such as those on federal workers and insurance salesmen.

The system is supported by a tax on the pay-roll of employers. Only two states, Alabama and New Jersey, also tax the employee. The national average of tax rates now of 1.3 per cent.

The proposed changes would cost more. The administration has made no suggestion yet as to how the additional burden would be met except to propose that the federal government be authorized to reimburse the states' trust funds, so as to supplement them if they get too low.

It is planned, however, to enable the states to collect more tax money by broadening the base of taxable payrolls.

Now the tax is on the first $3,000 of salary. If the tax base for the old age and survivors' insurance system is broadened to $4,800 as now proposed, a similar base probably will be proposed for the unemployment insurance system.

Russia Is Old Story In Bulgaria

SOFIA (AP)—The Russian influence is nothing new in Bulgaria. Anybody who walks six blocks through the center of Sofia has that brought home to him by the names of landmarks along the way. The pedestrian can start at the blocklike white limestone mausoleum of Georgi Dimitroff, who came home from Moscow after 22 years in exile to become Communist premier of postwar Bulgaria.

The way leads along a boulevard named for Alexander II of Russia. He warred on the Turks for Bulgaria's freedom. Four blocks down stands St. Alexander Nevsky Bulgarian Orthodox cathedral, named for a thirteenth-century Russian warrior. Ahead is a statue of Alexander on horseback. Beyond that is Marshal Tolbukhin street, honoring the Russian leader whose troops were on Bulgarian soil at the time of the 1944 revolt.

Reds End Rug Trade

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (AP)—Kashmir's brisk trade in colorful yak and rug has come to an end with Chinese Communist control of Sikkim province.

Until recently, Moslem traders traveling by yak and horseback came south through Himalayan passes with thousands of small felt rugs. Kashmiri artisans embroidered bright designs on the rugs and shipped them to the United States and United Kingdom.

STATE POLICE ON ALERT

Non-Union Miners Carry Guns To Protect Right To Work

Junior Tourney Starts Friday

FORSAN, Feb. 23—Junior high school basketball teams from a two-county area are entered in the Forsan Invitational tournament, which begins here at 6 o'clock Friday evening and continues through Saturday night. The opening game pits Vealmoor against Center Point. At 7 p. m., Knott clashes with Klondike. An hour later, Courtney takes the court against Forsan while at 9 p. m., Coahoma and Sterling City have at it. Semi-finals will be played at 10 and 11 a. m. Saturday while the title match goes on at 7 p. m. that day, immediately before the Howard County Junior college - Texas Tech freshman contest.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—State police and roving pickets played a grim game of "hide-and-go-seek" today while non-union miners carried guns to enforce their right to work during the soft coal strike. Western Pennsylvania's ice-coated highways were patrolled by state policemen on the alert for new outbreaks such as occurred sporadically yesterday. Peace officers in other soft coal-producing states, including West Virginia, also feared new violence. Three diggers were beaten yesterday at a strip (surface) mine near Clearfield, Pa. The men who inflicted the beatings promised to return in full strength today.

A 200-man caravan also struck two mines near Pittsburgh and five truck drivers were forced to dump their loads of coal.

Bradley Will Give Views On Atom Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Lawmakers digging into the question of civil defense in the atomic age called in Gen. Omar Bradley today for the military viewpoint. The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff was expected to brief the Senate-Atomic Energy Commission on the types of attack an enemy could launch against this country—and what civil defense measures such attacks might call for.

Bradley's testimony was to be given behind closed doors. One reason for the secret sessions is to determine how much information can be disclosed in a series of public hearings—probably starting after March 1—without giving away the nation's vital atomic secrets. The committee has heard from the Atomic Energy Commission in earlier hearings on civil defense. Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel prize winning atomic scientist, told a Senate foreign relations subcommittee recently that the nation should guard against an enemy sending ships loaded with atomic bombs into U. S. harbors.

Demaret Goes After Jackpot

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON, Feb. 23.—Colorful Jimmy Demaret, who has had tough luck in most previous stops in his native city, went after the Houston Open golf jackpot today.

Demaret, born here 40 years ago, paced a field of 165 that was to see off in the first round of the $10,000 tournament at the Brae Burn Country Club.

He appeared determined to better a record that has seen him finish no higher than fourth in previous Houston Opens.

Demaret clipped off a few par saves here late yesterday afternoon while tuning up on the layout he knows so well.

A heavy Tuesday rain had closed the course but it was reopened late yesterday after a reluctant sun broke through.

Club Pro Milton Demaret, Jimmy's brother, said the 7,725-yard, par 72 layout would be in pretty good shape for today's first round.

Jimmy took a brief tour with two of the three men who figure to give him the most trouble for the meet's $2,000 first prize.

All three—Demaret, Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla., and Jackie Burke, Jr., a young Houston player who set a 72-hole course record at Harlingen last week—stuck close to par.

Twenty-eight amateurs were among those in today's pairings. The field of 165 will be cut to the low 60 plus ties after tomorrow's second round.

Health Evaluation Schedule To Be Set

Mrs. Anne Edwards, technical clerical assistant for the State Health Department, was to be in Big Spring today to assist in compiling the annual evaluation schedule for the city-county health unit. The evaluation schedule calls for a complete record of disease incidence, population concentration figures according to towns in the county, and the number of deaths in relation to those during 1949. Mary Howard, clerk for the local unit, said Mrs. Edwards is from Austin.

Gang Slays Storekeeper

PELL CITY, Ala., Feb. 23.—An unmasked gang shot a white storekeeper to death at his home last night just after he told a son: "I think the Ku Kluxers are after me."

The victim, 39-year-old Charlie Hurst, fell fatally wounded as he snatched a rifle from a son and fired three shots at his assailants.

The son, Howard Hurst, 19, was wounded in the hip. The younger Hurst told officers he was sure his father's shots struck someone in the car. "I don't see how he could have missed," he commented.

Sheriff Ira Davis said officers were checking all hospitals and physicians in the area to determine if any had treated a man for a gunshot wound.

Young Hurst, a cotton mill worker, said he knew of no motive for the attack.

The elderly Hurst had operated a small country rolling store until about two months ago. Relatives said he was ill and had not been able to work recently.

Miss Gilbert, our grammar school principal, spoke the other night at the regular Parent-Teachers' meeting, on getting children to do their homework when they want to listen to the radio.

"We mustn't give them a flat 'no,'" Miss Gilbert said. "If we adults really believe in tolerance and moderation, we should instill these qualities in our children. Listening to the radio is fine—in moderation—as long as homework gets done, too."

Newsom Super Market To Open On West Third St. Saturday

Big Spring will have one of the most modern super markets in the Southwest Saturday. Formal opening of the Newsom Super Market is set for 8 a. m. Saturday, E. L. Newsom, owner, announced today.

Prizes for customers, an exhibition performance by the world's champion fancy top spinner, and music by a local orchestra will highlight the opening program. Visitors will be shown through the big store throughout the day.

The supermarket was modeled after similar stores in Hollywood and in Richmond, Va., the owner said. Markets in all parts of the country were studied in the planning stage of the Big Spring store. "It is to be the most modern in all the Southwest," Newsom declared.

Among its outstanding features is the glassed-in front and side New "Golden Glass" that completely cuts out all glare from sun or auto headlights has been used for the entire front and on one side of the building. Glassed-in area is 850 square feet.

The insulated steel and concrete structure is ventilated through eight ceiling outlets for two large air conditioning units. Self-service refrigerated fruit and vegetable cases, meat service cases, frozen food cabinets, and refrigerated fish and poultry cases line three walls of the store which extends along W. 3rd street for almost a half block.

Display stands and shelves, uniformly located over the floor, extend only chest-high, permitting vision throughout the store.

Packing room, where all frozen foods are packaged and prepared for the open service cases, will be refrigerated, insuring complete sanitation of meats and vegetables. The super market is to open with all new stocks in every department, Newsom stated.

Among the gifts to be presented Saturday are three electric cookers, a Hotpoint electric refrigerator, three electric defroster units, and three baskets of groceries. T. E. Landreth, world champion top spinner, is to give an exhibition of fancy top work at 9:30 a. m.

A Big Spring orchestra is to furnish music for the opening program for the red-and-yellow store at 3rd and Bell.

Open house will be held at the new store all day Sunday, Newsom said. Attendants are to be on hand to show visitors through all departments of the super market.

Tarzan Youth Wins Scholarship For Record In Farm Activities

Dewayne Peterson, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Peterson of Tarzan is one of the seven 4-H club cotton producers in the state to receive an Anderson-Clayton cotton scholarship for 1949.

The list of winners was announced today by Floyd Lynch, state 4-H club leader of Texas A&M college.

Each winner will receive a $200 college scholarship provided he studies agriculture in college. Law awards are provided by the Anderson-Clayton Co. of Houston and the cotton improvement program is sponsored by the Texas Extension Service.

Dewayne is a member of the Stanton 4-H club and is a junior in Stanton high school. He has been a 4-H member for six years, completing demonstrations involving field crops, beef cattle, swine and poultry.

Records show that he has handled 90 acres of cotton, 80 acres of grain sorghum, 29 hogs, two beef calves and 42 turkeys in connection with his club work. He has served as the secretary-treasurer of his local club twice and last year was high individual on the Martin county 4-H grass judging team that placed fifth in the state contest.

The 4-H booth from Dewayne's club won first at the county fair and he produced the heaviest litter of pigs for his store area in the Sears-Roebuck Foundation pig program.

His cotton demonstration in 1949 involved 30 acres. In his section of the state, wind erosion is a problem and mechanical practices are often used to help control losses. He used one of them—deep breaking. In addition to its soil conserving value, it also helps to break up the soil and permits deeper root and moisture penetration. The land was bedded or listed in the spring, and Dewayne used 3,000 of 16-20-0 fertilizer on his crop.

He planted Western Prolific cotton, and after it was up, made use of a home constructed implement known as a "sand digger" to control small weeds and damage from blowing soil. He used dusting sulphur to control the cotton fleahoppers and later used DDT and sulphur to control bollworms.

From the 30 acres he harvested 5,061 pounds of lint cotton and 8,440 pounds of seed. This was an average of about 160 pounds per acre. The average for his community was reported at 125 pounds per acre.

Net return was $623. Dewayne's demonstration work was supervised by Ralph L. Jones, Martin County agent.

9,000 Chickens In One House

AMBOY, Ill. (AP)—John Kileman has figured a way to raise 9,000 chickens under one roof. He constructed an improved version of the circular "hen house." His 150-foot diameter building is pie-cut into eight sections, each containing ultra-modern watering, feeding and nesting equipment. The floor slopes to the center drain for easy cleaning.

A 16-foot center circle serves as a work area. A feed carrier mounted on a circle monorail suspended from the ceiling enables one man to tend the flock.

Boy Dies Of Polio

Lincoln's Church Coming Down

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, which President Lincoln attended, is to be torn down. A new church, larger than the present one but of the same general appearance, is to be built on the site.

Super-Onion

DAVIS, Calif. (AP)—A new kind of onion, the Yellow Bermuda 998, yields 35 per cent more high-quality onions than ordinary Bermudas, reports the College of Agriculture here. The 998 also matures 10 to 14 days earlier and produces fewer culls. It was developed in a 3-way experiment by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and the experiment station of the University of California.
