Their venture into major crime cut shore after a week of flight, Harmon M. Waley and his wife, Margaret, above, confessed members of the gang which kidnaped George Weyerhaeuser Jr., in Tacoma, Wash., gave information that led to finding of nearly half the $200,000 ransom money paid by the lad's father for his return.

Appropriate Theme Song Is Part of the Big Passion Show

The music of the Great European Passion Play that is to be presented in the Ranger Recreation Auditorium under the auspices of the leading civic and religious leaders for three performances, claims to be the original production with the most appropriate theme song.

The music is a collection of that produced by the greatest masters known, who used as their inspiration, the dramatic periods of the last seven days of Christ's life on earth, the same events that are portrayed by the Passion Players.

During the performance proper, scene after scene is augmented with music that opens with "Adoration of the Cross," by Dubois of "The Last Seven Words," "The Palm Branches" is next as the expectant crowd assembles waving palm branches, while "See the Conquering Hero Comes," by Handel is sung as the audience thrills at their first sight of the expectant throng astride a donkey.

During the Last Supper scene, described by many as "The bringing to life of the famous Da Vinci painting," so vividly do these humble and devout players interpret, the chorus sings "Ave Verum" by Mozart.

Throughout the entire play, when at times the chorus is not blending with the orchestra, the orchestra is playing such numbers as "Parsifal," by Wagner; "Islamic Chant," by Sokoloff; "Dresden Amen" by Wagner and many others, all appropriate to the scenes during which they are used.

During the scourging of the Christ, the music is "Bach's Chorale No. 3." Enroute to Calvary laden with the heavy cross, this "molekest of men" is accompanied by Gounod's "March to Calvary."

The effectiveness of the realistic crucifixion scene is increased by the orchestra's playing "The Storm" by Holmes, and while upon the cross the chorus sings the hymn, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

The most triumphant scene finishing any production is the finale of the Passion Play when the chorus of 30 picked voices from the Ranger church choir sing the Hallelujah chorus from the Messiah by Handel. This chorus is practicing every evening this week under the able direction of Miss Kenneth Wier.

FIIBUSTER BY LONG BROKEN IN THE SENATE

Measure Goes To House For Concurrence Expected Friday.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—White house pressure applied a few hours after the senate broke Huey Long's 15 1/2-hour filibuster, and passed the NRA extension resolution, today forced acceptance by house leaders of senate amendments.

The revised measure was expected to be brought up in the house tomorrow for concurrence in the senate changes. It would then go to the white house.

Unless further difficulties develop, passage should be obtained to insure continuance of the skeleton NRA which otherwise expires Sunday.

House leaders went to the white house today, four hours after the senate passed the NRA extension at 6:14 a. m. Some of them were indignant at an anti-trust amendment inserted in the bill by the senate. After the conference with Mr. Roosevelt, however, it was announced the fight to eliminate the provision would not be made.

Testimony Heard In Damage Suit Over a Collision

"I told you to put your lights on," an irate girl told her driver companion after a crash on the Eastland-Ranger highway last September, H. E. Toland, employe of the Eastland county sanitary department, and witness of the accident, quoted in a personal damage suit Wednesday in 88th district court.

Hearing on the case in which H. S. Needham asks $8,269 for his son, Paul Weldon, because of an alleged accident with Tom Bruce of Callahan county and Paul Tomlin of Eastland county was begun Wednesday, but continued to July 2 after testimony of Toland was taken.

The plaintiff alleges that Bruce and Tomlin were negligent while driving without lights on the Eastland-Ranger highway on Sept. 22, 1934, when the accident occurred. Toland testified he was driving on the Ranger highway, was nearing a curve between Olden and Ranger, the Needham car was going approximately 25 miles per hour and was on the right side; the Bruce car was on the wrong side and crashed into Needham's car, turning it toward Eastland.

Judging from the impact, Toland testified for Needhams, the Bruce-Tomlin car was going approximately 45 miles per hour, and was without lights.

The Needhams were driving toward Ranger and Bruce and Tomlin from that city, Toland testified. Officers who came to the accident scene later found a whiskey bottle, Toland testified.

According to the petition of the plaintiff, Weldon Needham, as a result of the collision, suffered broken ribs and other injuries which will make him permanently disabled. The plaintiff alleges scalding water from the radiator burned his son.

Representing the plaintiff is Frank Sparks of Eastland and L. H. Fiewellen of Ranger. Judge R. L. Rust represents the defendants.

Dam Stops Flood In San Antonio SAN ANTONIO, June 13.—San Antonio escaped another disastrous flood today as Los Olmos dam in the upper-outskirts of the city held in check the water loosed by a four-inch rain last night. The rain caused the water level to rise 18 feet behind the dam. Creeds below the dam went out of their banks, causing several families to flee from their homes. Hundreds of cars were stalled in flooded streets. No deaths or property damage was reported.

Pastor Awaits Trial as Killer

With feeling flaming high, the Rev. Edgar Eskridge, above, awaits trial in Orange, Texas, accused of slaying Police Chief E. J. O'Reilly, a friend and member of the crusading pastor's congregation, and then fleeing to Louisiana, whence he was returned to Orange. O'Reilly had disarmed and warned the minister the day before the fatal shooting in an Orange street.

AIR CLIPPER LANDS SAFELY IN HONOLULU

HONOLULU, T. H., June 13.—Pan-American Airways' giant black and silver clipper ship landed on Pearl harbor at 8:58 a. m. P.M.T., today after a triumphal flight from Alameda, Calif., to Honolulu.

Capt. Edwin Music, skipper of the trail-blazing flying boat, and his crew of five men became the only aviators in history to fly the 2,410 miles of expanse of water between the California coast and the Hawaiian Islands more than once.

Defying rain and forecasts of cyclonic conditions over the Pacific, the clipper soared from the East San Francisco bay terminal at 3 p. m. yesterday, cutting 42 minutes from its record of 18 hours, 39 minutes for the flight.

Extend Time to Sign Applications For Certificates

Extension of time for signing applications for tax-exemption certificates under the Bankhead act was announced Thursday by O. W. Ewing, assistant in cotton adjustment. No date limit was announced.

Time for producers to sign at community meetings has expired and the county agent's office remains the only place where it may be done, Ewing stated.

"There are still quite a few of those who signed applications for cotton contracts in the spring who have not come in to sign their contracts and Bankhead applications," said Ewing. "Second notices are being mailed urging this be attended to as soon as possible in order not to delay payment under contracts."

TO ASK USERS CONTACT CITY FOR AGREEMENT

Time For Leniency Over, 'Dads' Indicate; Say Over $20,000 Due.

Alarmed over increasing delinquent water accounts, Eastland City Commissioners acted Wednesday night to eradicate what has grown into a gross bill paying dodge.

Commissioners passed an order directing the city manager and clerk to write polite, yet firm, letters to 626 water users whose bills have grown delinquent, asking them to call at the city hall and reach an agreement. If the customers cannot settle their bills at once, then suitable arrangements will be made, the commissioners indicated.

Representative by the figures, Mayor C. W. Hoffmann told the commissioners and citizens attending the called meeting that two of every three met's represents a delinquent bill. Six hundred twenty-six was the figure given as delinquencies out of 938 meters in Eastland.

The delinquent bills total over $20,000, an increase of practically $10,000 in the last two years. Mayor Hoffmann stated.

Included in the group are many city employees, Mayor Hoffmann said. Commissioners instructed the city manager to contact employees having delinquent bills and hint that their jobs would be others if the accounts were not paid.

With a large delegation of Chamber of Commerce workers and citizens present, Mayor Hoffmann prefaced start of the meeting by telling that cooperation and suggestions were welcomed and believed much benefit would result from a round table talk.

Pointing to high appropriations given by Ranger and Cisco to their comerees, Hamilton McRae, president of the Eastland body, asked the commission to appropriate $100 per month for its expenditure.

George M. Harper and B. A. Hightower spoke in favor of the move, which was tabled for future discussion until next month.

A dog ordinance lowering the license fee from $1.50 to 25 cents was passed, repealing the former measure in effect several years.

Vaccine may be purchased from the city for 50 cents and syringe use for 25 cents and services of E. E. Witt, city sanitary health inspector, will be donated in vaccination of the dogs in the future.

Bill of Texas Chemical company of $1,002 for a carload of granulated sulphur alum was ordered paid by the commission. The purchase was made March 27.

The body indicated an election will be called Monday to fill the vacancy caused by resignation of O. E. Harvey last week.

Swimming pool project for Eastland and how the commission and Chamber of Commerce might work together was discussed with the former body indicating that action would be taken. A relief project with the city paying for materials is possible, Mayor Hoffmann said he was informed.

Order approved from the former session included: Purchase of the Eastland police and city manager car, and paying of half elevator expenses with county for relief office in bank. All commissioners were present. Others who attended the meet included L. A. Hightower, C. J. Rhodes, Earl Conner, Sr., T. E. Richardson, Earl Woody, Earl Bender, Hamilton McRae, H. C. Davis, George Harper, City Manager J. F. Little, Clerk M. H. Kelly, H. A. McCannles, Milburn McCarty.

We Honor the Finest in Men and Machines

In the last decade New York City has held two of those hysterical, ear-sattering receptions which set a high-water mark for the outburst of popular enthusiasm.

One was to celebrate the return of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh after his great flight to Paris.

The other, held just the other day, marked the arrival in New York City of the French ocean liner Normandie.

By contrasting the two events which were able to summon forth this melange of screaming whistles, swirling storms of ticker tape and cheering of massed thousands of people, you can get a pretty fair line on the kind of things which really touch off our enthusiasms these days.

In its greeting to the Normandie New York was paying the homage that we all feel to a great mechanical triumph.

This is an age of machinery, as some thousands of solemn commentators (including this one) have frequently remarked. It is a machine age, that is, not merely because it has a great many intricate and ingenious machines, but because it lives through them and by them.

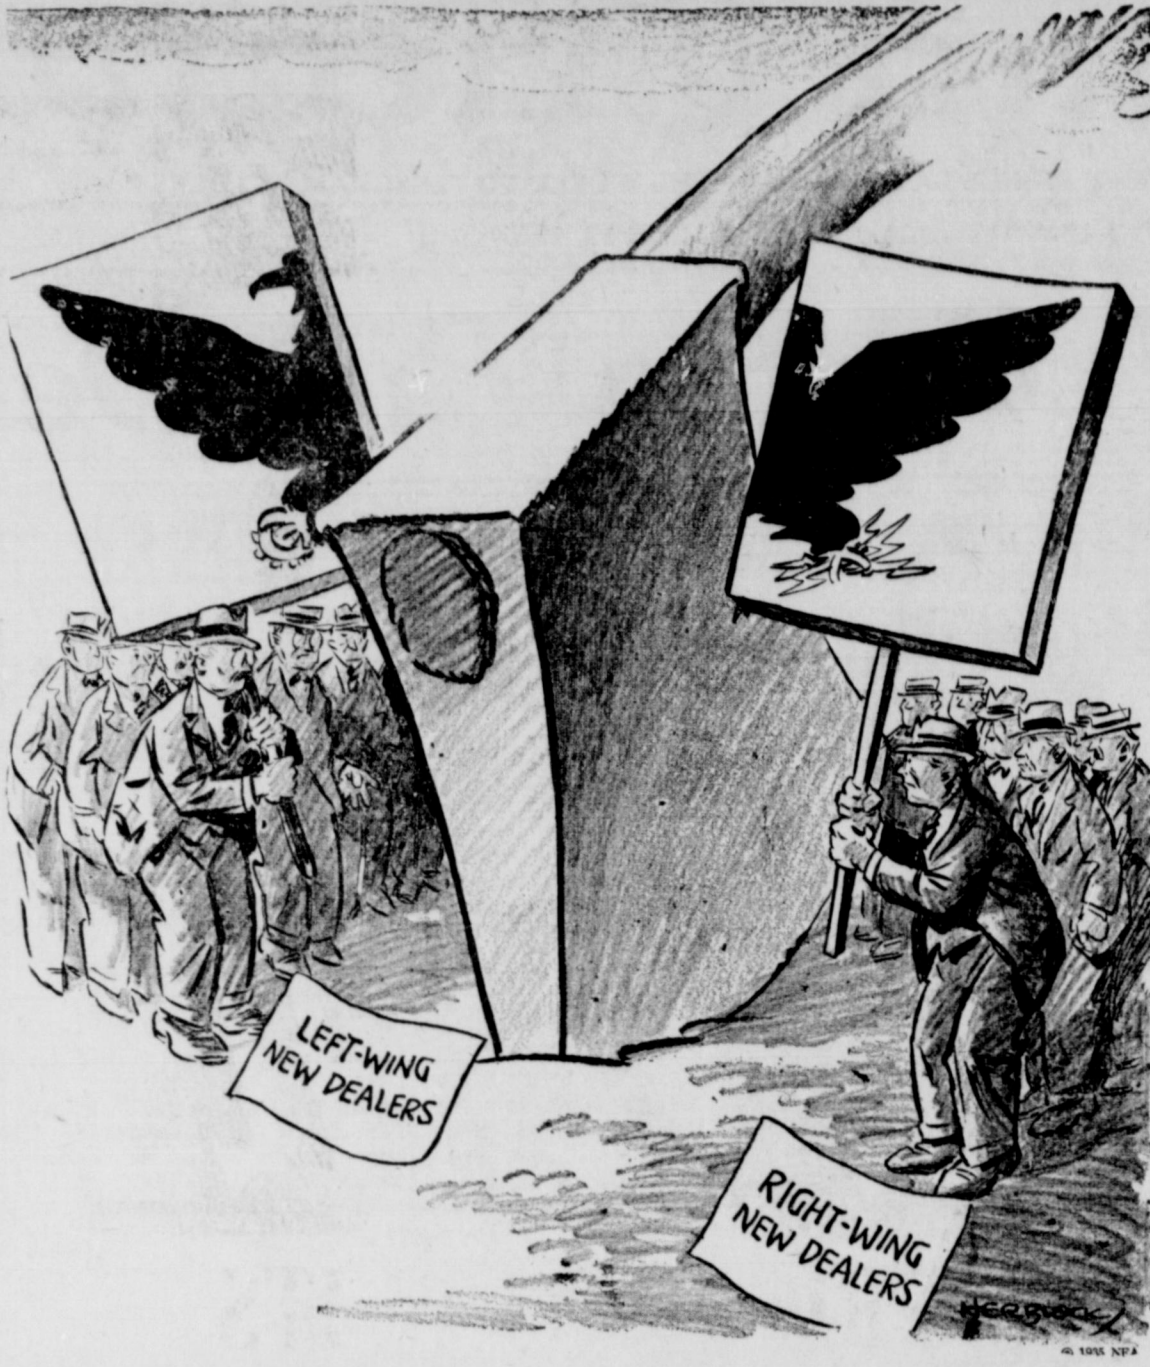

So it is only natural that the Normandie's arrival should provoke a storm of cheers and a deep intensity of interest. A great ship of this kind sums up the mechanical age as well as any contrivance ever built.

And when you contrast that feat with the one represented by the liner Normandie you can draw a little moral for yourself.

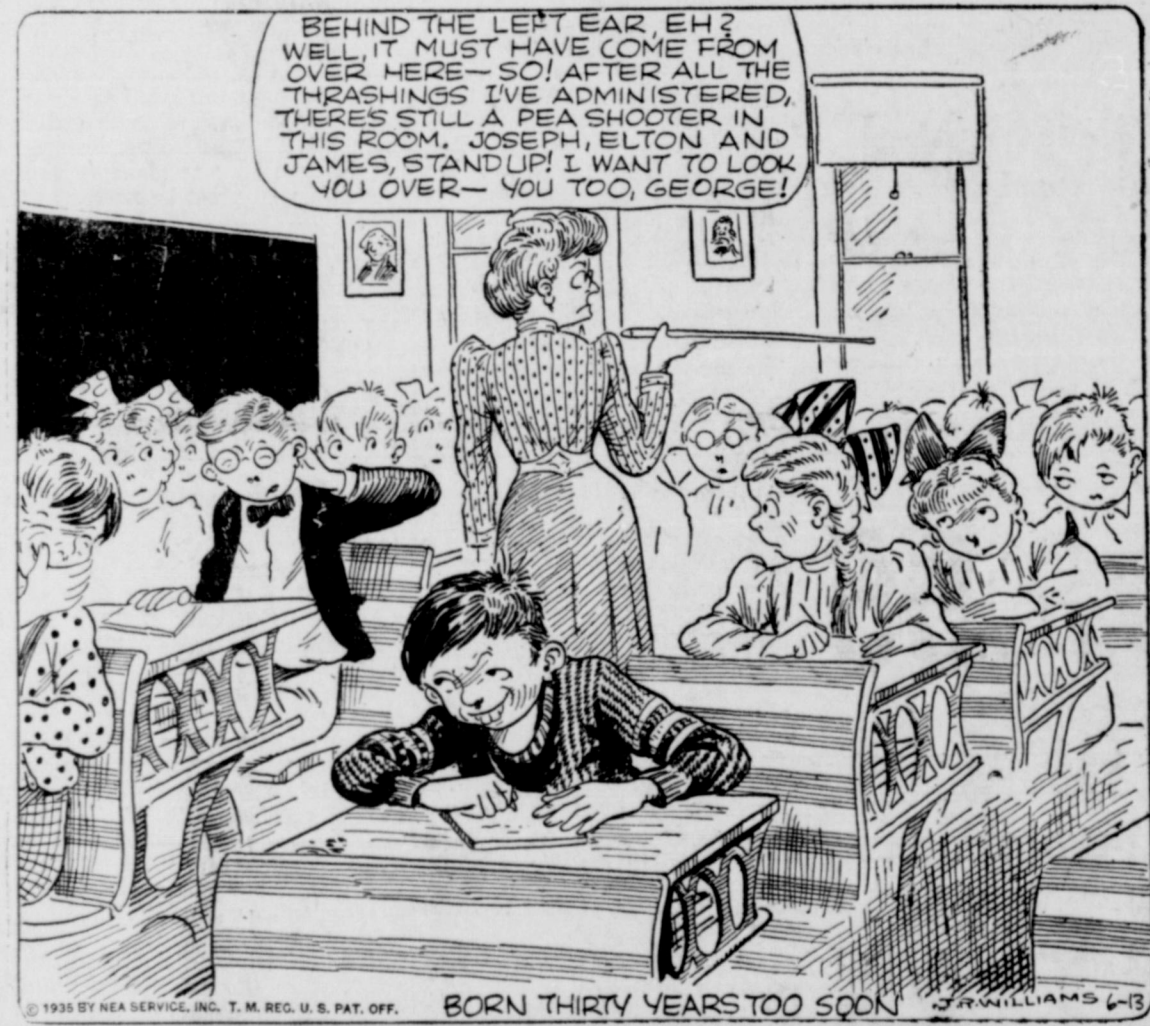

Two things are able to touch off our enthusiasms these days; fine machines—and fine men. Everything considered we seem to be able to produce about as many of one as the other.

Customers take a just pride in buying from growing institutions. Newspaper advertising makes a growing business.

Early History and Development Of Passion Play As Outlined By The Author of the English Play

The long wooden stage was open on all sides, the house formed the background and a balcony was attached to the house. The balcony was there to represent heaven, and three crosses erected just under it so that the souls of the three were to die might mount easily and logically. Various houses, required for the production. Indications and symbolism had to take the place of the reality. A cask standing on end represented the mountain Christ stood upon when the Devil tempted him. Thunder was imitated by the report of a gun. In order to show that the Devil had entered into him Judas held a blackbird in front of his mouth and fluttered its wings. The suicide of Judas was an execution in which Satan was the hangman. He dragged Judas at the end of a rope, an animal concealed in front of his Chrysler. Satan tears open the garment, the bird flies away, the intestines fall out and Satan and Judas slide the rope into Hell. The entrance of Hell was pictured by a wide open mouth of a monster, and souls captured and released during the play passed through this mouth. A painted picture, representing the soul was hung from the mouth of each of the two thieves who died upon the cross. The angel takes the soul of the penitent thief. The Devil snatches the soul of the impenitent one. The actors remained on the stage during the entire performance. They sat upon barriers of their respective divisions and were permitted to leave their places only to recite their lines. As each finished speaking, he returned to his place. All costumes were of the period of the living players. History was utterly ignored in that respect. The costumes were magnificent and costly, and silks, velvet, jewels and fine carpets decorated the Passion Plays of the time. They gave in this highest development, a true picture of German city life. Serious and lively humor were developed, but as time went on and the seventeenth century went along, the plays fell more and more into the hands of the lower orders. The ecclesiastical authorities forbade their presentation, usually on the grounds of disgraceful and irreverent farce. The Reformation was unfriendly to the Passion Plays. They were relegated finally to small out-of-the-way villages and towns. Public interest in the Passion Play did not return until the last decade of the nineteenth century. The Passion Play as will be presented in Ranger with members of the Freiburg cast is probably the finest example of the Passion Play which has passed through all of the stages of change and expansion, and which now after more than 800 years, for the first time will be produced the American version of both the Oberammergau and Freiburg Passion Plays. The presentation in Ranger will be in the Recreation building under the auspices of Ranger Passion Play committee, should be outstanding in the history of the theatrical presentation in this city.

BEGIN HERE TODAY Katharine Strykhurst, beautiful, 20, falls in love with Michael Heath...

Michael becomes engaged to Sally Moon, local coquette, due to Sally's scheming. In spite of this, Michael asks Katharine to marry him...

Sally, unaware of Michael's marriage to Katharine, locates him in a hospital and takes charge of the situation.

Now Go On With the Story CHAPTER XXXI No woman in all the world had ever been so grievously humiliated...

An older—indeed, a wiser and less sensitive woman—would have taken affairs into her own hands. This brooding girl knew nothing to do but wait...

This much she knew. Michael Heath had married her and then had gone away. The newspapers a day or two later had announced the news of his infidelity...

Violet had advised her to wait and see what happened. This Katharine had done. And nothing had happened...

Her ring she had given to him. She had not a shadow of proof. Not, she reminded herself hotly and proudly, that she wanted any...

She writhed at the thought. Violet watched her through the days with a growing anxiety. There was a savage pity in the eyes she turned to the fair-haired girl...

There was such a thing as an unlearned, Katharine mused dully one sunny afternoon. "Of course, I wondered when you'd think of that," said Violet, consoling. She had not dared to mention the word herself...

"But the publicity!" Katharine, groaning, buried her face in her hands. To think that her defeat, her folly should be dragged into the open for all the world to see!

"Why don't you go to New Mexico, as Evelyn asked you to?" Violet asked reasonably. "Put the thing into the hands of some lawyer who can be trusted and go away and think no more of it."

It was, however, more easily said than done. Victor Strykhurst himself, Katharine reminded her friend, was a lawyer. To whom could they go? No one, assuredly.

in their group of acquaintances. "I'm afraid to trust anyone," Katharine said in a tone of bitterness that startled her hearer.

"Leave it to me," Violet said. Evelyn Vincent was going to New Mexico to stay with some friends who kept an informal sort of inn there. She had suggested weeks before that Katharine accompany her...

Bertine vetoed the plan at once. Katharine, sick with fury and despair, turned to her father. "Bertine doesn't want you to go off God-knows-where with these women," he fumed.

"No, no," she clasped and unclasped her hands. "But I feel I need and want a change. Miss Vincent is a friend of the Mersers's."

"That nice woman in whose house I stayed when I..." "Yes, yes, I remember," he said the words hastily. You've made friends with them?"

Katharine's darkening eyes roved to the window. The interview was exhausting all her feeble strength. She so seldom spent these nights. The hours from dark to daylight were her particular scourge, so difficult to be got through.

"I like her, yes. She's been very kind to me." "Well—well." He promised to think it over. It was maddening, the girl decided, going out into the coolness of the garden. Next spring she would come into her mother's money. Then neither Bertine's whims nor her father's strictures should trouble her.

Next spring! At the thought of this, she was so calm and temperate and sure about things. But she didn't dare. One kind word would set her off. She'd felt so superior when Zoe was going through her difficulties. Kind, of course, but superior all the same. And John would be horribly disappointed in her if he knew what a crashing fool she had been!

So the moment passed and Katharine kept silent, and half a mile away in an ugly house with multilined windows a dark-haired girl paraded before the mirror and slyly hid away a plain gold wedding band.

Up in the hills near a shabby, shingled house a young man wandered in the kitchen garden where chickens pecked at dry grass and horses thrust their noses inquiringly over a gate. The young man felt lost and lorn and all at sea. He rubbed the back of his head thoughtfully as though trying to remember something he could not quite take in...

Fate was weaving a net intricately about all of them. The girl with the crystal eardrums was only a puppet, although she fancied herself a great actress in the drama. The physician who watched the fair-haired girl with troubled eyes was conscious of a shadow lying between them. He had had a declaration on his lips for weeks; he did not dare to utter it now. This was only an intermission in the drama. If you had listened closely you might have heard the tuning up of instruments for the third act, life being stranger and more cruel and beautiful oftentimes than the theater.

the hours, days and nights to be lived through, her spirit fainted, and she groaned. A dark, slim, alert figure appeared in the darkness of the rosebud.

"Oh, Dr. John! Where did you come from?"

He gave her a smile and a keen glance.

"I thought I'd run in. Had to see a patient up the Post Road a mile or two."

She had not seen him in weeks. "You look a bit seedy."

"You roused herself. John was far too keen-eyed for her pleasure. The first thing she knew she would be blurring out the whole wretched story to him."

"Oh, I'm fine, thanks."

"You look it," he offered dryly. She leaned against the stone balustrade of the terrace, and he glanced at her with something like hunger in his eyes. Her sleepless nights, her lack of appetite had put a fine edge on her strong young look. There were black shadows smudged under her eyelids where they fluttered down to hide her look of sick despair.

"Zoe's back," Katharine said in the silence that followed.

"Oh, is she?"

"Shes' splendid now," she went on, trying to make conversation. "She got through a bad time."

"You look it," he said. "Particular hell to live through again," said the doctor cheerfully, knocking his pipe against the wall.

What fools women are, thought Katharine drearily. Was it true that "love is of man's life a thing apart; 'tis woman's whole existence?"

She wanted to ask John about this. He was so calm and temperate and sure about things. But she didn't dare. One kind word would set her off. She'd felt so superior when Zoe was going through her difficulties. Kind, of course, but superior all the same. And John would be horribly disappointed in her if he knew what a crashing fool she had been!

So the moment passed and Katharine kept silent, and half a mile away in an ugly house with multilined windows a dark-haired girl paraded before the mirror and slyly hid away a plain gold wedding band.

Up in the hills near a shabby, shingled house a young man wandered in the kitchen garden where chickens pecked at dry grass and horses thrust their noses inquiringly over a gate. The young man felt lost and lorn and all at sea. He rubbed the back of his head thoughtfully as though trying to remember something he could not quite take in...

Fate was weaving a net intricately about all of them. The girl with the crystal eardrums was only a puppet, although she fancied herself a great actress in the drama. The physician who watched the fair-haired girl with troubled eyes was conscious of a shadow lying between them. He had had a declaration on his lips for weeks; he did not dare to utter it now. This was only an intermission in the drama. If you had listened closely you might have heard the tuning up of instruments for the third act, life being stranger and more cruel and beautiful oftentimes than the theater.

Capacity Crowd Hears Evangelist At Church's Meet

A full house heard evangelist John L. Knight Wednesday night at the Nazarene revival as he poured forth his message on "Sin."

The preacher selected for his text Romans 6:23, "The wages of sin is death." "Sin is the oldest disease known to man. It dates back to the Garden of Eden. Sin is also the worst disease known. It will cripple, blind, wreck and at least damn ones' soul in a Devil's hell. Worse still, sin is not only the oldest and worst disease, it is the most common one. We see it on every hand, at every turn; it is seen in the homes of our land. In fact one of the greatest dangers about sin lie in the fact it is so common. The workings of sin has a small beginning. It will lead a child to pick up an apple in a grocery store, and, unless broken, sin will lead to more and larger crimes for sin spreads rapidly. Sin has no respect either for age or persons. It will rob the home of its brightest jewel among the children. Likewise it will attack the old man on his trembling staff. Sin will scar the character and kill the conscience. If the conscience be killed what shall we do? But more yet, sin will damn your soul and land it in hell. The Devil cares nothing for the souls of men except to ruin and damn that soul forever. For the wages of sin is death, and "the soul that sinneth it shall die." Striking examples were given by the evangelist that carried the Bible truth home to the hearts of the hearers. God was present in mighty tides of convicting power.

The song services are proving to be very helpful and inspiring under the leadership of Rev. N. E. Scott.

Only two nights are left for the visiting evangelist to be with us. Hear him these two nights. Tonight he will bring a special message to the young people on "The Tragedy of a Mis-spent Life" will be delivered. Hear it.—Reporter.

GRANDVIEW

This community was visited by a fine shower Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lewis and family of Eula have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Prestidge.

Mrs. Bill Logan and son are visiting relatives in Stephenville.

Mrs. Nettie Woods and son of West, Texas, have been visiting in this community.

The home demonstration club met Friday evening. Miss Ramey gave a short talk on caring for shrubs and plants.

Tom Jones, who has been in El Paso for the past several months is here for a visit with his sister, Mrs. Emmie Thurman.

Bro. Mont Manchester of Desdemona preached here Sunday.

Action, comedy, beautiful settings, gorgeous gowns, and splendid acting makes "Vagabond Lady," the Hal Roach-M-G-M feature now at the Lyric theatre, one of the best motion pictures of recent months.

Robert Young as the irrepressible "Tony," son of a millionaire department store owner, has the time of his young life providing delightful comedy and considerable romance to the plot of the story, which revolves around the beautiful daughter of the store's janitor, "Spiggs," Evelyn Venable as the daughter, "Miss Spiggins," turns in one of the best performances of her screen career.

A difficult role in the film, "John," the dignified brother of "Tony," is portrayed by Reginald Denny. As usual, this veteran of the stage and screen acquits himself creditably.

In fact, the entire cast is par excellence. The supporting players, who number in their list such outstanding character actors and comedians as Bertone Churchill, Frank Craven, Forester Harvey, Dan Crimmins and Ferdinand Gottschalk are all well cast.

Texas Steer Horn Selling Becomes Quite a Racket

By United Press
MINEOLA, Texas.—If you haven't heard of the "horn racket," listen and you shall hear.

The horns of Texas longhorn cattle, dressed and polished, are among the most popular souvenirs visitors like to carry away as tokens of their visits to Texas. Furthermore, the horns are becoming more and more scarce each year, because Texas longhorn cattle are practically extinct.

Many years ago, L. D. Bertillion of Mineola, then a silver prospector, discovered a cave near the Rio Grande in West Texas where a herd of longhorns, unable to find the exit, had died.

The horns provided a rich harvest for Bertillion, who gave up prospecting, developed a method of dressing and polishing the horns and became the "horn king" of Texas, as the cave supply seemed inexhaustible.

In Spain, Italy and Portugal, where, it seems, the cattle also are equipped with long horns, certain individuals saw a nice profit in shipping horns from their cattle over to Texas.

Since the Europeans could acquire, dress, polish and ship the horns to Texas for less than a dollar a pair, and sell them as high as $15 a pair, with plenty of takers, it seemed like a "racket" well worth horning in on. They did.

Now Bertillion is afraid that Texas centennial visitors next year will buy Spanish, Portuguese or Italian longhorns, instead of the grade A, bona fide antlers of the proud Texas prairie cattle. Bertillion says what worries him most is the fact that foreign cattle have such diseases as anthrax, rinderpest, and others of which Texas cattle are free.

There was two additions to the church.

Sallie Dill and Billy Charles Lamb spent Saturday with Edna Earle Prestidge.

On Saturday night, June 15, the home demonstration club will have an old time ice cream supper and tacky party at the schoolhouse. The proceeds will go to send the eligible member of this club to the A. & M. short course. Everyone invited to come.

Now that they've finished fettering Admiral Byrd, how about doing something for the other hundred million who stayed home and faced the depression?

JULY 4 MAY NOT PROVE TO BE AN INDEPENDENCE DAY

"Fourth of July is Independence Day, but many motorists are going to feel anything but independent on that day," is the opinion of Lucas Service Station, local dealer for The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

"By that, I mean that many drivers are going to have trouble with old, smooth, worn tires that should have been checked and replaced before the holiday trip was started," Mr. Lucas explained.

"Instead of being carefree and independent, motorists who drive on old, worn tires are going to worry whether their tires will 'stand the graft'—and many of them will have to stop to put on the spare in the roadside heat, or some may possibly figure in an accident because their tires wouldn't hold when an emergency showed up.

"The thing many motorists forget is that tires wear faster on the hot summer highways than on the cold winter roads. Heat is a natural enemy of tire life.

"In addition to wearing down quickly in the summer time, a worn, smooth tire offers absolutely no non-skid protection, such as found in the sharp, gripping diamond blocks of the Goodyear All-

Weather tread. On a wet, slippery highway, the ability to stop quickly and certainly, without skidding, often means the difference between safety and disaster.

"Wise motorists are the ones who have their tires checked for summer driving, and who replace the 'smoothies' with new sure-footed tires," Mr. Lucas asserts.

Church of Christ Meet Attended by Increasing Group

Last night gave us one of the largest crowds and a display of interest which was noted by all, especially by Bro. Banister, who brought the lesson of the evening.

The speaker, brought to our minds how that it is possible for man to be religious and at the same time not be a Christian, therefore being in an unsaved state. The lesson was based upon what we find written in the 8th chapter of Acts. There we find the Eunuch a religious man so much so that he left his work in Ethiopia for a period of about three months to go in a chariot to Jerusalem a distance of about 1400 miles that he might worship God. He was not a Christian, though very zealous because he was still worshipping under the law of Moses, which was no more, having been nailed to the cross by the death of Christ, God, by his providence sent Philip as Gospel teacher to the Eunuch while on his return to Garza from Jerusalem, that he might learn that the Jews form of worship under which he still was trying to worship God was no longer through worship, but rather had become to be just history, and being replaced by law of liberty or law of Grace, or more perfect law under the reign of Christ rather than Moses.

Philip taught union Jesus which includes all Christ's teachings and the Eunuch being honest having respect for God and interest above all in doing his will, asked Philip after learning that salvation was in Christ and in order to contact it he must enter Christ here in water what both went down into the water and Philip baptized him, thus becoming a simple Christian.

You are welcome.—Reporter.

DEAREST DAUGHTER,

Thanks so much for sending that delightful little note, remembering my birthday. And please don't feel that its being so short made it any the less welcome.

Besides, I know what it is to have "shoppers headache"—to feel all worn out and dragged down, with your feet as heavy as lead from walking around all day.

But, my dear, why do you do it? I know you and Bob have something of a struggle to make ends meet. It won't always be that way, because I know Bob's a very ambitious young man—ambitious for you as well as for himself.

But take an old lady's advice, dear. Look for bargains—no matter how wealthy you become. But don't make an expedition of it. Make it a tour. You get a newspaper. Look for real bargains there, before you set out. Then you'll know where you're going, and you won't wear yourself out. I know, because I do it.

Give my best to Bob, and give Bob, Jr., a great big kiss from his grandma.

Lots of love,
Mother
