

Federal Government Will Aid New Orleans

LONG BLOCKED IN ATTEMPT TO SEIZE CITY

Funds Supplied To Pay City Workers, Whose Pay Was Blocked By Huey Long.

(Copyright 1935 By United Press)

NEW ORLEANS, June 22.—The federal government intervened today with funds and moral support to prevent the New Orleans municipal government from falling into the hands of Huey Long.

The federal emergency relief administration advanced funds to assure operations of 10 municipal services. Observers agreed that had the federal funds not been forthcoming the old regular political organization, in nominal control of the municipal government, would have had to surrender to Senator Long.

Garbage collectors went on a strike yesterday, leaving refuse to accumulate in the city because of the blockade the Long controlled legislature had established around the treasury. They had not been paid in two months, nor had any city employees.

In any city this accumulation of garbage would have been serious, but in New Orleans it was doubly so because of the farm climate. The citizens were as greatly alarmed as the old regular officials, waiting in city hall for something to develop.

Cotton Is Talked By County Group With State Body

County cotton control board members and County Agent C. Metz Head returned Friday from College Station where they discussed Eastland county's cotton contracts with the state board.

Farming conditions in Eastland county are more favorable than those College Station and section, where heavy rains have wrought damage, County Agent Head and members of the board observed.

Cotton board members on the trip were Felix Boland, Seranton; Joe McNeely, Kokomo, and Ira Swift, Rising Star. J. B. Hart of Eastland, office secretary, accompanied the group.

Low Trial Start Is Due Monday

Trial of Jep Lowe, stockman of Eastland county, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of William Seaman Garrison, 26, in Eastland, Nov. 17, 1934, will begin Monday in 91st district court.

Tedious task of selection of jurors will begin in the morning. A special venire of 100 has been summoned.

Milton Lawrence, attorney for Lowe in the first trial in which jurors were dismissed March 24 after failing to agree, will represent the defense. Prosecution will be led by Criminal District Attorney Grady Owen.

G. L. Davenport, judge of 91st judicial district, will preside.

Yale Beats Harvard At Rowing Regatta

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22.—Yale gained a clean sweep of the Thames river in its 73rd annual regatta with Harvard today when its shell defeated the Crimson boat in the four mile pull up the river from the bridge. Yale won by almost a quarter of a mile. Yale won both the freshman and junior varsity races yesterday.

Aimee Is Home With New Vision

Resplendent in a Paris costume, a wide-brimmed black hat with white trim perched jauntily on her blond coiffure, Aimee Semple McPherson came back from her world tour of soul-saving, landing in New York to predict a "tremendous sweep toward religion soon." With her she brought 250 new hymns, an opera, and a costume from every land visited.

INJUNCTION IS GIVEN GROUP TO SAVE WELL

On allegation that $10,000 damage had been done by a party removing tubing and drilling equipment from their gas and oil production well in Erath county, Judge G. L. Davenport in 91st district court granted an injunction to M. W. Rudman et al to restrain the alleged performance, court records showed Saturday.

Seeking an order in Stephenville where Judge Sam Russell presides in 29th district court, finding that he was in Palo Pinto and then told he was fishing at Lake Kemp near Wichita Falls, plaintiffs went to Judge Davenport, they recited in a paper accompanying their petition.

Plaintiffs, M. W. Rudman, formerly of Eastland, Iowa Oil & Gas company, and C. M. Haas allege that on June 17 a party removed all pumping rods and 15 joints of tubing from the well and were preparing to sell the land and equipment at the time the injunction was granted.

Plaintiffs name S. W. Hughes, Lynn Smith, T. B. Scott, A. H. Nance, Jack Morrison and others as defendants.

MAN ADMITS SLAYING OF YOUNG GIRL

PEORIA, Ill., June 22.—Police today said that Gerald Thompson, 25-year-old machinist, has confessed he murdered Mildred Hallmark, 19, because she bit his hand when he tried to make love to her. Thompson broke down after 20 hours of police questioning. He confessed, police said, when Mildred's bloody garments were tossed into his lap. He followed her Monday, he said, to a cemetery and forced her in his car. When she resisted his advances he struck her on the chin.

ALASKAN COLONISTS SEND OUT APPEALS FOR HELP

WASHINGTON, June 22.— Appeals from relief administration colonists in Alaska for correction of "intolerable conditions" today brought promises of a thorough senate investigation. The senate, after hearing a report that "nearly every one of the 2,000 colonists is sick and there is only one physician and a nurse," ordered Harry L. Hopkins to report on conditions in the colony. Telegraphic appeals from the colonists in the far north and reports of a possible epidemic, spurred senate action. Hopkins expressed a report "will be forthcoming promptly and in full form."

The colonists were selected last spring from relief rolls in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. Civilian Conservation Corps men preceded them to Palmer, site of the Alaskan settlement. Government ships transported them to Alaska last spring.

Since then reports of discontent have trickled back to the states but have been minimized by relief officials. Some CCC workers are reported to have left to return to the states.

NAVAL TALKS DO NOT BRING MUCH ACCORD

PARIS, June 22.— Important Franco-British armaments conversations ended today with an authoritative statement that they failed to find a basis of understanding because of resentment over the new naval agreement between Britain and Germany.

It was said the conclusion of the talks between Capt. Anthony Eden of England and Premier Laval of France found the French statesman prepared to "listen to Eden" when the British diplomat returns from conversations with Mussolini at Rome. Eden was satisfied with his negotiation here.

LONDON, June 22.— British and German naval negotiators, in three days of discussion, have failed to agree on three main points, it was understood today.

The British-German agreement calls for a 35 to 100 ratio of strength for the German and British fleets. Technical points on which they have not agreed are:

- 1.—The number of ships Germany intends to build by 1942.
- 2.—The rate of construction of ships built.
- 3.—The size of ships and guns.

Cream Supper Is Planned to Send Group to Course

The Norton Valley Home Demonstration club will give an ice cream supper and "42" party Thursday night at the school gymnasium, members decided at the recent meeting held in the home of Mrs. Tom Bisher.

Proceeds of the supper will be used to send delegates to the short course at College Station in July.

Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, gave instructions to the delegates at the recent meeting.

Frozen desserts were discussed by the group and four kinds were sampled and commented on. Fruit ice was made and served by Mrs. Thad Henderson; fruit milk sherbet by Mrs. Josie K. Nix, and French ice cream by Mrs. Tom Butler. Angel food cake was furnished by Mrs. Toke Hamilton.

Mrs. Josie K. Nix, president, presided. Approved minutes were read by Mrs. Guy Stoker, secretary.

Next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday, July 2, at Mrs. Toke Morton's residence.

Other members present were Mmes. Lewis Smith, J. G. McClanney, J. B. Rayfield, Lowell Stoker, Roy Harbin, Clarence Henderson, Frank Stoker, Lee Littleton W. B. Peoples, C. D. Jones; Miss Ruth Ramey; two visitors, Mrs. Parker, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. D. Jones, and Mrs. Thompson of Stephens county.

GAS FIRM MEN GIVEN SAFETY MEDALS FRIDAY

Men who performed their duties for years without accident were presented awards Friday night at Cisco on Laguna hotel roof.

Trophies for five years continuous operation of plants without a single loss time accident was presented the following employees who represent the plants and divisions which have earned the award: Forrest Ford, gasoline plant 2; J. F. Trott, Ranger compressor plant 3; Edgar Huffman, Caddo compressor plant, and Dan R. Harris, Ibox compressor plant.

The following received certificates of awards for one year continuous operation without a single loss time accident for their respective organizations: L. M. Cawley, gasoline plant 109; Harley Bollinger, gasoline plant 103; Harry Wheeler, Lone Star Gasoline company, Ranger office and laboratory; Jack Carrothers, tank car repair shops; Jack Lowe, construction department; L. H. Taylor, Ranger compressor plant No. 1; Ed Sanderson, Ranger compressor plant 4; J. P. Haney, Eastland compressor plant; G. H. King, Cheaney compressor plant; Felix McCurdy, Pueblo gasoline plant; Herman C. Kelley, West Texas production department, and Frank W. Williams, Eastland division of the Community Natural Gas company.

Wondering where it all started and where it ended, Mrs. Flowers took the visitors to the beginning. There large hoppers of large capacity were feeding the peanuts in their shells to the shellers. After they start they are never touched and keep going back and forth three times for thoroughly shelling and cleaning. Dust blowers take out every particle of dirt and other foreign substance. After all this is done by machinery they go back down to the first floor and are sacked according to grade.

In a large building close by is the equipment for making peanut ground feed from the shells. Here it is fed from a blower from the shelling building and the big hoppers feed it to the grinders and it is mixed with a proportion of molasses according to the wishes of the customer. It is then sacked and is ready for the cow. In this building there is also equipment for grinding peanut hay, which eliminates the danger of injuring cattle by sand and other substances.

In addition to the big peanut factory Adkins and Flowers have large tracts of land on which they grow peanuts, blackeyed peas, popcorn, pinto beans and regular field corn. They expect to add facilities for taking care of blackeyed peas and pinto beans if the crop and market justifies. A visit to the farm gives one an insight as to how really energetic, efficient and wealthy while these men are to the county and state in general.

Recently the Carbon Peanut company has acquired additional properties in Eastland for storage purposes, in anticipation of continued increases in business. During the pean season they use their plant for grading and shelling purposes. Thousands of dollars are paid by this firm to growers of products in this entire section of the state as well as purchases that are made from South Texas to meet the demands of their customers.

Eastland Included In Appropriations For Post Office

Eastland was included in the list of Texas cities eligible under a new appropriations bill for post office structures, being listed for a $74,000 building.

The house of representatives has passed the second deficiency bill which included an appropriation of $58,000,000 for public buildings, outside the District of Columbia.

Congress recommends in the bill, which now goes to the senate, that the treasury and post office departments select buildings from a list of approximately 1,200 cities. It is not mandatory, however, that selections be made from the list, the two departments being given discretionary powers.

The $58,000,000 appropriation, it is estimated, will provide buildings for only about 433 cities. In some cases the bill fixes the maximum that may be spent, but in others the matter of cost is left to the treasury and postoffice departments.

SCHOOL ORDER DISSOLVED BY 91ST COURT

An injunction granted recently to restrain the county school superintendent from recording to their minutes any order rescinding the detachment by the group of Dan Horn and Nimrod from the Scranton consolidate school district was dissolved by Judge G. L. Davenport this week, attorneys and court records disclosed Saturday.

County Supt. C. S. Eldridge indicated the school controversy would be ironed out by the county board.

In connection with dissolving the temporary injunction, Judge Davenport said:

What minds me...

Making a success in business has many angles but chief among them is to keep a watchful eye on the constant methods necessary to render the most valuable and efficient service to their customers. It is not always that a city the size of Eastland can boast of such management of conducting a successful business. Lots of them just take the daily grind as a matter of course and let it go at that. In fact there are many who think that old methods are good enough. These views are not only expensive but result in loss of muer business. In line however with business common sense and ever alert for the best that can be installed to produce the best results without adding any extra cost to the customer the Messrs. J. B. Johnson and B. A. Poole at the helm have proven their ability and that they are keeping abreast with the times in many instances during the past. They announce the newest operation for superior service by installing the new cleaning process "Sanitone." Sanitone is only at present in 12 cities in Texas and no town any smaller than Abilene has this most modern method for cleaning clothes. It is reputed to be a cleanser that rejuvenates all kinds of fabrics and materials and protects the mas no other releasing method. Mr. Johnson states that in all his experience of many years in the cleaning and pressing industry has he ever seen anything like it. Eastland can certainly boast of its cleaning plants in the city.

Another Teapot Dome in U. S. Shipping?

If any appreciable percentage of all the charges against American merchant marine subsidy practices be true, the situation demands review and reform almost as badly as the Teapot Dome mess did.

It is not merely that we have the old familiar charges of dishonesty and inefficiency; not merely that our government's effort to protect the lives of American travelers at sea is reported to have broken down; more than this, we seem to be defeating the very purposes for which the subsidy law was passed.

The whole idea of the subsidy, of course, was to build up our merchant marine.

Under the law, government loans are made for ship construction, government moneys are paid to ship operators in the guise of mail contract fees, and government-built ships are sold to private operators far below cost.

This was justified on the theory that it was the best way to build up a merchant marine service which would be of commercial value in peacetime and of great military value in time of war.

And yet one of the charges made by the special Senate investigating committee is that all of this has been useless. This committee asserts that, in spite of all these subsidies, the merchant marine is steadily declining.

It declares that even with the best possible administration, the present subsidy plan could not succeed in rebuilding our commercial fleets.

A subsidy plan is, in the very nature of things, open to abuses.

When you have the government shelling out huge sums to private concerns, you open the way for all kinds of trouble. Under any administration and in any field of business, this will be true.

Some official is bound to weaken under pressure; some business man is bound to unsheathe his chisel and start using it.

It takes the strictest kind of oversight to keep such evils at a minimum; where the overseeing is not strict, the evils will multiply like mushrooms.

That is what we let ourselves in for with the subsidy plan. Now if, on top of all that, the plan doesn't do what we hoped it would do, the argument for some new method of conserving our merchant marine becomes overwhelming.

The Senate committee suggests two alternatives; outright government ownership and operation, or government ownership with private operation.

Whether a third scheme could be worked out, and which of these two would be preferable if that should be impossible, are things yet to be determined. Enough has already been revealed, however, to make it clear that something pretty drastic in the way of reform is imperative.

Golden Grain Crop Promising the Country Over

There should be food for all this year—at least, after harvest time. A total wheat crop of 670,000,000 has been forecast by the agriculture department presided over by the distinguished son of Iowa, Henry A. Wallace.

A winter wheat production of 141,000,000 bushels is the forecast while the department calculated spring wheat would total 230,000,000 bushels. There are 39 wheat producing countries, without counting Russia, where it is said (in the near future) the Soviet will supply sufficient wheat to feed half the world.

To remember people, wife of Soviet official traces their names in the air with her finger. Judging from the length of most Russian names, the end of a Soviet reception must find her exhausted.

Picnic For—

Leading sport events of the afternoon was a softball game victory by the Lone Star Gasoline Company, Breckenridge team over the gasoline team from Ranger with a score of nine to five.

A joint concert by the Lone Star and Eastland bands drew most of the thousands of employees, friends and relatives to City Park at 7 p. m. The concert was directed by G. W. Collum of Eastland.

Several tables of ladies participated in the bridge tournament at the Connelley Hotel. Refreshments were served by the ladies' committee headed by Mrs. S. M. Gamble, assisted by Miss Albertine Berry, Lone Star Gas System home economics director.

Winners of this and other tournaments were not available late Saturday.

The Gentleman From Louisiana Has the Floor

WHILE Paul Richards has helped the club, Jimmy Fox will resume catching if the A's get into the thick of the American League fight. Lou Finney then would return to first base. There perhaps never was a ball player as competent at all positions as Fox. Philadelphia long has been the home of versatile players. Runt Walsh of the Phillies was a daisy under Charley Doolin. Jimmy Dykes, the White Sox manager, looked after every assignment while with the A's. Speaking of Handy Andy, how about Mark Koenig? The Giants' utility man being a better infielder today than he was while performing at shortstop for the Yankees some years back is attributed to his having finally learned to take errors in stride. He formerly worried himself into slumps. Pepper Martin, again in center field for the Cardinals, is another who does a fine job at any post. The Wild Horse of the Osage pitched while the Deans were on strike last summer. At a dinner tendered them by the New York Racing Commission, turf writers expressed dislike for the Widener course, the straightaway which runs diagonally through the Belmont Park infield. Since it was laid out, patrons have complained about it because they have a poor view of the horses at the post and finish.

Terry Urged to Entouse About All-Star Game

CASEY STENDEL put Bill Terry on his National League list for the all-star game in Cleveland on July 8, but says that the Giant manager's attitude toward the big show is all wet. Terry regards the dream game as an annoyance. "It would give our league greater prestige if we won," asserts Stengel. Terry gives you a good idea of what National League outfits are up against in tackling the Giants when he says that Clyde Castleman has more stuff than any member of the old Big Four. This in face of the speed of Bud Farnelle and Hal Schumacher, the screw ball of Carl Hubbell, and the knuckle ball of Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons. Winning the 220-yard low hurdles in the Central Intercollegiate in the good time of 24 seconds was a remarkable feat on the part of Don Elser, Notre Dame's 215-pound fullback. Max Schmeling is the only current heavyweight who has a great amount of money to show for ring warfare. Three Big Six Conference schools will have new head football coaches next fall—Biff Jones at Oklahoma, Wes Fry at Kansas State, and Don Faurot at Missouri.

Dealers Endorse Ads in Newspapers

DETROIT, Mich., June 22.—Seventy-four of Chevrolet's leading dealers, who together accounted for the sales of 38,116 new cars and trucks last year, attending a two-day conference at Detroit on sales and advertising plans for the remainder of 1935, went on record as unanimously endorsing the Chevrolet Motor company's decision, announced at the closing session, to retain the newspaper as the backbone of the company's advertising media.

The announcement that Chevrolet intended to adhere to this time-tried policy was made by C. P. Fiskin, advertising manager, who spoke in enthusiastic terms of the results the company has obtained through newspaper advertising, in which it has long been a conspicuous leader.

"We are constantly on the lookout for any means of making our appeal to the public more effective," said Mr. Fiskin, "but up to date we have found nothing to compare with the newspaper as the 'main highway' for our advertising expenditure."

Scientists have invented a "brain wash." The people who write those modern novels could probably stand a vigorous scrubbing.

band. "I couldn't see him go off like that. He looked so wild—so desperate. I wouldn't have slept tonight..."

A young man in worn tweeds, carrying a shabby bag, boarded a west-bound train at Pennsylvania station that night. He stayed up rather late in the writing room. Two of his notes were posted at Manhattan Transfer. One was to Mrs. Stanley Merse, the other to Miss Sally Moon of Innicoek, New York.

Then he went to bed and tossed uneasily in the narrow Pullman. In Chicago he decided to take a plane for the rest of the journey. No passenger ships had left New York the night before because of bad weather conditions. But the rain and blowing cold fogs had been left behind in Ohio.

Michael had never been in a plane before. Below him the familiar country spread out like a checkerboard. He drew a long breath, stretching his legs in the cramped seat. It was good to have this sense of spaciousness again.

In Santa Fe he left the ship. There was a jerkwater train to Roanne, or there were cars to be had. It was a matter of 50 miles. Michael burned with impatience. The train was not due to leave for an hour.

He jingled the coins in his pockets as the driver of a rickety-looking sedan came around the corner. Yes, he would drive Michael to Roanne; no trouble at all. Silencia? Certainly, he was well acquainted with the place. A beautiful spot. The gentleman would enjoy it.

The roads left something to be desired. In places they were leoply rutted. It was a short route they were taking, the driver indignantly explained.

Michael waved at the stops. The once the radiator had to be reinforced by water which Sebastian carried in a tin kerosene can on the front seat. The day grew very hot—unbearably hot.

Michael knew the very words he would say to the fair-haired girl he was seeking. He could scarcely believe that she had been, for an instant one day, his wife in the eyes of God and the law. He had forgotten, if ever he had known it, that life could be so good.

This fellow probably was riding him all over God-knew-where to collect a fare. Michael fumed at the thousand and one delays.

But at long last, the single narrow street of Roanne loomed up out of the desert. And half a mile out of town they saw the creamy walls of a long, low adobe house.

"Silencia, my gentleman," said Sebastian with a flash of white teeth.

Michael's heart thudded impatiently.

her hand over her mouth to stifle an exclamation of terror, purely involuntary. This was a lonely place. They had been told so, early and often, by many of their friends, but they had never before seen loiterers about.

Stanley pulled into the driveway and opened the door at his left. The man came toward them briskly. Violet saw it was Michael.

She introduced the two men briefly.

"May I talk to you for a moment?" Michael asked. He added that he knew it was late, but the matter was urgent.

"Of course," Violet led the way into the chintz-bug sitting room, switching on lights as she went. Stanley, with a muttered excuse, left them together.

"You know where Katharine is?" Michael made it more of a statement than a question. Violet glanced at him uneasily. Really, she thought, this was a difficult spot to be in. She knew the girl had left Innicoek to forget him. Only this afternoon she had heard that he was to be married to Sally Moon very shortly. What was she to do?

"I called her house. Her stepmother hung up on me," Michael explained gravely. Violet, as always, felt a little thrill of anger toward Bertine. So much of this mischief could be laid at her door. That thoroughly smug, good woman...

"Katharine asked me not to give out her address," Violet said, fencing for time. If Stan would only come back into the room; she badly needed his moral support at the moment! She had liked this boy at first. There was something appealing about his lean fineness, the way his eyes were set deeply in his sunken face. And the hand that held the cigaret was a good one, strong and well-muscled, the fingers slender and nervous. But you couldn't tell much about a person by looking at his face and hands. It was nonsense to say you could.

"Good Lord," blurted Michael, in the silence. "She's my wife—didn't you know that? I thought, perhaps she'd told you."

Violet stared, stung into speech by the direct attack. "She did. But you didn't acknowledge it. She thought you had played a ghastly trick on her."

"That's why she left?"

"Mainly," Violet said rather angrily. The man was either a consummate actor or else he was sincere. But when she had told Stanley and Adrianson her theory of his possible loss of memory, a week or two before, they had laughed at her. Adrianson was preparing the annulment papers at the moment.

"She must think me a thorough rotter," Michael groaned. "I'm afraid she does." Men, Violet reflected, ought to pay a little for their treatment of women.

He looked at her. "I didn't remember a thing," he told her simply. "You knew—and didn't hear it—that I was hurt in a taxi

Judge Enters Plea For Margaret Waley

TACOMA, Wash., June 22.—Judge E. E. Cushman today entered a technical plea of not guilty for Margaret Waley, while the confessed George Weyerhaeuser kidnaper and her attorney argued what plea to make.

Mrs. Waley, 19-year-old wife of Harmon Waley, who yesterday was sentenced to 45 years in prison for his part in the kidnaping, protested over the plea.

She shook her head when Judge Cushman ordered that her plea be entered as "not guilty."

placed Dan Horn and Nimrod schools back into the Scranton consolidated school district, and heard in the 91st court June 14, the court has reserved its decision pending further information on the case. The decision to dissolve the temporary injunction was arrived at after finding by the court that it was the intention of the state superintendent to remand the case for determination to the county school board, instead of dismissing the appeal, leaving the 91st district court without jurisdiction in the premises.

Previous to his decision to dissolve the injunction, Judge Davenport discussed the history of the case since the disagreement between the schools composing the Scranton consolidated school district was formed, and conclusions reached during the several trials of the case in the 91st court. He said:

"About four years ago there was an attempt to merge three or four schools, including Dan Horn, Nimrod, Scranton, Haskell and Atwell, but it developed in these hearings that two of the schools, Haskell and Atwell never joined the consolidation.

"Later by petition Dan Horn and Nimrod sought to be released from the consolidation, which was acquiesced in by the county school board, whose order was just as binding as that of the district court. This action made it necessary for the Scranton school board to appeal the case. Two avenues were open, direct to the state superintendent or to the district court. Scranton perfected its appeal direct to the state superintendent, and during the appeal it was understood that Dan Horn and Nimrod was out of the consolidation. The state superintendent delayed his final decision, but at one time, it is understood, he reversed the ruling of the county board, but rescinded, and promised the parties to the appeal a rehearing. However, he failed to act for six or eight months. Last April he is purported to have disposed of the case. Instead of entering an order on his minutes as was proper, he contented himself with writing letters stating his holdings to the opposing litigants, which were susceptible of different constructions. It being important to determine whether or not he left the order of dissolution by the county board in effect, or whether or not it was his intention to remand the case to the county board for further action.

"In order to supply this information has been the cause of the delay in reaching a decision. If it was the intention of the state superintendent to remand the case to the county board for action, then the district court is without jurisdiction to hear or determine the controversy in this case."

CCC Enlistments To Be Made Only From Relief Rolls

AUSTIN.—Selection of Texas boys for enrollment in CCC camps will be confined hereafter strictly to young men whose families are on the relief rolls, it has been announced by Neal E. Guy, enrollment supervisor for the state.

Guy said federal officials had rescinded all instructions which formerly provided for enrollment of worthy unemployed boys and so-called "border-line" cases.

"Henceforth we may admit to CCC camps only applicants who can make a proper allotment to dependents. It has been ordered that selectees for enrollment beginning June 15 must in every case represent families on the public relief rolls. This means that in the approaching enrollment period, the 12,000 young Texans taken into the camps should represent 12,000 families removed from the relief rolls."

Love, glorified through sacrifice is the theme of the story, which runs the scale from laughter to tears in inspiring harmonies.

The film tells the story of a young composer who marries a great orchestra leader but leaves him through pride when she believes her love is only an incident in his career. Later they both come to the realization that their love for each other is the only worthwhile thing in their lives. The man's inspiration leaves him with the loss of her and she foregoes wealth, position and security to join him in poverty and hardship and help him win back his high place in the world.
