Roosevelt Is Warned About Oil Control

HOUSTON, Aug. 10.—President Roosevelt was warned to "let the oil industry alone" in a statement today by Stephen Pinckney, Houston, representative of independent operators in South Texas. "I don't think there is a more powerful set of men in the state today than the independent oil men," he said in commenting on oil bills pending before congress. He attacked the Thomas and Cole bills, especially the latter, on the ground that another federal bureau to control the industry would be set up. "Independent oil men are unalterably opposed to federal control. These new bills seem to be an attempt to get in through the back door after the front door has been slammed in their faces time and time again," he said.

The new advisor on economic problems, heading an NRA division, to look after the immediate interests of housewives, is Walton Hale Hamilton, above, Yale law school professor who never has received a law degree. His appointment by Roosevelt is viewed as heralding a new deal for consumers. Hamilton has been an economic trouble shooter in NRA for nearly two years.

Bond Figure Set For Man In Case

Bond of $1,000 was set Friday at the examining trial of Wilmer Kennedy of Shelby county, held and charged with driving while intoxicated on the Cisco-Eastland highway that morning. Deputy Sheriff Steele Hill and Motor Patrolman Ernest Daniels took the youth in charge after tourists from Abilene going east notified the sheriff's office of sight of a person apparently intoxicated. The youth was found by the officers at Cisco, Hill stated.

Clipper Plane Sets New Ocean Record

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 10.—The Pan-American Clipper ship completed the first leg of a 10,800-mile round-trip flight to tiny Wake Island when it was set down on the waters of Pearl Harbor at 8:12 a. m. P. S. T., today. Aided by a strong tail wind during the latter part of the flight, the ship completed the hop in 17 hours, 9 minutes, bettering its previous record by 50 minutes. The plane was first sighted off Diamond Head at 7:45 a. m., and flew over Honolulu and descended to a landing in Pearl Harbor.

Jews Not Represented At Budapest Games

BUDAPEST, Aug. 10.—Jews were not represented on Germany's team of 230 athletes on the opening of the sixth national university games at which 31 nations were represented. George Fischer, team manager, admitted there were no Jews among the athletes. He said they were not skilled enough.

House Lobby Committee Invites Statements From Counsel For Chain Stores

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—A special house committee investigating "super lobbies" issued an open investigation today to associates of Robert Lyons, counsel for several large chain store systems, to file statements for the records. The invitation was the result of Lyons' refusal at hearings yesterday to amplify remarks regarding activities of several attorneys, mentioned in correspondence taken from his files, concerning lobbying against state anti-chain store legislation. Lyons admitted on the stand he employed several men in Texas and other states to oppose "unjust legislation." Committee Chairman Wright Patman, Dem., Texas, read into the record excerpts from a letter

Methodist Pastor Of Olden to Speak In Eastland Today

Guest lecturer at the 9:49 Bible class today will be Rev. J. M. Culpepper, pastor of the Methodist church of Olden. P. L. Crossley, president of the group, announced Saturday. Musical features for the program include voice numbers by Marion Bruce of Cisco, accompanied by Miss Florine Richardson. Members of the class and others were urged to attend by Crossley.

Rising Star Man Is Charged With Liquor Violation

Oscar White of Rising Star was held at Eastland Saturday, charged with possession of liquor with bond set at $1,000. Deputy Sheriff Steele Hill stated Saturday. Officers stated Virge Foster, sheriff, and Los Woods, deputy, went to Whites Wrecking Shop in Rising Star Saturday morning and White broke three pints of liquor as they came on the scene. A quarter-pint of whiskey was brought back to Eastland by the officers. White is charged in Justice of Peace Milton Newman's court at Eastland.

Program Is Being Planned For Meet Of County Judges

Program for the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners association meeting to be held in Amarillo, Sept. 27-28, is being arranged, County Judge Clyde L. Garrett, president, announced Saturday. Judge Garrett returned last week from Amarillo where he conferred on program details with members of the Potter county commissioners' court. "We expect to have outstanding speakers of the state," said Judge Garrett. Invitations will likely be sent to George Shepperd, comptroller; Gov. James Allred; Gerald Mann, secretary of state, and Walter Woodul, lieutenant governor; Ernest Thompson, chairman of railroad commission, and Harry Drought, state AAA administrator," Judge Garrett said.

Water Cut Offer Is Not Effective Until September

Misunderstanding of the city's water bill discount offer of 15 per cent if paid before or on the 10th of each month has arisen, City Clerk Kelly stated Saturday. The discount does not apply to July bills which are payable this month, stated Kelly, but will go into effect in September on August billings. Many water consumers were at the city hall wanting to take advantage of the discount for July bills, Kelly said.

Hearing On Budget Set For Aug. 19th

Hearing on budget for Eastland county has been set for Monday, Aug. 19, in Eastland, County Judge Clyde E. Garrett announced Saturday.

Heat Relief Is Promised Over Sunday

Texas was still in the grip of another intense heat wave Saturday but reports from the weather bureau indicated slight relief. A low pressure area moving east and a high barometer in Central Colorado was spreading over the south, presaged slightly cooler temperatures later in the day, according to Dr. J. L. Cline, government meteorologist at Dallas. In the Dallas and North Texas area the maximum temperature was expected to be slightly over 100 today. All Texas sweltered yesterday and last night. Palestine reported a temperature of 104, while Shreveport, La., had 106. Abilene and many other points in the state reported readings of 102.

Cafe Operator and Wife Execute Bond

Appearance bond for Mr. and Mrs. Pete Theous, the former operator of the Little Queen cafe in Eastland, who are charged with possession of liquor has been made in the sum of $500 each, Deputy Sheriff Steele Hill stated Saturday. Officers, Hill stated, found three and one-half pints of bonded whisky at Theous' business Thursday night. Complaints were filed in Justice of Peace Milton Newman's court. Making the raid with Hill, he stated, were Bob Ball, W. L. Mead, Elton Reaves, Eastland officers, and Ernest Daniels, motor patrolman.

Fists Flail Out At Austin Probe

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—Fists failed at today's session of the house of representatives committee, investigating the state department of agriculture. Participants of the fight were C. L. West of the state auditing department and C. E. McCormick, chief of the agricultural department, division of marketing and warehouses.

Three Centennial Commissioners to Be Named Soon

DALLAS, Aug. 10.—Appointment of J. Percival Rice of Dallas, Paul Wakefield of Austin, and E. J. Altgelt Sr. of San Antonio as assistant U. S. commissioners for the Texas centennial was expected to be announced late today. The three men would aid Cullen Thomas, commissioner general, in administering the $3,000,000 congressional appropriation for the centennial.

WPA Workers in New York Continue Their Strike For A Higher Scale For Workers

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—A strike of works progress administration employees against the WPA "security" wage, gained recruits today in the face of a "work or starve" edict backed by President Roosevelt. Labor action throughout the country indicated danger to the entire $4,800,000,000 work relief program. American Federation of Labor predicted New York projects employing 100,000 would be tied up Monday. Estimates of the number of men who answered a strike call by 36 A. F. of L. unions, varied, but there were more on strike today than yesterday. Investigators for

Anti-Long Fight In Mississippi Is Being Organized

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 10. News of an anti-Long coalition in Mississippi to defeat the Long candidate for governor, electrified the Kingfish's political henchmen today. Knowing "the boss" wants to extend his dictatorship to both Mississippi and Arkansas, they expected the full force of his Louisiana machine would be placed behind Paul Johnson, who, if he is elected, they expect to pay the same subordinate role. O. K. Allen does in Louisiana. Two candidates for the Mississippi governorship defeated Tuesday, threw their support behind Hugh H. White, who will oppose Johnson in a run-off election. White accepted their support.

Hollywood Man May Be Frozen As An Experiment

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 10. A Hollywood scenario writer, son of prominent parents, stepped forward today as a volunteer to be frozen to test Dr. Ralph Willard's reactivation experiments. Candidates for a test, which might result in death and already has brought threats of police interference, Stephen Simkovich, 34, described himself as ready "to do something worthwhile for humanity." Dr. Willard's process recently worked successfully on a monkey.

Two Oil Tests Are Due Near De Leon

DE LEON, Aug. 10.—A Kansas concern has signed to drill two new oil tests in the Duster area, nine miles west of De Leon, according to reliable information. One of the tests will be on the Woody tract, 300 feet south of the Sloan well which was completed a small flowing producer in 1934 and has continued to flow 20 barrels daily for a year. Machinery was moved on the Woody location August 6, and rigging up is in progress, actual drilling to commence under this contract by August 15. The Woody location is one mile north of Duster. The second new location is on the Sloan place and the contract calls for spudding in within 90 days from August 1st. The same Kansas firm is drilling this test also, and the Woody well will be finished before this one is spudded in. However, the second Sloan well will be drilled regardless of the outcome of the Woody, a cash forfeit to guarantee the well having been posted. The Sloan No. 1 has sufficient wet gas to cause the well to flow freely from the 2700-foot level, which is the strata of the Desdemona and Ranger pay. The company has a block of two sections under lease, including the Sloan and Woody tracts. Land owners other than Sloan and Woody on the block are receiving $1.00 per acre lease money.

COMMITTEE PLANS TO SOAK LITTLE FELLOW

Committee Substitutes Increased Taxes on Small Salaries for Inheritance Taxes. WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The finance committee, after slashing inheritance taxes from the house tax bill, voted today to dip into the lower income brackets with lowered exceptions and increase surtax rates. The committee voted to lower the normal tax exemption for married persons from $2,500 to $2,000 and for single persons from $1,000 to $800. The surtax schedule would begin surtax charges at the $3,000 level instead of the present $4,000. The bill, after the finance committee had worked on it a day and a half, was capable of raising about $400,000,000, almost twice the amount estimated for the house bill. Elimination of inheritance taxes was offset by increased estate taxes, which experts say, should bring in as much as the inheritance taxes.

TRAIN BLOWN FROM TRACKS BY BIG BLAST

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 10.—A roaring blast of dynamite planted along the main line of the Illinois Central railroad tossed a locomotive and 10 freight cars from the tracks today in what appeared to be a fresh outbreak of a mine war. Two members of the train's three-man crew were injured when the locomotive, lifted from the tracks by a time bomb, bounded over the rails. The bombing, tying up all traffic on the line between Chicago and St. Louis, was the fifteenth train bombing attributed to the mine feud in Illinois. The war, a bitter three-year fight among coal operators and rival unions, has claimed 36 lives in the bituminous fields circling Springfield. More than 2,000 bombings, trains, trestles, mine shafts and homes, resulted in damages aggregating close to $1,000,000.

Touring Complicates Home Sales Problem

They were discussing the housing problem—way for private builders haven't built new homes during the last few years, thus improving housing conditions and bringing jobs back to long-unemployed building craftsmen.

The manner in which automobile sales of 1935 have stood up all year long at the highest point in several years gives strength to this idea.

It would seem that men re-employed and men beginning to "get out of the red" have been buying automobiles first, but not houses.

Farm-City Conflict Flares Up Again

One of the oldest of all problems, how to reconcile the interests of men who work on farms and those who work in factories, is coming to the front again.

Each group depends on the other, each buys the products of the other, and you would think their interests would be the same.

The current legal attack by processors on the AAA is the thing that has brought the question into relief.

But from Texas farmers who have benefited from the AAA program, comes a counter-attack.

The difference between tariff and processing tax is mainly this: the money collected in tariffs goes into the general treasury for the use of all.

But farmers are less interested in that than in the simple give-and-take aspect of the proposition.

This is the essence of the problem at stake in the present wave of processor suits against AAA.

The supreme court decision on NRA and its forthcoming decision on AAA may leave the essential problem untouched.

Blanton Tells of His Connection In Lobby Inquiries

In a letter to the Wichita Falls Times, Congressman Thomas I. Blanton has explained that he had nothing to do with the senate lobby investigation, and explains that he was merely helping out a friend when the committee tried to make a "mountain out of a molehill." The letter to the Wichita Falls paper follows: "Kindly permit me to reply to your front page article under big headlines: 'Blanton Figures in Lobby Inquiry,' which with your sub-headlines, was injuriously misleading."

and made Carpenter admit that he had never talked with me in his whole life. "On July 1, in the House I made a speech for the so-called 'death-sentence' and that day went between the tellers voting for it, and gave 100 per cent support to the President's measure sponsored by Chairman Rayburn. H. C. Hoffson, whose salary and profits amount to $2,855,106, spent $1,209,034 lobbying against the utility bill, and Hearst papers were paid $23,311 July 24 for fighting it."

SUN-TAN

"I don't know what Bret thinks of you Tubby said. But I know darned well what I think of you Fragonet. Letting you believe I saved your life. Why it's all I can do to keep myself about H. improved that today."

JO's realization that it was Bret Paul and not Peter Fragonet who had rescued her from the lake was momentarily swept away in the excitement. As Bret dived from the speedboat he surged forward with the rest of the crowd straining to catch a glimpse of Lolita Montez on the bright sunlit surface of the lake.

Then Bret bobbed into view, and beside him Jo saw with relief the bedraggled dark hair of Lolita Montez. An involuntary cry went up from the crowd on shore as Drann helped Bret lift the inert figure into the boat. Then as Fragonet struggled aboard the cry stopped abruptly—as if there was only the silence of contempt for him.

JO wakened next morning without having heard from Bret. She wondered if he had received her message and was ignoring it. Perhaps he did not want to talk with her at all, now that he was so contemptuous of the man he thought she cared for.

JO could understand his contempt for Fragonet. No two men she thought were ever more unlike. To a boy like Bret Paul who had worked hard always for what little he could gain from life.

JO stared at the wall. "I wonder what he must think of me?" Fragonet kept to his room the company went through the scene

"I made a speech against the senate appropriating $150,000 and the House another $50,000 for investigations, my contention being that it would be wasting money duplicating work, and the senate voted to appropriate only $50,000, which saved $100,000."

"Eugene V. Sellers, who is my friend and constituent from Abilene, employed here by NRA, requested that I introduce him as Senator Black. I did so, leaving him in Senator Black's office. Investigators had questions about his association with Patton, and fearing that they might carry an erroneous report to Black, he felt that it was his duty to the government under his oath as an official, to conceal nothing, but to tell Senator Black all he knew about the matter."

"Mr. Sellers is a high-class citizen, is a Knight Templar Mason and a Shriner, and told the truth about everything he had seen and heard."

"When utility influences tried to make it unpleasant for Sellers at his hotel, I advised him to move, and as he was paying by the month, he left his trunk in his room for the short time before his month expired, and I advanced the money for him to pay his hotel bill, which he promptly reimbursed when he got his check. I do such favors for my constituents here almost daily. When I paid Seller's bill, the hotel clerk gave me a bottle Sellers had left in his room, which was nothing in the world but common ordinary kerosene oil, which I exhibited to prominent newspaper reporters, but regarding the above utility interests tried to make a mountain out of a molehill."

"Patton and his secretary came to my office and requested me to go with them before the Black committee and arrange for Patton to make a statement, which I did. "When Sellers was summoned before the House committee, I went with him to see that he was accorded fair treatment, and when Congressman Cox asked him an improper question, I protested, although I was not a member of that committee, and Congressman Cox duly apologized, and had his improper question omitted from the Record, and thereafter treated Sellers with due consideration. I had no other connection with the matter."

Prospective Employees of the Rural Resettlement Work Are Examined At District Headquarters, Eastland

Prospective employees of the resettlement administration, government project replacing state rural habitation, were given modified civil service examinations Saturday at the district headquarters, at the City Hall in Eastland, under the direction of C. T. Dodd, the personnel department in Washington, D. C., and Robert Fisher, district resettlement supervisor.

District offices of the program, in the city hall at Eastland, moved from the fourth floor of the Eastland National bank building last week.

Personnel of the Eastland county office is as follows: Miss Madge Garner, rural home supervisor; Ann Mitchell, certifying officer; office manager; Miss Louise Johnson, stenographer; C. C. Wilson, clerk; W. R. Usery, farm manager; George I. Lane is county rural supervisor.

In the district part of the office Robert Fisher, supervisor for 18 counties in his territory, and Miss Billie Harris, stenographer.

List of rural supervisors whose district office is at Eastland are as follows:

P. P. Bond, Taylor county, Abney; J. A. Butler, Shackelford and Stephens counties, Abney; George S. Copeland, Jones, Anderson, Fry, Fisher county, Abney; Booth Green, Parker and De Pinto counties, Weatherford; M. Jones, Coleman and Brown counties, Coleman; George I. Lane, Eastland, Eastland; J. S. McNight, Callahan; J. B. Wright, Eastland, Stephenville; J. B. Lee, Turner, Fort Worth; William Reeves, Johnson, Cleburne, and L. ### Funerals Held For O. R. Ashcraft

Funeral services were conducted at Cross Roads Saturday afternoon for O. R. Ashcraft, 28, who was drowned on July 17, while walking a pipe line between Graham and James. The body of the drowning victim was not found until Friday of this week.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian church of Ranger, assisted by Rev. K. C. Edmonds. Funeral arrangements were made by Killingsworth, Cox & Co. of Ranger.

The decedent was walking the pipe line on his regular rounds, when he was first reported missing. He was due to spend the night of July 17 at a farmhouse, but never arrived. A searching party was started and tracks were found where he had crossed the Clear Fork in one of the two places the pipe line crossed the river.

The body was located, according to reports, by two World War veterans, who were fishing on the river Friday. They noticed a scent and one remarked that he knew it was of a human body, because he would never forget the scent from his experiences overseas. An investigation revealed that he was right, and the partly decomposed body was found.

The body was still in a fair state of preservation, considering the time it had been in the water and exposed to the air. The shirt and trousers were almost intact, with a pencil still in the shirt pocket, his watch and money in his trousers pockets and the snake bite remedy he always carried with him, intact. Only his hat, which was found shortly after he was first missed, was missing from the body.

The body was found lying on its back, about eight feet from the water, where it had apparently been washed during the high water. It was estimated that it washed about 100 to 125 miles

REQUEST FOR COLONY IS NOT YET REJECTED

County Judge Clyde L. Garrett received assurance Saturday from William Boaz, who worked up the brief on the proposed Eastland county rural resettlement program, that the county's application had not been rejected, as had been announced.

Judge Garrett talked to Boaz Saturday at Austin by long distance.

Previously Boaz had informed Garrett that the county's project had been disapproved in Austin and efforts would be made for its reconsideration.

Contact with Basset Orr, farm colony authority and official in the program at Austin, also gave Judge Garrett and others confidence the county's proposal might be considered.

Referring to conversation by long distance with Orr Friday, Judge Garrett stated Saturday morning:

"I was informed that there was a misunderstanding concerning the disapproval of Eastland county's project, that Orr was making a strenuous effort to get federal funds for this work.

"There has as yet been none approved or rejected but when the allocation is made, then the various applications will be thoroughly considered."

County Clerk Is Seeking Clearer Rules for Voting

Are citizens eligible to cast absentee ballots in the Aug. 24 election when they are out of town for reasons other than business, physical disability or sickness?

The county clerk's office at Eastland Saturday, under their interpretation of the stricter absentee voting rules, believed that citizens are not privileged to vote by absentee methods unless they

Perishable Foods Should be Watched Doctor Declares

AUSTIN.—It is a matter of vital importance, particularly during the warm summer season, that sanitary measures be applied to prevent the contamination of perishable foods, stated Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. Various intestinal disorders result from food which has in some way been rendered unwholesome. Summer diarrhea or "summer complaint," affecting young and old, is a serious type of stomach and bowel condition. So called "ptomaine poisoning," in nearly all cases, is none other than a food infection due to the presence in food of harmful bacteria or germs.

Perishable food, if contaminated, endangers human health. This hazard is greater in warm weather, because germs or their products multiply or develop more rapidly at high temperature. Some of the most valuable foods are of perishable nature. Such foods demand the exercise of safeguards. Among well known precautions, which need to be used if perishable foods are to be kept wholesome, are the following:

1. Some form of modern refrigeration or cooling is necessary to preserve food from day to day. Lack of an effective cooling process causes meat to spoil and milk to contain a dangerously large number of bacteria.
  2. Resort to thorough cooking or boiling is the simplest and yet most useful method of preventing illness of food-borne character. This precaution applies especially to food prepared for infants and children.
  3. Contamination of perishable food is avoided through the constant exercise of cleanliness on the part of those who handle food.
  4. Pastries and other food products make a far greater appeal to the consumer or patron if there is an entire absence of flies. Adequate provision for screens and application of every known means of fly and insect extermination are worthwhile.
- The rewards of improved sanitation include tangible assets in good health and sound business.

DANIEL—TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

Daniel 1:8-20

During the reign of Jehoiakim in Judah, Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, besieged Jerusalem and took a number of the flower of their youth to be trained as his counselors. They were tutored in languages, science and astrology so that they might later become advisers to him.

Among these boys "remarkable for the beauty of their bodies, and the comeliness of their countenances" were Daniel and three of his companions.

Their personality struck the king as unusual and he designated a special table with generous portions of rich food from his own table to supply it.

But Daniel knew God. He understood that his body was the temple of his spirit and "purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the king's meat."

Daniel used, perhaps unconsciously, his personality on the prince of the eunuchs who had charge of their table to serve them only vegetables and water. He quieted the fears of the man that they would lose weight and beauty through their countenance by persuading him to try this diet for 10 days on their table. The eunuch would have lost his head for disobeying the king's order.

But at the end of 10 days they were in much better condition both physically and mentally, than the boys who had fared on rich food and wine.

"As for these four children God gave them knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom: and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams." (Verse 17.)

Graduation day came and they stood before the king for their final examinations. The king found these four boys "ten times better than the magicians and astrologers that were in all his realm."

No greater argument could be made for temperance in living than that one picture of Daniel and his comrades. In reading the Book of Daniel we find that it is not merely giving an account of Daniel's life but deals more with the fact that God with all his power and foreknowledge controls and directs the history of nations. He could use the Hebrew captive boys and the mightiest king on earth to accomplish his divine plans.

Daniel was the outstanding personality in the group of boys leading them in their study and devotions always relying upon God as the source of all wisdom.

In all of the wickedness of the court he maintained a quiet strength and poise that revealed the true art of living. He dared not be different from the crowd not to glorify himself but his God.

Art—we hear the word on all sides but what is art? We find the two letters "art" to be an ancient word root that appears in many languages. It means to bind or join together. The man who builds a beautiful chair, or some other figure is an artist, the letter "t" is added. The letter "m" is added making "arm"—"the art of God."

The great painter, Walter Sargent, said: "Art is not a mere skillful representation of nature, but a concrete embodiment of a significant range of human experience."

So we see Daniel as a great figure in history, a great artist in the manner of life because he embodied God's truths in his life both by study and practice until the picture lingers even today while those of the crowd who dined on the rich food and drink of the king are forgotten.

What a challenge today for all people who are not only seeking and striving to attain greatness in power and personality by keeping up with the mad whirl of worldly ways.

For thus saith the word God, the Holy one of Israel: In returning and rest shall ye be saved; in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength.—Isaiah 30:15.

Then are they glad because they be quiet; so he bringeth them unto their desired haven.—Psalm 107:30.

This quietness cannot be attained in interdependence in eating or drinking or thinking. So many Christian men do not think through the great issue of prohibition that will be voted upon in a few days. They argue that if they know that it is poison and that they know where it is, they can leave it alone.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" You can learn it alone perhaps forever but what of the youngsters? A little child will sometimes pick up a snake. You would not. It is best that the liquor, "at the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder," be kept out of the open way of people.

Many people would take a social drink if it were served openly that would never think of going out of their way to hunt it up. Revenue, must we sell souls to eternal ruin that the strong may live well?

In quietness in studying God's word we can know to say "no." But turning again to the picture of Daniel we can study the frame and background of silver touched with the blue of the sky in truth. The sun of faith illumines it touched by the gorgeous colors of crimson and purple of courage lighting the path of the figure struggling up the mountain by prayer and study of the word, amid the blossoming shrubs of love, hope and charity, to the high peak of purity found in nearness to God.

The words of the Lord are pure words: as silver tried in a furnace of earth, purified seven times.—Psalm 12:6.

If the haven desired by all people is ever found it must be by the way of the lowly Nazarene who was the Great Artist of living. He is not a representative of God but an embodiment of God. He stands today calling the hearts of people to take a definite stand for purity in following him to peace and happiness in health of soul and body.

Golden Text: Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God—1 Cor. 6:19.

FORMER OLDEN BOY NOW AT RANDOLPH FIELD IS HOME ON 30-DAY LEAVE

By OLIVE FORD STEPHENS

Living in a government army camp is like being in a different world, Carvie Fullen, Olden boy, stationed at Randolph field, San Antonio, comments. Carvie has served one year and five months of his three year enlistment.

He says there is no depression at camp and never has been one. The boys get their three meals daily, sleeping quarters, free hospitalization, and their pay just the same as army men have for years. No one mentions the problem of living because there is no problem to it. No one is rich but no one is broke, or if he is, he knows it is only temporary and his next pay is on the way.

Carvie has one of those flashing, contagious smiles and is visiting with him this morning, I was impressed with the fact that if he is a fair sample of Randolph field boys, then Randolph field is o. k. He has the happy-go-lucky attitude of youth, to which he is adding a store of valuable experience and information.

Asked what his advice to a boy wanting to be an aviator would be, Carvie unhesitatingly replied, "Go through high school and get as much of college as you can. You can't even get to first base without a high school education." Carvie knows, because in his senior year of high school, he and three other boys left to seek their fortune in Arizona, about a month before he was to have been graduated from high school. The fortune somehow failed to materialize and now Carvie has been attending night school to make the rest of his credits there at Randolph field.

Carvie laughingly related the experience of his first flight. He said he had been trying to get a "hop" but hadn't had any success until he asked a captain who grinned and said, "O. K.; go get your 'chute.'" Carvie said the captain was already turning up his motor, so Carvie fell all over himself hunting attendants and getting a "chute." But in his hurry he could not manage to find anyone with a key to the locker where helmets were kept, so he scrambled out and fell into the cockpit minus a helmet. He said the captain asked, "Can you take it, kid?" and he said, "Yes, sir."

Carvie did not know the seats were adjustable for comfort and a wind resistance, so when he found a terrific wind beating against his forehead all he could do about it also here is a boy who is going to lower his head in a strained position and keep it that way during the ride. Most of the time he held his hands over his ears to keep the noise of the motor from bursting his ear drums. Also he was absolutely certain that he would be even attempt to change the position of his feet, so much as a fraction of an inch, it would mean a "crack up." He was afraid he would touch the stick. But sitting woodenly still and bent forward, his legs cramped and one hip felt paralyzed because what he had supposed was merely a little "hop" turned out to be a trip to Austin and back. When the plane finally nosed down to Randolph field, Carvie said he was too tired and cramped to know whether he was scared or not. And on the ground, when the captain yelled at him, he could not hear a word and had to ask him to repeat it. It was, "Are you o. k.?" And Carvie's reply was, "O—Ye—ye—yes, sir."

Since then Carvie has had many "hops" and enjoyed them all. That is, all but the one when he lost his goggles just as they left the ground and they fell through the hole by the stick and down into the fuselage and worked back toward the baggage compartment, with Carvie madly watching and fishing for them. But it was not until he landed that he finally retrieved the goggles and once more could breathe at ease. Because the government goggles cost $36 a pair and enlisted men don't have $36 running around loose much of the time.

Camp life is very complete. There are commissary department, groceries and sundries, drug store, soft drinks, moving picture show, barber shop, filling station and all necessary accommodations, but now and then the boys go to San Antonio to see the sights. Once in a while one or more of the soldiers get into a little row with civilians but among themselves there is very little trouble. In fact in the 17 months he has been there, Carvie states he has seen only one fight between men in that camp. The next day their captain said, "Next time you boys decide to stage a battle, let us know so we can sell tickets. We could use a little money."

Yes, sir, talking with Carvie one gets the impression that here is a boy going after those high school credits and he will get them. And ahead here is a boy who is going

DEADLIER ARMS FOR AMERICA'S FUTURE WARS WASHINGTON.—The World War which was to cost millions and dead and injured began 21 years ago and the major powers face the anniversary seeking to sustain the postwar peace machinery against the severest tests it has faced.

It was on Aug. 4, 1914, that Great Britain joined the mounting roll of nations to declare hostilities. It was that act which made the conflict a general conflagration which was later to draw into it most of the civilized nations of the world.

Aug. 4, 1935, finds Italy threatening war on Ethiopia and the major powers seeking anxiously to settle the differences. At the same time they are studying what their role will be in event of hostilities and the delicate position of a neutral is forced on them.

History Repeats In numerous other parts of the world sore spots are piling up ill-feeling and jealousies that, in the minds of many, makes the situation comparable in many ways to that which existed in 1914.

The leaders who commanded the 4,000,000 troops which the nation called to the colors are in many instances retired to private life. The new leaders are not devoting their time to re-fighting that war. Instead they are discussing ways and means of winning the next one.

Veterans a Reminder In the capital several thousand clerks are busy in the veterans administration working eight hours every day taking care of the claims for injury and death growing out of the World conflict. In hospitals throughout the land men who were youths when it started are being taken care of by other thousands of government employees.

Across the street from the White House in the State War and Navy building the heads of the diplomatic corps are seeking ways to maintain peace. They are studying proposed neutrality legislation to determine whether it is more likely to throw the nation into any possible war or will help to keep it out.

In the same building military strategists are deciding on the best means of equipping the army that it can hold its place with other armies of the world. Daily they are passing on new implements of warfare. The most recent test was made one recent morning in Maryland when a group of high officers dashed out to watch a test of the auto-giro used in connection with field artillery firing.

Naval Building At the Navy Department similar activity is going on with interest centered on the naval building program, being rushed under way before the expiration of the naval building treaties at the end of next year.

A study of the implements which will be used if the United States goes to war again indicates it will be a far different conflict from the last. Innovations which were scarcely thought of when the first smoke rolled up from the Battle of the Marne will be major agencies in the future, unless something goes wrong.

Mechanization of the military force will be one of the outstanding developments in land warfare. The poilus who were rolled from Paris to the front in taxicabs would be left far behind in a present day race. Trucks and tanks that can cover rough terrain at speeds approaching 60 miles an hour will take the doughboy forward as class as possible.

Still Must March Beyond that point, however, they have thought of nothing to replace the doughboy's feet as a means of transportation. Fast tanks, able to run circles around the lumbering affairs that struck terror into the German army, will lead attacks on machine gun nests which, in retaliation, will themselves be more mobile.

The new tanks will also make 60 or more an hour, travel more smoothly and be more heavily armored. Even the doughboy's rifle has undergone a change. Those used in the world war had an effective range of 3,300 yards and an effective range of 2,000 yards. The new ones have a maximum range of 5,000 yards with the effective range proportionately greater.

Faster Planes Airplanes have faster than were imagined during the World War. They can be equipped with long range radio to flash back information and direct artillery fire across long distances. The radio itself will be put to scores of uses made possible by peacetime development of the industry.

The field artillery will move rapidly by motor. Its fire will be speeded by new methods of loading and firing. And the airplane, almost impervious to ground fire before, will find itself beset by automatic anti-aircraft guns which, by sound detection mechanism, will direct a beam of light and the fire of either three inch artillery pieces or 50 calibre machine guns directly on it.

POSTMASTER NAMED Mrs. J. C. Jarrett, who has been acting postmaster here since July 12, 1933, received her commission as postmaster at Olden, last week.

LUCK ABOUNDS, ALL BAD MOBILE, Ala.—Ollie Broadus had a horse and wagon. Both were hit by a car, and the horse was killed. He bought another horse. A motorist hit his wagon, scared the horse and it ran away. He bought a car. It collided with another and Broadus paid damages.

This gives the eyes intervals of rest and prevents blurry pictures. We don't notice the blind intervals because the picture we last saw before moving the eyes is retained, and thus laps over the interval. You don't realize it—

Dr. E. A. Beskow OPTOMETRIST AT BESKOW JEWELRY & OPTICAL CO. J. C. Penny Building Eastland, Texas $1.00 and up

SCHOOL Remember We specialize in straightening let arched cross eyes with the new technique and you are saving in every part of your life. These headaches force you into your brain at the most exposed points—your eyes. With their complete optical systems, these two really end-organs of the human body are the source of nine out of ten headaches.

Have You Ever Blamed Your Headaches For Headaches? All set for a full day's work you feel fine. And then, where in the back of your head, a vague little pain, it takes possession of your brain. Most of the day is spent fighting a headache. In the evening, you're unfit to do anything. No wonder the experts say that the greatest loss of time in the business is caused by headaches.

Not only are our prices lowest to be had—but our style feature is considered in each customer's case. After you are assured of correct fitting, we guarantee the fitting of your eyes. Everwain, J. Russell, Joe Wood, Alms Kincaid, of Muzqu, and Nor Olts R.
