JOAN CRAWFORD NAMES SCREEN LOVERS WITH PLEASANTEST SMILES

Robert Montgomery . . . Franchot Tone . . . Clark Gable . . . Ronald Colman—these are the men selected by Joan Crawford as having the most "charming smiles on the screen."

"And if you want me to pick the best of these, I refuse," grinned Joan. "Except that Franchot's laugh is the most infectious in the world."

The discussion began on the "No More Ladies" set at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, when the star's new picture was being filmed, with Montgomery, Tone, Edna May Oliver, Charlie Ruggles and others. Conversation swung around to film aspirants and the importance of a smile.

"I can almost pick a winner by his smile," Joan was saying. "If it's empty or forced he hasn't a chance. You can't radiate charm if you don't feel it inside and you can't spread much warmth with a smile turned on like an electric light."

Directed by Edward H. Griffith, and produced by Irving Thalberg, "No More Ladies" opens today at the Lyric theatre.

MOVIE PRODUCTION STOPPED TO HEAR MILLS BROS. SING

Four radio singers almost brought production to a complete standstill at Warner Bros. studio recently.

The quartette that almost disrupted the filming schedule for the day was the Four Mills Bros., nationally famed as "Four Boys and a Guitar" on the stage and radio.

They were working in "Broadway Gondolier," which comes to the Lyric theatre on Monday. When news spread among the workers on the lot to the effect that the Mills Bros. were singing on one of the sound stages, all roads automatically led there.

They recorded five songs, three of which were written by Harry Warren and Al Dubin, "Sweet and Slow," "Lulu's Back in Town" and "Latin From Manhattan," the latter being one of the hit songs in the Al Jolson-Ruby Keeler picture, "Go Into Your Dance."

"Broadway Gondolier" is a novel musical comedy starring Dick Powell and Joan Blondell, who were last teamed in "Gold Diggers of 1933," Adolphe Menjou and Louise Fazenda and featuring Ted Fio Rito and his Band, besides the Four Mills Bros.

Music and lyrics are by Harry Warren and Al Dubin.

Lloyd Bacon directed the picture from the screen play by Warren Duff and Sig Herzig, based on the story by E. Y. Harburg, Sig Herzig and Hans Kraly.

Brownwood Is Planning Water Carnival Aug. 3-4

BROWNWOOD, Tex. — Speedboat races Sunday afternoon under National Outboard Association rules will be the feature of the two-day regatta and water carnival to be held at Lake Brownwood Aug. 3 and 4.

A number of entries from all over the state have been received by the Brownwood Regatta association, sponsors of the races. Regatta officials predict that a brilliant field has entered any outboard event in Texas this sea-

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer
ONE of the most pleasant discoveries I ever made was that a meat loaf can be jellied instead of baked. The jellied variety offers an entirely new taste sensation because you can use seasonings that are impossible when cooked otherwise. And, made festive looking by clever garnishing, they are as suitable for company meals as the proverbial chicken.

Monday's Menu
BREAKFAST: Chilled apple sauce, cereal cooked with dates, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Baked potatoes stuffed with creamed dried beef, shredded lettuce, rye bread, berries and cream, sugar cookies, lemonade.
DINNER: Vegetable soup, maitreded tongue, mayonnaise, lattice potatoes, kohlrabi au gratin, stuffed peach salad, rice soufflé, milk, coffee.

Moulded Tongue With Mayonnaise Sauce
One beef tongue weighing about two pounds, 1 onion, 6 cloves, 1-2 teaspoon peppercorns, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 small carrot, 2 blades celery, 2 sprigs thyme, 1 bay leaf, 3 sprigs parsley, 1 sprig savory, 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 3 cups meat stock, juice 1 lemon.
Scrub tongue well, washing through several waters. Put into a large kettle with onion peeled and stuck with cloves, carrot scraped and sliced, celery diced and seasonings. Cover with boiling water and simmer until tender, about two hours. Remove from stock and cool. Strain stock and measure. There should be 3 cups. Remove skin and roots from tongue and run a skewer through tip of tongue and fleshy part to keep it in shape. Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes and reheat strained stock. When boiling add softened gelatin and lemon juice and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Put a mold in ice water and cover bottom with gelatin. When firm, decorate with cooked carrot slices, beets cut in fancy shapes, threads of green pepper and parsley. Add tongue and cover with remaining gelatin. Chill until firm and turn out on a large platter to serve. Serve with mayonnaise.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JO DARIEN, finishing her first year in college, learns her father is out of work. Jo hurls a job and secures part time work in a marine supply store. There she meets wealthy, handsome DOUGLAS MARSH who offers her the job of hostess at his inn at Crest Lake. Jo accepts. This causes a quarrel with BRET PAUL to whom she is engaged and Jo breaks the engagement.

She goes to Crest Lake. Her duties are pleasant but Marsh's eccentric mother takes a dislike to the girl. BABS MONTGOMERY, a school acquaintance who comes to the inn. PETER FRAGONET, film actor, and his wife are also guests.

Fragonet takes Jo for a sailboat ride. Babs Montgomery piloting a speedboat, crashes into the sailboat and Jo is hurled into the water. She is not injured but suffers from shock. Marsh comes to see her and later Fragonet sees her and later Fragonet

HE broke off suddenly and dropped to his knees beside the bed, taking her in his arms. "Peter! You—" But Fragonet's lips cut off her words and he held her helpless in his arms. Weak with fury, Jo held her clenched fists against his shoulder and struck him across the mouth with all the strength at her command. She was about to speak when another voice bit like acid into the silence of the room. It was Edna Fragonet's, and just beyond her Jo saw Mrs. Marsh!

"A very pretty performance. Miss Darien," Edna Fragonet was saying, "but it would have been more convincing if you hadn't seen me first."

Poor Jo could only sag there helplessly against the pillows, her mouth foolishly open. Between her anger at Fragonet and astonishment at the sudden appearance of his wife she could find no words at all. But instantly Fragonet faced the two women in the doorway.

"Let's not have one of your scenes, Edna. I assure you I'm entirely to blame." He managed a wry smile and in that moment Jo saw the Fragonet who was the actor. He was acting now, just as she had seen him dozens of times on the screen.

"I've no intention of making a scene," his wife answered coldly. "Mrs. Marsh and I had intended to pay a sick-room visit, and we were quite unaware that we'd be interrupting."

Mrs. Marsh had glanced at Jo only once, and now her manner seemed to say that as far as she was concerned Joanne Darien did not exist. Turning her back upon Jo, she addressed Edna Fragonet in a voice as cool as if it were commenting on the weather.

"Please don't let this disturb you, Mrs. Fragonet. I'm sure that, like most men, Peter is unduly chivalrous. I haven't been entirely asleep the past few weeks and I know where to lay the blame. I'll have Douglas take care of the matter in the morning."

SHE started from the room, but Fragonet detained her. "Just a moment, Mrs. Marsh. It will do you no good to talk to Doug. I'm going to give him the whole story." He whirled desperately toward his wife. "What's the use of pretending any longer? I'm damned tired of pretense. This has got to be the final, Edna!" He stopped suddenly, then went on in almost a whisper. "I don't suppose anything I can ever do or say will make up for what I've done to you, Jo." He seemed about to add something else, shrugged helplessly, and was gone.

Jo lifted herself upright, trembling in every fiber. "Mrs. Fragonet, you must listen to me a moment. I—"

But Edna Fragonet's eyes were points of ice. "Listen to you, Miss Darien? I'm afraid it is you who must listen to me. Perhaps you

States Reduce Tax On Farms 5 Per Cent
WASHINGTON.—Farm real estate taxes decreased 5 per cent between the 1933 and 1934 levies, according to the bureau of agricultural economics.
The estimate was based on reports from 20 states, of which 15 reported decreases in farm taxes and five showed increases by an average of slightly less than 2 per cent.

Races will be open to four N. O. A. classes, A, B, C, and F, with prizes of $65, $45, $25 and $15 offered in each race. Amateurs and professionals will compete in the same races, amateurs to receive the equivalent of the cash prizes in merchandise or trophies, as they elect. Cash prizes total $600.

Special races for local, commercial, inboard and outboard boats will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Special free-for-all hydroplane race, and mile straight-of-way time trial, will be open to all boats following the N. O. A. races. These special races will not be under N. O. A. regulation.

The two-day program will get under way at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, Aug. 3, with a bait and fly casting tournament, held under the auspices of the Izaak Walton League. Prizes totaling $30 are offered in these events. Diving and swimming contests will follow the casting tournament.

Surf-board riding contests will be held immediately after lunch Saturday, following which there will be a flying exhibition by U. S. Army flyers from San Antonio flying fields, who will be guests of the Regatta association for the event. A bathing beauty revue is scheduled for 6:15 Saturday afternoon.

Saturday night a dance, honoring the visiting Army officers will be held at Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hall. Winners of the bathing revue will be presented trophies at the dance.

Winners of the surfboard contests will give an exhibition Sunday afternoon immediately preceding the N. O. A. races. Following the races, there will be exhibition swimming and diving by winners of these contests.

Regatta officials are expecting record-breaking crowds at Lake Brownwood for the two-day Regatta, which offers unique entertainment for residents of arid West Texas. Lake Brownwood, a 7500 acre body of water, is one of the largest inland lakes in the state, and racing officials state it offers an ideal course for staging the race meet. Large delegations throughout West Texas are expected for the entertainment.

Decreases were reported for Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and Vermont.

Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Hampshire and Virginia reported increases.

Bureau indices also showed marked decrease virtually throughout the country in farm real estate taxes levied since 1929 and the national average was 241 per cent of pre-war.

Congress Wants Rest, But So Do We All

It is a very hot day in the spot where this article is being written. The thermometer stands at 92 outside and it is going to go higher pretty soon. There isn't a wind, and if there were it would be a hot one. Like everyone else who is at work, the writer feels warm and uncomfortable.

All of this is put down, not in the belief that the general public is specially interested in working conditions in newspaper offices, but because it somehow is a gentle reminder that our congressmen and senators are also suffering from the heat.

Washington dispatches are full of sad details about the weather in the capital. We read that congressional nerves and tempers are getting all warped out of shape with the heat, that a senatorial medical expert is shaking his head sadly over the possible results, and that Congress as a whole wants to wind everything up quickly and get home.

It is easy to sympathize with anyone who is too warm. And yet it is no more than fair to rise and remark that congressmen are not the only people in that predicament these days.

After all, the capitol building is nicely air cooled. Congressmen may have been working steadily ever since January—but what of it? Joe Doakes, back home, has been working steadily ever since the fall of 1921—and he hasn't had a spacious, air-cooled chamber to work in, either, nor does he drag down any $10,000 a year for his pains.

The kitchen of a big bakery is not a cool place these days; neither is a railroad roundhouse, nor a gasoline filling station on a sun-baked corner, nor the operator's corner of a steam shovel, nor the space behind the counter in a 5-and-10, nor a hundred other places where the constituents of congressmen earn their daily bread.

Congress may find Washington hot. So do all the rest of us find the places where we work. It would be nice if we could suddenly vote ourselves a vacation, to run until the first of January; but we can't do it, and it is a little bit hard to work up very much sympathy over the plight of the legislators.

To put it more concisely, these wails about the sufferings of Congress are a pain in the neck. Our solons aren't suffering from the heat half as much as the rest of us are. As a matter of fact, they have it pretty soft.

And so, if they have work to do—as apparently, they have—it would be a fine thing if they would buckle down and do it, without quite so much self-pity. Compared with the overwhelming majority of their constituents, congressmen lead a pretty easy life.

Speaking about politics, the more we see of it the more confused we become.

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Re-united after 50 years of separation, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Arnold are enjoying the romance of a second honeymoon.

Strance was the fate that guided their destinies. Childhood sweethearts on neighboring ranches in Burnett county they were five and seven when Indians raided the settlement one day and carried away Little Annie.

However, one day while visiting an Indian tribe L. V. found his sweetheart and bargained with the Chief for her return.

They were married at 15 and 17.

One day a quarrel separated them and after a few brief communications they never heard from each other. Each married again and raised families.

Arnold, who is night police at the stockyards here, once wrote a little book about his lost sweetheart which he called "Queen Bee and L. V." Queen Bee was the name the Indian Chief had given the little girl.

The other day in a San Angelo hospital Mrs. Annie V. Leineweber underwent an operation.

Her friend Mrs. Allie Rhymes visited her. They talked of Mrs. Annie's childhood.

Chicago Curbs Bootleg Evils

CHICAGO. — The bootlegging industry, which in Al Capone's heyday, which emfwp emfwp pu heyday was billion-a-year business, is a cheap racket today.

The glamour of the old days, when prohibition was a windfall for dealers in illegal booze is gone. The big leaders of the trade, one by one, have drooped into oblivion. Such is the opinion of authorities now trampling the remnants of the illegal rum gangs.

E. C. Yellowley, chief of the alcohol tax unit of the internal revenue department here, said: "There are only the petty operators left. The investment is too high and the prices too low. The old 100-gallon still has given away to 20-gallon stills."

Despite protests of professional liquor tasters, who can spot a faked scotch label from the far end of the bar, Yellowley said there is little bootleg left on the market.

"One of the most common forms of petty bootlegging at present," the tax chief said, "is to cut legitimate liquor three times and then re-bottle it."

"Scotch seems to be the favorite of these operators, who add croscote to bogus whisky to produce the 'genuine smoky flavor.' Now and then brandy also is bootlegged, but it is usually of low quality."
