Italy Resentful Of Interference By the British

LONDON, June 26.—British efforts to mediate in the threatened war between Italy and Abyssinia had received a severe setback, reliable informants said today and threats of hostilities are more serious.

Looks like more rain in sight today. We'll always take it when it comes and like it but some of the farmers haven't gotten their grain out of the fields as yet and that would hurt some if it came a big rain. Maybe a little one wouldn't hurt. But at that it looks like this section will have plenty of grain. Some say that corn needs more rain and others say that it doesn't. From observations this section will have better and bigger corn than they have had in several years. There isn't a thing to gripe about rain or no rain. We're sitting pretty.

Housewives in every direction are standing over the stove making preserves, jams and jellies out of the abundant fruit crops that are now finding their way to the market. Surely does look good and small good to walk in the kitchen where the big pot is simmering with good old fruit of any kind. And when the winter months come along juddies and grown folks too will have the time of their lives whenever it comes time to put their feet under the eating table. If enough preserves are put up until November, but it surely will take a whole lot whether there are only two in the family or a dozen, because preserves, jams and jellies last long in any house. They are just naturally good any time.

Six-Year-Old Program for Joint Child Welfare Committee

Friends of child welfare and the rehabilitation of child life in Texas are on the march. Dr. Thomas J. McElhenney is chairman of the joint welfare committee and the American Legion and auxiliary of the Texas department.

The state meeting of the joint organization outlined the work for the year (or the coming six years) of the program showing benefits from sources outside the organization. Speakers were represented by J. J. Brown, director of vocational rehabilitation in the state department of education.

To be eligible for service, he said, the child's disability should be such that it would be reasonable to expect that such child could be improved through hospitalization, surgical or medical care, or artificial appliances or through a combination of these services.

Mrs. Frank Spiller, member of the American Legion auxiliary department legislative committee, gave an analysis of the status of measures voted out of the department convention as legislative objectives.

It is said a special session of the legislature is coming late in the fall. Then the child labor amendment will bob up again, as the organizations affiliated with the joint child welfare committee are said to be strong for the amendment and its ratification.

Advocates of Soil Erosion Furnished the Evidence

Advocates of soil erosion have been furnished the evidence for their argument for quick erosion action by American lawmakers. After spending its fury in the valleys of Texas, the Colorado river deposited its water as well as a millions of tons of soil in the Gulf of Mexico.

Four states contributed to the soil losses and the millions of dollars in property losses swept away in the wild rampage of the floods which were let loose by the watersheds of the river.

Thousands have been placed on the relief rolls of the state and the nation. For years and years soil erosion has taken place whenever the flood waters sent the river out of its banks and devastated the living conditions of man, ruined his growing crops, robbed him of his personal belongings and inflicted incalculable damage to the soil of the commonwealth.

Why shouldn't the rivers and creeks of the commonwealth and country be harnessed and the flood waters conserved for the needs of man? Why talk of our superior civilization, the onward march of science and the mighty inventions of the men of genius in the face of disasters that have swept over in the world in the years of 1934 and 1935.

Mussolini must envy Japan. He can't just tell the Ethiopians to scram.

TWO WAYS TO LEARN THAT CRIME DOESN'T PAY

These boys know that crime doesn't pay. They're graduates of a course of study offered by the Boys' Anti-Crime Council of New York's lower east side, and 25 of them were sent to Washington to receive medals from the boss of the G-Men.

These boys know—now—that crime doesn't pay. They killed a man in an attempted robbery, and are held on homicide charges in New York. The weapon was a pistol they had stolen from a police station.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—Secretary Ickes is suffering from another attack of Burlew trouble.

Romantic stories trickle out of the Interior-PWA department as to the activities of Ebert K. Burlew, Ickes' administrative assistant, budget and personnel officer, and grand vizier.

He had learned that some were trying to edge around Burlew in efforts to get people of their own choosing on their staffs.

In future, if he heard of such infidelity, he would suspend the offending division head "with prejudice and without pay."

The secretary was talking to a group which included several men with more distinguished careers than either Ickes' or Burlew's, many of whom feel they must be close subservient to Burlew and his wishes to do their jobs successfully.

ONE official who recently collided with Burlew over an important appointment in his section is Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker, who had to threaten to quit before he could block a Burlew candidate whose appointment he felt would be a surrender to political influence.

Ickes may yet decide to curb Burlew's power, in an attempt to put his house in order. Turmoil in his own backyard during his many fights with Harry Hopkins, Henry Wallace, Jim Farley, and others tends to weaken his position and to influence Roosevelt in favor of high officials who would like to push "Honest Harold" into a minor position in administration councils.

Extradition of Prisoners Asked AUSTIN, June 26.—Governor James E. Alford today asked Governor E. W. Marland of Oklahoma to return to Texas from Oklahoma City Jack Mulkey and William A. Mulkey.

Each is charged with robbery with firearms in Ellis county and each with burglary and theft in Kaufman.

Boom in Recent Diamond Sales is Credited to Clerks ST. LOUIS.—The $20-a-week clerk who buys his fiancée a diamond engagement ring, even though he knows he will be several years of married life in paying for it, is the diamond merchant's friend in America.

Sam W. Swap, Amsterdam diamond cutter, gave the clerks of America full credit, in a talk here, for the upswing in diamond importing.

"Not only the clerks who buy their girl friend a diamond engagement ring, but many girls who live in small towns and who buy their own, are also responsible for the $3,000,000 increase in wholesale diamond sales in America in the past two years," he said.

For another reason, India is the next largest purchaser of diamonds. In India the rise of the lower classes, who now save their money by buying gold, real estate and diamonds is one big factor.

Sitting in her room, a woman was knocked off her feet by a golf ball that came through a window.

If we know of the culprit probably even drove off from a press back of her ear.

Candid Camera Reveals Only Woman U. S. Senator

Intent on the testimony at a recent hearing, Mrs. Hattie Wyatt Caraway, the only woman United States senator, was oblivious of the presence of the candid camera. But the lens recorded these three intimate glimpses of the widow of the late Senator Thaddeus Caraway.

This Party Swept Hollywood Stars Off Their Feet!

Discarding dignity, poise and aplomb to stagger, slide, whirl and plunge through one of the maddest and merriest evenings in the history of Hollywood, 200 film notables saw to it that the Venice "Fun House," in which Carole Lombard gave her gala party, lived up to its name.

easily. "I thought to myself," he said, "that 'fore I go back to Hartford I better take this to Miss Zoe. She'll know what to do with it. Seems like I tried to do the best I could when that Miss Moon was lookin' 'ever' where."

Zoe interrupted. "You say you found it—when?" She had an official-looking paper in her hand. "Found it after Mist' Michael done took sick. Thought he wouldn't want to see it. She was tearin' the place up, tearin' the whole self-same house to pieces."

Zoe, shaken by the revelation, concealed her amazement. "Thank you for bringing it to me, Clarence. You did right."

"Well, I didn't get back 'fore Mist' Michael left. I was a-join' to write him, but seems like I never got 'round to it. So I knew you was Miss Katharine's friend. Many's the time when I worked for Mis' Willetts I give both of you a ride on the pony. Seems like you'd know what to do, now I'm goin' back to my sister's to stay."

"Thanks you, Clarence," Zoe reached for her purse and folded a bill into his hand.

"Now there ain't no need for that." But his fingers closed over it. He went shambling away.

So that was Katharine's secret! Zoe glanced at the date on the Katharine had married Michael Heathero!

And Sally Moon, to whom Michael had been engaged, was leaving for Paris on the morrow. Zoe, who knew a few of the people to whom Sally had sent invitations to the wedding, also had heard of their hasty cancellation. The bridegroom had been ill. . . . That was the way the story went. And all the time, Zoe mused, this paper had been safely reposing in old Clarence's pocket.

Was Michael Heathero the villain these circumstances painted him? Zoe trembled for Katharine. No wonder the girl had drooped, turned pale and wan. This was her secret.

Zoe went back into the house, unaccountably depressed. If Katharine had not managed her affairs better than this, what could one expect of the world at large?

"What a muddle!" Zoe sighed, leaning her head pensively on her hand.

She had seen John Kaye that morning. He had come out for a Saturday morning of golf. She had asked him to tea this afternoon, and he was coming. Zoe had felt a little flutter of pleasure at the thought, in spite of the fact that she had sworn never to let any man trouble the surface of her mind again—since her summer madness. She looked back at that time feeling older and wiser; it was a bad time to have got through. She thanked God with all her heart that she had got through it. There were other things in life besides love. She was going to do social service work this winter. Her mother, who had hitherto opposed this aim, was now perfectly willing to concur with any plans Zoe might make. So the Parkers would take a city apartment, and Zoe would have classes at a settlement or some such place, she told herself.

Additional Seed For Drought Area Has Been Allotted

WASHINGTON.—The seed conservation committee has turned over to the Soil Conservation Service upwards of 600,000 pounds of hegari and dwarf milo seed, the agricultural adjustment administration announced today. The seed will be used for strip planting in dust-blown drought sections of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The soil conservation service will distribute the seed in designated areas to cooperating farmers who agree to plant vacant acres and to leave a high stubble to provide cover for the land. Planting is expected not only to conserve the acreage, planted, but to protect crops in nearby fields from blowing soil.

The seed transfer is the second within a short time. A few days ago the seed conservation committee gave the soil conservation service seed for emergency use in Texas, Colorado and South Dakota.

The seed turned over by the committee is part of the supply of tested adapted seed purchased when there was fear that drought would cause a shortage of proper seed for planting in the dry area. Such seed has been sold in areas where it was needed, and where regular commercial channels could not supply it. The seed was brought with funds granted by Congress to the AAA for that particular purpose.

By now the advisability of holding the hegari and dwarf milo seed for regular crop planting appears to have passed. The remaining hegari and milo therefore was designated as surplus, and as such was turned over to the soil conservation service of the United States Department of Agriculture for use in cooperation with farmers in the drought area of the southwest. It will be used to control losses from wind blowing and to provide additional forage.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.—David Marshall Williams, who 14 years ago was a convicted slayer, has been restored to full citizenship and is performing an important service for the federal government.

In 1921, he pleaded guilty to second degree murder charges in the death of a deputy sheriff. An excellent prisoner, he was paroled a few years later, and granted a pardon in 1929.

Williams had studied firearms since boyhood. Shortly after receiving a pardon, he invented an improved machine gun, details of which have been guarded closely by the government. Williams is supervising experimental manufacture of the gun for use by the army.

East Invades Westward Ho!

Tired business men and women who take up golf for their health have a chance to rest while playing Westward Ho course near Chicago. Rickshaws, Oriental mode of transportation, have been purchased by officials, and golfers can ride from hole to hole for a small extra amount added to their caddy fee. Here's Bertrando Bates, of River Forest, Ill., touring the course with Caddy Vito Nardiello furnishing the lift power.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

WHEN hot days have dwarfed the husky appetites of my family there's an infallible remedy I always call on—a salad chilled in the coldest part of the refrigerator, crisp, cooling, hunger arousing.

And to make the repast doubly alluring, I serve also a variety of breads and rolls, thus supplying the calories lacking in the salad.

With a dinner salad there's nothing more appropriate than a crisp salted cracker, but the lunch salad requires a more substantial accompaniment.

Half the trick of preparing appetizing salads lies in attractive serving. The lettuce or other salad greens always must be crisp. Keep lettuce wrapped in a clean damp cloth near, but never on, the ice. If it wasn't carefully washed before storing, rinse it thoroughly and dry between towels before arranging on the plates.

A delicious dinner salad which does double duty for both salad and dessert is a jellied salad Melba. Or if you want to serve cold cuts for luncheon you'll like this salad with them.

Jellied Salad Melba
One package red raspberry gelatin, 1 1/2 cups warm water, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 cups diced peaches, 1 package Philadelphia cream cheese, 1/2 cup broken pecan meats.

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add salt and let stand until syrupy. Divide in two equal parts. Add sugar and peaches to one half and turn into a shallow mold. Chill. Put remaining gelatin into a mixing bowl and put the bowl into a pan of cracked ice. Beat with a rotary beater until thick and fluffy. Fold in cheese which has been beaten to a smooth paste with a little cream and nuts. Pour over first layer of gelatin in mold and chill until firm. Cut in squares and serve on a bed of lettuce with mayonnaise.

You might serve cinnamon rolls with this salad. If you have a bowl of ice-box dough ready, you can make up a baking of cinnamon rolls quickly or make them of quick dough. If using the ice-box rolls allow time for the rolls to rise. It takes longer for the chilled dough to rise than it does the regulation yeast dough which has been kept in a warm temperature during the whole process of rising.

Quick Cinnamon Rolls
Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons salt, 1/3 cup water, 1/2 cup milk (about), 2 tablespoons softened butter, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Work in shortening with tips of fingers or pastry blender. Cut in liquid with a broad bladed knife, using enough to make a soft dough. Turn onto a floured molding board. Flour tips of fingers and knead lightly for ten or fifteen seconds. Roll into an oblong sheet about 1-2 inch thick. Spread with softened butter, sprinkle evenly with sugar and cinnamon mixed together and roll up like a jelly roll. Cut in slices about 3/4 inch thick and bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees F.)

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Berries and cream, poached egg on toast, crisp bacon, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Cold sliced meats, jellied salad Melba, cinnamon rolls, hot chocolate.
DINNER: Casserole of calf's liver, creamed cauliflower, endive salad, summer rice pudding, milk, coffee.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

OFF THE FLORIDA COAST, BETWEEN MIAMI AND KEY WEST, THERE ARE 600 KNOWN VARIETIES OF FISH!

SPIDERS VARY GREATLY IN THEIR METHODS OF SECURING PREY. SOME BUILD WEBS, WHILE SOME STALK THEIR PREY, AND PONCE DOWN ON IT; OTHERS RUN THEIR QUARRY DOWN IN OPEN CHASE, WHILE STILL OTHERS LURK IN AMBUSH FOR THEIR VICTIMS.

THERE ARE NO INSECTS LIVING IN THE OCEAN.

OF all the world's millions of insects, not one species lives in the ocean. There is, however, one species of oceanic insect—a water strider. But this tiny creature runs along on top of the water, and cannot invade the water itself.

Texas Has Been Under Seven Flags Woman Declares

AUSTIN.—Texas has been under the flags of seven ruling nations instead of six as heretofore recorded in history. This discovery was made recently by Mrs. Mary Jordan Atkinson, author of a volume on Texas Indians which is soon to be released by the Naylor Publishing company. In delving into dusty archives and ancient Spanish Government records in the University of Texas Library, she has brought to light many interesting and heretofore little known facts connected with the Indian tribes who inhabited Texas and immediately after the time of the first coming of white man to this vast domain. She has found that the Comanches who roseto control over a large part of what is now embraced in the area of this State had their own flag which waved over the villages in their vast barbaric empire.

The rise of the Comanche began with the spread to the lower brush region of Texas of wild mustangs in the sixteenth century. The horses which were first introduced by the Spanish conqueror, Hernando Cortez, were the progenitors of the mustangs which in later roamed at will in great droves over the Southwest. Their coming sounded the knell of the buffalo and transformed the Comanches and other Indian tribe from peaceful fighting redskins.

The Indians of Texas were sun worshippers. The glaring orb of day was an important factor in their lives. The theme of the sun runs through all of the Indian lore unearthed by Mrs. Atkinson.

"Among the flags that waved over Texas have never been mentioned the standard of the sun and the blood red banner of the Comancheria," Mrs. Atkinson recently wrote. "The first of these, having had its inception in the twenty thousand years preceding the arrival of Coronado, greeted the French and Spanish explorers, while the second marched and counter-marched between San Antonio and Nacogdoches for something like three centuries."

When told he was the father of twins, a movie star said, "I'm just twice as happy as I thought I'd be." On that basis, Mr. Dionne's joy must have burst all bounds.

Sweden Sees Her 'Tired' Smile

Her hair tousled by sea breezes, and smiling wistfully, perhaps at her success in "being alo-o-o-ne," Gretta Garbo is pictured above in her favorite company as she arrived at Gottenburg, Sweden. "Tired of it all," Gretta's goal was her recently-purchased Swedish castle, and the seclusion of pastoral life.

Tiny Factory Makes Most Cheesecloth

MONROE, Wis. — Ninety per cent of America's cheesecloth used in the manufacture of cheese is woven on an old loom, owned by two Swiss brothers, in the attic of a two-story building here.

The factory, which has grown to such proportions that it now employs five persons and has retail outlets in six states, first was established in 1929 in the basement of a garage by Joe Donny.

Coming to the United States in 1927, Donny worked for two years in a cheese factory near here, noticed that most of the equipment was foreign made, heard the owners complain of the high prices they had to pay for it, and decided to start a factory.

After four years of difficult progress, Donny wrote his brother, Melchior, a graduate of the college of Turaine, Italy, and then manager of a European hotel, to come and assist him.

More than a year ago they purchased a second hand loom. Last summer, the two brothers had more orders than they could possibly fill, chiefly because their products were one-third as cheap as the foreign made articles and were superior in quality.

Weather Cuts Wine Crop at Bordeaux

By United Press
BORDEAUX, France. — The warmth of the early summer sunshine has failed to offset the ravages of the bitter cold weather of late spring as far as the vineyards of this region are concerned. The result will be one of the smallest crops on record. The vines were blighted to such an extent by the cold that when the buds finally came out they looked like tiny cabbage sprouts.

The shortage of the wine crop will bring about a definitely improved economic situation in the vineyards. Chateau wines of 1934 are bringing fair prices despite the fact that there are substantial stock in the cellars.

Despite the cold disaster ordinary Bordeaux for domestic consumption will hold to the price level of last year as will the export wines because the duty in various countries is so high that producers mean an increase of price would mean a decrease in business.

Buses Safer Than St. Louis Street Cars

ST. LOUIS.—Travel by motor bus in St. Louis is safer than travel by street car, a recent report of a St. Louis public service company reveals.

The accident percentage is shown by the difference in accident reserve funds which it is necessary to maintain. A reserve for personal injury of 2.6 cents per car mile must be set up for the street cars, while only 1.4 cents per car mile is laid aside for the same fund from bus revenues.

Bus travel in St. Louis and suburbs has increased 23 per cent in the last two years, the same report reveals. In April of 1933 the maximum daily average of buses operated was 260. In April of this year it was 311.

It is not expected that bus travel will supplant street car travel, company officials say.

HONEST AID!

IT WAS LINCOLN, wasn't it, who gave us that epigram about fooling some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time? Times have changed. Some people, today, can't be fooled at all.

They are the ones who buy thoughtfully and spend wisely. They are guided by the most up-to-the-minute news about products, prices and values. They read the advertisements in the daily paper.

Whether you're marketing for tonight's dinner, for a refrigerator or for a home—the most reliable guides are printed right here in this paper for you.

Make it a habit to shop at home, by newspaper, before you set out. It saves time . . . saves tiresome searching . . . and it saves real money.
