

Senate Adopts One-Fourth Cut Amendment

Help us find employment for a young woman who is anxious to earn anything she can at housekeeping, as a clerk or by restaurant work.

A new kind of mean man is playing his "trade" here at night. Presumably by using a diamond he cuts deep slashes in plate glass windows of stores. Last week Harris had an expensive window defaced in this manner. Tuesday night Amos R. Wood, jeweler, Theron Hicks, jeweler, and the Albert M. Fisher Co., reported similar vandalism.

When a fellow's hungry we can sort of understand why he might break into some store, but that rarely, if ever, is necessary. But when he just defaces costly property apparently for the "fun" of it with no chance of gaining any loot, we can't understand his complex.

A farmer, Mr. Fuqua, northeast of Center Point, is helping some people here and getting his bumper black-eyed pea crop gathered too. He is offering peas on "the halves" for the gathering of them. One man here has 136 pounds on hand, obtained in this manner.

Now if Ames Semples McPherson's crowd in her glorified brush arbor out in Los Angeles, the city that suckers built, do not grow as a result of her new marriage and its intended publicity, we can feel reasonably justified in an opinion that the country's mental state is improving.

She sprinkled the sawdust trail with confetti and set to music the grand march to the cash register. And, incidentally, converted thousands to the idea that hoes, hokums and blab sometimes pays more dividends than stocks and bonds of what have you

As Jack Dempsey said of Gene Tunney's Shakespearian reckoning it's all right if it helps his racket."

We have been proud, ever since it fell to our lot to become a citizen of Big Spring, of the cool-headedness of its people. We read every day of the tight conduct of people in other parts of the country, how they "blow up" like a southpaw pitcher with three on, two out and the score tied—and sometimes underrun the stability of local business.

Big Spring people, to begin with know they have no reason to fear any local catastrophe in business. More money is being spent here in payrolls than in any other city between Fort Worth and El Paso, Lubbock and San Angelo. Local business institutions are fundamentally sound, year in and year out. They have demonstrated their soundness in more than one "lean year" and have shown their ability wisely and safely to take advantage of "fat years."

We are indeed fortunate that we live in Big Spring. Courage and fortitude of the type so long manifested here will keep the good ship Big Spring on an even keel and bring us safely into the peaceful harbor of Prosperity.

Feeder-Breeder Exchange Formed At San Angelo Meeting Called By West Texas Chamber of Commerce

Marrs Favors New Methods For Teachers

Would Change Procedure In Granting Certificates To Teach

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 16 (UP)—Criticism of the present method of granting teachers' certificates and a proposal that the standard of teachers can be raised by authorizing a state board of education to examine prospective teachers and grant licenses were made by S. M. Marrs, state superintendent of education, at the southwest Texas teachers' institute held here.

He recommended abolition of granting teachers' certificates under present state laws. Marrs contended that these laws were contributing to lowered standards of teaching and were largely the result of personal legislation. Dr. John Guy Fowlkes of the University of Wisconsin, one of a group of well known educators who addressed the institute, said that a great tragedy of today's educational system is the preparation of 500 per cent more teachers than can be used. Shortly some states will legislate to the end that only the best teachers and no more than the required number are selected, he said.

Dr. Fowlkes also scored laws for compulsory attendance at school. Such legislation is in direct opposition to sentiments of the American people, he declared, and these laws point to a vulnerable point in modern education. What is needed is more emphasis upon the fact that economic freedom is an essential part of education.

Samuel H. Smith of this city, an educator in the "old school" who began his teaching experience 54 years ago, declared that modern methods have not stood the test as have those of the period of the three R's. Smith's indictment against the newer methods were: "The whole public school system has become commercialized. Education is secondary. Educators seek notoriety and salary by originating and putting into operation new methods. The goodly outside striven for by boards of education and by teachers in costly school buildings and paraphernalia finds no counterpart in the instruction given, but rather, is at the expense of instruction."

Speaking from his own experience, Smith added: "The red schoolhouse provoked self-confidence, thinking, and hard work. While the field was a narrow one, it was the more thoroughly tilled. There was no time or place for superficiality there. Today all over the product of our schools is written the word, 'superficiality.'"

Admiralty Will Review Changes In Sailors' Pay

LONDON, Sept. 16 (UP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, first lord of the admiralty, announced in the house of commons that the government will re-examine the new pay scale in an attempt to satisfy sailors of the Atlantic fleet, who have been making a series of demonstrations. Ships were enroute to their home ports. Pay reductions in the new government economy program apply to all public employees but sailors of some grades claimed no undue hardship upon them as involved.

Short Line Railways Tell I.C.C. Necessary Aid Possible Without Raising Rates On Farm Products

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (UP)—One hundred fifty-three short line railways filed a brief before the interstate commerce commission today saying it was possible to eliminate farm products from the 15 per cent freight increase sought by the nation's railways and still secure the needed relief for the carriers. The brief said that agriculture is a great industry but that it supplied a minor part of freight tonnage. Two other briefs were offered opposing increases on rates for various commodities.

Crude Output In East Texas Near 400,000

TULSA, Sept. 16 (UP)—Opening of East Texas fields under the new Texas proration order resulted in a daily average increase of crude petroleum production in the United States of 401,883 barrels to a total of 2,137,890 barrels.

The Oil & Gas Journal today reported that the East Texas production for the past week averaged 397,771 barrels. Military shutdown the previous week held that field's production to zero.

Promises of Texas officials to keep East Texas production under the 400,000 barrels a day mark, although conservation leaders, considered the figure too high, gave cheer to oil men.

In Kansas the public service commission's order closing areas in Rice county was assailed by royalty owners, a move that authorities fear will spread to other shutdown areas. The commission, however, remained adamant in its shutdown policy.

Oklahoma daily average production, the Journal reported, showed a slight decrease, falling 300 barrels to 255,935 barrels.

Midcontinent production, influenced by West Texas, rose 403,650 barrels to 1,230,881 barrels.

California production rose 4,750 barrels to 409,750 barrels.

'Quick on the Trigger' In War and Peace, Smedley To Quit Marines

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—From a corps famed for its fighting soon will go forth a leader bright with much of its martial glory.

Ready To Fight—

His deeds in peace have been hardly less glamorous than those in war. His racy, blunt speeches probably have caused him more trouble than all the bandits he fought in Haiti, Nicaragua, and China.

He killed Mussolini. His remark about Benito Mussolini evoked an apology from the American government to the Italian premier and a reprimand from himself from the secretary of the navy. His expressed regret, called off a court martial.

For alleged use of the word "hell" he was cut off a radio program. He has been perhaps the most talked-about United States marine.

"From the halls of Montezuma To the shores of Tripoli." Evils of the "Devil Dog," General Butler has won decorations on widely scattered battlefields. Two congressional medals of honor have been awarded him for bravery.

Marine officers like this impetuous and agile-tongued warrior. "Whether he was the thickest of the fray, spinning the tall yarn, or just plain sitting still, he had color all about him," says a companion who served with him six years.

Magie Name In Battle "His was a magic name in battle" is the tribute of another associate to the stormy "Leatherneck" leader who embodies for many persons all the fighting qualities which the name marine suggests.

"Gimlet Eyes," as he was known to some, puts his whole 150 pounds, or more, into everything he does, whether it is leading a cheer or a charge. Dramatic and democratic, he is pictured by associates as a man of engaging personality "who makes you work and like it."

He has the reputation of "putting his men on the back when they do the job well" and probably calls more marines by their first name than any other officer.

He still retains in his speech the "Thees" and "Thous" of his Quaker ancestry. He likes to talk and launched a yarn with zest.

Geatulating with a long, bent forefinger, he carries wit and humor in his deep, measured tones. Many are the stories told by his associates of his gallantry.

Southern Line Is Route For Air Ceremony

The southern transcontinental air mail line of American Airways to Los Angeles has been designated by the post office department at Washington as the official route to figure in the ceremonies commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the first air mail flight, September 23, 1911, according to word received here by Jesse Maxwell, local representative.

While the original first air mail flight was made from New York to Mineola, Long Island, the reenactment of the event twenty years ago will be from Los Angeles, Cal., to Tucson, Ariz., largely because of the fact that the two principals of the first flight now are residents of those two cities.

Former Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, under whose direction Earle Ovington flew the small Blériot plane on the first flight, will hand a sack of mail at Los Angeles to the same pilot, who will be copilot on one of the huge American Airways tri-motored planes. The plane, with General Hitchcock, postal and American Airways officials, will then fly to Tucson, Ariz., General Hitchcock's home.

While this ceremony is in progress, Dean Smith, the ranking air mail pilot, will duplicate Ovington's original flight by dropping a mail sack near the Mineola post office, as Ovington did in 1911. Special cancellation cachets will be used on mail matter dispatched on both these anniversary flights. Mr. Maxwell has been advised.

Motor Accidents Laid To Egotism And Selfishness

CHICAGO (AP)—Egotism and selfishness, rather than physical or mental deficiencies, are prime factors in the case of automobile accidents, in the opinion of Dr. Paul Schroeder, Illinois state criminologist.

Dr. Schroeder reached this conclusion after studying the records and temperaments of prisoners at the state penitentiary convicted of manslaughter with an automobile.

"These men were all of average intelligence and average physical fitness," he said. "But in nearly every case I found marked traits of selfishness, egotism and disregard for the feelings of others."

SILVER CITY, N. M., Sept. 15 (UP)—Another of the famous cattle properties of the Southwest has been sold.

The 216,000-acre GOS ranch, that was founded in 1865, has been acquired by Herbert H. Estes, Edgar Timberlake and W. A. Adams. The consideration was not announced.

In 1882 Culbertson arrived in El Paso from Georgia with $50. In a few weeks the $50 disappeared.

Finally Culbertson set out for Deming, N. M. He walked the 150 miles, and from Deming went to Georgetown, a mining camp in Grant county.

G. O. Smith, then a mine foreman, had acquired 121 cattle and wanted someone to care for them. Culbertson took the job, after the two men had agreed they would divide the increase after three years.

This was the start of the GOS ranch.

'The Road Back Home' Sadler Title Tonight

If you miss this great play to be given tonight by the Harley Sadler Company at the big tent theatre, you will miss a treat.

Harley, as the Express Agent and "guyment man" is a scream. This is a "crowd story" of a different type than those usually shown on stage and screen. Mr. Sadler, in choosing his plays always tries to select those that do not make the does of the wrong-doer. Entirely too many bouquets are thrown to the so-called "bandit kings" today, he believes.

In "The Road Back Home" a beautiful little story is told, and there also is plenty of comedy.

The vaudeville and music will all be changed.

Uncle Sam's Food Laws Observed At Cooking School

Uncle Sam maintains a "sampling" job for a force of men that is highly important and designed for the special protection of American housewives; but the work is something that the average woman knows very little about, states Myra Olive Dougan who is the cooking and home economics expert which Big Spring women will hear in the free lectures beginning Sept. 29 sponsored by the Daily Herald. Persons holding these "sampling" jobs of Uncle Sam's might also be called "official tasters." And what iron-clad digestive system they must have, as well as sharp eyes and noses.

These several hundred stalwart guardians are America's Federal Food Inspectors. It is their job to see that every food product bought by the American housewife is every thing that the manufacturers claim—in weight, in content, quality and purity. Because of their unending vigilance the modern housewife can go into the grocery store and purchase without fear any can or bottled product on the shelves. Packaged foods must conform to Uncle Sam's Pure Food laws. If they don't, the big men with the keen eyes and noses are likely to come around and throw them off the market.

This Federal service is an economic measure which Mrs. Dougan stresses in her talks to housewives, along with household budgeting and marketing. Forty of Uncle Sam's "samplers" stand guard at American seaports checking every importation of edibles from foreign countries. When large sacks of coffee arrive from Brazil and other ports the food inspectors proceed to "goose" suspicious samples with a knife to which is attached a small bag. Out roll the coffee beans and the keen-eyed inspectors look them over. If some of them are withered or undersized, the whole bag is then examined; and if the coffee beans are not good enough for the fastidious American's breakfast beverage, back the entire cargo goes to the port that shipped it.

"Tea Tasters" Cocoa beans are inspected the same way. And teas arriving in big boxes from Ceylon, China and Japan are examined similarly for cup qualities by Uncle Sam's "tea tasters." Olives are tested the same way—if they are overripe or too small they may go back to the sunny clime of Spain. Neither can nuts be just looked at; they must be cracked, and therefore, tasted. So all told, it can be seen that these "samplers" of Uncle Sam's must be regular food "hawkhaws," able to scout a trespasser of the Pure Food Laws from afar off. Mrs. Dougan will explain more of this form of protection for American housewives in her daily free cooking school lectures here.

Down On the Farm Party Given To '31 Club Members

Mrs. R. S. McDonald entertained the '31 Bridge Club Tuesday with "Down on the Farm" party. One room was profusely arranged with cotton, maize and small bushes. In a corner a small tree held few remaining leaves of fall which were tallies for the members. Under the tree were real fall leaves.

In the center of the room a huge old fashioned pot hung over a camp fire which was made impressive by an extension cord and red light serving as a fire under the sticks. At one side of this was an old time wash bench, with a bucket, dipper and wash basin.

Under the bushes and cotton were artificial snakes and bugs to give an imitation of farm life. Mrs. W. A. Shaw made high score, Mrs. Frank Moss, second, Mrs. Opal Greene, high cut, and Mrs. Burke low score.

The hostess was surprised with a shower for being honor member since the club's organization. A regular farm dinner was served. The members present were Mmes. A. M. Rippy, W. A. Shaw, B. P. Franklin, Ed Burke, Frank Moss, Jess Phillips and Opal Greene. Mrs. Rippy will entertain the club next week on Friday.

WASHINGTON.—In those seemingly endless corridors of the old state, war and navy building on Pennsylvania avenue across the street from the White House are twice displayed the pictures of two men.

They are the only men accorded such distinction. One is Elihu Root and the other is Henry Stimson.

Grabbing Band-Wagon Seats

THOUGH presidential candidates that bloom in the spring of times will in the fall, seasoned politicians of the old school seem to be eager to climb aboard one of the other of the band-wagons now traveling up and down the land pecking up delegates wherever they can.

Equestrian Statesman

The portrait of Stimson, done in the days when he was secretary of war, probably draws more comment from visitors than that of any other of the war secretaries.

Cards Best Phils For Fifth Win

ST. LOUIS Sept. 16 (AP)—"Big Jim" Lindsey abandoned his role of relief pitcher Tuesday and shut out Philadelphia 5 to 0, the fifth straight game the Cardinals have taken from the Quakers. Only one more victory is necessary for the National League champions to clinch another pennant.

PIRATES 5-2, ROBINS 3-1
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16 (AP)—Behind the fancy pitching of Heine Meine and Larry French, the Pirates Tuesday took two falls from the Brooklyn Robins 5 to 2 and 2 to 1. Errors by Herman and Wright contributed to Dazzy Vance's downfall in the nightcap. Meine registered his seventeenth victory of the year in the opener. French, allowing a yan scattered his, scored his fifteenth win in the second tilt.

This And That

By Mark

The Sweetwater scribe is not the least bashful about giving his opinions and beliefs concerning the ability of the Mustangs. The following was received from the Nolan County center today:

Note to all sport writers: Reserve a place, right now, for Sweetwater's Four Horses as the all-district backfield. They're Hicks, Sheridan, Laugh and Bell. The latter may not make the all-district grade because of his being used principally in clearing the way for the others. One of these incidentally should be reserved on the all-state eleven. You need but one guess. Yep, it's Hicks.

Illinois had its Red Grange; Notre Dame had its Four Horsemen; Yale has its Boothe; and in Texas—Wichita Falls had its Leo Bald; Waco its Boody Johnson; Breckenridge its Boone Magness; Ranger its Chuck Bird and Dangers Dan McCarty—but this Hicks boy is going to make them forget all about those boys.

Strong words those. Still we can imagine how the Mustangs fans feel. It has been so long since they have had a team with even the faintest resemblance to a real club they simply have to make the most of their present prospects for such an opportunity may never present itself again.

Some sort of a vote of thanks should be in order to the Santa Fe to express the deep appreciation of the Sweetwater populace. In case you have forgotten—the transfer of Santa Fe employes from Temple to Sweetwater is responsible for the addition of three real pigskin toters.

We have not been able to discover who is responsible for the acquisition of the Roscoe Rambler, but there is not the least doubt in our mind as to whether or not the proper thanks have been tendered him.

Personally we are glad to see Hicks in class A football and sincerely trust that he is never stopped until Nov. 11—and then all of a sudden like. Just to make the surprise complete you know.

We give for your entertainment and approval the dope on the "Four Horses" of the Sweetwater club, as released by the Mustang after their initial game with Hamilton.

Hicks: 7 touchdowns, 2 points after touchdown, 6 first downs. Carried the ball 13 times for a total of 284 yards or an average of 29 1/2 yards each and every time he set forth with pigskin. The first five times he carried the ball was responsible for four touchdowns.

Sheridan: carried the ball twelve times for an average of eleven yards. Sheridan, formerly a passer of note, has seen his star eclipsed by the brilliant heaves of Sam Laugh.

Belt: Spent most of his time punting and incidentally heaving a loss to Hicks for a score. Between times he carried the oval eight times for an average of ten yards.

Belt: We find not so much about this young man. He seems to be good at running interference. Lugged the old leather five times for an average of eight yards.

All in all the statistics make us feel no better fast. Especially when we gaze upon the figures concerning the powerful gentlemen from Roscoe and realize much to our dismay that he gained more yardage all by his lonesome than did the entire Steer machine in its contest with Lamesa.

We would feel much better if we knew just how much opposition the Hamilton club furnished. Weak as it must have been, we can't really believe the Ranger eleven will return home with a victory after its invasion of Mustang territory Friday.

Coaches Brown and Bristow were working the boys hard yesterday in an attempt to get rid of a few rough spots. The men can stand quite a bit of polishing between now and the opening of the conference season. We sincerely trust we never have to sit through another game and witness as many missed tackles and as little damage to the secondary as came before our gaze last week in the opening engagement.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Athletics pounded Harder and Hildebrand for 15 hits Tuesday and defeated the Cleveland Indians 7 to 3. Dab Williams led the onslaught with five hits in five times at bat. The A's clinched the American League pennant with the win. Washington could win 13 games, the A's lose 12 and cop the title.

Every member of the champions' lineup hit safely and also drove in a run. Pitcher Rommel was the only Mackman not to score a run. Earl Averill hit his thirtieth home run of the season in the second inning.

BOSTON 3, CHICAGO 2
BOSTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Red Sox made it two in a row from Chicago by taking a 10-inning game 3 to 2 Tuesday. Tom Oliver drove in Danny MacFayden with the winning run with two out and the bases loaded.

YANKS 9, TIGERS 2
NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Hitting both Eridges and Sullivan hard, the Yankees made a clean sweep of their final four-game series, with Detroit by winning Tuesday's game 9 to 2.

Led by Lou Gehrig, who belted his forty-fourth home run in the fifth inning with two on base, the Yankees hit in timely fashion and took full advantage of the wildness of the Tiger hurlers. Byrd and Sewell also hit home runs.

BROWNS 5, SENATORS 4
WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Washington Tuesday lost even a mathematical chance to nose out the Philadelphia Athletics for the American League pennant by bowing to St. Louis 5-4.

Although the Athletics have held a stranglehold on the flag since midsummer when the Senators began slipping after making a determined bid for first place, the mathematical possibility remained until Tuesday.

Now, however, the Mackmen can fling away their remaining 12 games while Washington wins its last 13 and still remain a game in front.

The battle for second place grew hotter also with the Senators' loss, as New York crept to one game behind by defeating Detroit.

The Browns came from behind to beat Washington, scoring three runs in the eighth on three singles and an error. Washington chalked up its four runs in the first seven innings.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Athletics pounded Harder and Hildebrand for 15 hits Tuesday and defeated the Cleveland Indians 7 to 3. FLOWERS FOR OLD SHIP
NEW LONDON, Conn. (INS)—When the U. S. S. Constitution stayed here for five days, and received almost 40,000 visitors, she was arrayed throughout with garden flowers. Mrs. George H. Brown, president of the New London garden club, took upon herself the task of providing the floral decorations and saw that they were renewed twice each day. It was the club's tribute to the old fighting ship.

Larry (Moon) Mullins, former Notre Dame grid star, is on the coaching staff at the University of Kansas this fall.

Radio Turns Piano To Organ Playing Duet With Itself

MILBURN, N. J. (AP)—Radio, looking about for more worlds to conquer, has done things with the piano. Apparently not satisfied with the musical instrument that has undergone little change for the last 25 years, it has taken an ordinary type piano, waved its magic wand and turned it into a combination that plays either as a piano or an organ.

Completes Year's Labors The men who put radio on its new task are Benjamin F. Messner, radio engineer, and his assistant, Charles T. Jacobs, who worked in their laboratories here for a year before completing the new instrument.

Their rehabilitated piano seems just like any other, except that if the lower left hand side of the keyboard there is a small panel containing three controls and a switch.

These controls are for tone regulation, with the switch to shift from piano to organ. One of the two pedals is for volume control, and the other the regular piano "loud" pedal.

The secret of making a piano play organ music without the aid of pipes lies in the incorporated radio equipment.

This additional apparatus, including two loud speakers, can be easily accommodated within the ordinary piano console, grand, baby grand, or upright.

String Vibrations Amplified The loudspeakers are fed by a special amplifier so connected to the piano strings that it picks up their vibrations.

This amplifier consists of eight 250 type amplifier tubes, providing the volume to fill a large hall, if desired.

Either one two or more loudspeakers can be cut in.

Through the tone controls, a note may be sustained for a greater period than with an ordinary piano, resulting in unusual combinations.

By manipulation of the piano-organ switch, it is possible to play one number in combination, part organ and part piano.

Messner, while not musician, comes from a musical family, and has had the idea of the new instrument in mind for several years.

Motive Sought In Shooting of Mayor

BARDWELL, Texas, Sept. 15 (UP)—A motive was sought by officers today for the wounding of M. T. Ramsey, mayor of Bardwell, as he sat on the front porch of his home last night.

The mayor was shot twice and seriously wounded by two men who approached him and asked where Jones Kelly lived. As the mayor began to answer, one of the men advanced with the orders, "stick 'em up."

Ramsey attempted to grab the gun and was shot. One shot went through his left lung, one through his right shoulder.

Ramsey is a merchant here and owns several brick buildings.

PRINCESS OBOLENSKY, NEE ASTOR, ENJOYING FARM

BERNE, Switzerland (INS)—An American woman, Princess Obolesky, the former Alice Astor and daughter of the late John Jacob Astor, has quickly become famous in this little country because of her rare beauty and rare smiles. She and her titled husband have recently taken a farm in the surrounding country and are spending a good share of the summer months on it.

The American-born princess is noticed wherever she goes, tall, dark and always beautifully dressed. Although she has not a real smile, she is very seldom seen smiling.

The prince has a fine high baritone voice and very often sings for his friends in Switzerland or their home in London.

10 FRANCES UNEMPLOYED

PARIS (INS)—According to the latest statistics there are only 75,836 unemployed in France. These figures, issued by the minister of labor, give the number as 27,134 men and 48,702 women. For the same period in 1929 there were only 817, which shows an increase of include 14,525—10,766 men and 3,759 women.

Difficulties Fall To Aimee and Her New Hubby

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16 (UP)—Beset by more difficulties than usually fall to new-wives, Aimee Temple McPherson, Hutton and her hefty consort, dimpled David Hutton, had set up housekeeping today.

The difficulties included two score newspapermen, a dozen photographers and four news-reel cameramen, who invaded Aimee's boudoir.

But the bridal pair were to escape the extravagant attention bestowed upon "headliners" today when they departed for Ventura, California, and Portland, Oregon, to resume their joyous work.

The sumptuous McPherson home, adjoining Angelus Temple, had the appearance of a press room during a murder trial. Typewriters clicked as Hutton officially denied he had tripped over breaking hearts on his way to claim his bride.

Husky voices barked into telephone transmitters such bulletins as:

"He's wearing a green bathrobe. She's got on a white negligee—spill it yourself. I'm in a hurry."

"No, I can't ask him now. He's taking a shower."

Upstairs a young man harangued the pajama-clad bridegroom.

"But look, Mr. Hutton, you kissed her today. Confusing stories as to how she was drowned lent mystery to the case."

The professor, Elisha Kent Kane, head of the romance language department at University of Tennessee, described to Corner George K. Vandalsize the scene at lonely Grand View beach last Friday.

His wife, he said, had dived into the water while he was on the shore 200 yards away. Suddenly she screamed, her head bobbing up and down as if she was caught in a treacherous current. He told Vandalsize he swam quickly to her assistance, found her face downward in the water, tried to revive her after swimming with her to the beach, failed, and took the unconscious woman to a hospital where she was pronounced dead.

On the testimony of six fishermen who said they were "claiming" some distance from the scene, Kane was placed in jail and held on a murder charge. They testified they saw Kane and his wife "murdering" in the water, the woman was pulled on the shore, and the man left immediately, returning a few minutes later with an automobile in which he placed her, and drove away.

DARK 'BLUES' EPIDEMIC CRASHES INTO KITCHEN

CHICAGO (INS)—The Washburn Blues are a reality to a negro jazz band which had an audition in the NBC studios here.

A washboard and three skiffles constitute the trapdrummers' outfit. The trumpeter used not a trumpet and dery but, but a piece of paper cupped by a water tumblers.

FALL COAT DRESSES ARE SOMBER IN HUE

NEW YORK (INS)—Coat dresses in amber hues are being to early fall wear. Most of them are designed with a surplice front and one of the smartest designs is of prune-colored tulle, finished with a ruffled roll collar and a matching patent leather belt.

College Professor Accused In Death

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 16 (UP)—A 39 year old college professor, who came to Virginia with his wife for a vacation with her parents, was held on a charge of murdering her today. Confusing stories as to how she was drowned lent mystery to the case.

The professor, Elisha Kent Kane, head of the romance language department at University of Tennessee, described to Corner George K. Vandalsize the scene at lonely Grand View beach last Friday.
