Eastland County Democrats Pass 4 Resolutions

Condemn Expenditure of Large Sums of Money in Campaigns. Also Oppose Selling or Re-locating Penitentiary System.

Marked by complete harmony and featured by the resolutions passed, the Eastland county democratic convention met Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the 91st district court room of the Eastland county courthouse. Delegates and visitors at the convention numbered about 200.

Ed T. Cox, chairman of the Democratic Executive committee, called the convention to order. On motion of Ghent Sanderford, Judge R. N. Grisham of Eastland was made temporary chairman, Donald Kinnard, also of Eastland, was made secretary. Later this organization, by unanimous consent, was made permanent.

The convention was easily controlled by Ferguson delegates and at only one time was anything opposed that was offered.

The committee on resolutions, which was composed of W. O. Russell, Gorman; Will St. John, Cisco; and Tom J. Cunningham, Eastland, offered a strong resolution condemning the practice of spending large sums of money in campaigns for governor, especially where such funds are obtained illegally; opposed the proposed issuance of $350,000,000 in state highway bonds, advocated a sales tax on chain stores operated in the state, and opposed the selling of present owned state lands in use for the penitentiary. He proposed the centralization of the state penitentiary system near Austin.

E. P. Crawford of Cisco sought to amend the resolution condemning the heavy expenditures of money in campaigns for governor by adding a clause disapproving of "proxy governors" and wholesale pardoning of prisoners by governors. His motion did not receive a second.

While the convention was marking time waiting for the committee to report, Chairman Grisham called a copy to Robert Penn of Dallas, chairman of a joint committee of oil organizations. These committees presented a schedule of proposed field limitations which would cut the total production from 863,000 barrels a day to 767,000 barrels a day, or of fifteen per cent in Gulf Coast production.

The objects are asked to put the objections in writing and to furnish a copy to Robert Penn of Dallas, chairman of a joint committee of oil organizations. These committees presented a schedule of proposed field limitations which would cut the total production from 863,000 barrels a day to 767,000 barrels a day, or of fifteen per cent in Gulf Coast production.

Man Is Held In Death Of Woman Found on Highway

Richardson was arrested Friday at Midland and brought here last night to the county jail.

Officers have been operating on a theory of blackmail. Their central clue is a shirt found two miles from the murder scene, which matched a sleeve found near the body.

Many letters were found strewn upon the highway near Mrs. Lloyd's body, but officers have refused to divulge their contents, though they indicated the letters revealed that the woman had been searching for her 16-year-old son.

One letter, addressed to an Ed Mayo man and unmailed, read in part: "Will be there but you don't expect me to walk out on you."

Mrs. Lloyd's body was found in a pool of blood, and apparently had been dragged to the highway. Body wounds indicated she had been struck with a blunt instrument on the left side of the head, and with a sharp instrument on the right side. Both eyes were socked, and her right arm and shoulder were injured.

The body was claimed by the woman's mother after her estranged husband refused to do so, and was shipped Friday to Morantown, W. Va., for burial.

Officers said today that other rests were pending.

Eastland Boy Up For 'Tree Sitting' Record Of Nation

Ben Mackall, 14, of Eastland, is "sitting pretty" for a record.

Ben took his position in top of an oak tree about two blocks from his home at 5:30 o'clock Friday morning, July 18, and since that time has remained aloft determined to break the record for continuous "tree sitting."

Ben built a platform in the tree, about ten feet off the ground. On this platform he has a comfortable chair and here he whittles away the time. The platform is covered over with canvas during the daytime to keep the hot rays of the summer sun off of him and to protect him from the rain, what little has fallen since he went up. Ben's brother, Ralph, a route boy for the Eastland Telegram, climbs the tree each night to sleep with Ben. Ralph and other members of the family act as Ben's refueling crew.

Notwithstanding the fact that the "tree sitting" craze started some weeks ago, much interest is being shown here in Ben's efforts for a record. Most any time of the day until late at night, large numbers of people, both young and old, may be seen in the vicinity of the Mackall home watching the boy up the tree.

Ben declares that he will not come to earth until he has established a record that cannot be questioned.

Want Chain Store Tax Be it resolved by this Eastland County Democratic Convention this 2nd day of August, A. D. 1932, that:

WHEREAS: Foreign owned chain stores are becoming numerous throughout our State, without investment of but very small capital and who are but contributing a small share in the payment of taxes to the detriment of many thousands of merchants whose homes and property are in Texas and who pay their just proportion of taxes to our State, and are compelled to meet great foreign capital in competition in sales of their merchandise, and

WHEREAS: That unless in some manner of restraint or restriction they are required to pay their just proportion of the burden of the government that our local resident merchants in Texas will suffer and lose in their property and the State loses large sums in taxation now paid by resident merchants and thousands of dollars in money go out of the State annually which could be retained through our local merchants.

Therefore, be it resolved by this convention that we recommend a sales tax be placed upon chain stores in this State. That our own people may be aided against the encroachment of foreign capital into this State without bearing their just proportion of the burden of our government.

W. O. RUSSELL, WILL ST. JOHN, TOM J. CUNNINGHAM, Committee on resolutions.

Penitentiary Removal BE IT RESOLVED by this, a Democratic Convention assembled this 2nd day of August, A. D. 1932, that the following resolution be adopted by this convention:

That it is well known to the people of this State, that a certain element and class of people in Texas, are desirous and using all available means and efforts toward the sale and disposition of the properties of the penitentiary system of Texas, including valuable farm lands and mineral lands, and the recentralization of our penitentiary system near the city of Austin, and wholly and unalterably opposed to the sale of said system or lands or any portion thereof.

tentary system near the city of Austin, and wholly and unalterably opposed to the sale of said system or lands or any portion thereof.

Therefore, be it resolved: That this convention now go on record as opposed to the sale or any character of lease or any portion of our penitentiary system or the recentralization thereof as is sought to be by a certain class of people in our State, and that our representatives in the Legislature be instructed, through this convention, to oppose such sale or any character of lease or recentralization of our penitentiary system, and that same be retained as it now exists, which we believe will be to the great benefit of the people of our State.

Respectfully submitted, W. O. RUSSELL, WILL ST. JOHN, TOM J. CUNNINGHAM, Committee on resolutions.

Bond Issue Opposed "Be it resolved by this, a Democratic Convention assembled this 2nd day of August, A. D. 1932, that the following resolutions be adopted by this convention:

That great effort has been made and is now being made by a few, with heavy expenditures of money, to thrust upon the people of Texas as the burden of a three hundred and fifty million dollar bond issue for good roads; that such would only benefit a few and place upon the tax payers of Texas a burden that could not be recovered from in many generations; that such a burden upon the people of this State, for good roads alone, would be a hamper to such an extent that our churches, our schools and our eleemosynary institutions would suffer irreparable injury, decay and destruction.

Therefore, be it resolved by this Democratic Convention that we go on record as opposed to the issuance of three hundred and fifty millions of dollars in road bonds, or any other amount for said purpose, or the issuance of State bonds for any other purpose, through an amendment to our constitution, and that our representatives in this Legislature be instructed to vote against the submission of a good roads bond amendment to the constitution in any amount.

Respectfully submitted, W. O. Russell, Will St. John, Tom J. Cunningham, Committee on resolutions.

Slush Funds Condemned "Be it resolved by this, the county Democratic Convention assembled this 2nd day of August, A. D. 1932, that the following resolutions be adopted by this people of Texas be given and adopted:

The Statutes of our State (Art. 3170) limits the amount of expenditures for any purpose for which same may be expended, by or for any candidate for governor in Texas in our primary, either by such candidate in person or through campaign managers. That our Penal Code (Arts. 264, 265 and 266) makes felonious the violation of that statute; that we believe in the justice and wisdom of limiting such campaign expenditures, to the end that all, regardless of wealth, may have an equal opportunity before the law and no degree become the object either of barter and sale or of deceit and trickery, and that we believe it dangerous to the public welfare that such heavy sums of money be obtained to obtain office or permitted in this State.

It is, therefore, by this convention resolved, that we, the Democrats of Eastland county, Texas, condemn and hold dangerous to the people of this State the expenditure of such heavy sums of money to obtain ballots and office in Texas, and that we go on record as being opposed to such corrupt practices and unjust and hazardous method to obtain office in this State.

Mears And Brown Start Round-The-World Journey

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Aug. 2.—John Henry Mears, aerial globe trotter, and Henry J. Brown, air mail pilot, took off at 5:40 a. m. E.S.T. today on a flight around the world in which they hope to break the Graf Zeppelin's record for the circuit.

Their speedy Lockheed-Vega rose from the field a little after dawn and headed for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, first stop on a 17,775 mile journey.

Mears expected to reach Harbor Grace in nine hours, or by 2:40 o'clock this afternoon, and start across the Atlantic tomorrow morning if the weather continues favorable.

"We might even start tonight if necessary," the noted traveler said.

The plane, christened the "City of New York," was equipped with a growing industry in the county. Our graduates often earn from $100 to $140 per month on the first job. We also teach brick laying, plastering, electrical work and other mechanical trades. Money and steady employment comes to those who know how to do one job well. For information, write Southwest Vocational School, Chamber of Commerce Building, Dallas, Texas.

Another 1,200 miles will take them to Moscow, and from there they will begin a long trek across Russia and Siberia with stops at Nova Sibirsk, China, Khabarovsk, and Petropavlovsk, Siberia.

Another water jump of 1,900 miles will take the fliers on the route to Chignik, Alaska, and Seattle, Wash. From there they will proceed to Spokane to cross the Rockies, and then swing across the North American continent for the home field.

The plane's landing gear will be replaced by pontoons for the flights across the water. Mears has held the record for traveling around the world. He won it first in 1913 from Andre Jaeger-Schmidt when he utilized plane, train and ship to that record and until 1928, when Edward Evans and Linton Wells cut the time to 28 days, 14 hours and 36 minutes.

Mears won back the title the same year with Capt. C. B. D. Collier, cutting the time to 23 days, 15 hours and 21 minutes. Plane and ship were used.

Then the Graf Zeppelin circled the globe in 21 days, 8 hours and 21 minutes.

For division ten with headquarters at Tyler $15,700 was set aside and for division twelve, $8,900 was set aside for Brazoria county flood damage repair.

A meeting of the executive board of the state W. C. T. U. will be held in Austin next week to take action on the governor's race, Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, state president of the organization, announced here today. Effective on Aug. 10, the International-Great Northern Railroad has been authorized to discontinue night trains 17 and 18 between Galveston and Port Worth. Trains have been in operation since 1926. Reduced earnings is the reason for the discontinuance.

IT SOUNDS FISHY BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 2.—Five valley fishermen were counting today the tale of how monster ray nearly drowned the as the huge fish lashed his five miles into the open gulf dragging their boat behind. The fishermen had harpooned the ray, which was 16 feet across and angered by its wound it heaved viciously for the open gulf. The rope attached to the harpoon tangled in the boat's propeller and could not be cut. With only the life belts, the five men agreed to stay with their boat. Five miles out the rope broke and the men made their way safely to shore.

To The Voters of Eastland County I wish to thank those voters who placed me in the run-off for the office of County Treasurer. When you come to the polls again on August 23rd, vote for me and with the help of those who voted for the eliminated candidate I will surely win. Sincerely yours, JOE DONAWAY.

Indians Await Trial of $100,000,000 Suit To Recover Rich Oil Lands In Oklahoma

Millions May Become "Richest People In World If Big Companies Lose Court Battle

SEA Service
OKLA., Aug. 2.—Again interest of the red man and the white man clash in the Indian territory that was supposed to be the red man for all time.

The vanishing Seminole Indians, are back of the suit, declare they, rather than the present owners, should be receiving bounteous royalties now being paid by oil companies producing in the Seminole field. They claim that when title to their lands in Seminole county—approximately 200,000 acres—passed into the hands of white purchasers, the surface or mineral rights were not collectively vested in the Seminole nation.

According to the plaintiff's argument the mineral rights of the Seminole nation even the title passed to the individual Seminoles. This arrangement, they argue, was approved by the United States government.

April 26, 1908, Congress passed an act vesting the mineral rights of the Seminole lands, as well as the surface titles, in the purchasers. The plaintiffs claim that this act, which specifies that the interest in the Seminole nation in the mineral rights should cease, is unconstitutional.

OPENS UP NEW POSSIBILITIES IN THIS FIELD

Is Making 3,500,000 Feet—Is South of Gray-Hightower.

A large flow of gas at a shallow depth has been encountered a mile and a half southwest of the famous Gray-Hightower pool, which is southeast of Eastland.

The new well is the Powell No. 1 of Cranfill & Reynolds which is making 3,500,000 cubic feet of gas at 859 feet. Production in the Gray-Hightower pool was struck at around 1,200 feet, therefore this is a different sand and opens up new possibilities.

During the boom, a well struck this 859-foot gas pay and the rig was burned down.

In those days, operators were looking for gushers and usually were not interested in shallow production.

The Gray-Hightower sand was struck during the boom that was passed up. Years later, this sand was developed and one well, owned by the Panhandle, is estimated to have produced a half million dollars worth of oil from the 1,200-foot level.

Christian Science Churches
The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, August 3, was "LOVE."

The Golden Text was from I John 4:12. "No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us."

Included in the citations comprising the service was the following passage from the Bible: "The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee" (Jeremiah 31:3).

Seeing The Country
SAN ANGELO, Tex., Aug. 2.—Just "out seeing the country" was Ocy Traueck, 15, Austin boy scout missing since he started on a 14 mile scout trek July 21, when he encountered city detective W. E. Ratcliffe here.

Companies will probably not be affected in any way," said Judge James A. Veasey, vice president and chief counsel of the Carter Oil Company.

The Seminoles' case resembles that of the Osage tribe of Oklahoma, except that the Osage were still owners of their land when oil was discovered thereon. Previously the Osage had eked out a barren existence on their rocky farms, but the oil millions soon elevated them to the wealthiest people in the world and reckless extravagance followed.

Seminole's History Colorful
The history of the Seminoles has been a colorful one.

Originally they roamed what are now the southern states and were on close terms with the Creeks of Alabama. As civilization advanced they were driven southward into Florida, where many of them still reside among the Everglades. After repeated and unsuccessful wars with the whites, most of the tribe gave it up as futile. So, about 1848, they consented to being moved to what is now Oklahoma.

After wars with other tribes for many years, the Seminoles were almost propertyless and starving. But a brighter day was dawning for them; a memorable treaty was signed between the Indians of the plains and the Five Civilized Tribes, which the Seminoles represented.

In flowery language, it was solemnly agreed between the Indians that:

"Peace and friendship shall forever exist between the tribes and bands, parties to this compact, the ancient council fires of our forefathers already kindled by our brothers of the timbered country shall be kept kindled and blazing by brotherly love until their smoke shall ascend to the spirit land to invoke the blessing of the Great Spirit on all of our good works. The tomahawk shall be forever buried, the scalping knife shall forever be broken, the war path heretofore leading from one tribe to another shall grow up and become as the wild wilderness."

This solemn treaty was at one time in the possession of Maud D. Jones of Wewoka—of the Jones tepee, which is powerful among the Seminoles—who was a daughter of Mrs. Alice B. Daves, the principal chief of the Seminoles for many years.

The tomahawk was buried, and the treaty was kept.

FREEDOM
(From the Dallas Dispatch)
On Sunday morning the American citizen emerged from his mortgaged home in a suit when four installments still were due.

He got into his car—half paid for—and turned on gasoline bought on credit at the corner station. Then he rolled out to the country over a concrete road that the state will not have paid for until 1945.

The golf club of which he was a member still owes $35,000 on its clubhouse. He went to his locker—rent two months overdue—and took out his clubs, on which he'd made two payments.

Then, telling a desk clerk to "Charge up the green fees to me," he strolled out for his nine holes.

"Gee," he sighed, "it's great to be free like this!"

Providing for the Sound Development of West Texas... the New Empire

Less than a year ago the Texas Electric Service Company was organized, with general offices in Fort Worth, to supply electric service to Fort Worth and a number of other cities and towns in West Texas. The creation of this company formed the largest electric power and light company in the western part of the State, a company fully capable of keeping pace with the remarkable growth of the area it serves.

Today, the Texas Electric Service Company serves 65 progressive cities and towns from its system of electric power transmission lines which forms a network throughout the western part of the State. Large generating stations, strategically located in this area, pour electric energy into this network of power wires and provide every city and town served from the system with the same high standard of electric service.

Not only is this electric service sufficient for the immediate demands, but due to the extreme flexibility of electric service from power lines, cities and towns are able to offer to new industries the advantage of ample electric power resources. The day when a growing West Texas city could be supplied with electricity solely by a local light plant has passed, for these cities are using increasingly greater amounts of electric energy, both for domestic and industrial purposes, faster than a small light plant could increase its facilities.

Texas Electric Service Company

Sixty-five progressive cities and towns in West Texas are served by the Texas Electric Service Company from its network of electric power lines which have supplanted the small local light plants, at one time the only source of electric power in this area. Power lines provide ample and dependable electric service for both present and future needs of this city and of other cities and towns served by the company. The Texas Electric Service Company pioneered in supplying power line electric service to this part of the State and today serves more customers than any power company in West Texas.

The bandits, John Walker, Andrew Halliday and Clude Ray were under sentence to hang at Canon City during the week beginning at midnight today, but their attorney, E. M. Sagleton, obtained a temporary stay late yesterday when he filed a bill of exceptions and a record of appeal with the State Supreme Court. The court issued a writ of error, which will become superseded delaying the executions at least 20 days.

Use Of Electricity On Increase In All West Texas

FT. WORTH, Tex., Aug. 2—Startling as has been the population growth in many parts of West Texas, the percentage of increase in population has been far exceeded by the increase in the use of electricity. A. J. Duncan, president of the Texas Electric Service Company which serves 68 West Texas cities declared Saturday. During the first six months of 1930, the increase in the use of electricity in the territory served by this company was 17.5 percent over the same period in 1928.

"Economists and business experts recognize that the variations in the consumption of electric energy over periods of a month or a year are a sure barometer of business conditions over a stated territory," Mr. Duncan said. "Just as for years, the unfilled orders of steel companies represented the best single index of economic conditions, so the consumption of kilowatt-hours as an index has the advantage of covering more industries and a larger territory, including both the larger towns and cities along with the villages. I believe it is the best single index to use in judging business conditions in West Texas."

"The Texas Electric Service Company, with more than 1,500 miles of electric power lines radiating throughout a large portion of West Texas, shows an increase of 17.5 percent in the consumption of electricity for the six-month period from January 1 to June 30 of this year as compared to the same period in 1928. These figures include the actual amount used by customers of the company plus the energy sold to other power companies which have connections with the transmission system of the Texas Electric Service Company. "Naturally, some of this increase was due to new customers added to the system, but these additions in themselves indicate a wholesome condition in the industrial life of West Texas. The growing demand for electric energy in West Texas has necessitated the building of hundreds of miles of electric power lines within the last three years and the enlargement of electric generating stations serving this area.

"The rapidity of the growth of West Texas, especially in the oil producing areas, is recognized more fully by the electric light and power companies than any other single industry, for these companies must foresee the development of any town or section of the country in order to be ready when the increased demand for electric energy comes. The tremendous building program which utility companies in West Texas have had under way for the last three years is an indication of the faith that these companies have in the future of that part of the State.

"Coincident with the growth and expansion of the electric power transmission systems in West Texas, which link together a number of large electric generating stations, a great many small towns and villages which never before have had the advantages of electric service have been supplied with electricity from the power lines. Oil fields in West Texas are large users of electric service and much of the recent construction activities of electric power companies in West Texas has been necessitated by the rapidly increasing demand for electric power for pumping oil. Electric utility companies in West Texas are keeping abreast of all the improvements in the science of transmission of electric power at high voltages. A power line which operates at 132,000 volts, equal to the highest electrical voltage in the State, stretches from Hillsboro in Central Texas to Big Spring in far West Texas. Despite the vastness of West Texas and the relative scarcity of population as compared with other parts of the country, the electric companies serving this section of the State have built a system that compares favorably with any electric power system in the United States in economic soundness and high standards of service."

30,000 EARTH QUAKES EVERY YEAR!

Italy's Disaster Is Only One of the Many Tremors That Occur on Average of 17 Minutes Apart Somewhere in World, Though Slight

By BERYL MILLER
NEA Service Writer

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 2—Once every 17 minutes—which means 30,000 times in the course of a year—old Mother Earth shakes or shudders and there is an earthquake somewhere in the world.

Most of these seismic disturbances, of course, are slight; many of them are never noted except on the delicate recording instruments of scientists; some deal widespread death and destruction, and others may occur harmlessly for under the surface of the sea.

For no man really stands on "solid ground"; far below the surface the restless forces of nature that brought the planet into being are still at work. Occasionally, an extremely violent shudder occurs beneath a densely says Father Odenbach. "Many theories have been advanced for the cause of a volcanic eruption and accompanying tremors of the earth. It was believed at one time that seepage of water into the molten interior created steam that caused the periodic upheavals. Explosions of gases also is blamed for eruptions.

"But many now think the most probable cause is that the earth shrinks, causing the crust to collapse, and pressure of the crust on the molten interior forces it upward through the volcano's crater. This terrific churning beneath the surface causes the tremors and destruction.

"Of course, Italy could be racked by a tectonic quake, but most of its disturbances have volcanic origin. After a volcano starts erupting, its action causes ing coasts and drowning thousands of persons. And yet, as an earthquake, the disturbance was mild, a more or less local affair caused by pressure of gases within the volcano and was recorded only by nearby instruments. This is true of practically all volcanic earthquakes.

"The other kind of earthquake, more powerful and far-reaching in its vibrations, is called the tectonic quake," the scientist said. "These are caused by slipping masses along regions of weakness sometimes called fractures in the crustal rocks, and the break may be far below the surface. The most destructive quakes are tectonic.

North America Shaken
"Such an earthquake was that of 1861, which violently shook much of North America. Old records tell us how forest trails were

THE CAUSE OF ITALY'S GREAT EARTHQUAKE is shown in this striking diagram which reveals how the restless underground forces of nature work in both kinds of subterranean disturbances—volcanic and tectonic. In the volcanic kind, occurring in Italy because of the presence of Vesuvius and other volcanoes, the disturbance is limited in area because the forces find an outlet through the volcano. The cause of this disturbance is the same as that of the tectonic quake—shrinkage of the earth, shifting of the masses underground, and consequent pressure of these hot masses upward and out. But the tectonic quake has no easy outlet, like the volcanic, and therefore causes a much greater disturbance and over a wider area when it does force itself through. At right is Father F. L. Odenbach of John Carroll University of Cleveland, one of the country's greatest seismologists.

populated community, as has just been the case in Italy, and then we have a major disaster with widespread death and destruction.

Two Kinds of Quakes
"There are two kinds of earthquakes, according to Father F. L. Odenbach of John Carroll University here, one of the world's most noted seismologists.

"These two types are volcanic and tectonic," explains Father Odenbach. "Those of volcanic origin are limited in extent. Tectonic earthquakes are caused by shrinkage of the earth with accompanying displacements of huge masses."
Geologists, he says, once thought the center of the earth was a fluid mass. Now they believe that it is solid, though they admit that this solid interior may, under terrific heat and pressure, become sufficiently plastic to flow like wax.
"Italy's volcanoes are responsible for her many earthquakes," farther disturbance below the surface."

History of volcanic eruption in Italy begins with a vague record of one supposed to have occurred some 1500 years before the Christian era. Vesuvius, most celebrated of Italian volcanoes, was built up from the floor of the Mediterranean by prehistoric eruptions as was the surrounding land. Its first outbreak recorded in history was in 79 A. D., when the cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum were destroyed.

Whole Island Exploded
"One of the greatest volcanic outbursts in many years was the explosion of the volcanic island of Krakatao in the East Indies in 1883," Father Odenbach said. "So completely did this eruption blow up the island that it was completely submerged into the sea. The island is now reported to be re-appearing."

This outburst is said to have lashed the ocean into waves 100 feet high, inundating neighborhoods so far that Indians lost their way. Mud flowed in the St. Lawrence river and nauseating gases, evidently from far underground, caused fish to leap from the murky river.

Some quakes move up and down. Others have a rolling motion, while still others give a tremendous jerk.

The horizontal movement along the surface may be considerable. A court suit once resulted from an earthquake which shifted a fence between two properties.

The Charleston, S. C. disaster in 1886 was of the rolling kind, billowing along like an ocean of earth with the waves two feet high from trough to crest.
There are several regions where earthquakes are most likely to occur. These include Japan, Mexico, Asia Minor, Sicily, the Aleutian Islands and the Pacific ocean. In many instances, volcanic proximity is responsible.

A Favorite Kipling Story

It is recorded of this well-known British author that he once remonstrated with a friend for having sent him a publication from which the advertising pages had been cut. "Why, you have thrown away the most interesting section!" Mr. Kipling said.

Advertisements are more interesting today than at any time since the invention of movable type. Merchants and manufacturers realize that their announcements must compete for interest with the work of the high-priced authors and illustrators.

If you are not a regular reader of the advertisements in this paper, this is a good time to cultivate their acquaintance. You will find them interesting. You will find them friendly. They show you where to stop and take considerable strain off both shoe-leather and pocketbooks.

Read the advertisements because they are interesting. Believe them because they are true. Act upon their suggestions because it will pay you in many ways. Before you pick up the telephone, you usually consult the phone book. Before you start out to shop, consult the advertising columns of this paper. They will give you a direct connection with the merchandise you want.

Don't stop with reading the news and editorials. The advertising columns are equally important

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

IN HERE TODAY
 Rorimer, former New York
 man, who is now writing for Continental Pictures Hollywood, gets a letter
 old friend in New York, telling him to look up named Anne Winter, who from Tulsa, Okla., to the pictures.
 Rorimer complies reluctantly, as he is a bit of a Ziegler, but Anne is so charming. She has the experience — in stock exchange — which Dan tells her is the foundation for an extra.
 Anne gathers that he is dissatisfied with things at the office. For one thing, he has miscast the star they select to play in the picture that is to be made from the story he had written before coming to Hollywood.

Rorimer tells Anne about some discouraging phases of the picture, but he really believes "make the grade," and he tries to cheer her. They go to the office to see the director, and after the evening is over, he goes to his room.

ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

Monday morning. Rorimer goes to work that day for holiday. Dan Rorimer, down at the desk in his office and staring out of the window at a drizzle of rain, looking two weeks of idleness and hoping the weather would clear for him in the forthcoming week. Even if a lot of the script were necessary wouldn't mind — not unchanged the framework of the picture.

At least make him feel

 a little coop of an office typewriter, a desk and a of chairs, and a window seat upon numerous automobiles.

Continental Pictures
 the story executive at New York office had informed the studio contemplated the production. Rorimer thought "immediate production" was just the thing find on his arrival that had been done beyond the of the scenario. He that, had been impressed technical craftsmanship.

It caused Dan Rorimer to now was the fact that after three or four days of being treated like a visiting celebrity he had been abruptly forgotten. The scenario chief, showing him to the little office, had said, "Well, Rorimer, this is yours. I'm sending in a bunch of scripts; you can study

 them to see how it's done. We'll be making you work pretty soon —
 and this is a fine little place to sweat."

Rorimer now looked about him.
 A fine place to sweat! A fine place to sit and wonder if they ever expected to use you! Four plain walls, adorned with a few framed pictures of movie celebrities. A door at one end, a window at the other; beside the window, his desk.

Someone now stuck his head in at the door. It was Gregg, the scenario chief.
 He said, "I suppose you're really to give them a hand — you knew that Murray was sick?"

"I'm darned glad to get to work," Rorimer said. "I'm sending in
 a bunch of scripts; you can study
 them to see how it's done. We'll be
 making you work pretty soon —
 and this is a fine little place to
 sweat."

"I hope not," said Rorimer.
 "Well, it's not pretty to write a nice magazine story, or a book, and have somebody kick it, all around for you. But try to remember that the production of a talking picture is an expensive proposition; this one will run more than $6000 a day — and it'll probably exceed its budget at that."
 Collins is the director.

"So I heard," said Dan. Collins was the director who had been so pleasant to him his first day at Continental.

"When he makes a suggestion," Gregg said, "it's usually a sound one."
 "I've heard he's very good," said

All-Around Star

Do you know this young man?
 He has been a tennis star of high ranking this summer. This fall his name will be in bold headlines because of his sensational football feats for Harvard.
 Sure, he is Barry Wood, Jr., the forward passing, quarterbacking youth who cut such fancy caper on eastern gridirons a year ago.

Dan. "I've got only one kick;
 why?"
 Gregg interrupted with a patient smile. "Why did they give your story at Atwood? Between the two of us, even Collins squawked a little when Atwood did that. But Atwood's got a costly contract, and we've got to keep him busy. Besides, he won't be as bad as you think; he's a trouper, whatever they say about him."

By mid-afternoon Rorimer had reason to think even more highly of Collins' ability. Several times during rehearsals the director had stopped everything and, turning to Dan, had shown where the changing of a line here and there would improve the dialogue. Once he had added a laugh to a scene in which a laugh was needed greatly.
 It had relieved the tension of a long, nerve-racking sequence.
 Collins said he believed in long and thorough rehearsals. "It cuts down the retakes," he explained.
 He prided himself a little on his reputation for quick productions.
 Dan made his changes right on the sets. Collins, remarking that he was quick and intelligent and facile, once voiced his approval.
 "You seem to know what it's all about," he said. "Good dialogue's the thing. Ever write anything for the stage?"

"The stage doesn't know it yet," Dan smiled. "I wrote a play, but that's as far as it got."
 Collins nodded. "Maybe it helped you more than you know."
 When Dan met Fredrick Atwood, the famous screen idol entirely disarmed Rorimer with the warmth of his greeting. He shook hands cordially, said he had read Rorimer's story, "Grim Holidays," and liked it.

"Good story. Good writing." His words were clipped, precise, his accent British.
 Rorimer felt a little ashamed;
 but, studying the almost feminine beauty of Atwood's perfect features, yet persisted in the conviction that the man had been miscast.

He went back to his hotel that evening, tired but elated. He hadn't realized the tension he had been working under until he was driving back in his car. Now he lay stretched out on his bed, relaxing cramped muscles, regretting the large number of cigars he had consumed. They had dulled his appetite — and Paul Collier would be calling for him at seven to take him to the Wampas dinner downstairs.

He smiled, thinking of the pleasure he would take in telling Collier about Anne Winter. "So you were out of town in case she had a friend of..."

But Anne didn't have a girl friend; she lived alone. This he had learned upon taking her home Saturday night. She had a tiny and uncheerful apartment — one room and kitchen — and was dissatisfied with it. She wanted something better but couldn't afford it alone; she expected sooner or later to find a congenial girl to share something nicer with her.

Yesterday — Rorimer had taken her out driving Sunday afternoon
 — she had confided that she expected to live strictly within the limits of her own funds. He learned that she had saved most of her stage earnings and these were her stake.

"Father told me I'd be writing home for him to pay the rent, but I told him he didn't know his own daughter."

Rorimer, propped up on a pillow whence he would gaze out on a myriad of yellow lights, was willing to wager that Mr. Winter got pretty well but was proud of her.
 He reached for the telephone.
 Anne Winter was one swell girl, he thought, asking for her number. Too bad she was up against such a tough proposition; just in 20.00 — or thereabouts, he supposed — trying to crash the movies by the extra route. . . . Maybe Collins could do something for her.
 Collins was a good scout, and knew his stuff — maybe —

"Hello, this is Dan Rorimer, inquiring after your good health and frame of mind."
 Anne's voice answered: "Both are excellent, thank you. I never felt better, and — big surprise! — I go to work tomorrow."

Texas Produces Big Wool Supply

 sued here by Carl H. Robinson

 The clip per animal declined from 8.5 pounds to 8.1 pounds

While the Texas wool clip deof 19,042,000 pounds, the report

CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT YOUR CAR AND ITS GAS

By A. P. INGALLS
 "Stepping on the gas" requires some finesse, it seems else harm is done the car. Modern motor fuel provides all the facilities for quick getaways and sudden pickups, but too sudden application of foot pressure on the accelerator puts an undue strain on clutch and drive line, with resulting tendency to cause clutch wear; loosen the rear wheels, injure the universals, strain the spokes and burn the tires. Often the trouble is caused by a sticking accelerator, a situation which can be improved by oiling the pedal shaft wherever there is friction.

Provide a little expert attention for the vacuum tank now and then.
 Neglect may cause trouble and waste, especially gasoline leakage after the motor has stopped. But don't try to fix it yourself; it's a job for the expert!

Gasoline is an excellent medium for removing grease and grime from the motor, but avoid using it on the body or other finished parts of the car. Ask your service station for body polish; it won't dull the highly finished surface.

Don't coast down hill with the ignition shut off. Unburned fuel is drawn into the cylinders and thence to the crankcase, where it thins the lubricant. A slowly turning motor, moreover, is an efficient and powerful brake.

Cream Separator Quickly Removes Oil In Tar Sand

NEW YORK—The oil man has found a new job for the cream separator, that of extracting petroleum from tar, or bituminous sands, in much the same way the dairyman takes the cream from the milk.
 Operation in areas where surface oil sands have been located show that as much as 32 gallons of crude oil can be separated from a ton of sand. This in turn yields more than 13 gallons of gasoline, six gallons of lubricating oil and more than 100 pounds of asphalt.

C. of C. Bulletin For August, 1930

To attain Eternal Salvation the Bible advocates (among other things) the practice of Faith, Hope and Charity and says the greatest of the three is Charity. In the business world the practice of Sincerity, Honesty and Courtesy leads to success, with emphasis on Courtesy. Fortunate indeed is the firm whose manager and clerks treat each customer with courtesy in a sincere manner. If Eternal Vigilance is the price of Liberty, it takes constant watchfulness to avoid falling into a rut in the practice of Courtesy. For instance, if at the service station, after having his tank filled with gas the customer hears the attendant yell out, as he drives away, "Come Again." He is not particularly pleased. There is no special courtesy in that and after you hear it a few times it is only irritating. How much better if the attendant would exercise his brains a little and practice a dozen new phrases fitted to each case. If a tourist, he might say, "I hope you are enjoying your vacation trip—Drop in again on your way back!"—"Can I give you any information as to road conditions?"—"We hope you like the appearance of our city," etc.

To a regular customer suggest some new feature of service like, "We are greasing cars this week for 75c."—"We are washing and greasing cars this month for $1.50."—"Keep this new service, whatever it may be, prominently before your customer. The man that has something new to talk about with a new idea every month is sure to win success. This applies not only to filling stations, but to every line of retail merchandising. Be Sincere—Be Honest—and above all be Courteous and your customers will come back without the too common yell of "Come Again."

Never in all the history of Eastland has the city presented a handsomer appearance than at the present time. The public square with the beautiful Court House and attractive grounds are commented on favorably by every passing tourist. New fronts have replaced old ones in the stores. Handsome newly painted attractive signs appear over all business places. The group of merchants now engaged in all lines of business here in Eastland are the most progressive, wide awake and resourceful that ever were located in this city.

Eastland has received nation wide publicity on account of "Old Rip" sleeping peacefully in the corner stone of the old Court House for 31 years. Let us not be satisfied with this, but plan to make Eastland unique above all cities in the U. S. We could do it if we decided the matter right. Here is an idea. The tendency of the times runs to gaudy colors in art. For instance see the riot of color displayed in the advertisements in the magazines, as well as the supplements to the Sunday newspapers. This color scheme is now carried to merchandise of all kinds. Automobiles are given gaudy colors. Bath fixtures are now sold in blue, green and other colors. Kitchen utensils are now offered in colors, fountain pens can be had in all kinds of beautiful colors. Why not make our business square a riot of color? Give the brick pavement a white enamel coating and have it washed down every night with a hose attached to the fire hydrants. The concrete sidewalks surrounding the square could be given rainbow colors, a different color on every side. The fronts of the business houses might be given bright colors after consulting an artist skilled in blending colors. If this could be brought about we would have tourists from all over the U. S. coming to see the "City Beautiful" and the "Home of Color." Texas was originally a Spanish domain, why not retain some of the ancient practice of painting houses in bright colors? You always see a band of blue around the windows and doors of a Spanish home, or store. This was originally put there to keep the evil spirits away. Why not keep a few evil spirits out of Eastland? If blue would keep some away, a riot of purple, green, yellow, blue and red might keep them all out. DR. H. B. TANNER, Secy. Chamber of Commerce.

Konjola. After taking seven bottles I was able to resume my work in the K. I. C. League as a ball player. The rheumatic pains have completely vanished and my stomach is in perfect condition. My kidneys are again normal and I do not have to rise at night. The pains have left my back and my nerves are strong. Konjola restored me to perfect health. Although many men and women state that one or two bottles brought relief, it is recommended that six or eight bottles be taken to obtain the best results. Konjola is sold in Eastland, Texas at Toombs and Richardson Drug Store.—Adv.

Roofs that Endure and Attract Bird's Head Twin shingles are built for appearance as well as for durability. They are made in a variety of attractive colors and are so designed that they give double protection—two thicknesses over the entire roof. Year after year they stand up under the rigors of winter or the burning heat of summer sun. And through it all the natural colored slates retain their beauty. Their hexagon shape is well proportioned and their depth gives the pleasing shadow effects sought after to make a roof that is distinctive from its neighbors. Let us help you select the right roof for your buildings. Eastland County Lumber Co. Good Building and Rig Material West Main St. Phone 334 BIRD'S ROOFS PROVEN SAFETY and TROUBLE FREE MILEAGE for YOU IF A MAN drove a car to victory at 100 miles per hour in an international 500-mile race, would you say he could drive safely at 50 miles per hour on the road? And if a certain make of tire were used on 35 out of 38 cars in that race, including all the winners, and finished without a single tire failure, would you say it was safe at 50, 60, 70 or more miles per hour on the road? That is the record of the new High-Speed Firestone Heavy Duty Balloons. The only difference between these tires in our stock and those used in the race is in the tread. Ours are made with a deep, tough non-skid tread while those in the race were made with a stiff, smooth tread to permit "drift" or skidding on the turns. TRADE IN NOW Put a set of Firestone High-Speed Heavy Duty Balloons on your car and stop wondering about tire safety and trouble-free mileage. We will make full allowance for the unused mileage in your present tires and apply it on the purchase price. Come in today. Firestone HALL TIRE CO.
