The GOOD OLD DAYS are BACK

THERE'S been a lot of talk in late years about the good old days when money counted for something.

"Why, I used to be able to get my laundry done for $1.50 per week every stitch that our family used."

Or-

"I used to be able to buy a good house dress for $2.00."

Or-

"Just remember back when the price of eggs was 25 cents and you could get a good fat hen for less than a dollar."

Great days those! But why look backward? Right now the lowest prices in years are advertised in every issue of The Herald. Truly the good old days are back.

Reading advertisements haphazardly yields some benefit, of course. But the best plan is to read all the advertisements in every issue of The Herald and make a written memorandum of the things that interest you. That's real money saving!

Even though practically all prices are down, the biggest bargains are advertised in The Herald. They are the values which Big Spring merchants use to tell customers of their stores.

Don't waste time yearning for old-time bargains. Read The Herald and buy now at oldtime prices.

The trial of Jesus before Cainphas is a striking instance of these forces. St. Mark's Geopel describes it at some length, and I advise you to read the fourteenth chapter of that Evangelist. Note the personnel and setting of the Sanhedrim Court. Its president. Cainphas, was an astute coclesiasional politician who held office during eighteen troubled years. The significance of his tenure will be appresented when it is said that during the thirty-three years following his leadership no leas than twenty-eight high priests occupied that possile no.

He and his associates had presented to the spiritual, and to show the interrelation between the two, show the interrelation between the two.

The "absolute good" to which would be you refer is not within man, but beyond him. How man is to make connections with that "all good" which we call God is better shown by Christianity and Judaism than by any other religions. The courteous spirit in which we should approach people of other faiths indicates that the mission of Christianity is not to destroy, but to fulling his leadership no leas than twenty-eight high priests occupied argument, but by the testimony of Christian character and the and his associates had presented.
