A CHANGE OF pace is a tonic and vacationing with a seven and five-year-old is no other. Heading south, we overnighted at Fredericksburg for German history and food, then toward Austin, by way of ranch road 4, with a stop in Johnson City to visit the children's great-grandmother, Mrs. Dessie Driver. In Austin, we visited the capitol and toured the governor's mansion.

Moving on, we stopped at Comopus and picked a magnolia blossom on the courthouse square for Amy. The town in full of history and the square edged in the giant magnolia trees. The famous 2,000 year old oak is nearby, under which the first court of the third judicial district of the Republic of Texas convened in 1837. Also interesting is the old brick water tower built in 1883 with its three-foot thick walls, which served as the town's early water supply.

On into Houston, we camped at Howard Johnson's on the Gulf Freeway and made it first to Astroworld. Our family dislikes roller coasters, but, unknowingly, agreed to the Alpine Sleigh Ride, which turned out to be a roller coaster in the dark. This was our second complimentary visit to Astroworld and we enjoyed it more, because we allowed ourselves more time and made a whole day of it. Six Flags is busier, has longer lines and for the most part, has better rides and more and better live shows, but we found Astroworld's river boat ride more interesting, and saw a really great magician.

Traffic, smog and the freeways in Houston are a nightmare.

Houston's newest attraction is Busch Gardens, labeled "East Meets West" featuring exotic birds and animals displays with an outstanding trained bird show.

Next we visited San Jacinto and the Battleship, Texas, which proved a favorite for Vance. He wished for a replica for the backyard.

A stop at the Manned Spacecraft Center on our way out to Galveston proved more interesting than expected. Upon entering the orientation center, we ran into the delegation of Russian space experts (their first day at the Center) with Astronaut John Young and other officials. Both countries are working together on a common link-up system for future space vehicles. Joking with the guard at the million-dollar moon rock display, we asked "Where is the rock? It's not here." "If it ain't there," he answered, "another name has just been added to the welfare roll!" It was a pretty rock. We saw some of the training facilities. Mission Control was buttoned up for the July space shot.

After pizza in Clear Lake City, we headed for our destination — sun, sand and seafood. The island is an ideal family resort center, much cleaner than in days past. Our headquarters was the Flagship, a relatively new seven-story resort hotel built directly over the ocean with a giant fishing pier. The kids enjoyed Mamuk the killer whale at Sea-Arama-MarineLand in spite of getting soaked by the giant when they went down close for his big number: a giant leap into the air, and the resulting splash down. The grown-ups would have enjoyed the attractions more if they'd visited MarineLand on the Pacific.

Of course, we rode the Texas Highway Dept.'s last ferry over to Port Bolivar and took pictures of the lighthouse. Besides swimming, riding the surf and building sand castles, we toured the spectacular Bishop's Palace which was originally built in 1886, at a cost then of $250,000 by Col. Walter Gresham. The beautiful woodwork throughout the mansion, including a fireplace in each room and the original damask wallcoverering from London, still like new, fascinated us. It is the state's only structure on a list of the nation's 100 outstanding buildings, specified by American Institute of Architects. Three students from the University Medical School occupy the third floor of the mansion for insurance purposes. The palace was bought from Mrs. Gresham by the Episcopal Church and a bishop's residence there gave it its present name.

Our off-duty time was capped with a family reunion Sunday, and back into the saddle Monday.

It's always good to get away to visit other parts of beautiful Texas, but great to be back in Eastland.

Make your air conditioning work better, cost less.

Here are six tips that will help you get the most comfort from your air conditioning at the lowest possible cost.

Set the thermostat properly: Set the thermostat no lower than necessary for your personal comfort. Most air conditioning specialists recommend a thermostat setting of 76° to 78°. Remember, the lower the setting, the more electricity the unit uses.

Have regular main tenance checks: Have the unit checked at least once a year by a qualified air conditioning serviceman. Do this in the spring, prior to your need for cooling. It pays!

Trim shrubbery: The outdoor unit needs free air circulation. Help it maintain full efficiency and keep operating costs down by trimming nearby shrubbery and by check-

Inspect filters often: Clogged filters make the unit work harder and use more electricity. Replacement of disposable filters—or cleaning of permanent types—will help keep the system running more efficiently

Keep sunlight out: Direct sunlight increases the heat in your home.

Reduce the air conditioning unit's load by using awnings, blinds, shades or draw drapes.

Insulate: Proper insulation keeps the hot air out, the cool air in. It reduces the cost of winter heating too. Ceiling insulation is particularly important.

Recent rain has certainly improved the agricultural situation in Eastland County. It now looks as if we will have hay to bale soon.

If county livestock producers give special attention to harvesting good quality hay at the right time, they will find out that this means extra dollars when the hay is fed next season.

Two main factors that determine the quality of hay are the amount of fertilizer and lime it receives and the age of crop when it is harvested.

A soil test is the best indicator of what nutrients are needed to produce abundant amounts of hay crops. If no test were made earlier in the year and present growth of forage or yields from first cuttings are not up to par despite fertilization, a soil test must be considered.

White nitrogen influences protein content, phosphorus, potassium, and other nutrients also help to improve protein and the quality of hay. After baling, an immediate topdress with fertilizer will aid in faster, high quality regrowth.

Delaying harvest of hay will result in an increased tonnage, mostly in the form of stalk and fiber, but overall quality will be lowered.

Johnsongrass, sudan hybrids, and other grasses which produce seedheads should be cut before the seedheads emerge. Crops such as Coastal Bermuda grass should be cut when the growth is about four weeks old or less. Plan to cut alfalfa when it's one-tenth to one-fourth in bloom.

Cutting hay at these stages gives the highest production of total digestible nutrients (TDN).

Another important point to remember in producing high quality hay is to start baling as soon as possible after cutting. A hay conditioner may be helpful in hurrying up the drying process.

The month of July offers gardeners an ideal time to prepare for the coming hot, dry weather and to take advantage of some practices that can improve their gardens.

Hot dry weather can be extremely critical for some plants in the garden. Supplemental watering is recommended for plants such as hydrangea, coleus, caladium, geranium, dahlia, azalea, and camellia.

Container plants and hanging baskets also require extra water and fertilizer during hot weather. Gardeners should apply fertilizer to dry soil.

Newly planted trees and shrubs face their most critical time in plant growth during the first summer. They may have trouble getting established because of their reduced root system.

Instead of giving the plants frequent light watering, give them a thorough soaking to a depth of about eight to 12 inches. The soil should be allowed to become dry in the upper two inches before watering again. Mulch over the root area will also help conserve moisture.

Bond Sales At 30 Per Cent Of Annual Goal

County Bond Chairman, has announced that sales of Series E and H United States Saving Bonds in Eastland county during May were $14,321. Sales for the first five months totaled $89,238 for 30 per cent of the 1971 goal of $300,000.

During the month Texans purchased $16,476,145 in Savings Bonds compared to $14,528,581 (includes Freedom Shares) during May 1970. Year-to-date sales totaled $86,134,682—47 per cent of the 1971 goal of $181.9 million.

Nationwide, new purchases of Series E and H Saving Bonds during May amounted to $462 million, 25.9 per cent above 1970. Sales the first five months of 1971 were $2,229 million—19.6 per cent above a year earlier. Exchanges of Series E for new Series H Bonds amounting to $105 million were reported for the five-month period of 1971, compared to $101 million exchanged during 1970.

Drought Rates Allowed On Hay

Washington, D. C. — Congressman Omar Burlison today announced that an Interstate Commerce Com. Drought Order would permit railroad to ship hay at reduced rates into the following counties: Andrews, Bailey, Cochran, Eastland, Hockley, Howard, Jack, Martin and Yoakum.

Burlison explained the Order was made by reason of drought conditions existing in these areas for reduced rates for those persons designated as being in distress and in need of relief by the U. S. or by such State agents or Department of Agriculture, by the Agriculture Department, to assist in relieving the distress caused by the drought.

Medicare To Hike Premium

The premium for medical insurance under Medicare will be increased by 30c a month beginning July 1, 1971, according to Bob Tuley, Abilene social security district manager.

The law requires that this part of Medicare be kept on a "pay-as-you-go" basis and increased use of medical services as well as higher costs made a premium increase necessary. The additional 30c paid by the beneficiary will also be matched by the government as is the balance of the premium. This means that the medical insurance will continue to be worth twice the amount you pay.

For most beneficiaries the monthly premium will be $5.60 and if they are receiving a social security check, it will be automatically deducted from the check. Those people who are not receiving a monthly check will be billed for the additional premium amount on their regular quarterly billing schedule.

If you need more information regarding Medicare, call your social security office at
