460 Top Animals Being Made Ready for County Livestock Show Opening Thursday

Public Welcomed to All Annual Events

Eastland County 4-H and FFA members are making last minute preparations for the 1971 annual county livestock show. The show will be held at the County Livestock show barns northwest of Eastland Thursday, Friday, and Saturday reports Winford Fry. Fry is president of the Eastland County Livestock Raisers Association sponsor of the livestock show.

Directors of the association plan and conduct the annual livestock show for the benefit of the 4-H and FFA youth of Eastland County. Everyone is invited to become a member of the association by paying the annual dues of $1.00 per person.

Bill Claborn, general superintendent of the show, says 460 animals are entered for this year's show. This is 60 more animals than were entered in the show last year and 130 more than were in the 1969 show. He reports the following breakdown: Dairy animals — 8; Breeding swine — 64; Breeding sheep — 51; Goats — 21; Breeding beef — 36; Steers — 26; Market lambs — 103; Market hogs — 151.

4-H and FFA members must have fed, fitted, and cared for the animals under the supervision of a vocational agriculture teacher or county agent.

In addition to the junior show, breeders of registered beef cattle will have beef cattle on exhibit. These cattle will not compete for awards, but will be on exhibit for visitors to see.

The county 4-H Adult Leaders will operate a concession at the livestock show in the sheriff's posse building. The public is invited to attend the show and may purchase food at the concession.

A drawing will be held for two halves of dressed beef at the livestock show auction Saturday night. Two names will be drawn from the memberships of the Eastland County Livestock Raisers Association. The one dollar membership is the only requirement to become a member. The beef will be processed by the Rust Processing Plant. They are donating this service to the association.

The county show is made possible because of the support of businesses and individuals in the county. More than 250 businesses and individuals purchased advertisements in this year's catalog. This is the manner in which the premiums are secured for the junior exhibitors with winning animals. Business people also purchase prize winning animals at premium prices during the sale to be held at the Eastland Livestock Auction Barn on Saturday night, March 20.

Official Judges for this year's show are the following: Swine — Larry Osborne — Gooch — Packing Company; Beef Cattle — Frank Whitley — Tarleton College — Goats and sheep — Don Callahan — Coryell County Agent; Market Lambs — A. R. Wisenhunt — Mullin School Superintendent.

Fry encourages everyone to support the Eastland County Youth by attending the annual livestock show.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY—R. O. Washington, chef at Lone Cedar Country Club, was surprised with a birthday party at the club Tuesday evening and treated with a cake, a gigantic roll of dollar bills and other gifts, from friends and customers. There was no report of the veteran chef's age, but it was noted that the cake turned out double-cooked—once in the oven, and again from the blast of candle flames. All wished R.O. many happy returns of the day.

TidBits 'Names' Lake

City Commissioners are buying a new Ford police car and officially naming Eastland Lake, as the result of action at the regular monthly meeting at City Hall Monday evening.

Bids were opened on police cars and Hood King Motor Co. was low at $3,318.87. Other bids are: Chevrolet, $3,582; Plymouth, $3,453.02; and Ambassador, $3,535.13. Plans call for retaining the present police cruiser by the city to be used by the City Manager and "retiring" the old two-tone Ford which he has been driving. Therefore no trade-ins were figured.

Mayor James Reid presided with Commissioners Durel Reid, Jay Staggs and W. Q. Verner present. Commissioner Dale Bakker was reported ill and absent.

In the lake-naming business, City Manager Lewis Tiner reported that the various water boards and agencies have requested that the city formally name Eastland Lake that, so that it will be listed correctly on maps and other documents. Even though it's been known as Eastland Lake for years, it's carried as Breisford's Lake.

In another piece of past-tense business, the commission voted to formally transfer the airport land to the Eastland Industrial Foundation. It was done earlier, but formal field notes and other necessary data had not been ready until recently. A piece of land was retained (between the runways) to be leased to Bob Turner who proposes to build an aircraft engine repair business here. The set-aside land will revert to the city if he does not build or if he is inoperative for as much as 90 days, it was pointed out.

Bruce Pipkin was the only visitor.

Commissioners agreed to cooperate with a citizen who is planning to purchase a downtown building and has asked for tax penalty and interest consideration on some six years of back taxes. The proposed buyer would put the property on the tax rolls and keep taxes current, it was pointed out.

In another tax move, the city fathers agreed to adjust back taxes on some lots in southeast Eastland where a building had burned three years ago, and the property owner failed to re-render the property. Now another party wants to buy the property. This land too is expected to be added to the active tax rolls.

A request for hog-grazing rights at the airport was denied.

In a bit of a farewell to Commissioner Jay Staggs who is not seeking re-election, the Commission officially thanked him for his service to the city, and he expressed appreciation to the members for the experience.

Commissioner Verner explained the availability of a practically-new city dump machine in Clyde which can be bought reasonably, and recommended that the city might want to consider it for its new sanitary land-fill program soon to be put into operation. The group entered into a discussion on the advisability of encouraging citizens to use 30 gallon tank cars rather than the 55 gallon variety now commonly used. It was stated that it takes the men twice as long to handle the big vessels and that danger of personal injury to the men exists. With the two carts available on the now fenced land-fill site on the McCles-

OLDEN YOUTH CLEAN UP.

Concerned Youth of Olden gathered Saturday to begin an afternoon of Spring Cleaning. After a hot, tiring day, and three heaping pickup loads of trash later, the youth took a break, and admired their work. Two boys (top) display samples of tinsels many young people seem to enjoy decorating the land with. They are (left to right, top) Sidney Lennox, Randy Woods, Larry Lennox, Vanessa Day, Jerry Osteen, (bottom) Deborah Woods, Pam Pierce, Wally Pierce, and sponsor, Mrs. Wallace R. Pierce. Taking the picture is Judy Woods. The group plans to meet again Saturday, March 20, at 2 with the hope of a much larger team, and a few more pickup. Everyone, young and adult is urged to attend and help do their part to make Olden a nicer, more attractive place in which to live. For any further information, contact 653-2271 in Olden.

7-Week Lawman School Starts March 29 in Eastland

A seven-week law enforcement extension training program will begin in Eastland Monday, March 29, it was announced here this week.

Civil Appeals Court Chief Justice Austin McCloud first announced the school in a speech before the Eastland Lions Club at noon Tuesday. Sponsor of the program is West Central Texas Council of Governments Law Enforcement Council, of which Judge McCloud is chairman.

Police Chief John Morren is local coordinator and some 16 trainees are already signed up for the 140-hour course which will have as instructors, professionals including Eastland District-County Attorney Emory Walton who will teach criminal law and FBI agents who will be in charge of 60 hours of the course.

Sit of the 1 to 4 p. m. daily classes will be at the First Christian Church Annex Building downtown.

Judge McCloud explained the history of the Law Enforcement Council and declared it a success in helping law enforcement agencies in this region meet qualifying standards set down by legislation.

Court Clerk Homer Smith was program chairman and introduced Judge McCloud, who is the youngest chief justice in the state.

In operation two years, the Council was set up when funds were made available in the 1968 "Safe Streets" Act. Then when the Texas Legislature set a requirement that all new law enforcement personnel must meet basic standards effective Sept. 1, 1970, the council's job was cut out for it in helping provide that training to un-erude the professional law enforcement officer.

"We found that the officers wanted the academy and wanted to be certified. The first training session was held in Abilene and succeeding extension courses have been held at Brownwood, Breckenridge, Snyder, Haskell and Eastland and becomes the fifth school. There are some 150 graduates of the training.

Another important program implemented by the Council was the establishment of a linking all the agencies for fast, accurate communications. Future plans call for programs in juvenile handling and radio utilization.

"Law enforcement is complicated, dangerous work, and we don't often recognize the significance of the police officers," the former trial judge said, and the best thing we can do as citizens, is to "Give these men a handshake and tell them we're proud of them."

Guests included Joe Weaver of Cisco and O. M. Boyle.

'Fire' Is Topic At Rotary Meet

"Fire", a seemingly appropriate subject for leading citizens of Eastland to discuss at this time, with fires overwhelming the Eastland area, was the title of a film shown by Buddy Carter, to Rotarians at the Monday meeting, luncheon in the White Elephant.

Buddy Carter Employee of Texas Electric, presented to Rotarians the film, which showed, through carelessness, how easily a fire can catch; by cigarettes, machinery, or trash, etc.

Also shown, were ways in which to fight fires, to keep them from spreading, and the quickest way in which to put it out. "Keep your head, for in the process of getting of your own good" seemed to be the point most emphasized.

Soil-Man E. E. McAlister on conservation, anti-litter and anti-pollution. He makes you ashamed of yourself for ever having thrown down a match stem, and when he talks to high school youngsters, they get the message and learn to appreciate nature's gifts of water, air and land.

The other top speaker is Rev. Bill Goff, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church. He spoke Tuesday to the P.T.O. on "How to Raise a Delinquent Without Really Trying" and if you missed it, you missed a dandy. Of course he had many positive comments and all in all, he didn't waste a word in telling what it takes for good relationships in the home. The town and his congregation have mixed emotions about Rev. and Mrs. Goff's announcement that they are seeking appointment as missionaries to Venezuela. They're good citizens of our town.

HAVING HAD the pleasure of working with County Counselor Joe Weaver in a Career Day which involved students from two schools in this county, we wonder again why our high school doesn't adopt such a program. It's amazing the quality of questions you get from these youngsters who want to know about working in this world and you can see it their faces the concern they have for where they're going to fit in to it.

LOOKS TOO as though we may get a mental health program set up in the near future. Again, badly needed... James Smith of Texas Electric Service Co. is arranging for an expert to explain the now-abundant Regional Airport at the Tuesday next meeting of the Lions Club. Pilots and flyers should be interested in the program... Likewise Official Weather Observer James Dabney reports that pilots interested in up to the minute weather data at major points in a five state area can get it from him via a weather bureau radio broadcast system in operation. He says a Bureau rep was out cleaning up the rain gauges and instruments this week. Question: does that mean it's fixing to start raining? Hopefully.

FOR THOSE who missed him, here are Goff's Dozen Rules on raising delinquents, and reversing should conceivably bring the opposite results.

1. Begin from infancy to give the child every thing he wants. In this way he will grow up believing that the world owes him a living.

2. When he picks up bad or dirty words, laugh at him. This will make him think profanity and obscenity are cute. He then will decide to pick up some more words like these.

3. Never or seldom give him any spiritual training until he is at least 21, and then let him decide for himself. By the same logic never teach him any English, because when he grows up he may want to speak Banta.

4. Praise him in his presence to all of the neighbors; make him think that he is smarter than all the other kids.

5. Avoid the use of the word "wrong." It may develop in the child a guilt complex. This will prepare him to believe that later when he is caught for stealing money or assaulting women that "society" is against him, and that he is being an object of police brutality.

6. Pick up everything after him; his books, his clothes, his shoes. Do everything for him, so that he will be experienced in throwing burdens on others.

7. Let him read any thing he wants or watch any T. V. program that he wants. Provide him with sanitary cups for his lips but let his brain drink out of any old dirty container of words and ideas.

8. Quarrel frequently in the presence of the child. In this way he will be prepared to face a broken home later on.

9. Give him all the spending money he wants. Never encourage him to earn his own.

10. Take his part against policemen, teachers, and neighbors. They are all prejudiced against your child.

11. When he gets into real trouble, always defend yourself by saying "I never could do anything with him."

12. Don't teach him compassion for others less fortunate than himself. Encourage him to ridicule the aged, the infirm, and the mentally and physically handicapped. This will prevent him from developing these annoying things called character and conscience.

key Place south of town, it is guessed that there'll be garbage handling facilities for years for this city and perhaps on a contract basis to neighboring towns, it was stated.

Another move which would affect citizens was a discussion of the possibility of using plastic liners for garbage, which workmen could pick up easier and faster. It is guessed that the city might be able to return to the two-a-week pickup service in the summer should such a plastic-bag program be implemented here. The system is used successfully elsewhere. Tiner was asked to check into the possibility of the city offering the bags at a low-cost basis, with out competing with local firms who market the product.

In the closing minutes of the meeting the commissioners asked Tiner to write Southern Television System President Glen Scallorn expressing the continued desire for receiving Channel 13 here

To Meet at Graham

Cisco District of United Methodist Church will hold its annual Laymen's Banquet at American Legion Building in Graham, Friday, March 19, at 7:30 p. m.

The speaker will be Dr. William A. Ward, assistant to the president of Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth. Dr. Ward is Lay Leader and teacher of a Junior High Sunday School Class at Eastern Hills United Methodist Church, author of five books, and a former conference director of Methodist men. A graduate of McMurtry College with an M. S. from Oklahoma State and honorary Doctor of Laws from Oklahoma City University, Dr. Ward's daily "THINK IT OVER" thoughts appear on front pages of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and San Diego Evening Tribune.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Editor: With City elections drawing near, perhaps prospective new councilmen would do well to consider correcting some past practices of the City police chasing outside the city limits for varied and sundry reasons.

For example, the most recent foray occurred Sunday afternoon, March 7th, when the patrol car was dispatched south of Eastland to "check on a grass fire", and this little trip continued to within about 2 miles of the city limits of Carbon, only to find a small brush fire that was being attended by the land owner. It would appear that volunteer firemen, who would probably be available on a Sunday afternoon, would be more than glad to take the new rescue vehicle, which is radio equipped, and do this type of chore, and thus keep the patrol car within the City limits, where it belongs.

However, I am the first to realize that there are certain conditions where a city officer is permitted by state law to pursue a fleeing vehicle and its occupants in order to apprehend them. However, I do not believe that chasing in various directions from Eastland to check on purported grass fires, etc., is included in this.

It is my understanding, also, that the City is considering taking in U. S. 89 East, and its shoulders, and a minimum of right-of-way, in order to give the police legal access to a point east of town near farm road 575, in order to answer trouble calls in the vicinity of the Dairy Queen. A very unusual procedure, I must say. The City Limits east of town ends at the bridge over the north fork of the Leon, but this hasn't deterred the city police from answering calls to the Bowling alley, dog calls in the vicinity of the Farm Bureau building, and other incidents.

I feel this way about it: Most of the businesses east of town were put there with the full knowledge of the owners that they were out of the city limits, and if these people desire police protection, and other city privileges, they should ask to be brought in the city limits, to such an extent that it would include their entire property, not just a "legal-alley" out to the Dairy Queen.

I realize that these sojourns out of the city Limits have the blessings of the city Manager, who also doesn't reside within the City Limit, and also the blessing of one, or more, of the City Commissioners. But, this doesn't make it legally right.

The city patrol car, the policeman's salary, his uniform, etc., are all paid for by city taxes to protect, and be on call, for citizens within the city limits.

And, not too many weeks have past since the city patrol car was out of service four or five miles west of town helping to fight a grass fire.

It is my observation that activities of this type on the part of the city police did not happen until a year or so ago. Sincerely,

F. James Dabney.
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Girtz of Dallas, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, last weekend.

CONVERSATIONS
on CARPETING
By Pete Brashier
INDOORS OR OUT

Last time we talked about nylon, one of the marvelous synthetics that have brought excitement and changes to carpeting in recent years. Maybe after hearing about the great strength and wearability of nylon, you decided, "That's the one for me." But don't be too hasty. There are a number of other marvelous synthetics that you'll want to know more about.

Take Polypropylene for example. Polypropylene, also known by its generic name Olefin, is the fiber most often used in indoor-outdoor carpeting. As you can probably guess, Olefin is wonderfully weatherproof. Its non-absorbent qualities actually resist moisture. Carpeting made of this all-weather fiber offers a minimum amount of static, so dirt and dust don't cling to the carpet surface.

Olefin's moisture resistant properties are equally at home outdoors under the stars, or indoors by the kitchen sink. That's why it's also a popular fiber for making kitchen carpeting. Olefin is highly resistant to stains. Spilled milk and other liquids can be wiped up with a damp cloth.

Whether you're thinking of beautifying your patio or redoing your kitchen, why not look into carpeting made of Olefin? And whenever you're considering carpeting of any kind, always think of Ranger Furniture Exchange — where you get the finest selection at very reasonable prices. Ranger Furniture Exchange

One of the fastest growing causes of adult disability in this country is emphysema, a disease affecting the lungs.

Causes and effects of emphysema were known, but the disease received greater emphasis in 1964, says the Texas State Department of Health. A report that year by the U. S. Surgeon General's Committee on Smoking and Health incriminated cigarette smoking as a contributing cause of the disease. It was found that for cigarette smokers the death rate from chronic bronchitis and emphysema was six times greater than for non-smokers. Emphysema and chronic bronchitis are closely related although they may develop independently. Emphysema often develops from chronic bronchitis.

Deaths due to emphysema have increased about five times in the past 10 years. Frequently the victims live in areas where air pollution is a constant problem.

Emphysema is described as an impairment of the bellows action of the lungs. In the course of the disease, the walls of the millions of tiny air sacs (called Alveoli) within the lungs are gradually destroyed. As the air spaces become larger, the victims find it increasingly difficult to expel all the air inhaled, and lungs, causing the lungs to become enlarged. At the same time, they become less efficient in exchanging oxygen for carbon dioxide.

Frequent respiratory infections, increasing breathlessness, a feeling of tightness in the chest, general weakness and a tendency to tire easily are signs of the disease.

Eventually, emphysema destroys the elasticity of the lungs — the ability to expand and contract. As interference continues, an increased burden is imposed on the heart which must work harder to push blood through the damaged lungs. Under such strain, the heart may enlarge and eventually give out.

Emphysema doesn't strike suddenly but comes on gradually, sometimes after several seasons of bad colds, each accompanied by a severe cough and often with chronic bronchitis. The cough may become chronic.

There is no known cure of emphysema, but with early treatment under a doctor's care most patients can get some relief from their attacks of breathlessness. Treatment can enable many to live comfortably for a long time.
