KANSAS "SQUIRE" ACTS
"TOUGH" ON FISHERMEN

KANSAS CITY, July 3.—This city has discovered a new Fourth of July peril.

It is "Squire" Baker of Johnson county, Kansas, nearby picnicking area.

An extended expose by newspapers shows the squire, a justice of the peace, and his heavily armed deputy, C. F. Smith, metes out heavy justice to dangerous picnickers who go a-fishing for crawdads, unbeatable sun fish, with cotton strings and bent pins, and without licenses.

The survey shows the squire has levied fines as high as $55 on Kansas anglers, including children, who engaged in pulling animal life
from Johnson county's still waters.

Deputy Smith, newspapers charged, even in one case helped his victim pull an under-sized fish

Father and son, by virtue of the woman at whose picture they gazed:
Nan was powerless to move toward them. She was an interloper. It would be indecent to intrude upon their tragic brooding. All fighting melted out of her for the moment, giving way to a nauseating self-hatred. If she had not "wormed her way" into John Curtis Morgan's home, into his brief, into the affections of his son, so that marriage with her had come to seem inevitable, he and the child would have been free to welcome Iris home. What did it matter that they had been better off without her? If they preferred sickness to health, misery to peace, Iris to Nan, why shouldn't they have them? People never thanked you for doing things for their good.

"Oh, excuse me, Mrs. Morgan. I didn't know you was there," Estelle apologized as she almost bumped into the frozen little figure in the doorway. "Dinner is served, ma'am."

The two before the fireplace started, the man guiltily. The 7-year-old boy stared at Nan as if he had never seen her before, a strange hostility in his liquid black eyes. There was a deep flush on his cheeks. Nan's heart contracted sharply with anxiety. Did he have a fever? Why was he staring at her like that? Had Iris already begun to poison the child against her? But why ask? She had known Iris was going to fight her with every weapon she could lay hands on, and of course the child would be the most potent, next to the terrific appeal which she had always made to the senses of the man she never loved and had deserted.

Nan does want you to eat the vegetables—
"Won't eat them!" Curtis screamed, pushing his plate so violently that part of the food spilled upon the immaculate white cloth. "Don't have to do what you tell me to! You ain't got any right to boss me! Mother says—"
"Go to your room!" his father roared, rising and bending over the child as if his clenched fists longed to strike him. "And stay there till you're ready to apologize to Nan and to promise to obey her implicitly. Do you understand?"
Nan shrank into her chair, every nerve outraged by the scene, the like of which had never taken place in that home since she had become its mistress. Helplessly, she watched the child scramble out of his chair and run howling from the room.

AIRLINE TO DENISON
DENISON, July 3.—A number of improvements are to be made at the local airport, following announcement of Paul Braniff at Oklahoma City that the Braniff Air-Line passenger ships will begin making regular stops here Friday morning. A hook-up with passenger trains will be made, with the northbound ship departing each morning and the southbound each afternoon.

St. Louis dropped to third place, behind the Yankees, when beaten by Detroit, at St. Louis, 10 to 4. Detroit piled up an early lead and was never threatened seriously.

"Hello, dear!" her husband greeted her constrainedly, as he came forward to take her arm. "Sorry I couldn't meet you for lunch."
"How did the trial progress? Any jurors chosen?" Nan asked, with apparently cheerful casualness.
"We went to the hospital to see my mother," Curtis cut in, his voice sounding oddly mature and childishly belligerent. "She—"
"Nan asked ME a question, son," the father reproved him sternly, but laid a hand on the boy's shoulder. "Haven't you seen the afternoon paper, Nan? The trial is adjourned until Jan. 9."
No need now to pretend interest, Nan cried: "Adjourned? Why? What happened? You don't mean Brainerd wasn't ready? Or do you suppose he'd got wind of what we're going to spring?"
Morgan was obviously grateful for her interest and for a chance to think and talk of something else besides the amazing return of his divorced wife. He drew out a chair for Nan with his usual meticulous politeness, as he answered:
"Oh, no, nothing like that. We were impaneling the jury, had agreed on four men, when about 3 o'clock this afternoon Brainerd got word that his star witness, the butler, Edgars, had been stricken with acute appendicitis and rushed to the hospital for an emergency operation. He's in pretty bad shape, I understand. Naturally the trial couldn't proceed without him, and Judge Bunce granted an adjournment until the old man is in a condition to be brought to the courtroom—if he survives."
"Good heavens!" Nan said slowly. "It will be more of a blow for us if the poor old man dies than for the prosecution."
"True," Morgan agreed. "But still we have the goods on Nina Blackhull, even without the butler's testimony as to her relations with the chauffeur, Bassett. But naturally what he was willing to tell us on cross-examination would have been mighty important. Brainerd, of course, can use Edgars' testimony before the grand jury, as to Blackhull's quarrel with David, the boy's leaving in his car at 2 o'clock in the morning, and the finding of the body. I hope we'll have our chance at him, though."

"Where is he—which hospital?" Nan demanded, as she made a pretense of eating her soup.
"He's at St. Luke's, too, where Mother is," Curtis answered the question. "Father went to talk to the doctor about him while I stayed with Mother." Again that curious, direct glance of hostility from the black eyes which had been so full of love as late as this morning.
"Yes, Morgan agreed, flushing and lowering his eyes. "They were operating then. No one could say how it would turn out, but a few minutes ago I telephoned the hospital and the poor old man has come out of the other all right. If there are no serious complications he'll pull through, Dr. Matthews says."
"I'm glad," Nan said in a low voice. There seemed to be nothing else to add, nothing whatever to talk about.
For Iris was as much a member of that constrained group as if she sat at the vacant fourth side of the table. Nan felt that the insolent, blue-green eyes were mocking them all.
"Don't want any spinach and carrots-and-peas," Curtis said suddenly, violently thrusting aside the vegetable dish from which Estelle was about to serve him.
Morgan snapped out of a period of brooding abstraction to frown upon his son. "Eat what's put before you, Curtis," he commanded sternly.
"I won't!" Curtis shouted, the feverish flush deepening alarmingly on the face which had once been so thin and anemic and now was plump with health. "Mother says I don't have to eat things I don't like! Sides, she give me all the chocolates I wanted out of that big box you took her. I aren't hungry!"
Morgan seemed glad of the chance to show furious anger. The two who were so alike and yet so different glared at each other. "Then leave the table!" the father ordered savagely. "And so straight to bed. You know you're not permitted to eat between meals and that—"
The child's howl of rage cut across his father's furious rebuke. Involuntarily, Nan reached out a hand and laid it soothingly upon Curtis' clenched fist. "Please, John! Let me— Curtis, darling, you don't want to lose your gold star for a perfect Health Chart, do you? If you aren't hungry, you can skip dessert, but

TEXAS LEAGUE

The Dallas Steers made a good start in the second half of the Texas league split season by trimming the Fort Worth Panthers in a 12 to 6 victory. The Steers started out well with five runs in the first stanza. Then they failed to score or even get a hit for five innings and finished up with seven runs in the seventh and eighth.

Following the lead of the Steers, Shreveport, now standing second in the Texas flag race, marked up their thirteenth consecutive win by taking the Wichita Falls Spudders.

Abilene Man Suffers More Than 20 Years

A. E. Barber Says Orgatone Is Making Him a Well Man After Unusual Suffering.

"I don't believe there was a week for the past twenty years that I didn't suffer with awful pains in my stomach that felt just like something was gnawing me in two, but since I started taking Orgatone a few weeks ago, I haven't had a touch of my old trouble," said A. E. Barber, residing on rural route 1, Abilene, Texas.

"I can remember," continued Mr. Barber, "that when I was practically a young man, my stomach and digestive organs were always giving me trouble. It was like a hard lump or knot right in the pit of my stomach. Many a day, especially after eating heavy foods of any kind, it would hurt me so badly that it just seemed like I could hardly stand to do another lick of work."

"After eating especially at night I would suffer from a constant gnawing pain in my stomach and I could feel it throbbing and jarring down in my lower bowels. It was certainly a queer sensation and the best way I can give any idea of the pain is to say that it was like the toothache and only people who have ever had it will know just what I suffered. I have taken nearly every kind of medicine, but none did me a bit of good, and when I saw Orgatone so highly advertised I decided to try it. I have taken it just a few weeks now and for the first time since I can remember I don't have that throbbing sensation in my stomach. My stomach feels so much stronger that I can lift heavy things and don't notice any pain or trouble at all. I take pleasure in stating my experience with Orgatone for I've found it to be a splendid medicine." Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Eastland by Toombs & Richardson, who are the direct laboratory agents.—Adv.

EASTLAND'S ENTRANT

Miss Genevieve Lyon, who, as "Miss Eastland," will represent the city tomorrow in the Fourth of July beauty revue at Cisco.

Polo is not a new game. For a hundred years or more, it has been the Englishman's hobby, yet it did not originate in England but in India. Due to the lack of horses, money, etc., it did not flourish in India as it did and continues to do in England which today has more players, more horses, and more matches than any other nation.

The continental countries have little interest in polo though France perhaps more than the rest. Through England the game was introduced into America some fifty years ago. Taken up enthusiastically by the New Yorkers, Long Island now boasts the best field, the best players, the best matches, and as fine horses as can be found in the world. Polo in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, or any other city is fifty per cent behind that played in New York.

Warning For Middle-Aged

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 2.—"Don't go in for this 'just-as-young-as-I-used-to-be' performance" those of middle age and over are warned by Dr. Theodore B. Appel, head of the State Health Department.

"The business man who is fat and forty or at least forty suddenly develops a logical enthusiasm for tennis, golf, and baseball at this outdoor season," he said. "And while such a thing as permitting one's affection for a sport to get the better of one's judgment—then something happens."

"The business of imagining at 40 or 50 years of age that one is just as young as ever is a mighty poor proposition is one deliberately steps out to prove it after a winter's physical lassitude, by way of suddenly over-exercising or indulging violently in outdoor sports.

"Sunshine and exercise are among the cardinal necessities for all. But sudden exertion, or even protracted exertion that it not so sudden can not be indulged in safely by the middle aged who are not

BY UNITED PRESS
AUSTIN, July 2.—Proposed congratulation of Texas Congressman John G. Box for his demand that democratic party control be wrested from John J. Raskob brought a clash in the closing session of the senate today which sergeants at arms interrupted.

The resolution congratulating Congressman Box was offered by Senators Tom Love of Dallas and Julien Hyer of Fort Worth. Objection was made by Senators Eugene Miller of Weatherford and W. A. Williamson of San Antonio.

Miller's seat and Love's seat are on the same aisle with one intervening desk.

Love, who was a Hoover leader in Texas, charged Miller with not representing the sentiment of his district because all its counties were carried for Hoover. This irked Miller. Then came a reference to "Gooseneck Bill" MacDonald, former republican leader in Texas, who supported Smith in the last campaign.

Miller declared he would rather be aligned with "Gooseneck Bill" than with "Love and De Priest." Distance between the two senators was gradually diminishing. Miller was advancing toward Love's desk. Love took off his glasses and pulled up his sleeves.

"Let 'em go," was shouted but sergeants-at-arms intervened.

into camp. 5 to 4. Holman's homer in the seventh won the game.

Three home runs with two men on base, helped the Waco Cubs to take a 7 to 3 victory over the Beaumont Shippers. Akers scored two of the Exporters' runs with a couple of homers late in the game.

In a game sparkling with good fielding, the San Antonio Indians took a 6 to 5 verdict over the Houston Buffs.

Watching the Scoreboard.

Yesterday's hero: Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia infielder, whose home run in the last of the ninth inning, second game, at Philadelphia, counted three runs, enabled the A's to win their 60th game of the season.

The score of the second game between the A's and Washington was tied at one run when Foxx boosted the ball into the bleachers to give the Mackmen a 4 to 1 decision. They won the first game from the Senators 7 to 4.

New York rallied with three runs in the last of the ninth to tie the Boston Red Sox at New York and added another in the tenth to win, 4 to 3. Until the ninth Ed Morris, on the mound for Boston, had pitched shut-out ball.

Chicago dumped two extra inning games at Cleveland 4 to 3 and 5 to 4. In the first Cleveland scored a run in the ninth to tie the score and went on to win the tenth. In the second Chicago scored a runner in the ninth to tie the count and then slumped in the 11th and let Cleveland win by one run.

The Chicago Cubs had a narrow call in their game with Cincinnati at Chicago, but eked out a 5 to 4 victory in the 11th inning. The Reds held a two-run lead when the Cubs came to bat. In the ninth but a single, triple and passed ball let Chicago tie the score. Two singles and a sacrifice won the game in the 11th.

Pittsburgh refused to halt its pursuit of the leading Cubs and beat the St. Louis Cards 5 to 3, at Pittsburgh. The Cards outhit the Pirates, 10 to 9, but were unable to make their blows as effective.

The New York Giants wasted a beautiful day by dividing a twin bill at Boston. Melvin Ott hit his 23rd home run of the season in the first game, which New York won 6 to 3. The Braves won the second 3 to 2.

CISCOAN SAYS POLO IS "A KING'S SPORT"

CISCO, Texas, July 3.—"Polo is a king's sport," is the opinion of George B. Coyle, owner of the People's Ice Co., here and a dealer in polo ponies. "It is one of the most fascinating of American games and is rapidly becoming the international sport.
