

TWELVE CRASH TO DEATH IN AIR AN TRAGEDY

That reminds me...

Italian Artillery Moving Into Ethiopian Territory

Italian troops, moving forward into Ethiopian territory with a field piece, are shown in this first action picture, rushed by plane from the front to London, and then transmitted to the United States by radio.

Sick—begosh. Got one of those nice cozy cricks in the neck, and every time a movement of the body is made, about seven million stars begin to dance all around the eyes. Don't ever have one of those darn things is our advice to body.

Italy says that their attacks on the Ethiopians is not "a state of war." H-m-m guess that's just Italy's way of being playful—in other words they kill a bunch of Ethiopians with bombs, etc., just to scare the "little Ethiopians." Kinder like a lion or tiger when they get the advantage of their trainer—they are just playing when they claw him to pieces. Wonder what they will do when they do declare actual war?

The Texas Legislature has one more week to do six months work. But there is always the privilege of a second call and it may take the six months to do the important things so necessary at this time to balance the state's budget. Just what kind of tax laws should be passed and where to get the money is a conglomerated bunch of ideas—and it doesn't make any difference what or who is taxed it won't set well. So all can do is wait and see.

GENEVA, Oct. 7.—The 13 members of the League of Nations council, Italy excluded, bound themselves under the covenant today to apply economic and financial sanctions (penalties) against Italy. Setting the example of the 47 nations of the assembly which meets Wednesday to vote on the measure, the council agreed that in availing Ethiopia "the Italian government has resorted to war in disregard to its covenant" under Article 12. Article 12 provided that league members must submit disputes to arbitration and "in no case resort to war" within three months after a decision has been returned. Bodies Smashed When Plane Is Strawn Over Large Area

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 7.—Apparently suddenly disabled, a United Air Line transport plane crashed to earth in the hilly country west of here today, carrying its crew of three and nine passengers to instant death. Almost in view of the Cheyenne airport, base of the company, where it was to land, the plane was reported by the pilot, H. S. Collinson, to be cruising easily through the calm night. At 2:17 a. m. in a radio message the big, twin engine plane was coming in from Salt Lake City. Simultaneously another plane from the east was approaching the airport for a landing. "Please delay landing until further orders while west bound planes comes in," the airport operator radioed Collinson after the pilot advised he was in sight of the Cheyenne water plant 12 miles from here. He tried to obtain confirmation but only silence greeted his signal. Searchers found the plane a mass of wreckage strewn over an area of a quarter of a mile, the bodies of the passengers and crew mangled. One wing was intact, the other shattered by the force of the crash lay in scattered bits a trail around a quarter of a mile long behind the wrecked cabin. The fuselage of the plane had broken in the middle. Bodies had been thrown from it and smashed into the earth. A few still were in the cabin.

Toy Balloons Suggested For Mining Heavens

ADDIS ABABA.—There's a fellow from Texas who wants to sell the Imperial Government a million toy balloons. The idea is simple. The North Sea was mined during the World War. This is purely an adaptation of the idea. The air is mined. A bit of dynamite is tied to the balloon. It floats somewhere above the city, and an airplane comes along, and... There's another fellow who wants to market almost any given number of metal sandals, to protect the bare feet of the Ethiopian army against a burning chemical. According to high official sources, the government is not considering buying either.

Judged By Our Deeds, Few of Us Are Sane

One of the reasons why reading the newspapers is a joy is the fact that every so often they pop up with a story like the one about the crazy man in Kankakee, Ill.

It isn't quite right to call him a crazy man, at that, because he seems to have had right good sense. But, anyway, he was confined in an asylum having been sent there on petition of his father; and he finally won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus after he had shown that, although supposedly off his base mentally, he had made $75,000 speculating in stocks.

"No man," remarked the judge, "can make that much money these days on the stock market and be insane."

So, logically enough, he adjudged the man sane and freed him.

Solomon himself could hardly have turned in a sounder ruling. But if the judge's standard is to apply in all similar cases, we may be obliged to build rows upon rows of new asylums for the insane, for the ruling cuts both ways.

That is to say, if you can figure a man's mental capacity by the things he does, and not by the way he responds to some psychiatrist's tests, which of us is safe?

How about the good American (whose name is legion) who went to the stock market in September, 1929, when stocks were all set to fall over the cliff of their own weight, and bought heavily on margin in expectation of a continued rise? What section of the booby hatch does he occupy?

How about the chap who believed all that talk about a new era of high prices, or the man who rushed forth to buy when the Rockefellers shortly after the crash, announced that they were loading up with good common stocks?

How about the man who innocently entrusted his money to Mr. Insull, the lad who financed the Kreuger swindle, or the investor who bought Allegheny Corp. at 50?

Or—to get away from the stock market—what shall we do with the citizen who figured that the way to get over the depression was to pretend that private charity could go right on handling the needs of 10,000,000 unemployed?

What about the men who find it logical to reduce the output of food at a time when millions don't have enough to eat? How about the people who want to see wages cut when we suffer from lack of purchasing power?

Maybe we'd better not carry this sort of thing any farther. Once we start judging our mental capacity by the imbecilic things we do, we are apt to find ourselves parading off to the loony bin by platoons. So very, very few of the things we do these days make sense.

Texas' Wool and Mohair

Texas is one of the greatest of wool and mohair states. Producers are minded that America's wool and mohair industry, "caught for years in the world collapse of values, has reached the level of recovery where it can now laugh at the depression." Furthermore and to the point, other branches of the important textile industry also have reached modern advances in recent months trade reports show, but wool appears to be leading the parade. There is life in the old land yet. There is faith in the government of the fathers. A flag floats over the nation that is unsullied. And the constitution drafted by the men who made the republic is as virile and as aggressive today as it was in the long-ago when this was a nation of 6,000,000 instead of the greatest of republics with a population of 126,000,000. Why worry? There is work cut out for all and the real defenders of the constitution are the men and women who believe that the rights of the constitution are the men and women who believe that the rights of humanity should be given an even break with the property rights of those who have accumulated great fortunes.

Warning to Motorists

Texas courts have held that a motorist who is blinded by the headlights of an approaching car while driving at night, and who hits something while so blinded, is guilty of negligence.

The case which produced this ruling arose after a motorist, traveling at 35 miles an hour, crashed into a parked truck which he was unable to see because approaching headlights had blinded him. He was killed, his heirs sued the truck's owner, and the defendant replied that the dead driver had failed to exercise proper care.

This contention the court upheld, and its ruling is worth nothing. A driver, it held, must anticipate the presence of objects in his path. If a headlight blinds him, it's up to him to slow down or stop until he regains his vision. If he doesn't do so, and hits something, it is his fault.

The ruling is a timely warning to all motorists.

American Farmers Are Buying More Imported Animals

WASHINGTON — An upswing in the importation of purebred animals for breeding purposes — greatest since 1930—is shown with the entry of 10,836 animals into the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1935. J. O. Williams of the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, who certifies the pedigrees of such imported animals, reports that the 1935 importation is 32 per cent above the 1934 importation and 36 per cent more than those of 1933.

A total of 7,411 purebred animals was imported in 1934. In 1933 the arrivals totaled 6,939, in 1932 the number imported was 10,647, in 1931 a total of 7,818 were brought in, and in 1930 the importations amounted to 12,843.

The 1930 tariff act includes a provision for the free entry of purebred animals by American citizens for improving herds and flocks. The increase in the number of entries indicates that the livestock breeders of the United States are taking advantage of the privilege allowed on purebred animals. Federal quarantine laws require that the animals offered for importation must have a clean bill of health before they are allowed to leave the port of entry or quarantine station and be shipped to the purchaser. This precaution is to prevent any foreign livestock malady getting a foothold in this country.

Of the total animals imported during the last fiscal year, 8,663 were cattle, 1,036 sheep, and 274 horses. The cattle were mostly of the daily breeds but the horses included about equal numbers of draft and light breeds. The importations also included 12 swine, 839 dogs, and 12 cats.

More than half of 91,995 animals imported during the last 10 fiscal years were cattle. During the last decade 3,156 horses entered, the largest number in 1930, when 446 arrived. Sheep importations during the last two years were greater than in the preceding two years. The 1935 importations were six less than in 1934 when 1,042 sheep were imported. A total of 598 was imported in 1933 and 682 in 1932.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, N.Y.A. Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—Reconnaissance along the pork chop front reveals an indication that certain packers have been kidding the government as to the amount of their profits.

Also, though roast pork, bacon and eggs, and ham sandwiches will cost more this winter than they do now, prices probably will start dropping next summer and be materially lower by election time.

The AAA's first public hearing on a proposed adjustment program concerned the corn-hog situation. Thanks mostly to drought there'll be about 47 pounds of hog products available per person in the marketing year beginning Nov 1 instead of the normal consumption of 83 pounds.

With no adjustment program, there should be about 62 pounds in the marketing year beginning next fall, meaning lower prices, which should begin to appear earlier. Meanwhile, the AAA is required by law to operate in two-year programs and fears if something isn't done to keep down corn production there'll be a subsequent hog production in excess of normal consumption.

PACKERS' profits, often the subject of kicks from housewives on meat strikes, were represented as $29,550,000 for 1934 by packers themselves at the hearings.

That figure, which is all the government ever had to go on—being unable to examine packers' books—was the total reported to the Bureau of Animal Industry under requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

But late in the afternoon an AAA official stated that the figure had been revised to $36,953,331.

bandit entered. More cash went into the sack, and a fat sheaf of bonds. Then, still preceded by the trembling cashier the bandit came out. He shepherded the cashier into the front office, gave him a parting jab with the gun, tucked his now filled sack under his coat, and rejoined his companion in the lobby. With a parting threat, the two men hurried outside, and—joined by the man with the machine gun—trotted over to their auto. Tumbling inside, they cried, "Step on her!" to the driver.

Panhandle Sees Better Conditions For Farm Crops

AMARILLO. — Marked improvement in farming conditions in the Texas Panhandle is reflected by the exhibits at the Tri-State Exposition which opened here Saturday. Rains have brought relief to a country that only a year ago was severely drought ridden, and already a late crop that will approach normal proportions, is ready to harvest. An unprecedented number of entries in the livestock exhibit was reported, due to the improved grazing this year and the lower expense of feeding. Gov. Clyde Tingley of New Mexico is expected to visit the exposition on Sept. 20. Carnival attractions, a circus, horse racing and numerous events have been planned.

Even Providence Can't Save Oats

These two stacks of oats ascending in flames prove that not even an act of Providence annuls the government's crop allotment rule. Simon Stuckey of Hutchinson, Kan., had received payment for not raising wheat, but was allowed to grow oats to be cut for feed before they were ripe. Rain prevented cutting until after they had ripened, so Stuckey was ordered to refund wheat payments or burn his oats, on which he had been depending for feed.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The men who run the Republican party are a close-mouthed crew. It is virtually unheard-of for a correspondent to be able to get one of them off to a quiet corner and persuade him to spill party secrets under the mellowing influence of distillation or brew.

Democratic politicians incline to be a bit more chummy. Just the same, there is news to be had out of the secret sessions of the Republican executive committee here.

The G O P machinery is in the hands of the same staunch crowd, which in type has changed little since the Old Guard steam-rolled Teddy Roosevelt out of Chicago in 1912, on the theory that it were better to lose an election with Taft than to lose grip on that party machinery.

This means that another conservative "back to normalcy" campaign is much more likely than a candidate and platform tainted by liberalism or compromise with the New Deal.

The party chiefs are obsessed with the idea of raising a walling big campaign fund. Some of them are sure it will be the biggest ever collected.

Tentative plans call for heavy expenditures in individual congressional districts with the aim of recapturing the House (The G O P knows it can't possibly win the Senate next year).

THE unemployed, who have been something of a problem, will be told they're the victims of Roosevelt policies which are bound to keep them in the serfdom of work relief or the dole unless Republicans reassume command.

Most of the big shots in the party seem to be aiming for another "smoke-filled room" nomination. AT

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE, NEA Service Staff Writer

VERY FEW food-stuffs escape the scientific experimenter these days. Even pie crust, once regarded with such disfavor by dietitians, comes out of the laboratory with assurances that well-baked pastry is as completely digested by the normal healthy individual as any other form of baked stuff.

I'm glad to hear those stress the well-baked pastry because if there's one thing I've crusaded for, it's thoroughly baked pies. None of those anemic-looking crusts for me. I want mine a rich amber, just ready to turn into a golden brown.

Pie fillings seldom give the inexperienced baker as much trouble as the crust. Careful methods and accurate measuring are essential for good pie crust as for any other baked goods.

Crisp Throughout The ideal pie crust is flaky and tender, golden brown color around the edge and a somewhat lighter brown on the bottom and in the center of the top crust.

The quality of shortening determines the flavor of the crust. Lard or a vegetable fat can be used as preferred. Butter can be combined with either of these fats if you are making a very special pie.

The method of mixing the ingredients also must be painstakingly observed. The tendency to overmix the materials usually is the beginner's worst fault. A pastry blender is a decided help to the novice because it prevents the fat from warming and softening.

Add Water Cautiously The addition of water is another ticklish point. Too much water makes a heavy, tough dough. Toss the mixture lightly, using no pressure and adding water a little at a time until all the particles are dampened.

Always work as quickly as possible, reducing both the time and the handling of the dough to a minimum.

Plain Pastry One and one-half cups flour, measured after sifting once, 1-2 cup shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons (about) cold water.

Add salt to flour and cut in shortening. If half butter is used less salt will be needed. Work in water and divide dough in two parts allowing a little more for the upper crust than the under.

Roll on a lightly floured molding board and fit into pie dish, put in filling and brush edge with cold water. Fit on top crust and press edges together. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for ten minutes. Then reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake until filling is done.

Bunco Men Bigule Americans to Play Confidence Game to Tune of Millions

By United Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Confidence men swindle $40,000,000 a year from gullible victims in the United States, government agents have computed, and no amount of cautioning will keep unsuspecting persons from parting with life savings.

There are 400 of the "con" men playing their gaveling trade in the United States and they average $100,000 annually from trusting persons. Mostly their victims are elderly, retired persons.

Herbert N. Graham, government postal sleuth, is the chief worry of the confidence men. His sporadic raids on cities has put dozens of the glib gentlemen in prison and sent other dozens fleeing to foreign countries. Atlanta, Reno, Denver and other cities where bunco men have centered have known the "torpedoing" of a government raid under Graham's thorough direction.

Diamond Reams World Tall, thin-faced, relentless Graham and Lieut. Tommy Diamond of Essex county, N. J., are known internationally for their unceasing drive against swindlers. Diamond learned the business from Graham, but his position as detective for Essex county has been less confining and he has stalked swindlers around the world.

Swindlers have nothing but contempt for those whose confidence they gain and flee. All victims have a keen eye in their hearts, else they wouldn't have any part in the deals which take their money, swindlers say.

ON TEXAS FARMS

For the third year Victor Kunkel of Olney, Young county, has filled his trench silo. Three other farmers are following his example and putting in trench silos this year.

A trench silo with cemented sides and a roof constructed in sandy soil on a ranch in Stonewall county. The filling of it will be made the attraction for a meeting of neighbors to observe the process.

Interest in trench silos in the South Plains section of the state is so great that a demonstration on filling such a silo given in Fisher county recently was attended by farmers and ranchmen from near by counties. The big feed crop this year and the recurring droughts have combined to arouse this interest.

Swapping eight acres of red top cans for 16 acres of the same sandy soil on a ranch in Stonewall county. But it isn't the exchange is made by the increase in feed value between the feed stacks dry and that put up in trench silos. Mr. Horace Bryant of the Martin Ranch in King county accomplished the "swap" in August by filling a trench silo.

All King county is in earnest about conserving feed in trench silos. A barbecue followed the demonstration silo filling on the Martin ranch and after that a farm-to-farm canvass of the county was planned to sell the idea.

North of Weinert Chester Jones put in a trench silo and southeast of Weinert B. T. Bridges planned to begin on one in September as a result of a trench silo demonstration given on the Pace farm southwest of Haskell late in August. More than 75 farmers watched the process on the Pace farm.

Frank Luigi of Scotland in Archer county made the first trench silo in his county. John Herndon of the Back Flat section dug and filled the second one in August.

Thirty farmers and stockmen gathered on the J. C. Miller farm in the Deer Creek community in August to watch a trench silo be LOCKHART—The sale of 430 No. 2 cans of green cream peas for $60.20 was reported by four members of the Caldwell county Better 4-H Products association at a recent meeting, according to Miss Leta H. Bennett, home demonstration agent. This amount was sold in a period covering not quite two months. The peas are sold by four of the leading grocers of Lockhart.

Of the 11 members of the association, seven have their green cream peas standardized for sale, and four have theirs standardized for home use. The seven who have theirs standardized for sale have produced 943 No. 2 cans for sale besides their requirements for home use.

DIMITT—"A ton of food has been taken this year from my garden plot of about 100 feet by 200 feet," Mrs. Ed H. Peacock of Cass county has reported to Miss Izora Clark, home demonstration agent. "Of this amount, half has been used to supply the family table and the other 1000 pounds canned," she said.

Mrs. Peacock lives in one of the driest areas of the Plains country, and she has been able to have this garden by use of an ample supply of water from two storage tanks.

"We have eaten from our garden since early May, and now with our first good showers of the entire year our garden is producing the heaviest yield," she said. "We have had ripe tomatoes since the first of August, and have gathered two tubs of English peas. More than 200 pounds of cabbage have been made into kraut, and there is still more in the garden. We have 700 Bermuda plants and when all are harvested, we will have several bushels of sweet onions."
