DISTRICT WORK OFFICIALS MAKE PLANS FRIDAY

Gorman-Desdemona Job To Start Monday, Eastland Street Job Tuesday.

Start of first of works progress administration projects in Eastland county was announced Friday by district officials from Abilene at Eastland Friday.

R. C. Hope, supervisor of projects and plans, conferring with Eastland county and city officials, announced work on rebuilding of the Gorman to Desdemona road would begin Monday morning.

Hope informed J. F. Little, city manager of Eastland, that grading of Eastland streets—a project estimated to cost $28,000—would start Tuesday morning.

Repair of the Cisco West Ward school will begin Wednesday, Hope stated.

"We've given out a lot of propaganda," Crigler Paschall, director of the National Reemployment Service, which handles employment on the projects, joked, "but now actual work is going to start."

Paschall was interviewing applicants for jobs on the Gorman-Desdemona job Friday. The project, which will start Monday will offer employment for 36 laborers and four truckmen.

A. F. Taylor of the county engineer's office stated the estimated cost of the project was $3,600 and would provide 82 man months of labor.

"I will be glad to interview Monday all eligible workers for the Eastland job," the national reemployment service director stated. The NRS office is in the basement of the courthouse at Eastland.

The Eastland street grading job to start Tuesday, will provide 633 man months of work. Eighty-nine will be employed for a period of seven months. Eighty will be used as laborers and nine as truckmen.

The three Eastland county projects mark the first to start other than an emergency project at Sweetwater, Hope stated.

Other district WPA officials arranging for start of the projects in Eastland Friday were Q. Henning, assistant supervisor, and A. L. Burden, auditor.

Black Hand Or Racketeers Blamed In Officer's Death

GARY, Ind. Oct. 25.—Gambling racketeers or black hands were held responsible today for the slaying of Dan Perrotta, "boy alderman" of Gary, whose bullet-riddled body was found in a ditch near here.

The 23-year-old alderman, the youngest in city history, had led a fight against vice resorts, gambling houses and taverns. Several groups of racketeers had been reported fighting for control of policy rackets.

Japan Is Selling Goods to the U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Japan is selling the United States a record breaking amount of piece goods despite recent campaigns to curtail Oriental import, commerce department statistics revealed today.

At the same time Japan has reduced its purchases of raw cotton to such an extent the balance of trade practically is on an even keel for the first time in two years.

During the first nine months the United States imported $27,239,000 square yards of piece goods, valued at $1,320,000, as compared with 7,287,000 square yards at $363,000 for the entire year of 1934.

MUSSOLINI IS MAKING BIDS FOR NEW PEACE

If reports from Paris are correct Mussolini has presented France and England a proposal for settling the Ethiopian conflict so another stage for averting war in Europe may be reached in a few days, it is expected.

The indications from London were that Britain's stern attitude has not changed and she will reject anything Mussolini is likely to propose.

Secrecy was maintained in Paris as to the nature of the proposals, though various versions, from the inside have been circulated. It seems logical they would entail greater demands for Italian control in Ethiopia than Britain would grant.

There probably will be something definite before Thursday, when the league meets to set the date for penalties against Italy.

After that events will move more rapidly. Much depends on the success of the first Italian drive, expected Monday.

If the Italians rout the Ethiopians and show signs they may subdue the country quickly, strong action is probable.

Townsend Planners Meeting In Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Certain their old age pension plan is the "sole and only hope of a confused and distracted nation" more than 6000 delegates to the Townsend convention settled down to debate.

There is a little matter of marble machines in Eastland county being attended to by the county law officials at this time. A ruling of the higher courts has ruled that the marble machines are the property of the law and they go to the scrap heap. Lots of these machines have been sluffed off on machines where the ball is and rolls around the nail pegs and makes an anxious heart praying for light hole to receive the ball. Over now and mumbledly all come back to its own. City county officials are firm in demands that they be gotten rid of. Plans and confiscation are smaller involved to those who heed the warning.

It still rains and rains. Side lateral roads are getting into muddy state and stories of "I got stuck" are plentiful. It is felt by some that the coming of rains are doing a great deal of damage to the peanut crops. That those who haven't finished planting cotton will find the next crop that is marketed classed by buyer at least a couple of cents lower. Further west there is still cotton in the fields. It is practically all open at this time. Naturally it is an ill omen that doesn't blow somebody's good so fall gardens will get full benefit of the moisture as seeping into the ground. It is much warmer today than yesterday, and the weather man predicts still warmer weather.

Football games that are scheduled throughout the state are in a muddy struggle today and tomorrow. From all reports however all the games will be played. Receipts will no doubt take serious tumble over previous years. The main thing is for those attend the games to see that they have plenty of protection from the weather. Sitting still and being uncomfortable doesn't do system any good and usually as it is good business for the doctor. There are lots of things that a druggist can sell you to ward any danger of catching cold. Prepared. That applies also to those who find it necessary to be in the weather for any kind of need. Usually when we feel that we don't think much about ourselves. That's where the germs lie.

All Marble Tables Being Removed From Brownwood

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 25.—Marble tables are a memory in Brownwood this morning, according to county officers. A tour was made early today of several places which have been operating a number of machines and all were found to be either locked or removed. Operators have taken machines into storage or transferred them to other places. In some business firms they have not been removed, waiting arrival of out-of-town owners.

Roy Renfro, Coleman, owner of the Square Deal Novelty company, told County Attorney Connor Scott late Tuesday that he planned to remove all his machines. He also said he was trading his marble tables for vending machines and music machines.

Mr. Scott said Renfro told him he appreciated the attitude taken by county and district officers and after having read the opinions of the higher courts was in accord with the ruling of the county officials of the fact that there are a number of these cases now going to the higher courts and one here would be an added expense.

Other owners and operators of Brownwood have followed Mr. Renfro's lead and removed their tables. One operator, Mr. Scott said, had been threatening a test case but so far as he knew no steps had been taken.

"If we find any tables in operation anywhere in the county, we are going to take the necessary legal steps to confiscate the tables and arrest the owners and operators under the gambling statute," Mr. Scott said. He also said he did not anticipate trouble from any operator.

ON TEXAS FARMS

together in a small space made the cuttings easy to care for.

Louise Lan, 4-H Club girl of Jarrel, in Williamson county, planted 11,998 feet to 21 varieties of vegetables in her work as garden demonstrator. She estimates the value of the produce used fresh and canned for home use to be $127.32. The expense of the garden was $11.21.

F. J. Smith, 4-H Club boy of Stonewall county, bought two Hereford calves in May weighing 190 and 205 pounds. The calves now weigh 430 and 465 pounds. They were not started on feed until the latter part of August.

MAMA LOVES PAPA

Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland, two of the many stars appearing in Paramount's "The Big Broadcast of 1936," coming Monday to the Connellee Theatre, and featuring Jack Oakie, Burns and Allen and Lyda Roberti. Bing Crosby, Amos 'n' Andy, Ethel Merman, Bill Robinson and Ray Noble and his orchestra contribute specialty numbers in the hilarious comedy.

man, 4-H Club boy of Brannon community in Hopkins county. In the same field his father's harvest ran about 15 bushels less per acre. Young Huffman attributes his success to methods of cultivation.

GOLIAD—N. Borth of Melrose community in Goliad county has made a net profit of $117.81 from his flock during the past three months. Borth has about 266 white leghorn hens.

This poultry demonstrator adheres strictly to all the best methods of poultry production, including proper feeding methods of balanced laying mash, correct amounts of home grain, periodic worming with pure white gasoline, and shipping his eggs through the Goliad co-operative egg shipping associations.

Borth attributes much of his profit to the prices he receives for his infertile eggs. He claims that he has received about $20 more for the period by shipping co-operatively.

JEFFERSON—R. K. Brown of the Mims Chapel community of Marion county reports that he has had good results from a few acres of pop corn which he tried this season. He sold $117 worth of pop corn off of five acres even though rains cut down the yield.

"For the amount of labor and other expenses," Brown said, "I consider pop corn a better money crop than cotton, and I expect to increase my acreage."

MOUNT VERNON—After supplying his friends and neighbors with fruit free of charge and canning enough for home use, Jim Mote, Franklin county farmer, sold $165 worth of peaches from a five-acre orchard.

Mote says that he did not spend much time on his fruit trees this year, but since the income has come in, he is going to cultivate them next year. He also plans to prepare three acres more land for a young orchard.

CANYON—"I strained my fruit juices through milk filter and strainer to obtain clear jelly," Mrs. J. E. Park, co-operator of the Park Home Demonstration Club of Randall county, stated recently.

Mrs. Park explained that this makes clearer jelly and is much faster than when jelly bags are used.

DICKENS—Mrs. T. D. Hale, yard demonstrator in the Prairie Chapel Home Demonstration Club of Dickens county, believes in grassed front yards.

"We have solid turf in our front yard," she said, "and it doesn't seem possible since we only put out the grass the latter part of March."

She kept putting soil over the runners or setting runners in the bare or thin places until the yard was completely covered. Bermuda grass was used.

"The grass has made the house much cooler this summer and it has kept sand and dust out," Mrs. Hale commented, "but best of all, the grass has made the yard an ideal place for the grandchildren to play."

KINGSVILLE—If the seeds of the native evergreen shrub, mountain laurel, are planted soon after maturity, but before they have time to become hard and dry, they will sprout more quickly.

That is the opinion of Mrs. A. Folts, yard co-operator of the Suburb Home Demonstration Club of Kleberg county.

"The seeds should be soaked a few days in water and then planted in tin buckets. When they come up as young sprouts, they can be taken care of through the summer and easily transplanted at the end of the year," Mrs. Folts said.

IMPOSING ARRAY OF STARS PERFORM IN RADIO COMEDY
Rarely has such a diversified and imposing array of stars from the radio, stage and screen been assembled in one picture as in Paramount's "The Big Broadcast of 1936," which comes Monday to the Connellee Theatre, with Jack Oakie, Burns and Allen and Lyda Roberti in the leading roles.

In addition to the regular cast that appears in the fun-provoking comedy are famous personalities who contribute specialty numbers which form a background to the main theme. Bing Crosby, film and radio star, Amos 'n' Andy, world famous for their daily comic black-face sketch on the air waves, Ethel Merman, star of radio and musical comedy hits, Bill Robinson, internationally known negro tap dancer, Mary Boland and Charles Ruggles, noted stage and screen comedians, the Nicholas Brothers, negro dancing youngsters, Willie West and McGinty, and Ray Noble, renowned English band leader and song writer, with his orchestra, all have important roles in the picture.

Directed by Norman Taurog, with dance ensembles staged by LeRoy Prinz, dance expert, "The Big Broadcast" is an hilarious romantic comedy, with most of the action laid against the colorful background of an Havana bacenda, and centers around the amusing experiences of two radio entertainers when a rich young countess enters their lives. Jack Oakie and Henry Wadsworth who operate and perform their own radio station are faced with bankruptcy. Their only hope is to win an international broadcasting contest. George Burns, a radio inventor, with his wife, Gracie Allen, brings the boys his latest invention, the radio eye, a television instrument. Suddenly Lyda Roberti, in the role of the countess, enters their lives and shakes both of them to her Cuban estate on her private yacht, to determine which one she wants to marry.

Surrounded by Miss Roberti's villainous henchmen, the boys make a desperate break for freedom, aided by Wendy Barrie, Miss Roberti's social secretary and companion. The high spirited, thrilling chase, packed with uproarious situations and climaxes, is broadcast by Oakie through the radio eye in his call for help, in which he unwittingly competes in the radio contest.

"I Wished on the Moon," "It's the Animal in Me," "Why Stars Come Out at Night," "Why Dream," "Miss Brown to You," and "Double Trouble" are the hit tunes. Ralph Rainger, Richard Whiting, Dorothy Parker, Leo Robin, Mack Gordon, Harry Revel and Ray Noble wrote the lyrics and music for the various songs.

TIMELY FILM GIVES VIVID, TRUE PICTURE
Native tribes, native towns, community bathing, the administering of justice, scenes of the interior, including Lake Tano, whose importance to English interests in the Sudan and Egypt is undisputed, natives at work and play are but a few of the exciting sequences in the production, "Wings Over Ethiopia," Paramount release, coming today to the Connellee Theatre.

"Wings Over Ethiopia" is a timely drama, giving a complete and impressive picture of a strange, but ancient country, whose culture dates back thousands of years, and whose people are descendants of an ancient race. Their queer mixture of old and modern customs is clearly shown. Haile Selassie, the Emperor upon whose movements, both military and political, the eyes of the world are centered, figures importantly in the film as a vital, powerful personage. He is seen at his various duties, in public, private and social life, represented as a man of high intelligence and culture.

Photographed by L. Wechsler, a Swiss who covered Ethiopia by plane and truck with E. Berna, cameraman, and Walter Mittelehrer, famous Swiss pilot, "Wings Over Ethiopia" is a stirring, accurate "inside" view of a land upon which the limelight of the world has been focussed.

UNION OAK LEAFLET

Published By The Union School Staff Editor-in-Chief..... D. R. Holliday Assistant Editor..... A. G. Crosby Business Manager..... Miss Billie Hines Reporters—Eula Bee Smith, Wynell Smith, Helen Fox

EDITORIAL We feel like, as this is the first issue of the "Union Oak Leaflet," that it might be the appropriate time to state our purpose of organizing such a news item. First, we desire that the community fully understand the teachers' aims and objectives regarding the matter. This effort does not mean less but more work on the part of the teachers. It means extra work.

What you think endures? Do you think a great city or teaming manufacturing state endures; or a prepared constitution, or the best built steamships, or hotels of granite and iron, or any chef d'oeuvres of engineering, forts, armaments? Away! These are not to be cherished for themselves. It is true they fill their hour, the dancers dance, the musicians play for them, the show passes, all does well enough of course, all does very well till one flash of defiance.

LITERARY SOCIETY ORGANIZED Our school met in joint session on Friday, Sept. 11, for the purpose of organizing a literary society. The following officers were elected: President, Florene Crosby; vice president, Adree Fox; secretary-treasurer, Helen Fox.

COLUMBUS DAY PROGRAM The Literary Society presented their first program on Oct. 11. The program consisted of representative speeches and dialogues. Songs were presented by Maurice Hazard and Hervey Fox.

CLASSROOM NEWS (Lower Grades) There have been several absent from our room during the past week due to the fact that harvest time is in full blast, and parents have needed their children.

had acquired during her college vacation days; she would stroll down to the bank, along toward noon, get into her father's office, and wait for him to finish his morning's work so that she could take him home for lunch.

She was sitting on the corner of his desk, on the morning of her third day in Maplehurst, waiting for him to complete a telephone call, when she chanced to notice through the open doorway that some workmen were being very busy in the lobby of the bank.

"Dad," she said, "when he hung up the receiver, 'what are those men doing out there?'"

Mr. Dunn peeked out the door, and leaned back in his chair contentedly.

"Tear gas," he said briefly. "It's a new form of insurance against bank robbers."

"Tear gas?" she repeated. "How do you mean?"

He pushed back his chair and got up.

"Come on in," he said, "and I'll show you."

They walked across the lobby, went through an iron grill, and into the cashier's cage. Mr. Hobart, the cashier, bowed when Jean entered, stroked his lean chin, and said to Mr. Dunn, "Well, they're almost finished."

"See?" said Mr. Dunn. "Under the counter there are three little cylinders—see them? There's tear gas in them, under pressure, with concealed outlets on the lobby side of the counter. Now you see where that man is installing that button effect, in the floor?"

He pointed, and Jean nodded. The worker looked up and grinned.

"That," said her father, "is what touches them off. Step on that, and the lobby'd be full of tear gas in 10 seconds. Now then, suppose this Jackson gang pays us a visit. They come up to the wicket, here, and point a gun at Mr. Hobart and tell him to put up his hands. He obeys, of course; but as he does so he reaches out with his foot—which they can't see him do, because he's only visible from the waist up to anyone on that side of the counter—he reaches out and touches that button. Whooff! Out comes the tear gas, and there's nothing for the bandits to do but run. Neat, isn't it?"

She looked at the contrivance, wide-eyed.

"But you've never had any robbers down here," she said.

"That doesn't mean we never will have any, though," he said. "People like these Jackson gangsters seem to specialize in robbing small-town banks. And we have to be especially careful, because of the pottery plant payroll."

Six miles away there was a large factory, devoted to the manufacture of almost everything in the earthenware line from tiny dower vases up to great sections of sewer pipe in which a man could stand upright. A sprawling, slatternly town surrounded it and housed its workers; but the factory banked in Maplehurst, because one of its directors was a leading stockholder in the Maplehurst bank, and every other Saturday an armored car came over to Maplehurst, just before noon, and got the factory payroll.

"I'll feel better, with this tear gas installation in in time for this coming Saturday," said her father, as they left the cage and started off for home. "I've really been nervous lately, thinking how unprotected we are down here. But a puff of that tear gas is stronger than any gangster's automatic. We're safe now."

They walked slowly home through the pleasant warmth of early summer, and after lunch Jean walked back to the bank with her father, her hand slipped through his arm, chatting aimlessly and affectionately. When he went into the bank again she started leisurely down the street, planning to stop in at a little confectionery shop just beyond the Palace Hotel and visit with the little old lady who had once been her Sunday School teacher.

As she crossed the street and approached the hotel, she saw a man standing on its old-fashioned small-town wooden veranda. She gave a little start and looked again; surely there was something familiar about the set of those shoulders and the way he cupped his hands about a match to light a cigaret? As she drew near the man turned and faced her. He looked at her in surprise, and then hurried to meet her. Sandy!

The old throbb of excitement that the mere sight of him seemed to arouse jarred her nerves once more.

"Told you I was going to drop in and look you up didn't I?" said Sandy. "I keep my promises and I waste no time. Where are you going now?"

"Why—why, nowhere special," said Jean. "I was just—"

"Fine," said Sandy, taking her arm and swinging into step beside her. "We'll take a little walk, and you can show me the sights. I just got in. Driving through this part of the state, and I remembered this was your town, so I checked in at the hotel, and here I am."

They went down the street, past the brief business district and the little red railroad station, and entered the rather unkempt park which Maplehurst maintained on the bank of the sluggish river which looped itself about the west side of the town. Sandy maintained a steady fire of small talk and it was not until they had sat down on an iron bench overlooking the river that she suddenly remembered the thing that had been bothering her.

"Sandy," she said, putting a hand on his wrist and looking up at him soberly. "I want you to explain something to me."

"Yeah?" He looked down and how serious she was and became equally serious himself. "What is it?"

"That—that day we went to the police station—remember? I said we'd been out canoeing on the Friday before, when that—that robbery happened. Well, I got to thinking about that on the train coming down here, and I remembered something. I remembered that it wasn't Friday when we went canoeing. It was Thursday."

She looked up at him earnestly. His eyes met hers, unwavering.

"You told me it was Friday," she said, trying to be severe, but succeeding only in being rather girlishly pathetic. "You knew it wasn't Sandy—I know you did. But you made me think it was. Sandy, you've just got to explain it."

U. S. Prohibits Any Camera Shots In Her Mail Rooms

WASHINGTON. — Elaborate preparations of gangsters for a supposed post office robbery have led to a ban on photographs of post office workrooms, the post office department announced.

Five men recently requested officials of a second class post office where large sums of money are handled for permission to photograph the workroom. The men said they were permitted to photograph four out of five offices they visited.

Later the five were arrested by police and identified as members of a well known gang. Post office authorities, in issuing the warning, said that "no doubt they intended to burglarize the post office when conditions were such that they were sure they could obtain a large sum of money."

No photographs of post office workrooms may now be made without permission from the Post Office Department here.

WHAT HAS THIS DINOSAUR TO DO WITH MOTOR OIL ?

The Sinclair dinosaurs symbolize the vast age of the crude oils refined into Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oils. Generally speaking, the longer a crude oil has mellowed and filtered in the earth, the tougher the lubricating film it will produce.

Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania each give a lubricating film capable of withstanding a pressure of more than 3 tons per square inch—extra protection for every moving part of your car engine.

Look for the dinosaur on the Tamper-Proof cans in which Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oils are sold.

France and Japan Seeking Submarine Supremacy In 1936

By United Press
CHERBOURG, France.—The French policy of maintaining the lead it already has established among navies of the world in submarines was advanced another stage last week when the 2,000-ton submersible "Beveziers" was launched here.

This vessel, when completed, will bring France's total submarine fleet to the impressive figure of 75, this including the small coastal submarine, Junon, which took the water a few weeks ago.

With the steady increase in France's submarine flotillas, the ministry of the navy becomes increasingly opposed to all moves by other naval powers to restrict or abolish undersea craft as part of the navies of the nations. The French Admiralty not only is embarked upon a program of maintaining its undersea craft strength but of increasing it.

During the next 12 months, submarine construction will go forward at a steady pace until, by the time when the Washington Treaty is due to terminate at the end of 1936, it will have the formidable total of 75,076 tons in submarines. This will be second in tonnage to the Japanese strength, but it is believed the French submarine fleet will outclass the Japanese in numbers.

U. S. To Rank Third
 The figures for submarine tonnage of the powers at that date will be:
 Japan 79,777 tons

PUBLIC ENEMIES

Not so innocent as one might think is this candidate for "public enemy" of the highway dishonors.

By inconsiderately edging his car across the safety lines of cross-walks at street corners, the Cross-Walk Creeper forces pedestrians into danger zones. Many serious accidents result.

Good drivers are considerate of others—they obey the law by stopping back of the cross-walk.

France 77,076 tons
 United States ... 58,800 tons
 Great Britain ... 52,194 tons
 Italy 46,437 tons

In refusing to abandon the submarine as a naval weapon, France has shared the same views as the Japanese. Both nations, in resisting efforts by Great Britain to bring about an agreement for the abolition of undersea craft, have

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

As the ice in a glass melts, it displaces its own weight of water, and melts to a volume equal to a volume of water of that weight, which causes no overflow.

France has adopted the policy in recent times of keeping most submarines in the Mediterranean while maintaining large units in the Atlantic.

From reliable sources it is estimated that France has 50 of its 75 submarines in the Mediterranean, compared with Italy's 59. Great Britain is calculated to have 13 submarines in the Mediterranean, but is expected to increase this number if it decides further to strengthen naval plans in the inland sea in view of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Of total tonnage stationed in the Mediterranean, Britain has by far the largest, it is calculated. The British Admiralty has five battleships either at Gibraltar or around the entrance to the Suez Canal, off the coast of Egypt, against three French battleships and two Italians attached to the Mediterranean fleets of these two powers.

Strength of Forces Shown
 Other figures showing Mediterranean forces are:
 Battle cruisers—Britain, 2; France, none; Italy, none.
 Aircraft carriers—Britain, 2; France, 1; Italy, none.
 Cruisers with 8 inch guns—Britain 8; France, 6; Italy, 6.
 Cruisers with 6 inch guns—Britain, 10; France, 1; Italy, 7.
 Destroyers—Britain, 3; France, 33; Italy, 9.
 Torpedo boats—Britain, none; France, none; Italy, 35.

As France carries through submarine construction program, thus rendering more remote agreement on restriction of this type of war vessel, it is anticipated other maritime powers gradually will be forced to increase their undersea craft, unless the dim hope of the long awaited naval conference is fulfilled and results in an international agreement of submersibles.

held that these vessels are not considered as weapons of attack, but of defense.

Both the United States and Germany recently expressed their agreement to abolish the submarine, it is believed, thereby siding with the British argument, but France and Japan have refused to participate in any conversations aimed at banishing the submersible.

Russia Leans Toward France
 It is stated that Russia is now ranging itself on the side of France and Japan and is preparing a program of large submarine construction, thus making more remote the prospect of agreement at any future naval conference on banning or severely limiting this type of warcraft.

Not only in total tonnage but in individual size, France keeps the lead among the maritime powers in submarines. The giant submersible cruiser, Surcouf, of 3,500 tons, still is the largest in the world and is capable of meeting on equal terms on the surface many craft before which other submarines would be forced to retreat.

The newest addition to the fleet, the Beveziers, constitutes a powerful fighting unit, as she will be equipped with 11 torpedo tubes. Propelled by engines developing 8,000 horsepower, the Beveziers is a sister craft of the Agosta, Questant, Sidi-Ferruch, Etax and Casablanca, all in course of completion under the 1930 program.

Assignment Not Revealed
 It is not yet revealed whether these new craft will be attached to the Atlantic or Mediterranean squadrons of the French navy.
