Mississippi Threatens To Close Cotton Gins

Farmer in town yesterday offered to bet he could find enough men in one block to offer 600 brand new, original ways to save the whole world.

We—that is most of us—thought it was brave and great when Bill Murray shut the oil wells down with soldiers. Most of us asked Governor Sterling's similar action in East Texas, although many who cheered Bill for the same action did the same thing because it put them in the position of either cheering the guy they wanted to cuss or being inconsistent.

Martial law now looms for Mississippi. Bilbo would use soldiers to shut down the gins and oil mills.

Martial law appears to be coming into real vogue.

It all makes us wonder whether martial law is not getting to be as stylish as Princess Eugenie hats.

Are those hats made out of cotton? If so, let's dike the men and boys up in Robin Hood bonnets too. We feel toward Eugenie's hat like we do long dresses—it all depends upon the type that wears 'em.

Returning to martial law. If you can run soldiers out to stop gins and oil mills and oil wells and pipe lines, why can't you use 'em to pick cotton, or run the buses off the highways or make folks pay up the back installments on the radio or guard the city gates to make folks buy-at-home?

Yeah! Martial law for crude purposes looked pretty good to us. Radical measures to meet un-heralded situations are all right so long as the guys with the power to invoke 'em use common sense.

If martial law can be used to hike cotton and oil prices the guy that does it will make a lot of votes.

But, after being elected to one new term on the strength of such moves he may find himself back practicing law or something after the ultimate results are seen.

The Herald Saturday received the following from Mrs. H. F. Howie and children: "We take this method of expressing our sincere appreciation to all those aiding in the act sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce."

Mrs. Howie alluded to the award fund sponsored by the Junior Chamber through The Herald, following the death of H. F. Howie, from gunshot wounds, while on duty.

Acreage Blocked In Ector County For New Wildcat

Acreage is being blocked for another wildcat in Ector county, by John Naylor of Fort Worth and others, according to information here yesterday.

Drilling to 4,500 feet, unless production is obtained shallower, is planned at the common corners of sections 10, 11, 14 and 15, block 44, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey. It was learned in one quarter.

Mr. Naylor holds the lease to the north 200 acres of section 15, block 44, the land belonging to J. W. Buchanan.

A Fort Worth report said it was understood a tentative location has been made in the southeast corner of section 15, block 44, about two miles west and a quarter mile south of Galt-Brown and Penn's No. 1. Cowden, which recently was plugged and abandoned at 4,430 feet after sulphur water increased at that depth to a hole full. The report added that Shell Petroleum Corporation and Elliott Cowden, who owns much land in the area, had agreed to contribute acreage towards the operation.

Other lease holders in the vicinity include The California Co., Penn Oil Co., The Texas Co., Gulf Production Co., the Texas-Pacific Coal & Oil Co., Broderick & Calvert and Theo. Carter of Austin.

About 4 1/2 miles southeast of the reported tentative location by Naylor and others and about 3 1/2 miles southeast of the Galt-Brown and Penn dry hole, Casteel and McCurdy and others recently staked a location for No. 1 E. F. Cowden, a scheduled 4,500-ft. test due to be spudded by October 1.

By FLOYD KING

There are three or four remarks that a circus man hears continuously. Whether the big show is exhibiting in the Canadian Northwest or adjacent to a Southern cotton plantation in Georgia, the questions the showman hears from outsiders are identically the same. These remarks are:

"What do you do in the winter; travel in Florida, I suppose?"

"Why do you have mostly gray horses?"

"It must be a hard life; when do you sleep?"

"Where do you go from here?"

Maybe it is because the circus has the fundamental qualities it had fifty years ago. It is the old time perennial bloomer. That is the reason we know to a mathematical certainty what you millions of ownpeople like best in the Big Show, and what they are curious about.

Now regarding "mostly all gray horses," for instance. Circus owners know you are interested in the wild animals, the horses, the elephants and the old moses back "it must be tough on you when it rains." I have been asked a thousand questions about the "gray horses."

Not Always Smilth

You see a slip of femininity cavorting on the back of a horse, executing poses, and throwing a smile now and then. The fair rider is perfectly at ease when sitting on the state-of-the-art haunches, for she is only letting the horse get its gait and at the same time, get her own "wind" and courage. When the rider gets ready to turn a somersault on the galloping horse, there are no smiles. It is a mighty serious business. Intuitively they know just how to throw their bodies to make a perfect landing. It takes years of practice and study and innumerable falls.

There was George St. Leon, a fine, manly fellow who came to this country from Austria with his mother and three sisters. His folks had been performers for generations. One night just as he was turning a somersault on his horse, the animal stumbled, George fell heavily on a sickle. His riding days were over. And now he acts as ringmaster for his wife, who, too, is a famous equestrian.

Circus performers for the most part are fatalists. They seldom think of accidents. If one comes, they shrug their shoulders, and say it is part of the game, some destined to get it, others not. About 999 out of every thousand accidents are caused by the fault of the performer, but when some bit of their apparatus breaks or works loose.

The simple looking feat of one supporting his body on one hand resting on another's head looks easy enough, but it takes years of practice. Indeed the training starts when the performers are only five or six years of age, and back of this are the years of heredity. Their act in the ring only requires five or six minutes, but between shows in the afternoon, the rings are always filled with performers trying new feats and listening to the advice of the elders. The acrobat, who sails from trapeze across a yawning space, executing a double somersault and landing safely in the arms of his comrade, knows nothing of executing a somersault on a tight wire, or riding on the back of a horse.

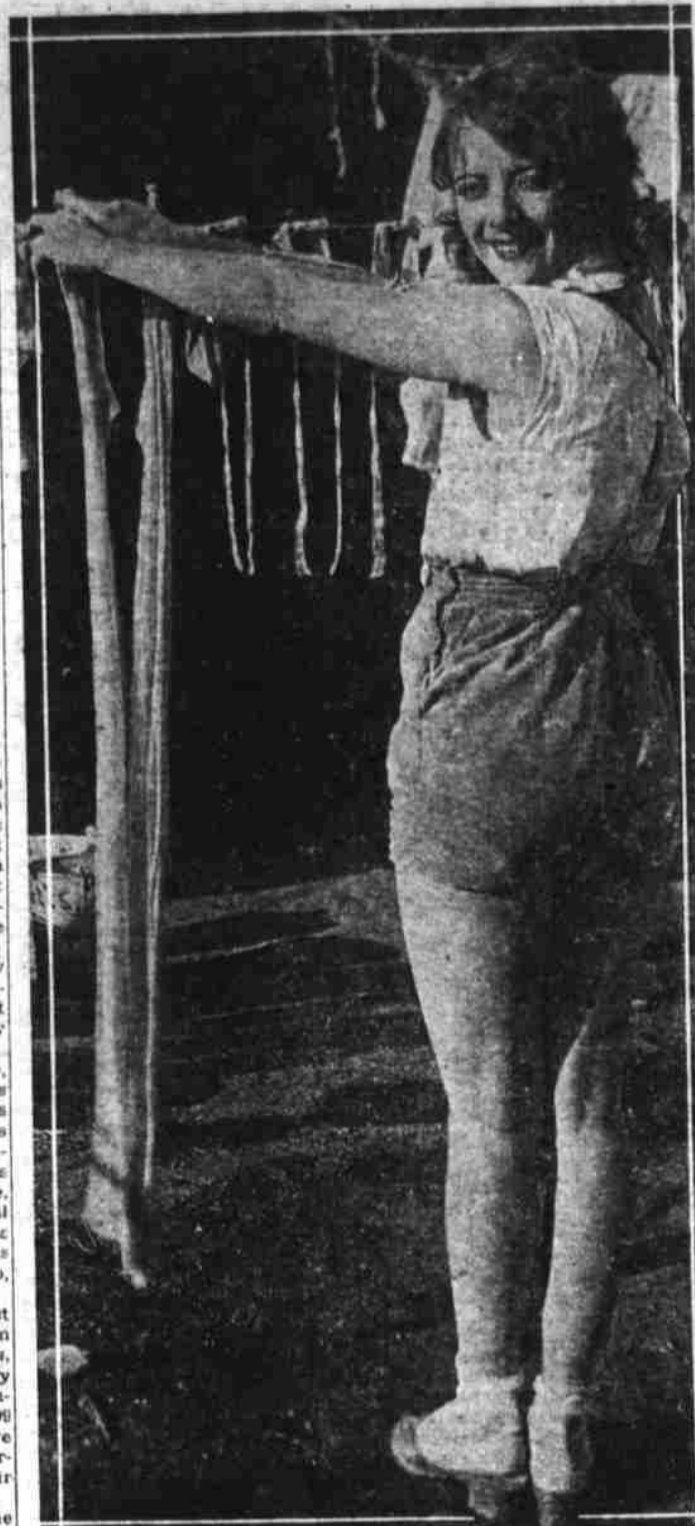

A Hard Life

You made no mistake when you said the life was hard. There is hardly any other kind of existence just like it. For twenty years I have been associated with the circus, and I know it knows nothing to herald its coming. I have many pretty broad promises to the public as to just what they are to see. Each year we are on the road 40 weeks, and during my decades of association with the "white tops," I figure I have slept in just about 5,000 different beds in an equal number of different cities and towns and have traveled about 400,000 miles.

Did you ever go down and see the circus come in? Hundreds of people do. Many of them haven't failed to see the circus come in since they were kids. They get up at 4 a. m. and greet the show trains. It used to be my job to meet the trains and point out the different crossings that had been prepared for unloading. You would be surprised to see not only the men, real captains of industry, but hundreds of women. Yes, when it's circus time there is many a dirty dish in the kitchen sink.

Now, getting back to the "gray" horses with a circus. It is just one of those things. When one thinks of a circus horse, he naturally thinks it must be gray, and so it is for the most part. But the bareback horses, commonly called the robin backs, are white. For a rider to maintain his balance on a galloping horse, there must be plenty of rosin sprinkled on the animal's haunches. On a white horse the rosin is invisible; on a black horse it shows, thus the question is solved.

In Winter

Where do you go in winter? It is only the performers, musicians and workmen who leave the circus when it disbands in the far south, late in November. The winter season is the hardest time of the year. New wagons must be built, new seats, equipment, etc. Circus property is highly perishable and must be replaced, for the most part, after a strenuous season. New routes must be laid out and considered, new acts engaged. Getting a circus had the wreck, and so on Saturday, Sept. 19th the Al G. Barnes Circus would reach Big Spring. There will exhibit in Big Spring. There will be performances at 2 and 8 p. m., the doors opening an hour earlier.

And that question, "Where do you go from here?" Most circus followers can't truthfully answer the question. A city or town to them just means one more day on the circus calendar. The identity of a city or town means little, whether it is in agricultural Connecticut, or on the prairies of Montana; it simply means it is another day and two more performances. It is a common fact that often the Al G. Barnes Circus would reach a town, get the tents all set and ready for business and Mr. Barnes would remark,—"Say, what town is this?" or "Isn't this the town where that sleeping car was destroyed by fire?" Every town has its identity, without a name, to a circus man. He knows it as the town with a "big hill," or where such and such a circus had the wreck, and so on.

Saturday, Sept. 19th the Al G. Barnes Circus will exhibit in Big Spring. There will be performances at 2 and 8 p. m., the doors opening an hour earlier.

PYROIL Heat-Proof Liquefied Graphite A SUPER LUBRICANT

We have recently taken the district distribution in a group of counties in this section of the state. Before taking the distribution of Pyroil, we carefully investigated this new product as to its claims and merits to be sure that we were going to handle a meritorious, honest product and a clean piece of merchandise. We are convinced that Pyroil will be as staple as gasoline, oil and other products that are used in automobiles, trucks and other internal combustion motors.

We are not trying to put over any high-power advertising campaign with nothing to back it up. Some statements may appear to smack of this kind of stuff, but the Pyroil Company will back and guarantee all claims made by them with a money back guarantee. Go to your gasoline and oil dealer, have him fill your tank with your favorite gas, take a reading from your speedometer; then when you refill take another reading to ascertain the mileage per gallon; after refilling put in Pyroil as directed. After running a few days notice the difference in gas and the performance of your car.

Pyroil penetrates any oil filter, screen, or duct—goes anywhere oil will go—will not clog, foul or short electrical equipment. Keeps carbon off plugs. Carbon will not adhere to Pyroil-treated surfaces. Pyroil is conveyed to the top of the motor, valves, stems, guides, rings, pistons and cylinder walls in a gas vapor. It is rubbed into the bearing surface under pressure by the motor's action. It penetrates the microscopic pores and interstices of the metal, filling them to a smooth, glassy surface, which releases friction drag 30 per cent to 50 per cent—increasing power and mileage.

It cannot be washed off by raw gasoline, cannot be burned off by any degree of heat, is of great value in winter when excessive chocking thins and destroys ordinary oil. Moving parts are actually kept apart, hence wear cannot occur.

In hundreds of cars of all makes, under supervision of competent engineers, where Pyroil was used in motor head and crank case, these cars were driven up to 25 miles with no sign of heating or wear after every drop of lubricating oil had been drained from the base. It is an everlasting element that cannot be destroyed. It "stays put" on bearings, regardless of heat, friction and dilution and need only be replenished in small amount to prevent positively wear which is the source of practically all motor troubles.

In connection with our automobile and sale service we operate a repair and overhaul department. We will give you expert and dependable workmanship and will condition the job with Pyroil—with your consent.

We have some real bargains in used cars

Mrs. Jimmie Mason Entertains Friends And Club Members

Congenial Contract Group Surprises One of Its Members With Lovely Shower and Clever Party

One of the cleverest and most original parties of the past summer season was given by Mrs. Jimmie Mason Friday afternoon when she entertained the members of the Congenial Contract Club and her friends and gave a surprise shower for Mrs. Hayes Stripling.

The house was beautifully decorated with pink rosebuds cut from the hostess' garden. The bridge tables were spread with pink and blue organdie. The hand-made tallies contained pictures of babies.

Each of the club members brought, in addition to a gift, a quilt block for an animal quilt on which they had embroidered their names and these were cleverly presented to the honoree.

During the refreshment hour the guests were shown into the dining room in which the afternoon's color of blue and pink were carried out. The centerpiece was a chimney with a huge stork on his nest and the table cloth was rubber sheeting. The place cards were pink roses and lily of the valley.

On blue plates covered with pink dillies, infant salad was served with orangeade which was presented to the members in nursing bottles and straws. The paper napkins carried out the same motif in the pink and blue.

The gifts were cleverly concealed by the chimney until time for their presentation.

During the games, Mrs. Romele made high member's score and Mrs. Watts, jr., visitor's high. Mrs. Watt's prize was a baby rattle.

There were two table of visitors. Mrs. O. R. Bollinger, V. W. Latson, A. Knickerbocker, E. W. Potter, Clyde Watts, jr., T. A. Slaughter, L. A. Talley, Herbert Keaton, I. H. Hamlett, Byron Neal.

The members were Mmes. C. C. Carter, M. A. Cook, W. H. Romele, Hugh Duncan, T. E. Johnson, Hayes Stripling and Raymond Wism.

Soup Secrets Revealed From Foreign Lands

Soup for luncheon or dinner, yes! But for breakfast—well, imagine!

Mrs. Myra Oliver Dougan, who is to be in Big Spring the week of Sept. 29 to conduct a free cooking school for women readers of the Daily Herald, has worked and chatted with chefs and cooks of many foreign lands. They tell her strange tales of native dishes and customs, and hard as it is for the flinty American to believe, there are races who can down a plate of soup in the morning.

And travelers on French boats know that onion soup is one of the choice breakfast dishes—made with garlic, too. Then there was the chef on the leisurely cruising boat one summer who told Mrs. Dougan more strange things about the soup dish—that in Sweden and the North of Europe strawberry soup is popular; and in Burgundy, fine apple soup is made; and in certain parts of Germany, the rosebush is utilized in making soups.

All the French are great for soups. They use onions generously, goose fat, egg plants, and mushrooms. And a favorite dish with French sailors is Esau's pottage—containing a little of everything—onions, smoked sausage, lentils, rice or olive oil.

In the regions of the sun, soup enjoys the same popularity. The dish from North Africa, told to Mrs. Dougan by a boat cook, is made from cooking tomatoes, onions, mint, nuttin and dried apricots. It is served with vermicelli. And a Russian novelist with a sturdy appetite proclaimed enthusiastically about Ukrainian beet-rot soup—which has to cook for four hours!

The many-delicious recipes which Mrs. Dougan will demonstrate in her cooking school are as tasty as the tang of foreign dishes—and much more easily prepared. She will make use of the modern trend of efficiency in household work and demonstrate those dishes which may be cooked quickly, and still maintain appetizing qualities.

Mrs. Virginia Peden, of Abilene, who is making her home at 210 Johnson street, will accept pupils in violin commencing Monday. She will give recitals with Mrs. Bruce Frazier, who is planning to teach voice and piano.

Mrs. Peden is a well-known entertainer and has performed here as a member of the Brazilian Trio with which she was connected for three years. She taught violin in Abilene for four years and directed the ten-piece Victory Class orchestra.

She is an artist pupil of Christian Thaulow, head of the violin department of Simmons University, who particularly recommends her ability to teach children. D. O. Wiley, director of the Simmons Cowboy Band, says that she is a conscientious teacher.

Howard County Honor Roll

One of a series of sketches on careers of former boys and girls of Big Spring and Howard County who have gained success in their chosen professions.

FLORENCE GERTRUDE DAVIES

If you should go into the dramatic circles of Southern California hunting for a Big Spring girl named Gertrude Davies you would be greeted with blank stares. No matter how sure you might be that she was just around the corner, you could get no information about her.

But if you should ask for Florence Gertrude Davies everybody would have something to say. "Miss Florence Davies? Of course we know her! She's the president of the Santa Monica Educational Little Theatre. She's the dramatic coach for..." In short, she's this and she's that. But she's always Florence and never Gertrude.

In spite of the shift in names, you would find Florence Gertrude, the same sunny, smiling woman that she was a girl. More polite, considerably more reserved, but still the same underneath.

Gertrude is drawing on the talent that in her childhood days enabled her to give the best gypsy and fortune-telling readings in town. She teaches English and Dramatics in the Lincoln Junior High School in Santa Monica; but teaching is a small part of her duties.

The Educational Little Theatre is one of the outstanding juvenile accomplishments of its kind in that part of the country. It is an organization of children in their teens, who design and make their own sets and their own costumes for their plays. Gertrude is their director.

They have given plays from Barrie and other equally well-known playwrights. One of their most popular plays, however, was a dramatization of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Gertrude wasn't interested in the story, but she finally did it to please him.

This winter when her group of children produced the play and it was the biggest success of the year, she recalled with gratitude the assistance of her uncle, which led to her knowledge of the story.

Gertrude has taken active part in the Santa Monica Community Theatre; in the Festival of Oratorical Arts, sponsored by the Drama League of Southern California and has represented the Los Angeles Oratorical Association in San Francisco at state meetings for the past several years.

She organized, in the Lincoln Junior High School, the first class in speech correction for defective children in Santa Monica, and this is becoming more and more one of her pet interests.

Gertrude obtained her A.B. from Texas Christian University in Ft. Worth and her M.A. from the University of Southern California. She is now working on her doctor's degree.

Mrs. Eva Runyan was elected secretary of the club.

The members carried their own refreshments with them and had a very enjoyable session.

They will meet this coming Friday with Mrs. Ada Ramsey at the home of Mrs. L. R. Kuykendall, and do some quilting.

Majority Of Local College Students Gone

It's not so much the colleges as the railroads that lead to them, that are feeling the effects of the depression this year. Students are not travelling so far from home. The schools in such cities as Dallas and Fort Worth are reporting the largest enrollments from the home town in many years.

For the same reason Lubbock and Abilene are especially strong drawing cards for West Texas students; so are the state-endowed schools. Few students are going out of the state.

The proportion of last spring's graduates from the Big Spring High School who are going to college this fall is about 25 per cent.

"Trouble in the Balkans" By W. C. McGeehan

(Lincoln MacVegh, The Dial Press)

No, no, no. Wait a minute! This is no history, no war book, no economic treatise. It's a funny one at that.

Devotees of the sports columns (if they ever read book reviews) would not need this warning. They would recognize the name of McGeehan at once as that of one of America's most popular sporting columnists.

Mr. McGeehan and his wife (he calls her throughout the book the lady who is driving me) decide to motor through the mountainous Balkans for the fun of the thing. Mr. McGeehan does the motoring, Otto, the super-car, does the interpreting and McGeehan tells the world about it.

Adventures of Sorts They had plenty of adventures. Mr. McGeehan was not interested in sports particularly except the pastime of all Americans in Europe, that of seeking the best wines and beers. He made trips to all the famous old breweries, reverential trips, and did his share to drink the Balkan restaurants dry most regretfully proclaiming it when he felt he did not do his duty.

The funniest story is that of the Sangerbund Battle in Vienna, the home of Jeritas.

McGeehan wanted to write but he was located near the Sangerbund which was a music hall. The noise distracted him so that he couldn't work. He complained to the police and got no results. So he called in a friend, Doc Kelton and they decided on a counter-irritant. He and Doc, neither of whom could sing, started the song "On the Sidewalks of New York."

The house detective came up to complain. They told him that McGeehan was Irving Berlin and Doc was Rudy Valle and that they were in Vienna to open a Sangerbund of their own and would try out his voice. So he joined in on "The Sidewalks of New York" as a tenor.

The next to appear on the scene was the assistant house manager. He was introduced and was soon adding a bass voice to the American song.

After they had finished, they noticed quiet across the way. The Sangerbund had given up singing. Soon they were coming across in a body to congratulate the quartet. And Doc as Rudy Valle was given a flattering reception.

I saw it first more than a year ago when I visited here, and was a frequent visitor on the Hill the few months I worked in Big Spring. I have visited it at all times of the day and the very best time of all is just after a clear sunrise. It doesn't take an artist to appreciate the views from scenic Drive. Last summer I took my sisters for their first trip up and coming round the mountain opposite the little lake below we saw an ideal picture. The sun had just risen and everything just beginning to stir after a peaceful night. Going to the lake or tank for water was a small herd of cattle, a long freight was pulling out of the T&E yards with a lazy roll of smoke going skyward and on beyond all that was the farms and homes dotting the landscape. Those who like their pictures tinted just take along a pair of brown shades and there you are.

Overdue
I could go on describing the many things to be seen from the Drive but, like someone telling you the ending of a book, I had rather you see for yourselves. I talked with some business men here last year in regard to making an early morning and late afternoon call at all hotels and taking transient guests out to see the wonderful views from scenic Drive and met with genuine encouragement but with my work at the time and the fact that most men are weary of women drivers, I hesitated to undertake it. However, I still think it a good way to advertise the surrounding beauty of your town besides the beautiful homes and grounds, nesting against the hills in Edwards Heights. I am an ardent believer in, making the most of what you have and seeing our home town and state first. Therefore I hope each and everyone who has never made the scenic Drive, especially in the early morning, will soon do so and don't forget to take the colored shades if you like tinted pictures.

Maurice Chevalier At Ritz In "The Smiling Lieutenant"

Today's Show Big Musical Comedy Hit

Frenchman Supported By Claudette Colbert and Charles Ruggles

A tremendous combination of acting talent, directorial genius, writing wisdom and music-making magic have been woven into a thrilling and joyous motion picture entertainment, "The Smiling Lieutenant."

Bringing Maurice Chevalier back to the screen after his European tour in another rollicking romance which combines all the attractive features of his former screen successes, "The Smiling Lieutenant" comes to the Ritz theater for a three-day run, starting today.

Two gorgeous leading ladies, the brunette Claudette Colbert, the blonde Miriam Hopkins, keep things lively for the smiling Frenchman, whose voice, recently given to thrilling radio audiences, will have full opportunity to express his personality in song in "The Smiling Lieutenant." Charles Ruggles, the joyous imitator of a score of film hits, gives of his laugh-making talents to this new picture.

The story deals with a sprightly lieutenant of the guards, mostly in love with a charming cabaret entertainer, for whom he is willing to sacrifice the joys of hachelonned. Before he can accomplish his purpose, however, he is snatched up by a princess who mistakes his smile for a proposal and forces him into unwilling matrimony. After marriage he forsakes his duty wife for happiness with the girl of his choice. But his wife, determined to win his regard, learns the secrets of charm from his sweet heart, and tears his heart between love with duty or without.

Into this humorous yet sincere love story, Chevalier has woven his inimitable personality, emphasizing his joy in the romance in song. The songs, five of them were written especially for the French favorite by none other than the famous Oscar Straus, Vincent you walk king, and by Richard Clifford Grey. The music is lovely, hitting the lyrics with Chevalier's singing, as always, delightful.

"The Smiling Lieutenant" was directed by that genius of subtle humor, Ernest Lubitsch, whose delicious touches enveloped "The Love Parade" and even "The Sign of the Cross" in its patriotic theme. The story is projected against the colorful background of post-war Vienna and picturesque middle Europe.

Winnie Lightner Is Given Fish Bath In "Gold Dust Gertie"

Winnie Lightner, who comes to the Queen Theater Monday in "Gold Dust Gertie," wears the same old comedy, which also features Olsen and Johnson, has something to say in praise of the latest in beauty baths.

"Anna Held rates the credit for originating the milk bath. Several actresses have taken credit for the champagne bath, designed for its purposes than beauty and one famous movie star once advocated a butter-milk bath for the skin you love to touch—but take from little Winnie a fish bath tops them all. You take this bath in a boat, entirely surrounded by fish of every sort and condition. I am just recovering from the effects of two days spent in taking such a bath. Glad only in a bathing suit and a pair of duck trousers, without even stockings to keep the fish off my legs, endured the rigors of deep sea fish bathing with only Olsen and Johnson, as companions in misery.

"The script called for the three of us to be submerged in a speed boat and come to the surface after a heavy wave had passed over us with the boat loaded with fish. After trying the scene at sea, with little success except seasickness and the loss of fish we made it on dry land. At least it was dry when we started. Tons of water were dumped on me and my boy friends—then tons of fish—live fish that had been transported twenty miles from the sea for their movie debut.

"After two days of screaming and dodging among the wriggling denizens of the deep I can't look even a gold fish in the face." I don't know exactly what fish baths are good for, but I recommend them highly," Winnie says. "Like the boy hitting his head with a hammer, it seems so good when you quit."

Others in the cast of "Gold Dust Gertie" are Dorothy Christy, Claude Gillingwater, Arthur Hoyt, George Byron, Vivian Oakland, Charley Grapewin, Charles Judels and Virginia Sale. Lloyd Bacon directed.

DIX 'CIMARRON' PERFORMANCE EQUALED WITH JACKIE COOPER IN SHOW 'YOUNG DONOVAN'S KID'

Following up his history-making performance in "Young Donovan's Kid" at the Ritz Wednesday and Thursday, Dix's new role that of a New York East Side gangster of a decade ago, provides a perfect characterization for this ever-popular and decidedly talented screen favorite.

Jackie Cooper, lovable child actor and seven-year-old star of "Skippy," shares honors with Dix. "Young Donovan's Kid" is a performance, one which shapes up in the opinion of this reviewer, as the most remarkable screen work ever done by a juvenile. This boy, certainly is destined to become an outstanding fan favorite following his role in this production.

"Young Donovan's Kid" is Radio Pictures' adaptation of B. B. Gow's popular novel "Big Boy" of a New York gang, is forced through the death of a pal to take over the rearing of a young boy. Out of this association comes great love and the desire to send the boy straight. But his every move for good is misinterpreted and he is hurried into a madhouse of troubles which tears the boy from his arms. The climax, in which the boy is restored to him, is one of the most dramatic scenes ever transferred to celluloid.

Theme A Welcome Relief
"Young Donovan's Kid" is a far cry from the usual gun-popping, man-of-war, character pictures of deals with reformations and beatitudes. The film comes as a welcome relief from the hackneyed crook pictures of the machine gun and racketeering type.

The picture has been admirably cast. Dix reaches supreme heights as the steady-eyed killer who undergoes a complete regeneration through the love of the little waif and the beautiful Marion Shilling. His is a role which combines ruggedness, gentleness, tender love, bitter hatred and stark drama, and Dix always the master of any characterization, contributes a performance as effective as that of his Yancey Cravat in "Cimarron."

Entire Cast Scores
Jackie Cooper more than successfully makes the change from his light comedy "Skippy" role to the pathos of the Midge Murray characterization. His interpretation is superb. Marion Shilling is a lovable heroine, while Frank Sheridan makes an ideal Father Dan. Fred Niblo directed in workmanlike fashion.

"Young Donovan's Kid" is ideal

Dick Arlen Will Appear At H-F Ritz

Louise Dresser Superb In Role of Calamity Jane of Dance Hall Fame

Thrills served up in true Western style are promised with the advent of "Caught," newest Richard Arlen picture, to the Ritz theater on Friday next. For Paramount has obtained full of excitement this story based on the life and adventures of Calamity Jane, female counterpart of Jesse James, who flourished in the rugged West in the days of Wild Bill Hecox.

Arlen, as the hero of the story, is an officer in the U. S. Cavalry who is ordered to clean out the gambling den and dance hall operated by Calamity and used by her as the headquarters for a gang of rapturing rustlers.

Louise Dresser, who was lately seen as Will Rogers' determined wife in "Lightnin'," plays the original leading feminine role of Calamity. She is seen as a leather-lunged, gun-totin', stogie-smoking queen of the badlands with an enduring lack of faith in all mankind and a lasting bitterness toward all the saint conventions.

Through the various exciting episodes of the production she is the undisputed leader both in the gun-battles and in the encounters which call for brains to evade the law. Not one spark of tenderness does she show for anyone until the events around her recall an episode of her youth. It is then that she takes pity on the captive Arlen and orders him freed from a violent death at the hands of her own henchmen.

The climax forms a rousing finale for a picture that carries a genuine measure of pulse-pumping thrill.

The feminine side of the romantic thread which runs through the plot is played by Frances Dee, brown-eyed graduate of the extra ranks who has landed in the front rank of film with her portrayals in "Playboy of Paris," "Along Came Youth" and "June Moon."

"Caught" was directed by Edward Sloman, who made "Gun Smoke"

Seen Without Wheeler "Everything's Rosie" is Woolsey's first solo starring show—the first time he has appeared in pictures without teaming with Bert Wheeler. That he can more than capably carry a characterization alone is decisively shown in this production. He's a real star in his own right.

Anita Louise, beautiful and charming blonde, and John Derr-ow, one of the screen's most capable juveniles, furnish the romance. Clyde Bruckman, responsible for a number of Harold Lloyd's greatest successes, directed from a story by Al Rosenburg.

Glancing at the industrial situation in this city alone it was found that: (1) One thousand two hundred and twenty men are employed in eight industries. (2) These men were receiving a combined payroll of $3,175,000 for their services.

Of the eight named—railroad, refineries and pipelines, gas, compressors, planing mills, rock crushers, ice plants, and electric power plant—the railroad was the largest contributor to the big payroll, having an annual payroll of nearly two million dollars.

At the time the survey was conducted the oil market had just opened from a ten cent bottom to a still depressing twenty-five cents a barrel. Joseph Edwards, in addressing the club, explained the effect of the oil slump on Big Spring and told the members what they could reasonably expect when the market was stabilized.

Edwards said that 524 producing wells were located in the Howard and Glasscock areas with the majority of them in sands from 1500 to 1800 feet with an estimated potential output of 68,000 barrels daily, but under the present order in effect here producing only 30,000 barrels daily.

Local refineries use nearly 11,000 barrels daily at 25 cents per barrel, which represented a monthly value of $225,000. One eighth goes back to the royalty holder. Lifting costs were estimated at $175,000 monthly based on 18 to 20-cent oil. Refineries were turning back $96,000 each month.

Going to the cattle industry from oil it was discovered that Big Spring was consuming 180,000 pounds of meat yearly. Estimates based on government reports showed that 14,500 head of cattle ranged in weight 25 to 300 lbs. Six thousand of the total were estimated as dairy cattle. In addition to the cattle 5,400 hogs and 4,500 sheep were said to be within the same radius.

The last of the resources to be considered was the tourist trade. It showed some startling facts. A total of 75,000 tourists and hotel guests stopped over night in Big Spring during the year ending July 31. That figure included six months of the so-called "season" depression. This itinerant population left a total conservatively estimated at $212,500.

With those facts in brief in mind, a committee was appointed by President V. H. Flewelling to make recommendations based on the report. As yet the committee has not reported, but is scheduled to do so soon. Their findings will be interesting to those interested in the future of this city.

The survey as conducted by the club points out one thing clearly. Big Spring must advertise herself within her own domain, capitalize on that which she has, and gradually and wisely add to it, if she expects to prosper.

Eventually some of these things may be introduced in this city and become a part of the industrial life—a feed mill, a packing house, a gigantic cotton oil mill, a canning factory, and a rock quarry. Investigations regarding the cost of equipment for a lime kiln with an annual output of 120,000 tons of lime are underway.

Data is being prepared by the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to bring a million dollar astronomical observatory here.

Important

Radio plays a very important role in the development of air travel. It has provided aviation with ears and eyes. When aviation was floundering in darkness, afraid of the fog and of heavy weather, the radio beacon was devised, steering the course of the plane by means of a signal sent out by a station on the air lane in which the pilot was flying.

The coordination of the department of commerce's radio broadcasting stations which are linked together with some ten thousand miles of automatic typewriter, which also connect with emergency fields and isolated locations, radio beacon transmitters, and marker beacons, with the Department of Agriculture's network of weather reporting stations which at the present time number approximately five hundred, have tended to speed up scheduled flights of both passenger and mail planes.

One of the broadcasting stations for the dissemination of weather information as mentioned above is now in the course of construction in the City Park at Big Spring. Within the coming week or ten days the Department of Agriculture will establish a weather reporting station at the City Airport.

A teletype line linking several placed fields between Dallas and El Paso which will report weather will be in operation shortly. A weather collection will be run over this line hourly or semi-hourly, giving a complete "set-up" of existing weather conditions between Dallas and El Paso that will be accurate to the minute.

This weather will be available to any pilot requesting it at the airport, as well as others who can utilize these reports. When the broadcast station at the city park is placed on the air, these weather reports will broadcast for the information of the itinerant pilot as well as posted at the airport's weather bureau office for the information of all concerned.

The air-line passing through Big Spring is known as the Southern Transcontinental route. It extends from Los Angeles on the west to New York on the east. Planes of the American Airways now maintain a fast schedule both east and west daily over this route, stopping at Big Spring.

An example of the speed that a passenger may travel over this route is exemplified by the fact that he could eat lunch in Big Spring and a late dinner in Los Angeles the same day and still have time to take in a movie in the latter city.

Air travel is rapidly becoming a matter of course. Safety in traveling on regular scheduled runs may be illustrated by the fact that last year, there was less than one death to every four million miles flown. That would mean flying around the earth at its equator over one hundred and sixty times. One would hardly expect to make that many trips on an ocean liner or train in such comparative safety.

The broadcasting station at the city park, now in process of construction will have a two thousand watt transmitter and will be one of the most modern and up to date plants of its kind in the country.

This plant is in charge of Wm. A. Brennan who has had considerable experience in the Airways service as well as years of experience with radio in commercial, marine, navy and educational fields. Mr. Brennan will be assisted by four or five additional men as it is expected to run the station on a twenty-four hour basis when placed in operation. The personnel for the weather bureau has not as yet been announced.

Marland (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) once controlled. Down a carefully landscaped avenue he can see the heroic figure of the "Pioneer Woman," the statue which he gave to Oklahoma in March, 1930. It cost him $100,000.

Marland, now 57, was a brilliant student in youth and obtained a law degree at 18. Two years of law in his native state of Pennsylvania were followed by 15 years as an oil man there.

He came to Oklahoma in 1912 and in 14 years had built from virtually the ground up one of the southwest's largest fortunes and controlled a vast business empire. In 1920 by obtaining the mineral concession to a 3,000,000-acre tract in Sonora, Mexico, he turned one of the largest oil deals in the annals of the industry. His projects expanded and in 1925 he had holdings in Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, California, Louisiana, Kansas, Colorado, Canada, Mexico and England.

Approximately 250 were present. The committee in charge Saturday pointed out that it believed some opportunities for employment were being opened here as school boys resigned their jobs to enter the new session. The committee asked that it be given an opportunity to send prospective employers men listed with it.

The next year saw the beginning of the decline. The Marland Oil financial report showed a deficit of more than $7,500,000, and in October, 1928, Marland retired from active control of the company.

It was prior to this unexpected turn of events that Marland and Miss Lydie Miller Roberts, his first wife's niece and his ward, were married. The first Mrs. Marland, an invalid, had died in June, 1926.

Whether Marland will try to "beat back" to his former place in the world of commerce is uncertain. It is hinted he may attempt to dispose of the home and, eventually establishing his plan against the government, retire from active acquisition of wealth to live on the remains of his once broad holdings.

In connection with a threatened rage of whooping cough in this city, Mrs. Showalter said an inoculation of pertussis fluid would greatly shorten the length of the disease.

CHILDREN IMMUNIZED

Five children were immunized against diphtheria at a clinic by Mrs. M. R. Showalter in the county courthouse Saturday. At a previous clinic Mrs. Showalter directed operations for a physical check-up and a number of children were given inoculations for typhoid, diphtheria and smallpox.

In connection with a threatened rage of whooping cough in this city, Mrs. Showalter said an inoculation of pertussis fluid would greatly shorten the length of the disease.

ANGEL GOLF FINALS

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 12 (AP)—L. T. Burns, Wichita Falls, and Edgar O'Quinn, San Antonio, will meet in the championship finale of the San Angelo Country Club's invitation golf tournament here Sunday.

Personality Speaking

Approximately 250 were present. The committee in charge Saturday pointed out that it believed some opportunities for employment were being opened here as school boys resigned their jobs to enter the new session. The committee asked that it be given an opportunity to send prospective employers men listed with it.

Marland

Mr. Marland, now 57, was a brilliant student in youth and obtained a law degree at 18. Two years of law in his native state of Pennsylvania were followed by 15 years as an oil man there.

He came to Oklahoma in 1912 and in 14 years had built from virtually the ground up one of the southwest's largest fortunes and controlled a vast business empire. In 1920 by obtaining the mineral concession to a 3,000,000-acre tract in Sonora, Mexico, he turned one of the largest oil deals in the annals of the industry.

His projects expanded and in 1925 he had holdings in Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, California, Louisiana, Kansas, Colorado, Canada, Mexico and England.

The next year saw the beginning of the decline. The Marland Oil financial report showed a deficit of more than $7,500,000, and in October, 1928, Marland retired from active control of the company.

It was prior to this unexpected turn of events that Marland and Miss Lydie Miller Roberts, his first wife's niece and his ward, were married. The first Mrs. Marland, an invalid, had died in June, 1926.

Whether Marland will try to "beat back" to his former place in the world of commerce is uncertain. It is hinted he may attempt to dispose of the home and, eventually establishing his plan against the government, retire from active acquisition of wealth to live on the remains of his once broad holdings.

Will's Comedy In Court Scene Not So Funny In Eyes of Real Prince

We had a kinder funny experience the other day over at the Studio. I was working on a picture that is supposed to take place over in Europe. I am Ambassador to some mythical Kingdom. Its kinder the story of Rourania, with the young King and Queen separated, and a kid who is King, and I drop in as Ambassador A la Aleck Moore, who incidentally made up a dandy Ambassador to Spain.

Well, we was shooting the big Reception scene, where the young King and the Queen was receiving all the Diplomats and we had the real Nationalities. You know that is one thing about Hollywood, you dont have to fake any Nationality, just issue a call and there will be dozens of any breed under the Su. In our last Picture before this we wanted some Arabs on the desert. We had over a hundred that come right from Arabia. All lived here in Hollywood, Greeks, Armenians, Indians from India and everything. Well this day we had a great many Russians, Russians that really were somebody before the Country went Bernard Shaw. Every one of them spoke four or five different languages. German, Polish, Czech, Slovaks. Well all these different races were in full court dress with all the decorations. Well they should come out on the set but the Stataese party. Not the King and his wife that are visiting over here, they went home through Canada, but it was his own Uncle Prince, the said you spelled it just like our Indian word for the Indian cross, "Swastika," only with the C out. He and his wife and his two sons.

One of his Sons goes to Georgetown University, and the other to Yale. They are a couple of mighty fine Eggs, little in status like all the Slamese, but pleasant and a good sense of humor. But its of this Kings Uncle that I got to tell you about. He is a Bear, you would be crazy about him. He, on these Movie folks that were speaks English with no trace of an accent. He is an Oxford Man. Of course we went over old times when he and I and Brisbane were of their Junk. She was dressed awful plain, but the bracelets and rings mostly of Rubies, they had us all gapping so we couldnt act. He was on his way up to Vancouver to join the King and Queen then. I told him I was coming over there in about a year and visit his country as I was going to make a trip around the World. I asked him how I could find out who or where he was over there. He didnt get me for a minute and said, "Oh, you can find me, I am Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Siam, I am Royal Prince of Siam, and then he got it that I was kidding when I asked him. But he asked me to come see him. Course thats what everybody does when they are away from home, then you go and try and get in. But you know they must have a mighty fine little country over there, and their Royalty seem to get on fine with their
