

MAVERICKS WIN FROM BULLDOGS 13-7 SCORE

IS FIRST WIN FOR MAVERICKS FOR THE YEAR

Sikes Makes Two Touchdowns Against Ancient Rivals of Mavericks

Eastland's scrapping Mavericks avenged defeats of the past five years when they turned back the heavier Ranger Bulldogs Friday afternoon at Welch Field by a score of 13 to 7 to earn the first victory over their ancient foes since the 7 to 0 victory of 1927.

It was a gala day for Eastland fans and the Mavericks, many of whom were just starting to school in the primary grades when the Mavericks last won from the Bulldogs, and on the field and in the stands they took advantage of every opportunity to score or yell.

The Mavericks took good advantage of early breaks in the game to score their first touchdown in just five plays. After the kickoff to Ranger the ball was returned to the Ranger 39-yard line and on the first play from scrimmage Adkins fumbled and Trantham recovered on the Ranger 35 yard line. Sikes made four yards through the line, Harry Taylor made a yard on the Ranger 30 and a pass from Key to Sikes, carried the ball down to the five yard line for a first down. Harry Taylor failed to gain, but Sikes carried the ball over for the Maverick's first score, and Troy Taylor kicked goal for the extra point.

The Bulldogs threatened repeatedly throughout the first three quarters without scoring, carrying the ball to the Maverick 11-yard line.

LEAGUE ASKS NON-MEMBERS FOR THEIR AID

GENEVA, Oct. 19.—The League of Nations today took its official step to obtain the co-operation of the United States and other nations not belonging to the league in penalties against Italy.

The committee after adopting a three-point program of penalties, instructed the chairman to transmit its decision on sanctions to the United States, Germany, Japan, Brazil and other nations not league members.

The letters to be sent these nations are to say the committee of 52 would "welcome any communication any non-member may deem it proper to make or notification of any action it may be taking under the circumstances."

More Ethiopian Chieftains Have Joined Italians

WITH ETHIOPIAN ARMY, Eritrea, Oct. 19.—Four more Ethiopian chieftains in northern Ethiopia, following the example of Ras Selassie Gugsu, governor of Tigre province, had surrendered to the Italian army, reports to Italian headquarters said today.

Indications of a breaking Ethiopian morale coincided with reports 400 Ethiopians had been killed preceding the capture of Aduwa. Italians lost 35 white and native troops in the same engagement.

According to the political department of the Italian army a strong rebellion movement has broken out against Emperor Selassie in the region between Lake Tena and Addis Ababa. The movement was said to have resulted from the emperor's policy of replacing governors whose loyalty is under suspicion.

Land Company to Seek Title to the Huge Fall Ranch

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 19.—A clear title to all of the vast ranch formerly owned by Albert Fall of New Mexico must be granted by court action, it was announced here today by a vice president of the Marshall Corporation, holding company for the land and cattle company, which recently purchased the ranch from the Doherty interests.

"We are through negotiating with the Falls and will make no further peace offers," he said today before his departure for the east.

COMMERCE TO HAVE TIME FOR ACTUAL WORK SINCE CITY AID VOTED—McRAE

NYA To Be Asked For Additional Aid Allocations

Time for actual work instead of continual fund solicitation—this will result from appropriation of $1,800 annually for the Chamber of Commerce from the City Commission and a prospective amount from merchants, Hamilton McRae, president, stated Saturday.

Formerly handicapped by lack of funds, the Chamber of Commerce will enter into a new era with united action for the betterment of Eastland, the organization head stated.

The city commission Thursday night passed a resolution creating the Board of City Development of Eastland, with an appropriation of $1,800 annually.

A similar contribution from merchants of Eastland—$1,800—will be asked in a drive which will be started soon, McRae stated.

After the amount is raised by public spirited merchants and citizens, said McRae, Eastland can look forward to an era unprecedented for chamber of commerce activity and tangible results.

Though limited in funds recently, President McRae pointed to achievements of the body for the current year as including: passage of the Leon river flood control district with the aid of city commissioners, sponsorship of the county fair with the first livestock show in its history, sponsorship of the monthly smokers, which acted as a clearing house for discussion of Eastland's needs, and origination of many governmental projects which have been approved.

"The Chamber of Commerce," McRae stated, "is no organization which has no selfish desires. It is an organization by which Eastland citizens assume a united stand for purposes which are for the interests of all."

The chamber of commerce recently moved its main office from the Masonic building to the space in the quarters in the rear of the Eastland National Bank, facing East Commerce.

Former officers of the Masonic building have been retained for storage purposes.

Earl Woody is vice president; O. E. Harvey, vice president and H. C. Davis, secretary.

Directors who will serve for the city development board are O. E. Harvey, Earl Woody, C. J. Rhodes, K. B. Tanner, Albert Taylor, J. E. Lewis, Sr., T. E. Richardson, Hamilton E. McRae, Charles Lucas, F. M. Kenny, Earl Bender, Milburn McCarty, James Horton, Grady Pipkin and George M. Harper. Lucas is a new member, Frank Williams, who moved to McKinney.

FIRES FOLLOW EARTHQUAKE IN MONTANA

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 19.—Fire broke out in Helena tonight to climax the longest most disastrous series of earthquakes in Montana's history. Two lives were lost and 43 were injured.

National guards, under orders of Gov. Frank Cooney, were used in an effort to control the flames. Meanwhile earthquake shocks continued to be felt.

Groups of refugees gathered around first in the streets. In one place a car load of whisky of 700 cases were crushed under a stone warehouse.

Guards patrolled the area to prevent looting.

The government hospital at Fort Harrison, two miles west of Helena, was evacuated, the buildings being considered unsafe. About 150 patients were sleeping in the open on cots.

All school buildings were damaged. The new $500,000 high school building was damaged to the extent of $100,000.

There were six shocks last night. Two of about a minute's duration in the main shock and four less severe ones.

Republicans Say New Dealers Wield Political Clubs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The Republican National Committee charged today the Roosevelt administration is holding a "political blackjack" over farmers to obtain contributions to the Democratic campaign fund.

The committee declared the charge was supported by: 1. Brazen admission that federal employees are being asked to wipe out the democratic committee's deficit.

2. Reports denied by the AAA that farmers receiving wheat allotment checks are being urged to contribute to a fund to continue the New Deal.

"Fair-minded Americans will rebel at this condition," the statement said.

BALDWIN SAYS U. S. CANNOT IGNORE WAR

WORCESTER, Eng., Oct. 19.—Even the United States, despite its policy of isolation, is in danger of being drawn in if a general war breaks out in Europe, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin declared today at a rally of conservatives.

Comparing war as it was known before 1914 and the war of the future, he said: "Not one country today, if war broke out, could regard itself as secure until the war ended. Not even the United States, which talks of isolation."

"There is a great increase in the horrors of war and it is obvious the only safe way is to keep out of war and see it never comes. The path we tread is the path of peace. We are treading a new path and cannot tell what that path will turn out to be."

Baldwin insisted the sole aim of Britain is to prevent war, not start it.

Buckaroos Win From Brownwood By Score of 18-6

The Breckenridge Buckaroos continued their winning streak and won another conference victory from the Brownwood Lions at Breckenridge Saturday afternoon, winning by a score of 18 to 6.

Breckenridge scored once in the first, once in the second and again in the third quarter. The first touchdown came when a pass from Magness to Rector was good for 16 yards and a first down on the Breckenridge 11-yard line, Thompson plunged to the six inch line and Magness carried over for the touchdown. Sternberg failed to kick goal.

The second touchdown came when a pass from Magness to Rector was good for 17 yards and a short lateral from Thompson to Magness put the ball on the six-yard line and Magness scored on the fourth play. Sternberg again failed to kick goal.

The third touchdown for the Buckaroos was scored after Magness carried the ball to the two-yard line and Rector went over for the score. Sternberg failed the third time in his attempt to kick goal.

The Brownwood score came late in the game when the Lions punted from their 48-yard line, Cook fumbling the punt and Brownwood recovering it over the goal line.

Convention Urges No Military Service

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 19.—Exemption from military service was demanded for such of its members as demand it, in a resolution adopted today by the International Convention of the Disciples of Christ.

The convention had adopted a resolution asking the war department to abolish all R. O. T. C. and other military units not required by law.

NEW DEAL IS POSTPONING END OF RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The new deal today was confronted by the necessity of financing direct relief for November and December as the $4,000,000,000 program lifted less than 1,500 from relief rolls.

The drive, under way since April 8, was intended to end the dole Nov. 1 by making jobs for 3,500,000. Then the deadline was postponed two weeks.

Now with 1,311,000 persons actually working and employment hindered by administrative delay, relief officials said, "We hope to have the job done by Christmas."

They abandoned hope of closing down the FERA in the immediate future when statistics reveal: 1. A total of 2,189,267 able-bodied adults still on direct relief rolls.

2. The program transferred 180,479 from relief rolls to payrolls between Oct. 3 and yesterday.

3. The new deal must put more than 150,000 to work every day between now and Nov. 1 if the FERA is to go out of business on that day.

Harry L. Hopkins has assured the governors he will finance their costs of caring for "employables" until the federal government has put them to work.

Olden and Woodson Play at Olden On Saturday, Oct. 26

In a game played at Pioneer Oct. 11 between Pioneer and Olden, the game ended in a scoreless tie.

There was a slight mistake in the report on the game. The first downs were even, six for Olden and six for Pioneer. The 20 yard line penetrations were Olden two, Pioneer none, Olden taking the ball to the sixteen yard line once and to the eighteen yard line once. The nearest Pioneer penetrated was the 32 yard line.

After a week's rest the Olden Hornets go into action against the Woodson Bears Saturday, Oct. 26 at Olden, and a large crowd is expected.

Olden's standing in Division II of 17-B now is one game won and one tie.

Strict Censorship Applied In Austria

FOUR DAYS OF SESSION SEE NO ACTION

AUSTIN, Oct. 19.—Four days were marked off the possible 30 of the second called session of the legislature with no important bills acted upon tonight.

Sharp protest of Governor Allred and the Texas voters, as the fruitless first session ended Tuesday, did not find response from solons, who met Wednesday. Then more than half went home.

Pension bills without tax will be the first important business on the docket of both houses. Two pension proposals were recommended by the senate state affairs committee. The house decided to recommend again bills of the previous session.

Two views on the pension problem are found: 1. Those who want separate pension and revenue bills.

2. Those who want the two combined.

Valuations Take Nose Dive This Year in County

Valuation of taxable property in Eastland county dropped from $24,100,000 in 1934 to $22,417,150 for 1935, T. J. Haley, tax assessor-collector, stated Saturday.

Removal of storage oil from the county meant a decrease of $272,000 in the county's valuations while "natural causes," decrease in valuation of farm and city property, accounted for an $800,000 loss. Intangible assets valuations took a $433,000 loss on pipelines while $65,000 was lost on valuation on railroad intangible assets, Haley said. The figures were approximate.

What minds me...

was a good clean football between the Ranger Bulldogs and the Eastland Mavericks. Something like 2,000 fans urged their respect to action from the side in a good natured manner. Spirit of rivalry between Ranger and Eastland resorts to true friendship that is commendable to the nth degree. There was no desire for revenge to be gained. Most defeats of the Mavericks will be by the Bulldogs. It is simply a mutual clash between friends. Mavericks are of course proud of their first victory over the Bulldogs. It makes us all happy. Eastland and Ranger both praise of their "praise of the little Mavericks."

Court Dispels Doubt in Hauptmann Case

The decision handed down by the New Jersey court of errors and appeals in the case of Bruno Hauptmann is worth a little study.

Hauptmann was convicted of a murder which, for the depth of public horror and anger which it aroused, was probably the most shocking ever committed in America. His trial was inevitably the center of nation-wide interest. The verdict was received with nation-wide satisfaction.

But because the conviction was based entirely on circumstantial evidence—what a popular misunderstanding and how necessary to be of less value than direct evidence—and because he had had vocal defenders who have insisted that he was a victim of prejudice, there has grown up here and there a feeling that the cumbersome processes of the law had been used to lay hold of the wrong man.

Anyone who has such a feeling should glance briefly at the appellate court's findings.

"Our conclusion," says the court, "is that the verdict is not only contrary to the weight of the evidence, but one to which the evidence necessarily led."

Why? Because, first and foremost, Hauptmann was caught with the goods. He had the ransom money in his possession; and the court points out that Hauptmann's own story of how he got the cash is simply unbelievable, adding that his method of handling it "makes clear his guilty connection with the transaction."

Secondly, it was proved to the hilt that the ransom notes were all written by Hauptmann. They were in his handwriting and they used peculiarities of spelling and language which he habitually used.

It is an inescapable inference, says the court, that the man who wrote these notes entered the Lindbergh nursery and took the child.

Lastly, there is the fact some of the wood used to make the ladder by which the kidnaper entered the house was traced to Hauptmann's own home, and that on a board in his home there was written, by his hand, Dr. Condon's telephone number.

Adding these facts together, the court concludes that this "was a circumstantial case with the evidence pointing to guilt from so many directions as to leave no room for a reasonable doubt."

All this is worth keeping in mind. No criminal trial in our generation has held American attention as did Hauptmann's.

Those who have the notion that Hauptmann, after all, might have been guilty of a monstrous miscarriage of justice should reflect on the points raised by the appellate court.

These points ought to satisfy them that there are few cases in which a prisoner's guilt is so firmly established as in the case of Bruno Hauptmann.

Country Pays Homage To A Noble Failure

The success story is one of the most typical of all American institutions. And that is why it is a good thing for us to enshrine one or two heroes who did not attain success—men who failed in their greatest undertaking, but who, nevertheless, managed to rise superior to their failures.

It was an instinctive understanding of this, perhaps, that brought such a large group of notables to Stratford, Pa., the other day for dedication of the home of Robert E. Lee as a national memorial. People in 44 states contributed half a million dollars to acquire, restore, and preserve the property.

Gov. George C. Peery of Virginia was there, and President Roosevelt sent a message, and the ceremony was in every sense a tribute from the entire nation to Lee's memory.

Now Lee was by any standard one of the greatest of Americans; and yet he left no tangible achievement to stand as a reminder of his greatness.

The cause to which Lee gave himself is a blown ghost in the southern wind, and the echoes of his great battles have had nearly three-quarters of a century to die away among the Virginia hills.

There is no institution on which we can lay our hands and say, "We have this because of Robert E. Lee." And yet we instinctively recognize that this man was one of our giants and that it is to our own interest to keep his memory alive.

The simple truth is that we have overdone our emphasis on the success story. We need to understand that the way in which a man does a thing can be more important than what he actually does, that a man's life can far outweigh his achievements—that, in short, there are standards by which a man can be completely and everlastingly defeated and yet not be defeated at all in the realm that really counts.

Most of us have little understandings of military technicalities, and the marvels of Lee's campaigns leave us cold. Those who understand such things tell us that he was an authentic military genius, and we are ready enough to take their word for it; but at this distance, after all, it does not really matter much.

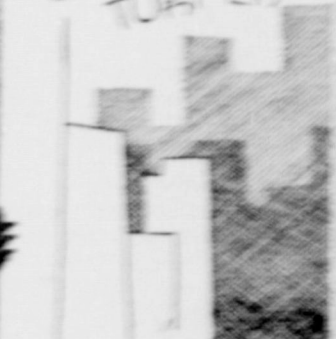

But there was more to it than that. In this man we have an unfortunate example of what human nobility can really be; a supreme expression of the truth that the whole of a man's life somehow adds up to more than the total of its parts.

War Not Likely To Increase the Sulphur Demand

By United Press
 AUSTIN.—Little prospect that warfare among foreign nations will increase the demand for American sulphur was seen today by L. Mims, vice president of the Freeport Sulphur company.

Such a possibility had been seen by Rep. J. Franklin Spears as an opportunity to help pay Texas old age pensions with sulphur taxes. War will not cause such a demand, Mims said, for four reasons: 1. Modern explosives require very little sulphur except in the form of sulphuric acid, which can be obtained from many sources. 2. Foreign nations having made themselves more independent of supplies from the United States will not hazard trans-Atlantic shipments of brimstone. (Elemental sulphur). 3. The United States will prohibit exportation of war materials.

4. Exports for the first six months of this year are lower than at any time in the past six years, despite increasing activity in war preparations. It is a mistaken conception that Texas produces 90 to 99 per cent of the world's supply of sulphur, Mims said. The misunderstanding is due to using figures on elemental sulphur, while 65 per cent of the world requirement is from two other sources and waste smelter gases. The 35 per cent of brimstone or elemental sulphur produced in Texas, in California, Utah, Japan, Norway, Russia, Sweden, and Spain. Texas reserves, Mims said, do not exceed five per cent of world total.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

Distinguished new beauty of line has been combined with the outstanding comfort, safety and performance that have put the Ford V-8 in a class by itself. The car that led all others in 1935 has been made still better for the new year. It has been proved by the past and improved for the future. The New Ford provides modern feature, with the assurance of satisfactory service. There are no experiments in it—nothing has not been tried and tested. This means a great deal to motorists—especially in mechanical construction and safety. . . . The Ford gives you distinctly better performance because of its V-8 engine—it stands out also because it is such a safe car. The Steel Body, Safety Glass all around and Super-Safety Brakes provide exceptional security. . . . The Ford V-8 for 1935 is the finest, safest, most reliable Ford ever built.

Steel wheels of entirely new design. Rich, enduring upholstery. Attractive appointments.
- New Easier Steering—Steering gear ratio increased. Steering gear sector shaft mounted on roller bearings.
- New Gear Shifting—Easier, quicker, smoother. Shorter distance for gear shift lever to travel. Quiet shifting. Quiet running in all speeds because of silent helical gears.
- Super-Safety Brakes—Safest, most reliable type of brakes under all driving conditions. Mechanical brakes of the same proved design as have been used for years on America's finest cars. Extra large braking area. Easy to apply.
- Welded Steel Bodies—The Ford V-8 has a genuine all-steel body structure—electrically welded for still greater strength.
- Safety Glass Throughout—All Ford body types are equipped with Safety Glass throughout at no extra cost.
- V-8 Engine—Fine-car power, speed, acceleration and smoothness. The reliability of the Ford V-8 engine has been proved in actual service by more than two million motorists—over a million Ford V-8s purchased in the last year. Figures show that the Ford V-8 is the most economical Ford ever built. Every year the Ford costs less to run.
- No "Breaking In"—The Ford V-8 engine is made to such high standards of precision that it requires no breaking in. You can drive it 60 miles an hour the first day.
- Efficient Cooling—The cooling system of the New Ford V-8 for 1935 circulates 5 1/2 gallons of water through a new, larger radiator. Natural thermo-siphon action is assisted by two centrifugal water pumps. New style hood louvers permit rapid flow of air around the engine.
- Bodies Insulated for Quiet—The floor, dash and body panels of the Ford V-8 for 1935 are insulated with new materials that absorb and deaden sound.
- Center-Poise Riding—All passengers ride near the center of the car—cradled between the soft, flexible springs. Exceptional comfort on every type of road. The Ford V-8 gives a front-seat ride to back-seat riders.
- Unusual Body Room—Short, compact Ford V-8 engine takes up less space under the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used by passengers. There is increased room in the 1935 Fordor Sedans because the rear quarter trim is set above the new style arm rests.

The GOLDEN FEATHER

by Robert Bruce © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JEAN DUNN, secretary to DONALD MONTAGUE, lawyer, delays her answer when BOBBY WALLACE, young automobile salesman, asks Jean to marry him. At the Golden Feather night club Jean meets SANDY HARKINS, whose business connection is vague. Sandy introduces Bobby and Jean to MR. and MRS. LEWIS and Bobby arranges to sell some bonds for Lewis. He tells them to Jean's employer, LARRY GLENN, federal agent, long a friend of Jean's parents, is trying to locate WING LEM, a bank robber. Sandy asks Jean to marry him and she promises to give him an answer after she returns from a vacation in her home town. Larry locates some stolen bonds and questions SONNY BOYD, gambler, about them. Boyd confesses he bought them from Donald Montague.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

THE door closed behind the skinny, perspiring figure of Sonny Boyd, and Hagan and Larry Glenn looked at one another. There was a pregnant silence, broken at last by Hagan's devout, "Well, I'll be damned!"

Larry grinned. "Exactly," he said. "The upright and respected Mr. Donald Montague, leader of the bar and admired by one and all, has been passing hot bonds."

Mike Hagan shook his head. "Can you begin to see, now, why it's tough for guys like me?" he asked. "Here's Montague, a big shot politician, shoving those bonds off on a louse like Sonny Boyd . . . and then they wonder why coppers like me can't run the racketeers out of town."

Larry nodded sympathetically. "I know. The cards are stacked against you. But before I get through here—" He paused, then went on: "Mike, I'm beginning to get on the trail of something here. At least a part of that Red Jackson gang is floating around Dover. And part of the loot they got in when Neola robbery turns up here, it passes through the hands of Don Montague, who is one of Dover's most respected citizens. Before we get through I'm going to have the whole picture. And when I do—things are going to be different."

Hagan looked at him earnestly. "Going to have a little chat with Mr. Montague?" he asked.

Larry nodded and looked at his watch.

"Lord, I'd no idea it was so late," he said. "He'll have left his office for the day, by now. Oh, well, he'll keep until tomorrow. That's one thing about these big shot slickers—they don't run away from you, anyway."

"No," grinned Hagan. "they need to. You can't do anything to 'em if they stick around."

LARRY meditated. "I'm not so sure," he said slowly. "This man Montague is beginning to draw too many cards in this whole mix-up. Look, we trace those stolen bonds to him. He also appeared for our friend Harkins when Harkins came in to prove that he wasn't mixed up in a robbery of which no one had even accused him. There's one definite connection with the Jackson outfit—well, one possible connection. . . . By the way, tell me about that alibi. You say it was alright. What was there to it?"

"Oh, it was alright enough," said Hagan. "Harkins'd been out canoing with a girl that Friday afternoon. Started out about half an hour before the robbery and didn't get back until after dark. She was with him all the time. And the guy that rented the canoe to him, out on the Grand River, he came in too."

"Montague rounded 'em up, of course," mused Larry. Hagan nodded.

"Funny thing," he said. "He didn't even go out of his own office for his star witness."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, his own secretary Swell-looking girl she is, too. What's her name, again—"

"You don't mean Jean Dunn?" asked Larry.

"Yeah, that's the name—Dunn. Why?"

Larry gripped the edge of the desk angrily.

"Why, that girl—I've known her since she was knee high! She's one of the sweetest little youngsters ever born. And she—she came in and alibied for this lad Harkins! She'd been with him, canoing, all afternoon!"

"That's it."

"Lord!" said Larry fervently. "Is Montague making that kid perjure herself to keep his clients—"

"I don't think she was lying," said Hagan calmly. "I think she was telling the truth. An' that's what makes it puzzling. Because I can't help thinking that Harkins was the bird who pulled that robbery, too."

JEAN DUNN drew her legs up under her as she sat in the corner of the davenport, and beamed across the room at Larry Glenn, who sat at his ease in the easy chair under the bridge lamp.

"You can't say it isn't pretty flattering," she said.

"What is it?"

"Having you for a caller. Humble stenographer entertaining the busy business man—what is it, again, that you're doing, Larry?"

"Oh, I do odds and ends of jobs for Uncle Sam," said Larry.

"Besides," he added. "I promised your father and mother I'd keep an eye on you, didn't I? And so far I've only seen you once since I've been in Dover."

"Well," said Jean, "that's not my fault, is it?"

"I don't know," said Larry, adopting a light, bantering tone. "I hear you're so popular that nobody can see you unless they make a date three weeks in advance."

"Silly! Where'd you hear that?"

"Oh, it's all over town. I hear you even went down to police headquarters with a young man the other day."

"Oh, that! I was doing my good deed that day—you know, Girl Scout and all. I was keeping a nice young man from being bothered by the police."

"Well, you see," she said, "I'd been out with him this one afternoon a week or two ago—"

"Bobby, you mean? Don't tell me he's getting in trouble with the police?"

"No, not Bobby. This—this was Sandy Harkins. This—this was Sandy Harkins who was telling him about going down to the police station with Sandy? And what queer, unwanted thought was floating around in her subconscious mind, making her feel uncomfortable whenever she herself thought about it? Something was wrong, somewhere; what was it?"

line in the first quarter, bringing it back to the Eastland four yard line in the second and to the seven yard line later in the same quarter without scoring and having the ball on the Eastland 12 yard line in the fourth. But the stiff Maverick defense held and passes that threatened to produce scores were batted down time after time to hold the Ranger threat in check.

In the fourth quarter the Bulldogs scored their first touchdown of the season and tied the game at 7-all when they finally got the ball over the goal line.

The drive started on the Ranger 40 yard line with Walsh and Jacoby doing most of the ball carrying, to place the ball on the Eastland 46, where a pass to Fox was good for a first down on the Eastland 14. Two plays lost three yards and Walsh passed to Hartin, who raced over the goal line for the only Bulldogs score. Payton kicked goal for the extra point.

The Bulldogs, who were taking to the air in a desperate effort to stave off a tie, had one of their passes bounce back and pave the way to the Maverick's second touchdown. Walsh passed to Payton, who caught the ball, but Sikes in making the tackle, snatched the ball from his outstretched arms and raced 45 yards over the goal line for the last score of the game. The try for the extra point was blocked.

The Bulldogs, again resorting to the air, were stopped in their efforts to score by the scrapping Maverick line and the pass defense of the secondary, a Bulldog pass being intercepted on the Maverick 12-yard line with only 30 seconds of the game remaining to be played, and the local carried the ball back to the 23-yard line when the final whistle blew.

First downs favored the visitors 14 to six, but fumbles on five occasions, which were recovered by the Mavericks, who were playing head-on football from start to finish of the game, halted many of the visitors' attempts to carry the ball back up the field.

The entire Eastland line was charging as hard at the end of the game as it was at the beginning, while in the backfield, R. Sikes, H. Taylor and Key were the bright and shining stars of the game.

The starting lineup: Eastland, Taylor and Garrison, ends; Mitchell and Tranham, tackles; Dolberry and A. Taylor, guards; R. Taylor, center; B. Sikes and H. Taylor, halves; Key, quarter and Hamilton, full.

Ranger: Payton and Jacoby, ends; Bray and Sharp, tackles; Donoho and Mace, guards; Buntion, center; Walsh, quarter; Hartin and Adkins, halves, and Burnett, full.

These days still continue to start out cool and end up hot. The weather man doesn't give any further promise of much change in temperature but does say something about rain. Some spots in Texas have been receiving rain during the past week. This section is coming out with continued sunshine but much cooler weather would be welcome at this time.

Pecans, peanuts and turkeys should put a little more money in circulation at this time. Turkey dressing plants are beginning operations and to get turkeys to the eastern markets for Thanksgiving shipments must be moving from now until at least November 23. The biggest pecan crop in ten years is now being harvested. The peanut crop is good in every section. Haven't had much detail as to the turkey crop, but lots of rain while the turkeys are young takes a big toll of these best of meat foods during the holiday and winter season. Eastland county should be a wonderful section to raise turkeys in and when they are in the money they certainly bring in the profitable revenue. Encouraging a turkey killing plant in Eastland is not a bad investment and will encourage farmers to raise them in quantities sufficient to justify it.

After their initial comeback performance, Cheryl sisters agree audiences are nicer now than they used to be. And then, too, vegetables are higher.
