

THE SPORTS PARADE BY HANK HART

There happens to be two good college prospects wearing the colors of the Big Spring Steers who graduate this season in case any of the ivory hunters who roam this section in quest of promising material are interested.

Will they add to that today? Steve Baker "blew" in from the Schreiner Institute football camp Wednesday evening. He'll be here until Sunday afternoon when he is scheduled to return and report again for football.

HERD IN ROLE OF UNDERDOG AGAIN TODAY

In Short Session WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—This wasn't a complete holiday for the house of representatives.

According to Nix, his boys' quintet is very mediocre but his girls' crew is probably the best to ever represent the Forsan school. It has romped on all kinds of opposition thus far and in very convincing manner.

The high school gym may be started any day now but possibility that basketball will be played this season is out. What the local athletes will do for recreation is a question yet unanswered.

Coach Brady Nix has accepted an invitation to take his Forsan campers to the Water Valley basketball tournament which begins Dec. 11. The Buffs do not have a game this week due to Thanksgiving.

Sweetwater Has Lost But Two Games In Nine Starts

Worried about an offense, the Big Spring Steers left town this morning intent upon bringing home the sweet meats of victory in their game with the Sweetwater Mustangs, an affair which will be played on Newman Field, Sweetwater, at 2:45 p. m. this afternoon.

It wasn't their own offense that they were worried about. That attack had stopped up admirably through nine games thus far. Instead, it was the highly respected Mustangs' withering goalward drives that were causing the wrinkles in Coach Pat Murphy's forehead.

Gridiron Menu Is Pleasing—Eagles, Sandies Still Favored

DALLAS, Nov. 25 (AP)—Thirty-two games, most of them steeped in tradition and from which 12 district champions are expected to emerge, make up the gridiron menu for Texas interscholastic league football today.

Climaxing Thanksgiving for radio followers of Southwest conference football games will be the 44th renewal of the traditional gridiron battle between the eleven of the University of Texas and the Texas A. and M. college, to be broadcast Thursday afternoon over an extensive Texas network by the Humble Oil & Refining company.

Progress Steadily Such veterans as Jack Wilson, Louie Madison, Woodrow Harris, Stix Wood and H. C. Burrus played their final high school game Big Spring on that date and Coach Murphy, who took over the coaching reins here this season, had to start from "scratch." He progressed slowly and it began to look as if he was going to have to give it up as a hopeless task when the Bovines lost to Eastland and Brownwood in heart breakers but they've come along and have succeeded in showing to be a formidable outfit in every case but the Breckenridge affair which they lost, 34-6.

Statistics uncovered this week show that Co-Captain Weldon Bigony, who is known more for his blocking and defensive work than as for his ball carrying, led the Longhorn ball carriers through the year.

Ze grand Turkee!*

Thanksgiving is America's great family holiday. It's the day when modern life declares its annual truce with progress and Mr. Citizen declares a truce with mother-in-law. When home fires beckon and the mince pie draws old and young. When swivel chairs give way to easy chairs and man's greatest accomplishment is to wield a skillful carving knife. The one probable place Washington, Franklin or Lincoln would feel at home at today is a dinner table anywhere in the U.S.A. on the last Thursday in November.

Thanksgiving is more American, even, than the 4th of July. Other nations have their Bastille Days, their King's Birthdays, their anniversaries of glory. Only Americans celebrate Thanksgiving Day. Nobody but an American would lay down a war drum for a drumstick. Thanksgiving commemorates no battle anniversary, no conquest, no victory—unless it be the victory of man's fortitude over despair. It is a day of quiet, unaffected thanks to a very real God for very real blessings. It is a day when we recharge our spiritual batteries and take renewed strength for the tasks of another year. To all our friends—heartiest Thanksgiving greetings. Pass the turkey please!

Easy Centerpiece To Crochet

By RUTH ORR
PATTERN NO. 552

If you already know how to crochet, we do not need to tell you how easy this filet centerpiece is to make. But if you're a beginner, then just take our word for the fact that filet crochet is the easiest there is. When you find such an attractive design that's so simple to work, surely you'll want it for your own. Using No. 30 cotton, the piece will work out to about 24 inches in diameter; using heavier or finer cotton will make it larger or smaller, as you desire.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand directions with block and space diagrams to aid you; also, what crochet hook and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 552 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring Daily Herald, Needlework Department, P. O. Box 172, Station D, New York, N. Y. (Copyright 1937, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

E. Phillips Is Wed To Miss Riggs

Rev. C. A. Bickley Reads Service On Thanksgiving Eve

In the early evening of Thanksgiving eve Miss Dorothy Belle Riggs became the bride of Elmo Phillips in a ring ceremony read by the Rev. C. A. Bickley of the First Methodist church.

The service was performed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. J. Riggs, with only members of the families and close friends present.

The bride was attractively attired in a dress of black crepe with fringe trim and wore smart black accessories. A corsage of pink rosebuds contrasted beautifully.

She was attended by Miss Beryl Duff of Lubbock and Donald Anderson acted as best man.

The house was decorated with evergreen and vari-colored chrysanthemums that lent a seasonal background for the ceremony.

The couple planned to make a weekend honeymoon trip to Dallas and upon their return here will reside at 211 West Sixth street.

Mrs. Phillips is the elder daughter of Mrs. W. J. Riggs of this city and has made her home here several years. She received her high school education in the local schools.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Phillips and was graduated from the Big Spring high school three years ago. At present he is employed with the H. O. Wooten Grocer company.

Wedding guests included Mrs. Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. C. A. Bickley, Miss Jane Thompson, Bob Levin, Durwood Riggs, Jack Riggs, Billy Jo Riggs, Brooksie Nell Phillips and Hazel Ruth Phillips.

ELECTION BET LOSER STRANGER TO FRIENDS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 25 (UP)—Walter F. Schmieding had to get acquainted with his friends all over again—all because Thomas L. Holling, democrat, defeated Edwin F. Jaecle, republican, for the Buffalo mayoralty.

Schmieding, republican member of the Erie county elections board, bet his mustache Jaecle would win.

A few days after paying the bet by shaving off his mustache, he walked downtown.

"By actual count, 43 friends, some of them very close ones, passed me by because they did not recognize me," he reported after the walk—his first minus his mustache.

A Hypodermic Injection FLUID THAT KILLS CANCER

As used by Doctor William Davidson Rea, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, who is visiting Big Spring at Crawford Hotel, Saturday, Nov. 27th for one day only. To those interested Doctor Rea will explain in detail the nature of this treatment which he has been using with results for over forty years. The treatment is applicable only to small external growths such as tumor, cancer, tubercular glands, and other growth that can be gotten at with the hypodermic needle. Usually one treatment is all that is needed to kill the growth which within a week or ten days comes away.

Noted Choir Group To Be Heard In Abilene Dec. 1

ABILENE, (Nov. 25)—The Vienna Choir Boys, unique world famed choral group, will engage the attention of West Texans in a concert on Wednesday evening, Dec. 1, at Hardin-Simmons university auditorium.

The company of boy singers is returning to Abilene by popular request, following the performance of two years ago at which they received a notable ovation. The organization is currently making its sixth American tour.

The Vienna Choir Boys are members of a musical hierarchy that was founded in 1498 by the imperial decree of Emperor Maximilian, when a group of boy singers were ordered to sing a daily mass with the court orchestra of Vienna. For nearly 500 years to the present time, the traditions of this organization have been kept intact. Under the care of the state, the group sings choral, operatic and religious works without professionalism or a need of glory. The boy singers travel in the company of a rector and nurse. They range in age from 7 to 12 years.

The Vienna choir group is the second Hardin-Simmons University April Course number of the winter season. The United States Navy Band was heard on November 5. Ted Shavin and His Athletic Artists will be seen on December 17, and the Salzburg Opera company will give a concert on December 31, in other holiday numbers.

CO-EDS BUT LITTLE BRIGHTER THAN CHORUS GIRLS
DETROIT, Nov. 25 (UP)—Six Wayne university co-eds defeated six chorus girls in an intelligence test last night but the margin was small—115 points to 95.
The chorus girls challenged any six college girls to the test in a letter to a Detroit newspaper, protesting a feature story which said they spent most of their time reading romance and detective stories.
Some of the questions asked by Edgar Willis of the Detroit board of education, were:
"Are there more red than white stripes in the American flag?"
"Under our laws, can a woman be president of the United States?"

Dame Fashion's Most Important Rule--Dress To Please Your Man

AND PLEASED HE IS

An evening gown to please your man is designed of blue silk satin with a low cut décolletage and the sole ornament of a jeweled buckle. The only jewels worn with it are pearls. Metal silk brocade in eggshell and gold makes the wrap.

Editor's Note: This is the last article in a series of three on how to dress conservatively and fashionably by the Associated Press fashion editor.

NEW YORK--The most important thing in fashion is dressing to please your man.

He cares about what you wear and can be more irritated than you think by the wrong color or hat. Pleasing him should mean more to you than a listing in "the 10 best dressed."

Consult his taste and cater to it. He may know more than you about: (1) how a certain color looks on you, (2) the way a dress and hat look in the back, (3) the effect of both on your whole silhouette.

To give you first hand facts on what men like in women's clothes, I canvassed both bachelors and married men in one of America's largest organizations. This is what I learned:

Men like simplicity first in women's clothes. Dresses with knick-knacks on shoulders or hips, standing out from the natural body line, are their pet abominations.

They love a trim slender figure. Flattering low-cut evening gowns draw no frowns from them, provided the décolletage doesn't reveal collar bones or fat arms.

Black's A Favorite "Crazy hats" they abhor. The ultra-eccentric headgear some women are wearing this year has set them all muttering.

Most of them like black--if you don't resemble "a walking hearth," and if you lighten it now and then with a jeweled accent or a glowing touch of color.

White and blue are their other two favorite hues. They detest masses of costume jewelry--especially if it clanks. One clip or necklace is enough.

Every one of them likes to see women in tailored suits and sports clothes, but don't overdo the effect with mannish shirts and ties.

Likes And Dislikes They like to have you give the impression that you are soft, warm and nice to touch. Clothes on the fluffy side, however, fail to get their applause.

They hate: Eyebrows plucked to a hairline, false eyelashes, heavy mascara eye makeup, rouge that stands up in two, obvious bright spots, crooked stocking seams, open-heeled sandals that pop up and down, white accessories that are not fresh and women who are continually patting their hair and clothes.

They like: Natural looking

Havner - Stalcup Nuptials Read This Morning

Vows Repeated In Home Of Bride's Parents

A simple home ceremony read by the Rev. C. E. Lancaster of the First Baptist church united in marriage Harry Havner of Chicago, Ill., and Miss Alma Mary Stalcup at 9 o'clock this morning in the home of the bride's parents, 1407 Main street.

The couple was unattended and entered the living room to the soft strains of "Love's Coronation," played by Mrs. Harrison H. Havner, mother of the bridegroom.

An wedding attire, Mrs. Havner wore a modish suit of beige and brown wool, with accessories of wine. On her shoulder she wore a corsage of white gardenias.

Immediately following the marriage, the couple left for Lubbock where they planned to board a noon train for Denver, Colo., where they will make their home.

The former Miss Stalcup is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stalcup and was graduated from the Big Spring high school with the class of 1934. She attended Texas Technological college for two years.

Havner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison H. Havner of Chicago, Ill., and is a graduate of Carleton university of Northfield, Minn. He has recently been employed by the Standard Milling company in Lubbock where he met his future bride. He is being transferred by that company to Denver.

Guests for the ceremony in addition to parents of the couple were Mrs. I. M. Smith of Vernon, Mrs. Lewis J. Byrd of Tyler, Miss Roberta Lee Hanson, Miss Caroline McCleskey, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Duval, Miss Emily Stalcup, and Patsy Stalcup.

READING AND WRITING

By JOHN SELBY

HEINRICH HEINE: PARADOX AND POET.

By Louis Untermyer; (Harcourt, Bruce; 2 Volumes; $6).

Louis Untermyer, unofficially the "official" translator of Heinrich Heine since the appearance 20 years ago of his selection from the German work, has gone himself one better.

That is to say, he has assembled these earlier efforts, reworked some of them, and added a great many more translations. Then he has written a very fair and readable, if superficial, biography of the poet and published the two books in a box for the Christmas trade.

Translating poetry is, of course, a very dangerous proceeding. Translating German lyric poetry is probably easier than a transliteration of French, since the roots of German are deeper in English than those of French. Just the same, Heine's often subtle lyrics are enough to frighten the staunchest, and such a success as Mr. Untermyer has had deserves applause.

The biography was, frankly, a disappointment to this reader. It hews too closely to the literary line, and misses many of the most inviting side paths. For example, it is known that the gist of Heine as a man lies far more in his prose correspondence from Paris than in his poetry. The extraordinary precision with which this unhappy genius sliced up those he disliked was only equalled by the sickening sycophancy of his attitude when he felt that to be the "politic course."

And he drew the material for these often acid essays from the whole of Paris, not merely literary Paris. Mr. Untermyer does not even mention Bellini, the composer, although Heine wrote the most devastating caricature of him a musician was ever subjected to. The painters are almost as summarily dismissed, though not quite.

George Sand's two feet were in opposing camps--musical camps through her own efforts. The bare fact of Heine's tortured life is in the book, of course. And the author deserves thanks for not dragging out the horrors of the last days when, suffering from the syphilitic legacy of earlier dalliance, the poet lay in a morphia daze, shot with agony. But there is a lot more to Heine than Mr. Untermyer's book contains.

to 35 pounds of pressure. And with a new gauge perfected this year by George Steinacker, university mechanic, it is possible to measure to a quarter of a pound just how muscled the jaw must be to grind through a steak. Juiciness of the steak is measured by the pressometer, which exerts a pressure of 250 pounds.

Local Option Elections On Liquor Being Held In Texas At Rate Of More Than One Per Week

AUSTIN, Nov. 25 (AP)—Texas guzzled 427,500 gallons of liquor and 5,153,000 gallons of beer in October but whether the dry or wet was gaining strength appeared indefinite. County local option elections, being run off at a rate of more than one a week, probably are indicative and, of 31 held since May, Prohibitionists gained new territory in 11. In the 13 counties, cities or precincts already dry remained so after local option elections and seven wet governmental units held their same status following elections.

TEXAS REVENUES FOR YEAR WELL ABOVE EXPENDITURES

AUSTIN, Nov. 25 (AP)—The cost of Texas state government jumped $19,076,282 last year but revenues increased $27,027,796.

The report of Comptroller George H. Sheppard yesterday showed income had exceeded outgo of $144,770,347 by $9,849,784, indicating no "red" on the state's books. The figures were for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31.

The deficit of $17,000,000, reported by Treasurer Charley Lockhart, existed in the state general fund.

R. S. Calvert, statistician for the comptroller's department, said the excess in revenues had gone mainly to school, University of Texas, county and district road bond amortization and unemployment compensation funds.

The greatest single items of cost were expenditures of $53,194,207 for highways, $44,804,271 for education and $20,519,716 for old age and Confederate pensions, which amounted to 81 per cent of the total.

Highway expense decreased $512,400 from last year while education increased $1,533,220 and pensions, with old age administration in the account the first time for a full year, sky-rocketed by $1,670,545.

The highest source of income was the gasoline tax which yielded $40,551,756, an increase of $4,309,110. Gross receipts taxes, mainly levies on natural resources, brought in $19,589,506 as against $12,255,844 the year previous. The ad valorem tax returned $18,000,243 compared with $16,126,984.

County, federal and other aid netted $31,777,143, the cigarette tax $8,440,814 and liquor, wine and beer license, $5,795,513.

Funds for non-governmental purposes also were handled by the state, such as collecting $13,724,565 for unemployment compensation

Player Keeps On Despite Mishaps

HOUSTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—John (Fats) Crawford has practiced 90 hours of football to get to play 67 minutes.

Four long years the Rice Institute substitute tackle has slaved and scrimmaged. Then on Saturdays Crawford sat on the bench.

He reported to Rice in 1934, a husky 210 pounder. Against college competition he proved a little slow, especially when he started tipping the scales at 220, 230 and now at a plentiful 250.

He banged heads with variety men all of 1935 and sat on the bench. Last year he played 67 minutes—but 30 of those were in a breaker game against Sam Houston State Teachers college.

The seventeen minutes Crawford, a Fort Worth boy, played against Texas A. & M. in 1936 will always stand out in his mind remittances to the federal government, making a grand total collected of $192,078,728.

Portable generating units are now available for carrying temporary loads in electrical systems.

Crawford was sent in for a goal line stand and almost single-handedly turned back the Aggies three times in a row.

This year hard luck hit him. He had an infected throat at first and then concussion of the brain suffered on the practice field. He hasn't played a minute this season.

But John (Fats) Crawford likes football.

"If it hadn't been for injuries, I would have been in there this year, I betcha," he said. "Wait until next year."

Fortune Goes To Help Mold Noble Men

Administration of 50-Million Foundation Begins Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (UP)—Administration of the $50,000,000 foundation created by the late Charles Hayden for the moral, mental and physical training of boys and young men will start soon after Jan. 1.

Trustees named in the will of the bachelor banker, who died Jan. 8, 1937, said they would embark upon their task as soon as the will has been probated and the exact amount of the principal and probable income determined.

The chief beneficiaries will be the charities and organizations which the banker aided in his lifetime. The bulk of the money, it was said, will be spent here in Boston, where he was born and started his career.

Scope May Be Broadened

Joshiah Willard Hayden of Boston, the banker's brother and one of the trustees, said that "later, perhaps, we can broaden the work to include individual cases as well as organizations."

The banker stated in his will that it was his desire to aid in the building of a "noble race of men" by assisting needy boys and young men, aiding charitable and public educational organizations in the development of youth, founding educational scholarships, providing and maintaining institutions for the advancement of learning, and building and equipping clubs, gymnasiums and recreation centers.

In addition, Hayden directed the trustees to continue at their discretion contributions to those organizations which he aided during his lifetime.

Salvation Army Included

American Red Cross, the Boys Club of New York and the Boys Club of America, the Boy Scouts, Foundation of Greater New York, the Charity Organization Society of the City of New York, the Children's Aid Society, Institute for the Crippled and Disabled, Madison Square Boys' Club, National Recreational Association, the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the Roosevelt Hospital and the Salvation Army.

Trustees in addition to the banker's brother are Arthur J. Ronan, president of the Equitable Trust Company, and Edgar A. Doubigoss, controller of Hayden Stone & Company, of which Charles Hayden was a senior partner.

'Contact Men' Help Boost U.S. Trade

Special Commerce Service Credited For Rapid Gains

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (UP)—To promote and facilitate a foreign trade volume which, according to latest estimates, will total more than $6,000,000,000 in 1937, the United States has developed an elaborate system of commercial "contact men" extending to every region of the world.

This "foreign commerce service" cost the government approximately $3,000,000 last year, but is believed to have been responsible for some of the nation's world commerce during the past two years. Since 1934, the foreign commerce of the United States virtually has tripled itself.

The foreign commerce service is closely allied to the diplomatic service, but its functions are entirely different. It is by this complete separation, commercial experts contend, that the United States foreign commerce service has been able to develop its remarkable efficiency.

Have Diplomatic Status

Although commercial attaches and trade commissioners have a liaison with the embassies and legations and enjoy diplomatic immunities and privileges, the commerce "contact men" are commissioned only to develop and report on foreign trade and foreign trade possibilities. All of them are trained economists and statisticians, as well as being thoroughly conversant with finance, business, and international affairs.

The United States maintains 100 such agents in various business capitals of the world. The most important posts are in Latin America, London, Berlin, Paris, Ottawa, Shanghai and Manila.

Head of Lys organization is H. Lawrence Groves, whose title is director of foreign commerce service in the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Groves also is a member of the reciprocal trade agreements committee, which compiles recommendations for the negotiation of the agreements for tariff concessions with other nations.

Trained to Be Civil Engineer

The director has engaged in government commerce work since 1919. Before that he held positions with several of the largest industrial organizations in the United States. By profession he is a civil engineer.

Groves served in European posts between 1919 and 1933, making a remarkable record for establishing commercial contacts for United States business and industrial interests. In 1935 he was appointed assistant director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and later was promoted to his present position.

Groves is a firm believer in the Roosevelt reciprocal trade agreements program, and under his administration, the foreign commerce service has made considerable research in ways of easing trade barriers and restrictions between nations.

Pastor Declines Baptist Offer

Whole Town Is Assured Meal

MICHIGAN, Ind., Nov. 25 (AP)—Just about everyone in this town of 419 persons was assured a free Thanksgiving dinner today—Ophir Davis will say to that.

Davis, who died Feb. 18, 1929, created a trust fund of $2,000 to finance the meal.

Little Change In The Crude Outlook

Industry's Position Due To Be Strong At Year's End

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 25 (AP)—Thanksgiving's holiday finds the petroleum industry comparatively thankful.

There will be gratitude that the gasoline market is no weaker than it is, that the burning oil demand is carrying on, that curtailment measures have stemmed production until the crude market looks steady.

Executives agreed today conditions substantially were unchanged for the week. Burning oils continued the feature of the refined market as colder weather set in and householders began increased use of the estimated 1,275,000 domestic burners now installed.

The rub in the demand for this product was that not a great supply was on hand and that further refinery activity to produce it would add to the present stocks of gasoline, already a drug on a weak market.

Oklahoma Decrease

The projected 15,000 barrel daily decrease in the Oklahoma crude allowable for December to be recommended Friday to the state corporation commission was regarded in line with the general policy of curtailment to make up for excess production early in the year.

In view of the new Oklahoma cut, following that of Texas last week, crude men felt even better about their market and forecast a healthy statistical condition at the year-end.

The weekly report of the Independent Petroleum association, in fact, thought there might be justification for a crude advance, if the available supply could be taken as a standard for determining the price.

Those interested in field operations started predicting even greater activity for 1938, basing the forecast on the fact that for two years no great new discoveries have been made.

It was evident that when all the reports were in, field work in this year would have shown a great increase over 1936. The Oil and Gas Journal's compilation showed 597 new wells completed for the week, 33 fewer than the week before. So far this year 28,066 completions had been made, compared to 23,491 for the same period last year.

More Names Brought Into Talk Of Possible Candidates For Office

(Herald Austin Correspondent) AUSTIN, Nov. 25.—A big field of second-trench candidates for Texas public office was shaping Thanksgiving week, to backdrop the front-line Thompson-McGraw-and-may-be Alfred battalion.

Robert Lee Bobbitt, chairman of the highway commission, and Rep. Clarence E. Farmer of Fort Worth had been mentioned, while strong echoes of the prospect that Sen. G. H. Nelson of Lubbock may aspire had reached Austin.

The Bobbitt and Nelson candidacies are wholly conditioned on the absence of Gov. James V. Alfred. If he makes the third-trench race that has been talked of much recently, neither would enter, regardless of the decision either or both might reach if he stays out.

The guessers saw the possibility that Harry Hines, for two years chairman, now a member, of the highway commission, and a citizen of Wichita Falls which has furnished half the governors and most of the candidates in recent years, may have a fling at the governor's race.

This brought up an interesting contingency of politics. Highway commissioners are appointed, but there was the possibility that all three of the members might be on the stump next summer, seeking elective office. That would mean Bobbitt and Hines running against Chmn. C. V. Terrell, who will ask re-election.

Rep. Farmer has been mentioned, and has encouraged the mentioning by inviting audiences to express themselves on the subject, and to submit platform proposals. He is an advocate of big, liberal, widespread pensions for the aged, and as part of his program was ready to levy taxes to pay the bill.

Sen. Nelson, in his second senate term, has been a consistent supporter of Gov. Alfred's programs. His candidacy, if he should run, would be based wholly on the prospect of a lot of votes from that corner.

We give thanks for the opportunity to serve --- to learn --- to grow in the spirit of thankfulness.
