Farmers Wait 18 Years For Money From Government

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—An 18-year fight to persuade the government to pay him for land seized when Camp Custer was built was ended for Will Helmer, with the passage in congress of a bill appropriating $15,000 to reimburse him for rent and damages.

Helmer, a nursery man, was told by a government agent in 1917 that a railroad track from the Michigan Central railroad would cross his farm into Camp Custer. The work, the agent said, was to start the next day.

Contractors immediately began operations. Helmer's fences were torn down, his nursery stock was uprooted. He even had to ask permission to cut his hay from the commanding officer at Camp Custer.

Helmer finally became disgusted; cold his dairy cows, and quit farming.

For the next 18 years he tried to collect compensation. At first the government insisted the railroad company was liable, but in 1930 the war department admitted the government was liable.

DETROIT WINS FROM CHICAGO BY 2-1 SCORE

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Alvin Crowder pitched the Detroit Tigers to their third straight victory of the World Series at Wrigley Field this afternoon to win by a score of 2 to 1. REPORTS SAY ADUWA WILL SOON FALL

Rumors, Unconfirmed, Tell of Many Being Killed in Battles.

By United Press Addis Ababa, Oct. 5.—The Italian armies were steadily concentrating in Ethiopian territory today, government advices showed. In the north, infantry, light tanks, machine gunners and light infantry moved south from the Eritrean border in the region of Aduwa, scene of Italy's defeat in 1936.

It was reported Italians had occupied Aduwa, but officials were without direct news. However if the town has not fallen its capture is believed imminent.

Ethiopia is not expected to check the first steam roller Italian advance from the north, but expects to hamper its advance as much as possible, retreating slowly. When the Italians enter Aduwa they are likely to find nothing but civilians.

Commanders of the Ethiopian forces in the north reported in a delayed telegram that Italian planes were flying over the entire region, spraying any Ethiopian attachments they encountered. It was reported women and children were fleeing for safety.

There has been heavy fighting near Adigrat, captured yesterday, the telegram stated, and that many had been killed. His message was interpreted as meaning 100 to 200 had been killed though wild rumors filled the capital.

One such report was that 1,500 had been killed at Aduwa, and another was that an Italian plane fell in flames when Ethiopian troops attacked it with machine guns. Both reports were discounted.

The emperor made every effort to distribute ammunition stores to the best of his ability. A fleet of nearly a dozen trucks left for the front laden with bullets.

Unconfirmed by apparently reliable reports said the Ethiopians in north Gondar had won a victory in a clash with Italian troops today.

Because of the reported Italian advance from the East and South, Emperor Selassie warned of the danger of an air raid. He accepted an offer of assistance from the International Red Cross at Geneva and from British Red Cross workers in East Africa.

Three columns of Italian troops, tanks and machine gunners, are pushing forward tonight, all aimed at Aduwa and sweeping south toward the capital.

These columns are pushing forward under the most difficult circumstances under a broiling tropical sun and clouds of dust. Italian black shirts and black native troops from Eritrea are moving slowly over stony roads. They were impassable for most of the transports and sometimes it was necessary to walk when even the mules were unable to pass.

Thousands of laborers and engineers followed, frantically rolling stones, cutting down trees and widening the trail for trucks and soldiers. The roads were progressing at about six miles a day.

CC Secretary Says Sale of Goods to Clear Fair Debts

Sale of unused merchandise from the Eastland county fair to Cisco Boosters for a celebration they are staging in the near future will clear the Eastland County Fair association from indebtedness incurred during the recent event, H. C. Davis, chamber of commerce secretary, reported at the smoker on Connelley hotel Friday night.

Rev. Charles W. Estes urged cooperation and aid with the commerce in making the 1936 fair bigger than that of this year.

Milburn McCarty, district director for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, urged support of the regional chamber's plea to the legislature that relief be given property owners.

McCarty also reported on Highway 89. Discussion brought out that the commerce's sign east of town, recently blown down, would be re-erected.

Hamilton McRae, the commerce president, presided.

Families Urged to Nudge Sons Into CCC If Eligible

Sons in families who are on direct relief should be urged to make application for enrollment in the Civilian Conservation Corp at the call from Oct. 10 to 20, Wortham Seale, case worker in charge, suggested Saturday.

A quota of 40 is expected for Eastland county. Rulings making it easier and of more inducement for youths to enroll in the CCC were cited by Seale as follows:

Lowering of age limit from 18 to 17, men who have served 13 months may now re-enroll, if budgetary requirements of the family to whom the enrollee sends his money exceeds $25 then members of the family will not be prohibited in participating in the works progress administration program.

Confidence in U. S. Comes From Europe

If the return of the million-dollar gate to the fighting racket made it seem as if happy days were here again, with the voice of the turtle being heard in the land once more, the latest news about gold shipments has a similar sound.

Transatlantic liners are bringing the metal to America once more, even as in the good old days before the crash. Latest estimates are that fully a billion dollars' worth will be brought in before the trend changes.

What the effect of all this may be is something for the economists to worry over. It is this which has caused this movement that is interesting.

Europe is sending over gold simply because foreign investors have a relatively greater confidence in the future of this country than they have in their own.

The threat of war never very far removed from Europe, is right down around the housetops these days. The rhythmic crash of the feet of marching men on the pavement may have a sweet sound to the militarists and the dictators, but it is the sort of thing that scares an investor out of his wits.

In addition, Europe's various dictators have yet to prove that they know just what to put in baby's bottle to promote growth and health. Such men as Hitler and Mussolini came to power as a result of agonizing economic crises, but they are not miracle workers.

Putting Parliament in jail and ruling the nation through the voice of one man may save a lot of lost motion, but it does not automatically end unemployment and balance budgets.

By way of contrast, over on this side of the Atlantic, there is a great nation which seems as little likely to go to war as any country on earth—and which stands the best chance of all of coming out of it comparatively unscathed if war does develop.

It is also a democracy, with a form of government firmly established in the affections of the people; and whatever may be said about the faults of democracy these days, a blind man could see that the American government has a greater stability than the jerry-built dictatorships of Europe.

Added up, this simply means that European investors see in America the one nation that can look to the future with some measure of confidence.

In the face of that, some of our own frantic fears look rather silly. Can't we at least have as much confidence in our own future as Europe has?

An Alabama Negro on His Way to Ring Championship

Joe Louis, a native of Alabama, of negro and Indian blood, is on his way to the ring championship of the world. He made a chopping block of Playboy Baer and knocked the Californian out in four rounds. Joe had it all his own way. He made a monkey out of the White Bruiser and he retired on his laurels with a new wife and winnings that run into the thousands.

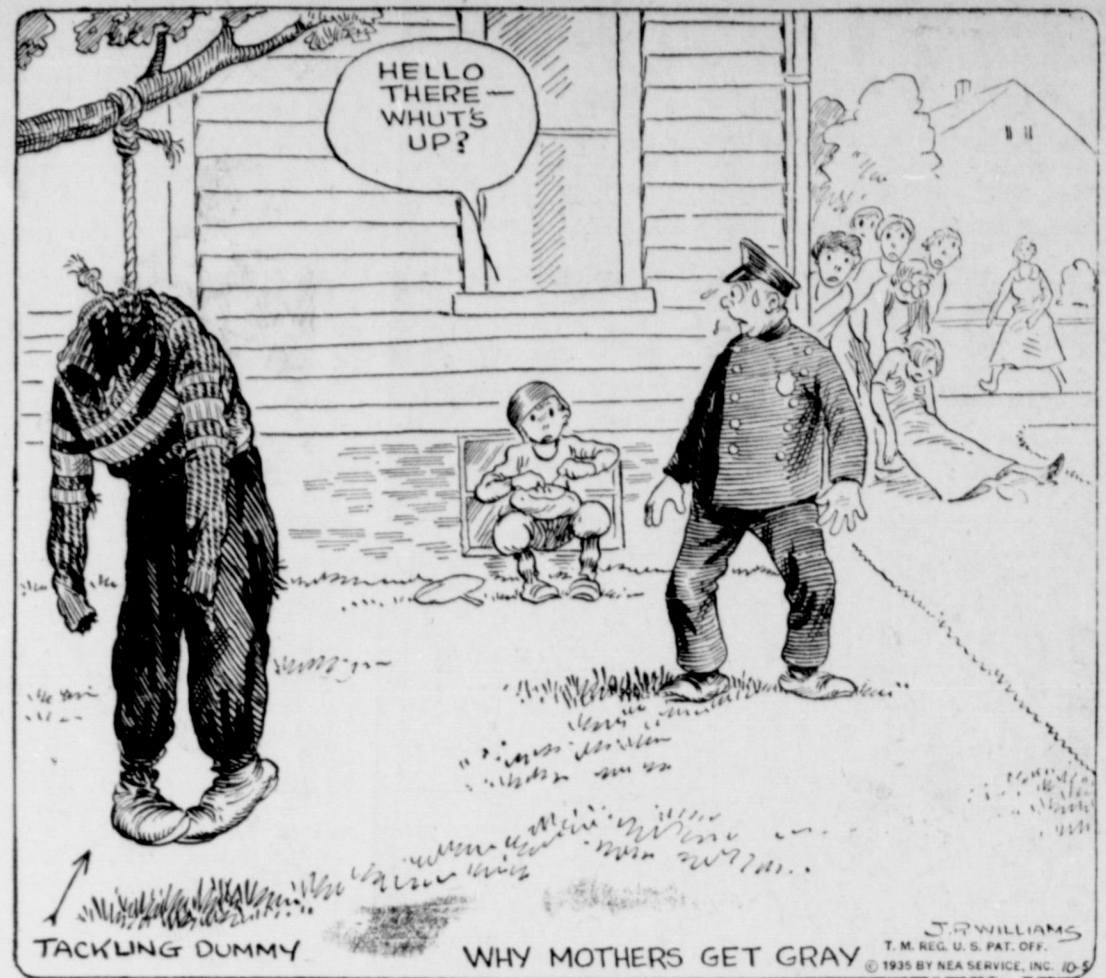

There must be a lot of money in America, when those who have the coin in their purses can afford to pay fancy prices for tickets to witness a gory battle between the idols of the fistic ring of today—and the promoters of the brutal game in the greatest city of the western world.

County Boards of Parole in Texas

Gov. James V. Allred has announced that parole boards have been approved in eight counties in Texas through the cooperation of district governors and presidents of local service clubs. Bexar county is the eighth organized. County parole boards are to be charged with the community service responsibility of rehabilitating paroled or pardoned criminals and making periodical reports to the governor.

Freshmen Win—

Snodgrass heaved a long pass, which was completed, but Agnew brought down the ball carrier from behind after a short race, to prevent a score.

Ranger's only threat came near the close of the first half when Jones intercepted a Daniel Baker pass on his 20-yard line and raced back to the Daniel Baker 38 before being stopped.

The Rangers' line plays were stopped completely by the Daniel Baker forward wall, few gains being made through the line, though the Rangers resorted to line plays entirely through the first three quarters.

Daniel Baker was particularly effective with a short, fast pass early in the game, but later resorted to a longer aerial for most of her gains.

Outstanding for Ranger on the defense was Jones, who made most of the gains, while the entire line was good on defense.

For Daniel Baker, Snodgrass was almost the whole show, passing effectively, running around ends to good advantage and having a decided advantage on punts.

The starting lineup: Ranger—Campbell and Walsh, ends; Love and Sparks, tackles; Barsley and Adams, guards; Gooden, center; Jones, quarter; Agnew and Townsley, halves; Anderson, full.

Daniel Baker—Angel and Pettig, ends; Alford and Evans, tackles; Jacks (c) and Davis, guards; Johnson, center; Snodgrass, quarter; McDaniel and Tucker, halves; Watson, full.

The Colony Branches showed remarkable improvement under the coaching of Cecil (Batey) Townsend Friday afternoon when they held the strong Olden Hornets to a 6 to 6 tie in a nicely played game at Colony.

This is Colony's first football season, and the team was decidedly green early in the season, losing its first games by large scores, but the improvement shown in the last two games makes followers of the team believe that it is developing rapidly.

All the scores of the game were made in the last half, the Olden score coming after a blocked punt, the conversion after touchdown failing.

Colony's touchdown came in the fourth quarter, starting with the ball on the 50-yard line. Two passes, both from Stuard to Brawner, put the ball on the five-yard line and Stuard carried it over for the Colony score.

This was the second game of the season between the two teams, the Olden Hornets winning the first by a score of 19 to 0 earlier in the season.

Outstanding players for Colony were Brawner, O'Shields, Alderson and Stuard and the entire team showed much improvement from the earlier games.

First downs were about evenly divided between the two teams.

Colony P.T.A. Holds Important Meeting

The Colony Parent-Teacher Association had its opening meeting Oct. 3, which proved a very busy, profitable and pleasant one, since important plans are being made for the coming year.

West Reports Old Medical Fakes Are Being Revived

RENO, Nev.—Medical fakery again is coming to light in western states, and public health officials are moving to combat it.

The "handkerchief racket" has been found flourishing in California.

An eastern firm carries on the curious business of advising the handkerchief (together with a modest fee). The handkerchief, says the firm, will be blessed and returned to the sender, resulting in the patient's recovery.

Instructions are given the patient that no food is to be taken while the handkerchief is in transit. As a result, one man nearly starved to death, his plight being discovered by neighbors.

Sun-bathing facilities are another profitable "medical" field, as are electric treatments, spiritual treatments and correcting defective vision by use of colored lights.

State Officers to Seek Re-Election During Next Year

By United Press
AUSTIN, Tex.—The announcement that rivalries of various state officers had been quieted and that all will seek re-election to their present jobs, received additional confirmation when Railroad Commission Chairman E. O. Thompson announced his intentions for 1936. Thompson was one of the present state officials who had been mentioned as a possible candidate for Governor next year. He said his announcement for the same office was made at this time because of inquiries. A Houston petroleum engineer is rumored as a possible contestant. Governor Allred side-stepped when asked if he would seek re-election. "Campaigns are long enough and hard enough without stretching them out over so great a time" he parried. The Governor added no comment when it was suggested that a governor is considered a candidate for a second term until he announces otherwise. Rumors that he had been tendered a federal judgeship formed the only basis for speculation that he will not seek re-election. Such a place might appeal to him. From the Armistice until last January, he was continuously engaged in law matters. Each of the five Allred brothers have been court stenographers. The Governor admits he was the poorest of the five at court reporting. Lawyer's stenographer, court reporter, lawyer, district attorney, Attorney General, have been the stages of his law career.

The GOLDEN FEATHER by Robert Bruce

BEHIN HERE TODAY
JEAN DUNN greets 21-year-old owners and BOBBY WALLACE. Young automobile salesman, spend an evening at The Golden Feather night club.

ART LANNING, the proprietor, introduces SANDY HARKINS to them. Sandy explains he is in town on business. He and Jean dance. When he asks if he can telephone her she agrees.

Enter LARRY GLENN, friend of Jean's father, John Jean and Bobby Glenn is a lawyer now engaged in government work. Bobby and Jean are both delighted to see him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

AT that moment, "This Harkins guy" was sitting at a table on the far side of the room talking earnestly with two men. One of them was Art Lanning; the other was a small, black-haired man, who sat slouched over his glass and kept darting quick, alert glances about the room.

"I'm telling you, that's all," said Lanning. "Never mind where I found out. She comes from a small town downstate, and her father is president of the local bank."

The black-haired man looked sideways at Harkins and grinned. "Can you hear opportunity when it comes knocking?" he asked.

Sandy Harkins grinned back at him.

"Don't rush me," he said. "I only just met her. She's kind of a near little number, at that."

He let his gaze wander across the room to the table where Jean Dunn was sitting with Bobby Wallace and Larry Glenn.

"Who's the guy with her?" asked the black-haired man suddenly.

"Boy friend," said Sandy.

"No, not him—I mean the older one."

Sandy looked at Larry Glenn.

"Never saw him before," he said. "He wasn't there when I went over."

The other man took a longer look.

"I don't like his looks," he said unexpectedly.

"What's the matter with him?" asked Sandy.

"I don't know. He just looks kind of like trouble, that's all. Know who he is, Art?"

The proprietor of the night club shook his head.

"He's a new one on me."

The black-haired man turned away and shrugged his shoulders.

"Well," he said, "I don't like his looks."

"Forget it," said Sandy. He turned to Lanning. "What's this girl doing in Dover?" he asked.

"She's a stenographer, or something," replied Lanning. "Works for Donald Montague, the lawyer."

The other two men raised their eyebrows and looked at one another for a moment.

"Did you say anything about opportunity?" asked Sandy, grinning. Lanning looked puzzled, and said, "What about it?"

"Well," said the black-haired man, "we might want to do a little business with this Montague some day, that's all. And if this dame—"

He looked again at Harkins.

"I guess you've got an assign ment," Sandy, he concluded.

ALL subconscious of the fact that she was waiting so extensively

Bobby chuckled. "Jean wanted to go slumming," he said. "She wanted to see life in the raw."

in this mysterious conversation. Jean Dunn rested her chin in her hands and looked fondly at Larry Glenn.

Not only was Larry older and stronger than either Jean or Bobby; he was a familiar person almost a relative, it seemed. He came from their town, Maplehurst; he knew their parents; they had known him since earliest childhood; and Bobby, as well as Jean, had the feeling that either of them, in case of need, could appeal to him and be sure that whatever needed fixing would be fixed without delay or the asking of needless questions.

"What're you doing now?" asked Jean. "And how come you're in Dover?"

"Well," said Larry, "I'm a lawyer, you know. Right now I'm doing some work for Uncle Sam, and I just got transferred here."

"You're working for the government?" said Jean. "What sort of work is it, Larry?"

"Well," he said, "the last thing I did was investigate the circumstances of a bankruptcy case in which a business man tried to conceal some $50,000 worth of assets from his creditors. It was dry as dust, and I'm sure you wouldn't care to hear about it. Suppose you tell me what you're doing here."

"But we told you," protested Jean. "I'm working for Mr. Montague, and Bobby's selling autos."

"No, no," said Larry, smiling at her. "I mean here—in the Golden Feather."

Bobby chuckled.

"Jean wanted to go slumming," he said. "She wanted to see life in the raw. I guess she was hoping that we'd see lots of wicked people behaving evilly in here. She wanted both a shock and a thrill."

JEAN made a dainty little face at her suitor.

"I did not! We just—well, I'd never been in a night club in my life before. And I'd heard people talk about this one, and I knew my boss, Mr. Montague, comes here pretty often. And then one day this Mr. Lanning was up in the office to see Mr. Montague about something, and Mr. Montague knew I'd never been to a night club so he introduced me and Mr. Lanning amended, laughing. "I mean—well for example; take this Harkins lad you pointed out to me a few minutes ago. Who's he?"

"He?" echoed Jean uncertainly. "Why, I—I don't know. Mr. Lanning introduced him to me, that's all. And Mr. Lanning is a friend of Mr. Montague. He must be all right, isn't he?"

"I'm not saying that he isn't," said Larry. "For all I know he may be the president of a Christian Endeavor Society or something. My point is just this: if you patronize places of this kind regularly, you meet all sorts of odd strangers in them—and you never have a chance in the world of finding out just who they are. They may be all right, and they may be most decidedly all wrong—and you never know until too late. Let me repeat: I didn't mean anything personal about this Harkins chap. I never saw him before. He may be a very fine young man. My point is that the contacts which you are going to make in a place like the Golden Feather are bound to be rather mysterious, especially when you're practically a stranger in a big town. And because I've known you two youngsters ever since you used to play hopscotch on the sidewalk in front of my mother's house, I just wanted to warn you."

The two were momentarily sobered. Conversation lagged for a minute, as they glanced curiously about the room, trying to realize that the people at the tables and on the dance floor might be sinister creatures with lawless and violent backgrounds.

At last Jean chanced to look at the tiny platinum watch on her wrist.

"Heavens!" she gasped. "I didn't know it was so late. Larry, I've got to get home and get to bed. Bobby, you're ready to go, aren't you?"

Larry walked to the door with the two young people, patted them fondly on their shoulders and saw them into a taxicab. As the car rolled away, he stood in the entrance for a moment, looking after it with thoughtful eyes, and the firm line of his mouth was troubled. Then he shrugged his shoulders and walked back into the night club.

General Butler, scheduled to arrive at noon today, spent last night in Greenville. He is accompanying his mother, Mrs. Thomas Butler, to visit her son in Eastland.

Butler will speak Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the Connelley theatre in Eastland on the Ttalo-Ethiopian situation.

Commanders of American Legion posts in 16 cities of this section have been invited as guests of honor at the speaking. Invitations have been sent commanders in towns which include the following:

Breckenridge, Mineral Wells, Albany, Graham, Strawn, Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Abilene, De Leon, Rising Star and Dublin.

The Civic League of Eastland is sponsoring the address Wednesday night.

People do not forget the battle he fought to clean up Philadelphia nor that he is the only man in history to be awarded two Congressional Medals; that he has been publicly honored on many occasions and received promotion at the hands of four presidents. Theodore Roosevelt said, "Smedley Butler is the ideal American Soldier." "Old Gimlet Eye," his men called him; still, in his book of that name Lowell Thomas recalls the now famous incident of Butler, dismounted, leading his horse that a wounded soldier may ride.

A slender, agile, impetuous man of average height, with sloping shoulders, a thin prominent jaw, a large nose, strong wrists and fiery eyes, General Butler has seen service the world over and has often attracted the nation's attention both in uniform and in mufti.

Out of uniform, as Director of Public Safety in Philadelphia, a post he held for two years, his words were spectacular and his language even more so. He trod on too many political toes, and in December, 1925, was ousted from the job. His fearless tongue made him some enemies and many friends. Compromise with the truth—he would not. It has been said, "His speeches have been his big trouble—more trouble than all the bandits he ever fought in Haiti, Nicaragua or China." And when for reason of political jealousy or intrigue, he has been taken to task for them, the people have relished the conflict, and the more publicity he got, the better it was for the General. So Butler is at it again—and from the size of his audiences the public seems to like it.

That Reminds Me—

(Continued from page 1) hearted cooperation that is being extended by the members of the city commission and their coworkers. Mayor C. W. Hoffman is to be commended in his reactions of seeing that the city commission in their willingness to cooperate gives the first five volunteers arriving at a fire two dollars and the balance one dollar. That is real consideration to those who brave most anything to save the home and its contents when the dreaded fire roars through its walls. Chief Hennessey is one of the best.

The expected visit and lecture of Major General Smedley D. Butler in Eastland on Wednesday, October 9, has created advance publicity for Eastland from the major daily newspapers and press services over the nation as many telegrams have been received asking for General Butler's views on subjects as mentioned in the Telegram. The fact that General Butler will speak in Eastland has not been printed from one end of the nation to the other. Frankly... Eastland can feel the honor of the occasion and when the scheduled hour arrives there shouldn't be standing room left in the Connelley Theatre and no doubt there won't be and now is the time to time to get reservations to assure a seat. Prominent citizens from several parts of the state have stated their intention of being here and several cities are making a bid for General Butler's appearance in their respective towns.

Breckenridge in the game with San Angelo demonstrated that they have something above the ordinary and that they are to be watched as far as taking away the district honors are concerned. Maybe Eastland will fool them some day when they come here next Friday. Anyway get your tickets early for the game between the Buckaroos and the Mavericks next week as the crowd will be there and a good football game is on the cards.

THE OLD MAESTRO

Meet a New Scoutmaster Troop No. 28 has reorganized with Mr. Charles Cabler as Scoutmaster, D. F. Petty and R. B. Cole are on the Troop Committee and other committeemen will be elected at their next meeting. We predict a successful Scouting year for Troop 28 at Zephyr.

Troop No. 12 Scoutmaster Sterling Holloway and Asst. Scoutmaster Stuart Painter are "at the guns" again. It certainly looks as if Troop No. 12 will be "mixin' it" with some of the other troops in the coming rally of the Central District. Oct. 12.

From all reports the next Sectional Rally which is to be held in Breckenridge this coming Saturday night, Oct. 5, will be well attended and much enthusiasm and competitive spirit will prevail.

Troop No. 16 Reports Scoutmaster C. L. Pouncey took five Scouts of Troop 16 to Camp Billy Gibbons Friday night, where we "Buddied off" and did our own cooking. One fire being built by every two of us. We held an Indian ceremony after supper, which was under the direction of Gaitha Browning, "Chief Running Elk." Each of our Scouts wore a blanket with a band and feather headdress. Nature reports were called for, and the Chief told a thrilling Indian story. Although the night was cool we had a good night's rest and were up early the next morning preparing breakfast for us to take a sunrise hike up "Smuggler's Draw" to a cave. When the mouth of the cave was reached warm air was felt and an odor very much like that of boiling coffee came to our nostrils. How did we know but what some bandit or hermit was breakfasting in an inner chamber of the cave. After some hesitancy we explored the first room of the cave and a passageway leading to another, which we intend to explore at a later date. After coming from the cave we hiked to the mouth of Brady creek to see the San Saba river, which was rising some that morning. Many wild flowers met our gaze. Especially were the morning glories blooming in profusion on the cliffs and the walls of the ravines. We saw a blue crane carrying a fish in his mouth, on our way home. On this return trip we went off the road one-half mile to the mouth of "Old Mill Cave," but did not do any exploring, however, we did stop further on and go down into a cave that is only about 25 feet deep, the entrance being on level ground.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

Willis Thornton, NEA Service staff correspondent, is pinch-hitting for Rodney Dutcher, NEA Washington correspondent, during Dutcher's vacation.

BY WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—There is genuine prospect that "Rum Row" as it was known in prohibition days may be a thing of the past.

The various treasury agencies co-ordinating under direction of Harold Graves, assistant to the secretary, have "turned on the heat" to such extent that smuggling of illegal liquor has, for practical purposes, been cut to nothing at all.

Something like a year ago, when treasury agencies, such as the coast guard, alcohol tax division, customs men, secret service, internal revenue agents, and narcotic agents, were placed under co-ordination of Graves, liquor estimated at 2,000,000 gallons a year was being smuggled into the country from abroad.

Now the flood of illegal liquor is believed to be not more than a fifth of that, perhaps less, and certainly a trickle that is robbing the country of less than a million dollars a year in revenue and affecting the liquor market not at all.

Co-ordination of treasury agencies under Graves into a "Treasury Police" for the numbering nearly 13,000 men is certainly responsible for a great deal of this curbing of smuggling.

Agreements reached with smugglers' bases such as St. Pierre Miquelon, Belize, St. Johns, and Cuba, to prohibit exports obviously destined for smugglers' trade, has done the rest. The "romance" of Rum Row is pretty much a thing of the past.

POINT OF THE co-ordination of treasury agencies, in which Sec-

$5 Overpaid Man 25 Years Ago Repaid

CUERO, Texas.—A letter, enclosing a five dollar bill, was received by Freedom Brothers, a cotton firm. It read:

"Enclosed you will find five dollars that I owe you. About 35 years ago when I was a boy, I sold you a bale of cotton, and I was paid five dollars more than I was justly due. That thing has been nagging my conscience for some time. Will you please accept it in good faith and forgive me?"

The letter was mailed in Fort Worth.

Firemen Hold—

The entertainment features of the program included a dance number by Miss Ruth Hale. Novelty features by two itinerant entertainers on the accordion and guitar with music and song numbers brought applause. Fortune telling which was introduced as Miss Nosewhat included the crystal gazing prophecies of what happened and will happen in the trend of lives of the members.

City Manager Jep Little gave the figures on what the city has done to relieve the fire department of the strain of debt which has been hanging on, thereby saving several hundreds dollars in interest charges and also clearing up the obligations. It included debts on fire truck since 1929 fire hose, repairs on pump and other debts.

An impressive feature of the program was the candle lighting which in colors designates the term of service. Pink, less than 10 years, red more than 10 years, blue, honorary and white diseased. Those lighting pink candles were: Harvey Basham, Sam Cole, Bud Ferris, G. M. Harper, Noble Harkrider, Frank Hightower, Buster Key, L. O. Lynch, Ed Landry, A. Myrick, Gayland Poe, Guy Parker, Harvey Woods, John Williams, Carl Williams, Raymond Webb, Ceasar Hennessey, mascot.

Red Candles—Ed Bills, Neil Day, Argie Fehl, George Fields, Charles Fields, Merle Griffin, L. A. Hightower, A. W. Hennessey, H. M. Hart, John Harrison, R. E. Kilborn, W. A. Martin, Fred Michael, Wade Oglesby, A. C. Yeager.

Blue Candles—J. L. Gattis, J. H. Cheatham, J. E. Lewis, Ben Hamner, Jim Woods.

One white candle was lighted in memory of Clay Duke, only deceased member of the organization.

Uncle Tom Johnson was introduced as the "grand old man" of Eastland. Chas. Lucas was introduced as the new member of the commission. Mayor Hoffman announced that as a result of several conferences with the ladies auxiliary that inasmuch as volunteers go to a fire when the whistle blows with no time to make changes in clothes and that this naturally causes quite an expense to citizens rendering service without compensation that for the first five volunteers reaching a fire they will receive $2.00 each and all others $1.00 each.

The honor guest of the occasion was Jim Woods who was injured while on the line of duty and takes life cheerily in a wheel chair since the accident. A great ovation was given him which was demonstrative of the high esteem in which he is held in the memory of the fire department. The affair was held by all singing "Hail Hail the Gangs All Here," during the program the theme song of the department was sung by the ladies. Fire Chief Hennessey after lauding and praising the work of the volunteers announced that he was going to give the 25 or 30 kiddies present a ride over the city on the big hook and ladder truck. Other short talks were made by different members during the program.

The ladies auxiliary did all the work of cooking the good eats and seeing after the general program. They were organized for the first time in October, 1934. A complete silver and china as well as glass service, linens, etc., has been bought by the ladies. Many other necessary conveniences and necessities were furnished by the ladies. The affair is held the second Friday in October each year.
