No Style, No Class, No Work

At a time when people are stirred up over vast, world-shaking issues, it is somehow comforting to read about the strike of the seamen on the French liner Champlain.

These sturdy mariners rose up in protest—or, possibly, sat down—at Le Havre, because their employers had given them the wrong kind of uniforms. Their working clothes, they said, were the wrong shade of blue, and did not have stars on the sleeves. Because this was so they held up the vessel's scheduled sailing.

No there have been strikes, disputes, squabbles and set-toes enough, in recent years. Heaven knows; some of these have involved seamen, protesting against the sailor's age-old lot of cramped quarters, hard work and bad food. But this is something different.

Here we get no hackneyed complaint of moldy salt beef, stuffy fo'c'sles or brutal first mates; no recital of the dangers of gale, reef and shipwreck. Instead, it is something much simpler. The sailor's inalienable right to look picturesque has been infringed. Hence: trouble.

Perhaps all of this isn't quite as mirthful as it may seem. For there are plenty of callings on this earth in which that right to look romantic and colorful is one of the principal incentives.

Who can doubt that the cowboy sticks to his job at least partly because of the figure which it permits him to cut? He may discard his flaring chaps for dingy overalls, he may leave his six-gun to rust on a shelf in the bunk house, he may even give up the traditional bandana at the throat; nevertheless, he remains a person of infinite color and appeal, and he knows it—and that very fact has undoubtedly saved ranch bosses many a dollar in wages.

That the same thing is true of soldiers, of course, is self-evident. In piping times of peace, when enlistments lag, an army's first step is to devise gayer and trimmer uniforms. Soldiering is dull, monotonous work and the discipline is hard; what cares the recruit, if he can look the part of a natty, square-shouldered young hero?

Perhaps Robert Burns was only partly right; perhaps we do have a good share of that faculty of seeing ourselves as others see us.

We may get the picture out of focus pretty often, but we do remain conscious of the way we look in other people's eyes, and it means a lot to us.

Persuade a man that he looks like a fine fellow and a gay adventurer and he will take on almost any job and put up with almost anything. A blue uniform and stars on the sleeve can make up for a lot.

Otters have appeared off the coast of California, and the state is forbidding hunters to shoot them, because it doesn't think they otter.

A Cornell professor states that fish do not hear. Oh, to be a fish, now that swine is here.

ELECTRICITY Will Keep You Comfortably Cool this Summer with COMFORT COOLING

"Why swelter indoors when Electricity will Bring Cooling Breezes at the Snap of a Switch"

This is how COMFORT COOLING works

A glance at the cut-away illustration above shows how a Comfort Cooling System brings air in through windows, and out through openings in the gables or eaves. Comfort Cooling installations are designed to fit each home, and to change the air in the home every minute.

In this part of Texas, it is almost the custom to move out of the house during the hot, summer months. On many evenings the house is too hot inside until late at night to make reading, cards or other diversions enjoyable.

Yet there is no longer any need of sweltering when indoors. With Comfort Cooling, you can stay inside in the hottest weather, for this ventilation system brings in a steady flow of fresh, invigorating air which produces an immediate cooling effect on the body.

You owe it to yourself and to your family to investigate how Comfort Cooling encourages sound, restful sleep on hot nights and makes a home comfortable on the hottest days.

Trial Flight

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

confident grin. He was standing, with Beryl Melrose, beside the silver ship, ready for the takeoff from Burbank. There was no news except what Jackie stood, knew, an account of the stratagem flight, giving the bullet as received on route, and then Roger's last message—and the silence that had followed.

Volunteers were scouring that section of the country where it was believed the plane—or what was left of it—would be found; farmers, townspeople, even the National Guard had turned out, besides a number of planes carrying on the search from the air. Without doubt, the paper stated, there would be some discovery before tonight.

IT was almost dinner time when Jackie reached home. She hurried up the stairs to her own room; she felt she simply could not face Evelyn, and all her questions and the fast she would make, now of all times. She felt she could not face anyone. Not until she knew what had happened to Roger.

Mac had promised he would let her know the moment he learned anything new. She knew she could depend on him. But oh, this terrible agony of waiting, this gnawing uncertainty! If she had thought those hours, waiting for Roger's call letters to come through to the little tower room, had dragged with leaden feet, what would these next hours be, how could she get through them?

"Are you home, darling?" Evelyn's voice outside the door, her hand rattling the knob. "Why, Jacqueline, you've locked your door! What on earth is the matter, child? Open it—it's mother, darling."

"Please, Mother... I have a headache," Jackie mumbled from the bed where she had thrown herself, face down, full length, finding that she was almost physically exhausted. She was glad she had thought to turn the key in the lock. Let Evelyn rattle it as much as she wished, Jackie would not admit anyone.

"A headache... dear me! I'll get you some..."

"I don't want anything! Just let me alone." Thank heaven, her mother apparently had not heard about Roger yet. She would not know what had happened until the regular evening edition of the paper.

"But, darling, you must let me do something for you!"

"Please, Mother!" Jackie threw

Mineral Wells Will Sponsor Wildflower Show On May 18-19

MINERAL WELLS—Garden Club members, lovers of flowers and civic leaders in towns and communities in this section of the state are being invited to attend the Wild Flower Show to be held in Mineral Wells Thursday and Friday, May 18-19, sponsored by the Texas Highway Department and City of Mineral Wells.

In addition to hundreds of wild flowers to be brought here and placed on display, picture show of flowers and places, talks on explanations by the highway department employees, the ladies of this city will also have a department of domestic flowers of all kinds.

The building next to the Turner-Wagley show room, 50x200 will be used seats will be furnished for the picture show, and the program will continue day and night through the two days.

M. C. Welborn, Division Engineer, will send representatives over Monday to start making the display. It will come over for a final approval of plans. In this city the show will be sponsored by the City Park Board, but actually conducted by a group of local ladies headed by Mrs. R. L. Yeager, Mrs. J. E. Johnson, Mrs. C. B. Williams, Mrs. Joel D. Cranford, Mrs. M. W. Hester, Mrs. E. B. Ritchie, Mrs. C. H. McMaster, Mrs. A. B. Conway, Mrs. Allen Guina, Mrs. H. A. Zappe and Miss Myla Baker.

Last year the show was held in Fort Worth and it was a real treat for lovers of wild flowers. The Highway Department officials were very gracious in their entertainment and went to much trouble and research to give the people a very elaborate show. This year, with the added attraction of domestic flowers and plants, and the more elaborate plans, it is contemplated that there will be a record attendance.

It is all free and everyone invited.

WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY BUTCHER

WASHINGTON—If and when the administration's spending program aimed at recovery gets going, it won't be handicapped by the old feud between WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins and PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes.

These two New Dealers are buddies again, drawn together at a time when the prestige of the administration in which they have played such important roles has reached its lowest ebb.

Hopkins was in for a long time at a Minnesota hospital at the time Ickes was out in front of the administration policies and monopoly last winter after the WPA administrator's return to Washington, the realization of a series of administration reverses, the seeming need for the small group of simple-pure-higher-up New Dealers to stand together while others deserted and the efforts of mutual friends soon brought the two men together in an alliance which seems likely to stick at least for the duration of the depression.

SENATOR BENNETT CLARK of Missouri, during Navy Bill debate: "Does the senator understand that when American sailors and marines landed at Vera Cruz they were defending the United States?"

Senator Tom Connally of Texas: "No, I did not say anything about that."

Senator Clark: "Does the senator agree that—"

Senator Connally: "No, I do not agree. I do not know what it is."

CRESCENT moon makes summer night beautiful. Crescent rolls make summer supper perfect.

Crescent Rolls
(21-22 dozen)

Two cakes compressed yeast, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup butter, 3 eggs, 4-2 to 5 cups flour.

Crumble yeast and add sugar. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes to liquefy. Scald milk. Add butter and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add yeast and beaten eggs. Add flour, mixing thoroughly. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled (about 2 hours).

Punch down, form into smooth ball. Grease the surface lightly, cover well and put into refrigerator.

Let Rise in Warm Room

When wanted, remove from refrigerator and let stand in warm room at least 1-2 hours before molding. Divide dough into 4 parts. Roll each part to 1-8 inch thickness. Brush with melted butter and cut in pie-shaped pieces. Roll each piece, starting at wide end. Place on greased baking sheet. Let rise until doubled. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 to 20 minutes.

Fresh berries from the garden, crisp bacon, sweet butter and hot coconut custard, there's a breakfast to make even the summer birds sing.

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Fresh orange juice with canned grapefruit juice, dry cereal, boiled eggs, coconut curlicues, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Mixed green salad bowl, hot crescent rolls, assorted cheeses, strawberries with powdered sugar, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Corned beef hash, poached eggs, French fried potatoes, asparagus vinaigrette, cherry dumplings, vanilla sauce, coffee, milk.

Coconut Curlicues
(About 1 dozen)

Two cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, 2-3 to 3-4 cup milk, brown sugar, coconut, melted butter.

Sift flour and measure. Mix and sift with baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening and add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently or pat out and fold four or five times.

Roll into a rectangular sheet 1-4 inch thick. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle generously with brown sugar and coconut. Roll jelly-roll fashion and cut in 1 inch slices. Place slices in muffin pans, each section of which has been well greased, and sprinkle with brown sugar and coconut. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 20 minutes.
