Gay Woolen Accessories

By RUTH ORK
Patterns No. 508 and 533
So often, winter gloves and hats are warm and ugly, or beautiful and useless. But this set, crocheted in soft yarn, is as attractive as it is worth while. The design is simple to make, and the finished set charming as well as suitable for practically any occasion. At the same time, they're cozy enough to foil winter's icy blasts. Pattern No. 508 includes hat and scarf directions, and No. 533 has clear directions for small, medium and large sizes.
The pattern envelopes contain complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions; also what crochet hooks and what material and how much you will need.
To obtain these patterns send for No. 508 and 533 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for each pattern to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring Herald, Needlework Department, P. O. Box 172, Station D, New York, N. Y.

Reviewer To Return December 7

Miss Oppenheimer To Review 'American Dream' For Club

The popular literary analyst who has attracted increasingly larger crowds in several appearances in Big Spring returns next week for another book discussion. She is Evelyn Oppenheimer of Dallas, who will be at the Settles hotel next Tuesday afternoon, December 7, for another review under auspices of the 1930 Hyperion club. The program is scheduled to start at 4 o'clock.

Miss Oppenheimer will review another best-seller, the Michael Foster novel, "American Dream," which has been one of the most popular of the current season's offerings.

Described as a "lusty, full-blooded" novel, "American Dream" is a moving chronicle of three generations of an American family; a story that deals with pioneering and all the adventure and romance that word implies.

Miss Oppenheimer, who made a series of appearances here last year, will be in the city next week for the second time this season under Hyperion club sponsorship. A capacity crowd is expected to hear her discuss "American Dream." Proceeds from the review, for which club members now are offering tickets, will go to the Hyperion organization's book fund for children.

READING AND WRITING By JOHN SELBY

"SERENADE," by James M. Cain; (Knopf; $2.50).

It probably is grief for his publisher, but the public should congratulate itself that James M. Cain is not the sort of novelist who feels he must turn out a book a year. It has been four years since "The Postman Always Rings Twice," Mr. Cain has changed some in the interim.

Mr. Cain out-Hemingwayed Hemingway in his first novel. He is now in danger of out-Gideing Gide, because of his choice of subject, however, and not because of its treatment. He is still the best of blood- and beer- writers, calling other things spades which are perhaps merely trowels. In "Serenade" Mr. Cain has tackled what the lit'ry boys call a "dangerous" subject, and usually avoid like poison. In other words, a battle between a woman and a man for the possession of a man.

The "S" of Mr. Cain's hard-hitting novel is a broken-down bagpiper who has somewhat inevitably lost the big in his voice because he has fallen for a very wealthy and gently diabolic chap whose hobby is music. Shame, horror, fear and other things drive the singer to try a Mexican engagement. He even flops in Mexico, but there he meets a kind of super-female. She is a lady of the evening, but her oneness becomes the baritone to the point where he can overlook everything.

They go away together. Through an almost incredible series of coincidences they come together to the States. There the movies, radio and finally even the Metropolitan fall successively at the singer's feet, because his voice has been restored to its pristine state by the femaleness of his Mexican tart. So far, so good. The tragedy is precipitated by the reappearance of the original villain, and how this is accomplished we prefer that Mr. Cain should explain.

The book holds you, and in spite of the fact that some pages are very hard indeed to "down," you eventually come to believe in Mr. Cain's belief in his characters. Whether you actually believe in them is a matter between you and your credulity. We warn you, however, that a good deal of Mr. Cain's patter about music is unsound. For example, it's not the horns which sound off-stage in the Leonard No. 3 overture. It's the trumpets.

CHAMP STEER SELLS FOR $2.35 POUND

Oklahoma A. and M. college, which exhibited the grand champ, was expected to receive $2,620 from the sale.

Life Of Foster Is Studied By Jr. Music Club

Miss Louise Berger Elected Secretary Of Girl's Club

The life and works of Stephen C. Foster were topics of the Junior Music club meeting Wednesday afternoon when the group met at the home of Miss Mary Evelyn Lawrence.

Miss Rozelle Stephens presided and the roll call was answered with a statement concerning the life of Foster.

Mrs. Herman Williams, club counselor, issued an invitation to the club to the open meeting of the Music Study club that will be held December 10 at the First Methodist church. Miss Louise Berger was elected secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Barbara Collins.

The afternoon program follows: Sketch of Stephen C. Foster. Doris Bankson Violin solo, "Stephen C. Foster Favorites" Louise Berger, accompanied by Mrs. Edmund Berger. Vocal solo, "My Old Kentucky Home" Janet Bankson With guitar accompaniment by herself.

Present were Misses Rozelle Stephens, Louise Berger, Flora Belle Squires, Mary Evelyn Lawrence, Doris Bankson, Janet Bankson, Mrs. Herman Williams, counselor, and Mrs. Edmund Berger, a guest.

The meeting on December 15 will be held at the Bankson home, 1401 Johnson street at 4 p. m.

Camera Used To Make Flying Safer

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—An ingenious camera developed by a government bureau is helping to make flying safer.

Its use was described at today's session of the National Association of State Aviation Officials by A. B. McMullen, chief of the airport section of the bureau of air commerce.

The camera, McMullen explained, automatically records the landing and takeoff characteristics of all types of planes—how fast they climb, their rate of acceleration and their performance at varying altitudes.

The data, in turn, is used to determine the size and character of the airport needed for the safe operation of the planes.

FAVORS REVISION OF TAX STRUCTURE

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Overhauling of the entire tax structure was listed as a national need by Secretary of Commerce, Daniel C. Roper in his address to the business advisory council last night.

General revision should be undertaken, he said, to simplify the determination of tax liability, to distribute the tax burden more equitably and to broaden the base of taxation.

The secretary said a larger percentage of the earning population should be included as taxpayers because "some contribution, however small, tends to increase one's interest in public affairs and create a constructive attitude toward one's government."

BUS STRIKE ENDS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2 (AP)—Nine Greyhound bus lines resumed normal operations in 16 states today, a compromise agreement negotiated by a federal labor conciliator, ending a strike of drivers called by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

John L. Conner, the federal labor conciliator, announced the settlement reached last night was "satisfactory to both parties."

Conner said that under the terms of the agreement, the companies granted wage increases but refused B.R.T. demands for a closed shop.

SAFETY RECORD

DALHART, Dec. 2 (AP)—C. C. Bradford, Robk Island switchman, had retired here today with a record of never having had a member of his work crew critically or fatally injured in more than 40 years of railroad work.

He had been with the Rock Island nearly 29 years, entering its service in June 1909 as brakeman in Eldon, Mo., and transferring to Dalhart as switchman Nov. 29, 1909.

DOLLARS WASTED ON UPKEEP CAN'T BUY NEW ROADS

Inferior roads seem cheap and easy to build. They stretch a paving fund so that it covers a lot of territory. But after a year or two, the trouble begins! Maintenance costs go up and up. Soon all your paving money is spent on upkeep . . . and no more new roads are built.

That's why it's wise—and economical—to build concrete roads. Concrete lasts! It requires almost no upkeep. Each year, the paving fund builds more miles of concrete until the whole job is done—for keeps. Concrete's smooth, non-skid surface is safe and satisfactory to drive on. It speeds up traffic . . . reduces accidents . . . saves gas, tires and repairs.

Get concrete. Insist on it—for safety, comfort and economy.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those aching, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 15 million waste particles.

If the 15 million waste particles and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Don's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give easy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Don's Pills.

Santa Claus Has $23,000,000 To Spend For Toys This Year

By the AP Feature Service

Santa Claus will need all his reindeer—and maybe an early start—to haul in the toy pack which will be parceled out to American children this year.

Thus far, say the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A., Inc., $230,000,000 has been earmarked for toys, a figure which hits a seven-year peak and tops the 1936 mark by 10 per cent.

Up-to-the-minute adult technique has gone into playland architecture, transportation and handicrafts, and many "luxury toys" have been produced in low price ranges for the first time.

"Children of 1937 want toys which will help them imitate grown-up activities in every possible way, just as children have done since the days of the cave-men," says the toy association.

War Toys Few

To supply this want, there are miniature steam engines with boilers fired with electricity, modern houses with glass walls, a real airplane motor that takes gasoline and yet is small enough to fit in the palm, trailers, a dial telephone in a television set—its dials with mirrors—and a new gun that shoots pictures on the wall.

The neutrality policy of the United States is reflected in the toys. The G-man, the engineer, the cowboy and even cartoon celebrities hold the stage, with war toys totalling only one per cent of the tents of her bottle lying down. Complete wardrobes are the latest in style for this year's "smart" doll.

The Science Field

As usual, there are toys which proud papa will buy with an eye to his own amusement as well as his junior's. There are electric trains that do their size equivalent of 100 miles an hour, with new automatic signals and illuminated crossing grades to add to thrills.

For those around-the-room tours, Santa Claus suggests a trailer.

Suggests Sympathetic Treatment In Caring For Narcotic Addicts

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 2 (AP)—Formation of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Narcotic Addicts was suggested today in a study of successful treatment of the habit by two officers of the U. S. public health service.

Reporting to the Southern Medical Association, Dr. Lawrence Kolb, medical director of the service, and Dr. W. F. Osenfort of the National Narcotic farm at Lexington, Ky., said many addicts can be restored to normal life by proper treatment and a sympathetic attitude from the public.

Many persons have been "cured of the narcotic habit" by being treated "as patients to be cured." Instead of being imprisoned, since the narcotic farm was opened in 1935, Dr. Kolb declared. Society must recognize, he said, that it will benefit economically as well as socially in treating narcotic addiction as a disease.

The "rational treatment" evolved by the service after long experience consists of gradual withdrawal of the narcotic from a patient, restraining him as little as is possible, and providing work and recreation which will restore normal physical strength and eliminate the need for stimulants, Dr. Kolb said.

Texas Values Total Over 4 Billion

AUSTIN, Dec. 2 (AP)—Reports from 252 of the state's 254 counties show, conclusively, Comptroller George H. Sheppard said today, that Texas property valuations for tax purposes are above $4,000,000,000 this year for the first time since 1931.

The 252 counties reported increases over 1936, aggregating $154,810,989. The 1936 gain over the preceding year was only $56,792,601.

Texas valuations last year totaled $3,856,697.

General development, improved economic conditions and continued intensive oil explorations and drilling were credited with being responsible for the gains registered by 190 counties.

Among the large increases due mainly to heavy oil plays were: Nueces county, up $13,464,030 to $48,856,070; Winkler, $13,066,769 to $21,733,069; Ward, $4,888,283 to $16,278,347; Cass, $10,085,770 to $18,078,840; Titus, $4,268,407 to $8,269,095; Refugio, $3,660,779 to $18,891,289; and San Patricio $2,899,340 to $17,835,940.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—It was a disappointed crowd up at Fordham when they heard the Rose Bowl decision, but one and all took it like real sports.... Gene Tunney will be the principal speaker when Lafayette dines its undefeated football team December 13.... For some plain and fancy ceiling-hitting you should have seen and heard "Frankie" Frisch, the old "Fordham" coach, when he heard the Rose Bowl news at Milwaukee.... They say Doc Branch Rickey left the room muttering "my, my," which is as far as Dr. Rickey goes on any occasions.... Tony Camporese is getting so fat he has started reducing in a gymnasium owned by a reformer wrestler.... The Yankees have such a big delegation at the Milwaukee baseball meeting they are running their own bar.... Every farmhand executes in the chair is in the group of 25.... Going home from the Southern California-Notre Dame game, Mayvin McCarthy, sports editor of the Chicago Times, picked up a hitch hiker.... Marvin started extolling Chuck Sweeney, star Irish end.... "Ho, hum," yawned the guest rider.... "Wasn't I lousy today?"... Yep, it was Sweeney.... They told us down South Alabama wouldn't go to the Rose Bowl even if it got a bid, because the astute Frank Thomas thinks this year's team is not as good as those of former years.

SEA SEARCHED FOR TWO NAVY FLIERS

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 2 (AP)—Searching parties scoured breakers off Virginia Beach today for a clue to the fate of two navy fliers, missing since wreckage of their scouting plane washed ashore an hour after they took off from the Norfolk naval air station.

Officially expressed a belief that Aviation Cadet J. J. Jones, of Washington, was attempting to land on the beach because of engine trouble when he plunged into the water about 7 p. m. yesterday.

Troy W. Blanton, of Lafayette, Ala., machinist's mate, accompanied Jones on the flight.

OIL MEN CONVENE

DALLAS, Dec. 2 (AP)—Approximately 200 oil men were here today for sessions of tax committees of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

Clare P. Mapes, Tulsa, association president, was slated to open the two-day session for the discussion of local, state and federal taxation in its relation to the oil industry.

SUSPECT SOUGHT AS OFFICER WOUNDED

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif., Dec. 2 (AP)—Peace officers widened a hunt today for a motorist who shot and critically wounded Allen

Stone, 29, federal border patrolman, here last night.

The motorist, officers were warned may be William Boyd, wanted in Fort Worth, Tex., for robbery and in San Diego for kidnapping and robbing a policeman.

Stone, alone and in civilian clothes, was shot after he stopped a gray coupe.

As he walked to the car, he announced: "Border patrol." The driver fired point-blank at him.

PRESIDENT'S TOOTH AILMENT BETTER

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—Official word from the yacht Potomac off Garden Key in the Dry Tortugas today was that President

Roosevelt's tooth infection was showing "continued improvement." The Potomac, with the chief executive and seven fishing companions aboard, anchored off Garden Key again last night.

ACCEPTANCE IS IMPROBABLE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2 (AP)—Information received here from the train bringing the Villanova football team home from Los Angeles where it defeated Loyola, indicated today the undefeated eleven would not accept an invitation to play a Sun Bowl game at El Paso New Year's day.

An invitation was received on the train by Coach "Clipper" Smith inviting the team to play Texas Tech.

"By the time we get home, I believe the players will be pretty well fed up on traveling," Smith said.

Father C. J. Melchior, faculty moderator of athletics at Villanova, said no decision would be announced until the team arrives here Saturday.

ROUTE PICKED ON NSW ALL-AMERICAN

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Dec. 2 (AP)—Pittsburgh, Fordham and Alabama monopolized positions on the National Intercollegiate Sports Writers' Association All-America team, announced today by Robert S. Kunkel, of the University of North Dakota, president.

Pittsburgh had three players named, Fordham and Alabama two each and Yale, Texas A.M., North Carolina and Colorado one each.

The first team: Daddio, Pittsburgh and Bershak, North Carolina, ends; Franco, Fordham and Mattis, Pittsburgh, tackles; Routt, Texas A.M. and Minsky, Alabama, guards; Wojciechewicz, Fordham, center; Frank, Yale; Goldberg, Pittsburgh; White, Colorado and Kilgore, Alabama, backs.

GERMANS DEPORTED IN SOVIET EXCHANGE

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP)—Forty-four German prisoners were reported by diplomatic sources today to have been deported from Russia in a virtual exchange for crews of two Soviet ships recently released in Spain.

The exchange involved crews of the Komsovol, sunk by Spanish insurgents, and the Smidovich, seized in Spanish waters. The 44 Germans and approximately 500 others still under arrest were among the hundreds of aliens caught in the drive against foreigners, on spy and wrecking charges.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

paign which will include planting of roses, shrubbery and trees.
For amusements, the chamber plans compilation of a mailing list of music lovers in surrounding towns to invite them to enjoy attractions in Big Spring. Cooperation "with our show houses, civic and music clubs, inaugurating and presenting an amateur hour" is proposed. Continuation of the weekly broadcast over KBST is asked. Play and safety programs are also listed. For education the chamber would work with schools toward development and progress of the school system.
Agriculturally, the chamber plans cooperation with the county agent toward encouraging a diversified crops system, inauguration of a 4-H club boys' show, encouraging feeding of calves, promotion of a sales division to draw attention of the city as a trade center, and join in the U.S. Experiment Farm.
Finally, the chamber would make a complete investigation of the natural resources, investment opportunities, civic, educational and religious advantages of Big Spring, and tourist attractions of our city and Howland county, and advertise them in every way possible.

Wage

and statements made by President Roosevelt.
The bill, McNary contended, would cost more than President Roosevelt had indicated he would approve and also, he asserted Mr. Roosevelt had called for voluntary control with "no coercion."
As soon as the Fish inquiry resolution was read in the house Majority Leader Rayburn (D-Tex) asked that it be tabled but Fish objected and forced a roll-call. The vote was 281 to 94.
After the petition was completed, Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the labor committee and other backers of the bill pressed up to shake the hands of Mansfield, who for many years has been forced by illness to use a wheel chair.
It was minutes before the house calmed down.
Changes
Representative Healey (D-Mass), chairman of an informal committee backing the petition, said it appeared certain the provisions for a five-man administration board in the pending bill would be eliminated by amendment on the floor.
He said the labor committee would request administrator of the proposed law by a single administrator in the labor department.
"It is difficult to say whether mandatory wage and hour standards can be written into the measure," Healey added, "but we hope later that we'll reach the objectives desired."
If the house should pass the measure, there was no assurance it would get to the White House before the special session ends during Christmas week. The senate passed a wage-hour bill last summer, and differences between the two measures would have to be composed. This might be a long process.
Neither was there assurance that any of President Roosevelt's other recommendations could be enacted during the brief session.
The senate farm bill, on which leaders had pinned their chief hopes for a concrete accomplishment, was criticized by Secretary Wallace. He wrote Senators Pope (D-Idaho) and McGill (D-Kan) that it would not safeguard consumers against high prices and might lessen export marketing.
Pope and McGill contended Wallace's letter would not impede progress of the measure, but leaders gave up hope of passing it this week. Authors of the bill said some of Wallace's objections could be met by amendments.

Charges Union Used Gangsters in Row at Minneapolis
MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 2 (AP)—A charge that the American Federation of Labor had used gangsters in inter-union warfare led a coroner's jury along a new path today in its inquest into the death of Patrick J. Corcoran, A. F. of L. leader who was slain two weeks ago.
Harold Bean, leader in the A. F. of L.'s carpenter's union, testified yesterday that "gunmen, thugs and gangsters" had been "employed" by A. F. of L. officials "for the purpose of smashing the General Drivers Union" or compelling it to affiliate with the A. F. of L.
General Drivers Union No. 544, with which Corcoran was connected, is an A. F. of L. affiliate, formed after local 574 had been expelled from the federation.

WOMAN IS FOUND SLAIN

Mrs. A. S. Mortimer, shown here with her husband, was found slain, apparently by a blow on the head from a stick of wood, near her home in Mexico, Mo., where she was prominent. Mr. Mortimer said he passed a large negro on the street shortly before the body was found.

within the A. F. of L. framework. They pictured the federation as possibly willing to create an industrial union section, divorced from the C. I. O., as now constituted and managed.
If Lewis and Green should agree to end the civil war that has kept organized labor from a united front for the last two years, the detailed job to follow would be the amalgamation of rival unions in the same industry and the distribution of jurisdiction over the various crafts and industries.
The nub of the controversy has been whether to organize workers along the federation's concept of craft unionism or on the C. I. O. theory that all workers in the same plant, skilled and unskilled, should belong to the same organization.

Chalk Well Is Finished For 984 Barrels

Noble 3-C Second Producer On Discovery Tract
Noble No. 3-C Chalk, in the southwest quarter of section 94-29, W&NW, was completed Thursday morning for a daily potential of 984 barrels.
On a two-hour test, it showed 32 barrels the first hour and 41 the second. It is bottomed at 3,001 feet in brown lime and was treated with 2,000 gallons of acid. It obtained its best pay from 2,990 feet to the bottom. No. 3-C Chalk is the second well to be brought in on the Chalk discovery well tract.
A companion well, Noble No. 2-C Chalk, was drilling a head at 2,900 feet in brown lime.
In the Snyder pool, five miles north, the Ajax No. 1 Snyder, 530 feet out of the northeast corner of section 28-35-1s, T&P, was drilling below 2,885 feet in lime after swabbing out oil. The hole will be carried to 2,920 feet before being given a shot. Ajax No. 1 Snyder is half a mile north of nearest production.
Little less than half a mile to the south, Sun No. 1 Snyder was drilling below 2,200 feet. Shell was still cleaning out on its No. 1-TXL in section 33-30-1s, T&P, and Moore Bros. No. 3-TXL, in the same section, was at 120 feet in redbeds. Cosden No. 1 M. H. O'Daniel, in the northeast quarter of section 34-30-1s, T&P, was past 505 feet. Amerada No. 1 A. D. Neal, north-central Glasscock county, within the southeast corner of section 15-33-3s, T&P, was reported shut down pending orders at 3,250 feet. It had a small amount of oil at 2,735-42 feet.

FORMER ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL IS DEATH VICTIM

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 2 (AP)—Word was received here of the death today at Daytona Beach, Fla., of Fred R. Weller, 73, for many years a member of the board of the Standard Oil company (New Jersey).
He was one of the group of Standard officials who, in the spring of 1909, set out from New Orleans by boat up the Mississippi river to select a site for the refinery which has since developed into the state's largest industrial enterprise and one of the largest refineries in the world.
Weller, a guiding force in the early development of the Louisiana oil industry, was president of the Standard Oil company of Louisiana from its founding in 1900 until 1929 when he was succeeded by his brother, the late D. R. Weller.

Asks Financial Aid For Transoceanic Air Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the maritime commission urged congress today to give prompt financial aid to the development and operation of transoceanic air service to prevent it from being "controlled by foreign interests."
Testifying before the house merchant marine committee on legislation recommended by the commission for rehabilitation of the country's merchant marine, Kennedy advocated immediate assistance for across-the-ocean aviation "as a new aid to the foreign commerce of the United States."
"Present and future economy dictates prompt action," he said. "Assistance to a small degree now, before foreign airlines have puffed the field as they threaten to do, will undoubtedly firmly establish American operators and prevent transoceanic air service from being controlled by foreign interests as has previously been the case in steamship service and international cable service."
Turning to the merchant marine speaker, Kennedy declared there was a need for immediate legislation to create a mediation board to handle labor disputes in the industry.

Opposes Cut In Road Fund

Patton Says He Will Fight Curtailment Proposal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Representative Patton (D-Tex) said today he was unalterably opposed to the curtailment of federal funds for highways and would use every influence to maintain the present program.
In a telegram to Julian Montgomery, Texas state highway engineer, Patton said:
"The nation and Texas in particular has done a wonderful job in the material advancement in the construction and completion of her highway system and I will fight any move to alter the present program."
Representative Mansfield (D-Tex) said he was opposed to curtailment of the federal highway program, declaring no other expenditure of federal funds had so widely benefited the nation.
Representative McFarlane (D-Tex) endorsed President Roosevelt's recommendation for curtailment of federal highway expenditures. He said "that is as good a place as any to start balancing our budget by cutting down on expenses."

FORMER ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL IS DEATH VICTIM

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 2 (AP)—Word was received here of the death today at Daytona Beach, Fla., of Fred R. Weller, 73, for many years a member of the board of the Standard Oil company (New Jersey).
He was one of the group of Standard officials who, in the spring of 1909, set out from New Orleans by boat up the Mississippi river to select a site for the refinery which has since developed into the state's largest industrial enterprise and one of the largest refineries in the world.
Weller, a guiding force in the early development of the Louisiana oil industry, was president of the Standard Oil company of Louisiana from its founding in 1900 until 1929 when he was succeeded by his brother, the late D. R. Weller.

A Muffin a Day Keeps Cathartics Away

If you suffer from common constipation here's a good news for you. One good-sized muffin every day, made with Kellogg's All-Bran, will keep you "REGULAR."
All-Bran puts two of Nature's own laxatives back in your diet. Instead of over-stimulating your intestines, it gives them things they need. First, "bulk"—All-Bran absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. Second, vitamin "B"—the amazing vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract.
Kellogg's All-Bran is a crunchy, toasted cereal. Eat it with milk or cream and fruits—or in muffins. But however you eat it, use it REGULARLY; eat two table-spoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics.
Every grocer sells All-Bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

To Seek Amendment To Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—After a conference at which Senators O'Mahoney and Schwartz of Wyoming and Adams and Johnson of Colorado, all democrats, drafted the proposed amendment, O'Mahoney said:
"Our amendment will provide an increase in the cushion on corn by defining the normal supply as the sum of the normal consumption and exports over a 10-year average plus seven percent. It also will provide that marketing quotas on corn will go into effect only when the normal supply, as thus defined, is exceeded by 15 percent.
"This will make sure the restrictions on corn will not go into effect in too narrow a range except when there actually is a large over-supply."

NEWS NOTES FROM THE OIL FIELD COMMUNITIES

Calvin Jones, who has been in the Odessa hospital for several weeks suffering from pneumonia, was removed to his home in the Standard Oil company camp this week. He is improving.

Mrs. B. D. Caldwell, bedroom demonstrator of the Chalk Home Demonstration club, opened her home for inspection of her bedroom in demonstrating her club work for the Achievement Day program Nov. 24. In the room every piece of furniture with the exception of the bed was made by the demonstrator. A vanity dresser and stool, book case, reading table and clothes closet were finished in a color scheme of orchid and yellow. In an adjoining room other members of the club had their handiwork on display, which has been completed during the year 1937. A table displayed Christmas gift suggestions which can be made in the home. Refreshments were served buffet style in the dining room after which the guests returned to the living room for the remainder of the program. The Rhythm band gave two selections, followed by a brief outline of "How I Improved My Bedroom," by the hostess and demonstrator, Miss Lora Farnsworth, Howard county home demonstration agent, read a poem, "The Home," bringing to a close the Achievement Day program for the club's work for this year. Roll call was answered by telling what the club had meant to each member during the year 1937. More than 20 guests and members attended the demonstration.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dunn returned here this week from a short visit with friends, Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Mood, in Nocona during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Vaden and daughter, Essie, of Andrews were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. West Thursday. Mrs. Ralph Vaden, who is visiting here from Klamath Falls, Ore., returned home with the guests for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Tippie held a family reunion in their home during Thanksgiving and the weekend that followed, with members of her family as guests from Bosque county. Those in the family were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Harris, parents of the hostess, Mrs. D. M. Domstad and son, sisters of Mrs. Tippie, and two brothers, Mr. O. B. and D. G. Harris.

Miss Imogene Harrison of

Strawn returned with her sister, Mrs. D. A. Heatherington, this week to remain for the month of December.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith had as their guests this week Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cox and family and Mrs. J. E. McAnelly, Mrs. Smith's mother; and Mrs. J. E. Smith of Nocona, Mr. Smith's mother.

The Week of Prayer for the Etoile Moon offering was opened Monday at the Baptist church by the ladies of the W.M.U. with a program "Our Christmas," Mrs. H. A. Hobb was hostess. The prayer meeting was held each morning in the home of each member at 9 o'clock for foreign fields and will be concluded with an all-day program Friday in the home of Mrs. Jimmie Hicks. Each member will bring a covered dish and luncheon will be served at the noon hour. The program Monday was as follows: Opening song and prayer, devotional in which Mrs. R. A. Chambers read Psalms 24, Mrs. E. N. Baker gave the topic, "Seasons Good Tidings," "How Christmas Came To Us" by Mrs. Glen Smith, "To All People," Mrs. C. C. Kent; a poem read by Mrs. A. Short, "Without Christmas," Mrs. O. A. Nichols gave the topic, "The Tidings in Trust," Mrs. I. O. Shaw, "Christmas For Christ," and in conclusion the song, "Joy To The World." Those present for the meeting were: Mrs. H. L. Hayes, Mrs. A. Short, Mrs. J. E. Thompson, Mrs. E. N. Baker, Mrs. Glen Smith, Mrs. C. C. Kent, Mrs. H. A. Hobb, Mrs. I. O. Shaw, Mrs. Jimmie Hicks, and Miss Pennebaker.

The Ruth class of the Forsan Baptist church met in the home of Mrs. W. B. Dunn Tuesday afternoon for a social. The hostess, who is first vice president of the class, handed in her resignation at this time and Mrs. C. H. Tippie was elected to succeed her. At the close of the business session and social hour refreshments were served to Mrs. C. H. Tippie, Mrs. J. E. Thompson, Mrs. D. C. Rogers, Mrs. O. A. Nichols, Mrs. I. O. Shaw, Mrs. Audrey Short, Mrs. R. A. Chambers, Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Chambers were co-hostesses.

Mrs. W. H. Ward entertained with a shower at her home here last Monday afternoon honoring Mrs. Donald Adkins. Several games were enjoyed and gifts presented before the refreshment hour. Several who could not attend sent gifts. Refreshments of coffee, cake and hot chocolate were served to Mrs. H. G. Coakley, Mrs. Arthur Anderson, Mrs. Walker Merrick and daughter, Billie Ward, all of the Midway community; Mrs. J. B. Merrick, Mrs. Doyle Turney, Mrs. M. L. Hollywood

Sights and Sounds
By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—The man with a thousand voices has just signed away one of them.

For 15 years—in vaudeville, on the air, in pictures—Billy Blotch has been in show business. His weird ability to mimic anybody or anything practically stole away his own identity. He found himself becoming a "voice"—or many voices.

Once, on the air, he substituted for a famous comedian and listeners never knew the difference. When Hollywood's animated cartoons began to talk, Billy spoke for all of them. Vocally, he has been pig, frog, dog, rabbit, mouse, horse, cat, practically all the creatures of the animated screen. In spare time he has played parts in feature pictures, sung on the air. His tenor is trained for music, too.

Metro was launching a new series of talking cartoons, "The Captain and the Kids." For it, Blotch was signed to a contract. He will speak for the Captain—and he cannot use that voice for any other purpose.

But he is still free to use the other 999 voices in his repertory. He calls it the ideal contract.

Perfect Make-Up
Annabella from France spent two days, soon after arrival at 20th Century-Fox, undergoing the usual Hollywood routine of experimental hair-dress and make-up. Each of the experiments required from one to two hours to apply.

"May I have just one test of myself as I like to look?" she asked. Request granted, she spent 15 minutes with comb and her own vanity case, and stepped before the camera.

Next day, when Production Chief Darryl Zanuck saw the test, he had the film stopped on a certain frame.

"That's the make-up," he said. "It's perfect."
It was, of course—Annabella's own. She'll use it in "Jean" opposite William Powell.

Auto Graphs
Sally Ellera was "abducted" the other morning.

Emerging from her home, she was surrounded by a gang of boys, ages 14 to 17, and ushered solemnly to the curb. There stood a worn old vehicle, once an automobile.

"Your autograph, please," commanded the gang leader, offering a brush dipped freshly in paint.

Sally effected her ransom payment smilingly. Her name went on the car amidst others which kept it good company: Lombard, Gable, Richard Dix, etc.

The youthful leader had a list of other names. He showed it to Sally, explaining: "We paid $35 for this old bus. When we get all these autographs on it, we can sell it for $175!"

Joyous item from the "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" set relates Mrs. Temple's pleasure that Shirley's curls will be on view through most of the picture, instead of hidden in pig-tails.

Quote: "I wouldn't know what to do if I didn't have that little head of hair to curl every day!"

Make The King Save Us

This king business isn't what it used to be in the good old days before the world war. That conflict toppled some of the thrones and others were sent into discard at various times and for sundry reasons.

It begins to look like something of the sort is happening to King Cotton, insofar as the South is concerned. While we of the South did not take the monarch from his throne, something has, and the once proud and invincible ruler is now in about the same position as the Duke of Windsor.

Cotton was King indeed. He ruled the South with a rod of iron, because when his price was high his subjects spent their money in all sorts of unwise so-called investments and when his price was low they had little or no money to spend.

Now that he has gone from the throne we will have to govern ourselves, and go along under rules laid down by ourselves. Foreign markets, the greatest source of money for Texas cotton, have almost dried up; and while they may be partly revived we probably shall never see their return to full flower.

Real farming instead of just "cotton farming" will do the work, and instead of a king over us, we shall be kings in our own right.

Diversification is one method of establishing this so-called self-government. Proper treatment of cotton is another, so that it can be made a subject rather than a ruler. Proper treatment means raising in somewhat restricted amounts, with emphasis put on quality rather than quantity.

We can be glad that the King is gone from his throne provided we step in with a proper alternative of "farm government."

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A big industrialist from Europe blew in to town on the first of the week and didn't get any publicity. Twenty-four hours later a press-agent, hastily summoned to the good man's aid, dispatched me a story, prefaced by this little personal note:

"Here's a special interview with —, who made the mistake of coming over on the Queen Mary with J. P. Morgan, Dr. Cronin, who scored the doctors in his new book, and a load of sex appeal. Naturally he didn't get much attention and so I have been enlisted to save his vanity with a few breaks in the papers."

Which proves, unless you're Garbo, it's always well to glance over the passenger list if you hope to be feted on the other side.

Restaurants, more than any line of enterprise, like to style themselves after the titles of books and the characters from famous fiction tales. There is, for one, the House of Fu Manchu, named after the insidious and sinister Oriental in the Sax Rohmer novels. Another is "The Better Ole," which name first cropped up in print under Kipling's byline.

Here and there: Benny Fields, the minstrel man who staged Broadway's greatest comeback in a decade, is in Chicago... Fredric March, and his wife, with their two children, frequently have lunch at Dempsey's restaurant on Eighth avenue... To see papa March cutting the kiddies' meat for them is a treat... Life goes on; Constance Cummings is starring in the same theater where she made her debut, as an understudy, several years ago... George M. Cohan, who plays the president in "I'd Rather Be Right," is limping these days. He tripped over a cable backstage and almost broke his foot... In fact, he's wearing a rubber brace.

Sign in front of a 5th avenue restaurant: "Come in, brother, and partake of the good things of life. We've got 'em."

Lexington avenue vignette: Ray Kenney, the Hawaiian tenor, ambling along with a big grin on his countenance. He looks like he's just been elected president.

Peggy Wood, who is as well known an authoress as she is an actress, has "the perfect study" where she does her writing in her new country home in Connecticut. The outside wall is solid glass, which gives her plenty of sunlight.

Others who have new Connecticut homes include James Melton, the lyric tenor, Libby Holman, the chanteuse, and Grace Moore, who for that matter owns homes in several other states, including California and Europe.

INTRODUCTION TO THE FARM BILLS

In the course of some desultory reading on the politics of the farm problem I happened recently upon an old book, which it seemed, though it was published only five years ago, it is called "What We Are About To Receive," and the author is that most insistent of the children of light, Mr. Jay Franklin. I am moved to re-assert and forgotten text in part, I must admit, an impulse to return a few compliments by reminding Mr. Franklin that he is after all human and fallible like the rest of us, but chiefly because his observations in 1932 illustrate so well the kind of prejudice which exists in the cities in regard to the farm problem.

"Ten million votes," wrote Mr. Franklin on page 141, "await the man who tells the American Farmer that he is the salt of the earth, the backbone of the nation, and the chief object of political agitation. Fifteen million votes await the man who has the nerve to tell the American Farmer to go to hell. If there ever was an individual who has been inflated monstrously out of proportion to his real importance it is the man with the hoe who has been flattered by the politician with the hokum... He has made and unmade Presidents in the image of Main Street, he has exhausted our soil as he will exhaust our Treasury if given half a chance. He is the great obstacle to human progress, the great threat to political stability. Sooner or later, we shall discover—as the Roman Church discovered, as England discovered, as Soviet Russia discovered—that the pagan, the landed proprietor, the kulak, is simply so much mud in the path of progress and must be swept aside if society is to advance."

There is a lot more about "seducing the farm vote" and sending "the bill for the dooped gundrops and the agrarian aphrodisiacs to the taxpayers of the East," but the sample I have quoted from Mr. Franklin before his conversion on the road to Washington, should be sufficient to put the rest of us on our guard against a hasty and intolerant approach to the farm problem. We should not begin with the all-too-easy feeling that because the farmers' troubles are not our troubles, their troubles cannot really be important. It is a significant symptom of their troubles that the farmers, and those who speak for them, are badly divided about what should be done. Thus in the present congress which would certainly like to please the farmers if it knew how, there are two different bills, one in the house and one in the senate, and apparently neither bill is entirely satisfactory to all the recognized farm organizations. This is in itself interesting, and without complicating the matter too much, we may observe that the senate bill is more drastic than the house bill. Why? Because, of course, have the same general objective: to maintain the income of farmers producing cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice. Both aim to do this in part by reducing production in order to raise the price, in part by paying subsidies to supplement the farmers' incomes. Both seek to control production by a system of rewards and penalties. But in the senate bill the control is more strict and the penalties are more severe. There is, as we say, a higher degree of regimentation or, to put it another way, a more resolute intention to make the control effective.

Now why is it that the senate, traditionally supposed to be the more conservative house, is here considering the more radical measure? The answer to that question is obvious enough. The senate is elected by states of unequal size, the house by districts with approximately equal numbers of votes. From the regions where cotton, wheat, tobacco, corn and rice are grown, the South and the prairie states chiefly, a great many senators are elected. The other states, where farming is diversified and mixed with industry as well, do not have anything like the same proportionate representation in the senate. Their strength is in the house. So in dealing with the particular crops that congress is now worried about, the senate is responding radically to particular groups of farmers. The house, on the other hand, is responding moderately and cautiously to the farmers who are not going to be benefited directly, particularly the dairy farmers and cattle men, and to the consumers and taxpayers who must pay the bill.

We must then recognize, however, that the president, Secretary Wallace, and the congressional committees have not just arbitrarily decided to help the cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice planters and to ignore the dairymen, the fruit growers and the rest. There is an obvious reason for the selection of these particular crops, and the reason is not solely that these particular farmers have exceptional voting strength in the senate and in the electoral college. The reason is that these particular crops have long been grown in the expectation of a great export trade and in the past quarter century that export trade has been declining until for some of these staples it has disappeared entirely.

The decline in the exports of the five crops marks a revolution in American agriculture. Its consequence is "the" farm problem, as we have known it since it ruined President Taft, as we have known it under Coolidge, Hoover, and Roosevelt. There are, as a matter of fact, many other farm problems, such as soil exhaustion, farm tenancy, share cropping, mortgages, taxes, roads, schools, irrigation, electrical power, middle men, monopolistic and protected industrial prices. But when congress talks about "the" farm problem, it is talking about the fact that there are several million farmers who have farms adapted to the production of these few particular crops for export, who understand best how to produce these particular crops, and can no longer sell them at good prices abroad.

To deny that this is a great problem, that it is a national problem, would be sheer social blindness. Owing to causes that are far beyond the control of the individual farmer, the foundation of a vital part of America's agriculture are undergoing a revolutionary change; and the whole reason for a farm policy is to cushion the shocks and distribute fairly the costs of the change.

For I think we must admit, even those of us who most passionately dislike the economic nationalism of the modern age, that the American farm problem would be with us even if the world had not gone mad about protection, militarism, and self-sufficiency. The problem would have been less acute; it would have developed more slowly, and would, therefore, have been more easily manageable. But it would have developed. For as the United States grew older and more settled and its people became accustomed to a rising standard of life, the American farmer could not hope to compete successfully with pioneer farmers on newer lands.

Therefore, a change in the character of American agriculture was inevitable and necessary, and federal aid in assisting that change became necessary and desirable. Whether the particular measures now employed, or now contemplated, are good, whether they are in fact progressive or reactionary, is another question. It is a very different question, but that a far-reaching farm policy is a national necessity cannot, I think, be doubted. (Copyright, 1937, New York Tribune Inc.)

Two's Company

By MARGARET GILSON HERZOG

Chapter 35 REPENTANT LOVER. And now, Nina had managed—somehow—to live through nearly a week of loneliness, without the two people she loved.

After dismantling her own apartment, there had been Honey's belongings to attend to, and the question of the 14th street house to be considered. She managed to keep her days full, but Nina knew that the worst time was still to come... when she would have moved to a small place of her own somewhere, with Bridget and Margaret to do the settling for her; when the familiar brownstone house would have a "For Sale" sign out in front, and there would be nothing left but to try and go on...

There had been interviews with real estate men; and the family lawyer, of course... Honey had left her money to be divided between Nina and Richard; and there had been afternoons—indescribably poignant—of going over Honey's furniture and clothes, by herself, and with Aunt Carrie and a few of her mother's most intimate friends. Nina wanted them each to take something. There had been hundreds of letters and flowers to be acknowledged.

Sad days, but busy ones. Nina credited to that about... the time when all the work would be done. And still there was no word of any kind from David. Jack Knight and Grace, and even Francine, had all sent flowers—chipped in together—but not he. It seemed so cruel, so unlike him that Nina could hardly believe it. How terribly, terribly hurt and angry he must be, to behave like this...

But Nina was Nina's constant companion; an affectionate subdued Button, who followed her faithfully from room to room, from floor to floor, and pressed close against her whenever she sat down. His brown eyes seemed to ask: "What is this? What has happened to our old life?" And Nina told him that that was what she wanted to know. Darling Button, she needed him, she said, as much as she needed her. They were inseparable.

One evening, in the living-room—neither Richard nor Nina could bear to sit in the library now—Richard told her that he had decided what to do. "I'm sailing, Nina... Saturday."

He patted his breast pocket. "Tickets 'n' all. You won't need me here after that, will you?" "No, I'm glad you're getting away. It's the best thing. I'd like to, too, after I move to a place of my own... and, David and I come to some sort of an agreement, about—things."

Richard looked very handsome in his dark suit, and mourning band and his black tie. "He had been so serious and thoughtful, and willing to help, as you could have wanted him to be. Honey's friends were touched by his evident sorrow... Nina was. But she knew he was not—broken. To say that he was playing well the role of heart-broken husband, would have been unkind, because Nina knew that it had gone as deep in him, as anything ever would. And he was playing the role of repentant lover with her, because he was as sorry as he would ever be over anything that he had done..."

But Nina also knew that he was aware of the part he was playing... doing his best. He couldn't help it. And presently all this would slip from him, and he would start charming a whole new set of people, somewhere... the attractive widower, Richard Chaltoner... "Didn't you hear about his wife in America? So sad, but he never burdens people with his grief. He seems determined to carry on... he's really a delightful guest. Why don't you have him down for the holidays?"

Nina could see it all happening, as she watched him, now... grave and handsome, really trying to behave decently, to have the right feelings... "You've Made Me Different" "You look so very tired, Nina... would you let me fix you a brandy?" "Thanks. Perhaps I do need one."

He brought her a glass, and then sat down opposite her. "Nina—my dear—may I talk to you about something that has come to mean a very great deal to me?" "Of course, Richard."

Nina was listening, but she was thinking ahead to Saturday, when even the queer, half-strained companionship of her stepfather would be gone. When one more room would be closed, and another batch of trunks packed, and carried out of the house... when that new, lonely life she must live would be one step nearer.

"I love you, Nina." She looked at him sharply. Listened now, intently... amazed. "I do," he went on. "And you will believe me, because I am going to be frank enough to say that it is quite apart from desire—or needing your money to support me, or... or any of the things you have hated me for, in the past. It's something entirely different, Nina. I'm different... you've made me so."

She wanted to say: "Oh, poor Richard. You aren't you'll never be. You think you're a new person, that you've me... but something you down underneath is telling you, this very minute, that you are behaving like a gentleman, that I will always remember how fine you were about admitting your mistakes. Something is telling you right now, not to try and look me... to look grave and determined, and hesitant at the same time... to frown just a little. Oh, I don't mean to be horrid, but I know you so well."

Richard looked down at the floor. "If you should ever change, Nina... if you should ever come to feel differently about me..." She felt almost foolish as she said: "There is no use hoping, Richard, because she knew that, though he meant it now, in a few months' time, he would be riding of swimming, or lying in the sun with some attractive woman... and it would be just as though this scene, in the quiet brownstone house had never taken place."

He said: "Then I feel pretty much as if everything were over for me, Nina." "I know," she smiled a little, at the present, and at the so different future she could see so plainly. "I know, I feel that way too, but we'll manage, I guess... somehow."

And now Nina didn't smile, because she couldn't see any future for herself... she didn't see how she was going to manage... Button Quivers. Nina looked up from her letter-writing, vaguely. She said: "Oh—anything, Bridget... a chop, anything, I'm not hungry."

But Bridget remonstrated. "Now, Miss Nina, darlin', you mustn't be like that. Just because Mr. Chaltoner has sailed and you're alone, you mustn't let down... you've been so grand up till now... A chop, indeed! How about one of them fine plump squab fellows..."

Nina smiled, and straightened up her aching back. "All right, Bridget, dear—one of them fine plump squab fellows, then... You and Margaret have one, too... Two, too."

"Thank you—that we will. Will you be wanting him at 7:30, as usual?" "Anytime, I don't care... a bit at Bridget's from now. Yes, Seventy-third will do, nicely."

Bridget, departed to the lower regions, and the big house settled down to its dreadful stillness once more. "Nina wondered how she would ever get down the squab. She hoped he would be skinny instead of plump, because the thought of food was so repellent to her... And that made her want to her... And that made her hungry, and what, and whether he was hungry, ... Probably Grace was cooking one of her sumptuous meals for him... making him laugh. "David would marry Grace, of course and she would make him a marvelous wife, because she was capable, and because she loved him. Nina wished she could be decent enough to be glad that David had someone like that, but she couldn't be. She went on writing people, thanking them for their flowers, their wires, their notes of sympathy... Messages were still arriving, so that when the doorbell rang, and Bridget came to tell her, Nina didn't even bother to wonder what it was. It was Button who made her pause and look up. Button, usually so quiet these days, had bounded up from his place at Nina's feet. He stopped quivering for a moment, and his nose sniffed furiously. (Copyright, 1937, Margaret Herzog)

The UP's Southwestern eleven differed from Felix McKnight's AP team in that it had Dwight Sloan at halfback instead of Billy Patterson of Baylor at one half-back position.

Patterson couldn't very well be taken off but it is believed in some quarters that Sloan is a far better man than O'Brien.

Hardin-Simmons U. Homecoming Set This Weekend

ABILENE, Dec. 2.—The Hardin-Simmons university annual homecoming, to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, is expected to attract to the H-SU campus the largest gathering of alumni and former students in recent years.

High spot of the weekend program, and occupying a share of the gridiron spotlight in the state, will be the Saturday afternoon clash between the traditional foes, the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, undefeated and untied, and the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets, Texas conference champions.

The Cowboys will seek to wind up an unbeaten season before a homecoming crowd. An H-SU victory would be the ninth in a row this fall, and the 17th without an interruption since early in 1936.

Hardin-Simmons, under Coach Frank Kimbrough, won the 1935 and 1936 games, but has never won three years in a row from Howard Payne since 1917. Since that date, in 20 games, Howard Payne has won 13, H-SU five, and two were tied.

Mrs. H. A. Pender of Abilene, president of the H-SU Alumni association, has announced plans for the weekend. At a pep rally Friday night, to be broadcast from station KRBC, Abilene, Nell Sewell, 32, newspaper editor and state representative from Midlothian, will be master of ceremonies.

Tammany Official Must Stand Trial

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Albert Marinelli, a heavy-faced old guard Tammany boss accused of unfitness for his job as New York county clerk, had orders today from Governor Herbert H. Lehman to make answer to the charges by next Monday.

The governor thus proposed to put Marinelli on trial, as another governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, put former mayor James J. Walker on trial in 1932, for his alleged official sins. Walker resigned.

The accuser is young Thomas E. Dewey, to whom in the Nov. 2 city election Tammany lost the Manhattan district attorneyship for the first time in 20 years.

Governor Lehman yesterday received from Dewey a series of sworn charges against Marinelli, accusing him of political alliance with racketeers, of harboring a federal fugitive, of consorting with known criminals.

Ranger Junior college, will be chairman of a Saturday morning alumni program, also to be broadcast.

All university alumni and friends will be guests at a barbecue before the Howard Payne game. More than 2,000 enjoyed this feature a year ago. The West Texas Oil and Gas association, in convention session Saturday, will take time out for the afternoon gridiron classic.

PLEADS GUILTY TO MURDER, GETS LIFE

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Dec. 2 (AP)—Paul N. Dwyer, 18-year-old high school student today reversed his innocent plea to the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield, and pleaded guilty to murder.

He was sentenced immediately to life imprisonment.

Dwyer, also accused of the strangling of Dr. Littlefield's wife and transporting bodies of both on a six-state "death tour" to North Arlington, N. J., entered his plea

Oil Industry Sees Upward Trend

Most Operators Think The Low Point Has Been Reached

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 2 (AP)—Things were definitely more perky around the oil offices today.

One got the distinct impression business was looking up again.

One executive expressed the opinion the bottom of petroleum's current slump very likely had been reached.

Tangible evidence of this were reports from marketers of a firmer tone in all refined products. A new steadiness in gasoline seemed to have resulted from renewed inquiry for stocks with brokers apparently of the opinion the low point in spot prices warranted stocking up at prevailing quotations.

Compared with a week ago, refiners reported, movement of gasoline had increased and the brisk business in burning oils held up.

Crude oil producers took heart over a big drop in the daily production, a safeguard against top-heavy stocks, and the bureau of mines report showing a 1,284,000 barrel decrease in stocks, as of November 20.

There was an increase in the amount of crude run to stills, however, and some observers noted that if refining operations could be curtailed in proportion to the cut in crude production, last month's weakness in the gasoline market might have been avoided.

All prices of crude and refined products were unchanged for the week.

Many leaders spoke encouragingly of the apparent disposition of congress to do something about the general business recession.

The proposal of Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma for a conference of oil states on conservation and stabilization of the price of crude oil, together with the rejection of the idea by Governor Alfred of Texas came in for sharp notice, but no comment on or off the record.

Field men and engineers had their attention riveted on the East Texas field, shut down two consecutive Sundays for observation of declining bottom hole pressures. They hoped to learn whether the key area was being properly produced, whether the present withdrawal rate may endanger the ultimate recovery of oil from the field.

LEGAL SKIRMISHES IN FORD STRIKE

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Ford Motor company and the C.I.O.'s United Automobile Workers of America prepared today for legal skirmishes as the U.A.W. strike plant entered its second week.

The company late yesterday amended its original suit asking for an injunction to prevent picketing its plant, naming 82 additional defendants, who were ordered by Judge J. Kirkwood to show cause in circuit court tomorrow why an order should not be issued.

Earlier yesterday, the national labor relations board cited the company to appear at a hearing December 16 to answer allegations of unfair labor practices.

The company was given five days to file its answer to the complaint.

VETERAN MASONS ARE HONORED

WACO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Master Masons in good standing for 40 years or more were honored today at the convocation of the Grand Lodge of Texas, A.F.&A.M. A reception and presentation of 54 service buttons to those who had been members more than 50 years were on the program.

Distinguished guests, representing more than 20 states, were present at the assembly of more than 3,000 Masons here for the three-day observance of 100 years of Masonic activity in Texas.

The first day's program closed with a tableau last night, portraying Masonic history, and an address by former Gov. Pat McNeff, president of Baylor university.

GARNER AND GUFFEY BAG THEIR DEER

ST. MARYS PA., Dec. 2 (AP)—Senatorial nimrods — convinced that deer are not as elusive as solutions to the nation's economic ills — carried a couple of venison steaks back to the capital today.

Vice President John N. Garner and Pennsylvania's Senator Joseph Guffey were the lucky hunters in a group of nine senators and five other government officials who went gunning on Colonel William Kauffman's 10,000-acre preserve near this northwestern Pennsylvania town.

For cameramen, proud Garner posed with his 120-pound four-point buck so often that Senator Minton remarked:

"That deer's been photographed so much, it's got klieg eyes."

To Name Counties To Participate In Tenant Program

Counties in which the Bankhead-Jones farm tenant purchase program will be administered in its first year will be selected at a meeting of the four-state advisory committee to be held at Amarillo Friday, according to word received here by John Barbee, rural rehabilitation supervisor for the Farm Security Administration.

Immediately after the committee selects the counties in Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Texas in which the farm purchase loans will be made to tenant farmers, county committees will be appointed, and the program inaugurated with the least possible delay.

The four-state committee is composed of John E. Hill, Amarillo, Texas, chairman; George Drum, Sharon Springs, Kas.; John Hiatt, Meade, Kas.; Adolph Ransen, Granada, Colo.; Marshall Doah, Las Animas, Colo.; Ed C. Morrison, Goodwell, Okla., and the following members from Texas: C. H. Day, Plainview; C. L. Thomas, Pampa; and A. B. Crump, Wheeler.

YOUTH IS CHARGED

DALLAS, Dec. 2 (AP)—Charges of assault to murder were pending today against George McFall Nance, 16, while Tom B. Cathey, 26, wounded Tuesday when he protested the taking of his automobile by a youth whom he had given a ride, remained in critical condition.

Cathey showed "slight improvement" from three bullet wounds, hospital attendants said.

Deputy Sheriff W. T. Binford said he found the rusty, 32-caliber pistol in the cedarbrakes of the highway near where Nance led officers after he made a written statement "I didn't know why I did it."

LONGER VACATIONS FOR MAGNOLIA MEN

DALLAS, Dec. 2 (AP)—Employees of the Magnolia Petroleum company today had the promise of increases in vacation periods and in insurance benefits.

L. S. Sinclair, vice president, said directors of the company had voted to revise the vacation plan next year. Employees of 15 years or more will be given three weeks vacation with pay.

In effect now is an insurance plan applying to employees who have served 20 years or longer and have not reached the retirement age of 65, under which families of employees who die before the retirement age are granted an extra year's salary. Sinclair said employees to be eligible must participate in the annuity and insurance plan.
