Does Our Nation Lack Ordinary Politeness?

The contention frequently is heard that the United States rapidly is becoming a nation of impolite and discourteous people.

Persons who have come off second best in an altercation with a traffic cop, or with another motorist, are inclined to shake their heads and complain about the decline of the common courtesy.

Some bemoan the fact that it is now common practice for men to keep their hats on in elevators, and allow women to stand while they remain seated in a street car or bus.

Children, it is argued, are less inclined to respect their elders, and more inclined to disregard old maxims such as "Silence is golden" and "Speak when you're spoken to."

The questions raised here may be more or less academic, but they lend interest to a recent survey which the Union Inspectors Club, working with the WPA, made in a "politeness survey" among children of every age, color, race and economic class in New York City.

Here are some of the facts disclosed: Underprivileged children from tenement districts are more polite than those from fashionable neighborhoods.

Fifty boys and girls said they believed use of "Sir" or "Ma'am" when addressing elders constituted "servility."

Many of the children defended their right to talk whenever they chose, regardless of whether it meant interrupting their elders.

A large number of boys voted that tipping of hats is unnecessary.

Most of the children believed subway pushing to be not a matter of discourtesy but necessary to get somewhere.

The boys, as a whole, were found to be more courteous and polite than the girls.

Chinese children were the most polite of any nationality studied, followed by those of Italian, French, Japanese and Irish descent.

American boys and girls were the rudest and most discourteous of the whole lot.

It is a sad commentary, indeed, that native-born children, with all the advantages which a wealthy and progressive nation can provide, should be lacking in politeness when compared with children who live in squalid tenements, play in the street, and grow up in the rougher strata of society.

Taken as a whole, it may be that our politeness as a nation is no worse than it was 50 years ago, and that the average person is not really rude but merely the victim of our hurry-up civilization.

But it would appear that our children could take a lesson in common courtesy from the "heathen Chinese."

Recent statistics show that men spend as much time taking care of their faces as women. The only difference is that one takes off and the other puts on.

AT LAST!

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—About $37,000,000 in money and securities is housed in the Treasury buildings, protected by a corps of guards who receive only $1200 a year each.

The guards also are more or less burned up because they're now officially known as the "Uniformed Secret Service." It sounds rather silly to them, because how can anyone be secret and uniformed at the same time?

Secretary Henry Morgenthau began to feel nervous about the guards when he received letters threatening his life. Protecting Morgenthau's life is one of their jobs, too. He had Secret Service men investigate and at various times they found some guards asleep and others drunk. Three or four had criminal records.

So the guards were put under the Secret Service, in command of an ex-army officer. They were disciplined and required to appear regularly for target practice, and spruced up in new dark uniforms and caps, black Sam Browne belts and gun holsters.

But the 80 guards are urging that something be done about their pay, contending that a raise would attract higher grade men. One of them, incidentally, spends his pay trying to raise a family of 13 children.

CONGRESSMAN HOBBS of Alabama: "It reminds me of the story of a country gentleman who was riding on the elevated railway through the stockyards of Chicago. He was not acquainted with the fact that the odor from the stockyards is justly infamous. A lady who occupied the seat in front of him had provided herself with a vial of smelling salts to repel the invasion of the coming odor, of which she was fully advised. As the first whiff attacked her nostrils, she opened her vial of smelling salts and held it to her nose. The odor got worse and worse every minute. 'Finally the farmer could stand it no longer. He reached over and tapped the lady on the shoulder and said, 'I beg your pardon. I do not want to interfere with the enjoyment of your pleasure, but if you would just close that thing up until I can get off, I would deeply appreciate the kindness.'"

THERE hasn't been a real flood in Washington since 1889—the year of the big blizzard—when about two feet of water traveled as far from the Potomac as Pennsylvania avenue.

Nevertheless, the army engineers are going to spend $138,000 for a concrete flood wall which will extend from the Washington Monument to Seventeenth street, and from the west end of the Munitions building to the Lincoln Memorial—just in case.

Each spring the alarm is spread when the river rises. In 1926 the Navy and Munitions buildings were surrounded with a barrier of sandbags. But the water only flooded an area of park land.

Engineers insist, however, that the time may still come when the flood wall will save army and navy officers from getting their feet wet.

NEW YORK.—There wasn't anything to that recent yarn out of Chicago to the effect that baseball intended to attempt to do something about racing.

Attendance proves that the races harm only the baseball players who play them—not baseball. For this reason, some or all of the noble athletes may be told to refrain from visiting tracks and seeing or telephoning bookmakers during the season.

A salesman cannot sell, a clerk can't clerk, and a sports writer can't sports write to the full extent of his efficiency when he is concerned each day with betting on bangtails. As an old hoss player, I speak from experience.

So how can a ball player give his best efforts under those circumstances? His mind isn't on his business.

YOU know what betting on horses did to Rogers Hornsby. It left him broke and out of a job after earning tremendous salaries for years. The Rajah even is discredited with many of those whose company he chose—the bookies. Indeed, I hear that he has since turned bookie himself—in Chicago.

That is the route of many of the more confirmed addicts — after they find themselves flat. And all hoss players must die broke.

A number of years ago, Babe Ruth was nipped off first base.

Bolt Pistol Invented To Kill Animals

VANCOUVER, B. C.—A 'captive-bolt pistol' which may revolutionize present methods of killing animals in slaughter houses will be demonstrated here by Inspector George Hood of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals before a group of city officials.

The pistol fires a bolt, which penetrates the brain of the animal, causing instant death, and then recoils into the barrel. The weapon, which is in the hands of the S. P. C. A., was manufactured in England.

smile. "Oh, it's you! How comical! How awfully comical!"

"Why is it?" Jerry asked, puzzled and embarrassed.

"Because I saw you on the street an hour ago and mistook you for a friend of mine, a lieutenant in His Majesty's Navy. I waved at you as brazen as could be, and you looked surprised. There was a girl with you, such a tall pretty thing, and she was none too pleased, I noticed." The strange young woman laughed so contagiously that Jerry joined in.

He said to her then, "This man seems to have too much run under his skin. I'd better find you another chaper." She considered this for a moment. "No. Wait. All my parcels are in this fellow's hack. Couldn't we sober him up?"

"We can try," Jerry replied. He went to the barmaid and asked her to get a mug of strong coffee from the kitchen. "No, get three cups," he added, thinking he could do very well with some coffee himself and probably the young woman would feel the same way.

THE coffee sobered the caddy remarkably. He seemed to remember his responsibilities as soon as he had done it.

"Do you think he's all right now?" the girl asked Jerry.

"Yes. I'll put you in the hack," Jerry said, offering her his arm. He was still thinking of Polly, and how a thing like this must never happen to her.

And so it was that the young woman in the sky-blue bonnet and the sky-blue dress that was cut square at the neck walked out on the arm of the American seaman, Jeremiah Whitfield, whom she had been paid to dupe.

Her name was Mazie Miller (or so she had called herself on the stage) and her love of money frequently got the better of a naturally soft heart. She had been a fairly good singer in the music halls before she married the owner of the Sheaf of Wheat Tavern that stood on the edge of town on the road to Plymouth, and she'd not lost her looks or her fetching ways. She was devoted to her husband, a gross handsome fellow with a grasping nature; she not only added him by serving as barmaid of his tavern but by hinging out as a lure for the press-gangs as well.

"But only in the more genteel cases," she would tell you.

Well, Mazie admitted, this was a genteel case and no mistake. Jeremiah Whitfield was a gentleman and there was no need at all to put him in his place. She

Garrett's Standing in Congress Proved by Newspaper Error

Publication of Texas Representative's Picture in Place of Capital Republican's Evoked Storm of Protest.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The high standing of Representative Clyde L. Garrett of the seventeenth district of Texas, both as a Democrat and a member of Congress, was convincingly demonstrated here this week when The Washington Evening Star mistakenly published a picture of Representative Garrett as a member of a Republican party program committee.

The error occurred through the presence in the Star files of pictures of two Clyde Garretts, one being Clyde D. Garrett, Republican attorney of Washington, and the other being Representative Garrett of Texas. Although it was known without question that Attorney Garrett was the one named to the Republican committee, the similarity in names resulted in the wrong picture being taken from the files and published in the paper.

Almost as soon as the papers reached the street, protests began coming in by telephone from other mem-

Clyde D. Garrett, lawyer, with offices in the Colorado Building, is a member of the Republican Committee on Program. Representative Clyde L. Garrett is a prominent Texas Democrat, one of the hardest working members of the Texas delegation in Congress—and as deeply dyed a Democrat as there is in either House.

Through a mix-up in The Star's files yesterday Representative Clyde L. Garrett's picture was represented as that of Mr. Clyde D. Garrett which made Representative Garrett a Republican and created consternation among his fellow Democrats.

The Star regrets the mistake and assures its readers that Representative Garrett is as good a Democrat as he ever was and that Mr. Garrett, the Republican, is a Republican.

Officials Quick Action in Federal Aid

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In view of the facts presented by highway officials, representatives in every section of the country are not expected that the House and Senate will pass the highway bill until the end of the session.

Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture notices that the allocations of Federal Aid, involving a total of $1,000,000,000, he addressed a letter to each governor, under instructions from the President, asking that the states defer submission of projects until Congress had time to consider the recommendation that the 1939 authorization be cancelled," explained Mr. Purcell.

"This message, naturally, has caused the states to hold up their highway plans. This is serious, for most of the states are so advanced in preliminary work and in construction, that they will use up the 1938 money early this year. Clearly, the 1938 funds cannot be spread over this year and next year. Therefore, if the Federal Government does not desire to abandon highway construction in 1939 and to be responsible for adding large numbers of workers to the unemployed, it is evident that authorizations already made must not be repudiated.

"The states must anticipate Federal Aid funds, so that they may arrange to match regular Federal Aid, and to have projects ready for construction when the money is available. Most of the

Auto Industry Gives $500,000 for Safety During 1938

DETROIT—Approving a budget of approximately $500,000 as the motor industry's contribution to 1938 highway safety, the Operating Committee of the Automotive Safety Foundation met in Detroit today and reaffirmed its determination to continue the national program inaugurated two years ago. The funds will be disbursed in grants to a dozen national organizations through the Foundation which acts in matters of highway safety for the makers of cars, trucks, buses, parts, accessories, tires and the finance groups of the industry.

Specific projects are to be carried out with motor industry collaboration by: American Automobile Association; American Legion; General Federation of Women's Clubs; Harvard Bureau for Street Traffic Research; National Congress of Parents and Teachers; National Safety Council; Highway Education Board; National Grange; International Association of Chiefs of Police; Northwestern University and the National Education Association.

Emphasis of the integrated national movement in 1938 will be placed on local application of safety measures through a standard highway safety program for state, by means of which local units of government will be afforded a more substantial opportunity of utilizing the effective methods, technique and facilities being supported by the national program.

Paul G. Hoffman, President of the Foundation pointed out the need for the expenditure of more public funds for highway accident prevention and said that more of the special motor taxes being levied by states should be devoted to sound measures of Education, police departments; provide teacher training facilities for the educational system; help promote the national safety contest among cities and states; collaborate with federal and state highway and motor vehicle enforcement and administration officials in all matters relating to accident prevention.

The industry's 1938 financial contribution will be used principally to: train traffic engineers at Harvard; train traffic police at Northwestern and several other universities; provide educational films for the American Legion and the National Education Association; to work for rural safety through the Grange, Farm Bureau Federation, 4-H Clubs and other agricultural bodies; install accident prevention bureaus in

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox

THE Vikings managed to get through a hard winter quite as well as modern sun chasers do on our Southern beaches. Neither our sun-bathed rich nor the sturdy gentlemen of the North went without their vitamin D cod liver oil is an old Scandinavian custom, lying on the hot sands is just another way of getting vitamins without much worry. Add these other sources to your list, too: halibut liver oil, vitamin D concentrates and egg yolk.

If an egg or two a day makes your stomach unhappy, then go in for daily doses of liver oils. If you are looking for an easy way to take an egg yolk, try shaking it up with a little cracked ice and a small glass of fresh fruit juice. The following recipes show how to get egg yolks into the regular family menus without tears.

Sunshine Scrambled Eggs (4 to 6 servings) Twelve egg yolks, 4 whites, 1-2 cup whole milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 green pepper.

Beat eggs slightly, add milk and salt. Pepper to taste. In top of double boiler melt butter, add pepper, chopped fine, and cook a few minutes. Then add beaten eggs and stir constantly until soft and creamy — scrambled eggs should be that way, not tough and knobby.

Spinach Salad (4 to 6 servings) envelope plain unflavored gelatin, 1-2 cup cold water, 1-4 cup hot water, 3-4 cup cooked spinach, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 hard-boiled eggs.

Pour water in bowl and sprinkle gelatin on top of water. Add hot water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add lemon juice, salt and spinach. Cool. Rinse milk in cold water and line with hard cooked eggs cut in slices. Turn in the spinach mixture (gelatin lemon juice, and salt) when it begins to thicken. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve with garnish of radish flowers. Pass Vitamin-D mayonnaise.

Vitamin-D Mayonnaise Two egg yolks, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup olive oil, 1 teaspoon salt, dash paprika. Beat egg yolks, add lemon juice, salt and paprika. Add oil drop by drop, stirring constantly.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST Half cup fruit, scrambled eggs, wheat toast, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON Consommé, spinach and egg salad, mayonnaise, whole wheat bread, macaroon custard, tea, milk.

DINNER Broiled fish steak, lemon and parsley butter, spinach with chopped egg yolk, Rissole potatoes, cold slaw with French dressing, whole wheat bread and butter, custard ice cream, coffee, milk.

Four water in bowl and sprinkle gelatin on top of water. Add hot water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add lemon juice, salt and spinach. Cool. Rinse milk in cold water and line with hard cooked eggs cut in slices. Turn in the spinach mixture (gelatin lemon juice, and salt) when it begins to thicken. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve with garnish of radish flowers. Pass Vitamin-D mayonnaise.

Vitamin-D Mayonnaise Two egg yolks, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup olive oil, 1 teaspoon salt, dash paprika. Beat egg yolks, add lemon juice, salt and paprika. Add oil drop by drop, stirring constantly.

STOP LOOK.. AND LOOSEN Sandy McHoots knows a bargain when he sees it. He's Scotch through and through—and "doesna like to spend a muckle." Yet he lives in elegance and comfort. How can this be? The truth is, Sandy reads the advertisements. Where he has to buy, he buys wisely! Scotch or not, make a point of looking up advertisements in this newspaper. Things you need are spread before you (perhaps reduced!)... luxuries you've always wanted are here at prices within your reach. You'll get the values you're after if you'll stop and look before you loosen!
