Duncan Coffee Co. Standing As Texas Industry

Among industrial plants of Houston, and the Duncan Coffee Co. of Houston. That Company was born in the months near the end of the World War, and on August 13, 1918, the company started business at Carr and Streets in Houston where it continued in business ever since.

The new U. S.-Czech trade treaty, shoe manufacturers fear they will feel a

In the beginning the plant force consisted of Mr. H. M. Duncan, Mr. Lester J. Bland, a colored helper, one woman in the packing department, Mr. A. H. Lawrence, roaster, and Mr. Frank Pilot, salesman. Each week day morning, Mr. Duncan and Mr. Pilot called on retail grocers, because the long established machinery of distribution through brokers and jobbers to retailers was closed to the Duncan Coffee company, as all claimed they had a coffee account and could not take on or sell a new and unknown brand.

Undoubtedly the foregoing circumstances was a "lucky break" for Mr. Duncan and his new brand of "Admiration Coffee," as it forced him to go direct to the retail grocer with his coffee. That route of selling was already being to wire the President that it would conform to the standard of hours and wages set up under the N. R. A.

Immediately it became necessary to increase the Company's plant capacity to produce the coffee to meet the increased demand. Then Mr. Duncan decided to try another experiment. He believed the depression would be overcome only after men and women who had been forced into idleness could be again employed in some gainful occupation. He began to employ more and more people to do the work of packing and labeling coffee, which had been done previously by machinery. While this operation by human hands cost more than the same operations by machines had cost, the difference was not enough to force a higher price to the consumer. Again the sales curve of the Duncan Coffee Company went up, and it was necessary to employ more and more men and women, so that a plant and a business, which was operated by six people in 1918, now required two hundred thirty-seven men and women to operate, with an annual payroll running into six figures.

Within the past year, the Company established a fine, new roasting plant and distributing center at Corpus Christi, the better to serve the growing population of the lower coast, and the Winter Garden territory to the South and West of San Antonio, and the Rio Grande Valley. The new plant is already working to capacity.

During its entire history, including the depression years, the Duncan Coffee Company has given its employees vacations with pay every year, and at the close of business each year has paid a cash bonus to its employees. In its sales policy, the Duncan

Coffee Company has always adhered to one set principle. It has not discriminated between buyers. Its price to every grocer has been the same. This policy has not been popular with some large buyers, but its fairness and justice has borne fruit, and in view of the recent Act of Congress, giving authority to the Federal Trade Commission to make rules and regulations governing trade practices and outlawing such practices as unreasonable and discriminatory "Advertising allowances," secret rebates and other devices which gave merchants an undue advantage in competitive business, the Duncan Coffee Company again rests in the enviable position of knowing it has been right all the way along the road through the changing years.

The present official family of the Duncan Coffee Company consists of Mr. H. M. Duncan, President and general manager; Mr. C.

explored by Fleischman's yeast, and one or two other National manufacturers who were finding it the economic thing to do.

As a matter of fact, a new trend in merchandising was already beginning and in the years since the World War, American Industry has more and more tried to shorten the road and reduce the expense for getting goods, especially food products—from the manufacturer to the consumer.

Some few years later, based upon their experience in selling retail grocers direct, the Duncan Coffee Company began to study seriously the problem of distributing coffee direct from the roaster to the grocer throughout Texas.

The system of direct distribution now covers the greater part of the state and is constantly being extended to take in more territory.

As the Company faced the problems and the rapidly changing conditions of the depression period beginning in 1929, it became apparent that the public had less money to spend even for necessities. So a new brand of coffee, "Bright and Early" was developed, to be sold at a lower price than Admiration Coffee, which had already become very popular in many sections of the state. This move proved popular, and the Company experienced a constant increase of tonnage right through the trying depression years.

Then came President Roosevelt's N. R. A. and the Duncan Coffee Company was among the first of the industrial units of the country

Cooperaton Seen At Refrigerator Dealers Meeting

Mechanical refrigerator dealers met today at noon in a luncheon at the Paramount Hotel and discussed plans for displaying their wares during the Times Cooking School, to be staged March 29, 30, 31 and April 1.

A remarkable spirit of cooperation was seen at the meeting, with Sam Morrison, district representative of the Texas Electric Service Company from Eastland being so impressed that he was moved to make a talk on the wonderful spirit of cooperation found in Ranger.

He said he was delightfully surprised to see such a group of competitive dealers meeting together and working to the best interest of them all, and said that if many other towns could follow the example found in Ranger they would be much better towns.

It was decided that an ice box would be used this year, which further exemplified the cooperation seen at the meeting, as the mechanical refrigerator dealers were well pleased with the choice.

It was suggested by Jim Ambler that each dealer have a show window somewhere down town, which he decorate with refrigerators, furniture or other merchandise during the school.

Those present at the meeting were F. D. Hicks, P. E. Moore, Ken Ambrose, A. N. Larson, J. E. Killingsworth, Red Lemley, A. J. Ratliff, Jim Ambler, C. I. Hyatt, Lee Dockery, Sam Morrison and Joe Dennis. Felton Brashier was unable to be present because of pressing business.

Scene of Europe's Latest Crisis

Disputed territory ever since the World War has been the area around Vilna (Wilno), shown in northern Poland in the map above. Poles and Lithuanians have argued about the territory, which changed hands repeatedly during the war but finally was seized by Poland in 1918. The Lithuanian constitution, however, still regards Vilna as the nation's capital—a situation which has caused the border to remain closed for years. Poland now demands re-opening of the border and resumption of normal diplomatic relations—or else.

Russia? "Not so hot," was the reply.

Gas Chambers Are Made to Bring A Quicker Death

By United Press
DENVER — Mile-high Denver—nationally famous as a health center—ironically has become the nation's leading producer of lethal gas chambers.

Earl C. Liston, a quiet, self-styled "steel architect," and his workers are applying the finishing touches to a new gas chamber for San Quentin prison in California. The same company has built the grim steel death boxes now in use in the state penitentiaries of Colorado, Oregon, Missouri and Wyoming.

"We seem to have a monopoly on the gas chamber business," admits Liston. "We've built five of them—and that's exactly five more than any other company ever made."

Liston, who refuses to discuss his views on capital punishment, prides himself on the fact his gas chambers can take a human life in a few seconds.

"We're making them better each time," he said. "This last one for California is faster than the others."

The new chamber, which will supplant San Quentin's gallows, is equipped for double executions and is guaranteed by Liston to "do its job in well under 15 seconds."

The chamber is octagonal in shape and is built of corrosion resisting steel. On seven sides it has windows of bullet-proof glass, one and three-sixteenths inches thick. It is 8 feet in diameter and 7 feet high.

The California chamber incorporates an innovation in death cell manufacture. Acid, which generates deadly gas when it comes in contact with the tiny balls of cyanide used, is let into the chamber through special tubes. Formerly the acid was placed in an ordinary crock under the death chair and the poison balls were dropped into it by pulling a lever.

"This new system will make it easier on the executioner," explained Liston. "Pulling a lever to kill a man is hard work. Pouring acid down a tube is easier on the nerves, more like watering flowers. But it gets results."

Quaint English Is Found In Letter

Constance, who had never flown before, and who was in that phase of excitement that craves companionship and self-expression, felt piqued and defrauded.

She found herself disproportionately annoyed by his brush shift from friendliness to this impersonal matter-of-factness.

CHAPTER XIII
Constance said in a moment of nervousness, at which she later, "I still have to think you're not in a pack."

PRESENTLY, however, with an air of suddenly remembering a duty that should be attended to, he came over and took a vacant seat opposite her.

FINALLY he said—obviously trying to be patient—"Perhaps I'd better remind you that you may have a hard day ahead of you. You'll need all the rest you can get."

Constance thought, "I'm just beginning to realize that you're staking a good deal on me. I'm not an actress, you know. I'm only a clothes model—an amateur at that."

"You're an unusually adaptable young woman, if I'm any judge of human nature." . . . He'd be the last to deny that he is, Constance thought with a flutter of irritation.

Indeed! Constance thought, watching him with covert malice. We get a lot of fun out of standing off and feeling superior and amused, don't we? But it isn't so funny when people refuse to take us as seriously as we do ourselves, is it?

Constance thought, "I'm just beginning to realize that you're staking a good deal on me. I'm not an actress, you know. I'm only a clothes model—an amateur at that."

"And now—his friendliness suddenly merged into a briskly professional manner—"I think you'd better get to bed so early. But I never go to bed so early. . . Oh, you needn't take the trouble," she went on with malicious

There was a car waiting for them when they landed. The chauffeur, who seemed to know Dr. Rogers well, said, "I am to take you directly to the ranch, sir. Miss Thorvald asked me to say she was sorry not to."

FROM COTTON S SHOWN

Elmo V. Cook, following the effect of the cotton program: . . . reports have been made by producers being their equity or in loan cotton in order for a cotton price agreement on loan cotton transfer of the new Farm Act cotton otherwise ellment which is in the 30, 1938, will be payment based on the amount by which the price of cotton on the 10 spit cotton markets is below 12 cents per pound on that day. Furthermore, the new act directs that the maturity date on all cotton loan notes be extended to July 31, 1939. The maturity date was originally July 31, 1938. The only way cotton which has been placed under the loan can be sold so as to be counted as eligible for a cotton price adjustment payment is for the producer to pay the loan in full before selling the cotton. Any sale attempted while the cotton is subject to the loan would not be a sale of the cotton but only a sale of the right to benefit in whatever proceeds might remain after the loan had been paid in full with all carrying charges. Persons who have been buying such so-called equities cannot obtain any benefit therefrom since the loan agreement provides that any holder of the note is bound to turn over to the producer-borrower any amount realized on the sale of the cotton covered by the note remaining after paying the loan and all interest and carrying charges. "Producers desiring to transfer the title to their cotton to the Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the provisions of Section 281 b) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 should give careful consideration to the manner in which their interests will be affected before actually making such transfers. This section of the farm bill provides that before July 1, 1938, any producer may transfer his right, title, and interest in loan cotton to the Commodity Credit Corporation and direct the Corporation to accept it and to assume all obligations of the producer with respect to the loan on the cotton transferred. The Corporation is then directed to notify the Secretary of Agriculture of the cotton transferred to it and the Secretary of Agriculture is directed to pay to producers a sum equal to 2 cents per pound on the cotton they transferred to the Corpora-

Mrs. Wilson Hostess:
With a floral background of bridal wreath and purple iris; the home of Mrs. Norris Wilson was decorated at the meeting of the Bridge Luncheon club Tuesday.

Following the three-course luncheon several games of bridge was enjoyed with the high score award going to Mrs. Jack Ammer, a bridge luncheon set; second high score award to Mrs. Jno. L. Ernst, a refrigerator set; and low score award was presented Mrs. W. B. Pickens, a set of water glasses.

Those present were: Mmes. Frank Hightower, J. F. Collins, Ben Hamner, T. W. Caton, W. A. Wiegand, Jno. D. Harvey, Jno. L. Ernst, Jack Ammer, Hubert Jones and guest present: Mmes. W. B. Pickens, Robert Searls and Dickenson.

Mrs. J. F. Collins will be the next hostess on the 15th of April.

Has Special Program:
The members of the HiWay ByWay class of the Baptist church enjoyed a specially rendered program and the meeting with D. L. Kinniard presiding.

A choral club with Mrs. Pearl Hunt of Ranger as director and composed of the following members, Allene Stafford, Betty Lou Robinson, Lowell Hunt, Bernice Robinson, Norma Jean Belknap, Billy Stafford. They sang the two numbers "I am Happy" and "That is Why I Sing and Shout."

Jerry Bailey, representative of the Eastland High school in the Junior declamation of Eastland county, spoke for the class.

A beautiful song number was given by Gaston Dickson of Ranger, closing the morning's program.

Shamrock Green Exemplified:
The lower assembly room of the Baptist church was decorated throughout in Shamrock green exemplifying the St. Patrick motif, at the party held by the Fidelis Matrons class Tuesday evening. Tall containers of bridal wreath and red honey-suckle were placed about the room adding a touch of the season to the festivity.

Mrs. L. J. Lambert, as social chairman, conducted the entertainment for the evening and introduced the group captains of the class. During the recreation period games and stunts were conducted by each group captain.

Following the games and stunts, Mrs. Vera McLeroy sang two beautiful Irish numbers in keeping with the setting, "Mother Machree" and "My Wild Irish Rose" and accompanied by Mrs. Donald Kinniard at the piano.

The refreshment plate of Shamrock shaped sandwiches, angel squares with jello and whipped cream topping, and iced tea was served to Mmes. A. D. Carroll, Ed Harbin, J. R. Woods, Maude Bourland, J. SIMPLE QUESTIONS AND UNDERSTANDABLE ANSWERS ABOUT YOUR BANK

NOTE: (Clip this ad out and watch for our ad tomorrow). Visit the Cooking School!

PART NUMBER THREE:

What does a Bank mean by "Uncollected Funds?"
This question can best be answered by an illustration. Suppose you receive from John Jones a check for $10 written on a bank in another city. You bring the check to us, endorse it, and deposit it in your checking account here. An entry for $10 is made on your account here. This $10 then becomes "uncollected funds" until we send the check to the bank on which it was drawn and receive the money or equivalent credit.

You do not have the money in your account to draw upon until we collect it. The money belongs to John Jones until the check is presented to his bank for collection.

Through the American system of correspondent banking we are able to handle the collection of checks from one city to another with ease and rapidity for the convenience of our customers.

Why do Banks make charges on same checking accounts?
Banks make service charges on checking accounts when the balances are not sufficient to enable them "to pay their own way." This is done to prevent such accounts being handled at an operating loss. Banks seek to earn their operating expenses by loaning and investing the funds entrusted with them. When a service charge is made it is usually dependent on the balance and relative activity of the account.

In other words if an adequate balance is kept in proportion to the number of checks written or deposits made its earnings may cover the cost of serving the account. The money which your account earns for the bank is applied on the cost of check books, signature cards, deposit slips, other supplies and necessary time and expense of handling your account. If your balance does not earn enough to pay the actual cost and handling your checking account a moderate service charge may be required.

Why do Banks return overdrawn checks?
To put the question another way, we are occasionally asked, "Why can't you hold up a check of mine for a few days until I can make a deposit to cover it?"

We are naturally anxious to accommodate customers whenever we can, but to hold up checks is not sound banking practice.

If we cashed a check for a customer when he had insufficient funds to cover it we would, in effect, be giving him money that belonged to someone else. If we did this for him, other depositors of our bank would be entitled to the same consideration.

Banks are required to list all overdrawn checks on their books as overdrafts. Such overdrafts are discouraged by all banking authorities and banks which permit them are subject to censure by the bank examiners.

Why must a stranger's check be endorsed?
A check is not money. It becomes money only when honored by the bank upon which it is drawn. Consequently a bank cashing a check drawn upon another bank, must have some recourse in case the check comes back unpaid.

Banks require endorsement of a depositor on a stranger's check simply as a matter of protection to the bank and its depositors. Cashing a non-depositor's check is, in effect, advancing money without security.

In accordance with our established policy we are always glad to cash a check for any person who is properly identified and his check endorsed by one of our customers.

Is it important to write checks carefully?
Our answer to this question is emphatically "yes"—for your own protection. Here are a few simple, but important, rules we recommend:

Never write in pencil. Fill out your stub first. Be sure the date is correct with the month spelled out. See that the amount as spelled out and in figures, agrees and is legibly written. Fill in all blank spaces, particularly the amount lines. Never erase! Write a new check and destroy the spoiled one. In signing checks use the same signature on file at your bank.

Never sign blank checks! Make them payable to "cash" or "bearer" only when you personally present them at the bank. Safeguard your bank checks—for your signature might be forged on them. Guard your cancelled checks likewise.

Careful observance of these rules enables us to give you greater protection for your deposited funds.

Why don't Banks pay interest on checking accounts?
Most of the banks of the country (those which are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation) are prohibited by law or government regulation from paying interest on "demand deposits."

Checking accounts are, of course, demand deposits, for they may be withdrawn at any time by the depositor.

It is now generally recognized that the payment of interest on demand deposits is not sound banking practice. A bank must be prepared at all times to pay out these funds on demand. Consequently, the bank cannot make full use of this money because it does not know when the depositor may want to withdraw it.

A checking account is primarily for the convenience of customers for keeping their money and writing checks. For those who wish to receive interest their funds can be placed in interest-bearing time deposits.

Why should I be interested in my Bank's loan policies?
As a depositor in a bank there are several very good reasons why you should be interested in its loaning policy, even if you are not a prospective borrower. In the first place, it is your money, and that of other depositors, which is being loaned. Consequently, you should want your bank to be careful and diligent in lending your money.

Good bank loans, made in accordance with sound banking principles, protect your deposited money. They put your funds to work usefully for the benefit of the entire community. They produce revenue for your bank to cover, in part, its operating cost of rendering services to you and other customers. They enable your bank to set aside reserves for protection of deposits.

Upon request, the officers of this bank will be glad to explain to you our loaning policies.

Do Banks want to make loans now?
The answer to this question is emphatically, "Yes!" . . . Banks, generally, are making loans every day—and would like to make more of them—for improved business conditions have greatly increased bank deposits. Secondly, loans are a chief source of a bank's profits. No bank knowingly refused to make a good loan for the same reason that a merchant does not lose a good sale if he can help it.

Bank loans are made when business men see clearly a profitable use for the money and the bank is satisfied the loan will be repaid when due.

This bank is willing to loan its funds to business concerns and individuals whose qualifications give adequate protection for our depositors' money.

How can I build up my credit at a Bank?
Simply stated, bank credit is the faith a bank has in a given individual, or business firm, to repay a loan at a specified time in the future.

Character is the foundation of every good credit rating. Reputation for good business management, for paying bills promptly, and for "making your word good," is essential.

It is helpful to be a depositor in the bank where you wish to establish or build up your credit. An adequate balance should be maintained in your account. Your account should not be overdrawn.

It is helpful to have good credit references. When loans are made it is important they be met promptly on due date.

These are some of the essentials we recommend to any person wishing to establish or build up his credit rating at our bank.

What do Bankers consider a good Bank Loan?
Most bankers consider a loan good if it possesses the following qualifications:

1. A borrower who has a good business reputation and credit standing.
2. A sound purpose for which the loan is to be used other than a fixed investment in a business. For this type of loan is not a proper field for a commercial bank.
3. A reasonably short term until repayment for commercial loans; adequate security in the case of collateral or real estate loans.
4. Reasonable proof of dependable means for repaying the loan when due, or a definite schedule for repayment.

This bank has many good loans on its books. We are making new ones constantly. In every loan our first consideration is to safeguard the deposits entrusted to our care.
