SECRETARY APPROVES 1935 PEANUT DIVERSION PROGRAM

Based on the result of an investigation including a public hearing held on Sept. 11, Secretary Wallace has approved a diversion program for the 1935 peanut crop, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today.

The investigation showed that current average farm price of peanuts is 3.25 cents per pound, less than the fair exchange value as defined in the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and that the diversion of a portion of the 1935 crop from the normal channels of commerce would tend to maintain the current average price for the 1935 crop.

The secretary also found on the basis of the investigation that it is necessary and desirable, in addition to the diversion program, to provide for a program of acreage adjustment in order to establish and to maintain a balance between the production and consumption of peanuts during 1935 and succeeding years which will tend to give growers the fair exchange value for their crop. Details are now being prepared for a production control program for 1935 to 1939 similar to the 1935 production adjustment program.

Under the diversion plan announced today, contracting peanut growers may receive payments on peanuts grown by them in 1935 which they sell direct to any oil miller who executed an agreement to divert such peanuts from normal channels into the manufacture of oil. Payments will also be made to any oil miller for similar diversion of peanuts other than those purchased under such agreement with growers. This plan is a part of the program for adjusting peanut production and is designed to balance the supply of the peanuts from cleaning and shelling to the effective demand. Similar diversion payments were made in connection with the 1934 peanut crop.

This proposal provides for payments on farmers' stock peanuts of the 1935 crop diverted into oil during the period Oct. 14 to Nov. 15 of this year. The diversion may be made either by contracting growers themselves or by oil millers.

JUDAH TAKEN CAPTIVE

Text: II Kings 25:1-12
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 3.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

THE Babylonian captivity is a tragic chapter in Jewish annals that occupies an important place in history. Here we are concerned chiefly with the religious and social lessons to be derived from it.

Like all great catastrophes, it is to be studied not in its immediate causes, but in the events and circumstances that led to it and that made it almost inevitable when the final crash came.

The beginning of the downfall of Judah was in the divided nation. Palestine is not large. It would have required all the strength of that small territory incorporated under one strong rule to have established any measure of effective resistance to the warring empires of the ancient world.

The little land lay between these empires, occupying something of the same position that Belgium occupied in the World War. The strong kingdom that David established, and that Solomon brought to heights of greater glory, weakened in the dissensions and rebellions that followed Solomon's death.

WHEN Solomon died and Rehoboam came to the throne, there was a strong demand that the burdens of the people should be lightened. Rehoboam took counsel from two classes of people, the young men who advised him to rule with a strong hand and the older men who advised him to correct the injustices of which the people complained.

Rehoboam's weakness and his heady course in following the advice of the young men led to a rebellion in which the kingdom of David and Solomon was rent in twain, and two kingdoms, the southern Kingdom of Judah and the northern Kingdom of Israel, took their place with parallel columns of rulers.

In the history of the Kingdom of Judah we have the story of the good King Josiah. But the history of kings and kingdoms is the record of how weak, perverse, and incompetent monarchs have come from strong and righteous predecessors. The northern Kingdom of Israel had already fallen before Assyria and now Judah, in a time of difficulty and danger, was under the rule of the weak King Zedekiah. The power of Babylon was dominant.

THERE might have been reasonable hope for a measure of autonomy on the part of Judah, in much the same way that Palestine later had a measure of autonomy under Roman rule, but that hope disappeared when Zedekiah rebelled.

The rebellion immediately brought serious consequences. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, came with a great army and besieged Jerusalem. Jerusalem suffered the fate that great capitals have always suffered in the hands of invading foes. The temple and palace were destroyed, and every great house in the city was laid low with fire. The people who were left were carried off to Babylon, with only the poorest left to be vine-dressers and husbandmen.

The highest teachings and the spiritual recovery of Israel are associated with this captivity. It is these teachings that future lessons will emphasize.

Where the grower makes the diversion the payment will be made directly to him. Only those growers who grew peanuts under the 1935 production adjustment contract are eligible to receive these diversion payments, and only on their own 1935 peanut crop. Peanuts diverted by growers under this plan must be sold by them to oil millers during the period Oct. 14 to Nov. 15 under agreement on Agricultural Adjustment Administration Form PN-27, and may be crushed any time prior to June 30, 1936.

Oil millers may receive payments for the diversion of any farmers' stock peanuts which they purchase from the 1935 crop except those which are diverted by contracting growers themselves.

That is, any peanuts not sold under agreement on Form PN-27 may be diverted by millers, whether grown by contract signers or by non-signers. Peanuts diverted by millers must be purchased and crushed during the period Oct. 14 to Nov. 15. Any oil miller, however, who wishes to purchase peanuts during the period for crushing all or a part at a later date may apply on Agricultural Adjustment Administration Form PN-23 for an extension of time to crush such peanuts. If such extension is approved peanuts may be crushed during the period from Nov. 16, 1935 to June 30, 1936.

Where the growers divert peanuts directly it is expected that he will receive only the oil value of the peanuts from the purchaser. Where the grower sells the peanuts outright to the miller without any crushing agreement, it is contemplated that the miller will pay to the grower at the time of purchase not only the value of peanuts for oil but also the amount of the diversion payment to be made to the miller.

Payments both to millers and to contracting growers for diversion under this plan will be at the rates of $19 per ton for Virginia-type peanuts, $9.50 per ton for Spanish-type peanuts and $3 per ton for Runners, with provision for an adjustment in the rate of payment in the event of a change in the price of cottonseed oil. The above rates of payment will apply if the price of refined cottonseed oil averages 10 cents per pound during the period when the grower diverts the peanuts by selling them to a miller or when the miller purchases peanuts for diversion by him. For this purpose, Oct. 14 to Oct. 31 will be one period, and Nov. 1 to Nov. 15 will be another. If the average price of refined cottonseed oil during the applicable period averages less than 10 cents per pound, the rates of payment will be increased by 50 cents per ton for every tenth of a cent by which the average price of oil is less than 10 cents per pound. On the other hand, rates of payment will be decreased 50 cents per ton for every tenth of a cent by which the average price of oil is above 10 cents per pound.

Announcement also was made today that the secretary of agriculture invites offers from peanut millers to enter into contracts whereby additional peanuts may be diverted into oil after Nov. 15, 1935. In submitting an offer under this plan, the peanut miller would offer to purchase on or after Nov. 16, 1935, a specified quantity of farmers' stock peanuts of the 1935 crop, for which growers received not less than $55 per ton in the case of Runners, $62.50 per ton in the case of Virginia, and $65 per ton in the case of

If a miller's offer were accepted, it would become a binding contract and the secretary would agree, in consideration of the miller's purchase agreement, to make payment at rates agreed upon between the secretary and the miller for any of the peanuts purchased under the agreement and diverted by the miller into the manufacture of oil. Such peanuts could be diverted either in the form of farmers' stock peanuts or in the form of shelled peanuts.

Electric Cooling Is Regarded Now As All-Time Need

More home owners now recognize that electric refrigeration is a year-around necessity, says Mr. Harper, head of the Harper Music Company, distributors in this territory for General Electric kitchen appliances.

From last October to April more than $97,000,000 worth of electric refrigerators were sold by the industry, he points out. This was more than $500,000 per day, he says. Sales during the six months ending next April will exceed those figures, he predicts.

"Not long ago," he continues, "people used automobiles only in the summer. Now they are used the year 'round. Ice cream was considered only a summertime dish. It is now enjoyed as much in winter. Fresh, garden green stuffs were 'seasonable' but now they are available and enjoyed the year 'round because of refrigerated transportation and storage facilities."

More than 6,000,000 present electric refrigerator owners have proved that dependable refrigeration is convenient and thrifty all the year. They don't turn their refrigerators off when summer is over. Regardless of even a sub-zero blizzard outside, it is always summertime in the kitchen. Foods spoil quickly in temperatures above 50 degrees and if a kitchen is warm enough to live in, it is too warm to prevent food spoilage. The only sure, safe way to keep foods fresh and wholesome, winter or summer, is in the constant, controlled cold of a dependable electric refrigerator. When food temperature rises above 50 degrees, bacteria multiply at a frightful pace and food spoilage is rapid. When it drops to 32 degrees, the food freezes and is unfit to eat or it loses its taste and flavor.

"The use of any device that depends on outside temperatures for cold storage means gambling on the weather. U. S. government weather bureau records for more than 50 years show there is an average of only 19 days each year when the temperature is correct for proper food preservation—even in the northern states. One day is too warm, another too cold. Food spoilage and wastage can not be prevented without the constant controlled temperature of a modern refrigerator.

AFTER THE RAIN IN "RAINMAKERS"

Smiling through, indeed, are Bert Wheeler, Dorothy Lee and Robert Woolsey in their new celluloid circus for RKO, "The Rainmakers." In this hilarious story of the drought area, Bert and Bob have the funniest of all farm-relief plans, and Dorothy, who has missed the last two W. and W. laugh hits, is the romantic rainbow on the cloudy horizon. Fred Guiol directed "The Rainmakers," with Lee Marcus supervising production.

Government surveys show that through planned buying—marketing only once or twice a week, buying in larger quantities and taking advantage of special price offers—a saving of from 25 to 30 per cent can be effected. A good electric refrigerator in the home permits quantity buying, as the food can be kept as safely in the home as in the store. Thus, a saving in money is made and fewer trips to market in bad weather are necessary. Another saving is made in 'left-overs,' as they can be kept in wholesome manner."

RAIN STORMS, BRAIN STORMS IN WHEELER-WOOLSEY PRODUCTION

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey shift the gears of their new fun vehicle into high in their latest RKO Radio comedy feature, "The Rainmakers," an hilarious satire saturated with rain-storms, snow storms, dust storms, love storms and brain hurricanes. Presenting something altogether new in screen humor, the rollicking comedy is based on the weal and woe of life in a parched farming community. "Roscoe, the Rainmaker" (Woolsey) comes to the aid of the discouraged farmers. Not exactly an Einstein, even "relatively" speaking, he nevertheless has a big heart and a big box stuffed with "gadgets" guaranteed to bring down a cloud-burst.

And ever at his right hand is the faithful Wheeler, playing the role of assistant "scientist" and making a greater play for the heart of the local banker's daughter.

Through jaunty, roistering sequences the picture moves to a spectacular, hilarious climax, with "Roscoe" bringing down upon the parched fields everything in 'ol' Jupiter Pluvius' repertoire.

The cast includes such fine players as featured Dorothy Lee, Bertton Churchill, George Meeker and Frederic Roland. Fred Guiol directed under the supervision of Lee Marcus.

"SHIPMATES FOREVER" FILLED WITH THRILLS AND ROMANCE

Warner Bros. gave talking pictures to the screen. They also discovered that the United States government and its various departments furnished the background for stories of human interest for excellent fanciful adventures in mythological lands.

That they were correct has been proved by the remarkable success of its various service stories. "Here Comes the Navy" was first; then life at West Point was dramatized in "Flirtation Walk." The marines had their hour in "Devil Dogs of the Air" and the success of "G-Men," telling the great battleships of the Pacific fleet, at play and at work, as well as in love.

"Shipmates Forever" is the most romantic as well as the most thrilling of the service pictures. Never has Powell been given such an opportunity to prove his versatility before the screen as in this picture. Not only does he sing many catchy airs in his inimitable manner, but his part calls for real dramatic action, to which he rises with genuine artistry.

The son of an admiral and commandant at Annapolis, he has risen to the top as a crooner in a New York Park Casino and is known throughout the nation. Fiqed by the scorn of his father, who tries to shame him into carrying out the traditions of the family, he enters Annapolis as a cadet, where he is unmercifully hazed because of his family relations, his crooning and his own haughty spirit.

Making Up a shopping list

The hall needs a new rug. More towels are needed for the bathroom, and the kitchen floor could certainly stand a coat of paint. The children need shoes. The car will soon need tires. Well, we buy a hundred new things every year.

Scattered throughout the United States are manufacturers who make the very things we need. Their products are on sale in certain stores within easy reach. Certain of these products, and certain of these stores, are especially fitted to take care of our special need. But which products and which stores? Which can we afford, and which do we think is best? We must look to advertising for advice.

Advertising is the straight line between supply and demand. It saves time spent in haphazard shopping. It leads you directly to your goal. By reading the advertisements, we can determine in advance where the best values are to be found. With the aid of advertising, shopping becomes a simple and pleasant business, and budget figures bring more smiles than frowns.

Saturday to Mark Showing of New 1936 Chevrolets

The 1936 Chevrolets will be on display in showrooms of the Harvey Motor Company Saturday, it was announced today.

Prospective automobile buyers will find a greatly improved automobile in the new models, officials of the company point out. Many changes have been made in the standard models—perhaps more than any other car, Harvey officials stated, who invited all Eastland residents to view the models.

Business Thrives On Bald Heads In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA.—The art of coaxing shiny pates to sprout hair is one of Philadelphia's major businesses.

Sensitive bald-headed men walk furtively into hair-growing salons and spend $1,000,000 yearly in this city, according to a survey, either to prevent baldness, to grow new hair, or to buy a wig.

Sixteen establishments advertise experts who will more or less guarantee a rebirth of hirsute glory. Pessimistically, 18 places do a thriving business in supplying artificial pompadours.

There are 41 kinds of mixtures which range in odor from lilac to burning rubber. Thousands of bald pates are submitted to rubbers, massagers, brushes, thumpers, kneaders, vibrators, bakers and steamers.

Every 12 months, 500 bald-headed men pay an average of $85 for courses averaging 20 treatments.

Wise businessmen realize that bald-headed men are human, and extremely sensitive. Almost without exception the hair-raising establishments are located in large office buildings, where the timid can pretend their business is with an adjacent insurance or brokerage office.

Only in one of the sanctuaries for the hairless will the bald-headed man, or the potentially shorn, find sympathy, understanding and hope. There he finds his brethren. Pleasant, professional appearing young men encourage him and attractive young ladies massage his cranium, and make no flip remarks.

One of the biggest places in town spikes the popular belief that only aged playboys and middle-aged actors take their baldness seriously. The records show that the average age for patrons there is 26, the youngest 18 and the oldest 72.

Retailers of Oil Make Charges of Unfair Tactics

By United Press

CHICAGO.—Independent jobbers, as opposed to "integrated" oil corporations, will discuss vital issues when the National Oil Marketers association meets in annual convention here Oct. 29, 30, 31, according to Paul E. Hadlick, Washington, secretary of the association.

More than 600 oil retailers will consider four paramount questions:

Should major oil companies be disintegrated?
Do oil marketers want a voluntary code for the petroleum industry?

Should a defense be drawn against the proposal of leading oil corporations to abandon the anti-trust laws?

What position toward proposed federal legislation to hold down production of crude oil shall the retailer assume?

Large Refiners Attacked
The subject of large company disintegration will receive the most attention from the jobbers, Hadlick said.

"Independent oil dealers," he asserted, "are slowly being driven out of business by refiners who engage in marketing and use profits gained in refining to offset losses incurred in marketing, thereby monopolizing the entire industry."

"The most effective blow against such practices," he declared, "would be to force large refining and marketing companies to divorce their inter-state, and if need be, their intra-state pipe lines. This would be entirely within legal realms."

Further protection would be obtained for the small seller by prohibiting the absorption of any part of the cost of marketing by any other branch of integrated companies. This might be done by amendment of state laws.

Federal Control Opposed

The subject of federal control of crude oil output will find the jobbers bitterly attacking the Department of the Interior.

Hadlick predicted that state squabbles would be inevitable in determining production quotas. Discussion on the questions will begin after delegates have heard the reports of W. Earle White, of the Delta Oil Co., Petersburg, Va., who is chairman of a committee last year appointed by the association to study the national oil jobber situation.

A trade exhibit will be held in connection with the convention. Reservations indicate displays will be shown by practically every industry that in any way caters to the oil jobber.

Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois is expected to address one of the sessions.

Tarleton Student Wins Cash Award

By United Press
STEPHENVILLE, Texas.—Paul Deats Jr., freshman student of public speaking at John Tarleton College, won second place in the national Future Farmer of America oratorical contest held in Kansas City. The award carries a cash prize of $200.

Deats, whose home is in Graham, won first place in the F. F. A. district public speaking contest at Tarleton last spring, speaking on "A Fulfilled Promise for American Agriculture." Later he won the state contest at Huntsville and the regional contest at Nashville, Tenn.

A feature of the contest is a cross-examination by the judges on all phases of agriculture and economics related to the boy's subjects. O. G. Ross, teacher of vocational agriculture at Graham, coached Deats on his subject matter. Miss Lillie V. Lillard, director of the department of public speaking at Tarleton, has worked with him on delivery this fall.
