Ah, Driver, Spare Our Tender Nerves

New York state has taken a happy step which other states will be following one of these days—the introduction of a bill to curb automobile horns.

Anti-noise campaigns are old stuff and they fit into a pattern for cities, but the automobile horn is an old raucous offender wherever the auto may be and as long as the motorist has strength to push the right button—long and hard.

You walk along a city street and are aware of a multitude of sounds, accustomed sounds that form a background for thoughts and conversation—the whir of tires, the rattle of a cart, the cry of the newsboy, the bustle of unloading vans, the scrape of feet on asphalt.

Stepping through the farmer's barn lot (because no one ever walks country lanes any more) are the rural noises that poets have made idyllic—the moo of bossy, the crackle of corn between the teeth of enthusiastic shoats, the rustle of the elm tree by the fence, the murmur of the creek back of the barn. More self-effacing noises, these. They don't intrude, but fall forgetfully into the dim, unheeded corners of the brain where noises should retreat.

Enter the automobile horn. It is two-toned, half-toned, vile toned, and bad-mannered. It startles, it screams, it rides roughshod over meditation and conversation. It shatters nerves and moods, roughens tempers, starts fights and makes enemies. It breaks sleep, and dreams and eardrum.

The horn is necessary, you say a necessary evil. Perhaps, although that's a grudging admission.

But is it necessary for the manufacturers to build them so evilly ingenious? So that by pressing a button the driver loses a thousand green demons which stride your spine with stabbing steps, driving their trident-barbed spears into your brain with gleeful gusto and a twist that sends your brain fibers curling and writing like a bucketful of blacksnakes.

This is a pious plea for moderation in motor horns, uniformity and soothing tones. Let them fit into everyday life like the call of the traffic cop or the whipoorwill. Let them lilt or coo or coo, but don't let them quaver and bellow and screech.

Then, if you get run over, you at least haven't been petrified first.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

KEEPING THE BODY STRONG

Text: Mark 6:53-56; Judges 12:12-14; Corinthians 1:16, 17; Romans 12:1, 2.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

PERHAPS one of the most characteristic aspects of our age is concerned with the body and with good health and physical well-being. All sorts of cults and "movements" have arisen in this realm of physical culture and the care of the body. Yet strange to say, there probably never was a time in the life of humanity when there was on such a wide scale so much disregard of physical welfare and security, and so widespread indulgence in ways of living and habits that are destructive of the ideal of "a sound mind and a sound body." On the one hand, we see the world's immense concern with war and violence and implements of destruction; a building-up of the bodies of men in fine physique with the idea that their strength may be used in violent ways, either for defense or aggression. On the other hand, we see aspects of loose living and indulgence that tend toward the weakening of the body, toward the breakdown of good health, both individual and social, and toward a moral corruption that inevitably in time has its physical effects. Where men and women have lived healthy lives with useful toil, plenty of fresh air, proper hours of rest, without vicious or questionable habits, and with plenty of good wholesome food, there has not been much need to concern themselves with the body or to think a great deal about it. It is to this area of the good and wholesome living that the Bible constantly introduces us, and we have in our lesson passages from Scripture four sources that emphasize the personal aspect of temperance in keeping the body strong.

PERHAPS we ought to reverse the order of these passages and take first of all that from the Book of Judges. Early in the life of Israel, it became apparent that the good health, both of the individual and of the people as a whole, depended upon keeping the life of Israel free from contamination with the vicious practices of surrounding peoples and free also from the corrupt and debasing influences from things in their own life. The danger that inhered in strong drink became quickly apparent, and the Bible in all its pages, both from the early and later life of Israel, is insistent upon the evil that lurks in intoxication. Jesus laid stress on good health. The record of the miracles of healing symbolizes His whole attitude toward life. He came to restore the souls and bodies of men, as He came to teach them right principles and to establish life in ways of good conduct. There is a great deal of true religion in what we might call "wholesome living." This means that one is not going to do or indulge in things that are to his own hurt or to the hurt of his neighbor. The passages from Corinthians and from Romans only enforce very strongly this general conception. If a man has a sense of the sacredness of his own life and a realization that his body, as it is the temple of his soul, may also be the temple of the living God, he cannot lightly or knowingly indulge in habits or follow ways of life that are against the welfare of either body or soul.

CRISLER'S SWITCH FROM PRINCETON TO MICHIGAN

CRISLER'S switch from Princeton to Michigan recalls a striking example of Amos Alonzo Stagg placing ethics ahead of victory. Crisler sat on the bench as Stagg's assistant in Chicago's melodramatic game with Princeton in 1922. Crisler begged the Grand Old Man to send in Alonzo Stagg, Jr., as quarterback in the last few seconds with orders to try an end run. The Maroon was called the Tiger's one-yard line. Crisler would be stopped at center. But Stagg wouldn't heed his young aid's entreaties, later explaining: "I had sponsored a rule against substituting for the purpose of giving instructions. I would have been untrue to my principles had I sent in my son under the circumstances."

WIEMAN INHERITS HEAD COACHING CHAIR AT PRINCETON

WIEMAN inherited the head coaching chair at Princeton. His appointment insures the perpetuation of a system that rehabilitated the gridiron game at Old Nassau. Wieman is a painstaking coach, and great line tutors sometimes are rarer than fine head coaches. Many a nationally recognized coach owes a good share of his reputation to an unsung assistant who drills his forwards in individual position play and group execution. Wieman doesn't go in for heroics. He is matter-of-fact and impersonal in pre-game talks. "Just go out there and execute your assignments on each play as though it were the only play in the game," he tells his men before games. "Forget the game as a whole. Concentrate on your job. The score will take care of itself."

LESLE MACMITCHELL'S BEST SCHOOLBOY RECORD

LESLE MacMITCHELL, best schoolboy runner, York has developed some of Mel Sheppard and Al MacMitchell again. MacMitchell's favorite mile to the half mile, winning his third national title in many years in the national intercollegiate indoor championships at Madison Square Garden. MacMitchell completed the triple in the record book, winning the 880-yard race and winning by 40 yards standard, set by William of Brooklyn Prep in 2:01.2. The George Washington School star captured the yard test in 1936 in record time and took the mile a year another record-breaking performance. The Washington student turned in his only four days before the meet. He flew over the 4:21.7 in the Dartmouth scholastic.

"I'VE never seen a specific prospect," says Tolgers, wald, MacMitchell's owner, inel door 1000-yard scholar, age, he set an indoor mark of 4:23.4 for the many varsity athletes that. Last winter he to Bill Ray in the 1000. 2:11.9. Leslie MacMitchell a brighter Olympic prospect.

This week is a good time to buy a 1938 FORD V-8

Now that National Used Car Exchange Week has reduced dealers' used car stocks, this is an opportune time to buy the new 1938 Ford V-8 you have been wanting. There are three excellent reasons for acting now.

First, the ability and desire of your Ford dealer to accept additional cars in trade—now.

Second, the fact that spring arrives officially next week, and it's a real thrill to meet it with a new car.

Third, the 1938 Ford V-8 itself. It is a great value at its present low price—and the value seems even greater when you learn the exceptional amount of equipment included in the advertised price.

The big 85-hp. De Luxe Ford V-8 offers a new standard of luxury at a low price. The newly styled Standard Ford V-8, even lower in price, is available with either engine size. With the 60-hp. V-8 engine it is "Public Economy No. 1"—owners are reporting 22 to 27 miles per gallon.

You are invited to see your Ford dealer this week for an appraisal on your present car—and a chance to drive the Quality Car in the Low-price Field.

FORD V-8 PRICES

FOR CARS DELIVERED IN DETROIT—TAXES EXTRA

Standard Ford V-8 (60 hp.)—Coupe	$599;
Tudor Sedan	$644;

Turning Vets Employment Is Aim of Campaign

Effort to return jobless veterans to employment for their third national service by the Texas State Employment Service in the Abilene district in connection with the national veterans' employment record book, H. L. Maufrais, field director of this district, announced Saturday at Abilene.

The campaign is being sponsored by the three major veterans' organizations chartered by the American Legion, the World American Veterans of the World War, and the Veterans of the United States in the World War.

Under the plan, the employment offices will undertake complete registration of all jobless veterans in this area. It is expected that many employment opportunities will be developed in the near future.

Maufrais anticipated the project will yield a more complete record of veterans' work qualifications and experience, and more numerous job opportunities for such veterans.

A total of 803 veterans are actively seeking work through employment offices in this district. Records in the Abilene office revealed. During the year and January and February of this year, the 40,015 placements made, 1,238 jobs filled with experienced workers were war veterans.

During the same period, those offices had 649 new applications for employment service offices in this district are located at Abilene, Brownwood, San Angelo, Big Spring, Sweetwater, Odessa and McCombs, and a combined area of forty counties.

Stiles to Run for Commissioner
L. (Aaron) Stiles, proprietor of the Stiles Service Station at Odessa, has authorized this paper to announce his name as a candidate for county commissioner of precinct 1.

Stiles came to Eastland county in 1907, and since that time has lived in and near Odessa. During the oil boom he was engaged in oil drilling and part in bringing in some of the wells during the early boom. He conducted a grocery for two years and since that has been in the service station business.

Stiles is the father of four children and married a Ranger girl, Oda Taylor, in 1925. His wife also makes her home with him. He expects to announce his candidacy for county commissioner in the near future.

Truck Drivers and Chauffeurs Urged To Obtain Licenses

State police today urged truck drivers and chauffeurs to obtain their licenses at the Eastland county courthouse well in advance of expiration dates to avoid an expected rush at examination headquarters over the state. About 30 per cent of the commercial permits in effect before last Nov. 15, when the law requiring the examination of drivers was made effective, will expire in March and early April, officials said. With a limited field force available to conduct the physical, mental and driving tests it was pointed out that applicants may facilitate the issuance of the permits by applying a month or so before their present licenses expire. The new licenses will become invalid one year from the expiration date of the former license.

Ralph L. Buell, chief of the license bureau at Austin, has said examiners of the safety department in every county seat city of the state are now examining an "almost capacity" number of drivers who are making early applications.

How to Tame a 'Ferocious' Lion

If you ever want to tame a lion like the snarling rascal above, here's how to do it, according to Capt. Ronald Stout of the New York zoo. Just scratch its tummy until its eyes droop dreamily, as in the photo at right, and soon you'll be able to re-enact the touching scene below, in which the wild jungle beast reposes tranquilly in the arms of the slumbering trainer. Useful information, what?

Rules to Minimize Kite Flying Danger Given by Company

With spring breezes and sunshine; days at hand, youngsters thought are turning to kite flying. and power and light company officials Saturday issued an appeal to parents to warn children regarding precautions which should be taken in the pursuit of this popular pastime. Each year brings many serious accidents because of carelessness in flying kites in the vicinity of electric power lines.

- 1. Don't fly kites in the vicinity of electric power lines.
- 2. Don't climb a pole or use a stick in order to dislodge a kite or string entangled in power wires.
- 3. Don't fly kites with metal strings.
- 4. Don't fly kites with wet strings.
- 5. Don't pick up a wire which might have fallen to the ground.

Sanderson, Lone Star Plant No. 4, had an average grade of B.

Formulas Given For White Water Paint

B. E. Rigby, who has been asked a number of times about a white water paint, gives the following formula for the convenience of his many friends who have inquired about it, and for others who might be interested in making up the paint.

Slack and quantity of stone lime by putting in a tub and covering to keep in the steam. When slacked pass through a fine sieve. To each six quarts of slacked lime add one quart of rock salt in powdered form and one gallon of water, boil all together and skim clean. To each five gallons of this liquor add one pound of powdered alum, one-half pound of powdered copperas and add very slowly three-quarters of a pound of powdered caustic potash and four pounds of fine sand. The sand is optional. Thoroughly mix and apply with a brush. If painting tree trunks use an old household broom. This paint is on iron pipe that was painted seven or eight years ago and is also fine for the trunks of fruit trees, pecan trees or trees that might be attacked by borers or other boring insects. The paint also will stop seeping in stone or brick walls in cellars, when sand is used in the formula. For perfect success the formula should be followed strictly.

Kokomo Girls Told Of Smock Materials

A printed material with a dark background is most suitable for a smock," said Miss Mabel Caldwell at the recent meeting of the Kokomo 4-H club girls at the school house. A dark material does not get dirty so easy and a heavy print is more suitable, because they launder better, Miss Caldwell added. The songs, "The More We Get Together," and "Liza Jane," were sung by all present for the opening exercise. The following girls were present:

RISE IN TAXES IS SHOWN BY COMPILATIONS

Texas government now takes in $11 for each $1 it collected in 1915, back at the beginning of James E. Ferguson's first term as governor.

This was shown in a compilation made by John T. Smith in the Texas Tax Journal, based on reports of the comptroller's office, and including the 1937 report issued by Comptroller George H. Sheppard this week. Total state collections for the fiscal year 1915 amounted to $14,954,000. Total for 1937 was $154,120,000.

Steady Rise
Typical of the steady rise, with inclusion of the gasoline tax, state funds for such purposes as teacher pensions, old-age assistance and unemployment benefits, and money received from the federal government for matching purposes, are these years of state revenue:

1915	$14,954,000
1916	33,607,892
1920	62,309,632
1926	71,909,124
1930	107,789,956
1932	96,894,751
1933	106,231,371
1934	112,996,041
1936	127,192,235
1937	154,120,000

Texas took in $154,120,001, and spent $144,770,274 during the 1937 fiscal year, Comptroller Sheppard reported.

Main items of revenues were:

Ad valorem	$18,000,243
Gross receipts	19,588,506
Insurance	3,847,527
Cigarette	6,440,614
Liquor stamp	3,765,458
Net gasoline	40,551,796

Embezzler Talks His Way Into Prison

PUEBLO, Colo.—Clarence Williams, 24, almost "talked" his way out of a penitentiary sentence. Williams had admitted guilt on an embezzlement charge and was delivering a stirring plea for probation. Judge Harry Leddy was impressed by the prisoner's desire to get a job and repay the money until Williams said he wanted to get a job on WPA and marry a woman with seven children.

"One to two years in the state penitentiary," the judge interrupted. "There are too many on WPA right now."

THIEVES SPOIL DINNER

BERKELEY, Cal.—Mrs. Bertha Weber invited a party of friends to visit her cabin at Redwood Estates and enjoy a dinner cooked on her new $160 rural gas stove. The party arrived but the stove was not there. Thieves had got there first.

ASK YOUR FRIENDS, ask your neighbors, what they think of this '38 Buick, and they'll give it to you quick in six little words: "It's a honey for the money!" That's praise all right—but praise that still doesn't do this great car full justice!

For here's a traveler that would be a buy even if you had to pay a premium to get it! It's a car with power like no other. Power literally born of the hurricane—power that makes gasoline deliver more—power that's smooth, willing, brilliant. Here's a car, too, with an utterly different kind of ride. A ride that gentles every jar and jolt. A ride that's safer in nasty going, that gives sureness to control, that cuts down upkeep and makes rear tires last longer.

And here's a car that in addition sparkles with features as a Christmas tree sparkles with ornaments. New quiet, from "silent zone" body mounting. New comfort, from deep, broad comfort-angled seats. New pride of possession, from style hailed as the smartest of the year.

Yet big and satisfying as this beautiful Buick is, a little money buys it! No more than you'll pay for some sixes. Less than for any other eight of its size.

So there's no longer any reason for not stepping up to the kind of car you've always wanted.

Go now and get the details from the nearest Buick dealer—see the car that folks just won't do without.

"Better buy Buick!"

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE MAIDWELL—
Derek's sister.
DEREK MANTHON—an artist
who loved money first.
HILDEGARDE THORVALD—
Derek painted her portrait.
DR. ROSEBERG—he met his most difficult case.

Yesterday Derek breaks the news that he is to leave for California to paint a portrait of Hildegarde Thorvald. A knock is heard just then at the door.

CHAPTER III

DEREK muttered something impatient and called, "Come in!"
At sight of his guests, however,
his manner altered as if by magic.
In an instant he was his charming,
boyish deference.

"Why, good morning, sir!" he cried. "It was nice of you to drop in again. . . . Do sit here, Miss Thorvald."

As the tall golden girl in the rich fur wrap moved forward, Constance was unpleasantly conscious of her own faded tweeds
and shabby hat.

"Miss Thorvald, may I present Miss Maidwell?" Derek was murmuring. "Miss Maidwell—Mr.
Thorvald."

There was in his gesture the manner of one presenting Constance to royalty.

Hildegarde Thorvald said in a slow, warm voice, "How nice to meet one of Mr. Manthon's friends
—since we are to see a great deal of him for a while. . . . Perhaps you are an artist, too?"

"Oh, no!" smiled Constance.
"My artistic effects are achieved solely on the typewriter."

"Oh, you write then?"
Miss Thorvald's manner was simple and friendly.

"If you can call it writing. . . .
They would chat for a while, like this, about nothing, and then Derek would tell them, and Constance heard her own voice running on lightly, "My best literary efforts sound something like this:

"Manthon, Derek; American gallery. Born, Worcester, Massachusetts, 1905. . . . Honorable Mention, 1925. First Prize Winner, 1937.
Pictures exhibited: Old Man Resting, Italian Boy, Lady in Blue."
You see, I catalog for the Museum."

"The Lady in Blue!" Miss Thorvald's amber eyes were suddenly interested. "Of course, I thought I had seen you somewhere before.
The portrait is really lovely. I—I couldn't help feeling that there was a story behind it."

CONSTANCE glanced at Derek under veiled lids. He was smiling and flushed with pleasure.
He would tell them now.

"Well, you see, Miss Thorvald," he began, "that canvas has a special significance for me. It was finished the day—"

"Hello!" Ernest Thorvald, who had finished writing in his notebook, glanced at his watch and stood up decisively. "Guess we'd better get down to the business
that brought us."

Constance knew a moment of shocked disbelief as Derek broke off, his sentence unfinished, to turn to the older man.

"Now about the arrangements
for your workshop at the ranch," Ernest Thorvald was going on.
"I'm ordering some fixtures to be sent on at once. Perhaps you'll look over this list now. . . . or better still, since it's a rather practically packed, perhaps you had better run along in the car with us and make a few selections yourself. . . . We'll have time before we go to the airport."

Derek tore his eyes from Constance's face to say, "Right, Mr.
Thorvald. . . . I'll just shut this trunk, and everything's ready. The janitor will nail up the boxes and take care of the expressman."

Mr. Thorvald said agreeably,
but quite as if Derek's acquiescence had been a foregone conclusion. "Fine. That will simplify matters. . . . Nice to have met you, Miss Maidwell," and started brisk-

Hildegarde Thorvald said in a slow, warm voice, "How nice to meet one of Mr. Manthon's friends—since we are to see a great deal of him for a while. . . ."

it. . . . She couldn't say just where it was. And, he finished, his cheek flicker against hers, "under the circumstances, it's bound to take me a little time to hunt it. Isn't it, darling?"

Suddenly Constance remembered Hildegarde Thorvald's brief hesitation as she paused to collect her belongings—that amused, secret flicker of a smile in her eyes.
And in that moment she hated
the other girl for the impulsive kindness of the gesture that had sent Derek back to her.

"You needn't hunt at all," he said clearly. "The glove is right
there on the table."
"Oh, well!" Derek released her reluctantly. "The sooner I get back to you, the sooner I can get back to you. Wait here for me, darling."

When Derek had gone, Constance stood staring at the door,
the back of her hand beating against her lips.

So Derek had come back only because another woman had sent him back to find her glove. It was a hateful thought. But try as she might, Constance could not entirely hate the tall girl. Hildegarde Thorvald, she told herself, was kind—with a kindness as warm and natural as that of the sun, that mellowed her father's fruit.

And of course Derek must think of his future—their future. Derek did not want to go away from her.
She did not need to hear him say that to know it. . . . But, on, how she had wanted to hear him!

Nervously she began wandering about the denuded studio, righting
with deft fingers the disorder
Derek had left after his hasty packing—closing drawers, dusting
a little, and carefully covering several canvases Derek had set out for transfer to the gallery of a local art dealer—even setting
the nails in the boxes Derek had packed for shipment.

Finally she went over to her former seat before the fireplace.
She threw more wood upon the dying embers, swept the hearth,
and then—because there was nothing else to do, she sat down to wait.

She had hardly settled herself
into her chair before someone rattled at the door.

Map Shows Location of Wells Bringing County In Spotlight

The above map of the northwest
Eastland county area, prepared by George Brogdon, Eastland abstractor,
shows the Ellenburger pool opened by the Hickok Van Parmer No. 1 (in circle). The Hickok well was completed for a potential of more than 1,000 barrels daily. West of it in Section 478, is the Lone Star's Marshal Thomas
No. 1, also completed for more than 1,100 barrels daily. Offsetting the Hickok Van Parmer to the north is the Lone Star's Van Parmer No. 2, drilling from surface. Directly north of the Lone Star No. 2 and in the corner of the northwest quarter of Section 477 is the Lone Star's No. 1 Parmer, deepened from a gas horizon

and acidized Friday with 5,000 gallons. Offsetting the Van Parmer No. 2 to the west, is the same company's No. 1 Cozart, likewise deepened, and a potential of 288 barrels daily. The location is shown in the
of the figure "X" of the number, which is 10.

Completion of Another Offset In Deep Lime Pay Is Nearing; Location Staked for Well Close to Eastland

Complete results of a 5,000-gallon acidization received Friday by the Lone Star Gas company No. 1 Van Parmer, fourth producer in the deep lime area nine miles northwest of Cisco in Eastland county, will be known Monday or Tuesday, it was announced Saturday.

The deepened gas well received the acid from 3,972 feet, where the Ellenburger lime was topped.
The Van Parmer is 800 feet east of the
No. 1 Cozart, also a deepened gas well, which was finished recently for 288 barrels daily. In section 477, SPRR survey, it also is about 3,000 feet north and slightly west of the discovery well drilled by Hickok Producing and Development company on a different Van Parmer lease. Observers believe the Lone Star Parmer is as good if not better than the Cozart.

The Railroad Commission potential test on the Lone Star No.
1 Marshall Thomas, section 478,
SPRR survey, 1,341-foot west offset to the discovery, was given Saturday as being 1,183 barrels daily, higher than earlier announcement. Production was from the Ellenburger, 4,118 to 4,156 1/2 feet. It was presumed connection would be made with the Illinois Pipe Line company as that is the only outlet in that area.

Lone Star's No. 2 Van Parmer, 1,321-foot north offset to the discovery well in section 477, SPRR survey, was reported drilling toward the 2,000-foot mark.
Hickok No. 1 Grover S. Cleveland (D), section 476, SPRR survey, one-half mile northeast of the discovery, was ready to spud.

For the first time in several months since opening of the lime pool which had overshadowed other events, other portions of Eastland county, practically deserted before, were getting attention.

Neil A. Moore of Midland, formerly of Eastland, and others
made location for a 1,500 foot well about a mile northeast of Eastland in the city limits. Drilling operations on the No. 7 Holcomb heirs, section 1, block 4, H&TC survey, 970 feet from the west and 600 feet from the north
lines of the lease, are scheduled,
Mrs. Bobbie I. Terry, n. h. Kuy-
kendall survey, near Desdemona

but in Comanche county, were drilling at 4,815 feet in Ellen-burger lime topped at 3,404 feet.
Brannon and Murray scored a 150-barrel producer and 100,000-cubic foot gasser in their No. 14
J. C. Dibrell, block 265, J. W.
Hicks survey, from a sand 1,954-

Dunlavy No. 259, 200 feet north of the south line and 5,700 feet
east of the west line of the 524-acre lease. Drilling to 800 feet is planned.

R. H. Goble and L. O. Moore of Bryson announced plans to drill
No. 2 E. P. Costello, northwest
Palo Pinto county in the Pickwick area, McKinney and Williams A-vey, and guests, Mrs. Jameson, and Mrs. Ardis Taylor of Dallas, and Mrs. Wiegand. Mrs. Norris Wilson will be the next hostess, Tuesday, March 22.

Mrs. Crossley Hostess: Mrs. P. L. Crossley entertained with luncheon Wednesday honoring Mrs. E. Clyde White of Baird, with Mrs. Frank Sparks as joint hostess.

The long luncheon table was covered with lace over green, accenting the St. Patrick day theme used throughout. A low bowl of pansies centered the table flanked on either side by tall green candles further reflecting the theme.

A three course luncheon, consisting of Loganberry cocktail, the main course, dessert of Shamrock shaped ice cream served with angel cake, was served the following:

Mrs. Clyde White, Ben Russell from Baird, James Horton, W. F. Leslie, Don Parker, W. W. Kelly, Guy Parker, W. A. Wiegand, M. H. Kelly, T. M. Coie, Frank Sparks and Mrs. P. L. Crossley.

Sewing Club Meets: The Royal Neighbor Sewing club, recently organized, met in the home of Mrs. Gertrude Williams and enjoyed an afternoon of knitting and sewing.

Refreshments of chocolate cake and iced tea were served to the following: Mmes. Lillie Watson, Mattie Williams, Willa Brock, Della Harbin, Edna Taylor, Ada La-Claire, Ethel Harbin, Kate Chandler, Mrs. LeClaire, Manda Kellett, and Misses Quida Harbin and Ruby Harbin and hostess, Mrs. Williams.

Birthdays Celebrated: Mrs. B. E. Kellett was honored at the recent meeting of the Sew Sew sewing club with a birthday gift shower at the home of Mrs. Bishop Clifton.

The afternoon diversion was sewing and various indoor games. At the close of the afternoon a refreshment plate of open face sandwiches, cookies, and iced punch was served to:

Mmes. Gene Ashley, Ina Griffin, L. M. Cawley, G. B. Lanier, Lee Horn, Earl Thorne, Ocie Hunt, Will Tucker, B. E. Kellett, Bill Hogg, Claude Crossley, Geo. R. Tate.

Attendance Goal Set: The workers conference of the Baptist church was held recently with Rev. J. I. Cartledge presiding. Open prayer was offered by W. L. R. Owen prefacing the covered dish luncheon served at 7 p. m.

During the business session reports of the various departments were heard. The E. T. U. was given by Miss Melba Rick, W. M. U. by Mrs. W. S. Adamson and the Sunday school reports were conducted by E. E. Layton.

A general discussion on the Baptist Training Union study course was held. The course will be taught by three young men from the Baptist Seminary in

Above are scenes from Samuel Goldwyn's lavish star-studded technicolor musical "The Goldwyn Follies," which will be shown at the Lyric for two days, starting today. Jurist Holds Record For No Sessions

By United Press NEW ORLEANS—Judge Hugh C. Cage of the civil district court holds a record—for not holding court.

Taking the bench for the first time in local judicial history with nothing to judge, Cage came in the courtroom promptly at 11 A. M. He bowed to the attorneys who had to be there. They returned the bow. The judge nodded in the direction of the spectators, but there weren't any. He glanced at the attorney's chairs which were vacant. He verified the absence.

"Are there," he asked, "any motions from the bar?" Court Clerk Herbie Rosenmeier confirmed the judge's suspicions. "Judge," he replied, "there isn't any bar."

Cage left the court, having done nothing but set a record.

PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR

WHEREAS, the week of April 3 to 10, 1938, has been designated by Governor James V. Allred in his Proclamation of February 26 as STATE CLEAN-UP WEEK;

and WHEREAS, the Texas Fire Insurance Department and the Texas State Health Department have agreed to cooperate with the city officials of Texas cities and towns in the observance of this week;

and WHEREAS, the aims and accomplishments of this week are:

1. To Protect Community Health. 2. To Reduce Fire Hazards. 3. To Create a Better Home Life. 4. To Build Up Pride of Ownership. 5. To Increase Property Values. 6. To Beautify Communities.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, C. W. Hoffmann, Mayor of the City of Eastland, do hereby join with the Governor of Texas and Officials of the Texas Fire Insurance Department and State Health Department and do hereby set aside and proclaim the week of April 3 to 10, 1938 as:

CLEAN-UP WEEK in Eastland. The schools, churches, clubs, newspapers, civic and patriotic organizations, boy scouts and girl scouts, and all of our citizenship are urged to take an active part in the observance of this week. All of these organizations are urged to consult and advise with their city officials as to the best ways and means of conducting this campaign so that the greatest benefits may be derived by all our citizens.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the City to be impressed hereon, this 12th day of March A. D., 1938.
