Oil Men To Meet Here Friday

Tariff Fight Renewal to be Chief Topic

Claud Wild-To Outline A Plan of Texas Independent Association

Business men and all those connected directly or indirectly with the oil industry have been called to meet in the district courtroom Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Information concerning the renewal campaign for enactment of a law imposing a tariff upon crude oil and refined products imported into the United States will be given.

Claud C. Wild, executive vice-president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas will be the principal speaker. The meeting will be under auspices of the oil and gas committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Among the topics to be dealt with are: a careful review of the general plan of the campaign for a tariff and its revision in the light of the stabilizing factors of the past summer; a nation-wide plan of publicity aimed at enlistment of public support before congress; ways of winning support of major independent companies, through personal work and money.

"Two hundred seventy-five thousand oil field workers are idle as a result of oversupply of crude oil, which comes from foreign sources," declared B. F. Robbins, committee chairman. "This has caused a shut down and restriction of output of thousands of wells in fifteen states. The purchasing power of these states is thereby greatly reduced and many not directly connected with the industry thrown out of employment as a result," he added.

COTTON OUTFITS CHIC FOR WINTER

Angelo Bank Will Re-Open December 14

Old Stockholders Absorb $785,000 Old Assets; $400,000 Capital

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Dec. 10 (AP)—With necessary paper accepted, $400,000 cash in new capital raised and with only routine matters remaining to be settled, the reorganized San Angelo National Bank opening has been set for December 14.

G. I. Witt, national bank examiner, and a committee of new members of the board have finished checking over the paper for admittance, and Witt has forwarded his report to Washington. Quick action will be sought on the application for the new charter at the comptroller's office.

With the last charge-outs, the old stockholders have absorbed or made good $785,000 worth of assets of the old bank. This action will bring the total loans from $2,800,000 when the bank closed down to nearly $2,000,000 when it opens.

Instead of raising $360,000 new capital and taking $200,000 for stocks from the deposits of the bank, there has been $400,000 in new capital paid to the trustees, R. A. Hall and Edwin S. Mayer, which will mean that it will be necessary to take but $160,000 depositor stock as approximately $200,000 depositor stock was subscribed, it is possible that the new board will cut out all these subscriptions under three shares, at $140 a share, unless those who have subscribed request that they be allowed to retain their stock. The stockholders' list now contains 518 names.

GARNER OPENS DEMOCRATIC-CONTROLLED HOUSE

This striking scene in the house of representatives shows John N. Garner of Texas (with upraised hand) babbling the speaker's desk as the 72nd congress was opened. A democratic majority gave Garner the speakership by a vote of 218 to 207. It was the first time since the end of the World war that democrats organized the house.

Distress Of Employees Is One Subject

Couzens Resolution For Broad Study By Joint Committee

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The senate interstate commerce committee unanimously approved the Couzens resolution authorizing a board investigation of the condition of railroads by a joint congressional committee.

The purpose is to find means for the government to alleviate financial difficulties of the railroads and distress among workers. The resolution cites a movement to reduce salaries and claims by the roads for governmental financial assistance. A favorable report on the resolution will be submitted to the senate immediately.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 10 (AP)—Organized labor, with a watchful eye on a strike vote already in progress on a Western line, plunged into deliberations Wednesday on the wage reduction crisis.

Brotherhood spokesmen, guarded in their comment as were the secret conference sessions, seemed skeptical that any positive action would be forthcoming until the railway executives have shown their hand in plain, written demand for the suggested flat 10 per cent cut.

More than 1,500 men representing the various organized groups on each of the Nation's railroads gathered together for the first time Wednesday afternoon and began to organize themselves into a working group to tackle the wage cut problem.

Discuss General Policy Some of the leaders contended there was nothing to discuss but a general policy, that there could be no definite answer because the railroads had made no definite request. The rail presidents who broached the subject of wage reductions to union leaders several weeks ago stated specifically, according to the labor spokesmen, that they had no authority to decide or promise or propose anything, but were merely a discussion group.

As the executives of the brotherhoods and unions met in Chicago, cut on the right of way of the Chicago & Northwestern between 4,000 and 5,000 laborers, mostly trackmen, were making an important decision in what many labor leaders regarded as a test case.

Arbitration Sought Frederick H. Fjorland, president of the brotherhood, said the Northwestern had cut wages on "these

Postal Officials Inspect Plant Here

Four officials of the Postal Telegraph & Cable Company were here Thursday inspecting the local plant, which is one of the most important on the company's transcontinental system.

A. W. Huntzinger, assistant to the general plant superintendent, New York, and T. J. Ball, division plant superintendent, Dallas, left Thursday morning for the east by automobile. They were to inspect the company's lines in that direction.

L. E. Thiele, division traffic superintendent, Dallas, was waiting the westbound American Airways ship, due to arrive during the afternoon.

Measure Wind! Balloon Ascension Observations Started At U. S. Weather Bureau At Airport

As additional equipment is installed at the local bureau of the U. S. weather service, of which John Cummings is superintendent, more work of special interest to the layman and of much benefit to the public is done at the airport.

Beginning this week pilot balloon ascensions for observation purposes were started.

This method is used to determine direction velocity of wind aloft, direction velocity on the surface, and the height of cloud or ceiling.

A balloon is inflated with hydrogen shipped in drums from Oklahoma City. One hundred forty grams of hydrogen cause the balloon to ascend at a rate of 600 feet per minute, regardless of wind velocity.

The balloon is released and tele-tele readings taken every minute until it disappears in clouds.

Thursday morning's observations disclosed that wind velocity at an altitude of 6,200 feet—which was the ceiling—was 52 miles per hour, direction southwest.

This information is telegraphed to Washington, D. C., and New Orleans to be used in making forecasts.

Weather in Fort Worth Thursday morning was so foggy that the westbound American Airways ship had not left there at 1 p. m. The San Antonio-Big Spring ship left the former city at noon after fog had disappeared.

Big Brothers Are Defeated

Faculty 'Roughriders' In Victory; Cosden Beats Loraine

The Big Spring high school faculty "Roughriders" turned back the Big Brothers class of the First Methodist church 25 to 17 in a hectic contest played in the local gym Wednesday night.

In a certain-raiser the fast Cosden team ran roughshod over Loraine high school 28 to 17.

The rooting-touting, pistol-shooting team from Big Spring High out-talked the Methodists during the first three frames to remain in the running, and then after completely shattering what was left of the Sunday school team's morale by presenting a ear and legged response why Ohio Bristow could remain in the game when there was only six personal fouls against him, flashed a brand of real basketball during the last three minutes to take the lead as Bill Tat, who may or may not have been aided by the local faculty in time to become eligible for the "or is it night's" contest, who resigned his mythical position in the faculty to enter the contest.

Lawrence Welk, the accordion band in America's has been the principal magnet drawing record crowds to dances in the ballroom of West Texas cities, will furnish the music Friday evening at the Settles ballroom for the second of a series of Christmas season dances.

The dancing will begin at 9 p. m. Indications Thursday were that a crowd larger than any attracted to a dance here in months would be on hand.

Had the faculty possessed horses last night it would have been difficult to distinguish between them and the notorious Jesse James for D. H. Reig, the tip tail roofer from Pike County, Missouri, and George Brown combined to thoroughly route the Methodists, who numbered among their roster three letter men on last year's high school team, by methods that would have two or three centuries ago resulted in all being hung for piracy on the high seas.

George Brown sent the Faculty off to a one point lead as he made good a free shot made possible by Cecil Reid sunk a field goal from the foul line and the Methodists led 4 to 1. Bristow brushed Fred Martin over so gently and the Big Brother made good to put his team further in the lead. Wayne Matthews' hand touched the ball by mistake and a lucky goal at 5 to 3 at the quarter.

Lloyd Forrester scored early in the second quarter and Frank Martin followed suit a few seconds afterward to make the score 9 and 3. George Brown sunk a long shot and the game tightened. Forrester scored on a short pass from Fred Martin. Bristow's elbow came in contact with Fred Martin and the Methodists passed up another opportunity to tally.

And So On And so on late the night, until at last the Sunday School boys were black, blue, and discouraged. Then Talo stepped into the picture after Funeral services for Charles H. Creighton, 69, retired farmer and resident of Taylor county since 1900, were held from the First Methodist church in Abilene Wednesday afternoon. He was a brother of W. R. Creighton of Big Spring and father of Mrs. Ben U. Comalander, superintendent of the Coahoma schools.

Mr. Creighton is survived by his widow, eleven children and his brother, James H. Creighton, of Abilene. Mrs. Comalander, the children are: Arthur J. Creighton, Chicago; Charles Homer Creighton, Stockton, Calif.; Thomas P. Creighton, El Centro, Calif.; David O. Creighton, Tati, Calif.; Ernest C. Creighton, San Francisco, Calif.; Mrs. H. W. Fullerton, Abilene; Mrs. P. M. Smith, Lubbock; Virginia, Hall, B. and Opal Creighton of Abilene.

Palbearers were sons and sons-in-law of the deceased, with men of the Bible Class of which Mr. Creighton was a member as honorary palbearers.

Lawrence Welk Feature For Friday Evening At Settles Hotel Dance

Lawrence Welk, the accordion band in America's has been the principal magnet drawing record crowds to dances in the ballroom of West Texas cities, will furnish the music Friday evening at the Settles ballroom for the second of a series of Christmas season dances.

The dancing will begin at 9 p. m. Indications Thursday were that a crowd larger than any attracted to a dance here in months would be on hand.

USEFUL NOVELTIES OFFER WIDE FIELD FOR GIFT SELECTIONS IN BIG SPRING SHOPS THIS SEASON

With only twelve shopping days until Christmas, one realizes that he must buy his gifts now. Big Spring shops are offering some very attractive novelties, the more useful things, as well as combinations of the two.

For the first time, beautiful sheets and pillow case sets in makeup boxes are being shown. Dainty dolls with lace and ribbon dresses to hold powder puffs will add greatly to a guest room. Novelties for the what-not are always welcome. Miniature china dolls, old-fashioned spinning wheels, odd-shaped vases and sad looking elephants and monkeys can be found in plenty.

Handmade gifts are probably the most appreciated of all gifts. One can find luncheon sets, evening or sport handkerchiefs, wastebaskets, boudoir pillows and doll pajamas, and bridge table covers.

A modernistic scarf and tam set should satisfy the most hard-to-please young lady. These are being shown in three smart styles; solid colors—always bright—striped ones with all the newest colors that will be used for spring and a combination of silk and knitted wool.

Lounging pajamas are always good for the lady and a robe for the man is always appreciated. Other suggestions for the men might be cigar or cigarette humidor, belt sets, the sets, bill folds, linen handkerchiefs, desk sets, fitted traveling bags, week-end shaving sets, books, drink sets, electric clocks and many others too numerous to mention.

There are so many things that the young gentlemen may choose from to give his lady friend. A picture from one to the other would be greatly appreciated by either of the two. Perfume is a much given gift, but a young lady is generally very fond of it. Costume jewelry is even more attractive than ever before in style and price. Any girl would appreciate one of the new makeup boxes, a kodak, a fitted bag, toilet sets, or a purse and gloves.

Recommendation Of Meeting On Cotton Acreage Clarified

Following inquiries from several farmers who misinterpreted a report of a recent meeting here, which went on record as favoring enforcement of the state cotton acreage reduction law, J. V. Bush, county farm agent, made further explanations of the meeting's action.

The meeting voted in favor of the farmers of this county following provisions of the law whether the state enforces it or not. However, it was pointed out, the meeting merely recommended this and made no move toward setting up any county enforcement organization that would serve in case the state failed to enforce the law.

SET 10-INCH CASING

Lee Harrison's No. 1 Denham, an important test well in Howard county, set 10-inch casing at 732 and was drilling Thursday at around 800 feet.

Here is a good opportunity for someone to do some "recruiting" of what this writer considers the most useful. We have been asked to make an appeal for a boy residing in Howard county who wishes very much to attend high school here but must have some kind of work to help him through. The lad not only has ambition to obtain a "book" education but also is a good basketball player and has the physical ability to play good football with coaching. Who will help this boy earn his living while going to school?

A half dozen people telephoned yesterday morning for the name and address of the young mother for whom an employment appeal was issued in this column Tuesday.

If this column can do some little something once in awhile to help relieve suffering or worry for deserving people, especially those with small children to support the writer will feel mighty proud.

Mayor Pickle suggests that people of the city take their old magazines to Wander Inn, the city's haven for transient men, instead of throwing them away. The men want to read them. Sixty-one men slept in Wander Inn Tuesday night. This plan, which keeps the men off the streets at night, is believed to be very effective in controlling petty thievery as well as preventing many desecrating men and boys out of jobs from suffering in cold weather. After a night's shelter and a cup of coffee they are sent on their way—just one night here is allowed.

Well, it finally came to that! Highway No. 9 was closed Tuesday evening to tourist travel—that is the Glasscock county strip was closed. The highway department had men at the south end of Seary street and also down in Sterling county to inform people not to try to cross the Glasscock county section of the road.

The problem of getting the Glasscock county strip paved is a troublesome. The commissioners of that county do not feel that they would be spending the people's money wisely if they appropriated more than $10,000 toward purchase of right-of-way for the new routing of No. 9 across a corner of the county.

Several of the property owners across whose land the road would pass will not donate right-of-way. There are once in awhile, cases where property really is damaged by construction of a paved road across a tract, but these cases are rare. They are practically none in a region such as this where mostly large ranches would be crossed.

This writer is not, by nature, cynical. But, he must confess that experiences of the past three years have sort of made him a little

Lovely Red, Green Party In Chalk Home

Mrs. Fred Fisher Hostess To Three Tables Of Players

Mrs. Fred Fisher was hostess to several of her friends for a lovely Christmas party Wednesday afternoon at her home in the Pure Oil Camp near Chalk.

The Christmas colors were effectively carried out in all the accessories. The tables were covered with green covers which also served as luncheon covers with napkins to match. The tallies and score pads were bell-shaped and colored to represent Christmas bells. Red-shaded lights, poinsettias and a Christmas tree added to the festive atmosphere.

When the delicious refreshments were served a clever little centerpiece consisted of a dish of greenery in an ornamental green container was placed on each table. The guests cut for this and the lucky ones were Misses Harlan, Chittin and Sullivan. Individual favors were green and red mints wrapped in cellophane and tied with red and green ribbons.

Mrs. Hamblin made high score and received a novelty red bon-bon dish filled with green mints. Mrs. Galt made second high and received a red powder box.

Mrs. Boone Cramer and Mrs. Earl King can in for tea. Those who played bridge were Misses J. E. Sullivan, E. L. Simmons, C. W. Harlan, Julius Galt, C. Chittin, Earl Thompson, C. E. Daniels, Bill Tate, Roy Lamb, Frank Hamblin; Misses Frances Coulson and Donna Carter.

New Hog Curing Methods Recipes for Dry Curing and for Corned Beef

COLLEGE STATION—Hog killing weather calls attention to the modern killing, cutting and curing methods brought by county agents to Texas farms to give pork products equal in quality to packing house meat. The "Extension Service Way" of handling this meat, as outlined by specialists of the service at Texas A. & M. College and demonstrated by county agents all over the state, differs sharply from the old farm way. Killing is done by sticking to insure a good bleed; the cleaned and dressed carcass is split down the center of the backbone, cutting it entirely different and is delayed until after the carcass is chilled; and a superior dry cure is used.

Dry Cure
The dry cure used by most county agents is made up of 8 pounds salt, 2 pounds brown sugar and 2 ounces saltpeper for every 100 pounds of meat. Half of this mixture is rubbed on the meat which is packed down in barrel or stone jar and the other half rubbed into the meat at the end of seven days, when meat is re-packed. Bacon is cured 1 1/2 days per pound in the piece, and hams and shoulders 3 days per pound in the piece.

Smoking
Any hardwood is recommended for smoking with green hickory or pecan preferred. Corn cobs or mesquite may be used. Thirty hours of smoking should give the medium brown color desired. Thorough wrapping is very important to keep out skippers. All paper edges should be glued. Meat should be hung in a cool, dry place of storage.

Mrs. Allgood recommended that everyone who butchers beef should corn 25 lbs. of beef. If it is boiled over a slow fire for three hours, it has a taste similar to boiled ham, she says.

Corned Beef
The following is a good recipe for corned beef using 100 pounds of meat:
7 pounds salt
2 ounces salt petre
12 pounds brown sugar
5 gallons water
Boil these ingredients; cool and pour over raw meat. Let cure for four or five weeks.
Boil over slow fire for three hours.

Playgoers League Not To Function During This Winter

Late in the summer a representative of the Playgoers League of America was in town and signed up several citizens in a directorate to sponsor several one night plays for the winter season. He expected to return later and conduct a ticket-selling campaign but did not show up.

The directors have recently received a copy of "Playchat," circular of the league which explains his nonappearance in the following paragraphs:
Most of the one night stand tours which were planned for the present season during the summer have been called off by the managers owning the companies. A few tried tours and some companies have been on the road but from all quarters come reports that the ventures have not been profitable this season.

The smaller cities seem to have been harder hit financially than the large centers of population with the result that patronage has not been up to expectation. As a matter of fact, it is becoming increasingly clear that the only substantial and satisfactory basis on which good attractions with good casts and known actors can be presented in smaller cities is on the subscription basis.

Mrs. Glass Glenn New Head, Rebekahs
The members of the Rebekah Lodge assembled at the Odd Fellows Hall Wednesday evening to elect officers for the coming year. Mrs. Glass Glenn was elected as nob's grand.

Other officers elected were Mrs. D. J. Foster, vice grand; Mrs. Ada Ramsey, secretary; Mrs. Clarence Mann, treasurer; Mrs. Lucile Caudle, representative to Grand Lodge and Mrs. J. A. Kinard, alternate.

After the election two candidates for the Coahoma Lodge were initiated. There were nine Coahoma members present.

Lovely refreshments were served after the meeting to the guests and the many members who turned out for the meeting.

Mrs. Jack Kilway Honors Miss Stone

Mrs. Jack Kilway entertained with a lovely Christmas party at her home in Edwards Heights Wednesday afternoon, honoring Miss Norma Stone, who left today for Abilene where she and her mother will spend the holidays.

The house was attractively decorated with green wreaths and tinsel in the Christmas manner. The tallies also were decorated with wreaths.

Mrs. Lloyd made high score and received two decks of cards. During the refreshment hour, after the salad plate was served, the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. H. F. Taylor, brought in a tray filled with handkerchiefs and presented them to the honoree.

The guests present were Misses Annie Stone, mother of the honoree, Larson Lloyd, J. E. McGeath, Tom Jordan, Leon Smith; Misses Stone, Elizabeth Northington, Mamie Hair, Mabel Eddy, Frances Sullivan, Florence Cotton, and Bobby Rix.

Julius Ladoumeque, French runner, has hung a three new world's records this year. His greatest achievement was running the mile in 4 minutes 9 1/5 seconds to break Paavo Nurmi's mark.

W.C.T.U. In Well Attended Meeting

The W.C.T.U. met at the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. C. E. Thomas presiding. Mrs. Geo. W. Davis read the devotional, the Crusade Psalm, which is the 146th.

Mrs. Holmes presented the petition for signatures to the World Peace conference to be held at Geneva next year.

Miss Barnes made an enthusiastic report of the interest the children were showing in the Bible Study, which she is conducting in the public schools.

The members voted to take turn about in meeting at the various churches of the city, meeting in one church for three consecutive months and then changing; also to meet at 2:30 instead of three during school term.

Mrs. Manuel reviewed the life of Elizabeth J. Thompson, daughter of an Ohio governor who inaugurated the Women's Temperance Crusade at Hillsboro, Ohio, December 23, 1873.

Because of lack of time the remainder of the program was held over until the next meeting and the program was closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction.

Those present were Mrs. J. M. Choate, C. S. Holmes, C. E. Talbot, Frank Lester, Emma Fulton Davis, Pete Johnson, J. M. Manuel, Verben Barnes, R. B. Zinn, R. E. Gay, C. E. Thomas, W. A. Miller, W. R. Settles, J. R. Creath and M. A. Berry.

Shooting without the aid of glasses, Charles Ross, 87, years old, won third prize in the recent rifle tournament at Dullin, Scotland.

Connally's Life Story Interesting

Service During Two Wars To Credit; Termed 'Above Average'

An intimate glance into the life and career of Tom Connally, Junior United States Senator from Texas, is presented in the following sketch from the news magazine, Time, which was printed on request of five registered (poll tax) readers from Texas:

Born: On a big farm in McLennan County, Texas, Aug. 18, 1877.

Start-in-life: Sergeant-Major in the Spanish American War.

Career: Son of a well-to-do, politically minded farmer who had fought for the Confederacy, he grew up on his father's plentiful acres ("right sharp of land"), went to the little red schoolhouse near Eddy, Baylor University knew him next (1896). He had just won his law degree at the University of Texas when the Spanish-American War occurred and he went trooping off with the 2nd Texas Infantry to Mobile, Miami, Tampa, Jacksonville but missed Porto Rico. Moving to Marlin, he hung out his shingle. The Law was slack. He drifted into politics, served four years in the Texas House of Representatives. In 1916 he ran for Congress in the 11th District, handhook and baby-kissed his way over six counties, surprised everybody by being nominated and elected. He reached the U. S. Capitol just in time to vote for war and then, without resigning his seat, joined the army, served as a captain and adjutant with the 22nd Infantry of the 11th Division, again failed to get overseas. Later the House voted his full Congressional salary during his absence. He refused to take it. Thereafter he served continuously in the House until 1928 when he defeated Senator Earle Bradford ("Ku Klux") Mayfield for the Democratic nomination and was elected to the Senate.

In Congress: Mostly regular in his democratic votes, he leans away from his conservative southern colleagues and toward the western bloc of his party which frequently combines with republican insurgency, to settle major issues. An able and frequent debater, he speaks with a syrupy southern accent. Humorous without being personal or sarcastic, he embroiders his speeches with flowery rhetoric. An example: "The President... is greater than any monarch on earth. The King of Spain is but a shadowy phantom of... power... The King of Italy is but an almost insubstantial echo of the royal power that once walked the streets of Rome... The King of England, with all his castles, all his titles, all (his) stately pomp and

Blond Crazy

James Cagney, who stars in "Blonde Crazy" at the Ritz Theatre Friday and Saturday.

James Cagney proves that there is more than one way of being dynamic in "Blonde Crazy," the Warner Bros. production which comes to the Ritz Theatre Friday-Saturday. He shows in quite another way than in "The Public Enemy" how to get what one wants without being too glib about it. Re-headed Jimmie plays the part of a wise-cracking bellhop in a big city hotel. In the promenade—a rendezvous for shyaters of all sorts and both sexes, Jimmie learns how to fleece the folks whose business is fleeing. Joan Blondell, as a chambermaid acts as his partner in duplicity and the result is an immensely dazzling display of the peculiar gifts of Cagney and Blondell. You'll rave about "Blonde Crazy."

ceremony... is little more than a painted king upon a painted throne. He is merely the husk, the shell, the gilded crust of power... He has a persuasive if not always accurate way of simplifying knotty legal questions before the senate. Once his colleague Senator Sheppard, asking him to vote for Charles Evans Hughes for Chief Justice, declared: "He's one of the biggest Baptists in the country." Retorted Senator Connally: "I didn't know we were voting for moderator."

In house or senate he voted for: Soldier Bonus (1924), Tax Reduction (1924, 1928), Farm Board (1929), Export Debitment (1929), 15-cruiser bill (1929), restrictive immigration (1924), Boulder Dam (1928), Jones ("S & L") Law (1929), Government operation of Muscle Shoals (1931), increased Soldier Bonus loans (1931). He voted against: Tariff (1922, 1930), Reapportionment (1929), nomination of Charles Evans Hughes for Chief Justice (1930).

He votes dry, drinks dry, does not agitate prohibition.

In foreign affairs he favors the world court, supported the London Naval treaty.

Legislative Hobbies: Farm relief, with special emphasis on cotton. As a minority member of the senate finance committee, he also gives much time and attention to fiscal legislation.

In appearance he personifies the southwestern statesman of a past era. Full-bodied, he has slender legs and phenomenally small feet. His face is round and soft, yet handsome. On his wavy black hair, worn longish, he pulls down an old-fashioned, broad-brimmed black felt hat. His clothes are dark and a trifle tight. Black bow ties cover his collar button. An instinctive politician, he has a ready smile, a friendly chuckle, hosts of one-name friends. He is a Knight of Pythias, Son of the American Revolution, Methodist Episcopalian (South), all in good standing. He smokes cigars, chews gum and tobacco.

Outside Congress: He lives with his wife, Louise Clarkson Connally, in an old-fashioned apartment house on Connecticut Avenue. He sidesteps Washington society, chums principally with Texans and Democrats from the West. He plays no golf, but shoots duck, hunts deer, fishes. He drives a 1930 Dodge sedan which takes him to Marlin, Texas, between Senate sessions.

Impartial Senate observers rate him thus: a pleasant, picturesque, smart-minded legislator, progressive in his votes and above the Democratic average in industry and attendance. Too new in the Senate to have much influence on his party, he is still young enough to aspire to eventual leadership. His term expires March 3, 1935.

Ex-Student Of Austin College Heads University

SHERMAN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Scanning his Austin College record, one would think that Dr. Homer Price Rainey, who was inaugurated president of Bucknell University recently, would have developed not into a college president but an athletic coach or an athlete of wide renown.

Champion of the college in both tennis and bowling, a baseball pitcher sought by big league clubs, a one-handed batter of wide reputation, the regular fullback on Austin's varsity eleven for two years—that was Dr. Rainey's athletic record at Austin College.

As an Austin student, Dr. Rainey pitched ball so well that he was selected by clubs in both the Texas and Texas-Oklahoma leagues to pitch for them.

During the summer after his graduation from Austin College in 1919, Dr. Rainey played professional ball with the Texas league. As the season drew to an end, he debated the question of accepting offers to go with big league baseball clubs or to enroll at the University of Texas for a law course. At this time came a wire from the president of Austin College which solved the problem. He was offered a position teaching education at Austin College and accepted. From that position he rose steadily to higher ones until today he sits in the president's chair at Bucknell.

Rainey was on a baseball tour with the Austin College team thru South Texas. In one game he broke his wrist in a fall. The next day

GOLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified crocote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, crocote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to crocote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crocote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Iago Golden, Academy of Medicine

The Nervous Heart—1

It is said that 'ill blows the wind' that profits nobody.

Many branches in medicine, such as general surgery, sanitation, plastic surgery, and psychiatry, made great progress by virtue of the vast amount of extraordinary materials and opportunities presented by the war situation and casualities.

Our attention was focused especially on neurologic psychiatric disabilities which expressed themselves in the abnormal functioning of certain organs.

Such shock, used generally, covered a multitude of such conditions, though of course any number of men suffered from shell shock who were an ocean's width removed from exploding shells.

Furthermore, by virtue of the war experiences with such conditions, we were enabled better to appreciate similar abnormalities in the function of organs to be seen in civil life.

A fairly common form of abnormal organ function due to psychologic conditions is to be seen affecting the heart.

This condition is popularly called "nervous heart," and is technically designated as cardiac neurosis.

A cardiac neurosis is defined by Dr. Robert H. Halsey, president of the American Heart Association, as a disorder of the physiologic action or workings of the heart produced by an emotional reaction of the patient.

These disorders, for they may assume many forms, are not due to any discernible fault in the structure of the heart mechanism.

There is no actual heart disease present. The fault is in the manner of the heart's work, not in its structure.

WHO'S NEW In Congress

J. R. Mitchell: His District Moved, So He Did Too

COOKEVILLE, Penn. (AP)—If one is elected representative and his congressional district is moved out from under him...

That's what J. R. Mitchell has done.

Tennessee's back-slapping, hand-shaking, joke-cracking, rotund bachelor representative from the fourth congressional district lived at Cookeville. But when the legislature finished reducing the number of districts from ten to nine in accordance with the reapportionment act Mitchell was a Congressman without a district.

Cookeville was placed in the stoutly republican second, and most of the remainder was parceled out to Congressman Edwin L. Davis' democratic fifth. And the redistricting took place just after Mitchell's election to his first term.

Although Mitchell's friends say the democratic legislators intentionally put Cookeville in the second because they thought he was a man who could carry the district, Mitchell promptly moved to Cookeville in Davis' district.

The race between them will be after the next congressional session.

Criticized during his campaign for too much back-slapping, Mitchell replied from the stump, "My only regret is that I don't have four hands instead of two with which to shake your hands and slap your backs."

Despite his jovial nature Mitchell has his serious side. As district prosecutor he was vigorous and even relentless. As banker he acquired a reputation for shrewdness in business.

LADY with a PAST BY HARRIET HENRY

VENICE Muir is returning to New York, where she has been a social failure, with a reputation of conquests in Paris. She has deliberately manufactured an interesting "past." She has had much publicity because of the suicide of a marquis, which has been attributed to her refusal to marry him.

SCANDALS COINAGE

It was an exceedingly rough crossing but Venice didn't mind it. There were some attractive-looking young people aboard but she had to wait until some one spoke to her. She could never bring herself to commence a conversation with any one. Sitting bundled in her steamer chair the second day out she was a mummy in plaid, a pleasant-faced girl stopped and smiled at her. "Would you like to make a fourth at shuffleboard?" she asked. Venice coloured at this sudden approach.

"Why—yes. Thank you." She scrambled out of her chair and stumbled over a trailing end of the rug trying to think what she should say next.

"It's my brother and another man," the girl remarked. "I don't think I'm very good at it," murmured Venice.

"No one can be with this rolling. This is my brother Mr. Bennet and that's Mr. Cogswell, Miss—"

"Muir," Venice supplied. She felt dreadfully embarrassed at the whole situation. I wasn't here, she thought, here I've become a person of some importance.

"You've drawn a dud," she smiled at Mr. Cogswell, pushing her disk just short of the chalked board.

"You can't have everything," he returned with a glance that plainly said he thought she was good to look at.

This left Venice completely deflated and she quickly shoved forward another disk to cover her lack of repartee.

"It's not your turn," he protested. "Oh," said Venice. The game soon became an impossibility with the rolling of the ship and Mr. Bennet suggested that they resort to the smoking room.

Venice sat silently at the table and watched Mr. Cogswell switch attentions gradually but definitely from her to the Bennet girl. As she noticed this the old awkwardness grew and she lost herself in miserable observation of the other three, laughing and talking, tossing provocative bits of persiflage across an invisible net to be tossed promptly back again by the one who could think the quickest.

"How long have you been over?" Venice managed to break in upon the chaff to ask young Bennet.

"Two months. We spent the entire time except for a week in Paris at St. Jean."

"Did you really? I was visiting for a month between Biarritz and St. Jean. I love it around that part of the country, don't you?" Venice slowly came to life with a theme in which she could take a part.

Young Bennet started. "Muir," he murmured. "Muir are you Venice Muir?" She nodded. The others had stopped their hand.

chairs over there, visualize her standing by the window. She unexpectedly sank down on the sofa and burst into tears.

"There, there, honey," murmured Mrs. Spalding, sitting down beside her and putting an arm across her shoulders. "Of course it's hard at first. You mustn't let it hurt."

"No," sobbed Venice. "Will you stay to lunch, Aunt Beth?"

"No, thank you, dear. But won't you come to dinner? Nolly's dying to see you and Ernest will be there."

Venice dried her eyes. "I'd love to," she said. The shock of that first impression had faded and she knew a sudden interest in the lives of the friends to whom she was returning.

Flowers came from Lola and Jerry, fruit from Mrs. Goadby and a letter of welcome from Uncle Livingston in Richmond. There was something warm and pleasant about her home-coming.

Riding across the Park to the Spaldings' for dinner, she felt happily excited at seeing Nolly again and meeting Ernest Price. What sort of young man had been able to forget Nolly's infirmity and appreciate the real sweetness within?

She hoped that Nolly would be unchanged, still naive and eager. Nolly opened the door to her ring. She wore the beige velvet that Venice had given her and looked exactly the same as ever, her small pinkish face bright with smiles, the little tendrils of hair just curling out on either cheek.

"Venice! This is too heavenly! They kissed warmly. "For the bride," cried Venice, handing her a package. "O-o, how lovely."

Venice followed Nolly down the long bowing-alley hall and into her little bedroom.

"You look gorgeous, Venice. And that smart little black hat perched way back on your hair. I suppose they're wearing them that way now. And what a sumptuous dress. You look like a picture from Vogue. She was untangling Venice's present and at the sight of the French nighgowns elaborate with lace she gave a little cry. "Oh, how simply marvelous. Thank you ever so much."

"That's all right. Tell me about Ernest. It is too wonderful, Nolly."

"And he doesn't even mind going. He gave me a new stick as a wedding present for him the other day."

Venice felt that she was going to like Ernest immensely.

"And my ring, isn't it beautiful?" Nolly held out a small thin hand bearing an inconspicuous solitaire diamond in a meagre setting.

"Imagine!" said Venice. There, she thought, that's typical of my social failure. I never say the insincere things when I should.

It didn't matter in this instance. Nolly was much too happy to notice.

"But tell me about yourself. That Marquis. It must have been dreadful."

"Yes," said Venice. "And he had been lovely to me."

"Do go on. I knew you'd be spectacular one day, Venice."

Somehow Venice could not spin this yarn to its fullest for Nolly's benefit. "He had debts," she found herself saying. "That was really why he killed himself."

"Don't go modest on me now, Venice. You can't fool me. And what about that American. Guy some one? Lola's been press-agenting you all over town."

Venice knew a vast secret satisfaction.

"He was even nicer to me than Rene de Thevardier. He took me to Ciro's and started me off with all sorts of charming people. He—"

"Nolly, no-oh-oh," Mrs. Spalding's voice came calling down the hall. "Ernest must be here. Come along, Venice. He's been hearing all about you. He says he met you once at a party."

"No?" Venice was surprised.

The two girls went down the hall to the living-room. A young man stepped forward holding out a hand. "How-do-you-do, Venice Muir." Venice hid her astonishment.

REPORT CARDS

How many A's or B's did you make this week? Are you satisfied with the results? Will you continue to remain in the same class of students who act nonchalantly about their grades, or will you strive to attain a high mark of excellence in your school work? Will you acknowledge that the grade you have received is as fair a representation of your efforts as could be given or will you grumble out something about a teacher being down on you and gave you a bad mark? If your situation is thus, the only way to make a teacher like you is to study hard.

Of course there is a different situation for each of us. Nothing can be said that will cover every one's case. But, the general principle of affairs are usually similar when all things are said and done. The teachers have given you as much, and even more, than you really deserve. Today's issuance of cards marks two-thirds of this semester's work gone. What you have accomplished this far will play a great part in whether or not you will pass.

It has to be said by some that their work up to the present time has been a little better than that of those who are usually the students who spend their time foolishly on the corner, dates, engagements, or other time-wasting devices. The person that made the A's and B's this time are the ones who take pride in their work, and try to achieve good grades. If you are the one who has made below the average, just spend a little more time on that one subject and you will show the fruits at the end of the semester. To have obtained good grades is a proof that you have been putting forth real efforts and means that character is being developed.

CAMPUS CHATTER

(By Mattie Satterwhite)
Since today is "report card day," things are in quite a stir. Some seem happy, and some appear rather down-hearted. On every side we could hear one saying "I'm not going to cut any more of Mrs. Stegner's classes," "cause I must have that Latin credit," or "If Miss Butler just wouldn't give us a test every day, I know I could pass economics, and I guess I'll have to read my lessons every day this six weeks."

Cecil French says that the girls are driving him crazy, and it seems that Josephine Dabney felt terribly hurt. Cecil French fixed that up all right.

Poor Miss Butler! We had heard from careless pupils that she had to sweep her classroom, but you can imagine our surprise when we walked into class yesterday and saw her really sweeping. Can you imagine?

The "depression" has passed from Mr. Gentry's house, too. Any person who can buy liquor and divide with Johnnie Nail and Steve Ford certainly must "feel" prosperous.

It seems that some of these "brave" girls like to walk about twice as far as they would really have to if they didn't refuse to accept rides with good-looking men in good-looking cars. Virginia Cushing says that she will not ride with any strange person on rainy days, even if she is quite positive that the boy with her is acquainted with the black-headed villain in question. A rush of congratulations to blonde-headed Virginia, and the best wishes include even the young man who happened to be the "blond, dark man in the case." He declares that the startling discovery that one girl really lived who wouldn't talk to strange men in strange cars was well worth the reprimand.

These poor girls who have to sit at home at night alone, while "he" attends a football game in Kansas or some other "far-off" place! But the student body sympathizes with Florine Rankin, and she did seem to feel better today. Elmer Dyer appears to be the chief sympathizer in said case.

Swatzie and Paul Roberts asked us to announce that they are starting instructing beginners to roll chamberies with the nose, which will be taught daily from twelve to one o'clock. No charges. If you desire information concerning their ability to teach such classes, just ask anyone who witnessed the demonstration they put on during the "B" initiation. And Elmer Dyer is teaching voice at his studio at 204 West Second Street. This is also without charge.

The faculty basketball team didn't appear to think any too much of the pep squad that the student body organized to yell for them Monday night, but it seems that the pep squad thought quite a bit of themselves, so after all it must be O. K.

If anyone wondered what the excitement was about Monday afternoon in the Chemistry laboratory, we will tell you that Kathryn Anderson was walking to town on account of you couldn't dodge over two out of three. Somebody beamed a red-headed dope on the front row and jolted his glasses off. That made him so mad he grabbed an ink bottle and slung it at the whole back row. It hit him, too, or at least the ink in it did. They began chucking everything from books to shoes at him. About that time the principal walked in. "Nuff said, that's 15 demerits apiece. Red of school was as usual; no hits; no runs; no errors."

This afternoon, after school, I started to walk to town on account of the "Mayflower" being out of gas and the "Big Job" being away on business somewhere. Who should come along at the same time from opposite directions, both alone in her buggy, but Evelyn and Mable! Both started to stop and pick me up, but when they saw each other, they both drove on. A block further, I saw them coming again. This time they both stopped and parked across the street, front to front. Sort of a contest, you might say. I knew it would be fatal to get in either car, so I nonchalantly turned into a gas line, passing, waving a general "Hello, honey" at the other side of the street. How's that for thinking? The tough part of it was, a new blonde of no importance to me was in the yard. Somehow, I kinda think I'll wait awhile to patch up at mess. Oh, yes, I asked the blonde if anyone in her neighborhood was putting out dog poison.

Carroll and I gave the girls a rest tonight and went painting "by ourselves" in his Pontiac, "Sooner." We took a can of black paint and one of red this time and fixed about twenty signs. One said POSTED, now it says HOTTED. Another said FOR SALE OR TRADE - SEE JONES & JONES; we marked the S out of SALE and the TR out of TRADE. I think the signs about town are a lot more attractive now. I wonder what the fellows who put up the signs will think tomorrow.

P. E. Class Has Kangaroo Court

The third period Physical Education class, confined indoors Monday morning due to weather conditions, had a term of court with Edward Shuck as judge. Hudson Henley as prosecuting attorney, and J. P. Rutledge as "spatter."

A jury of eight members, selected by ballot, rendered a verdict of "guilty" in the first case, where Herbert Fletcher was tried for contention of court and no progress could be made in the court. However, the bell occasioned a timely interruption, since he was getting the worst of it.

Pandemonium reigned at the beginning of James Vines' trial for contention of court and no progress could be made in the court. However, the bell occasioned a timely interruption, since he was getting the worst of it.

The assistant state supervisor of Home Economics, Miss Coldwell, visited the local laboratory Monday morning. The instructors are anxiously awaiting a letter from her telling them how they stand in comparison with other schools, and what can be done to improve the class standing.

The two Home Economic instructors will attend a conference of H. E. teachers to be held in Midland Saturday morning.

Mrs. Stegner Is Speaker At Faculty Meet

"Rating of Teachers" Is Theme; Further Study Is Proposed
"Rating of Teachers" was the subject of an address made by Mrs. H. A. Stegner at the regular monthly meeting of the faculty of the Big Spring High School last Monday afternoon. She urged that merit, rather than college training, experience, and length of time at the present position, should be the chief element in deciding the teacher salary scale. A round table discussion followed the talk in which the various angles were fully discussed.

A committee composed of Mrs. H. A. Stegner, Miss Pearl Butler, and Miss Mattie Ramsey, was selected to choose a method of rating teachers in Big Spring high school. The following methods were submitted to the committee for the selection of a score card system, scale, tenorship, and rating system, or the result method.

A call meeting of the Commercial Club met Tuesday, December 8 and elected the following officers: Florine Rankin, president; Hazel Nance, vice president; Lillian Crawford, secretary; Mildred Shelton, reporter; Lottie Harris, treasurer.

New Programs Announced For P. E. Classes
The schedule for the girls of the P. E. department as given by Miss Kitzly Wingo is as follows: The work of the first, third, seventh and eighth period classes will be at their two gym classes, and the fourth period class will learn the Schottische and Polka steps.

Miss Wingo reports that those who have been reporting for treatment of bad gums are rapidly improving.

The schedule for the boys consists chiefly of the first, second and health lectures on Friday under the direction of Obie Bristow.

Shots From The Showers
SHOTS FROM THE SHOWERS
(By Fred Kobeg)

Monday the first call for basketball was sounded and the boys tried out under Coach Bristow and Brown. The fact that many men are letter men should make this an other all-district team.

The evening of December 15, the Steers take in their first opponent in the faculty team. This will be a good game. On the faculty there are both the coaches, Brown and Bristow, Frank Etter, "Cap" Gentry, "Tiny" Reed and Ben Daniels. All of these have had much experience and with a little work out should prove a worthy opponent.

The schedule for the Steers is all ready fixed. Up to now there are two games before Christmas. We venture to say there are few who will not say the Steers are a worthy foe on the gridiron and court.

And so we say that when the final whistle blows on District Four basketball the Steers will be safely on top in the percentage column.

San Angelo has a new gym to work in this year. Coach Taylor had a good team at Colorado last year and with all the material in San Angelo to pick from he should put out a winning team.

Colorado always has a good team. Sweetwater has had good teams and it should put out another this year. The championship team from last year drubbed the Wolves. They didn't meet the Mustangs. They lost meeting was over two years ago. Then the Steers sent the men from Nolan county back with a small end of the score as a parting gift.

All in all there should be some real games in the Steer gym this year. Last year the people turned out fairly good for the weekly games. In the district and bi-district the people were turned away. We hope they give the team the same good support this season.

In the game Friday at Abilene the District 4 representative met defeat. The Mustangs were outweighed and outplayed. The Eagles have a big heavy, fast charging line and a heavy backfield, with the exception of Glenn Wyatt, quarterback.

This former Mustang beat his own team mates. His off-tackle runs were for long gains. His passing opened the way for the first Eagle touchdown. However, his punting was not so good. "Tack" Dennis could outkick him in any game. The fact is "Tack" never met his match the past season.

There is a rumor that the Steers will see action Christmas Day, their opponent being the San Angelo Junior College. The report has not been verified but it will be in a few days.

In case you didn't know Lubbock and Abilene will play at Lubbock—the favorite of the state will be the winner of this game—the coach of Lubbock is a former coach of the Oil Belt League, Weldon B. Chapman—Quann's coach, Dan Stallworth, used to be principal of Junior High here.

Knox Chadd is selling Christmas cards. Any person interested may see him in the principal's office and secure as many cards as needed.

New Method of Selecting Cage Pep Squad Adopted
The 1933-34 basketball pep squad will be composed of five members selected from each club in high school, to be selected from each organization by Friday. Although the membership has heretofore been voluntary, it is considered that the club selection will be representative.

Joan Crawford is a former coach of the Oil Belt League, Weldon B. Chapman—Quann's coach, Dan Stallworth, used to be principal of Junior High here.

One-Act Play Casts Chosen

The casts of the two plays to be presented Thursday week in the high school auditorium by the Dramatic Club have been definitely selected and the characters are already working on their parts.

The cast of the "Government Shoes" by Louise G. Cummings is as follows: Matthias—Jake Pickle; Enoch—Leonard Van Open; Eunice—Gertrude Martin; Thomas—E. W. Earnest; Mary—Doris Smith; Eliza—Ola Mae Martman.

The stage manager will be Steve Ford, the Properties man—Tilman Crance, the costumer—Dorothy Frost.

For "At the Stroke of Twelve" by Aaron E. Bishop, the cast is the following: Miss Briggs—Claudine Shaw; Liza—Jane Tinsley; Eileen—Georgia Belle Freeman; George—R. V. Jones; Miss Sample—Beatrice Hill; Hudson Henley will act as stage manager and Virginia Francis will be the costumer.

Home Economics Club In Meeting

The Home Economics girls rendered a very interesting program Thursday at one o'clock.

The program was carried out in the order of a broadcast station and the girls of the Home Economics Department formed an orchestra. Their costumes were made of black dress, with white aprons and caps. The director of the orchestra had on a white sailor suit.

The name of their station was K-T-C-H-E-N and they were broadcasting from Hotel McElroy, derived from their teacher. The musical instruments were made of kitchen utensils. They played a number of popular songs and had a duet by Mary Settles and Micky Davis. Dorothy Frost and Janice Smith did a tap dance, while a number of other girls sang. The concluding number was "The Spirit Song," which was sung by the entire student body.

SPEAKER ADDRESSES HI Y CLUB MEETING

At last meeting of the Hi Y Wendell Bedichek, editor of the Big Spring Daily Herald, gave a short talk on the newspaper work.

He outlined the various departments of the newspaper business and gave the quality of a successful journalist. He put the department of work first, stating that one must like his work before he can hope to become successful.

The club decided to vote on the applications of those who wish to become members. Those desiring to become members and who have not turned in your application should do so at once, filing them with either Steve Ford Jr., Justin Ramsey, Virgil Sanders, or at the principal's office.

TIES

NEW PATTERNS that are DIFFERENT

You expect them to be new—and you'll find them different clever designs—novel treatment—unusual color combinations. You'll find the best ties you've ever seen, both in designed materials. The fact that they are all hand-made and resilient construction means long wear.

LET'S MAKE THIS A GOOD OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTMAS

outstrips the tax-cost that there is really no comparison. That in a nutshell states the reason why this column has always favored paving our roads.

Many a man in many a county has voted against road bonds on the age-old cry 'too much taxes' who after he had been outvoted by more forward-looking fellow citizens, saved more on his first trip to town on paving than he paid in taxes for two or three years after the road was paved.

Many a man has opposed road bonds because the road might not 'hit' him; many a man has opposed 'em because it would 'hit' his property.

A lot of 'em have voted 'no' because concrete was to be used; a lot more because it was not to be used.

Many have said 'no' because a road might be re-routed; others because it would not be re-routed.

And after all is said and done, the real reason behind most 'no' votes is that those who cast them really wished the clock would be turned back a generation, buggies substituted for automobiles, ox carts for trucks, field lanes for highways, hoop skirts for pajamas, 'rate for permanent' ways and three-month school terms for nine-month terms.

Well, maybe we'd all be happier if the old clock could be turned back.

But you know, you can't do that.

As oftentimes aforesaid we just got to stay on the band wagon and toot or we're out of luck.

Every property owner, every working man—every voter will lose actual cash if these roads are neglected much longer. Why not get rid of these 'complexes' and pave 'em.

Big Brothers

having enjoyed the game from the sidelines for the first two quarters, and at the end of the third period the score stood 16 to 11 in favor of the Methodists.

Having at last settled with the timekeeper as to the length of each quarter and having persuaded him that it was customary to have them all the same length the Teachers settled down to a hair-raising rally. Tate sunk three field goals in as many minutes to place the Pedagogues in the lead as Eristow dropped in one from the foul line and Brown scored on a spectacular shot from the sidelines. Cecil Reid made good a free try afforded him as the result of Eristow's sixth personal foul to end the contest.

The Codentics roundly outplayed the Lorraine crew, with "Skinner" West showing the way with six field goals and "Blondy" Steelman and "Skinny" Baker following with four each. Blair, Lorraine guard, led the visitors tallying with two field goals and a free try.

Wilson, Cosden guard, was the outstanding floor man for the locals with Smith, Lorraine center, meriting the same distinction for the losers.

bious that any kind of road bond issue can be passed in Howard county. We don't like to admit such belief but it just looks like more than one-third of the people of this county do not believe good roads are worth the cost.

Yes! That belief has placed the county in a precarious position. Tourist travel is being routed away from us. People who travel No. 9 once in wet weather swear they won't try it again.

Twice not so many months ago bond issues to pave all state roadways in the county were turned down. The first time the issue barely lost. The second time, when considerable propaganda was circulated and after the railroads' fight on trucks and buses started, the margin of defeat was heavier.

The state has offered to pay only half of the cost of paving No. 9 from Big Spring to the Glascock county line and to pay the whole cost of paving across the Glascock can be secured without cost to the county corner provided right-of-way can be secured without cost to the state.

The total cost to the county for paving No. 9 to Glascock county, building overpasses of the T&P tracks east of Coahoma and west of Big Spring on No. 1 and purchasing necessary additional right-of-way for No. 9 would be $85,000.

That would necessitate a tax levy of six or seven cents per $100. That is, a man with 160 acres of land rendered at the big figure any farm land in the county is rendered five dollars per acre—would have to pay not more than 36 cents a year to retire the bond issue and if the issue were voted early next year he would have to make his first payment under this levy in January 1933.

Psychologically this is a bad time to try to pass a road bond issue. But, psychologically any time is a bad time to try it.

There is no sound argument against construction of good roads in a county that is in as good financial condition as this one and where excessive sums are not spent on paving.

Those who argued against previous issues because they did not believe in concrete paving have lost that excuse for opposing road bonds—because the highway department appears to have changed its mind. No. 9 would not be paved with concrete if this new proposition were 'taken up'. The paving would be done at not more than $10.00 per mile instead of $20,000 to $25,000 per mile that concrete would cost.

lowest paid workers in our brotherhood about 25 per cent, refusing to arbitrate although the men were willing. He said the entire brotherhood was interested in seeing if the "refusal to arbitrate" is to be regarded as a precedent to be followed in applying other wage reductions.

The Northwestern management, asserting it was merely leveling wages, lowering some and raising others, explained that the road refused to arbitrate the wage questions on the ground that they were not proper questions under existing circumstances. These questions, the road said, included an old demand by the union for a general increase.
