Political Shell Games Loses Two States

In the old days when the county fair was a prominent feature of the American landscape no such event was complete without the presence of a gentleman whose equipment consisted of three walnut shells, a pea, and a black and unscrupulous heart.

This gentleman would arrange his wares on a table and offer to bet all and sundry that, when he passed his hands over the board, they could not tell which shell was laid down on top of the pea. He always won, proving that the hand is quicker than the eye and that a guileful heart is about two jumps ahead of both.

There are times when it seems as if this man must have been the ancestor of nearly all the statesmen who run the finances of our American state governments. For state finance is ordinarily a shell game, and nothing more. The average citizen cannot hope to make head or tail of it. All he knows is that his taxes keep on inching up, year by year, that bonded indebtedness keeps on increasing, and that the army of state employes never stops recruiting.

It is refreshing, therefore, to read an article in the current Nation's Business by Congressman O. K. Armstrong of Missouri, which points out that at least two of our states have found a way to get their finances in order.

Candid' Studies Senator Guffey

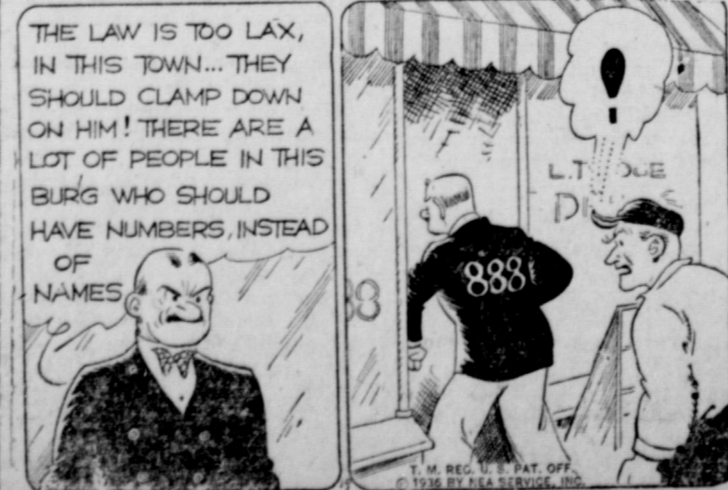

In deep study the candid camera caught Senator Joseph F. Guffey (Dem., Pa.), in these three poses, as he faced one of the biggest fights of his long political life--on the Guffey coal control act, latest New Deal measure brought before the U. S. Supreme Court. First Democrat elected senator from the Keystone State in years almost beyond memory, Guffey has been one of the most active of Roosevelt's supporters.

tary of the state game, fish and oyster commission, pointed out several "firsts" about Texas wildlife:

- First in annual value ($90,000,000).
- Greatest variety of any state.
- Greater benefit to landowners and farmers than in any state.
- Texas shoot more game than hunters of any other state.
- Tucker estimated that $25,000,000 is spent by hunters and fishermen in this state each year, although the state ranks nineteenth in the amount of money spent annually for preservation and restoration.

Many problems will confront the conference. Many sections of the state have dropped from "abundant" to "depleted" in the index of wildlife. Many valuable game species, with normal facilities for increasing, actually are decreasing. In this category, Tucker listed the mountain sheep, pronghorn antelope and prairie chicken. The sportsmen will seek to ed laws protecting game and fish, made flexible to deal with emergencies.

A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Luckies are less acid. For hundreds of years, tobaccos were selected—and gradations in flavor secured—by the roughest sort of rule of thumb methods. Hence, one of the most important innovations made by the Research Department was provision for chemical analysis of selected tobacco samples before purchase: the resulting reports offer the professional buyer a rate guide and reinforce his expert ment based on the senses of sight, smell and touch. Thus extreme variations in acidity or alkalinity are precluded by selection and subsequent blending.

WRITER PICTURES DUST BOWL'S DESOLATION

vents rasped by choking dust and half-blinded, Frank Houston, cameraman, made a 1500-mile auto journey survey the Dust Bowl of the southwest, where the destructive storms are already beginning. Houston's word-picture of the area you on the ground of America's most tragic scene.

Rolling Ruin Is Viewed by Reporter and Cameraman on 1500-Mile Trip Through Southwest Storms

BY FRANK HOUSTON

OGAN, N.M.—Completing a 1500-mile tour of the Bowl of the southwest, I have seen the March lioning his mane over that stricken area in the first of what may be worse dust storms than the ones which shocked the country last year.

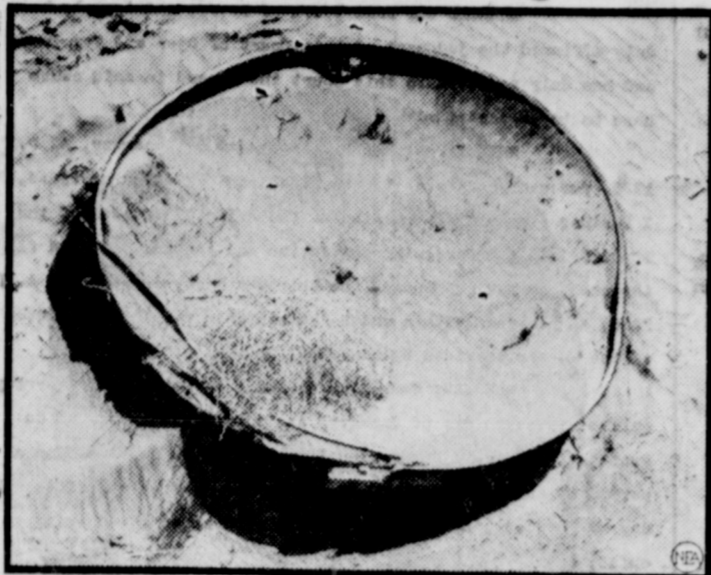

From Amarillo, Texas, westward to Clovis, N. M., then toward Colorado, and again into Kansas, down through the Texas Oklahoma Panhandle, and larger than all New Mexico, we have seen a stage set of rolling ruin. Within five days three different land through the Dust Bowl is in just the right condition to blow away. Frozen hard without a rainless winter, it has hauled out and pulverized, fine dust powder.

Rising March winds have begun to sweep it away, and is very reason to expect more serious dust storms than those of 34-35. Already the havoc of spring's "dusters" is pitifully evident.

As I drive through this area to look like moving up to the front on a battlefield. Here is the sign of a horse; there one of a cow; there a dilapidated windmill; an abandoned cultivator, a car half-buried in sand and its pieces.

There are fences buried in powder, and there a deserted

Sand Mocks a Watering-Tank

This was a water-tank. Cattle once drank gratefully from it near Dalhart, Tex. Now, rusting, abandoned, full of sand, it is the temporary resting-place for a tumble-weed and a few parched spikes of desert grass. Dust storms again sweeping the southwest are adding new terrors to the toll of the wind and man's thoughtlessness.

furrows across my fields, as the government said. If that doesn't work, and the dust gets at us again like it did last year, I lose a whole square mile of wheat. I'm just here holding my hands and waiting. If we get it down here like we did the last two years, it's all off."

Choked by Duster

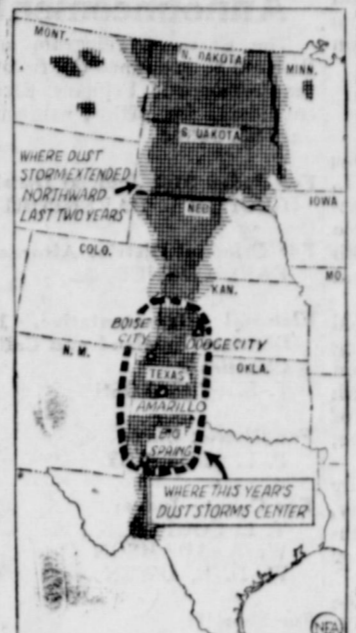

As we moved northward, at Navasota, N. M., we met our first "duster." The car quivered in the wind. We could see only a few feet in front of the radiator-cap. The sun disappeared, leaving an eerie half-light.

Oncoming cars were only two glowing discs which went by in a swirl of dust. More dust sifted through the closed car windows. We coughed and choked. Soon we were forced into a roadside filling station.

In long conversations, natives did not even mention the dust that had been nearly killing us.

"Why, this isn't any storm," said a man loafing in a drug store where we went to buy some wash for our smarting eyes. "We could stand worse than this without endangering the row crops. This is just dust settling here from up north."

The dust had settled next day, and we proceeded northward. About 25 miles away we came on a farmhouse which told the whole story of the Dust Bowl. It was deserted.

Gorgeous

Toby turned the pages. There were girls of all types—blond and brunet, tall and small, girls who were "the outdoor type" and girls who were like orchids.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

TOBY RYAN, 22, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARY HIATT, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face." Toby goes to dinner with BILL BLAKE, who works in an advertising agency.

A few days later Toby loses her job, due to the scheming of jealous MARY HIATT, also employed in the jewelry department. Toby's efforts to find another job are fruitless. Then she meets MARY HIATT again. He sends her to BEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Blake tells her that in order to register as a model she must have photographs. Toby, lacking $25 to have the photographs made, says she has changed her mind.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

BEN BLAKE said, "Do you mean you've changed your mind or you haven't the money?"

Toby met his gaze. "I haven't the $25," she said. "Even if I had a job, a regular one—and I haven't—it would take months for me to save that much. I'll just have to forget about it. I'm sorry."

"Wait a minute," Blake interrupted. "Maybe we can do something about this."

"But, Mr. Blake—"

He did not seem to hear her. Picking up the telephone, he said to the operator, "Get Marty Hiatt on the wire for me."

Toby exclaimed insistently, "Oh, I couldn't ask him—"

Blake raised one hand, silencing her. "You let me handle this," he said. "Sit down."

Toby obeyed. A minute later Blake was speaking into the telephone again. "Marty?" he said. "How're you? Yes, I've been talking to her. She's here now."

For several moments he listened, now and then making monosyllabic answers. Presently, he said, "Listen, Marty, are you doing that Worthwhile job? You are? Well, here's what I was thinking about. How about using Miss Ryan on the job and, instead of paying her, let her have some of the photographs? Could you do that? Well, I thought—yes, sure. Yes. Wait a minute; I'll ask her—"

Blake turned to Toby. "Marty says he can use you on a job this afternoon. He's willing to let you have some of the pictures instead of paying you. Is that all right?"

"Oh, yes, Mr. Blake!"

"Could you go over to his studio this afternoon?"

"I can go any time."

BLAKE spoke into the telephone again. "It's all right, Marty," he said. "She'll be there. What time do you want her? Four o'clock. Okay. Thanks, Marty. I'll be seeing you in a day or so. Yes—goodbye."

He put down the telephone, pushing it aside. "Well," he said, "that's that. Hiatt will make the pictures and turn them over to me. Of course I can't promise that we're going to be able to get you work as a model. It all depends on how well you photograph. The pictures will be the test."

Toby said, "I don't know how to thank you."

"Never mind about that," Blake cut in. "Wait until we see how those pictures turn out. Hiatt wants you at his studio at four o'clock." He glanced at his wrist watch. "You've a little time yet. Maybe there're some questions you want to ask about this business."

"There are," Toby admitted. "You see, I don't know anything about it at all."

"Well," Blake crossed one knee over the other and settled back

Grim Death Edict Shadows Bruno

New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals to this Court; and WHEREAS the said Court of Errors and Appeals has duly affirmed the judgment of this Court of Oyer and Terminer and has duly remitted to this Court the record in said cause here to be proceeded with according to law; and

WILCOX on the thirtieth day of December, A. D. 1935, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, I further stated and notified to the Principal Keeper of the State Prison the foregoing conviction and sentence and did fix the week commencing Monday, the thirteenth day of January, A. D. 1936, as the week within which the sentence should be executed in the manner provided by law; and

WHEREAS, Harold G. Hoffman, Governor of New Jersey, on the sixteenth day of January, A. D. 1936, did cause to be granted to the said BRUNO RICHARD HAUPTMANN, a reprieve for a period of thirty days, which said time expired on the fifteenth day of February, A. D. 1936, and the said cause now ceasing to exist; and

WHEREAS the said BRUNO RICHARD HAUPTMANN is now held and confined by you in the New Jersey State Prison at Trenton, awaiting the further order of this Court in the matter of said judgment had and affirmed as aforesaid;

NOW, THEREFORE, pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, I, THOMAS W. TRENCARD, Presiding Judge of the Hunterdon County Court of Oyer and Terminer, do hereby appoint the week commencing Monday, the thirteenth (30) day of March, A. D. 1936, as the week within which such sentence of death shall be executed in the manner provided by law and hereby command you to execute said sentence upon some day within the week so appointed, and this shall, under the statutes of this State, be your sufficient warrant therefor.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this nineteenth day of February, A. D. 1936.

Thomas W. Trencard, Presiding Judge of the Hunterdon County Court of Oyer and Terminer.

When Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey allowed the deadline for a "legal" reprieve for Bruno Hauptmann to pass without ordering another stay, the convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby at last, as symbolized above, faced squarely the stern words of Justice Trencard's sentence condemning him to die in the electric chair. Unless startling new evidence is unearthed, Hauptmann appears doomed to electrocution in the death house at Trenton during the week of March 30—probably Tuesday night, March 31.

DESDEMONA Wins Her Baby From Magnate Rex Bailey went down to Fort Worth Thursday to be at the opening of the Fat Stock Show.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Davis and their daughter, Mrs. Aaron Henslee, or Longview, drove to Stephenville Tuesday of last week to purchase some shrubs for the cemetery. Mrs. Henslee spent several days here and her husband came for her on Thursday and they left for their home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krapf of Gladewater came in Monday for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Krapf, and with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Clayton.

The many friends of Arnold Anderson and Roy Ashburn will be glad to know that the well they were drilling near Putnam came in several days ago and is making a nice amount of oil and gas.

Mrs. C. O. Bragg and little son, Charles, returned on Tuesday of last week from a 10-day visit with her parents at Santa Anna.

Early Saturday morning the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Graham died from membranous croup. The little fellow was seven years old and was their only child. Funeral services were held at Oliver Springs Saturday afternoon. The sincere sympathy of the community is being extended to the sorrowing parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hunter of Goldthwaite were guests of Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass and Mrs. J. H. Rushing Sr. for a short time Sunday. Mrs. Hunt was formerly Miss Janice Baird and lived here during boom days. They had been visiting her grandmother at Duster.

Miss Lillie Buchan, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. R. D. Mahon, and Miss Alberta Martin, drove to Fort Worth Saturday to the Fat Stock Show. They were guests at a dinner at the Hilltop Hotel of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bowman, who had as their guests also about 100 cowboys and cowgirls. Mr. Bowman is the champion roper of the world. Miss Martin, who is teacher of home economics in our high school, had been a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Bowman a long time, as her mother had partly reared him.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parks and daughter, Gaynell, drove down to Fort Worth Saturday.

Mrs. Nannie Noel was called to Dublin Friday on account of the illness of one of her children.

Mrs. Mattie Henry and son, Walker, drove to Dublin on business Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Key were business visitors at DeLeon Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Alexander drove to Ranger on business on Tuesday of last week.

T. L. Acrea and T. H. Key drove to Eastland on business Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stover of Dallas arrived Saturday for a short visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Stover. They report that the Centennial buildings

Fort Worth on business Monday. W. F. MacDermott of Fort Worth was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Williams Monday.

The "21" Study Club met at the clubhouse on Tuesday of last week and had a Texas Day program. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Mattie Henry, and Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass, secretary, read the minutes and called the roll. Members responded to roll call by naming a Texas governor and the date of administration. During the business session it was voted to buy for the club library a copy of the Sixth District Anthology of Poems by club women of the Sixth District, T. F. W. C. The "21" Study Club will be represented in the book by poems written by Mrs. W. H. Davis. The program was led by Mrs. W. C. Bedford, whose part was a history of Eastland, which was a review of the county history written in 1904 by Mrs. George Langston of Cisco, and with some facts of recent years added. Mrs. Clarence Ragland gave a splendid paper on "Improved Communication in Texas since 1860." As substitute for Mrs. Mendenhall, who was ill, Mrs. C. W. Malby read from the "Epic Magazine" some interesting facts about "Early Cities of Texas."

The closing number was a beautiful poem, "Sketches of the Texas Prairie," read by Mrs. Mattie Henry.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ragland drove to Dublin Thursday to attend the funeral of Jack Kline, who had been killed by an explosion in a storage tank at Corpus Christi. The decedent was a relative of Mr. and Mrs. Ragland.

The Methodist Missionary Society met at the church Monday afternoon for the second lesson in the book, "Toward a Christian America." The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Charles Lee, and Mrs. G. S. Bruce led the devotional. The study of the lesson, the third and fourth chapters of the book, was led by Mrs. W. C. Bedford. In discussing how the home mission work grew as the area of the United States grew, the leader brought out the way Protestant missions came to Texas and Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass read a letter written in August, 1935, by William B. Travis, to the Christian Advocate of New York, sending his subscription for Methodist sent to Texas. On special assignments, O. Bragg and Mrs. P. Bruce, and Mrs. W. part in the discussion.

SHERIFF'S SALE THE STATE OF TEXAS County of Eastland.

By virtue of a certain order of sale issued Honorable 55th District Judge Harris county, on the March, 1936, by J. W. of said court, upon a favor of Eastern M. Securities Company, for the sum of Two Thousand and 93-100 ($2,093.00) and cost of suit, in case No. 810 in said court, at Mortgage and Security Corporation, versus said and National Mortgage Corporation, and placed in my hands, I, Virge Foster, Sheriff of Eastland county, Texas, 11th day of March, 1936, certain real estate in Eastland county, described as follows, to-wit:

The south one-half Lot Seven (7) and the half (N. 1/2) of Lot 8 Block Eight (8) Hillside to the City of Eastland, Texas, and levied on property of said J. B. on Tuesday, the 7th of 1936, at the court in Eastland county, in case No. 810 a. m. and 4 p. m. said real estate at present for cash, to the highest bidder by virtue of said execution and order of sale.

And in compliance with the English language, for three consecutive days immediately preceding the sale in the Eastland county, a newspaper of Eastland county, Texas, to-wit: Witness my hand, this day of March, A. D. 1936, at Eastland, Texas. Virge Foster, Sheriff, Eastland County.
