Believe New Oil Pool Found Near Stephens County

BRECKENRIDGE, March 20.—Attention of the oil fraternity today was centered on what appears to be a new oil pool in Young county near the Stephens county line.

This came about after the Pitzer & West No. 1 McCluskey encountered pay at the 2,700-foot level. The well is located a mile and a half north of South Bend, and today was said to be about two miles from any other well producing from that sand.

Pitzer & West have been getting good wells recently in Young county in the South Bend territory, but in the others production has been from a 4,100-foot horizon.

The sand encountered in the McCluskey is the Strawn sand, production from which has been obtained in this section, but which will open a new pool for that section.

It was said that the well is expected to be brought in Thursday afternoon.

EARLY SPRING IS RECORDED THIS SEASON

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—The sun crossed the equator at 12:58 p. m., CT, today, marking the advent of the earliest spring of the 20th century.

James Stockley, associate director of the Franklin institute, in charge of astronomy, explained the figures of Julius Caesar and Pope Gregory at setting the year at 365 1/4 days are responsible for the early arrival. Actually, he pointed out, the year is 11 minutes less than they figured.

The accumulation of these 11 minutes, plus the extra day in leap year, caused the early spring.

Where Disaster Struck Over Vast Area

The damaging floods that have menaced eleven of the northeastern states have centered their greatest destruction on the area covered by this map. Split by the Allegheny Range that crosses Pennsylvania north and south, the swelling streams have divided the course of the floodwaters eastward down the valleys of the Cumberland and Potomac, and westward down the Ohio river.

Owners of Farm, Ranch Homes Will Get Beauty Award

AUSTIN, March 19.—The State Highway department, through its Landscape Division, proposes to make an annual award of a handsomely designed emblem as a reward of merit to the most attractive farm or ranch home located on a State or Federal Highway of Texas, provided that such home building does not exceed $5,000 in cost.

To further a state-wide appreciation of beauty and cleanliness along the highways of the state, this in turn should inspire every home-owner as well as tenant to do likewise with his premises, which will emphasize the interesting features for the travelers over the state.

Each division chairman and county chairman of the Citizens' Organization for State Highway Beautification will appoint three judges for the highway through each respective county.

Points to be judged are: General appearance, 20 points; cleanliness, 10; orderliness of premises, 10; trees, flowers, lawn, etc., 10; display of native trees, etc., 10; location of service buildings, etc., 10; appearance and state of repair of gates and fences, 10; naming of property, 10; culverts where necessary, 10.

The slogan, "Clear away all uncleanliness in Texas," should encourage an improvement in real estate of all kinds. The householders can play an important part by setting an example in the community for cleanliness and beauty. Let beauty of premises become universal throughout Texas as an inspiration to those who visit this state, beautification chairmen urge.

Culinary Secrets To Be Told By Mrs. Johnetta Howard, who Will Conduct Telegram's Free Cooking Institute

By Cooking School Editor A little snow tumbled a bit, if done craftily, and with conditions in harmony for snow tumbling, soon becomes a mountain. Just so, with the secret formulas to be given freely to the ladies and their husbands, if they desire to learn of them, and most husbands do—in the coming free city-wide and community-invited Kitchen Chautauqua to come to this city soon.

This is of most vital importance and it will be led by that genial-hearted, informative-minded Southern lecturer, Mrs. Johnetta Howard. Her reputation for plain, understandable, interesting, short-course, post-graduate giving language and demonstrations that hold audience interest throughout, has preceded her by weeks. And, it is all free, and a most hearty invitation is extended to every housewife in this city and the communities around, together with their husbands.

"Men are taking most seriously to the master art of the world—cooking," is an emphatic word that comes in advance from Mrs. Howard. "Leader men throughout the nation are learning more and more the post-graduate points of home, happiness, cooking. They have learned and are learning that the paramount health and happiness pinnacle of the home centers at the kitchen. Science has proved it, experience has taught it and now it is free for the managers of the homes of this city—the housewives and their husbands.

In this fashionable parade of the preparation of foods, its value to health and happiness, harmony and secret formulas are possible that will make certain that happiness will have its play in the family-life. Whether it's the style, mode, fashion, pattern, elegance, preparation, griddling, codding, juggling, deviling, steaming, cooking, roasting, braising, baking, broiling, frying, par-boiling, stewing, pan-frying, frizzling of making food ready for the family table, there are secret formulas and harmonized relations that must be known if kitchen and home-happiness is to be a star in the domestic circle. The housewife of today does not have to run to the back porch and "grab the cow with the iron tail"—the hand pump—to get water. She is surrounded with the most modern and convenient electrical mechanical and scientific advances of this modern civilization.

Woman Accused in Skeleton Case Makes Bond, Henry Gets Witnesses

Della Henry charged with her husband Raymond and three others in the slaying of H. L. McBee at Rising Star May 1, 1935, was at liberty Friday under $3,000 bond.

The bond was executed Thursday afternoon. Sureties were G. W. Barron, R. R. Barton, C. H. Smith. The bond was made following telegraphic notification to Sheriff Virge Foster from Sheriff Joe B. Allison of Brownfield that one of the bondsmen was financially responsible.

Subpoenas for 56 witnesses, same as have been summoned for the defense for Mrs. Henry and the state, were being issued Friday afternoon for Raymond Henry, wife of the former mate of the highway worker in whose death they are charged.

R. E. Grantham of Cisco and L. H. Flewelling of Ranger are attorneys for Henry.

Other defendants are Lynn and Jack Smith, brothers,

MAR. 31 SET AS DATE FOR BRUNO'S DEATH

TRENTON, March 20.—The execution of Bruno Hauptmann, convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby, has been set for 8 p. m. on March 31, it was learned. Invitations were mailed by Principal Keeper Mark Kimberling to news correspondents and witnesses today, announcing the time. Only a second reprieve from Gov. Harold Hoffman will save Hauptmann. The governor said he had no intention of granting another stay unless there is "startling new evidence." His investigation of the kidnap murder has not been interrupted since Jan. 17, when he granted Hauptmann a reprieve.

Details of "Billion Dollar" Estate Are Still a Mystery

HOUSTON, March 20.—Details of the "billion dollar" Buchanan estate, which has attracted attention of more than 2,000 "heirs" remained a mystery today despite a four-day battle in district court. 185 BELIEVED TO BE DEAD OVER BIG AREA

Over 153 Known Dead and Scores Are Missing In Friday's Survey.

A total flood death toll upwards of 185 was indicated today as the area of devastation in 14 states was increased by surging waters that swept down the Connecticut and Ohio rivers.

The Ohio river flood, which has been raging since the first of the year, has killed 153 persons, according to a survey by the Red Cross in Washington.

Property damage was feared to be in excess of $200,000,000. With the worst flood zone under virtual military rule, authorities strove to prevent outbreaks of disease.

Pittsburgh ordered destruction of 250 cars of tainted foods. Thousands in the Ohio valley were inoculated against typhoid.

The rich city of Hartford, Conn., and its suburbs, were a third under the muddy waters of the Connecticut river. Water was five feet deep in parts of the business section.

Much of the Connecticut Valley from Vermont through Massachusetts and Connecticut to the sea was under water. Springfield, Mass., was partially inundated. Thousands of homeless huddled in barracks.

Water from the Merrimack at Haverhill, Mass., was five to seven feet deep in parts of the city. Bridge were torn out and factories flooded in Maine.

The Ohio river flood, which has been raging since the first of the year, has killed 153 persons, according to a survey by the Red Cross in Washington.

The crest of the Patomac river flood passed Washington without serious damage but President postponed his vacation another 24 hours to aid relief work.

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Cole Randall, 42, a disabled war veteran, despondent over ill health, stabbed and beat his wife to death in her sleep and then committed suicide in a leap from a third-story window, police reported.

A milkman heard the body hit the sidewalk in front of the Randall apartment. He called the police, who found the body of Mrs. Mary Randall, nurse, in their room beside a bloodstained flatiron and knife.

On the table was a note: "We love each other too much to be separated, so we will go together. Cole Randall."

Business Challenged by Consumer Co-ops

The man who is always trying to get something for nothing generally winds up by being somebody's sucker, and finds himself laying out more than he can afford in the belief that he is buying the postoffice building.

What ails him, however, is simply a magnification of that undying Yankee insistence on getting all that the law allows for his money. The American is a bargain hunter; hot or cold, he isn't happy unless he feels that his dollars are giving him 100 cents' worth of effort every time he sends them to market.

It is this trait which lies back of the old complaints against trusts and middlemen, and which has furnished the motive power for growth of the co-operative movement in this country. And that movement is worth a bit of study.

Bertram B. Fowler recently wrote a detailed study of the American co-operatives and found that they are entrenching themselves all across the land.

Farmers have gone in for co-operative elevators, oil companies, fertilizer distributors, and feed stores. Co-operative grocery stores have sprung up in many places. Co-operative bakeries and dairies are thriving. Along with these has come the credit union, providing customer-owned banking facilities.

All these things present a challenge to business and industry.

Carried far enough, the co-operative movement could strike a terrific blow at our retail trade set-up. The chain stores have never begun to pinch the small merchant as the co-operatives would pinch him if they once really began to flourish. Wholesalers in many lines would be equally-squeezed. Even some of the manufacturing industries would feel the pressure.

In the growth of the co-operatives, then, the business man can see an unfolding threat to his well-being. And the only way for him to meet it is to recognize this undying American fondness for bargains, this inbred insistence on making a dollar go just as far as the Constitution will let words, people in the long run are going to get the most for their money. And if the business man is going to put a cloud over business, it is going to be with fire; to re-double its expenditure.

There is no reason to believe that business will be unable to meet this challenge. The efficiency and productive power which have placed such things as automobiles, electric iceboxes, and radios within the reach of ordinary wage-earners on a scale not dreamed of in any other country ought to make private initiative pay its way for a long time to come.

NOTICE TO THE THEATRE-GOERS OF EASTLAND: The local manager of the Texas Consolidated Theatres has come over to Cisco and placed in the Cisco Daily News and windows, advertising, insisting that the theatre fans of Cisco see the picture, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," at the Connellee Theatre. I talked to your manager in the newspaper office and warned him, if he did, I would certainly have to ask the fans of Eastland to come over to Cisco, advising him that I was playing the picture on Tuesday, March 24th.

I have just completed eight years in opposition to Texas Consolidated Theatres. That is their name now. They control sixty of the largest towns in Texas with from two to a number of theatres in each town. They are the biggest chain in the theatre industry in Texas today, and operate as far south as the Mexican border.

Their manager, before a number of witnesses, remarked that my opening a theatre in Cisco was keeping a thousand Ciscoans a week from attending the Texas Consolidated Theatres in Eastland.

This is not my policy of operating a theatre. I believe in anyone supporting their home industries.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

Gorgeous

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARY HIATT, the photographer, tells her she has a "gorgeous face."

Toby goes to dinner with BILL BRANDT, who works in an advertising agency.

A few days later Toby loses her job, due to the scheming of jealous MARY HIATT, also employed in the jewelry department.

Toby's efforts to find another job are fruitless. Then she meets MARY HIATT again. He sends her to BEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Blake tells her she must have photographs and arrange with Hiatt to take the pictures.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX

BILL BRANDT halted in the doorway, grinning at Toby. He did not speak, but one hand went up in a quick, gay salute. Toby smiled back. And all at once she forgot the heat and lights and her panic of a moment before. Toby was herself again, smiling and confident.

Hiatt's gaze followed Toby to the door. He said, rather testily, "Well—"

Bill came forward. "Are you Mr. Hiatt?" he asked. "I'm from Anderson & Blake's office. Brandt's my name. Charlie Leslie asked me to bring this over to you." He held out an envelope.

Bill caught Toby's arm under his own. "So my young friend is on the threshold of fame and fortune!" he said. "That calls for a celebration."

Hiatt took the envelope, drew out some folded sheets and glanced at them quickly. Then he slid them back into the envelope and dropped it on a chair. "All right," he said. "Thanks." He looked at Bill a moment. Then he said, "You and my model seem to know each other."

Bill smiled. "We're old friends."

"Oh, is that so?" Hiatt's tone was neither friendly or unfriendly. He looked at Toby.

She was still smiling. She said, "Bill— I couldn't believe it was you for a moment. I was never more surprised in my life—"

"I was surprised, too," Bill told her. "What's this all about anyhow? What are you doing here?"

Toby had turned slightly. From the platform she looked down at Bill, her eyes shining and eager. The lights played on her hair, transforming it into a glistening halo. The pose she had taken unconsciously was easy and graceful.

Bill said, "Gosh, Toby, you look like a million dollars—"

There was a sudden "click" and both Toby and Bill turned. "Oh!" Toby exclaimed, "did you take the picture?"

"One of them," Hiatt told her. "Didn't know I was going to, did you?" He smiled, pleased with himself. "That's all right. Like to take 'em that way sometimes. Stay where you are—I want to make a few more shots—"

Bill interrupted. "Mr. Hiatt, do you mind if I stay for a while?"

"Well, ordinarily I don't like strangers around the studio when I'm working. But, this once, I guess it's all right."

"Thanks. I'll promise to stay out of your way."

Hiatt and his assistant began moving lights, changing the angle of the camera. Bill moved nearer to Toby. "Say," he said, "I want to know all about this. Are you working for Hiatt? Going to be a model?"

She nodded. "I'm working for him," she said. "But it's a long

There were tulips and daffodils and pink and blue hyacinths in the window. There were nosegays of purple violets, each neatly circled by green leaves. And in the very center, snow-white and velvety, was a corsage of gardenias tied with a silver ribbon.

Bill hesitated but an instant. Then, pushing her gently before him, he said, "We're going in here."

"Why, Bill!"

"They were inside the shop then, breathing the heavy odors of a dozen different flowers. Bill said to the middle-aged, spectacled man who came forward, "Gardenias for the young lady."

The salesman nodded. "We have some very nice ones," he said. "Something at about a dollar each!"

IMPATIENTLY, Bill pointed to the corsage in the window. "No," he said, "we want that one. It's for sale, isn't it?"

"Why, yes—of course."

The salesman produced the corsage and Toby fastened it to her shoulder. Turning to the mirror she said, "Oh, Bill, they're beautiful! They're the loveliest flowers in the world."

"They should be. Didn't I tell you we were going to celebrate?" He handed the salesman a bill and a moment later received the change.

Out in the night once more, Toby said, "Bill, I've never had such lovely flowers. Never! But I shouldn't have let you spend all that money. We're going back to our old cafeteria—"

Bill looked up from the aisles and dimes in his hand. "What?" he said. "Go to the cafe, 'ordinary place on a tight like old Hardy!' Then he grinned. "I'd tell you what, though," he said, slipping her arm in his more. "There's another one on the street that isn't so bad!"

They dined at the cafeteria up the street from the cafe, "ordinary place on a tight like old Hardy!"

Bill was adamant when he heard what had happened at the store. "But someone must have planned that," he said. "They must have done it deliberately."

"I know. But what can I do about it?"

"You ought to be able to do something. Believe me—"

"I can't, Bill. Even if I knew who did it—knew for sure—I couldn't force them to take me back."

"No, I suppose not."

She went on, telling him about the Models' League and her talk with Ben Blake. Bill listened, smoking thoughtfully. She explained how all her hopes of becoming a professional model depended on the pictures Hiatt had made that afternoon, and they discussed this, too.

It was late when they left the cafeteria. Toby ruled out Bill's suggestion of a movie and they rode uptown on the subway. Bill's mood of gaiety had returned. It seemed to vanish, however, as they walked the blocks between Toby's rooming house and the subway station. A dozen steps from the door he said shortly, "Toby, there's something I want to say to you. I hope you'll understand."

The girl looked up quickly. She said, "Why, of course— and wondered why he did not go on."

When I'll tell you all about it when I'm through."

"Yes, I'm ready."

Hiatt came up beside them. "You understand about the pictures, don't you, Miss Ryan? I'll send them over to Blake as soon as they're finished. He'll get in touch with you after he's seen them."

"Yes, I understand," Toby told him. "Oh, I hope they'll be good!"

"So do I," Hiatt said, smiling. "Well, you two better be on your way and get something to eat. It's getting late."

TOBY and Bill said good night to each other and left the studio. As the door swung behind them, Bill caught Toby's arm under his own. He looked down at her, grinning. "So," he said, "my young friend is on the threshold of fame and fortune! Going to be a model. Going to have your picture on magazine covers and bill boards from Maine to California. Going to make a lot of money! That calls for a celebration, Toby. A regular, bang-up—"

She stopped him. "Oh, but I'm not, Bill. I mean this was just a sort of try-out. If the pictures are good, maybe I'll have a chance."

"The pictures," he told her, "are going to be knock-outs. Didn't I see them being made? Yes, Miss Ryan, tonight we celebrate."

The elevator halted and they stepped inside. A moment later they were making their way through the lobby to the street. Bill went through the motions of adjusting a monocle. He said, with an exaggerated accent, "Heavily nuisance, but, do you know, I neglected to bring the town car this afternoon. Silly whim of mine, walking—"

Toby grinned. "I have the same whim myself," she said. "Come on."

They set off down the street. Half way to the corner they passed a florist's shop, the brightly lighted window gay with spring flowers. Toby gave a little cry. "Oh—" she said, "aren't they jolly?"

Forest is Seeded On Lonely Island From an Airplane

By United Press

SAN FRANCISCO.—CCC officials, returning from Honolulu, report the discovery of a mystery forest on the Island of Kauai.

CCC workers were engaged in building trails in Waimea Canyon on the island when they came upon a forest of thousands and thousands of young trees on terrain where all previous expeditions showed that no forests existed. The trees were of the karaka variety which is native to New Zealand and not to Hawaii.

An investigation of the mystery developed the fact that in 1929, the United States army tri-motor Fokker "Bird of Paradise," which made the first non-stop flight from the United States to Hawaii, had scattered the territory with seeds from the air.

At that time many mountain regions of the islands difficult to reach on foot were planted from airplanes through army co-operation with the territorial forestry board, but little if any attention had been paid afterwards to the results.

"Electricity is one of the cheapest items on the family budget, yet it is something that is used both day and night by every member of the family. The cost of providing ample light to protect eyesight is only a few pennies for a whole evening."

Don't scold your child for reading on the floor, but be sure he has enough light down there so he won't strain his eyes. Put a new Better Sight Lamp by your chair and then both of you will have enough light for Safe Seeing.

A few pennies a day for good light is all it costs to safeguard young eyes. Cheap electric service permits you to have plenty of light for all members of the family and to use electricity both day and night to make your home more comfortable, to make work easier and to protect the health of your family.

Electricity is one of the few items in the average family budget which hasn't increased in price during the last few years. Foods and other household necessities have become more expensive, but the cost of electricity has actually decreased. You can make full use of electric service at a very moderate cost.

The fifth of a series of Eastland Talent Nights will be presented Tuesday at the Connellee. Under the sponsorship of the Thursday Afternoon Club these programs are presenting each week a group of Eastland county's talented entertainers.

On the program for Tuesday the following numbers will be presented: Mangum Dirt Dobber, a string orchestra well known for their talent. This orchestra will be in robe costume and will present a group of comedy and hick numbers. The second number on the program will be Jerry Railey and Patsy Sparks in a specialty arranged old-fashioned tap waltz. The third number on the program will be a surprise number.

These programs are presented each week under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Johnson and a portion of the receipts on these nights will be used for the Eastland public library.

French Export More Luxuries

By United Press

PARIS.—Exportation of "merchandise of high artistic merit" from France to the United States last year showed a considerable increase, according to figures revealed by the American Consulate General in Paris.

Included in this category of "merchandise" are antiques, paintings, pastels, drawings, etchings, sculpture, precious stones, and products which come under the "luxury" category.

The American Consulate figures further revealed that the trade balance in 1935 remained favorable to the United States. American shipments to France approximately totalled $116,000,000 while French shipments to the United States came to less than half of this figure, or roughly $56,000,000 which was only $3,000,000 less than 1934, gold shipments excluded.

Rise of $285,000 Noted

During 1935, Americans imported from France $3,720,913 worth of "artistic antiques," which is an advance of $325,935 over the preceding year.

Even greater was the advance of French exports to the United States of paintings, pastels, etchings, drawings and other objects of like quality. The 1935 figure was $5,229,649, an increase of 45 per cent over the 1934 figures of $3,606,480.

An increase was shown in French exports in 1935 over 1934 of precious stones. Diamonds imported by the United States in 1935 totalled $172,539, or an increase of $156,620.

More Pearls Imported

Pearls imported by the United States in 1935 totalled $518,512, which was an increase of $273,231 over 1934. Other precious and semi-precious stones imported by the United States from France in 1935 totalled $500,572 or an increase of $248,168 over 1934.

French gloves imported into the United States jumped from 0469,710 to $888,412 in 1935; rags for paper stock almost doubled the 1935 figure, coming to $388,414.

Other figures which showed an increase are laces, $184,056; calf skins, $1,410,705 (80 per cent increase); handkerchiefs, $292,273, and wool fabrics, $448,014.

The action, the dialogue, and the situations combine to make "Desire" one of the most enjoyable screen pictures of the year. Do not miss it.

The principals are supported by John Halliday, William Frawley, Ernest Cossart, Akim Tamiroff, and Alan Mowbray.

Method to Convert Type of Motors to Generators is Told

C. A. Timmons of Eastland is author of a story giving practical methods of converting three-phase induction motors into three-phase synchronous generators in a recent issue of the "Electrical South."

The procedure, considered new according to an editor's note, was realized by Timmons who stated: "I fully realize the criticism that will probably be heaped on me from a designing engineer's standpoint, but nevertheless these are practical machines, herein described. I have several of them in operation, whose characteristics compare rather favorably with those of the manufactured variety, and which are rendering very satisfactory service."

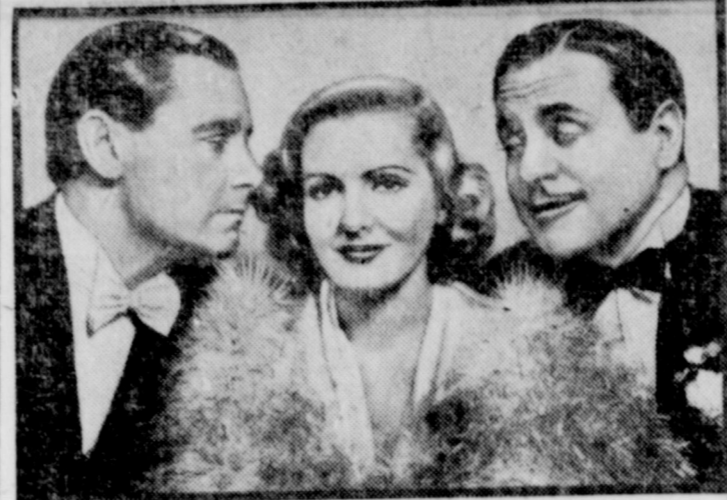

Briton Lists Sermons Heard 37 Years Ago

LONDON.—William Williams, of Llanrwst, claims to be the world's champion "sermon taster." He has heard more than 3,000 in the past 37 years. That means he has had approximately 12,000,000 words of good advice, counsel and assurance served up to him.

Williams has kept a faithful record of the sermons. He has a list of preachers' names, dates and texts. Of the sermons he has heard, 846 were from texts in the Old Testament and 2,282 from the New Testament. The most popular choice by preachers who preached from the Old Testament was the Book of Psalms, from which 227 texts were taken. Isaiah comes next with 124, and Genesis third with 65.

Preachers from the New Testament mainly favored St. John's Gospel, from which 269 texts were taken. St. Matthew comes second with 343, and St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews third with 166. Only one preacher preached from Obadiah, and only one from John's Second Epistle.

Millionaire Maid Gangster

LEO CARRILLO GIVES "DOPE" ON GANGSTER

Do gangsters like lobster thermidor? Are men whose main interest in life is easy money, even if its acquisition is tied up with violence and saved-off shotguns, connoisseurs in the construction of sauce flourmoy?

Leo Carrillo ought to know, for in his early years he spent much of his time in San Francisco's Chinatown, where his acquaintanceship included many of the underworld's most prominent bad men. And Leo says that portraying a gangster as a lover of good food—even exquisite food—is psychologically quite correct.

"For," elucidates Carrillo, who plays the part of a kind-hearted gangster-gourmet with a special weakness for the aforementioned delicacies in Columbia's romantic comedy, "If You Could Only Cook," showing today at the Connellee Theatre, "every psychologist knows that at bottom a gangster is a man with an inferiority complex. He commits violence to get the luxuries which ordinarily are denied him. Caviar, crepes sauzettes, lobster thermidor represent to him softness and richness in living. He flatters himself with the knowledge that these things make him as good as anyone else."

Co-starred in "If You Could Only Cook" are Herbert Marshall and Jean Arthur. Lionel Stander and Frieda Inescourt are also in the cast. William A. Seiter directed.

Big Mountain Lion Killed By Warden

EL PASO.—A nine-year-old mountain lion, known as the killer of the Organ mountains, has been treed and shot by Deputy State Game Warden John St. John, former sheriff of Grant county.

St. John killed the animal after a persistent trailing which had lasted for months.

The lion, said to be the largest ever shot in the Las Cruces district, measured seven feet and four inches in length and weighed more than 200 pounds.
