Shiftless Heirs Cause Public Discontent

If the American electorate ever dashes out into the street to tear down the 1935 version of the ancient Bastille of the Bourbons, a good part of the blame will have to be placed on those darlings of the Sunday supplements, the roadway playboys.

These are the lads who have been blessed by Providence with vast sums of money, but who have been unaccountably cheated in the matter of a sense of ordinary decent behavior. The chronicling of their antics may provide interesting fare for those people who move their lips when they read, but it is also a standing invitation to the disinherited to rise up and raise Cain.

Prize exhibit these days is a gentleman (as any man who owns a million dollars or more is entitled to call himself) named Tommy Manville.

Manville inherited heaven knows how much money from an industrious forebear who made a serviceable and salesable variety of roofing. Having inherited the money, he seems bent on proving that large fortunes ought not, in the public interest, to descend to people who have done nothing to earn them.

Out at New Rochelle, N. Y., Manville has a 40-room house and a wife who used to be in the Follies, and the combination seems too much for him. A veteran of the divorce courts, he recently offered the lady $100,000 to go to Reno and get what people go to Reno for.

She went there, but they both changed their minds; so she came back and they had some sort of reconciliation.

Ever since then Manville has been trying to get her out of his house. Policemen have been called to the scene. Crockery has been thrown, names have been called, and a meaningless domestic row has gone on and on until it is impossible to read about it without feeling slightly seasick.

Now the point of it all is that this playboy type of man—the completely irresponsible spender with a huge fortune which he isn't fit to possess—is the most disturbing kind of public nuisance America harbors today.

Not only does this kind of person give decent citizens a pain in the neck; he provides ammunition for every agitator in the land. He furnishes abundant data for any demagogue who wants the rich, as a class taxed to the point of extinction.

A rich person owes something to his country; at the very least, he owes it the kind of behavior that will not make people discontented with the very idea of riches.

America today has "society people" who endorse plumbing and bedding for pay; it has Vanderbilts who throw mud at each other in a squabble over the custody of a little girl; and it has Manvilles who chase chorus girlfriends about 40-room mansions and squawk for the police to come and take a hand in the game.

All in all, the picture is pretty disturbing.

Ford Company Uses Much Electricity In River Rouge Plant

Electric power used by the Ford Motor company in the Detroit area during 1935 amounted to 658,247,947 kilowatt hours, representing a value of more than $5,000,000, it was announced at the home offices of the company in Dearborn.

Comparison of the 1934 and 1935 figures of electric current generated and consumed in the Ford Rouge plant at Dearborn is an indication of the company's industrial activities. The 1935 output and consumption exceeded that of 1934 by more than 145,000,000 kilowatt hours.

Of the company's total usage of electricity in the Detroit area, 645,866,091 kilowatt hours was generated and consumed from outside sources for use at the Rouge plant; and the remaining 8,840,856 kilowatt hours was generated and consumed at various Ford factories in the area surrounding Detroit.

In generating the company's requirements of electricity for the year, the equivalent of 747,486 tons of coal was used—enough to fill 19,000 50-ton railway coal gondolas. If made up in a single train, they would extend more than 125 miles.

In addition some of the smaller Ford factories in the Detroit district utilize hydro-electric energy produced by their own generators, to a total of 5,783,251 kilowatt hours for the year.

Included in the company's 1935 fuel consumption in the Detroit area were 3,757,440 gallons of oil burned at the Lincoln plant and 1,294,000,000 cubic feet of blast furnace and coke oven gas burned in No. 1 power house at the Rouge. Coke breeze equivalent to 103,546 tons of coal was consumed in the Rouge and Highland Park plants.

Total steam produced at the Rouge plant last year was 15,534,035,000 pounds, mostly from two 1200-pound pressure boilers and five 250-pound pressure boilers at No. 1 power plant. The rest came from waste heat boilers located at the open hearth furnaces, glass plant, cement plant and steel plant soaking pits.

Water used at the Rouge plant during the year totalled more than 291 billion gallons. The requirement per day was approximately 800 million gallons—more than used by the cities of Detroit, Cincinnati and Washington combined.

The power plant is keeping pace with the demands made on it by increased activities in the rest of the factory. An important part of the company's present program of expansion and modernization is proceeding rapidly in No. 1 power house. The new installation includes a 1400-pound pressure boiler, a 110,000 kilowatt turbo-generator, and a 15,000 kilowatt turbo-generator. When the installation is completed, this will be the largest high-pressure steam plant in the world. Its capacity will be increased high-pressure steam plant in the world. Its capacity will be increased from about 270,000 horsepower to about 435,000 horsepower.

"Reality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 29.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Praise him, ye heavens of heavens, and ye waters that be above the heavens. Let them praise the name of the Lord: for he commanded, and they were created. He hath also established them for ever and ever" (Psalms 148: 4, 5, 6).

The lesson-sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good, and He makes all that is made" (page 472).

Ten Guides Are Offered As An Aid To Job Hunters

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—With thousands of youths looking for jobs and many more to join them upon graduation from schools and colleges in June, Ralph R. Wulf, senior placement assistant at the Yale University bureau of appointments, cites 10 rules for getting a job.

They are:
1. Find out what you want to do. An employer doesn't care what you're interested in.
2. Study yourself. What have you to offer a prospective employer? Remember, getting a job, is largely a matter of "selling yourself."
3. Study your market—the places where you are likely to find jobs.
4. Prepare the story of your experience and your capabilities carefully.
5. Find out all you can about your prospective employer. Look up his business and know exactly what you can offer his organization.
6. Wear suitable clothes.
7. Be well groomed.
8. Avoid Mondays, Saturdays and days before and after days.

9. Look alive.
10. Have something to say. Stop talking!

"Getting a job," according to Wulf, "is mostly selling yourself. You must show your prospective employer how you are going to benefit his organization. A interview shouldn't last more than 20 minutes. If you can't make potential value apparent in this time, it is not likely that you will ever do so. Limit your interview to 20 minutes—and this is a point to remember whether you are interviewing for a job or referring with an associate who has obtained one!"

In speaking of his experience, Wulf says that some express preference for others who stand high in school grades care little how they fared in the classroom but are interested primarily in his curricular activities. Few letter men in every other the Yale placement bureau are prominent in the files of seekers.

One factor finds favor in most every prospective employer. It is the amount of work a man has done to support himself, varyably, the men who have had to put themselves through college are in greater demand than those who have not.

Built to give you years of good service at low cost

THE ASSURANCE we offer you is not in words only—it is built into the very substance of the Ford V-8 itself. The Ford name is your certificate of quality and the car is its proof. It will serve you faithfully, economically and well for many thousands of miles.

Ford policy builds soundly and substantially, in the interest of the public. There are no experiments. Improvements are made on the firm foundation of experience. Everything new must prove its genuine value and lasting benefit before it is put into production.

A consistent plan controls all Ford manufacturing. There is no confusion in design or contradiction in practice. Certain proved principles are carried out in the Ford, the Lincoln, and the Lincoln-Zephyr. These three cars differ in price and purpose, but they are alike in important fundamentals. All have a full torque-tube drive . . . safe, sure mechanical brakes actuated by solid-steel brake rods . . . double-acting shock absorbers . . . steel wheels . . . and Safety Glass throughout at no additional cost. All have the V-type engine.

By concentrating on this one type of engine, the Ford Motor Company has brought it to a new peak of efficiency. And created new, higher standards of motor car value.

"V-type" is the distinguishing mark of the world's finest power plants—on land, on water and in the air.

Gorgeous

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind a jewelry counter of a large antiques department store. He sees for a photograph to be used in a story advertisement and ARRY HEAT the photographer, tells her she has a "camera" on a bus one afternoon she sees wealthy TIMOTHY JAMIESON who tries to make a date with her. Toby refuses. Toby and his friend HAMILTON take Toby to a benefit show. Toby, parading in a model, sees Jamieson again and imperiously she agrees to go on with the story. CHAPTER XVII THEY sat on a bench against the side of the room. Almost all tables were filled now, except at here and there couples had left their places to dance in the square space reserved for that purpose. The floor show had ended a few minutes before. Now the dance band was playing a gay and rhythmic tune, the hit number of new musical show. Tim Jamieson touched Toby's arm. "Bored?" he asked. "Oh—no. I thought you must be; you've been quiet for so long." "Have I?" Toby smiled. "I'd forgotten everything—this room and the people." "And did you forget me, too?" "Well—in a way. I was thinking how happy I am. Wishing everything could go on and on, just as it is now—the music and soft lights and everybody having a grand time. Oh, I have had a grand time tonight. Wonderful time! I don't know when." "Well, that's better!" Tim paused, eying her. Then he smiled. "You're a funny little thing, Toby Ryan. Did you know that?" "Why?" "She had never looked lovelier. Her eyes, brightly questioning, seemed enormous. Her head was lifted, bringing into outline the adorable line of her throat. She put one hand to her cheek, tucking a stray curl into place and he noticed how graceful the movement was. "Never mind, Tim said. "You're exactly the way I like you. And I'll tell you something else. I saw you this afternoon—no, I don't mean those few moments when we talked together. It was after I came away and went back. I was early, you see. I didn't want to take a chance of missing you. The fashion show was still going on and I stood at the door a moment. I saw you come in in a dress that was sort of rose colored—like pink sea foam. It was an evening dress." Toby nodded. "It was lovely, wasn't it?" "Lovely! It was gorgeous—or rather, you were gorgeous, wearing it. That's what you are and that's what I'm going to call you. Gorgeous. It's exactly the right name for you. Do you mind?" She laughed. "I don't see why I should." "Neither do I, Gorgeous." THEY both laughed then, for no reason at all. Toby said, "I like your name—Tim. It seems to suit you. It sounds care-free and good natured and—"

DRAMA, COMEDY ANIMATE STORY OF QUINT FILM Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Country Doctor," now at the Connellee theatre, proves to be the "blessed event" of the year as it presents the five famous Dionne Quintuplets laughing, crooning and stealing your heart as motion picture stars.

It is a story bristling with drama, comedy pathos and adventure that presents these universally loved babies in their first feature length picture roles. Jean Hersholt is the hero, as the doctor who dedicates his life to a tooth-and-claw battle against pain and ill in a Canadian fur settlement.

Hampered by official red-tape, sorely in need of a hospital, he antagonizes the heads of his company, loses his position because of the enmity of the company manager. He answers one last call for his services, and to his astonishment brings five tiny mites to the world at one birth.

With a startling suddenness, the doctor finds his position reversed. He is the focus of world interest, he can demand and get everything he wants for his tiny charges. And, in the climax, the man who faced a lonely old age becomes the recipient of highest honors from the government.

Contrasted against the dramatic central plot are the comedy roles of Slim Summerville and John Qualen, and the youthfully tender romance of Michael Whalen and June Lang, all contributing to the story's entertainment power.

Henry King directed the picture, many scenes of which were photographed by a company dispatched to the quint's home in Callender, Ontario. The screen story of "The Country Doctor" was written by Sonya Levien and adapted from an original by Charles E. Blake.

Cooking School's Success Marked By Final Session

By Cooking School Editor Marked by the interest of women by which it was attended, the Eastland Daily Telegram and co-operating merchants' Kitchen Chautauqua closed a three day program at the Connellee hotel Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Johnetta Howard was lecturer for the series. The closing chautauqua marked the second consecutive engagement of Mrs. Howard here.

"I like Eastland and am well impressed by the great interest women showed in this school," Mrs. Howard stated Saturday. "The success of this school, much of which should be attributed to the cooperation of Eastland women, makes me want to return next year."

"I was particularly impressed with the attractive exhibits of all merchants," Mrs. Howard declared.

"While my chief concern is aiding women in making better cooks I also observed this year considerable improvement in your city's appearance. There is more optimism."

The Eastland Telegram also expressed appreciation to the Methodist church and Knights of Pythias organization for loan of chairs and to the Connellee hotel, where cooking school sessions were held, and its employees for their cooperation.

Here are some recipes Mrs. Howard left for benefit of Eastland housewives: Shoulder Lamb Crops on Casserole Lamb shoulder chops, 4 tbsps shortening, 1 onion finely chopped 2 cups canned tomatoes, bread crumbs, butter, salt and pepper.

Have shoulder chops boned and skinned into shape. Brown on both sides in hot shortening. Place in baking dish. Season with salt and pepper and finely minced onion and cover with tomatoes. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven 30 minutes until done—about 350 degrees.

Remove fell from leg of lamb. Wipe with damp cloth, rub with lemon and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place on rack in open roasting pan with skin side down and cut side up. If fat covering is thin, lay strips of bacon across top. Do not add water. Make an incision and insert roaster-thermometer so that bulb reaches center of fleshest part of muscle, taking care it does not touch fat or bone. Place roast in hot oven (500 degrees) and sear for 30 minutes or less if bacon has been added. When lightly browned reduce temperature to slow (300 degrees) and continue roasting at low temperature until done. The roast will be well done when thermometer registers 182 degrees, or slightly underdone at 175 degrees. Allow about 30 minutes per pound for roasting lamb.

Stuffed Tomatoes 1 lb. pork or beef (ground), 6 medium size ripe tomatoes, 2 eggs, 1 cup bread crumbs (stale), 1 tspn salt, 1 grated onion, 1 diced green pepper.

Boil ground meat with onion and pepper 1 hour with 1 cup water (slowly). Slice top of tomatoes off taking out seeds and juice with tenn. Combine with egg and bread crumbs and salt. Boil until thick. Add paste mixture to cooked meat. Stuff each tomato and place in baking dish. Bake in oven 385 degrees until tomatoes are tender.

Pork and Noodles en Casserole 2 lbs. ground lean pork shoulder, 1 cup drained cooked tomatoes, 2 cups cooked noodles, 1 medium sized onion diced, 1 tbs. spoon sugar, 1 medium sized green pepper, diced, 1-2 finely chopped American cheese, 3 tbsps butter, bread crumbs, salt, pepper.

Fry onion and green pepper in butter until onion is yellow. Add ground pork and cook, stirring from time to time until slightly browned. Add sweetened strained tomatoes, noodles and cheese. Season with salt and pepper. Pour into a baking dish and bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 20 minutes. When almost done, sprinkle with grated cheese and return to oven. Bake until cheese is melted and crumbs are browned.

Spanish Pork Chops Pork chops, cut thick; 2 tbsps shortening, 1 small green pepper, 1 medium sized onion, flour, 1-2 cup chili sauce, 1 tspn Worcestershire sauce, 1 clove garlic, 1 tbsps sugar, salt and pepper.

Have chops cut double thickness. Dredge with flour and brown on both sides in hot shortening in skillet which has been rubbed with cut clove of garlic. Remove chops and put in green pepper and finely chopped onion. Cook gently until tender. Then add chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce and sugar. Replace chops, dredge with flour and brown. Season with salt and pepper. Cover closely and cook slowly until tender—about 45 minutes. Serve with sauce.

Salad a la Leftover 1 pt. cooked chicken (diced), 1-2 cup asparagus tips, 1-2 cup peas, 1-2 cup chopped celery, 1-4 cup chopped pecans, 1 small bottle stuffed olives.

That Reminds Me

(Continued from page 1) was better and look forward to a gradual increase in all lines. A close relationship between the merchant and the consumer and an understanding of the problems of what and where to buy are the things that will do the job of making Eastland and surrounding community much better for all concerned. Its your town and our town, your community and our community. Give it all you've got and then some.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann seems to have a defender in the person of Governor Hoffman of New Jersey. Governor Hoffman has granted two stays of execution, and is now seeking an excuse for another one. Naturally it is not within the heart of any American to see an innocent man die. We are wondering why all these things are beginning to crop out now and were not challenged properly during the trial of Hauptmann.

Hauptmann has retained a stolid attitude as to his innocence. His only defense of having the ransom money on hand was that a "dead" man gave it to him. There is some conjecture as to why he would take that much money without knowing where it came from.

Hauptmann certainly knows more about the money than he has confessed to, and no doubt is staking everything on the instance of constantly declaring his innocence and denying any connection with the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby. There isn't much time left to do much about it if the execution is to take place. . . somebody has to work fast, because it is doubtful if any interference from the Federal government can be expected. The death of Hauptmann will close the case in his instance. If he is innocent, God knows it would be terrible to put him to death in the electric chair—but is he?

It will soon be April fool day. This is just a reminder for the unwary to be careful of the playful fellow who likes to fool somebody. Little white "lies" are mainly the background for April first pranks. In most cases they are innocent and harmless. . . nothing compared to putting a tack in the chair or pulling a chair from under an unsuspecting sinner.
