EASTLAND, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY EVENING, JANUARY 29, 1936

PRICE TWO CENTS No. 75

Scottsboro Case Adds Tragedy

PARTY LINES ARE SAGGING OVER NATION

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Traditional party lines were sagging and breaking today as political debate stormed the nation in prelude to the presidential nominating conventions.

Two presidential candidates bowed to the flashlight bulbs in the past 24 hours. Red suspended Eugene Talmadge of Georgia announced he would run against President Roosevelt on some kind of a Democratic platform.

Three Are Killed In School Bus

COALGATE, Okla., Jan. 29.—Three children and a driver were killed and six other children injured seriously today when the Tupelo school bus was wrecked in a ditch after sliding from an icy road. The bus was wrecked half a mile west of Tupelo. A light mist, followed by a freeze and snow early today, made the road treacherous.

Poll Tax Issuance Rises to 4,019

Poll tax receipt issuance of 157 Tuesday night at the tax assessor-collector office increased this year's total to 4,019. Issuance Wednesday was heavy. It was announced that deputies would remain at the office evenings through Friday if presence of prospective voters necessitated.

LETTERMEN OF RANGER HIGH GET SWEATERS

Coach O. M. Moore of the Ranger High School today made public the list of lettermen of the 1935 football team, with 19 receiving football sweaters for their activities of the past season. Of the 19 lettermen only six will return and several of these were not considered regulars of the 1935 team, but they will form the nucleus around which the 1936 team will be built. Returning lettermen are: Ira Sharp, tackle; Gates Barker, guard; Eugene Kribbs, back; Harmon Ainsworth, back; Walter Cox, back, and Jack Connell, back. Those who received letters, but will not be eligible during the 1936 season were Mellinger Jacoby, Dean Walsh, Everett Donoho, Jack Mace, Lemmie Bray, Durwood Hartin, Bill Goforth, Clarence James, Barcus Conason, Louen Barnett, Dick Fox, Roy Spinks and Rayburn Buntun. Jack Mooney, Jr., received a manager's sweater.

Tarleton is Adding Student Dormitories

STEPHENVILLE.—Provision for nearly 200 more students on the campus will be made at John Tarleton College before September, according to present plans of college authorities. Contract for a new boys' dormitory, to house 120 students, has recently been let and work will begin soon. The building will be of modern construction, with units of four rooms and private bath, and separate entrance for each suite. Construction on the annex to the girls' dormitory has been under way since September. With 28 rooms, the building will be fireproof, of reinforced concrete and brick.

HOUSING SHOW A delegation which included Secretary H. C. Davis of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce were in Fort Worth today attending the National Home Show, sponsored by the Fort Worth Real Estate Board and the Federal Housing Administration.

Italians May Start Concerted Advance

WITH SOUTHERN ARMY IN ETHIOPIA, Jan. 29.—The Italian armies on the Somaliland front pushed deeper into Ethiopia today, giving rise to reports a drive on Addis Ababa might be started.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS.—Snow in the north with rain or snow in the south portion. Colder with cold wave in north portion, except in Panhandle tonight and south portion tonight or Thursday. Lowest temperature zero to 16 in north and 16 to 22 in the south. Thursday partly cloudy and colder in the south portion. Livestock warning.

Fossils Show Lions Existed In Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska.—The climate and vegetation of Alaska 20,000 years ago were much the same as today, but the territory was the home of numerous species of animals that have long since disappeared, in the opinion of John B. Dorsh, field man for the American Museum of Natural History. Dorsh spent the past three years excavating fossils of animal and vegetable life in the interior of Alaska. He has obtained about 5,000 specimens for the museum. "Spruce, birch and willow trees flourished 20,000 years ago, and herds of caribou and moose roamed the plains as now," Dorsh said. "Wolves and bear also were present." But animals that since have vanished included great herds of bison, bands of horses, mastodons, mammoths, lions similar to those found in Africa and bears at least twice the size of the existing Kodiak bear, largest in the world. Dorsh believes all animal life became extinct, probably during an ice age, and that wolves, caribou, bears and moose, now native, migrated back. The scientist, graduate of the University of Alaska, found the specimens buried at depths of from 10 to 100 feet in the earth.

Come on Down to Texas Fete, Mrs. Garner Invites Mrs. F. R.

The second lady of the land feels that the first lady just must come down and see the Texas Centennial celebration, so here Mrs. John Nance Garner is extending the invitation to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to be her state's guest on June 6. The Garners are taking active interest in the celebration of their state's independence.

JUDGE GARRETT ISSUES CALL FOR MEET OF COUNTY HEADS TO DISCUSS RULES ON RELIEF

"Relief labor restrictions which prevent thousands destitute and in dire need from securing employment on works progress administration projects," resulted in announcement Wednesday from County Judge Clyde L. Garrett, president of the County Judges and Commissioners association of Texas, that a meeting of the group to discuss the problem will be held in Dallas at 10 a. m. Feb. 6 in the Baker hotel at Dallas. All commissioner courts in Texas will receive notices inviting members to attend, as well as members of the State Highway commission, Judge Garrett stated. The association head declared that many who have managed to maintain economic independence are excluded from employment on WPA projects because they have never been on relief. "In many counties of the state, lateral farm-to-market road projects are being held up and in many cases cancelled because of the relief labor restriction, and the state highway program is likewise handicapped. In some instances, important projects are having to be thrown out and wholly abandoned on account of the restrictions. "The view is held by some that congress may be giving serious consideration of the discontinuance of regular highway federal aid, or what is known as the Hayden-Cartwright grant. This, if continued, would mean about $7,500,000 to Texas, which if the state had to match, would aggregate about $15,000,000 for our state. This program if continued would not require labor to come from relief rolls and would provide employment for many of our people who are not on relief rolls."

DESDEMONA, Jan. 29.—A house a mile and a half from here on property known as the G. B. Barnes' place, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alton Claborn, was destroyed by fire Monday. The conflagration was blamed on a gas stove which Mrs. Claborn had ignited previous to leaving the residence, according to reports.

Loeb Slayer Will Not Give Testimony

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 29.—James Day, 23-year-old convict, who slashed Richard Loeb to death in prison here yesterday with a razor, refused to testify today at a coroner's inquest. Day declined to answer and then screamed: "I've been miserable ever since I've been here." He was led back to his cell, semi-hysterical.

Morton Valley will See Eastland Play

"Crashing Society," a three-act comedy, will be presented at the Morton Valley school Friday night by the Eastland High school dramatic club, members announced Wednesday. A feature of the entertainment will be an amateur contest in which a prize will be awarded. An admission fee will be assessed.

District Judge Remands Gorman Man To Jail On Refusal To Testify To Grand Jurors At Eastland Wednesday

District Judge George L. Davenport remanded W. W. Clark of Gorman to county jail Wednesday morning for his refusal to answer questions of grand jurors. Clark stated he planned no immediate action to obtain freedom through a habeas corpus hearing. "No," Clark answered when questioned as to whether he would alter his defiant attitude "because I done told them all I know."

AL REFUSES TO REPLY BUT DOES COMMENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Former Gov. Al Smith asserted today that Senator Joseph Robinson's attack was a feeble attempt to "becloud the issue" and that President Roosevelt himself was the only man "who should try to answer me." Smith issued a formal statement commenting on the Democratic senate leader's address last night in which Robinson charged Smith in the past had advocated the very new deal principles which he denounced so bitterly at the Liberty League banquet. Smith's statement follows: "Poor Joe. I'm sorry for him. They put him on a tough spot. He did the best he knew how, but it was no answer. As I said in my talk there is only one man who should try to answer me. "No, I won't make any reply to what Senator Robinson said, but I will say a few words about my old friend Joe. I was an unhappy warrior to hear him read a speech over which he stumbled so that I felt sure it was canned and did not come from the heart of the Joe Robinson I have known. "It's purpose was to becloud the issue and while I won't reply to him I want the issue cut clear. Of course I said I was for farm relief. I still am. In my Omaha speech in 1928 I proposed a constitutional and effective method. That doesn't keep the American people from rising up to protest against a silly and unconstitutional plan."

Navy Department Scored For Stand At Defense Meet

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The navy department's boycott of the women's patriotic conference on national defense, drew an attack by republican minority leader Bertrand Schnell on the floor of the house today. Secretary of Navy Claude Swanson only a few minutes before had expressed approval of the action of navy officers in cancelling speeches before the conference because Bainbridge Colby in a talk to the 1,000 women delegates, criticized President Roosevelt. Last night the Marine band, after preparing to play from the conference, received orders to pack up their horns and go home. Schnell censured the withdrawal of the Marine band from the conference as "abhorrent to the American people and their ideals."

Platform Is Prepared By TALMADGITES

MACON, Ga., Jan. 29.—The resolutions committee of the Democratic grass roots convention approved today a platform calling "on every patriotic American to aid us in wresting the government from the control of socialists and communists." It will be submitted to the convention late today. Following the leadership of Gov. Eugene Talmadge on virtually every plank, the committee recommended a program calling for a return "to the unfulfilled pledges made in the Democratic national platform in 1932." It will be acted upon later by the full convention. The platform included one paragraph which attempted to read President Roosevelt out of the Democratic party: "We do not regard the occupant of the white house as a Democrat. Since March 4, 1933, it has been practically a suspension of constitutional government in our country," it said. More than a score of delegates representing 14 of the 17 states invited by Governor Talmadge were on the platform when the meeting was called to order.

Pension Fund May Receive State Fund

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—Hope for old age pension funds other than receipts from liquor taxes, was seen today as State Comptroller George Sheppard filed a summary of financial operations for the fiscal year. The reports shows a total net gain in fund balances of $12,596,930. State receipts were larger than for 1934 and paid expenditures were less. Legal segregation of funds results in a continued deficit in the state general revenue fund and in the fund for payment of Confederate pensions.

Marble Board Case Rehearing Refused

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—The Court of Criminal Appeals held steadfast to its refusal to rule on marble boards in advance of local courts. A rehearing was overruled on application of Ben Overstreet for writ of habeas corpus. Overstreet was charged with illegal operation of a marble board in Dickens county.

Police and Students Injured at Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 29.—Nearly 100 students and 20 police were injured today in a three-hour battle in which police used ink sprays to disperse the anti-British demonstrators. Police finally had to use fire arms which set fire to the theological college.

Another Actress Will Wed Doctor

Another Hollywood beauty has chosen a doctor for her mate. She is Mae Clark, upper photo, who mixes writing of poetry with her acting. She has announced her engagement to Dr. Frank G. Nolan, screen colony physician, lower photo, who had been her escort for months.

Trustees, Patrons, Teachers of Schools Invited to Meeting

School trustees, patrons and teachers in Eastland county were extended an invitation Wednesday by County Superintendent C. S. Eldridge to attend a meeting of the Eastland County Teachers Association at the high school auditorium in Eastland Saturday. The session will begin at 9 a. m. and continue until noon. Assembly of the teachers Saturday will mark the first meeting of the association, which was formed by members of the county institute in Eastland Dec. 7. Officers of the association are W. T. Walton, president, Ranger; E. T. Dawson, vice president, Rising Star; H. Brandon, treasurer, Cisco; Miss Nell Waters, treasurer, Olden.

BITTER COLD WEATHER DUE FOR TONIGHT

Street pavements and highways were made dangerous with a coating of ice Wednesday as winter threatened a new foray into Texas expected to be the coldest this season. Normal temperature conditions were juxtaposed as freezing weather hovered near the usually warm gulf coast. El Paso, far inland had the warmest weather in the state with temperature of 46 degrees and rain. Weather forecasters advanced the prospects that rain would turn to snow by tonight, accompanied by a drop in temperature. Citrus orchards in the Rio Grand had escaped damage because of a steady drizzle and low-hanging clouds. The temperature at Houston Wednesday was 30, four degrees colder than in Abilene in northern West Texas. San Antonio which usually has the warmth of a winter resort, had a reading of 32 degrees and a cold drizzle that covered streets with ice and made driving hazardous.

AAA-Less Politicians in Pitiful Plight

Mr. Dooley once remarked cynically that the supreme court follows the election returns. Right now it looks as if the election returns might follow the supreme court for a change.

Which is to say that the distinguished jurists in black robes have tossed into the approaching campaign a bombshell which may blow some of our most noted politicians right out of the water.

Decision on a great constitutional question such as that raised by the AAA may take place in cloistered chambers, in an air of vast learning and judicial calm; but the effects of the decision are bound to be political, and a heart of stone might well bleed for the politician who, preparing to go into the coming presidential campaign as a stalwart defender of the New Deal, discovers suddenly that the ground has been cut from under his feet.

Observe his plight. What he has done is wiped out, and all the remedies in sight seem to be illegal.

As he contemplates the fix the court has left him in, he must be dying a thousand deaths. Something must be done for the farmer, but everything that is suggested is apparently either impractical or unconstitutional, in addition to being pretty expensive.

As a matter of fact, the whole nation is right back where it started as far as the farm problem is concerned.

This problem, in its essentials, can be simply stated. It is the necessity of finding a way to bring agriculture into line with industry on some basis which will give the capitalist who operates a farm an equal chance to survive and prosper with the capitalist who operates a factory.

This isn't a problem which we can laugh off by remarking that farmers are a cantankerous and complaining breed who are always yelling for help. The simple fact is that the farm population makes up something like a third of the consuming public in this country. If its income drops, trade and industry are bound to feel the effects.

Add to this the fact that the farmer is a producer who, if left to himself, is compelled to operate at capacity in the face of a falling market. Any producer who has to do that is bound to make an uproar about it, and a farm belt uproar is one uproar to which no politician is ever deaf.

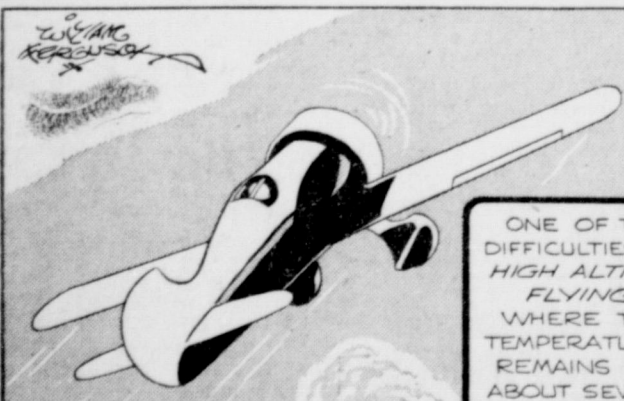

So we face a new presidential campaign with the old original farm problem as an added complication. What this will mean to the outcome of the race is something for the seventh son of a seventh son to glean from a crystal ball.

The one certainty is that this problem will demand a political solution, and will keep on demanding it until it is finally solved.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

ONE OF THE DIFFICULTIES OF HIGH ALTITUDE FLYING, WHERE THE TEMPERATURE REMAINS AT ABOUT SEVENTY DEGREES BELOW ZERO, IS KEEPING THE MOTOR COOL! THE COOLING EFFECT OF AIR DECREASES AS ITS DENSITY DECREASES.

The LOGGERHEAD TURTLE WILL LAY AS MANY AS ONE THOUSAND EGGS AT ONE TIME.

A YOUNG SNOW OWL, NOW IN THE LONDON ZOO, WAS CAPTURED ON SHIPBOARD, IN MID-ATLANTIC... 800 MILES FROM LAND.

ALTHOUGH high altitude flying affords many advantages, it also presents many problems. At an altitude of 50,000 feet, the cooling effect of air is only about 70 per cent of what it is at sea level, and, in spite of the fact that the pilot must use great precaution against freezing, the motor heats up readily in the rapid air.

PERFECT UNDERSTANDING

By HARRY GRAYSON

NO heavyweight in history, including the great champions, ever overshadowed his field as does the amazing Joe Louis.

The consensus is that Max Schmeling will lag no longer than two rounds with Louis in June and Jim Braddock no more than six in September.

Louis is only 21. The Detroit Negro has not yet shaved. He has been boxing professionally only 18 months. Yet before the year is out he may find himself with no more worlds to conquer. There are no bright prospects in sight.

Although he is just starting, the Brown Embalmer may be forced to retire, for a time at least, due to lack of competition, as did Jim Jeffries in 1904.

Jeffries whipped all of the leading contenders twice, but required 11 rounds to flatten Bob Fitzsimmons, who scaled 170, and, after the holler-maker copped the title, Tom Sharkey went 25 rounds and Jim Corbett 23.

Ol' Har' Willis never did get a crack at Jack Dempsey. When the Mau Mauler was at his peak it took him 12 rounds to dispose of Bill Brennan. Tommy Gibbons was on his pins at the conclusion of 15. Since he struck his stride, no one has won a round from Louis.

GENE TUNNEY might have further demonstrated his worth by tackling Johnny Risko or Jack Sharkey instead of retiring after cutting up and stopping the antiquated and hand-picked Tom Heeney in 1923.

Jack Johnson never was out of employment. L'il Arthur's record is studded with 20, 15, 12, and 10-round engagements.

Fitz, the freak hitter, refused Corbett a second edition, and lacked the tonnage to cope with a giant like Jeffries.

Corbett was too frail to combat rugged warriors of the Jeffries and Tom Sharkey type.

John L. Sullivan picked his spots and had his headaches in the bare knuckle days—before age, dissipation, and Corbett caught up with the once Boston Strong Boy in New Orleans.

Size enabled Jess Willard to assume command of and rule a lot of loonans. It was his good fortune to catch a financially embarrassed and harassed Johnson on the decline.

The champions—so called—who have reigned since Tunney don't belong in the same league with Louis, as the Bomber of the Buckleker showed when he pulverized Primo Carnera and which he will positively prove when he parks his short left hook on the dental work of Schmeling and Braddock.

Turner Collie is Candidate for County Clerk's Job

To the Voters of Eastland County:

I herewith announce my candidacy for the office of county clerk of Eastland County, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries.

I am very grateful to the people of this county for the confidence they have placed in me in electing me to a place of responsibility in the county, and it has ever been my aim to merit that confidence, and to render the very best service of which I am capable.

It has been my purpose to render the people of the county honest, efficient service, at the least possible cost to the county and if I have been successful in accomplishing this purpose it is not only because of my own efforts, but because of the whole hearted support and efficient and courteous service rendered by those whom I have selected to assist me in the discharge of the business of the office.

If you see fit to elect me to this office for another term, I shall continue to see that the affairs of the office are conducted in a courteous, business-like manner, and at the same nominal cost to the county. Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated. Yours Sincerely, TURNER COLLIE.

T. L. Cooper to Be A Candidate For County Judgeship

T. L. Cooper, who served the county as treasurer for two terms 1927 to 1930 and tax collector for two terms 1931 to 1934 announces today for the office of county judge in this issue.

Mr. Cooper has been a resident of Eastland County since 1906, and was born on the Comanche county line. When time for reelection came up in 1934 Mr. Cooper voluntarily retired with the public statement that he would not be a candidate for reelection for his office of county tax collector.

Since retiring from public office Mr. Cooper has been selling life insurance and dealing in cattle. Mr. Cooper states that when it was announced by County Judge Clyde Garrett that he would not seek the office of county judge but would announce for Congress of the 17th District, that he definitely made up his mind to seek the office of county judge.

Mr. Cooper's varied experience as a county official as well as his general business experience fully qualifies him to fill the office of county judge subject to the will of the voters of Eastland county.

Cooper stated today he would have a statement to make to the voters soon.

West to Celebrate Scout's Birthday

CODY, Wyo.—A celebration is being planned to commemorate the birthday of William (Buffalo Bill) Cody, famous old scout, Indian fighter and wild-west performer.

The town of Cody, Wyo., which took its name from Buffalo Bill, is sponsoring the birthday party, which will be held Feb. 26. Had Buffalo Bill lived he would have been 90 on that day.

The Cody Club, in charge of the program, has started an essay contest in connection with the celebration. The contest is open to any student attending a public or private school up to and including the eighth grade. The essays must be on some phase of the life or history of Buffalo Bill and 500 words is the limit.

Prizes will be given for the three best essays submitted.

O'Brien Outlines His Qualifications

The formal announcement of C. H. O'Brien, candidate for tax assessor-collector, was made Wednesday as follows:

To the People of Eastland County: About 60 days ago I announced that I would be a candidate for tax assessor-collector of this county, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries.

Our family has resided in what is now Eastland county more than 60 years. My grandfather and grandmother, C. H. and C. B. O'Brien, with their first baby, came to this section in 1874. Here they reared a family of eight boys and three girls. The family has been active in educational, civic and religious circles for these more than 60 years. I happen to be the first one in the family to ask for any office in the courthouse. I am not making this race on the basis of my family relationships, but feel that the voters are entitled to this brief sketch.

I am 32 years of age and married. I was born near Gorman, and have lived my life in this county. I have lived in several towns and rural communities of the county. I received my education in the schools of Eastland county, the Metropolitan Business College of Dallas, and am just finishing a two-year course in auditing and higher accountancy, with the LaSalle School of Business Administration.

I shall make the race on my own merits, and will offer you my experience and qualifications in return for your support. I have served in every capacity of the office, from office boy to chief deputy, and am thoroughly familiar with all phases of the work in both the assessing and collecting divisions. In addition to other duties, I have for the past few years been chief clerk in the automobile division.

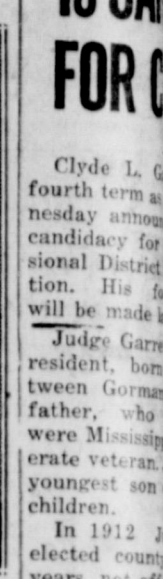

I shall endeavor to see and talk with every one personally, and I assure you now, that your consideration of my candidacy will be deeply appreciated.

If I am elected to this important office I will ever be mindful of the fact that the office belongs to the people, and that I am a servant of the people, hired to care for its duties in the most courteous and efficient manner possible.

Sincerely, C. H. O'BRIEN.

JUDGE IS CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY OFFICE

Clyde L. Gorman, fourth term county assessor, announced his candidacy for judicial District No. 10.

His father, Judge Gorman, was born between Gorman and Gorman, who were Mississippi veterans, youngest son of children.

In 1912 he was elected county clerk, and after several years, was elected county sheriff and county judge. Judge Gorman was widely recognized in the West Texas and Comanche County Judge Association, Texas and the County Judge Association, present head of the association.

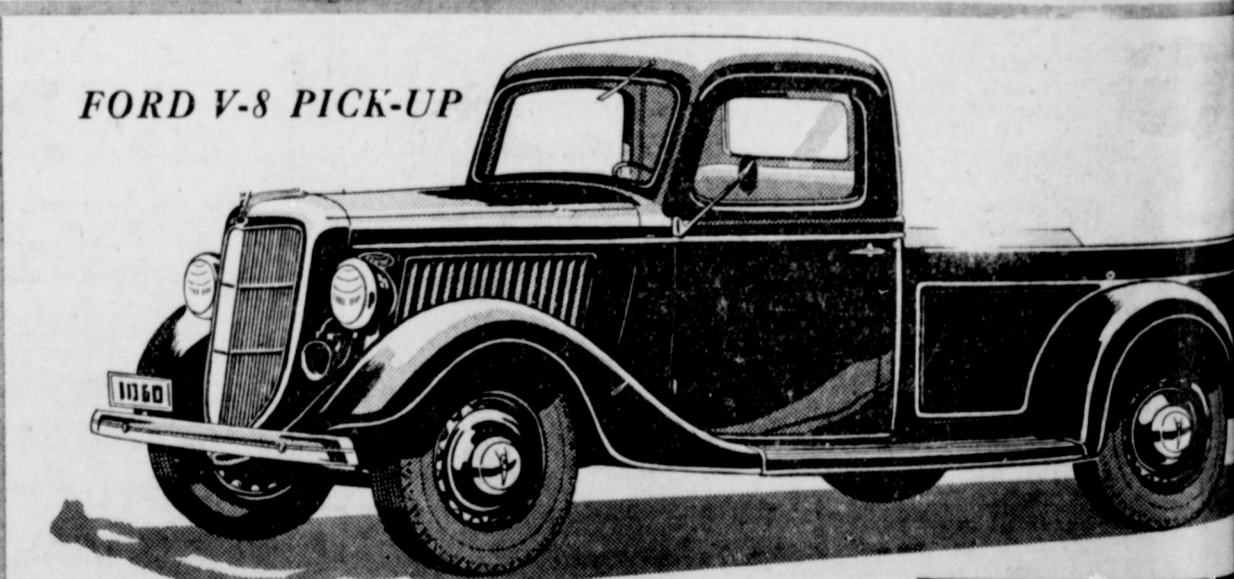

During his term as county judge, he has been operated. There have been county's obligations.

"A clean campaign" was his motto. He has maintained in his district are Hamilton, Jones, Shaekelford, etc.

That new "horse" has to be done team.

moving the cores from the huge piece of glass and have started checking over the crate and car in which the mirror will be shipped. The crate, lined with cork, will protect the entire mirror. The railroad car is nothing more than a flat car with a sunken "well" in the center to permit the 200-inch disc to slip under tunnels and bridges.

When crated, the mirror will be placed on edge, braced and counter-braced against vibration or shock en route. Three railroad lines will be used in shipping the mirror to Pasadena, Cal. The number of lines became necessary in order to provide ample clearance for the "eye" expected to reveal objects more than a billion light years distant.

HELPS PREVENT MANY COLDS

The STRANGE CASE of JULIA CRAIG

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JULIA CRAIG, pretty young secretary to GEORGE WOODFORD, lawyer, is ambitious to become a night club singer. JULIA shares an apartment with AMY SANDERS.

PETER KEMP, young lawyer, is in love with Julia but they quarrel and Julia declares she never wants to see him again.

Woodford gives a party aboard his yacht and asks Julia to come to sing for his guests, including CINTRA LEE, dancer; MISS JOSEPH, widow of GUY JOSEPH, and ROYAL NESBITT. Julia goes, later regrets it when she finds the cruise is to be much longer than a week-end.

The yacht lands at Evergreen Island, where Woodford has a lodge. Julia meets TOM FAYSON, camping nearby, who offers to help her get her job if he is discovered and forced to leave the island.

The men go hunting and Nesbitt is injured. Woodford's party leaves at once to get Nesbitt to a doctor.

Julia tells Woodford she is giving up her job in his office.

CHAPTER XIII

DINNER that night was not as difficult for Julia as she had feared after her angry words with Woodford. When Obo announced dinner and she met the others in the main cabin, Woodford was reserved but courteous.

Indeed, with the assistance of a tray of Obo's potent cocktails, everyone appeared jovial. Nesbitt's arm was in a sling to relieve weight from his injured shoulder muscles, but he laughed and joked in something like his old manner. He and Cintra sat together and Julia thought she sensed a new feeling between them as if since the "accident" had come to some definite understanding.

Nash seemed a bit morose and embarrassed, and Julia wondered why, perhaps, his conscience were as sensitive as last. Whenever Nesbitt addressed him Hugo Nash appeared surprised and timid. "He hates him," Julia thought, "and now that he's failed to kill him, he's afraid of him, too."

She was glad that tomorrow night she would be ashore, away from these five people with their loves and their hates and their obsessions.

SHE retired early that night, with the Wood Nymph's engines throbbing mightier than ever beneath the deck. Woodford had ordered full speed on and Bakel's was giving the power plant every thing it would stand and a bit more.

When Julia awakened next morning and peered through the port hole above her berth she saw with delight that the scenery on shore was more familiar to her. She knew that now they were not many hours from town, and she went to breakfast almost jubilantly.

Nesbitt's chair was empty.

"Many times afterward Julia was so remember that moment. It was curious that the sight of the empty chair should have startled her. It could have been that Nesbitt was late for breakfast—or that his arm pained him and he had decided not to eat just then. Yet somehow the sight of that empty chair and struck her with peculiar force.

Julia answered the four's good-mornings and sat down. She glanced toward Cintra and said, "Isn't Mr Nesbitt having break fast this morning?"

Cintra did not answer, but raised her eyes oddly toward Woodford. And it was Woodford who answered Julia's question. "I was just telling them, Julia. We put Nesbitt off at Condon last night. There's an airport there and his plan was to take a plane into town and get immediate attention for his wound."

"Oh..." Julia fumbled uncertainly for her grapefruit spoon.

"Let's hurry through breakfast," Mrs. Joseph broke in. "There's a beautiful stretch of shoreline along here and we don't want to miss it."

When they had gone out onto the deck and Julia had an opportunity she sought Cintra Lee. "I hope Mr Nesbitt's shoulder wasn't growing worse."

The dancer looked at her. "So I. Julia, I can't understand why he didn't let me know he was getting off at Condon. But perhaps he thought of it on the spur of the moment and didn't want to wake me."

SHE offered Julia cigarettes and they lighted them quickly in the breeze. "You know," said Cintra, tossing the match over the rail. "I think I've a job for you when we get back to town."

"You mean singing?"

Cintra nodded. "Would you want to work for Tony Latta?"

"I'm afraid I don't know him. But I'm sure I'd like to work for him."

The Lee girl laughed. "Better not jump too fast, Tony Latta runs a gambling ship."

"A gambling ship?" repeated Julia.

"There's a law against gambling in this state. The gambling ships stay offshore so as to be legally outside the state and the customers get back and forth in water taxis. Latta has one of the biggest and he gets a wealthy class of trade."

"But what would I do on a gambling ship?"

"You'd sing," Cintra told her. "That's what you want to do isn't it? Latta has a small cabaret aboard and I happen to know he's looking for talent. You'd have a stateroom aboard."

"I—I don't know whether I'd like that," Julia confessed.

"Oh you could come ashore in one of Latta's boats whenever you weren't working. And you don't have to be afraid of Tony. He's hard boiled—but he knows a decent girl when he sees one and leaves her alone. You can take my word for that." Cintra looked at her sharply. "Think you'd be interested? It's not much of an offer, but it's a start."

Julia thought a moment. Yes, it was a start—and she no longer had a safe job.

"It's a go," she told Cintra quickly.

The dancer smiled. "Good!... and I'll see that some influential people get out to Tony's ship to help you. I know how this entertainment game works, Julia. I'll whisper it around that there's a girl out on Latta's boat who's an unknown winner. You'll get an offer in no time."

It was after 6 when Julia's taxi rolled to the curb before the building in which she and Amy Sanders shared an apartment. Scarcely able to wait until she could talk with her roommate, she paid the driver and hurried upstairs. She had hardly touched her key to the lock when Amy opened the door and conferred her with something like a shriek of relief.

"Julia!... Julia I've been frantic! Where on earth have you been?"

Laughing, Julia came into the room and tossed her bag on the davenport. "I've been to Evergreen Island, if you know where that is."

"I don't. You've had me in a tummy! I telephoned the newspapers to see if they had any reports of private yachts going down, and even phoned the yacht club—and they told me there was no record of the movements of smaller pleasure boats which was very comforting. I must say! What happened to you?"

"Nothing," Julia told her, "except that Woodford decided to go on a hunting trip."

Amy settled herself on the davenport. "Tell me all about it. Who was with you?"

"Well..." Julia hesitated, deciding that it would be better not to mention Nesbitt. She had never been sure just what Amy felt toward Royal Nesbitt, despite Amy's cocky assurance that she liked him merely as a friend. "There was Woodford, of course, and a widow—a Mrs. Joseph. Then there was a girl named Cintra Lee, and an architect—Hugo Nash."

"Is that all?"

Julia nodded. "That's all." She unbuttoned her jacket and the throat of the sweater beneath. "I'm dead tired, Amy. I'll tell you all about it in the morning. But if ever I—"

The insistent buzzing of the telephone interrupted her. Nervously Julia took up the instrument and answered the ring.

It was Cintra Lee. "I've just talked with Tony Latta by 'phone," she said. "He wants you to start tomorrow night. Can you make it?"

"Why yes, Cintra."

"Good. He's expecting you." She gave Julia instructions as to how to get to Latta's gambling ship, then hurriedly said good-by.

"Who was that?" Amy wanted to know when Julia had replaced the instrument.

"It was Cintra Lee—the girl on the boat."

"What did she want?" asked Amy.

"She wanted to tell me that I have a new job beginning tomorrow," Julia hesitated a moment. "I—I'm not working for Woodford and Brooke any more. Amy, I'm going to sing on a gambling ship."

Stamps on Sale Mar. 2

Authorization of the advance sale was given by Postmaster General James A. Farley. Booth said the Gonzales post office was expected to have a record business on March 2.

Warren Taylor, local philatelist, said that more than $15,000 worth of Boulder Dam Stamps were sold on the first day they were placed on sale, and that the first day's sale of commemorative stamps had never been less than 175,000.

Many local clubs and official Postmaster General Farley to place the stamps on sale a day early in Gonzales. A petition was sent to Farley containing the following historic facts concerning the city's importance:

1. The first shot for the Independence of Texas was fired in the Battle of Gonzales, Texas.

2. The first battle flag of Texas was made and unfurled at Gonzales, Texas.

3. A new battle cry was given to the world when the Texans defied the Mexicans with the cry, "Come and take it."

4. Thirty-two men from Gonzales responded to the call of Travis and perished in the Alamo.

5. The first Texas army was organized at Gonzales with Stephen F. Austin in command.

The second army of volunteers, the one which conquered Santa Anna at San Jacinto, was organized at Gonzales under General Sam Houston.

The new stamps will be the same size as the current special delivery stamp, arranged horizontally, printed in purple ink and enclosed in a double oval at the left and right and a reproduction of the Alamo at the center will be central designs.

Townsendites May Form Own Party

AUSTIN, Those of the "Ins" among the state's politicians are hoping fervently that the Townsendites will decide to launch their own party with separate candidates in the 1936 state elections.

The decision likely will be made at a state-wide meeting of Townsend Club representatives arranged to be held in Austin next week.

If the Townsend plan supporters should decide to fight inside the Democratic Party, there will be much consternation among prospective primary candidates.

How ambitious are the plans of the new voting group was indicated this week when they launched a candidate in opposition to Congressman James P. Buchanan of the Tenth Texas District, who happens to be chairman of the appropriations committee of the House of Representatives—the man who holds the money bags.

The national aspect of this race may easily lead to the Townsend Plan leaders furnishing sinews of war for the campaign.

If the Townsendites decide to stay out of the Democratic primary, many prospective candidates will breathe more freely. With the Townsendites in a separate party, they would not have to be reckoned with until November. There will be a division of the present pressure being exerted. This pressure has become acute. Baptist Training School
Opened Monday
The advanced Baptist Training Union methods which form the studies of the Baptist Training School, opened Monday evening under favorable auspices by those in charge, headed by the pastor of the church, Rev. Fred C. Eastham.

Prior to the class formation, supper is served at 6:30 each evening. The supper Monday was by under direction of Mrs. Bouchillon.

The first class period 7:15 to 8 p. m., opened with an inspirational address by Rev. Eastham on "The value of Baptist Training Union in the Church."

Twenty-one students have enrolled and the same number in the second period class, 8:20 to 9 p. m., also in charge of Rev. Eastham.

The intermediate book, "Messengers of Light," taught by Mrs. E. E. Layton, opened with an address by Mrs. Layton to the 16 members enrolled.

The junior and intermediate leaders manual, taught by Mrs. Fred C. Eastham, had an enrollment of eight on Monday.

Mrs. Frank Lovett teaches the junior manual, with 16 enrolled in class.

"Touring Story Land," taught by Mrs. L. R. Burnside, has 10 enrolled in the primary class.

Speakers announced for the inspirational period, present Rev. Fred C. Eastham, on Monday; V. T. Seabury, Tuesday evening. To night the school is to be combined with prayer meeting service and the speaker to be arranged for.

On Thursday evening, Grady Owen will give the address, and Friday the inspirational period will be occupied by Carl Springer.

There was an enrollment of 70 students Monday.

First Meeting of New Church Classes Held
The first meeting of the recently organized circles of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held Monday afternoon in the homes of members.

Mrs. P. L. Crossley was house hostess Monday to The Builders, with session opened by their chairman, Mrs. M. H. Kelly, in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. J. Frank Sparks.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Sparks.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Kelly of the appointments by Mrs. Sparks of the secretary-reporter, Mrs. J. Frank Davis; treasurer, Mrs. T. M. Collier; finance committee, Mmes. Frank Crowell and Ed F. Willman; telephone committee, Mmes. D. J. Jobe, T. J. Haley, and pianist, Mrs. W. W. Kelly.

The program opened with the vocal, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," Mrs. Howard McDonald, with Mrs. Haley at piano. Devotional, "Light," from the scripture text, "Let Your Light So Shine," Mrs. Ed F. Willman. The program closed with vocal duet, Mrs. I. N. Griffin and Mrs. P. L. Crossley, and a piano solo by Mrs. L. R. Perkins.

Refreshments were a variety of iced cakes and hot tea by the acting hostesses.

Present, Mmes. T. M. Collier, W. W. Kelly, T. J. Haley, M. H. Kelly, R. L. Perkins, Howard McDonald, D. J. Jobe, I. N. Griffin, J. F. Davis, Ed F. Willman, Frank Crowell and P. L. Crossley.

Christian Churches Circle
Holds Meeting Monday
The Winning Workers, a circle of the Women's Council of the First Christian Church, held its session in the church auditorium Monday. It was an all-day meeting.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon.

The work in hand was the setting up of a quilting. The members take orders from others and

Womens Missionary Society
Baptist Church
The Bible study session of the Womens Missionary Society of the Baptist Church was held Monday afternoon in the church classroom. The preliminary period was opened by the president, Mrs. Clyde L. Garrett.

A hymn, ensemble, and prayer by Mrs. R. A. Lerner, prefaced a business statement of the committee, Mmes. E. E. Layton, W. B. White, and Carl Springer, that they had purchased the dishes for $95 and the silver at $30 for the church dining-room needs.

It was announced that the business meeting of the society will be held next Monday in the church.

A lesson on the life of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, was given by Mrs. Eastham.

Mrs. Jess Barnett
A. F. K. Circle Hostess
The A. F. K. Circle of the Womens Council of the First Christian Church met at the home of Mrs. Jess Barnett Monday, worked on quilting orders, and had a covered dish luncheon at noon.

The long table was surfaced in pink linen and centered with pansies. Menu was fried and baked chicken with dressing and gravy, hot vegetables, a salad, pickles, jelly, cake and coffee.

A quilt was finished at this session, and the group met again yesterday at Mrs. Barnett's and started a second quilting order.

After luncheon the devotional was conducted by Mrs. Louis Pitzer, chairman of the circle, and prayer was led by Mrs. Rhoda Webster, closing with the ensemble singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Present, Mmes. C. A. Peterson, J. A. Beard, Jess Barnett, K. E. Hancock, Sam Johnson, J. H. Cannon, Fred Maxey, J. T. Haynie, E. E. Wood, H. B. Mook, R. F. Wynne, L. L. Gattis, Bert Beatty, Louis Pitzer, Rhoda Webster; guests, Mrs. K. C. White, Misses Madge Rowe and Jessie Ruth Barnett.

Men luncheon guests were J. A. Beard and Rev. W. A. Richardson.

Mrs. Frank Castleberry
Entertains G. G. Circle
The G. G. Circle of the Womens Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Frank Castleberry Monday afternoon. Mrs. W. A. Keith, chairman, and Mrs. W. F. Davenport were co-hostesses.

The session was opened by Mrs. Keith. The devotional was led by Mrs. Iola Mitchell on "The Good Samaritan." Prayer by Mrs. C. H. Smith and assembly singing of hymns led by Mrs. J. F. Little closed this period.

Mrs. Keith announced the appointment of Mmes. J. P. Hearn, Frank Castleberry and W. P. Leslie as telephone committee.

Mrs. J. F. Little was elected secretary-treasurer of the circle.

It was voted to have a "white elephant" sale at each circle meeting, and this was inaugurated when a set of tea towels, donated by Mrs. Castleberry, were auctioned off by Mrs. Little.

A Valentine motif prevailed in the tea plate of red tinted congealed fruit salad, with whipped cream topping, red iced small cakes, white and red mints, and coffee, served by the hostesses who were assisted by little Wilma Keith.

Personnel, Mmes. R. E. Sikes, T. M. Johnson, Wayne Jones, C. Metz Heald, Iola Mitchell, H. L. Hassell, W. A. Keith, J. F. Little, C. H. Smith, W. F. Davenport, Elizabeth Pettit, and Frank Castleberry.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

THIS time of year, interesting desserts can be made from four to six ingredients. An old-fashioned cake that is particularly delicious uses jelly in the cake batter to produce an unusually fine flavor and tender texture. I used regularly to raid my neighbor's brown cake crock for this when I was ten.

Cetta's Jelly Cake
One cup granulated sugar, 1-2 cup butter and other shortening mixed, 1-2 cup sour milk, 1 cup jelly, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon soda (Cetta emphasized this when she wrote the recipe), 1 3/4 cups flour (Cetta had it "2 scant cups"), 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg, 1-4 teaspoon cloves.

Save white of one egg for frosting. Cream shortening and beat in sugar, beating until sugar is dissolved. Stir in 1-2 cup flour and the jelly. Mix and sift remaining flour with salt and spices. Add half to cake mixture, stirring to make smooth. Add eggs well beaten. Mix well and add remaining flour. Dissolve soda in sour milk and add at once to mixture, stirring just enough to mix well. Turn into an oiled and floured cake pan and bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) Cover with boiled frosting made with the white of egg saved for this purpose.

This is Cousin Lou's jelly roll cake. She used to make it for luncheon in the proverbial twinkling of an eye.

Cousin Lou's Jelly Cake
Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, 2-3 cup milk, 1 1/2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, pinch (1-4 teaspoon) salt, until light, beating in sugar and milk. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder and beat into first mixture. Pour into oiled and floured oblong cake pan. Bake fifteen minutes in a moderate (375 degrees F.) oven. Remove at once from cake pan, turning cake upside down on a damp napkin sprinkled with powdered sugar. Spread with a thick layer of jelly which has been beaten with a fork. Trim off crisp edges and roll up. Wrap the napkin around the roll and let stand until cake is cool. Cut in slices across roll to serve.

Jelly Rice Pudding
One cup jelly, 1 cup rice, 1 cup milk, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon butter, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 2 table-spoons sugar, 1 teaspoon granulated gelatin.

Put milk, sugar, butter, salt and rice in top of double boiler and bring to the boiling point. Cook over boiling water until rice is tender and dry. Soften gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water for five minutes and dissolve over boiling water. Add to 1 table-spoon jelly which has been melted and stir carefully into cooked rice. Turn into mold and let stand on ice for several hours or overnight to chill and become firm. Unmold and garnish with remaining jelly. Serve plain or with whipped cream or with a custard sauce, depending on the amount of nourishment the dessert must furnish to balance the meal.

Humanity May Bring Prosperity To Texas Business

By United Press

DALHART, Tex.—Development of individual character and business humanization will lead the United States within 20 to 40 years into the greatest prosperity it has ever known, declares R. L. Foster, field representative of the Southwestern Division, United States Chamber of Commerce, of Dallas. The country "needs more God in business," he asserted.

He cited a Texas factory making a famous shortening as an illustration of "humanizing." When a man goes to work there he is required to put away part of his salary so that at the age of 60 he can start drawing a competence of 80 per cent of his average wage, or the first five years the company matches the employee's contribution dollar for dollar. After that the company puts up five dollars to the employee's one, Foster said. The system is similar to life insurance.

If after a number of years an employee falls victim to a "slicer" who says "with my brains and your money," etc., he can quit but cannot obtain a refund of his savings, because when he went to work he "signed away his right to be a chump," Foster explained.

When the man who quit becomes 60 his money is paid to him at the rate of 80 per cent of his average salary for the time he worked. If a person works until he is 60 he gets his 80 per cent wage as long as he lives even though in some cases the money required might be more than had been put aside for that purpose.

This "humanization" will see employer and employee working together for mutual benefits—not one working for the other as now. This shortening factory, Foster says, "does not have to bar labor agitators. The employees throw them out."

As the principal optimistic sign for the future Foster cited the fact that "a greater number of persons than ever before are thinking." Those who think they are thinking are still in the majority, he admitted, but the thinkers are growing.

"People who think," he continued, "do not have depression headaches. They plan their work, work their plan, prepare carefully and can proceed in an even manner."

Confusion, the "jitters," the elevator boy wondering what stocks to buy instead of wondering if he could afford roast beef for Sunday dinner, brought on the 1929 debacle, he declared.

"I feel a lot more optimistic now than in 1929," he said, "because people are thinking soberly."

He admitted the unemployment problem was not solved but said research by every industry would help. "When an industry can put out a better product than it is doing now, demand will broaden and more men will be needed for production. This will start the employment cycle and increase buying power."

He set a 10-game limit, the teams sacrificed warm-up games in order to play inter-sectional opponents.

WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Behind the investigation of West Virginia's silicosis horror is the hope that the doom of the Gauley Bridge tunnel workers may be dramatized so effectively as to safeguard the lives of thousands more who face the perils of occupational disease.

The parade of "walking dead men" who breathed the fatal silica dust while drilling the tunnel and who have been summoned before Congressman Vito Marcantonio's House labor sub-committee to tell their story has a serious purpose.

Many other men, still strong and healthy, are exposed to equal dangers, according to Marcantonio, for a huge labor surplus in this country forces workmen into the jobs which they might be able to spurn in normal times.

First, Marcantonio—who is responsible for the inquiry—hopes to induce the Department of Labor to appoint a board of three to make an exhaustive study with the aim of future prevention.

PERHAPS, Marcantonio says, the harrowing tale of Gauley Bridge will make the country "silicosis-conscious" and state legislatures will make silicosis a compensable disease under workmen's compensation laws. Only five states now do so, he says.

State laws providing safeguards would avert repetitions of Gauley Bridge. According to Marcantonio, silicosis is a hazard in mining, ore milling, stone and cement quarrying, slate-splitting, cement manufacturing, stone-crushing, and silica grinding, in emery works, tele-mills, abrasive wheel manufacturing, abrasive paper or cloth manufacturing, and deep excavation work.

On such jobs—including government jobs hired out to contractors—men at the end of a week were said often to owe more to the company than they had in their pay envelopes. And at Gauley Bridge, according to testimony, after the job was over and men began to find they and their dead comrades were silicosis victims, "the company" burned the shacks in which many still sought to live.

LITTLE can be done for the survivors from the 2000 men who drilled the mountain and its silica bed and who, according to many charges, are victims of disregard for human safety.

If you like, you may send a pair of shoes, some clothes, or some food to the Gauley Bridge Relief Committee at Gauley Bridge, W. Va., and the recipients will be appropriately grateful, because they're not in very good shape to rustle their own.

Southwest will be Known Over Nation For Grid Contests
By JAY WELLS

DALLAS.—Football teams in the Southwest conference, raised from comparative obscurity to national prominence by the sensational showings of Southern Methodist and Texas Christian fall, will be familiar to spectators in all parts of the nation next season. The seven teams in the conference have booked a total of 20 inter-sectional games definitely, with one other tentatively scheduled.

Since the conference has recently set a 10-game limit, the teams sacrificed warm-up games in order to play inter-sectional opponents.

League officials decided that last year's programs, which gave practically every team 12 games, and two of them 13, was too hard on the players.

Rice Institute has arranged the toughest schedule for 1936. Besides meeting the other six league members, Rice will play Louisiana State at Baton Rouge on Sept. 26; Duquesne at Pittsburgh Oct. 3; Georgia at Athens Oct. 17; and George Washington at Houston on Oct. 31.

Southern Methodist, which won 12 games in 1935 before losing to Stanford in the Rose Bowl contest, will play Fordham at New York City Oct. 10, and Vanderbilt at Dallas, Oct. 17. The latter game will be interesting from a personal angle, as Ray Morrison, the Vandy coach, was chief mentor at S. M. U. for several years, while

Are you a STRANGER in your own home

It's a funny thing—but most people don't half own homes. We pass by both the fine points and places that need fixing, without a glance, without thought.

Yes, we all do this—until some day we decide around and really discover the place we live in—and dull it looks. And there's a rough place where the cat sharpens his claws. The little rug in the hallway is gaged and frayed. (Why, that's a disgrace!) And the top certainly must be done over. The mantle is positively bare, since Ted broke that lovely good-looking stand to hold them.

You see the point. Lots of little things need doing. And it doesn't take lots of money to do them, it just takes time . . . just make a list of what's needed and then watch the advertisements in this newspaper for good buys at low prices. Now's a fine time to get the sorts of good things for the house, things you need, without spending too much.
