Galloway, Woods Elected, Adamson Leading

JAMSON HAS SLIGHT LEAD OVER OPPONENT

Returns from County Come in Early To Give The Trend of Vote

On the basis of unofficial returns from Eastland county, E. O. Thompson leads in the race for railroad commissioner. McDonald leads for agricultural commissioner, Clyde L. Garrett leads over Thomas Blanton of Abilene, Cecil Lotief T. L. Ross but lost in the district, R. V. (Rip) Galloway was elected county clerk and Loss Woods was elected sheriff, while in county judge's race the count very close, with Judge W. S. Adamson maintaining a slight lead over the state returns from the Election Bureau indicated easy victory for Col. E. O. Thompson in the railroad commissioner race and J. E. McDonald leading by a wide margin over the state returns for agricultural commissioner.

GARRETT'S FRIENDS NOT AWED Congress Race Climax Seven Elections AT VICTORY OVER T. L. BLANTON

Friends of Clyde L. Garrett weren't surprised Saturday night at his apparent victory over Representative Thomas L. Blanton, veteran of many campaigns and 17th district congressional representative known nationally for his fieryness. Garrett's friends have pointed all along to the fact that the Eastland county judge had been in seven campaigns and had each time come out on top. Garrett was born 50 years ago in a log cabin that still stands near Gorman in Eastland county. His father, W. V. Garrett, a Confederate soldier wounded in a battle during the Civil War, was a county commissioner and justice of the peace for 25 years. One of Clyde Garrett's first jobs was as a railroad section hand. He attended Hankins Training College at Gorman and later taught school. After teaching school he went into bookkeeping and insurance work. Later Garrett served as a deputy in the county tax collector's office, the sheriff's office and the county clerk's office. Judge Garrett was elected county clerk in 1912 when he was 27. He was elected to that office three times. After the county clerk service,

Judge Garrett became city manager of Eastland by popular request. For a period before the city manager Judge Garrett was in the banking business. In 1928, Garrett was elected as county judge, the office which he has held since that time. As county judge he was elected president of the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association, and subsequently named president of the state association. His term in the latter organization is unexpired. Judge Garrett, who was one of 11 children, is married and the father of five children, ranging in age from 22 to 4. He is a member of the Baptist church, Masons, Knights of Pythias and the Lions club. Friends of Judge Garrett say that the county judge's democracy is reflected in the fact that he has never been known to be too busy to see anyone. Recently a newspaperman sought Garrett and after waiting his turn in a long line, inquired: "Judge, what kind of a meeting are you having today?" "There's no meeting. It's just the usual number of citizens who come to see me on personal and county business, every day."

Judge W. S. Adamson of Ranger, who, on the basis of almost complete returns Saturday night, with Tudor and Dothan the only unreported boxes in the county.

County Clerk

R. V. (Rip) Galloway, with a lead of almost 1,000 votes, was elected to the office of county clerk over Turner M. Collie Saturday.

Elected Sheriff

Loss Woods, for a number of years a deputy in the office of the sheriff, who was assured of election to the position of sheriff of Eastland county Saturday.

BIG LEAD IS PILED UP BY EASTLAND MAN

Carries Blanton's County By 300 Votes and Losses But One County

With almost complete returns tabulated from all of the 12 counties of the 17th congressional district, County Judge Clyde L. Garrett was assured of election to congress Saturday night. Figures tabulated shortly before midnight from the 12 counties, seven complete, showed that Garrett had a total vote of 32,971 against 17,939 for Thomas L. Blanton, his opponent and congressman from the district for the past 18 years. Counties which were complete were Comanche, Erath, Nolan, Palo Pinto, Shackelford, Stephens and Taylor. A tabulation made at Abilene by the Abilene Morning News indicated that Blanton would likely carry only one county of the district, Shackelford, while he was running neck and neck with Garrett in Hamilton county. Garrett carried Blanton's home county of Taylor by 300 votes, while Garrett carried his own home county by 5,259 to 1,907, with only two small boxes to be heard from. Ross Elected from 107th District By 338 Vote Majority Farley Denies He Endorsed Tom Blanton. An unexpected telegram, presumably sent to Abilene by national democratic chairman James A. Farley, endorsing the re-election candidacy of Rep. Thomas L. Blanton, provided excitement Saturday in the democratic runoff primary. Blanton, a stormy figure in congress for 18 years, was opposed by Former County Judge Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland. As voters in the 17th district balloted Saturday, Blanton demanded that the sender's signature on the telegram to Washington be checked, denying knowledge that the telegram was to be sent by Farley and insisting he had not solicited the national chairman's support. The mystery telegram was received and printed by the Abilene Morning News. After it had been read at a Blanton rally in Abilene and Sweetwater Friday night. NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—James A. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee, today said neither he nor anyone connected with him had any part in sending a telegram purporting to give his support to Rep. Thomas L. Blanton in the runoff election against Judge Clyde Garrett. Farley said flatly he knew nothing about the telegram until it was called to his attention Saturday. "I left New York yesterday (Friday) at 4:30 p. m. and went to Hyde Park where I spent the evening with President Roosevelt. I know nothing about the telegram and nobody connected with me, either secretaries in my office or any one else had authority to send such a message, nor did they send it." Farley reiterated strongly his policy of taking no sides in democratic primaries. "I have not taken and will not take any part in senatorial or congressional democratic runoffs," he said.

Bad Car Lights Lead Ills When Safety Lane Held. Two hundred and thirty-seven motorists' lights were found defective Friday when a safety lane was conducted by the Department of Public Safety at Eastland. One thousand, one hundred and four automobiles passed through the lane established on North Lamar Street, and 364 of the number had defective equipment. One hundred and fifty-five automobiles owners reported to the officers later Friday and got a "clean bill of health" for their vehicles. Other motorists are to report to Eastland Police Chief W. J. Peters as soon as possible. Of the automobiles tested, the following had defective equipment: brakes, 161; mufflers, 8; lights, 237; horns, 64; steering gears, 12; windshield visibility, 72. Captain Hamm of the Abilene district office was in charge and was assisted by patrolmen Myers, Posey, Guynes, Thomas and Moran, all of the Abilene office, and Patrolmen Bradford and Howell of the Wichita Falls district. The Department of Public Safety patrolmen were assisted by Chief Peters and Officers Reeves and Sparr.

Dionne Record Broken, But Five Are Dead. MENDON, Mo., Aug. 22.—The news that Mrs. Adeline Speichinger, 36 year old mother of 10 living children had given birth to sextuplets, 13 days ago, brought scores of visitors to this quiet rural community today. Only one of the babies, a rosy-cheeked 10 pound girl, lived. Five others were stillborn and weighed less than a pound. Dr. W. B. Lucas, 80-year-old country physician, who refused to be impressed by the feat that almost went Mrs. Dionne one better, said quietly: "The five might have developed perfectly and survived had Mrs. Speichinger been in better health."

Sales of Arms to Spain Are Discouraged. WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The state department is actively discouraging sales of American war materials to Spain by advising manufacturers and exporters that such sales would be contrary to the government policy of strict non-intervention, the state department revealed today. An optimistic manifesto predicted the fall of Cordoba and the beginning of an offensive against Oviedo, key point of the southern and northern campaign. Barcelona dispatches reported successes in the Aragon country southeast of Zaragoza, in north-east Spain. LONDON.—The Spanish government, hard pressed by rebels at home and Nazi-fascist powers abroad, made a gesture of major importance today by renouncing any rights that it might have to search British ships on the high seas. Further it was announced officially the British and Spanish governments are discussing the position of British vessels actually inside Spanish territorial waters inside the three-mile zone as measured from the shore-line. ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 22.—Gov. Floyd Olson, former labor leader fighting for his life at Mayo Clinic, was refreshed today after "a good night."

Taming of Mississippi Still a Boon to South

NEW ORLEANS, La.—One of the dramatic triumphs in the history of early American engineering was accomplished by James Buchanan Eads—who tamed the mighty Mississippi, made it do everything but jump through a loop, and calmed the rolling billows of a turbulent Gulf of Mexico. For over 150 years, mud prisms swept down the "Father of Waters in a collection of sediment from all parts of the Great Central Basin, had clogged the Mississippi River channels at the mouth. New Orleans, one of the greatest seaports of the world, suffered an immeasurable decrease in imports and exports as United States engineers harrowed, blasted, and hurried steam-driven propellers over Mother Nature's welcome contribution of channel-blocking material in an effort to keep the passage ways open. Only eighteen feet depth was possible, even when the laboring engineers struggled tirelessly and succeeded in removing all of the foreign matter from the bed of the river. Disgusted at the inability of experts to cope with the situation, the legislature turned to other means as a bill passed in the House of Representatives, appropriating $8,000,000 to begin a canal with varied locks and dams from Fort St. Philip to Breton Sound. The action, in 1874, resulted from a hue and cry raised by merchants, feeling the conspicuous effects of hampered trade due to the blocked river corridors. Forty-seven ships were prevented from docking in one year because another vessel was grounded in the pathways on a mudbar, caused the activity among legislators. New Orleans merchants waxed enthusiastic as prospects of federal aid in building and proposed canal made its way South. Then, suddenly as the breaking of a shoestring, James Buchanan Eads, the unheralded and unpublicized hero who was to electrify the entire world's supply of engineers, announced calmly: "I can make the Mississippi River channels have a depth of 28 feet." Engineers and citizens, alike, scoffed at the utter incredibility of this startling plan—which would not only give the river 10 additional feet in depth, but would make it a whole foot deeper than the proposed canal with all its new-fangled locks and dams. "Who is this Eads person?" indignant observers wanted to know. Thumbing back through available informative sources, they were amazed to find out that he was a plain, ordinary civilian—sans a degree in instruction in engineering! A mere grocer boy who delivered (Continued on page 2)

Astor Burlesque Ends With Sane Decision

So the great Astor case has been settled at last. Miss Astor and Dr. Thorpe share part-time custody of their child, and the judge gets full-time custody of the famous diary; in the interests of public sanity, one hopes that he hangs onto it like grim death and guards it as he would his life.

The whole dreary case was a mess from the start. The one ray of light in it was the fact that the judge, sharing the disgust felt by his fellow citizens, finally stepped in and peremptorily told the warring parties to work out a compromise.

The judge apparently realized something that neither Miss Astor nor Dr. Thorpe seemed to have any glimmering of, namely, that the important thing at issue was the question of the child's future.

If the lawsuit could not work out some means of safeguarding whatever the youngster's dotting parents had left of her happiness and her chance to grow up to a normal, happy womanhood, it was worse than useless.

These persons had already been divorced. The court was hardly concerned with any trysts the ex-husband may have had with nurses, girl friends, or whatnot, or with any romantic moments whose ecstatic overtones the actress confided to her diary.

Those things may have made entertaining reading for the keyhole section of the public; but the community does not pay out its hard earned money in taxes to support legal arenas for the staging of Pier 6 grudge fights.

Yet that was precisely what the case became. Glancing at the day-by-day reports of the trial, it was very hard to believe that either the plaintiff or the defendant was thinking very much about the best interests of the little girl whom they had brought into the world.

They were out for blood, and there were times — a dozen or so every day, by a conservative estimate — when it looked as if any handful of mud would do if it only would stick to somebody's garments.

As the thing was going, who stood to gain by it? Not the litigants, certainly; at the rate they were showing each other up and showing themselves up, unconsciously, they were doing to the reputations things that will be a long time in the forgetting.

Not the general public; it could have gained the same result much more easily by sticking a feather down its throat.

And not, certainly not, the little girl over whom the row ostensibly was being waged.

The judge had the right idea, and his fellow jurists might profit by his example. For a judge is not put in charge of his court merely to be a referee over a brawl. He is there in the interests of the public as a whole; he is there, more plainly, to see that justice is done.

There is many a child custody case like this one which ought to be choked off very quickly.

One thing more. The judge gets the diary. Since he lives in southern California he may not have a furnace in his house, but he must have at least a fireplace; and we hope that he builds a hot fire in it, lays the diary on top of the burning logs, and lets Nature take its course.

After a bystander pulled a gun, King Edward rode on calmly. But anyone who would keep on riding a horse, after his experiences, wouldn't mind a mere bullet.

A Spanish noble is looking for a throne. If he comes to America, he might some day be king, which Rev. Gerald K. Smith hopes to make every man.

British specialists reveal city people are taller than country people. This constant flattening out by automobiles has a tendency to stretch one.

A party of French scientists is seeking a tribe of Eskimos "hitherto untouched by civilization." Bue we thought all Eskimo tribes were peaceful.

A Pittsburgh wife charges her husband insists on sleeping in the room in which she and her friends played bridge. Still, they might stoy talking about hats.

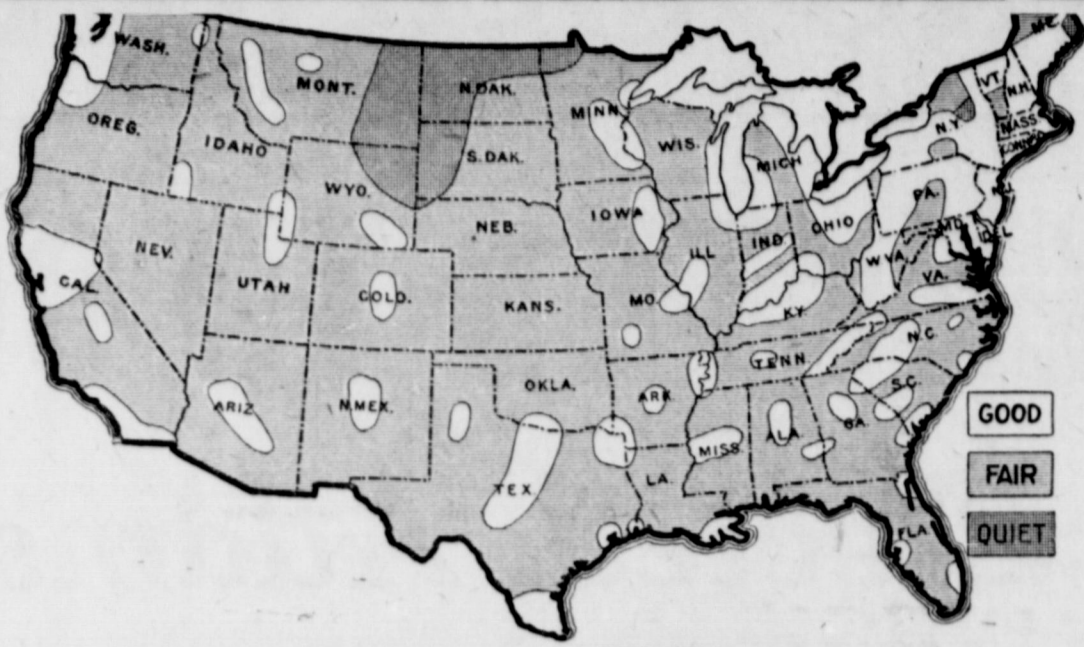

A Clevelander is in a hospital after suffering a dizzy spell and falling down a hotel staircase. The clerk might have broached the size of the bill more gently.

A columnist says Governor Landon is in a state of sincerity. Any minute now Farley will claim it.

We were wondering about the silence out of Italy lately, until we realized that since Mussolini fired the three Duces from the cabinet, they probably aren't talking.

Things certainly have changed. Scientists now reveal ants live riotously, and western farmers are learning that grasshoppers are not exactly shiftless.

In recently ordering "walking fish" from the tropics, America was a bit premature. Fish in what were mid-western lakes soon will get the knock.

This map represents business conditions in every state of the Union as shown in September, 1936, issue of "Nation's Business" official publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

July showed little of the traditional mid-summer slackening in trade, industry or speculation, despite the heat and drought. Some rain fell but too little to save some wheat and oats and much corn. Private crop estimates, except of cotton, ended lower. Food prices responded sympathetically. Wheat early passed $1 in all markets, and Chicago corn futures reached that mark July 31. Industry continued active, steel and its products leading with output at about the year's peak. Automobile production surpassed expectations. Electric power output made new records. Lumber production and shipments gained, reflecting expanded building which surpassed 1935 by 80 per cent and was the largest since 1931. More freight cars were on order on July 1 than at that date since 1929. Mining was active. Carloadings were only slightly below the peak of last October. Furniture trade reports were good. Cotton mills were active. Copper buying was heavy.

The Map

A slight shading of surplus grain crop areas but a similarly small brightening in industrial sections seems indicated as of August 1.

The Barometer

The Barometer of Business Activity for July was at its highest point since September, 1930.

Garrett Attributes Loyalty of His Friends for Congress Race Victory

County Judge Clyde L. Garrett, who was elected to congress from the 17th congressional district, Saturday night issued the following statement:

"I am deeply grateful for the overwhelming majority which my friends have made possible by their work and loyalty in the runoff campaign.

"I have learned the value of friends and what their loyalty means to a man. The people of this district have shown a faith in me which is deeply appreciated and which I shall endeavor to merit by the work and service I shall strive to render them.

"This majority of 15,000 votes overwhelms me with gratitude and in humbleness of spirit and a deep abiding faith in the goodness of my fellowman, I approach my new task with a willingness of spirit and a strong determination to render the best service within my power to all the people of this congressional district and the nation.

"Toward those who did not see fit to support me in this race I hold no ill feeling, but pledge my friendship and best efforts to serving them as well as my most loyal supporters.

"My heart is filled with gratitude to each and everyone who contributed in any way to my victory. It is your victory as well as mine."

Americans Are Stuck In Mexico By Landslides

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22. — Five hundred Americans are marooned in the Villa Juarez, with food getting scarce because of floods and landslides on the Pan-American highway from the Texas border to Mexico City, it was reported here today.

An American named Ross telephoned to Mexico City from Villa Juarez, about 170 miles south of the United States border, reporting the plight of the Americans.

ed into the secrets of engineering books between chores, who later took a job as pursuer on a river steamboat. He, at that time, was head of a steamboat wrecking organization. Eads let them recover from the original shock and then set their astonished tongues wagging again with:

"If I succeed in my plan, you are to pay me the sum total of $10,000,000; but, if I fail you don't owe me a red cent."

Folks up in St. Louis swore by Eads because he had constructed a 520-foot span over the Mississippi there after 28 of the country's leading civil engineers have deplored the impossibility of such a feat; New Orleans, on the other hand, swore by the proposed canal because of its advisability by state engineers; everybody joined in swearing at Eads for proposing "ridiculous" jetties — structures extending into the water used as a pier, or mole, to direct currents in a stream—for the powerful Mississippi.

Nobody but James Buchanan Eads seemed to think that the Mississippi wild, rampaging activities could be harnessed — even with "Eads' jetties." A board of engineers, created to study the navigation problem, accepted the jetty principle and offered Eads $5,250,000, plus $100,000 annually for 20-years maintenance, turn for a 30-foot channel. South Pass. The board, up its sleeve at their Scott estimated privately that it would cost a minimum of 110.

"Take it or leave it," he dared when Eads pleaded more considerable offer took it, while such notable Major C. W. Howell, not engineer, asserted that it would be unsuccessful.

Eads drove his men in to solve the problem of the largest volume of work completely man-handled. In 1879, South Pass had a channel nearly 31 feet in depth the its entire length. Moore had deepened the potent Mexico beyond the bar.

Into the creation of the had gone 616,226 cubic willow mattresses; 11 board feet of lumber; 99.8 yards of concrete and rock; tificial banks much stronger those Mother Nature had ed. The jetties were at the plete—as immobile as the Rock of Gibraltar.

The great day for Eads October 31, 1879, as the Bristow, drawing 24 1/2 feet, boomed through South pushed upstream carrying that James Buchanan Eads his "ridiculous" jetties had the mighty Mississippi, all but jump through a bar.

Gentlemen:

I have just returned from a two weeks' trip in which I covered more than 4800 miles and I am so well pleased with the performance and economy of my new Ford V-8 that I want to tell you about it.

Our car, a Fordor Sedan with Trunk, accommodated seven of us on this trip which took us through the mountains of Colorado, Wyoming and into Washington State. On the return trip there were nine of us and we came back through Salt Lake City and Denver.

On this trip we passed over six of the Rocky Mountain Passes and we marveled at the ease at which the car took these steep grades and the rare intervals at which we bought gasoline, for upon our return, by dividing the total miles traveled by the total number of gallons of gasoline bought, we found that we had averaged over 18 miles to the gallon for the entire trip which I think is unusually good considering the load we carried and the roads covered.

The car has given us perfect performance and I am well pleased and proud of my new car.

Yours very truly

BRUCE BARTON

Ceaseless hammering on the same spot helps win prize fights . . . it is the essence of advertising success. Not until enough individuals in the same neighborhood have been sufficiently saturated with a certain slogan, say, to cause them to react on one another does advertising become a social phenomenon.

The modern business man realizes that his best customers wear out at a rate of nearly 3 per cent a year. Advertising-made prospects disappear far faster. Casual impressions, however favorable, dry like dew in the heat of competition.

"Cumulative" effects of advertising come not from one advertisement paving the way for another. This is negligible, to say the least. Cumulative effect, on the contrary, comes from salvaging as customers half-finished prospects.

Each advertiser is in much the same plight. If he quits successful, he loses money. If he quits unsuccessful, he tosses away an equity in public recognition far more valuable than the money: So many thousand partly manufactured customers. The second group are spending as little money as they can and still keep their names before the public. They believe themselves wise spenders because they spend so very cautiously—or perhaps reluctantly is a better word . . . THE BALD TRUTH IS THAT THESE RELUCTANT SPENDERS ARE, AS A CLASS, THE REAL OVER-SPENDERS IN ADVERTISING!

OUR NEW CONGRESSMAN

ALF M. LANDON SPEAKS AT HIS FORMER HOME

By United Press WEST MIDDLESEX, Pa., Aug. 22.—Gov. Alf M. Landon stood at the scene of his birth today and called upon Americans to cling courageously to "our determination to win security and abundance without sacrificing any of our precious heritages of freedom."

"Let us not surrender to any counsel of despair," the republican presidential nominee said today in an address lashing the "unstable men" by whom "the American way of life is being challenged."

Landon spoke to 75,000 persons scattered on Tam o' Shanter golf links to hear the home town boy launch his eastern campaign for president.

In the first major campaign speech of his tour across more than half the nation, Landon lent emphasis to his belief that the spirit and system that built a great nation will forge ahead to build an even larger America in the future.

Time and again he struck at those who would raise "doubt and distrust" of the nation's future under the traditional system.

He pointed to two problems: 1.—The "remedy for unemployment is not a permanent dose," he said. "Of course relief must be continued as long as the need for it exists. The American remedy for unemployment is real work at good wages. It is clear that limitation of production and destruction of crops is not going to provide this kind of work." 2.—The remedy for monopoly, he said, "and for special privilege is to do away with them. This must be one of our first objectives. One of the chief causes of our economic difficulties is the tendency of monopoly to fix prices and retain special privileges."
