CHINESE ARE REPORTED TO BE GAINING UPPER HAND OVER JAPANESE

SHANGHAI, July 28.—China's great cities were rejoicing today on reports Chinese were hurling back Japanese.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The Chinese embassy today reported official advisors from Nanking stated that Chinese troops "have been gaining the upper hand in all sectors" in hostilities with the Japanese.

PEIPING, July 28.—War between Japan and China raged in the Peiping area tonight while foreigners gathered in legation quarters for protection behind handbags and the guns of their national troops.

An American Marine, Julius Flizsar was shot by mistake by the Chinese as he herded American refugees into the United States embassy compound, where 250 Americans are being protected.

Similar foreign defense precautions were taken in Tientsin. The major battling was in progress south of Peiping.

The Chinese Dragon, its patience, lashed back, at last, against the invader and a showdown fight for possession of North China was in prospect.

China's fighting spirit was aroused and the Chinese jubilantly announced important victories outside Peiping. The Japanese, on the other hand, insisted their modern war machine was prevailing against the Chinese, some of them fighting with the ancient, two-handed sword, against machine guns and artillery.

All reports indicated great slaughter. The Japanese announced they had "virtually killed the 38th Chinese division."

Savage fighting proceeded at half a dozen points and fighting persisted throughout the day.

Advices from Nanking said that 39 Chinese war planes had left for Peiping.

Japanese asserted they were winning, but Chinese reports differed radically and the continued fighting gave evidence that any victories were won dearly.

It was reported that one Japanese bomber was shot down and the Chinese destroyed an important bridge on the Peiping-Tientsin Railroad, delaying Japanese reinforcements and cutting off a possible retreat.

In Peiping, where thousands of foreigners and 1,500,000 Chinese were crowded, strict martial law prevailed.

Homer Wright, who was an occupant of the car, was slightly bruised and scratched, while Geo. Cox, the other occupant, was more painfully, but not seriously bruised and cut. Yeager was reported to have been uninjured, and his car did not overturn.

The other well, to be drilled by J. L. McMurray heirs et al, will be the second on the L. V. Edgington land, two miles south of Cross Cut, R. V. Milliken survey 142, Brown county. The 1,500-foot well will be 220 feet from the north and 2,123 feet from the east lines.

The jury commission of 91st district court has selected names of 80 citizens for service two weeks of the tribunal's August term beginning Monday.

Forty names were selected for service the seventh week of the term beginning Sept. 13 and a similar number for the eighth week beginning Sept. 20.

Jury commissioners were Frank Lovett of Eastland, Hugh Childers of Rising Star and Frank Morrow of Gorman.

STILL IN SESSION Members of the 91st district court grand jury were in session Wednesday for the third day this week. They are expected to make their final report of the June term this week.

AMERICANS IN CHINA WARNED OF AN ATTACK

HONG KONG, China, July 28.—Reports were received here today that Japanese army authorities at Peiping had advised the American embassy guard that they might be forced to bomb Peiping.

British authorities at Peiping, the report said, protested to the Japanese embassy, against the Japanese army's failure to give notice of their "war" on Peiping.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—President Roosevelt is keeping close watch on the Chinese-Japanese situation, with special interest in the safety of Americans marooned in Peiping.

There is a possibility the president will cancel his usual weekend cruise to watch developments.

Delayed Games' Slate Is Given

The schedule of games postponed by rain and other activities since start of the softball season, was announced Wednesday by Chief A. W. Hennessey of the Fire Department which sponsors the Eastland field.

The four highest teams in the league, according to percentage will compete in the playoffs. No 1 team in percentage is to meet No. 3 team in three games and the winner meet winner of the three-game series between No. 2 and 4 team. The championship also will be of three games.

July 29—Games between girls' teams. July 30—Texas Electric vs. Methodist and Iron and Metal vs. Hi-Y.

Eastland softball games are still discussing a game played by the Hi-Y club team of Eastland against a DeLeon team recently.

Troy Taylor pitched for the Eastland team in the 2 to 1 battle in which he struck out nine. There was no error. Twelve fly balls were recaptured, and there was no putout at first base. Each side got four hits.

Tackling the Problem of Men and Machines

The report of the National Resources Committee on unemployment as related to the invention of labor-saving machinery, shows once more how vitally these problems concern us all.

The day is definitely past when we can let these things take their course and simply hope for the best. We must look ahead and plan, and we must try to solve the problems intelligently.

To do it we must first understand the problem, and the gathering of knowledge about it is now conceded to be a government function because the problem affects everybody.

What we are up against is something like this: Population has grown so much that industrial production would have to be 120 per cent of what it was in 1929 to cut unemployment down to what it was then, even if the same kinds of machinery were being used now as then.

But we have put in use a great deal of labor-saving machinery during that time, so industrial production really would have to be far greater than 120 per cent of the 1929 figure to take up the slack. Not only that, but new developments such as the photo-electric cell, the mechanical cotton picker, plastics, and indoor chemical growing of crops may still further cut down the available jobs.

These new developments usually provide new jobs, but making men who have been cotton pickers all their lives into skilled employes in a plastic factory is not so easy. There is always a long interval of adjustment during which many men go without jobs.

This is not only bad in itself, a stalking terror for the men displaced, a reduction in their purchasing power, but it is also a concern of all other men because we now know that such displaced men must be fed and clothed and housed at public expense. Thus the problem concerns everybody.

Who then is to attack the problem? Why, the only agency in the country that represents everyone—the government. And its first step is to learn all that may be learned about the problem. That is what the National Resources Committee is attempting to do. Its findings will enable every federal and state official and legislator, every teacher, every journalist, and every citizen, to understand more clearly the problem that we face.

Gathering knowledge of what must be done is the first step. How to apply that knowledge is the second, and usually the more difficult step. But the second step can scarcely be effectively negotiated unless the first has been securely taken.

As government becomes more complex, the need for intelligence grows clearer and more insistent.

Every step toward clarifying an understanding of our pressing problems is a forward step.

New Equipment of Fire Department Saves House Today

The new 400-gallon booster truck of the Ranger Fire Department, now-considered the most valuable piece of fire fighting equipment ever purchased in the city, was credited today with saving the home of Dr. B. H. Hodges on Spring Road.

Mrs. Hodges was burning trash in an incinerator at the rear of a one-room storage house at the rear of her home this morning about 9:30 when the store room caught on fire. She backed her car out of a nearby garage and turned in the fire alarm.

The booster truck responded, and though the Hodges house was beginning to catch on fire the structure was saved. Had it been necessary to string fire hose to a fire plug, it was stated after the blaze was extinguished, it was very doubtful that the house could have been saved. As it was very little damage resulted.

The booster truck, since its purchase late in May, has already saved property valued at several times the cost of the truck and it has extinguished every blaze that has started in the city, without the use of the other equipment.

This is the second instance where houses at a distance from fire plugs have been saved by the truck, which carries its own water supply and a pump to throw several large streams of water.

CHAPTER XII

TUESDAY: "Morning, girls,"

Cal said when he came into the kitchen this morning, and I knew by the deliberate way he started to shove tobacco into his mouth, that he had news for us.

"Guess everyone will be happy now around the lake . . . the Township Committee . . . announces that Serene Shores will be closed."

Seth Broadshaw found out that there was some crooked work over that deal, and he's got his property back; but he's giving it to the Township for the benefit of all his old neighbors and friends."

"Too bad I won't live here after I'm married," said Tess. "I sure would enjoy sitting on the porch looking at the lake. Any other news, Cal?"

Clearing his throat, he said, "Had lots of excitement last night."

"Yes, you went to the movies, didn't you, Cal?" Tess said.

"I did, but it was when I was going home that I was almost scared out of a year's growth."

"Goosh, Cal, what happened?" Tess demanded.

"Well, I was coming past Serene Shores . . . saw a couple of cars in front of the clubhouse . . . It was late in the afternoon, and I stopped in to see some folk after the show and we got talking . . . saw the clubhouse door open and that young fellow—his picture was in one of the magazines."

"You mean that famous designer, Roger Brough?" Tess said.

"Yes, that's the fellow I mean. Well, he came out with another man—a heavy-set short fellow, and that pretty girl folks say he's going to marry. He opened the door of a swell limousine, and helped the girl in . . . she didn't want to go though after the show and he kept talking to her."

"After they got in the car, the girl looks out and says, 'Join us in Boston, Roger . . . I've got the tickets.' But the man speaks real snooty-like. 'You can't do that . . . you've got to stall them off . . ."

we got a poor one . . . after we got into the car . . . about counterfeit money . . . I looked at it . . . showed a little . . . he figured it was his own . . . turned it over to the West of the Bank."

"You did, Cal?" Tess asked.

"I wonder, but had to hustle and arrange the flowers, then I decided if I was ever going to do anything about Jigger the sooner the better . . . started out towards the haunted house . . . passing the cabin, I noticed that Tad and Peter were in their lookout tower . . . Peter seemed terribly excited."

"Look out," I called "or you'll fall."

"Oh, Joy, want to see something?" he cried, craning his neck in the direction of the haunted house.

"Haven't time," I answered, as I hurried along.

A moment later Peter was at my side. "Are you going to the haunted house . . . let me come with you . . . please!"

"No, no, Peter . . . you know you promised—'Suddenly echoes of rifle fire shattered the stillness of the woods.'"

"That's just what I thought . . . I was sure it was Eb Tuttle and some other men who were at the haunted house . . . Tad and I saw them go . . . come on back to the cabin . . . you can see everything from the tower . . ."

"I knew it wouldn't stand for my weight; but I knew that when the sound of firing reached Cal's ears he would be along instantly. I might as well go back. It was Tad who got into the tower first."

"They've got 'em," he cried excitedly. "The policemen have their guns on them . . . one man's on the ground . . . they're bringing stuff out of the house . . . oh, there's a huge dog like a wolf . . . he's leaped on one of the policemen . . . now Roger's slinking away . . . standing beside Jigger . . ."

Not knowing what would happen next, I took the boys back with me to the teahouse. Cal was down in the thick of things for Eb had tipped him off about the raid. It wasn't till nearly lunch time that Cal appeared with full details . . . the police had arrested all the men, though Jigger had been shot and wounded in the attack.

"Well," he finished, "that clears up a gang of counterfeiters and I guess I had something to do with their capture . . . remember that bill I told you about, Miss Joy?"

Q. Under what circumstances was Dawson's men massacred?

A. When Gen. Adrian Woll's cavalry of 400 men was forced to retreat from San Antonio in September, 1842, it encountered 53 men under Capt. Nicholas Dawson, recruited at LaGrange to go to the relief of San Antonio. These were surrounded and after a fierce fight forced to surrender. They were disarmed and massacred, only two escaping, Gonzales Wood of Fayette county, and Aisey F. Miller of Gonzales.

Q. How were Capt Aaron B. King and his men captured and killed?

A. With a company of 20 men Capt. King was sent by Col. Fan-to escort a number of families from Refugio to Gonzales on the approach of Gen. Urrea's army. Failing to return, Lieut. Col. William Ward and a larger force went in search of King's men and met the Mexicans, defeating them in an engagement, but for greater safety retired to the Refugio mission, where King and his men joined them. King and 15 men escaped from the mission and started for Goliad to join Fannin, but were overtaken by the Mexicans March 14, 1836, and all were killed.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY HARRY GRAYSON Sports Editor, NEA Service

EXTRAVAGANT guesses often are made as to how far a man drives a golf ball, and like fish yards, they frequently are amplified, dependent on the narrator.

The fantastic tales about Laverne Moore, alias John Montague, were striking examples, although they should have been thrown out in the first place, if for no other reason than that they came from Hollywood.

Some tremendous distances were recorded shortly after the old gutta-percha pellet was discarded.

R. Bliss is reported to have blasted a shot 445 yards from a tee elevation of 50 feet at Herne Bay, England, in August, 1913.

Swinging to modern golf, Sam Snead won the United States Professional Golfers' Association long driving championship at the Pittsburgh Field Club this spring with a best ball of 324 yards.

Big and blond Craig Wood hit a tee shot in the British Open of 1933 which came to rest 430 yards away.

That Wood's phenomenal poke will stand a lot of beating in any company was demonstrated in a contest billed as being for the North American title and held the other day in conjunction with the General Brock Open at Niagara Falls, Ontario.

THE result was that from now on it should require plenty of sales talk for any golfer to convince listeners that he swatted a ball more than 350 yards, let alone a 300-yarder.

For the Niagara Falls competition was staged in an ideal setting and under perfect conditions, and was won by Jimmy Thomson, generally considered the hardest hitter extant, with a colossal tee shot which measured 355 yards.

Thomson's average for 10 drives was 347 yards.

It would be difficult to locate a better site for a long driving contest than the first tee at the Lookout Point Golf course, a few miles from Niagara Falls. The hole measures 420 yards and the commanding elevation of the tee, 146 feet above the green, assured additional distance.

ARTHUR KEELING, home professional, anticipated a 350-yard drive by Thomson or some other Babe Ruth of the woods.

All of the leading American professionals, exclusive of Yankee members of the Ryder Cup team, participated in the Niagara Falls contest. The competition called for 10 smacks, with three drives, being held in the morning to put the strongest 20 in the main event.

Stucky Ed Oliver of Wilmington looked like chief claimant when one of his morning efforts carried to the 372-yard mark, for Thomson was far below that in the qualifying round.

Thomson's shots had to loom past the 350-yard mark, for Oliver and Johnny Bulla of Chicago were ahead of him with totals that indicated trouble.

Henceforth, the man who hits a ball 250 yards or thereabouts should feel like nothing else but a very ordinary citizen.

Sport Glances. . . . . By Grayson

BY HARRY GRAYSON Sports Editor, NEA Service

CLEVELAND—Grand Circuit owners, trainers and drivers who have watched Stephen Gabriel Phillips school their horses to it solemnly believe that he has the solution to tedious scoring in his moving barrier.

The Phillips moving barrier is to be given every opportunity, for the walking start, sponsored by the Trotting Horse Club of America, did not appear to be the long-sought panacea when tried out at the Roaring Grand's inaugural meeting in Toledo.

And the men who stuck to the trotters and pacers through a number of panicky seasons, during which delays caused by false starts threatened to permanently destroy the sport, are eager to give the new generation the zip it demands.

Phillips, a ruddy, bespectacled, open starting standardbred for 20 years, got his big idea from watching horses line up for newsreel cameramen.

They seemed contented, seldom failed to remain in line, and usually made a good start. The newsreel truck in the middle of the track gave the horses and drivers something to line up to.

JUST as quickly as the newsreel truck left the track, and the sulkes came to the post for the regular start, there was plenty of trouble. Horses as a rule came down all out of line.

So Phillips had his "gate" set on the rear end of the chassis of an automobile.

It consists of two wings, which gives the entire contraption a width of 58 feet. This is wide enough. It will take care of a 70-foot strip, the wings reaching to within three feet of the inside of the track and to within 10 feet of the outside. The wings are operated by a small motor and, through foot movement, the starter has control of them as well as of the car.

When ready for a start, the horses go up the track about 200 yards. The moving barrier is backed up to them, the starter unfolding the wings as the device approaches the field.

The starter then starts off the car at about six miles an hour. As the horses line up in their proper positions in back of the barrier, the speed of the car is increased. The truck continues down the track, gradually increasing speed.

ABOUT 50 feet from the wire, Phillips shouts and signals "Go!" He pushes a button to make the wings fold to the side of the car, an assistant at the wheel takes charge of the acceleration, drives the machine to the extreme outside, and the race is on.

Most of the difficulty in scoring has been due to horses turning and scoring too fast, leaving some behind.

The faster a horse scores the more likely he is to make a break, or go off his stride.

As the trouble in the past has been that horses were too scattered, and it was hard to get them together and turned at the same time.

The wings of the Phillips moving barrier prevent rival horses from rushing ahead of the pole horse.

With the Phillips moving barrier in vogue, the horses have to be together before they can start down for the score.

The Phillips moving barrier may well keep the trotting horse game together.

MARCH OF TIME OPENS AT NEW LYRIC TODAY

The new March of Time, out this month, deals with the Hawa-ian Islands and their bid to become the forty-ninth State in the Union; the Rockefeller family, their many philanthropies and New York's famed Rockefeller Center; and an appealing story of today's 300,000 orphaned infants, their institutional care and methods of adoption.

Interesting and documentary film fare, "The 49th State?" is a forthright commentary on the pro and con arguments on Hawaiki's proposed Statehood. The proponents are shown arguing that, while all native-born Hawaiians including 100,000 Japanese shoulder such burdens of U.
S. citizenship as paying federal taxes, they are denied many of its privileges, among which is the right to vote in a national election.

But opposing the plan to raise the Islands from Territorial status are two powerful groups—first, the U. S. army and navy who fear that Statehood would deprive them of their power over the Islands as a key base in the national defense; and second, those who harbor an instinctive distrust of the Hawaiian-born Japanese. Even without this political significance, the picture would be well worth seeing, for here on the screen are all the factors—both scenic and military—which have made the Hawaiian Islands both the Paradise and the Plans For Annual Fair Are Topics

At Eastland Meet

Plans for the eleventh annual Eastland county fair at Eastland Sept. 16-18, were discussed by members of the executive and enertainment committees Wednesday morning at a meeting in the Eastland Chamber of Commerce.

Attending were General Cham-berman Ed T. Cox, Sr., C. J. Rhoads, Carl Johnson, Home Demonstration Agent Miss Ruth Ramey, Mrs. E. E. Layton, Leo P. Stanbaugh, T. E. Richardson, E. Harrison, J. W. Miller and Secretary of Chamber of Commerce H.
Tanner, all of Eastland.

With the national birthrate declining 20 per cent in the last ten years, the third episode, "Babies Wanted," reveals a growing demand in the U. S. today for adopted infants. How they are adopted and the manner in which they are cared for before adoption in such institutions as the famed "Cradle" in Evanston, Ill., is the theme of this deeply interesting story.

Particularly newsworthy is the expose of commercial "baby farms" and the Child Welfare League's current campaign for adequate and uniform state adoption laws to safeguard the quarter of a million prospective sons and daughters now in the care of social workers.

Even with the adoption of this

There was a time
—when old fashioned heating methods blistered your face while your back shivered.

But now . . .
with natural gas service winter can be just another pleasant, healthful season in the modern home.

A timely reminder

The tag end of summer warns that treacherous days of winter are on the way.

Do you remember the old days? Old-fashioned methods of heating . . . children wore heavy underwear and long stockings in order to keep warm . . .
members of the family "huddled" in one or two rooms during cold weather . . . mother went shivering about the house with a shawl around her shoulders . . . someone was always "catching cold" — Remember?
There is a direct relationship between your family's health during winter months and the way you heat your home.

Sudden changes of temperature during the treacherous months of cold weather are dangerous. If you follow the old-fashioned practice of "huddling" in one or two rooms while the rest of the house remains unheated — YOU ARE TAKING CHANCES WITH YOUR FAMILY'S HEALTH. Plan now to have adequate heat and healthful temperatures in every room in the home this winter. It's the modern way to fight the "common cold."

The cold germ is responsible for more than two hundred million illnesses each year. Don't give a "common cold" an even break!
