

Queer Law Quirk Affects Dry Status Of Houston Heights

AUSTIN, Texas.—That peculiar quirk in the law concerning the prohibition situation of Houston Heights has again begun to tickle capital city barristers. Notice of the situation came about when the Supreme Court of Texas decided to grant a writ of error on a Galveston court of civil appeals ruling.

Back in 1912 Houston was far from the sprawling metropolis that is now the largest city in the largest state. Already, though, symptoms of greatness were beginning to pop out like pimples on an adolescent.

Such a pimple—not at all unsightly but nonetheless evident—was Houston Heights. The Heights represented an ostreperous child itself, and for a time threatened to be a husky rival to Due-To-Be-Big Houston.

The meeting and merger was inevitable. In 1912, however, six years before the merger came about, citizens of Houston Heights voted a prohibition ticket and a local option election revealed the town very dry indeed.

Big Houston, however, felt no qualms about allowing a few bars to dot its business area so long as the boys kept the choruses low.

When the absorption of the Heights by Houston finally came, Houston was still wet, the Heights still dry. Not much later Congressman Volstead evolved a plan that put into effect the national prohibition act. Houston, following the Heights by nearly a decade, became dry.

Little more than a dozen years later prohibition was gone and a local option election restored Houston to its wet classification.

Things ran smoothly for awhile. Taverns and restaurants sold beer in the Heights and package stores sold liquor just as was done in other sections of Houston. But a noisy crowd in a Heights tavern one night caused an objecting citizen to go to the City Hall and legal authorities to see if there wasn't something that could be done about the situation.

An investigation revealed: The dry election in Houston Heights in 1911 had never been superseded by a wet election.

With its incorporation with Houston, the Heights lost its entity as a municipality and could not legally hold another election.

Therefore, a conclusion was reached that Houston Heights must forever remain as dry as the proverbial bone while the rest of Houston legally drinks its fill.

The conclusion, though, is a moot question. In fact, it is what

Canadian Veterans Are Rehabilitated

By United Press

OTTAWA, Ont.—A $250,000 probational training scheme, designed to aid war veterans to re-establish themselves in the trades they were engaged in, before the war, has been decided upon by the Canadian government.

The government will pay part of the wages of soldiers while they are "re-conditioning" themselves in industries with which they were familiar before they lost their jobs during the depression.

The scheme will embrace both Canadian and imperial veterans who actually served in the war. It will be administered by the War Veterans Assistance Commission, the Employment Service, the Canadian Legion and, where necessary, other veterans organizations.

Indian Tribesmen to Appease God's Anger To Secure a Rain

By Walt Rundle

United Press Staff Correspondent NISHU, N. D.—Stalwart Hidatsa braves have sworn in solemn tribal council to restore themselves to favor in the eyes of the rain god, Thunderbird, by recovering from the White Fathers the Sacred Skulls of the Two Eagles.

Chief Long Bull recounted how the white man carried off the Sacred Skulls and brought the great "never rain" upon the Hidatsa tribesmen and western North Dakota.

As he spoke, hot winds rattled corn leaves in nearby fields and whipped spirals of dust from the dry plains of the Fort Berthold Agency. Drought has withered this year's crops and the Hidatsas face another winter of privation. Things were not always so. Long Bull told his councilors—not until 1909, when a faithless keeper sold the skulls to a white trader.

For 28 years the skulls have been in the Heye Museum of the American Indian, in New York.

And for 28 years droughts have blighted the maize fields and impoverished the tribe.

The Hidatsa commissioned Arthur Mandan, chairman of the tribal council, to seek the aid of the Indian office in Washington. Next week, in New York, tribesmen will meet with representatives of the museum and the Indian bureau.

Long Bull has told his councilors that while the pledge of the two eagles was kept "there were plenty rain, much buffalo."

The legend is that 180 years ago the warring Shiwahua and Hidatsa were brought together by two youths, one of whom became a tribal leader, the other powerful in "medicine."

Their people grew powerful. Rains were plenty and buffalo numerous. Enemy tribes fell before them. The leaders became renowned heroes, were known as the Two Eagles.

Then the Shiwahua was killed in battle. His friends preserved his skull. Later, the Hidatsa eagle man lay on his death bed. He called the tribal leaders to him and said:

"Now I die here, but I make a solemn promise. My skull and my friend's skull shall be the medicine of my hand which shall be known as A-wapti-taka. Choose a trusted man among you to keep them in his lodge. So long as my skull and my friend's are kept in honor, my spirit will remain among you to help the people and be their guide."

The dying eagle revealed the mysteries of the skulls:

"If drought shall come and the fields wither, let the keeper of our skulls, mine and my friend's, set them on aromatic herbs and sprinkle over them some water. Then there will be rain.

"We must keep the pledge of the Two Eagles again," Long Bull told his tribesmen. They nodded assent.

Ambassador From China Explains the Chinese Position

WASHINGTON.—Dr. Cheng-tung T. Wang, Chinese Ambassador to the United States, in answer to a question by the Institute of Knowledge as to China's attitude in the present Sino-Japanese controversy, said:

"China for centuries past has been an advocate of peace and friendly relations with other nations, but we learned a lesson at the peace conference in Paris in 1919, that international injustices must be resisted and that might was not right. The American public has probably forgotten that the Chinese delegates flatly refused to sign the Treaty of Versailles because it contained provisions transferring to Japan the rights hitherto held by Germany. However, these rights were eventually returned to China as a result of the Washington conference held in 1921-1922."

In answer to a question as to recent material advances in China, Dr. Wang said: "The advance of China in the last ten years in material ways has been outstanding. Now we have a little over 10,000 miles of railroads but we plan eventually to build 90,000 miles more for the whole country. Every mile of rail is laid down to render the greatest possible service to our people by means of improved highways acting as feeders for traffic on railways. Our creation of roads in ten years has totaled some 70,000 miles. While we are a very old nation, our material development along modern lines is quite recent, but we are not building just for the sake of building, but building to a plan that has been gradually perfected. For instance, in ten years our rural school systems have been made over, and last year we graduated 12,000,000 students in all grades from kindergartens to colleges and universities."

In answer to a question as to China's ideals, Dr. Wang said: "We are, in brief, seeking a position of freedom and equality among the nations of the earth. The ideals that we are carrying out on behalf of our great leader, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, in the revolution of 1911, is to bring to China an alert but not aggressive sense of nationalism; a democracy expressing itself through a republic; and a common sense realization that the chief interest of the individual is livelihood. We are preparing to play our part in the future history of the world, and America is invited to understand that a republic of four hundred and fifty million people in Asia, the republics in North and South America, and the democratic monarchy of the British empire, contain promise of future ages of peace through freedom granted to the self-reliant individual."

Think Neutral, Too, to Keep Out of War

There is now the gravest chance of a war between Japan and China. That was might involve Russia, which might involve Germany, which might involve France, which might—

The possibilities that lie in every brush between Japanese and Chinese sentries around Peiping are almost too awful to think about. Yet we must think about them, and think hard.

Ninety-five per cent of the American people are absolutely against having any part of either the Spanish or any Asiatic war. Regardless of personal sympathies in either case, it is clear that almost all Americans agree that the first duty of the President and of Congress is to keep us out of these slaughterhouses that have claimed too many lives in Spain, and will claim many millions in Asia once the mad dog of war are unchained there.

Every citizen must remember this: there is now law, and there can be no law that will insure our keeping out of these wars. Certain laws may help, may make it easier, but there is only one guarantee that offers any hope whatever:

That is an unshakable resolution on the part of a big majority of Americans that we will not become involved, that we want and will have no part of it.

We are not so likely to become involved through "neutral shipping rights" or "freedom of the seas" as we were in 1914. Those excellent and civilized principles have been murdered by the kind of war that is waged today. For today, all articles of trade are contraband because anything that is of any use to anybody is of use in war today.

It is loss of American life that is most likely to start the war fury burning. The most vital difference between British and German tramping on American rights during the World War is that the German tramping cost life, the British cost only money and inconvenience.

Thus the first step is to see that American citizens are kept out of war and danger zones, or at least that they go or stay there at their own risk.

The next and most important step is for every individual to think neutral, and not to yield to propaganda that, in the case of Spain, has already begun and, with the start of an Asiatic war, will aim at showing America that this war is different, that country A or faction B is pure and the defender of civilization, while country C or faction D is the barbarous defiler of all that is good.

And the atrocity stories. Whenever you read an atrocity story today think of the Crucified Canadian and the Handless Baby of 1914. Twenty years afterward, we found that they didn't exist, never had existed. To every atrocity you read today add three large pinches of salt.

Ask yourself two questions every time any one appeals for sympathy in these wars: Just what is my stake in this? and Am I willing to die for it?

Ball Managers Call Attention to Rules On Foul Hit Balls

Because of several rulings on foul balls, which have had material effect upon the outcome of several of their games, Managers R. H. Synder and B. S. Lemma of the Rangerettes today called attention to the following rule, which defines a fair and foul hit ball: Rule 13—A Fair Hit Ball. "A fair hit ball is a legally batted ball that settles on fair ground between home and first base, or between home and third base, or that is on or over fair ground when bounding to the outfield, or that first balls on fair territory on or beyond first base or third base or that, while on or over fair ground, touches the person of the umpire or a player. A fair fly must be judged according to the relative position of the ball and the foul line, and not as to whether the fielder is on fair or foul ground at the time he touches the ball." x Rule 14—A Foul Hit Ball "A foul hit ball is a legally batted ball that settles on foul territory or in the stands, bleachers, grandstands, box seats, or on the person of any person or object, or is handled by a fielder while in foul territory; it is a foul ball, regardless of where it may go thereafter."

LAG IN BUILDING Home building early this year showed promising signs of giving the nation's business a decided lift. Then in May came some slackening and in June a definite set-back. This is regarded by the President and his advisers as a major important point. They have taken the matter into consideration and the point they make is that there exists a definite shortage of one family dwelling units in this country. There is a pressure on the existing supply as population increases, marriages increase and the "doubling up" of depression days goes into reverse. Rents have skyrocketed, as a result of this. President Roosevelt is exploring the situation and is working on a remedy.

Just as Japan's army and navy get a good night started in their own back yard, some bully like Russia comes along and breaks it up with a border incident.

Pre-Nuptial Party is Given Miss Davenport:

Mrs. Johnny Kitcher and Miss Loraine Taylor, co-hostess, complimented Miss Maurine Davenport, bride-to-be at the home of Mrs. Kitcher, this week.

Bouquets of pink gladioli, crepe myrtle and roses throut the rooms, suggested the color motif of this dainty affair, opened with a "Love Questionaire," based on "Why I Was Married, or Not Married," the statement to begin with the speakers initials, a clever and amusing game.

A treasure hunt through the rooms, guided the honoree with tell-tale cards bearing a poised pink dove, the trail leading to the "nest," an enormous artificial pink rose holder of the gifts, the shower of the guests.

The rolled back petals disclosed the gayly ribboned presents in Fostoria boxes and a miscellaneous array in silver, books, bric-a-brac and china.

Black ice cream in color motif, and white iced cake squares, with pink icing roses, carried the delicate note of refreshment plate, with the spiced minted tea and lemon.

Mrs. Kitchen presented Miss Davenport a large Fostoria cake stand, and Miss Taylor's gift was a thirty-two piece set of dinner dishes.

Favors presented were rosebud corsages, with pink and silver robbin ties, worn by guests, Mrs. W. F. Davenport, mother of bride to be; and her step-grandmother, Mrs. T. M. Johnson, Mmes W. A. Fire Girls From Eastland In Bare Win Over Ranger

The Fire Girls of Eastland had a close call Thursday night on their home field and barely managed to outscore the snappy Rangerettes of Ranger. Score was 7 to 6.

With the score 2 to 0 in favor of the Fire Girls in the third inning, Morris, with two mates off the bags, sent a light one over Greer's head in center and made good her reputation as a home run hitter. Lane, next up, slapped a single past third and when Blythe let the ball get by her made the circuit with ease.

The Fire Girls came back with two more runs in their half to tie it up.

Both teams scored two in the fifth to keep things evened up. In the sixth Golda Baggett reached first on an error, worked her way to third base on two passed balls and scored the last and winning run when Lawrence singled.

Helen Rosenquest continued her recent good batting spree and got three singles in three times up. This makes six hits for her in her last six times at bat and eight in her last nine, including two two baggers, a triple and a home run.

The same teams play again tonight at Ranger.

Sunday Will Mark Mickey's Back on the Job

Next Sunday will mark the high spot in the summer activities of the Presbyterian church here. Rev. George W. Fender of Arlington will be the guest preacher at the 11 o'clock worship service, occupying the pulpit that is regularly held by supply pastor Alvin Bailey. Dr. Fender is well-known, not only in this section of the country but throughout the Presbyterian church of America. He comes to us as the synodical representative of the Board of National Missions in the Presbyterian church in the United States, and is backed by a colorful career in the ministry. Dr. Fender's theme for the morning worship will be "Make the Venture." His arrival is awaited with great expectation.

Since Alvin Bailey arrived here last June 11th, the people of the Presbyterian church have made known their desire to rebuild their church permanently to the position of strength and efficiency it has formerly held. The response to Mr. Bailey's invitation has been consistently encouraging and has left little doubt in the minds of the authorities that the Presbyterian church here will continue to grow into a permanent position and continue in its fine activity under their regular pastor who will replace Mr. Bailey in September. Dr. Fender's coming on next Sunday is to be more or less the first big objective in the growth of this church, and it is hoped that many friends and members of the church will greet him then.

Another attractive feature of that service is to be the special music furnished by some of Eastland's finest musicians. The anthem music will be presented by a quartet consisting of Mrs. P. L. Crossley, soprano; Mrs. B. W. Patterson, alto; Mr. Grady Morten, tenor, and Mr. John Turner, bass. Miss Olivette Killough will accompany the quartet.

Much preparation is being made to make this service as worthwhile as possible and the public is cordially invited to greet Dr. Fender.—Reporter.

Despite physicians' predictions that he might never regain consciousness, the youngster soon recovered his senses and apparently will outlive the accident.
