Weather Is Better In Most of the U.S. For Growing Crops
WASHINGTON.—July weather this year—in marked contrast to that of a year ago—was ideal for most farm operations, especially the harvesting of winter grains, in the principal agricultural sections of the country, with the exception of the western Great Plains and some extreme upper Mississippi Valley areas. Both corn and cotton advanced satisfactorily.

Preliminary reports show that east of the Mississippi river temperatures last month were about normal and rainfall was fairly abundant, according to J. B. Turner of the Weather Bureau. The Midwest was somewhat warmer and dryer than normal, though not nearly so dry and warm as in July, 1936.

In the Great Plains states, the average July temperature last year ranged from 12 degrees above normal, for North Dakota, to 5 degrees above, for Oklahoma; this year it was 3 or 4 degrees above normal.

Moisture is needed in some mid-western areas, especially western Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, northwestern Texas, and eastern New Mexico and Colorado. July rainfall was scanty also in southern Minnesota, northern Iowa and parts of Wisconsin. Good rains were needed there at the beginning of August.

Texas Charters Show An Increase
AUSTIN, Texas.—There was a moderate increase in the number of new charters granted to corporations in Texas during July over those in July a year ago, and a sharp increase over the preceding month, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. The increase in capitalization over both comparable periods was quite marked.

According to reports from the office of the Secretary of State, there were 130 new corporations chartered in July, an increase of 1.6 per cent over July last year and 32.7 per cent over the preceding month. Total capitalization, $2,035,000, was up 29.5 per cent over a year ago and 29.4 per cent over the preceding month. Groups showing the greatest gains were merchandising and oil.

CHINESE TAKE UP OFFENSIVE AT SHANGHAI
By United Press
SHANGHAI, Friday.—Chinese regained the offensive in one sector of the bitterly contested Northern Shanghai front early today.

After they had been driven back by an intensive Japanese aerial and naval bombardment, they reorganized their lines and drove forward.

Elsewhere Japanese forces drove along a 20-mile front and Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa announced that he expected this devastated city to be free of major danger within 48 hours.

Foreign commanders and diplomats met earlier in the night and reportedly discussed a drastic program in event of reckless attacks by both sides near the Anglo-American area of the International Settlement.

With the Chinese assault repulsed on most sides, the war again spread to Nanking, China's national capital.

The Japanese asserted they were winning, not only on all sectors of the Shanghai front, but also in the north. United Press correspondents in the north, however, reported the Chinese lines were holding fast.

The Dollar Liner President Hoover radioed Thursday night that she expected to reach Shanghai Friday with additional U. S. Marines from the Philippines to reinforce more than 1,000 Marines on duty there.

As soon as the Marines are unloaded several hundred American refugees will sail for Manila.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—State department officials confirmed today that Britain and American governments are discussing the possibility of joint action by defense guards in Shanghai to take over responsibility for protecting the entire International Area if Chinese and Japanese troops agree to retire.

The Olden postmaster's salary is $1,100 annually.

Oil Rises After Test Hits Sand Near Desdemona
Operators of the Hickey et al No. 1 W. M. Martin, two miles southeast of Desdemona, were reported Thursday to have set 6 1/2 inch casing at 2,835 feet in preparation for the completion of the test which hit what was declared the Desdemona pay sand at 2,835 feet.

Oil was reported to have risen 1,000 feet in the hole following penetration of a few inches into the sand. Drilling in will be by Monday, it was stated.

Since the well found the pay at what observers estimated nearly 70 feet higher than the pay in the old Desdemona pool, it was believed an extension of the pool had been registered or a new one found.

Approximately 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas was registered prior to striking the pay.

Location of the well is 530 feet from the north line, 165 feet from the west line of subdivision 5 in the D. J. Miller survey, Erath county.

Demand Deposits of Cities, Counties to Not Accrue Interest
County and city funds on demand deposit in banks will no longer draw interest after Monday, according to Albert Taylor, vice president of the Eastland National Bank.

On that date a new federal depository law prohibiting payment of interest by a bank on any deposits other than time deposits is to go into effect.

A federal law banning interest payments on demand deposits has been in effect for several years, but contained a clause exempting county and city funds, it was stated.

Lowering One Under' Check Population

For a dime or a quarter, any fortune teller will look into the future and unravel any question about life or death, time or tide, or whether you'll ever meet the attractive person who sat at the next table in the restaurant.

But if you're wise, you'll classify the results more as amusement than anything else. Legitimate science and the products of long research by learned men provide much more reliable methods of predicting where the human race will be and how it will be living one or 1000 years from now.

Because most people have made this distinction and have come to rely on the judgment of our intellectual leaders, it is unfortunate to see any of them go on record with such a grim philosophy as that expressed at the International Congress of Population in Paris.

In one of the reports before the Congress, Dr. Frank W. Steadman of Princeton University declared that a war in China might be that nation's salvation from ruin by overpopulation.

If China's population is not stopped by war and other calamities, it probably will double within 65 years, Dr. Steadman believes.

At the same Congress, Prof. Pascal Whelpton of Miami University indicated agreement of American authorities at the United States will reach its population peak in the next generation, after which there will be a decrease.

Between the statements of these men, there seems to be a conflict. The United States, without appreciable benefit of famine, pestilence and war, is riding high, without a population problem in sight. Yet for China, war is regarded as the only salvation—unless the population is checked first by some other scourge.

This solution is an application of the theory of Thomas Malthus, an English economist, long dead, who saw world population running wild unless certain natural or man-made checks restrained it. War and pestilence are among the checks visualized by this theory.

Long taught in economics and sociology classes, the Malthusian theory is still believed by many. But, like many other economic doctrines disproved by events of the last few years, it may be definitely on the skids.

If Americans could believe in such a theory, China's present trouble with Japan would be welcomed here as a great event in the march toward a better world and we would feel happy every time a report came through telling how many more hundreds had been slain.

This is the kind of fortune telling that leaves a bad taste.

After six hours' debate, the Senate passed a bill limiting freight trains to 70 cars. Senators who wanted 80 cars probably were sidetracked with them.

HOME SWEET HOME

Strong Teams To Meet Tonight In Eastland Tourney

Two outstanding games in the A. S. A. men's tournament at Eastland are promised for tonight at Eastland when the Marathon Oil company meets Hanlon Gasoline of Breckenridge, and Elks of Ranger play Alexander-Hill of Breckenridge.

Lone Star of Ranger outclassed the Cisco Gas company team on Wednesday night to win, 9 to 4. Cisco's inability to get started was reflected in that only two hits were collected while the opposition got 8.

Whitfield for Ranger hit a homer in the first inning with three on base, and four scored. Yonkers, next up, got a double, and Russell singled, scoring Yonkers.

Modern Dry Cleaners defeated Coleman 5 to 4. The game would have been more even if Angel of the Modern hadn't walked five men in the first inning. Coleman got four scores in that period.

Umpires were C. J. Owen, Garrison, Parack and Wright.

Moving a Bridge Is Nothing Compared to Moving a Tunnel

AUSTIN, Texas.—Texas highway engineers thought they had established an unbeatable record when they constructed a bridge in Texas then swung it over the Louisiana-Texas boundary.

Now they have learned that Mexico highway engineers have planned a more novel undertaking. They will build a road and then make it a tunnel.

The unique construction is planned on the Mexico City-Mazatlan highway.

Danger of landslides has resulted in the plan to build the road with a protecting top, then force a landslide over it.

Sam Houston Once Owned Farm Near The City of Dallas

DALLAS—Historical archives uncovered in the county clerk's deed records by WPA employees conducting a historical records survey in Dallas county, revealed that Gen. Sam Houston, first president of Texas, was once the owner of 268 acres 14 miles east of Dallas.

A series of recordings pertaining to General Houston's property included a copy of his famous will, which is also recorded in two other Texas counties.

The records here show that in October, 1872, after General Houston's death, Gov. Edmund J. Davis entered a letter patent in Austin, filed there in 1873, which granted to Margaret Houston, Sam Houston's widow, and his children, 268 acres on North Mesquite creek, a tributary of the east fork of the Trinity river, 14 miles east of Dallas.

COST OF CHARACTERS
KATHLEEN O'SHAN—heroine, writer of exciting novel.
BOB McTAVISH—hero, detective.
PAT—the janitor who played the Duchess—patron of surrealist art.
PROFESSOR BRACEY—Ezryptologist.

Yesterday, Emily springs up between Bob and the professor. The boy and the girl run through the Duchess' surrealist picture.

CHAPTER VII
In a minute everyone was talking at once and craning their necks to see. Bob turned to the Duchess.

"You can't think how sorry I am this had to happen," he began.

Professor Bracey righted the vase. "If your writer friend insists on bringing his dog with him, my dear Duchess, you can expect to have things happen. That is, if McTavish is a writer," he added pointedly.

Bob took a quick step forward as though he was going to drive his fist hard into the other man's dark, taunting face, then he turned and snapped his fingers to Schmatz. "If you want me about this, you'll know where to find me," he told the Duchess.

"It wasn't your fault, Bob dear," she replied.

"It really was an accident, Duchess," the professor interrupted with a shrug. "Besides, that wasn't the picture you should exhibit anyway. It didn't compare with that 'City at Midnight'." He pointed at a murky canvas showing a tangled mass of lines and corners.

Immediately the Duchess' attention was distracted from the catastrophe to the other painting, and Bob and his dog made their escape.

That night for the first time since she left home Kathleen could not sleep. The affair in the studio affected her more than she cared to admit. All those queer people—Professor Bracey, and the Duchess—rushing to Bob's defense. Just who were they all and how did they fit into the puzzle? She had been thinking more about Bob McTavish than she had realized, and always it gave her a warm glowing feeling to know he was so near she could call him if she wished. And Schmatz—he was cunning. The jolly little supper he had had in her studio, and the walks they had taken in the park with the dog at their heels. She had been so happy lately she hadn't had time to

BY MAX RIDDLE NEA Service Sports Writer

INTEREST in dogs is riding on a rising market, and Americans are spending more and more money for outlandish breeds.

You would suspect that by now all the breeds would be known. But each year finds strange breeds being introduced.

This year, it is the Pulli in the United States, while in England it is a canine called Bassenji which, liberally translated, means "the barkless dog of the Congo."

For many years, doggy people have been accustomed to thinking of the Basset, a long, low-slung, crooked-legged thing, as the strangest of the hound family, the Chihuahua and Mexican Hairless as the most outlandish of toy dogs, and the Old English Sheepdogs as the woolliest absurdity in the working dog group.

But today these have been forced into the commonplace by a virtual avalanche of new dogs. And, if you please, all the breeds now being introduced can trace their ancestry back to Pharaoh, two or three sizes of Schnauzers and the 12th Egyptian dynasty. I wonder how the Congo savages got the dogs in the first place, and what stud book they used.

SOME of the newer breeds which have been brought to this country are the Kuvasz, Rottweiler, Bouviers De Flandres, Staffordshires, Huskies, Malamutes, Samoyeds, Cardigan and Pembroke Welsh Corgis, two or three sizes of Schnauzers and Pinschers, and Keeshonden.

Recently I served in the ring with a famous English judge. He was anxious to knock off work in order to get his lunch and asked me how many more breeds were on the morning schedule.

"Only Staffordshires," I replied. "Staffordshires," he yelled.

"Why, those are mongrels from my district in England."

Outlandish breeds are usually given recognition by the American Kennel Club after three or four generations are known. To me, it is a racket.

But it is more than that. It is a virtual tragedy in another sense. For the American Kennel Club will not recognize new American breeds.

THE oldest breed in this hemisphere still cannot be registered with the American Kennel Club as purebred. This is the Maltese coonhound.

These dogs do not differ greatly from the American foxhound. In fact, they are direct descendants of hounds which General Lafayette gave General Washington.

But for all the generations that time they have been split into two breeds according to their work—foxhounds and coonhounds.

A foxhound will not chase coon, and a coonhound will not chase fox. Yet the American Kennel Club has steadfastly refused to recognize this vital difference since its ancestors for 20 generations have been guaranteed to chase nothing but Old Ringtail, you must register him as a foxhound.

If the coonhunters want a solution to this problem, which has plagued them for so many years, I suggest that they ship a carload of dogs to Baluchistan, wait three generations, and then reintroduce the breed as Baluchistanian.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Every ballot box test which can be construed as a measure of Roosevelt's popularity or unpopularity is being scrutinized here with utmost care.

At first glance it might seem that Senator Harry F. Byrd, persistent critic of the New Deal and heretofore undisputed political boss of Virginia, had just suffered a crushing defeat in the nomination for governorship of Lieutenant James H. Price by a vote of 5 to 1 (Democratic nomination a Virginia means election.)

Your correspondent, who last February named Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr., of Houston, Tex., as one of the six men Roosevelt would name to the court if he had the opportunity, has some new impressive dope to the effect that Hutcheson hasn't a chance now. The White House thinks Hutcheson has been lobbying for the job. When Senator Tom Connally of Texas publicly urged Hutcheson upon Roosevelt, he just about cooked Hutcheson's goose. Connally helped conspicuously to defeat Roosevelt in the court fight.

But Byrd is now expected to approach Price and urge an alliance which will still leave the senator a political dictator in Virginia.

Meanwhile, however, it can be reported that Harry Byrd and his machine have been beaten for the first time.

SOLICITOR GENERAL STANLEY REED is still the best bet as the next presidential appointee to the Supreme Court. Reed comes from Kentucky.

But Roosevelt may decide to play politics with the appointment and if he does he will not appoint Reed. If he decides he wants to make a bow to his Senate enemies he will pick Circuit Judge Sam Bratton of Albuquerque, a former senator with liberal leanings.

Donald Richberg, who still remains in the White House inner circle of advisers, is by no means an impossibility. This correspondent's judgment is that he has about the best chance next to Reed.

I am 47 but I have been told this and that would help me so I tried all I could but still had the same old dizziness. Now I'm on my 3rd jar of Kruschen and don't get dizzy nearly so often. I used to get so dizzy at times. Now I feel different—altogether much clearer. There must be hundreds of women like me. They must stick to Kruschen every morning." Mrs. L. B. N., August 24, 1935.

Gypsy Rose Gets Another Name

Hollywood censors changed her name to Louise Horick when Gypsy Rose Lee, former queen of New York's strip teases, moved to Hollywood, but Gypsy added another name by a dramatic ocean elopement with Robert Mizzy, son of an eastern manufacturer. The couple, shown above, were informed that their madcap wedding did not comply with California marriage license laws and a second ceremony was necessary.

The Little Woman Handles Bankroll, Auto Salesmen Say

By United Press

LONGVIEW, Texas.—"The Little Woman" has a half-Nelson on the nation's cash, according to a survey made of Longview automobile business. Salesmen here claim women dictate the terms under which 50 per cent of the money is spent for cars and their upkeep.

A veteran salesman said that whenever a man came to his lot to buy a car, his first question was "Are you married?"

It is seldom that women first appear on the scene when the family contemplates having a new car. The husband goes first. Then "the little woman" is shown the car, and more times than not, she demands to see another car and usually buys one of her own choice.

The man seeks information concerning the mechanism, construction, number of main bearings, wheel base and approximate mileage on gasoline.

The woman asks two questions. How fast will it run? How much is it worth? Immediately upon approaching the car, the woman will walk around it, looking at its appearance, and then look over the interior. She wants a pretty and neat car.

"In selling a woman a car," said one salesman, "never point out the low mileage on the speedometer. They refuse to believe you and that leaves you open for a piece of her mind concerning used car salesmen in general."

While the man tries to pay off the chattel mortgage on the car, it is the woman who drives it the most hours during the day, and who spends money at filling stations.

One filling station attendant brought out one major difference between women and men in keeping up their cars. "A woman will bring in her auto and only want it washed to be pretty, while the man will forego the washing for a grease job," he said.

But when it comes to free service, the men hold the upper hand. They want everything that is free. On the other hand, friend wife just "doesn't have time." Often when an attendant is wiping the windshield or brushing the interior, a woman will say "never mind" and drive off, they report.

COLORFUL ROMANTIC DRAMA "WINGS OVER HONOLULU"

Take the flashing color of Uncle Sam's flying forces mix it with the romance of the South Seas, wrap it all in a swiftly paced, dramatic story about a beautiful Navy wife who is lashed by the tongues of gossip — and you have "Wings Over Honolulu," the film which opened yesterday at the New Lyric Theatre.

Miss Barrie, Ray Milland and Kent Taylor are ably supported by such favorites as William Garagan, Polly Rowles, Samuel S. Hinds, Mary Phillips, Joyce Compton, Margaret McWade, Clara Blandick and Louise Beavers.

Directed by H. C. Potter, the picture moves swiftly against the glamorous background of the tropics. Another feature of the film is its photography, which is the work of Joseph Valentine, one of Hollywood's ace cameramen. Given the natural beauty of the sea and the sky and the Navy ships and planes, he has produced a sequence after sequence of breath-taking beauty.

Montana Cave Has 12 Levels

BUTTE, Mont.—Another huge chamber has been opened in Morrison cave by the national park service—the fourth since the government began development activities two years ago.

The cave, in southwestern Montana, is the third largest in size and beauty in the United States. If the discovery development of the chambers continues park officials said it is possible that the cave will become the largest and the most beautiful in the country.

The original cave, which was discovered by Lewis and Clark and later developed by Allan and Daniel Morrison, has 12 floors of varying sizes, each about 300 feet long and 30 feet wide. The first new chamber which was opened, named the Paradise room, measured 260 by 358 feet.

Named Hell's Half Acre The second discovery, called Hell's Half Acre, was reported to be larger than the Paradise room. Then came Land's End and the Bacon rooms. Hell's Half Acre is 1,000 feet long and 30 feet wide.

The fourth chamber, which will possibly be called the Saeajawa room, has been only partly explored. Sufficient investigation has been done, however, to justify the belief that it is not only immense in size, but beautiful in its formations.

"We'll have to go some to beat the Carlsbad cave in New Mexico," a park service employe said, "but the Morrison cave has almost unlimited possibilities."

Thrones in Many Colors

Beautiful formations of stalactites and stalagmites have already been found in the new rooms, besides arches, pillars, frescoes, thrones in a maze of colorful combinations and materials.

The cave is the property of the state. It was turned over to the state park board following passage by congress of a bill introduced by Sen. Burton K. Wheeler. The national park service, however, continues to supervise development and provide funds to carry on the work.

Record Is Spoiled For City Employee

FORT WORTH, Texas.—N. M. Walker, city health department employe, had his perfect average spoiled recently when a dog bit him. Walker accompanied the dog-catcher on all calls to investigate the possibilities of rabies. In four years, he made 3,000 calls. He visited a suburban neighborhood "to investigate a stray fox camper, table inspection and personal inspection. Second place for camp honors was taken this year by another Eastland trooper, No. 103, under the scoutmaster-ship of Jack Dwyer.

Boy Scouts Will Receive Notice at Service of Church

The Presbyterian church of Eastland will have as its guest on next Sunday morning Eastland's crack Troop Six of the Boy Scouts of America.

The members of this troop will occupy a reserved section of the auditorium at the eleven o'clock worship service, and will have as their personal guests the members of the other troops of Eastland.

Troop Six has as its scoutmaster, William Jessop. Buck Perine fills the position of senior patrol leader, while Pat Owen holds the post of junior assistant scoutmaster.

This troop had been without a scoutmaster for seven months when Mr. Jessop accepted the assignment in April, 1935. At that time there were five members in the troop, and two months later Jessop took 19 registered scouts to the council camp, at which time they took second place for the honor campers' trophy. This growth and achievement has continued under Jessop's direction until the troop now consists of 28 registered scouts.

Last summer Troop Six of Eastland was awarded the pennants of honor camper, personal inspection, area inspection and table inspection. This summer the campment was at the permanent council camp at Camp Billy Gibbons on the San Saba river. This council is headquartered at Brownwood and includes eight counties which sent a total of 146 scouts to Camp Billy Gibbons. From this large group our own Troop Six had little trouble taking highest honors by winning again the trophies for honor campers, table inspection and personal inspection. Second place for camp honors was taken this year by another Eastland trooper, No. 103, under the scoutmaster-ship of Jack Dwyer.

The public is cordially invited to join the boys in their worship at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

The early bird gets the worm . . . if he knows where to look!

Watch a robin on the lawn some sunshiny morning. A few hops, then a pause. A few more hops, and he listens again. Then, triumphant, he pulls out a fat, wriggling worm.

A silly bird, you would say, if he merely pecked here and there, hoping to strike it lucky.

Cock your eye on the advertisements in this newspaper. They may save pecking on barren ground.
