How About a Little Drive, Did You Say?

If you happen to be out driving during the Labor Day week-end and your drive takes you into the state of Pennsylvania; and if you have a radio turned on in your auto and tuned in at the right station, then you will learn via the air about the traffic situation.

You will be told that Highway 6 is overcrowded, as is Highway 422, and you will be advised to turn off at the junction of Highway 8 and proceed 17 miles westward where Highway 94 is much less congested, although not in as good repair.

* * *

Pennsylvania will employ six state-owned airplanes during the Labor Day week-end to help untangle its traffic situation. The planes will fly over the main highways and report back to broadcasting stations on the relative over-stuffed conditions of various roads. The broadcasting stations then will go on the air with words to motorists. advising in most instances of less frequented roads. When those are all filled up, presumably, the country lanes will get a turn.

All-white loudspeaker autos will tour the roadways to worry the poky drivers and hike them up to a 30-mile-anhour speed, warning them at the same time not to go over 50

If you don't happen to be in Pennsylvania, as is quite likely, then you will just have to ferret out the traffic jams and the crowded highways for yourself, which shouldn't be too difficult. It really doesn't make a great deal of difference. Neither traffic jams nor detours are conductive to the most enjoyable of holidays.

It all boils down to the simple sum that taking the only a hazardous enterprise, but an unenjoyable one .

Johnny Goes Marching Off to School

Soon the school bells will be ringing over the land. Soon Johnny and Janice, scrubbed and combed and brushed, will go off to the serious business of Reading and 'Riting and 'Rithmetic.

But, before they go, there is serious business for Mother too: She must select the children's outfits. In this work, advertisements can help her as nothing else can! They enable her to plan her shopping before she leaves the house. They point out bargains. They remind her of items she might otherwise forget. They make her task easier, more economical, more thorough.

Have you made a list of the things the children will need for school? Does that list include galoshes or rubbers? A new lunch box? A school bag, or strap for their books? A raincoat? Pads and pencils? Hats and suits, and a young man's topcoat? Perhaps a watch for the "ten o'clock scholar"?

Before Johnny goes marching off to school. .. read the advertisements!
