Great Strides Made Preventative Medical Practices

"In the last thirty years great strides have been made in preventative medicine. Never have more progress been made in the prevention of disease, medical and surgical treatment for illnesses been developed as today. Undoubtedly, the significance of this forward movement is generally appreciated by the general individual. Though the way of the family physician is ready to prevent disease, health, personal and self diagnosis and treatment represent barriers to preventative medicine available in the office," states Dr. C. D. Cox, State Health Officer.

Ultimately, the vast majority of people still consider preventative medicine as an emergency. So long as they are not the victim of any physical impairment, they do not imagine a physician's services are not required. Moreover, there are many, who, even though they permit themselves or their friends to diagnose the illness and prescribe some bottled medicine for the supposed ailment. For this group, in the family doctor only is able to make a correct diagnosis when the self-prescribed remedies fail to cope with the situation. It can be frankly stated that thousands upon thousands of men and women become ill or lose their lives because of this misconception of the doctor's limitations or because of an unqualified self-reliance to treat illness conditions themselves.

The family physician cannot perform his whole duty to the public unless his dual function is applied and the services for the prevention of disease or its recovery; and second, the treatment of existing illness. The physician is considered a conservator of personal health as well as an agent to compare, many of the discoveries of advanced knowledge in medicine will fail pathetically unless full and due service is given.

Says Barber Prison Term

By United Press
—A gangling Negro arrested with theft served a sentence, but blamed 25 years on a barber. With a typical young man's, with thick features that was shaved to the point for a thick bushy hair over his forehead. When you know any bet come into this court a haircut like that?" said the judge. The man's eyes grew big and frightened. Judge Winchey, county criminal judge, sentenced the Negro to 30 days.

Jailed as Slayer After 21 Years

Twenty-one years of lawabiding existence failed to wipe clean the slate for Nicholas Collins, above, of Maysville, N. C., just sentenced to 20 years imprisonment for slaying a neighbor in 1916. Collins was tracked to his new home in Dendron, Va., and arrested last summer by a persistent sheriff.

Many Loans Made In State to Build Or Purchase Homes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (Special)—Insured savings and loan associations in Texas, made 759 home loans aggregating $1,433,174.00 in the month of August, according to figures just compiled by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock with which the insured Texas associations are affiliated. The proceeds of approximately half of the loans averaging about $2,000.00 each were used in the construction, repairs, and modernization of Texas homes, while 207 loans aggregating $410,000 were made to assist Texans in the purchase of their dwellings. In the states of Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico and Texas, comprising the Ninth District served by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock there were 1,662 loans made aggregating $3,184,921 and as in Texas half of them were for new construction. This good loan demand enabled the associations to profitably employ more of their accumulated idle funds. As a further indication of the return to thrift and home ownership in Texas, officials of the Bank pointed with interest to the large amount of new savings funds, totaling $866,593 which came into the Texas associations during the month, and aggregated $1,774,564 in the five states. The First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Ranger is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation and are caring for the needs of local investors and borrowers. Its loans and investments for August are included in the totals compiled by the Bank. "It is gratifying to note the continued growth and progress of the insured Texas associations," said B. H. Wooten, President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock. "The fact that every account in these associations is insured against loss up to $5,000 by an instrumentality of the Federal Government doubtless accounts for much of the steady increase in the volume of savings attracted to them. Their direct reduction lending plan whereby loans on homes can be repaid over a long period of time in small, monthly installments is proving increasingly popular, as is reflected in these figures just compiled."

ALLRED ASKS SOLONS TO RAISE $6,000,000 FOR 'PEOPLE'S' PROGRAM

By United Press
AUSTIN, Sept. 27.—Gov. James V. Allred today called on the Texas Legislature for a "peoples program" of $6,926,000 "investment in human happiness and security." The expenditure, he told senators and representatives who heard his address at a joint session, is one the state, rich in resources, is well able to make. He asked the legislators to pay off a past debt of $1,626,000 due for old age assistance. He asked them for $2,000,000 more a year for old folk, $1,500,000 to aid destitute children, $1,500,000 to match school teachers retirement contributions and $300,000 a year to aid blind people. He asked in addition, $4,500,000 a year to balance the state budget and an unspecified sum to reduce the general fund deficit of $15,194,000. Previously he suggested that several million dollars a year should be paid on the deficit. All this, the governor predicted, can be done without a general sales tax. He proposed increased natural resource taxes, increased franchise taxes and taxes on the earnings of pipelines, utilities and other corporations. He mentioned that a state income tax would be fairer than a

The bill was adopted by the legislature after the disastrous explosion at the New London school last spring. Gas companies are required to put into the gas some odorant that will make a leak easy to detect. What the increase rates of taxation should be, he left to the legislators without a suggestion. Its adoption would have ended the session two hours after its opening. Mann said he offered the resolution seriously and would ask the governor to call another session submitting economies as well as taxation.

Boys of Today Not Building Air Castles Any More

By CORINNE HARDESTY
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO—The very dream of every school boy that he'll be President, or at least a millionaire, has been replaced, as a result of the depression, by the attitude that jobs are hard to get and money difficult to earn. Helen K. McCormack, of the University of Chicago school of business, announced that 40 per cent of 1,980 students surveyed feared they would be unable to get jobs of any kind; 81 per cent expected to work hard for all the money they ever get, and 84 per cent rejected completely the idea that money is easy to earn. Miss McCormack, who made the survey among Kansas City school children of high, medium and low income groups, said the attitude that money was hard to earn was common to all groups. More students in the high income group, than in the low, feared they would be unable to get jobs of any kind. More boys than girls entertained this fear. "The fact that 57 per cent of the students rejected the idea that times are always hard for most persons," Miss McCormack pointed out, "indicates that this skepticism and fear are due to the children having lived through a severe economic depression. Thirty-two per cent thought times were always hard and 10 per cent said they did not know." Although 85.2 per cent believed "every good citizen should be self-supporting" only 6.5 per cent said they would rather have money than anything else in life. More than 20 per cent believed in "taking investment risks" and 5.7 per cent believed in burying their money to keep it safe. Students from the high income group knew more about money than students from the other two groups, with boys exceeding girls in this knowledge. Those who earned, or received allowances, surpassed the others in knowledge of money problems. Ninety-two per cent believed a budget was an aid to wise spending and 91.5 per cent "liked to compare values and prices." Thirteen per cent subscribed to the "spend today for tomorrow you die" theory. More than 95 per cent believed in regular saving.

Man Is Held For Chaining Daughter

Students from the low income group endorsed the idea of giving to church or charity in proportion to expenditures for other things. More than 77 per cent of all students approved of giving to charities while 20 per cent believed in "giving nothing at all if it were possible only to give a little." In a test of knowledge about money 91.1 per cent of the students were able to respond correctly to the statement that "price is the value of an article expressed in terms of money." Only 25 per cent knew what real income is and 28 per cent knew whether or not "the number of greenbacks authorized has remained unchanged for many years."

On the whole, Miss McCormack found, pupils who did not spend all their earnings or allowances made better scores in the knowledge tests.

JAPAN BOMBS TWO CAPITOLS IN AIR RAIDS

By United Press
SHANGHAI, Sept. 27.—Japan relentlessly increasing the scope and intensity of her drive, bombed Nanking and Canton anew today and opened a mass assault along the Shanghai front. Communication with Nanking was broken twice by mid-afternoon as fleets of Japanese bombers, seeking to terrorize the capital, struck again after a 24-hour rest. Reliable sources estimate that 200 persons were killed. Big fleets rained bombs over the whole Canton area. Three great Japanese plane droppeds 550-pound bombs in the north railroad station at Shanghai. Growing Dictators Are Afraid to Bite

The look of things in Europe is more warlike and threatening, these days, than at any time since the World War. Yet a betting man might very well feel inclined to gamble that there won't really be another world war, after all. The situation probably looks darker than it really is.

The most encouraging factor is that underneath their bluster and big talk, the statesmen of Europe are scared to death.

For one thing, the memory of 1914 is too close. The jar that sent the world sliding into war in that year was actually much less severe than some of the shocks Europe has had lately; but while today's statesmen may play with the word, "War," he knows from actual experience what the word really means—something which his predecessors of 23 years ago did not know. It makes a world of difference.

The Europe of 1914 had not seen a large-scale war for more than 40 years. There had been time for a romantic and unreal idea about war to be built up. The horrible calamity that war brings had grown hazy and indistinct in men's minds. Europe slid into war easily because no one really knew just what war was going to mean.

It's different now. The dictators may fume and bluster and strut, their massed troops may be cheered to the echo by hysterical throngs—but down underneath all of them know precisely what is involved. Not while the World War generation are still alive will any European nation go to war as blithely and irresponsibly as the nations went in 1914.

There is another thing—the specter of revolt, which has a way of materializing out of the smoke and darkness of a long war. No dictator wants that specter raised; no dictator can forget that war is likely to raise it. Kings and emperors lost their crowns because of the World War; would dictators be apt to fare any better in another world war? They would not—and they know it.

And if that thought holds back the dictatorships, it also holds back the democracies. For democracy, like monarchy, showed a tendency to collapse during and after the last war. It might survive another such strain and it might not. No democracy is likely to take the risk if it can possibly avoid it.

On the surface, these fears do not seem to have much effect. The Japanese are involved in war in China, and the Germans, Russians, and Italians are playing with fire in Spain. The Mediterranean "anti-piracy" naval program offers innumerable chances for war-making accidents and collisions. Warlike talk was never more common.

Three cooks were among the last group of Russians executed. It seems they kept too many shooting irons in the fire.

Coming Back to Face Klan Issue

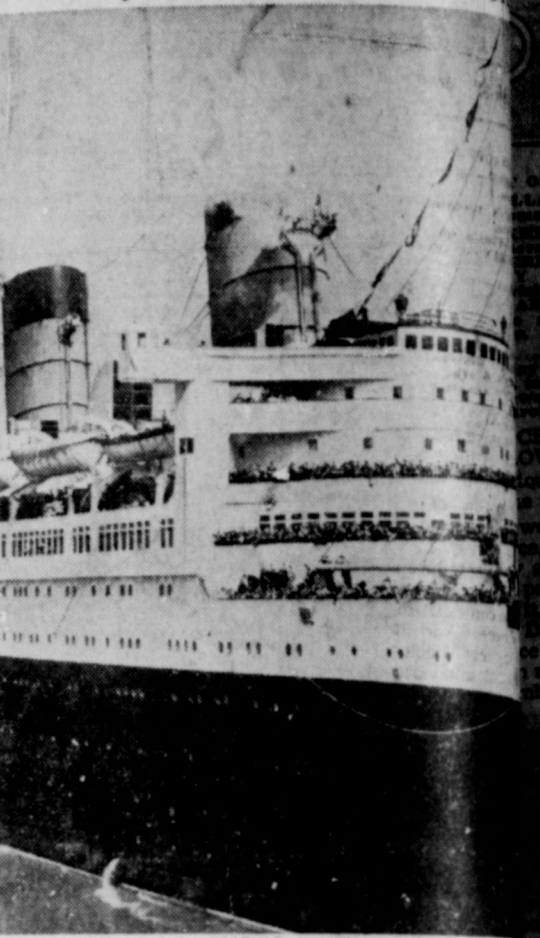

It doesn't look above as though Associate Justice Hugo Black of the U. S. Supreme Court is having that good time he was determined to seek when the Ku Klux Klan storm broke about him in London. Accompanied by Mrs. Black he is grim and apparently unmoved by the British capital, whence, it is reported, he fled to board ship secretly for return to America.

IT'S IN THE News!

There are two classes of news in these columns every day:

- (1) Interesting stories about events all over the world; and (2) The advertisements. Yes, the advertisements are news, and in many ways the most important of all, because they affect you more directly and personally than any other.

A new and better method of refrigeration is devised — and you learn about it through advertisements. Improvements are added to automobiles which make them safer than ever — again advertisements carry the story. Styles change in clothing — and advertisements rush the news to your doorstep. A manufacturer finds a way to lower the price on his products — he advertises to tell you about the savings.

You'll find that it pays to follow this news every day. Reading the advertisements is the sure way to keep abreast of the world... to learn of new comforts and conveniences... to get full money's worth for every dollar you spend.

NEW YORK.—Little is Little once more. And when Little is Little, it means much to the coaches who roam the east's football fields.

AGAIN, at the close of last season, Little submitted to another operation, with several of New York's more famous surgeons in active or consulting roles.

But once Lou Little gets a chance to buckle down, he will be right again, and that could mean things of real significance to his eastern coaching colleagues—if he only had the material to match the vigor he will put into the launching of the new campaign.

BUT guards of any experience or proved ability virtually are non-existent, while the two centers, Corey and Hersey, the latter a 160-pounder, both are veterans, but lacking in conspicuous ability.

To meet this material, the Columbia schedule-makers thoughtfully have provided Little with a number of headaches, such as Stanford, Dartmouth, Army, Navy, Syracuse, Pennsylvania.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The early New Dealers were a diverse lot of liberals, conservatives and radicals.

When Ray Moley finally went out of the government service, conservatives whooped loudly that this meant the President had turned to the "right."

MEANWHILE, Louis Howe was living in the White House, a factor of great weight with Roosevelt.

THE death of Howe may or may not have been harmful to Roosevelt. Howe was always cautious, bent only on promoting Roosevelt and keeping his place as the intimate companion.

Suddenly he discovered that Dr. Stanley High, brought into White House counsels by White House Publicity Secretary Steve Early, had been given that job.

Frankfurter worked out many early New Deal policies and still keeps in touch with New Deal proteges. He was offered the solicitor-generalship. But for two years he has been almost entirely out of the Washington picture.

Planned to Die at 80 in 1934

WILLARD HYATT 1854 1934

"Maybe they've forgotten me," mused Willard Hyatt, 83-year-old Burlington, Mich., farmer, shown above waiting for death beside the tombstone he bought 18 years ago. Hyatt, who has outlived four wives, believed that because both his mother and father died when they were 80, he also would die at that age. So he had a stone cutter carve 1934 on the headstone as the date of his death. He lives on.

Chinese Aviator Is Working In Cafe Helping His Father

HOUSTON, Texas—Joe Bow was a lieutenant in the Chinese Air Force three months ago, but now he helps his father, Joe Cit, operate a cafe here.

"There is nothing I can do but wait," said Joe Bow. "I have seven months more time before my leave ends. If I can not return home then, I will lose my commission."

Joe learned to fly in Houston five years ago when he was a student of John Henry Eagle, son of Joe Eagle, former congressman. "I wanted to join the Chinese air force," Joe said. "My father told me I could go. When I arrived in China I enlisted in the Chinese Central Aviation School at Hangchow."

Infant On Carousel Goes On a Sit-Down: OGDEN, Utah.—Even the two-year-olds go on a sit-down strike here. During a celebration parade were called by a merry-go-round operator to evict a youngster of that age who screamed and kicked every time an attempt was made to take him off one of the horses.

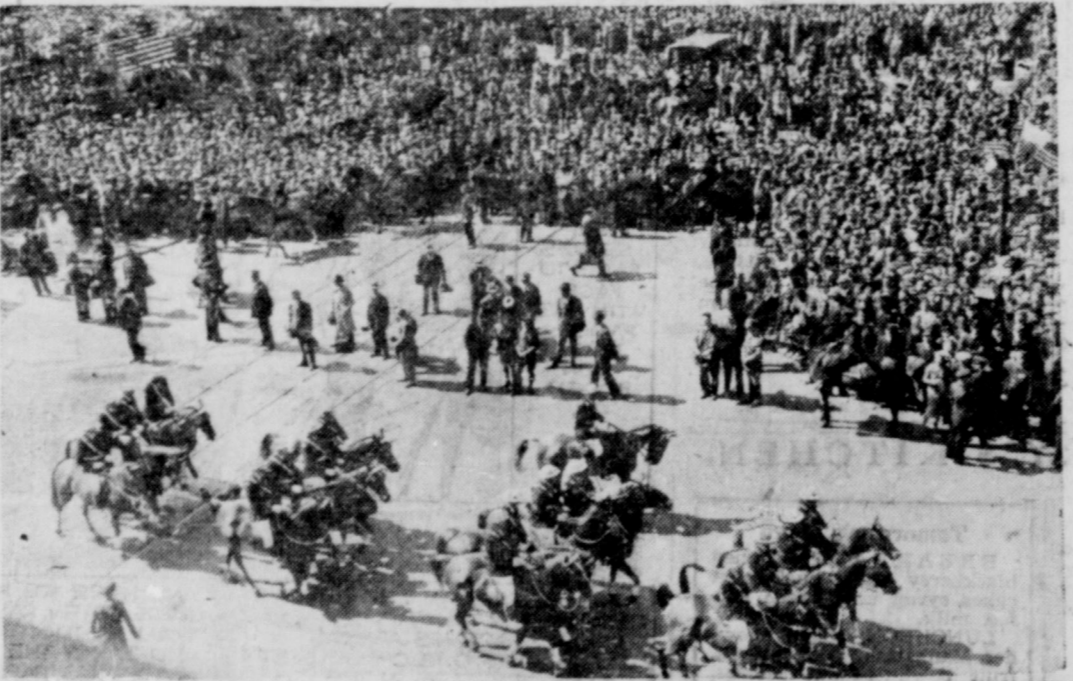

Lincoln Unveiled on Rushmore

Spectators Were Legion, Too, at Biggest Parade

Aren't you glad you weren't in the Fifth Avenue throng, at top, trying to get a peek at the American Legion's most gigantic of all parades? Police estimate 2,500,000 watched the veterans' 18-hour march—and probably as many more gave up the effort as a bad job. In such a vast throng, a few were bound to get hurt. Look at Helen Tolwinski, at lower left, for instance. An alert policeman catches her even as she falls screaming when a mounted officer's horse rears backward and crushes her foot under his hoof. Police had their hands full to keep the throngs in check, but the appearance of an American flag stilled the struggling thousands instantly. At right below a squad of white wings and a policeman pause in their duties to salute the passing flag.

FIVE MINUS TWO LEAVES FOUR

Wrong, Well, yes—and no. The arithmetic of your school days taught that "If Mary had five dollars and spent two..." three dollars remained.

But that is mathematics—not shopping! In managing a home... guarding a limited family income... we've simply got to do better than Mary did. We must sharpen our buying wits... ascertain where the dollars of extra value lurk... take five dollars to town and get much more for the money spent.

Fortunately, there are ever-willing guides right at hand—the advertisements in this newspaper. Advertised merchandise is often exceptional value merchandise. It makes dollars S-T-R-E-T-C-H.
