RULES UNDER PROGRAM HURT MANY, CLAIM

Speakers Describe at Eastland Increase of Unemployed Persons.

Resolutions petitioning State Administrator H. P. Drought for return of more liberal regulations in the sponsorship of Works Progress Administration projects were approved Monday afternoon at an Eastland conference attended by 90 political subdivision officials from over West Texas.

Attending the conference were the sponsors of projects, city and county commissioners, school board members, other officials, district and state officers of the WPA and Congressman Clyde L. Garrett.

"I feel like something will be accomplished," declared Major Karl Wallace, district 7 WPA director from Fort Worth.

Believed by many as the most concise talk in description of the condition of counties, schools and cities because of the newer WPA rules and other asserted difficulties was that of E. O. Francisco, Taylor county judge.

"Why don't you let your field men exercise good judgment?" he demanded to what he described as the agency's demand for "unnecessary" technical data.

Copy of the resolutions arranged by a committee headed by Homer T. Bouldin, Shackelford county judge, is as follows: "Honorable H. P. Drought, State Director, WPA, San Antonio, Texas. We, County, City, and School Officials of WPA District No. 7, joined by Representatives in the 17th Congressional District of Texas and neighboring counties and cities of said Congressional District No. 17, assembled in session at Eastland, Texas, on the 13th day of September, 1937, do hereby respectfully request and petition the Works Progress Administration for regulations and the enactment of rules whereby it will be possible for political subdivisions of the State of Texas to operate its projects as it has heretofore done; We respectfully represent that under the present rules and regulations it is impossible to operate relief projects for the following reasons:

Modern Labor Puzzle for a New Solomon

Old King Solomon, who once settled a very tough lawsuit by drawing his sword and offering to slice a child in half, could do very well if he should come back to earth right now. A man of his ingenuity seems to be needed on the National Labor Relations Board.

The board and the law it is operating under are both brand-new ventures. The cases that are coming to it for decision involve brand-new problems. And some of the decisions that are being handed down seem to set brand-new precedents.

There is, for example, the case of National Electric Products Corporation, at Ambridge, Pa.

Here was a case in which Solomon himself might well have called for help.

Some 1800 men are employed by this corporation at Ambridge. Prior to the final upholding of the Wagner act's validity by the Supreme Court, these workers had been getting along (for better or for worse) under a "company union" type of labor organization. Last spring it became obvious that this organization must be replaced by a regular union.

The result was formation of a local of the International Brotherhood of Electric Workers, an A. F. of L. union. The corporation signed a closed shop contract with this union in May. But there existed in the plant a nucleus of C. I. O. unionists, who promptly protested that the closed shop contract with the A. F. of L. union stepped on their toes.

So the whole case was taken to the federal court—which, after due deliberation, ruled that the contract was valid and binding. And at that point, being signatory to a contract whose legality had just been upheld in court, the corporation might have been pardoned for supposing that its labor troubles were over.

But they weren't. The C. I. O. men went to the National Labor Relations Board and that body has now overruled the federal court, declared the existing contract invalid and ordered an election to decide whether the corporation is to sign with the A. F. of L. or the C. I. O.

Consider, now, the implications of the whole case. Is the labor board to be a body superior to the federal courts? Is the legality of a labor contract in doubt—regardless of court rulings—until the board has passed on it? Is it up to the employer to find out, not only what his men want, but which group of union leaders they like better, before he deals with them? And is the closed shop an equitable and workable proposition in a plant where an active and militant minority happens to oppose it?

When one case raises such questions, we have gone a long way from the traditional wages-and-hours type of labor dispute. Solomon himself might well be stumped by this new complexity of modern labor relations.

West Texans Ask—

"1. That under the present rules and regulations, the Works Progress Administration, it is impossible for the sponsors to continue the WPA projects or to begin new projects. In order for the sponsors to continue the WPA projects, we recommend that the following rules and regulations be invoked by the Works Progress Administration:

"2. And that no WPA employee be removed, and particularly those above 40 years of age, or physically handicapped be removed from WPA payrolls for those reasons unless it has been ascertained by the local investigator that said employee has some means of support.

"3. We further recommend that the obligation of the WPA in entering into a contract with the sponsor be carried out according to the original agreement without subsequent changes of rules and regulations which places a greater burden upon the sponsor than the agreement provided.

"4. We further recommend that the red tape of the WPA projects be eliminated by placing the responsibility of securing the proper projects and their execution, including the engineering work, be entrusted to the sponsor with the assistance of the project manager and the WPA area engineer and that they be allowed to select from local men and local trucks those most suitable for any particular project.

"We express to Congressman Garrett our sincere appreciation for his interest in WPA matters and for arranging for this meeting. We express, also, our appreciation to Mr. Drought for sending his personal representatives to Eastland to confer with County City, and School officials relative to improving the rules and regulations of the WPA."

CHAPTER XVII
 The warning note did not weaken the determination of the quartet aboard the "Mistral." The contrary, it galvanized them into renewed action, for now they realized that if Kay Dearborn and Grant Harper were not recovered very soon it would be a tragedy.
 Mac read the note again, aloud: "There is no chance of assistance to your friends. And to your own lives you must be ready to die." Merita faltered. "It can't be," Mac Forrest answered quickly. "Tom, this is no time to wait until morning. Let's go back to the island." He turned to Priscilla and Melita. "This time I'll stick with the ship." Priscilla looked at him. "We're going, aren't we?" Melita nodded. "All right..." Mac started for the door of the cabin. Within a few seconds they were on the speedboat again, heading shore. Now Mac made no attempt to throttle down the engine. The speedboat rolled roughly over the sand, and Mac leaped to the wheel. "Come on, Tom," he motioned toward the wood. "You girls lag back a little, and I'll look like trouble you'd better look for the boat. The man who steers that note won't be pleasant on his face."
 "Where are you headed?" Tom asked.
 "The cabin. Maybe there's something there that we missed."

Q. Who donated the money for the $50,000 physical education building being erected at Baylor University?
 A. Mr. and Mrs. Marrs McLean of San Antonio and Beaumont, financed the building as a tribute to his mother, Mrs. Rena Marrs McLean, for whom it is to be named.
Q. Where and under whose sponsorship was the Texas Women's Press Association organized?
 A. The organization meeting was held in the old Windsor hotel, Dallas, May 10, 1893, at the call of Mrs. Aurelia H. Mohl of Houston, then vice-president of the National Women's Press Association. Mrs. Mohl was elected temporary chairman, a constitution was adopted, 30 members were enrolled, permanent officers were elected and Fort Worth was selected as the next convention city.
Q. When was the first definite information as to the Lower Rio Grande Valley made known to the Spaniards?
 A. Little or nothing was known of the country along and north of the Rio Grande until Alonzo de Leon made a report on his search from 1686 to 1689 for La Salle's settlement.

Negro's Name is Not A Gag, It's a Name

DALLAS, Texas—They brought Edward Jaybird Ellison, 22, negro, to jail for investigation.
 "What was that middle name now?" asked jailer Mac Patterson.
 "Jaybird," the prisoner said.
 "That's not a middle name, it's a gag," the jailer challenged.
 The prisoner insisted his name was Jaybird.
 "Take him away," ordered Patterson, "and change that docket to read 'jailbird' instead. I'm tired of people trying to put things over on me."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

 WHAT American beauty roses are to a woman, a hot chocolate pudding is to a man. If your husband seems a little too interested in his business, or begins to read the newspaper at the table, try this restorer of attention.
Steamed Chocolate Pudding With Soft Cooked Custard
 (10 servings)
 Two squares chocolate (2 ounces), 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups cake flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt.
 Melt chocolate over hot water. Beat egg, add sugar, vanilla and melted chocolate. Mix thoroughly. Sift flour once, then measure. Add baking powder and salt, then sift together into the egg mixture. Combine thoroughly. Generously butter a 1-2 quart mold and pour chocolate pudding into it. Cover and steam in steamer until a toothpick inserted into center of pudding comes out without any dough sticking to it. If the mold is fairly shallow, steam about one hour; if deep, steam about 1-3/4 hours.
 You can serve this with plain or whipped cream, but best of all, a soft cooked custard.
Soft Cooked Custard
 (About 1 Quart)
 Three cups milk, 4 eggs, 6 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.
 Scald milk in top of one of the new heat resistant double boilers. Use a one-quart size. In another dish, beat eggs and sugar together slightly. Return this mixture to double boiler and cook over hot water. Keep the water in bottom part of the double boiler at a simmering temperature, just below boiling. As you can see through the heat resistant glass, this watching is easy. Stir the mixture occasionally until the mixture coats the spoon. This will take 7 minutes or longer. Add salt and vanilla. Pour at once into serving dish to cool. This type of soft cooked custard is an ideal maker of desserts. A slice of stale sponge cake moistened with a little sherry, then covered with half a can of peach just begs for a covering of custard. Crushed macaroni in a deep dish, a few dots of tart jelly and some custard—well, you can imagine. Served plain in tall glasses and garnished with candied fruit and whipped cream, it is a fine dessert, or served in dessert dishes mixed with coarsely broken nut meats, it is equally delicious. Master your soft cooked custard, and you have mastered one of our desserts.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

WITHIN the next week or so your football heroes will gather from the mines and the arms and the steel mills and start preparing at our institutions of higher learning for the 1937 season.
 At 11 of these major seats of culture the athletes will find new professors in charge of the physical education department.
 The most important new face is the one that Dana X. Bible brings from Nebraska to Texas where he will coach the University for $15,000, which is twice what the president of the school makes and about half what the governor gets.
 Of course, Dana has a tougher job than these two gentlemen. The president never has to register a victory and the governor has to win only once every two years.
 Bible's switch causes two other changes. Maj. Lawrence (Biff) Jones, former West Point, Louisiana State, and Oklahoma coach, takes his place at Nebraska, while Biff's old post at Oklahoma has been turned over to Tom Stidham, his former line coach.
THE most interesting of the various changes is the transfer of Irl Tubbs from little Miami (Fla.) University to Iowa of the Big Ten. Tubbs, succeeding Ossie Solem, was never a regular in his days at William Jewell College and never coached a big-time team.
 But in his time he developed the great Ernie Nevers while coaching at Superior (Wis.) High School, invented numerous gridiron gadgets, and concocted quite a puzzling offensive down at Miami. The most experimental appointment is the selection of Paddy Driscoll, former Northwestern star and one of the early professional greats, to coach Marquette. Paddy has never had any collegiate coaching experience.
 His job is not an easy one, succeeding cagy Frank Murray who has made Marquette victory-conscious in his 16 years there.
MURRAY resigned to succeed Gus Tebell at the University of Virginia. This, undoubtedly, is the most daring transfer—daring on Murray's part.
 But Mr. Murray, himself, never played football and he may feel right at home with those Virginia lads. They are same and strong and willing to learn even though they are, strange as it seems these days, legitimate students.
 The most unusual selection has been the appointment of Bill Kern, former University of Pittsburgh star who quit as Jock Sutherland's assistant to go across the street to Carnegie. This is like Harvard picking a Yale man.
 Other important shifts have Lieut. Harry Hardwick succeeding Tom Hamilton at Navy; Ossie Solem following Vic Hanson at Syracuse; Jim Yeager assuming the coaching duties at Iowa State, surrendered by George Veenker, now devoting all his time to being athletic director; William Newton of Davidson taking Hank Anderson's North Carolina State job (Hunk's an assistant at Michigan); and Pooley Hubert, former Alabama great, following Phil Rafferty at Virginia Military Institute.
