OMNIBUS TAX BILL APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—An omnibus tax bill to increase state revenues $10,000,000 a year weathered its first battle without change today and was recommended for passage by the revenue and taxation committee of the Texas House of Representatives.

As proponents urged speed the measure, drawn by a sub-committee, was argued continuously for 13 hours before final passage.

Representatives of the industries affected pleaded the taxes levied were unfair. Many said there was need for economy.

When the public hearing was finished committee members' amendments to change the taxes or allocations were voted down.

Rep. Herman Jones of DeCatur, head of the five-member group that drafted the bill, said floor consideration of taxes for which Governor Allred called this session would begin Monday.

The bill makes flat 46 per cent increases on the following: oil-natural gas, sulphur, carbor black cement, and the gross receipts of telephone, gas, water and light utilities. It also reduced the exemption of amusement tickets from 51 cents to 41 cents, and levies a 10 per cent tax on all tickets selling for over 40 cents.

The bill was voted upon finally at 3 a. m.

Seven spokesmen for the oil industry were heard, most of them predicting dire results on stripper wells if taxes are increased. N. W. Blair of Wichita Falls, past president of the North Texas Oil and Gas association, said oil taxes now used 42.4 per cent of the cost of state government, not including taxes on gasoline and other by-products.

Sulphur company representatives declared that a $1.50 a ton tax is unfeasible. Harry C. Webb of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company said the tax would total 10 per cent of the value higher than on any natural resource in the United States except in Louisiana.

G. M. Meglassen of Cisco was re-elected president of the Eastland county dry forces Tuesday morning at the annual business meeting in county courtroom at Eastland.

Rev. H. H. Stephens of Ranger was chosen vice president and general organizer. Rev. Robert E. Bowden of Eastland was named secretary-treasurer.

A committee was named to check up on the case contesting the recent prohibition election, which has been appealed to the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals.

Appointive officers are to be announced.

Mavs Expected to Recapture Spirit Of Spring Game Against Abilenians

Eastland gridders were to continue practice this afternoon for the test on Welch field at Eastland against Abilene Eagles Friday afternoon at 2:45.

Reports from the Maverick practice indicated the players are expected to have some of the fire displayed recently demonstrated when Big Spring Steers were defeated 18 to 13.

Abilene was troubled with team loafing, "the downright ornery type," was the report from the Eagle paper via Abilene sports-writers.

"Our main trouble," Coach Mayhew was quoted, "is lack of effort."

The Eagles are expected to come prepared against aerial attacks by Eastland. It was admitted by some that Abilene's aerial fighting did not show up too effective against Ranger last week.

Veteran Oilbelt football observers believe that Abilene is yet to open upon its guns in this season's campaign. Perhaps no coach other than Abilene's so effectively builds up, "I haven't got much but we'll try" theme for each season, according to several.

There's not a boy on the squad who can get out on the field like Odell Herman, for instance, and set an example in fighting spirit for the others to follow.

Helping Unions Drive Out the Racketeers

The touchiest subject any politician can be asked to handle is the matter of out-and-out racketeers in labor unions.

It's a subject that comes up pretty often, unfortunately. In a good many big cities thugs and musclemen have moved in on certain old established unions and turned them into rackets. Ruling by bomb and gun, they give labor a fearfully costly black eye; yet the average officeholder is afraid to touch them for fear that he will be labeled "anti-labor."

This sort of timidity is just what enables the racketeers to stay in business. It ought to be obvious that the rank and file of any labor union would be tickled to death to have the authorities get the racketeers off their necks; and once in a while some nifty public official comes along and proves it.

Somewhat less than two years ago, a special prosecutor named Thomas E. Dewey went into New York City to try to break up assorted rackets. It was not long before he turned his attention to the unions; and immediately he was loudly assailed as a unionbuster and a foe of organized labor.

Unperturbed, he went right ahead with his work. He found one of the worst messes in the various restaurant unions, where gangsters were in complete control. Another mess, almost equally bad, was uncovered in the painters' union.

During the succeeding months Dewey sent the restaurant unions' racketeers to prison and enabled the rank and file in the painters' union to do their own housecleaning. And just the other day he was called in to witness the signing of a contract between the Childs Restaurant chain and a joint committee from the waiters', waitresses' and cafeteria workers' unions.

"It was a happy moment," he said afterward, "when I was privileged to witness a contract between these unions and one of the nation's largest restaurant chains, and to know that through that document a union I was accused of trying to wreck was about doubled in membership. What I had done was to release that union from the domination of the racketeers, so that those men in it who had been fighting racket control might once again take its affairs in hand."

And on the following day, Dewey appeared before 3000 members of the painters' union and was cheered to the echo as a true friend of labor.

The point of all of this is obvious. When racketeers get control of a labor union, no public official is going to lose labor's friendship by putting the racketeers in prison; on the contrary, he is going to win it. For when gangsters do take over a union, they do it against the will of the honest rank and file; and the officeholder who is too dumb to realize this or too timid to act on its merits—and gets—labor's deep contempt.

Department Store Sales On Increase

AUSTIN, Texas.— Department and apparel stores sales in Texas measured in dollars during August were well above those of both the preceding month and the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Reports from one hundred Texas establishments show an increase in receipts of 10.7 per cent over August last year, the Bureau's survey showed. The increase in sales during August over July was 13.2 per cent, whereas the normal seasonal gain is only 10 per cent. Cities in which sales exceeded the State average in both comparable periods were: Abilene, Dallas, Houston, and San Antonio.

Circus, Once Roman, Built in Day; Modern Miracle

Here One Day; Gone the Next

Those inspirational lecturers who stress the importance of teamwork in the attainment of a desired goal, might well point to the circus as one of civilization's outstanding examples of organized effort and what it can accomplish. People go to circuses to see clowns and elephants, and maybe to toss a casual peanut into the monkey cage. It would be asking too much to suggest that they divert their attention from these ageless joys long enough to consider that on the following day other people will be watching the same clowns and elephants, and tossing peanuts to the same monkeys fifty or a hundred miles away. Nevertheless, they might find consideration of that fact interesting. Russell Bros. Big 3-Ring Circus, which will give two shows in Eastland on Friday, Oct. 8, is an example of such an itinerant enterprise. It is essentially a tented city which moves its streets, business offices and residential section as frequently and regularly as the rising of the sun. From April until November, this is the only city the nearly 500 employees of Russell Bros. Circus know, save for a superficial acquaintance with the towns where the show exhibits, gained by brief shopping tours. They eat in the circus dining tent, sleep in their living cars and learn their livelihood in the tents and wagons on the show grounds. The immensity of moving this tented city naturally is realized only by those intimately associated with the task, or by those spectators whose interest keeps them on the lot long after the night performance is ended, watching the dismembering and loading of the big top, menagerie, side show and other tents; seats, poles, light plants, cables and the thousand and one little odds and ends necessary to operate an organization of this kind. Rome may not have been built in a day, but the circus, which had its origin in that imperial city, performs that miracle with astounding regularity.

Pictures of Heaters Will Win Contest And Cash Awards

"See the pretty birdie," time worn slogan of photographers, is no help at all in catching the glowing personality of a radiant gas heater, declare prospective entrants in Lone Star Gas System's ten-week contest for amateur photographers. Interested camera fans are already lining up pictures of gas heating equipment with which they hope to capture the ten $10 prizes which will be awarded each week by the gas company in its contest which will open October 11 and close December 18. They are taking their cue on the type of pictures wanted from the company's newspaper advertisements, one of which appears in this issue, and from a folder on the contest furnished by the gas companies participating in the contest. These include Community Natural Gas Co., Lone Star Gas Co., The Dallas Gas Co., County Gas Co., and the Texas Cities Gas Co. In addition to the weekly prizes of $10 for the ten best pictures, at the close of the contest the gas system will award grand prizes of $100, $75, $50 and $25 for the four best pictures submitted during the entire ten-week period. "I've had several people ask me whether a picture of a living room would be better than a bedroom showing gas heating equipment," said the district manager of the gas company in talking about the contest. "That is something each contestant will have to decide for himself, because as far as the company is concerned a picture of any room in the house is acceptable if it shows gas heating equipment. "What we hope to obtain through the contest are some good, clear pictures showing various types of gas heating equipment used in homes of this section. Customers who come to our display floors to buy heating equipment find it difficult to visualize just how the appliance they are considering will fit into their home. With the wide selection of photographs we hope to receive during the contest, we can show them that in addition

IT'S IN THE News!

There are two classes of news in these columns every day:

(1) Interesting stories about events all over the world; and (2) The advertisements. Yes, the advertisements are news, and in many ways the most important of all, because they affect you more directly and personally than any other.

A new and better method of refrigeration is devised — and you learn about it through advertisements. Improvements are added to automobiles which make them safer than ever — again advertisements carry the story. Styles change in clothing — and advertisements rush the news to your doorstep. A manufacturer finds a way to lower the price on his products — he advertises to tell you about the savings.

You'll find that it pays to follow this news every day. Reading the advertisements is the sure way to keep abreast of the world . . . to learn of new comforts and conveniences . . . to get full money's worth for every dollar you spend.

FIVE MINUS TWO LEAVES FOUR

Wrong, Well, yes—and no. The arithmetic of your school days taught that "If Mary had five dollars and spent two . . ." three dollars remained.

But that is mathematics—not shopping! In managing a home . . . guarding a limited family income . . . we've simply got to do better than Mary did. We must sharpen our buying wits . . . ascertain where the dollars of extra value lurk . . . take five dollars to town and get much more for the money spent.

Fortunately, there are ever-willing guides right at hand—the advertisements in this newspaper. Advertised merchandise is often exceptional value merchandise. It makes dollars S-T-R-E-T-C-H.

THE KATYDID

Sounds Taps

STOP YOUR CAR IN OPEN COUNTRY ONE OF THESE NIGHTS WHILE FIREFLIES STILL TWINKLE AND THE ORCHESTRA OF INSECTS IS IN ITS LAST WILD FRENZY. PERHAPS YOU'LL HEAR A NEW MUSICIAN TUNING UP: "KATY DID . . . KATY DIDN'T!" A WEEK LATER WHEN OTHERS ARE MUTED BY THE SUDDEN CHILL OF NIGHT . . . THIS LONE FIDDLER'S NOTES WILL MULTIPLY INTO A LOUD AND ROUSING THRENODY:

"KATY DID! . . . KATY DIDN'T!"

AND WHAT IS THIS TO YOU? "SIX WEEKS AFTER THE FIRST KATYDID COMES THE FROST!"

HOW WILL YOU MAKE THE MOST OF THE MONTHS AHEAD? . . . HAVE YOU THOUGHT HOW FULLY THE ADVERTISEMENTS TELL THE STORY OF YOUR NEEDS? HERE, IN THE PAGES OF THIS NEWSPAPER, STYLES ORIGINATE AND THE COMING EVENTS ARE CLEARLY SHOWN. HERE ARE THINGS NEW AND IMPORTANT FOR THE HOME, FOR PERSONAL USE, FOR BUSINESS. DEPEND UPON ADVERTISING TO THINK IN ADVANCE FOR YOU . . . TO SAVE YOU MONEY AND ENERGY, AND KEEP YOU ABREAST OF THE TIMES. WINTER'S AHEAD . . . BUT ADVERTISING HAS FORESEEN ITS COMING!

CAPT OF CHARACTERS
MABELLA PIERCE—heroine, a woman attorney.
CILLY—Cilly's roommate, a young girl.
MRS. CORBETT—Cilly's mother.
MR. HUNTER—Cilly's father.
MR. DOLAN—officer assigned to solve the murder of Cilly's father.

CHAPTER X
TURNING to her apartment after breakfast, Wednesday morning, Miss Pierce, he led. "I've just been through a police headquarters this morning at 10:30."

"You all know," he began, in a calm, rather friendly voice, "a young woman was killed in a fall from a cold-blooded murder, exactly what you saw occur on the roof of the Bayview Apartments last Sunday night—or, to be more exact, at 12:20 early Monday morning. We have a witness present who can testify that the girl did not fall, but was deliberately thrown from the roof."

"As soon as they were seated, Sergeant Dolan addressed the group: "You all know," he began, in a calm, rather friendly voice, "a young woman was killed in a fall from a cold-blooded murder, exactly what you saw occur on the roof of the Bayview Apartments last Sunday night—or, to be more exact, at 12:20 early Monday morning. We have a witness present who can testify that the girl did not fall, but was deliberately thrown from the roof."

strong for you to recognize this man in any way?"
"It was not," Mrs. Shaw resumed her seat.
Sergeant Dolan scanned the faces before him. "Now I am going to ask each of you to remember very carefully what happened Sunday night. We'll start with you, Mr. Hunter. You live on the top floor, directly under the roof where the murder was committed. Did you hear any voices on the roof, any sign of quarreling?"
"No, sergeant," Hunter replied. He spoke in a frail voice, as if to match the infirmity of his limbs. "I must have been asleep. It was the scream which woke me up. My wife ran to the window. . . ."
"Did you get up?"
The man shook his head sorrowfully. "I couldn't do that, you see. I made a futile gesture toward his legs. 'I haven't walked in 20 years.'"

"Cilly stood up, her eyes afixe. "Sergeant Dolan," she cried, "will you ask Mr. Hunter how it happens, therefore, that last night from across the street I saw him walking about his bedroom in his pajamas?"
The man gasped; he turned to stare at Cilly, and in his eyes there blazed the malevolent fear of a trapped animal.
"Is that true, Hunter?" Dolan snapped.
"The girl's crazy," he choked through dry lips. "She's crazy or—drunk. I can't walk. . . . I have doctors' statements to prove it."
"What time was this, Miss Pierce?" Dolan inquired.
"Eleven o'clock, sergeant. There is no mistake about it. I saw him. . . . Wait a minute!"
Cilly spun around to face the man who suddenly interrupted her. It was Mr. Corbett. There was a malicious glint in his eyes.
"In another minute, sergeant, the young lady will be telling you about pink elephants," he offered with tolerant amusement. "At 11 o'clock last night she was in my apartment, drinking rye highballs. And, believe me, she was in condition to see a great many things walking."

"This is an outrageous lie, Mr. Corbett, and you know it!"
Cilly turned to the sergeant, shaking with fury. But in his eyes, she saw doubt and disappointment. It was part of his job to believe the worst—and he believed Corbett's story. She could see it from now on, the night would doubly hard.

before the Civil War?
A. During the Civil War they were pressed into the service of the Confederacy for use in carrying cotton to Mexico. After the war the United States Government again obtained possession of them and sold them in lots of three or more. A herd was acquired by Dr. M. A. Taylor of Austin, who took them for a loan he had made to Capt. Bethel Coopwood for experimenting with a "camel farm" on the Texas border. After a few years, Dr. Taylor sold them to a circus.
Q. What name was the Rio Grande given on Pineda's map of 1519?
A. Rio de los Pescadores.
Q. Where were the Gulf coast towns of Clarksville and Bagdad and what became of them?

A. They were both at the mouth of the Rio Grande—Clarksville on the north bank, Bagdad on the south side. They were completely destroyed by the tropical storm of 1867, which also severely damaged the nearby towns of Brownsville and Matamoros.
Q. What started the citrus industry of the Lower Rio Grande Valley?
A. There is a tradition that about 50 years ago a traveling missionary gave some orange seed to a Mexican girl near the present city of Edinburg, that she planted them and the trees produced so abundantly that the great possibilities of the citrus industry were foreseen.

PROCCOLI: Baked sprouts
Dandelion and cabbage are in season. Because they are so valuable for their minerals and vitamins, and because there are so many ways of cooking them deliciously, they are really gold mines of health and satisfaction for all the family. Be sure they come fresh from the market. Study them carefully and take only perfect ones. Because they are called "winter vegetables," don't take it for granted they are so hardy that nothing can spoil them.
The following recipes are simple and agreeable. You will like them.

Scalloped Brussels Sprouts
(4 to 6 servings)
One quart sprouts, 1 tablespoon butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 1-2 cup bread crumbs.

Broccoli Italian Style
(4 to 6 servings)
One large bunch broccoli, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 cups of cream sauce, 1-2 cup of pimientos, 1-2 cup grated parmesan cheese.
Wash broccoli, cut in portions, removing large leaves, boil until tender in salted water (about 25 minutes). Remove from water and lay carefully in a baking pan. Add chopped pimientos to cream sauce, cover broccoli with sauce and sprinkle top with cheese. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 10 minutes.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Baked apples basted with fruit juices, creamed dried beef on toast, Johnny cake, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Broccoli Italian style, crisp bacon, seedless grapes, tea, milk.
DINNER: Pan broiled chopped round steak, lemon and butter, mashed potatoes, stuffed cabbage, steamed cranberry pudding, foamy sauce, coffee, milk.

Stuffed Cabbage
(4 to 6 servings)
One large raw cabbage or 2 small ones, 2 cups left over meat (ham or veal), 1-4 cup crumbs, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 onion, 2 tablespoons salt.
Chop meat and chop the onion. Sauté onion in butter, add to meat and crumbs and salt. Use a very loose leafed cabbage and pull open outside leaves and insert the stuffing. Put in cheesecloth and boil 15 minutes.

WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—As Justice Hugo L. Black sailed toward the Atlantic coast and Roosevelt headed in the general direction of the Pacific, it appeared that the President had boiled down all the Black-Klan issue in his own mind to what he considered by all odds the most important question: Has Black in recent years had any connection with the Ku Klux Klan?
No answer to that question has been available, since Black has given no explanation, secret or otherwise.

PENDING themselves very definitely in a hole, New Dealers have built up the theory that their opponents purposely failed to reveal evidence as to Black's Klan affiliations prior to his appointment by the Senate in order to get Black on the bench so as to put Roosevelt in that very hole. Although it sounds a bit fantastic, this supposed plot—if there was one—would seem to have worked out with conspicuous success.
Complications are added by the fact that the President, distinctly on the defensive, is not—according to his closest advisers—in any position to take official action. If he were to ask boldly for Black's resignation he would be subject to attack for an attempt to exert executive dictatorship over the court and it would be said that any president might subsequently ask for the resignation of any other justice of whose past he didn't approve. On the other hand, he can't possibly ignore the issues raised.
Roosevelt may make no further statement. But that will depend on what Black says. If Black says nothing you are fairly sure to hear something more from the White House. Although Roosevelt presently plans to stand on Black's Senate record as sufficient reason for the appointment—assuming Black is not demonstrated to have had any Klan contact in the last eight or ten years, enough heat may develop to change his position.

Sport Glances By Grayson

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer
CHICAGO—There's whispering again that Chicago is on her way out of the Big Ten.
Time was when Chicago was a power in midwestern athletic circles—when Clarence Herschberger, Walter Eckersall, Wally Steffen, John Thomas, and the famed "Five-Yards" McCarthy successively led the Maroon to great heights.
The Western Conference feared and respected the mighty men of Alonzo Stagg, but all that ended in 1924, the year Chicago won her last Big Ten title. Since then Chicago has been a very handy doormat. Not once has she finished in the first division or won more than two conference games a season.
Other schools have wallowed in the midst of athletic doldrums, but somehow they've managed to come back. In the case of the Maroons it looks hopeless.
Chicago had something of a renaissance in 1933-34-35, although it took the outstanding football player of the decade—Jay Berwanger—to swing it. But football players like the Dubuque workhorse are as hard to raise as grass on a billiard ball and just as rare.

HOW long can Chicago last? The handwriting seems to be taking definite form on the wall. Necessity has forced Maroon athletic heads to shorten the grid schedule from eight games to seven, their Big Ten program from five to four.
Clark Shaughnessy just doesn't have the material and manpower to undertake a longer campaign. Spring practice was eliminated last year and this fall Shaughnessy barely is able to scrape up two full teams for scrimmage.
Clouding still further the Maroon gridiron outlook, academic standards are so high at the university that only an honest-to-goodness student can go in—at least remain in the school. And all too many tackles, guards, and halfbacks have their mental lapses in classrooms.
Subsidization of athletes in any form is out at Chicago. Opportunities for the boys to get soft, well-paying jobs are slim. The best they could do for Jay Berwanger was a job in the university hospital paying all of 35 cents an hour.

ALL of which means that football doesn't exactly have a fertile field in which to thrive along the Midway. And the same goes for basketball. In the last two cage seasons, Chicago not only finished last, but failed to win a game in 12-game schedules.
The Maroons have fared rather well in minor sports such as fencing, swimming, and track, but it's football and basketball that rate the headlines, fill the coffers, and attract the athletes—if any.
Speculation long has been rife as to who might replace the Maroons should Chicago reluctantly find it necessary to withdraw from the loop.
Notre Dame probably would prefer to keep its independent status and not be limited by conference rulings against heavy schedules and post-season games. Nebraska, a member of the Big Six; Marquette and Michigan State, both independent, seem to be the only other strong schools favorably located geographically for a spot in the loop.

One of "Forgotten Men" Gets Chance For His Freedom

By United Press

HOUSTON, Tex.—One of the 16 "forgotten men" of the Texas Prison System has been offered hope of freedom.

Ernest Vickers, 37-year-old convict of Belton, serving a commuted life sentence for murdering a Fort Worth railroad officer, has served 15 years.

His chance for freedom was offered by Mrs. C. A. Teagle of Houston, member of the Texas Prison Board, who will take his case before the State Board of Pardons and Poles.

Former Gov. Pat M. Neff saved Vickers from the hangman's noose by executive clemency 13 years ago.

Vickers, a World War veteran holding the Croix de Guerre, has only one black mark against his prison record. He escaped from Central Prison Farm in 1933 and did not return.

Officers found him at Alice, Texas, working for an oil company as an accountant. He was taken back to prison.

Vickers was 17 when he was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged. He insists he is innocent.

Mrs. Teagle will ask the parole board to clear Vickers of the six years in commutation time and

New Nest for U. S. Navy's War Birds

Addition of nearly 150 fighting seaplanes to the U. S. Navy air forces has been made possible by the acceptance for service of the new Aircraft Carrier Yorktown, seen at anchor in Hampton Roads, near Norfolk, Va. The flagship of Rear Admiral Charles A. Blakeley, the Yorktown cost $20,000,000, has decks 109 feet wide and more than 800 feet long.

Three years after the war, he was one of 13 men who fired 16 inch naval guns and anti-aircraft batteries in a combat at Le Lems, France, which recaptured the town.

10,000 Students In State Are Aided By NYA Program

AUSTIN.—Because they have been assigned to useful and practical part-time work under the NYA Student Aid program, about 10,000 Texas boys and girls who otherwise would not be able to attend school this year are now registered for classes, J. C. Kellam, Texas Youth Director, estimated this week.

Eighty-four Texas colleges and universities have been approved for participation in the Student Aid program and have been assigned quotas which will provide 4,096 part-time jobs at an average wage of $15 a month.

On October 1, 1,222 Texas secondary schools had been approved and had been assigned providing 4,238 part-time jobs at a maximum wage of $15 a month. Since, in past years, schools, particularly colleges and high schools, had the earnings of less than the maximum wage, thereby making available, Mr. Kellam said, that a number of students are able to attend school. Mr. Kellam said that the direction of local schools and Graduate Schools was almost completely for the year. He estimated about 60 per cent of the primary schools desiring an to participate in the program applied and had been approved.

He stated that action taken upon all applications received in the State Austin.
