Poisoned Propaganda Is Threatening Peace

Somehow, the behavior of great nations makes you think of two little boys. You have seen them in some little squabble, inching up toward each other, all bristling, and maybe one or both with a chip on their shoulders.

"You did!" cries one.
"I didn't!" shrieks the other.
"You did so!" wails the first.
And so on. Maybe the chips finally get knocked off. Perhaps there is even a bloody nose. But first there is the endless bickering, the torrents of hot words.

Something like that is going on today among the nations of the world. It is dignified by a long name, propaganda, and it is all done very scientifically. But it amounts to about the same thing.

The British Broadcasting Co. has begun a series of programs in Arabic, Spanish, and Portuguese. Their purpose, while not admitted, is clearly to counteract the incessant anti-British propaganda with which Italy has been crowding the air-waves.

"Italy has now become the poison pen of Europe!" cried a member of the British House of Commons. "She poisons the whole field of international relations!"

So Britain sets out to circulate a counter-poison as an antidote. The Italian game is, of course, to alienate and inflame against the British all the peoples of the Near East and Mediterranean areas, in which Britain has vital interests and mandates.

The Germans are playing the same game, working continually on neighboring countries to foment Nazi movements within them and create atmosphere favorable to herself and her objectives. South America falls within this orbit, and even North America.

The Nazi broadcasts to North America are especially interesting. By personal responses and communications resulting from "fan mail," the Nazis could easily build up a file which might be used in an attempt to create a spy machine against the United States in case of war.

Russia has used the same tactics, attempting to spread her doctrines into adjoining countries by air. Efforts have been made to erect barriers by electrical waves which would prevent broadcasts from crossing national borders.

Thus the nations play the game, and conduct a verbal "war in the air," recklessly interfering in affairs not their own, sowing hatred and distrust on the wind.

It is so like the two little boys and their squabble, except that these are grown men, and instead of producing a bloody nose, they are preparing a bloody world.

The new tax reforms are regarded generally as a great improvement. All a person has to do now is make the payments.

The venturesome lad trying his first chew of tobacco usually finds he has dealt himself the unkindest cut of all.

The theme of the book is one of simple farm life and the author has received many compliments from critics of books not only from home people but authorities of national repute.

The second edition will probably be published in the early spring.

FIFTEEN HALF-STARVED MEN CLING TO LIFE THROUGH SUB-ZERO WEATHER FOR 39 DAYS

EDITOR'S NOTE: A "Lost-in-the-Arctic" story—the type of story once written about only in fiction or brought out by doled sled months or even years after the catastrophe—is today brought to newspaper readers hours after the rescue through the exclusive and dramatic picture-narrative below.

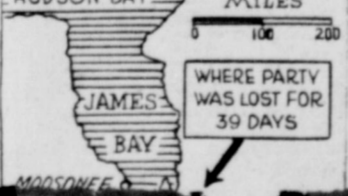

By plane—by short wave radio—through correspondents posted in strategic spots in the northern wilds—these newsphotos were gathered for NEA Service to give its client newspapers this outstanding scoop.

Rescue Planes Land on Ice to Bring Lost Expedition to Safety

Starved and weak, the 15 members of the surveying expedition lost in the dense forests of northern Quebec stumbled and ran with feeble shouts of joy when rescue planes, pictured above, landed on the frozen river near the lost expedition's camp. For 39 days the men had lived on a few rabbits and other game, hardly enough to keep one man alive. They had faced storms, starvation and cold—all the terrors of the far north—and had won, in one of the greatest stories of courage ever recorded. Distress signals attracted searching planes, which brought the men back to civilization. In hospitals they planned to return to complete their work.

Where 15 Were Lost in Wilds Whiskers Can't Grins on Diet Equipment His Biggest Worry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—There were two significant things about that conference Roosevelt had with a group of senatorial progressives at the White House the other night. First was the fact that this was a resumption of an old New Deal custom. Once upon a time such huddles were held frequently. The progressives would sink deep into comfortable chairs to talk political and legislative shop with F. D. R. far into the night. But this was the first time in two years that the President had had such a powwow with the Senate's New Dealers.

Second was the fact that when you got them together and isolated there were so darned few genuine progressives who were considered sufficiently New Dealish to be asked in. Unless this writer missed a name or two, the group included only eight of the 96 members of the Senate—Norris of Nebraska, LaFollette of Wisconsin, Schwelb of Washington, Minton of Indiana, Wagner of New York, Green of Rhode Island, Pepper of Florida and Brown of New Hampshire.

Conspicuously absent was Wheeler of Montana. His feud with Roosevelt broke into full flame during the fight over the court plan after many years in which you could be sure Wheeler would be right there when any whole-souled group of progressives got together.

Of course there are many others—all Democrats—who vote consistently for administration measures. But, although this octette of simon pure—or in some cases nearly simon pure—liberals is more influential than any other

CHARLEY LOCKHART For State Treasurer

Charley Lockhart, state treasurer, Saturday in a statement, announced his candidacy for reelection.

His statement follows:

"In making my formal announcement for State Treasurer I am not unmindful of the fact that the electorate of the State have heretofore been kind to me in placing me in charge of their affairs in the State Treasurer's Office. I have discharged these obligations to the very best of my ability, and never at any time have I lost sight of the fact that 'A public office is a public trust.'

"I have at all times enjoyed the friendly assistance of all the other departments of the State Government, and in return have given them my earnest co-operation in all things calculated to advance the best interests of the State. This, in no small degree, has aided me in the administration of the duties of the office, which I take pardonable pride in stating is functioning in an efficient and harmonious manner, a statement which I feel will be verified by all those who through their business relations with the department are in a position to know the facts.

"The success or failure of any public official must, in a large degree, be judged by what is done and not what is said; therefore in this brief statement I point to the record, with assurance that if re-elected my undivided attention shall continue to be given to the duties of the office and my best efforts expended in the service of all the people."

Submission Of Trade Agreements To Congress Asked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Senator Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming today urged that all trade agreements be submitted to congress before becoming effective. He introduced a bill requiring that such agreements be filed with congress for 30 days before becoming effective. Referring to the trade agreements with Great Britain, now under negotiations, O'Mahoney said that while the spirit of protection to American industries is being observed, many products that should be protected will not be.

Sister of Official Burned Seriously At Colorado House

L. J. Lambert, Eastland commissioner, left Saturday for Colorado because of the fire of his sister, Mrs. J. J. Williams, Sr., whose condition is declared serious.

Mrs. Williams was found unconscious in a chair in a room with her clothing shortly after noon Friday home in Colorado.

Mrs. W. E. Wirtz, a neighbor, discovered the blaze and called her father-in-law, E. W. Williams, Sr., who lived in the Williams home filled with smoke.

They found Mrs. Williams unconscious in a chair in front of a plate on the floor.

The gas hose evidently had been placed on the burner. The shade, which had fallen beneath Wirtz towel, burning the flames, wet tattered his handkerchiefs, soot in her eye.

It was believed the woman was unconscious from a stroke when her clothing caught fire. There was no evidence that she tried to get away from the fire.

A LIFE OF SERVICE

Text: Mark 1:1-13

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of Advance

THE Gospel of Mark is supposed to be the earliest of our gospels in time...

He had to retire into the mountain or to the wilderness to meditate and pray...

Surely that was all that was necessary to begin the Master's earthly ministry...

The life of Christian ministry is one in which divine voices and inspirations are combined with very practical matters of daily duty, discipline and preparation.

SERVICE is not merely a matter of good purpose and intention...

so much like her now that it made a funny little quiver down Connie's spine. Surveying herself in the mirror, she saw that she might easily pass for that other girl. She had combed her hair back rather severely into a low smooth roll under the chic little hat; she had not put on any rouge, so that her face was pale. She looked neat and brave and poor.

"I AM you," Connie said. "For a little while, at least. Katie Blyn, I like that. I think I'm going to like being you." She bent suddenly, on an impulse, put her arms around that other girl, who now was she, pressed her lips against her forehead. "Goodbye. And thank you. You can't know what this means to me."

ROMANCE should be secret. The phrase vibrated within Connie, seemed to strike some responsive chord. Why, she mused. That was what was wrong with her romance. That was what was missing. Romance should be secret, or it was not romance, at all.

It would do Rodney good, too, Connie thought, without the slightest pang of regret. "But you'd better get busy and write your letter," the girl suggested. She had climbed into the big bed and settled herself among the heaps of pillows, so that now it might have belonged to her, as well as to Connie and Marie A. Joinette.

By the same action was taken as at the first convention. A tentative constitution was adopted for the proposed State of Texas and Austin was sent to Mexico City to present the memorial.

Q. What were the principal results of Austin's visit to Mexico City? A. He arrived there July 18, 1833; presented the Texas petition to Congress, and after many delays and disappointments, secured all that he asked for except separate statehood for Texas, which at that time he was encouraged to regard as hopeful when Texas, in the opinion of the Congress, had enough population. He left for Texas, Dec. 10, much pleased with the concessions obtained and prospects for future action.

Q. How many times was the Louisiana territory transferred without any definite determination as to its western boundaries? A. It was ceded in that way by France to Spain in 1763, received

Winner in Paralysis Fight Is Buyer of First Ticket to Ball

Doris Harrell, restored to normalcy from an infantile paralysis attack, which left her apparently a hopeless cripple ten years ago, started the campaign for the President's Birthday Celebration in Texas this week by buying the first ticket in Chairman Jesse H. Jones' State organization from George Waverly Briggs, vice chairman, Miss Harrell, freshman at Denton's Texas College for Women, now plays tennis, rides horseback, shoots a rifle, and plays the piano. "I wish the new foundation to fight infantile paralysis every success," Doris Harrell says, "I know that without the skilled treatment given to me without cost I would still be unable to walk or use my right arm." President's Birthday celebrations will be held in every county and city in Texas

L. B. Denning, president of the company, "is of the type which has been going on nearly every year as a part of our program to make Lone Star Gas service as nearly perfect as it is humanly possible to do. Many citizens will remember back 15 years ago when cold weather brought uncertainty about their gas service. But year after year we have been developing the Lone Star Gas System to the point where now all of our customers can depend upon it."

The new pipelines include a 19 mile, 18-inch diameter line into Buffalo field, Leon county, tapping two newly developed gas domes. The new line, now in process of construction, will join the company's present system about 16 miles east of Long Lake. Present plans call for completion early in January.

What amounts to a double supply line to the system east of Dallas has been achieved with a six mile tie-in line between Malakoff and Trinidad which has been completed. This short line ties in the large 20-inch diameter transmission line, 100 miles long, between Long Lake and Dallas, to the southern end of the Athens line. It makes gas from Leon and Anderson counties directly available to Athens, Bonham, Greenville, Sulphur Springs, Terrell and adjacent communities.

A two mile tie-in with the company's 20-inch Panhandle line near Chillicothe gives an emergency double supply to the cities of Stamford, Seymour, Rotan, Haskell and other communities in West Texas. A new quarter mile crossing of the Brazos near Rhine-land will minimize flood difficulties experienced in the past on this portion of the West Texas system. The New Year also sees com-

Something to think about. Only the holder of his tongue can hold his temper. "Respectable" vice is doubly dangerous. Lincoln said, "Whiskey has many defenders but no defense."

Trappers Face Short Season In North
By United Press
PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. — Northern trappers may have to finish their work early this year due to the lack of caribou — the walking food supply for the trappers and their dogs.

Absence of barren land caribou has depleted the larder of white-fox hunters and planes have kept them going by flying in extra supplies from the settlement of Stony Rapids, on Lake Athabasca.

It is the first time in 10 years that caribou have not been plentiful and the late freeze is blamed. The lakes failed to freeze over in time and the animals turned eastward, where they are wintering 250 miles from their usual haunts. John Hornby and his two nephews, it was recalled, starved to death in the Thelon river area, on Great Slave lake, because the weather forced the caribou to abandon their winter feeding grounds.

Teacher, Officer Group to Assemble
Plans for 1938 will be formulated Monday night when teachers and officers of the First Methodist church meet at the Booster class room of the church, it was announced Friday.

HOW TO INHERIT A FORTUNE ... FROM YOURSELF!
There are two attributes one must have: the determination to start and the persistence to keep going. With these, most any kind of success is possible. In every great achievement, some individual plays the leading part! This same principle applies to home ownership. No home was ever owned until first a start was made, and persistent effort kept up until the job was done. Start home ownership with the New Year.
