West Offset to Hickok Ellenburger Producer Rigged Up by Lone Star

Lone Star Gas company's No. 1 M. Thomas, 1,340-foot west offset to Hickok Producing & Development company No. 1 Van Parmar, 1,000-barrel Ellenburger producer about eight miles northwest of Cisco, was being rigged up this week-end.

Location is 660 feet west of the east line, 668 feet south of the north line, S. P. R. R. company survey, southeast quarter section 478. The Thomas 150 acres adjoins to the west the Van Parmar land.

The Lone Star's well marks the second initiated following the completion of the Van Parmar. Hickok has already started work on a well a mile and a half south-east of its producer.

Holding interest in the same area was G. D. Chastain et al No. 1 Bob Waddington, three and one-half miles north of Cisco and about four and a half miles south-east of the Hickok, which was understood to be drilling ahead after topping Caddo lime at 3,397 feet to a total depth of 3,359 feet.

Spudded during the week was J. D. Beckelman No. 1 C. Murphy, H. T. C. R. R. company survey, section 114, block 3, about one and one-half miles south of Nimrod and about 10 miles west of Rising Star, Eastland County. It is a 500-foot test.

After having a slight show of oil at 2,040 feet, States Oil Corporation at 2,065 feet was drilling in shale in the deepening of No. 9 G. T. Parrack, about seven miles north of Eastland, section 7, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey. The show was in a sand.

In Callahan county, it was reported, showing of oil in liney formation at 1,661-91 feet in the Phillips Petroleum company No. 1 Cozart, 4,000-foot test, has been tested for five barrels daily. The well will be drilled ahead as to original plans, it was also reported.

In Erath county, about three miles southeast of the Hickey et al Desdemona extension well, the Southwest Production company was to shoot with 160 quarts a lime formation at 2,902-3,065 feet. Inner string was set at 2-870 feet.

About two and one-half miles east of Desdemona, Eastland county, but also in Erath county, the Arnold Oil company was drilling on No. 1 McMillen, 1,700 feet west of the Hickey completion, at 3,000 feet.

Galagher-Lawson et al No. 1 Terry in the area of the old Desdemona activity and projected as a 5,500-foot test, continued to underream 6 5-8 inch casing at 4,445 feet. It is in Comanche county.

Also in Comanche county, near Sipe Springs, Dobbs No. 1 Hodges was drilling below 2,000 feet toward the Marble Falls lime. If this formation fails, it was stated, operators may deepen to the Ellenburger found productive by the Hickok company Eastland county well northwest of Cisco.

James D. Kittrell No. 1 Mrs. L. B. Reynolds heirs, 8 1-2 miles southeast of Eastland, was fishing below 963 feet.

NATIONALISTS BOMB SEVERAL SPANISH TOWNS

HENDAYE, Nov. 20.—Nationalist airplanes were reported today to have resumed bombing loyalist towns over scattered areas of the Aragon front.

At least 18 persons were killed and 54 wounded in air raids on Castellon, Almazora, Saireno, Castellon, Monogros, Lerida and Bujaralo. Fifteen were killed and 37 injured at Bujaralo, dispatches said. In one town a hospital was set afire, it was asserted.

Lerida is the headquarters of Gen. Pozas, supreme loyalist commander on the Aragon front. Although well provided with anti-aircraft batteries, a nationalist squadron of heavy bombers succeeded in penetrating to the center of the city. They dropped a score of bombs and caused considerable damage.

The bombing provided the only highlight of the Spanish war as little fighting was reported from any front.

NEUTRALITY OF U. S. BLAMED IN NEGOTIATIONS

BRUSSELS, Nov. 20.—The United States' strict policy of neutrality in all foreign wars has killed efforts to mediate the Japanese war, delegates to the far east conference said today.

The 19-power conference will reconvene Monday, probably only to give formal approval to denunciation of Japan and then adjourn sine die.

It was gathered that Britain and France have definite information that the United States will not join in applying pressure against Japan.

Without the full cooperation of the United States, it was agreed, Britain, France and the other powers are unwilling to go further with proposals to openly supply China with arms and apply economic sanctions against Japan.

Some delegates said the European powers might blame the United States for the ineffectual results of the conference.

Runaway Hill Cracks Paving

This six-inch crack, shown being measured by amazed young women, opened up in a paved road through Los Angeles' Elysian Park when a 2,000,000-ton landslide under it began "running away". The huge landslide, moving about an inch a day, already has crushed a big water main and threatens a nearby railroad yard near the business section. Old settlers insist it is caused by caving-in of ancient Spanish treasure tunnels.

POLICE FIND NEW MYSTERY NEAR DALLAS

DALLAS, Nov. 20.—Police today discovered the body of the second man murdered in Dallas during the last week.

Willard Lloyd Presley, 30, who was found in a roadside ditch, a bullet hole in his head and another in his stomach, was the latest murder victim.

Officers were without clues as to who shot the young ice cream store employe, and left him face up in a ditch in the outskirts of Dallas.

He had come here recently from Seattle, Wash., and was living with his mother and aunt. Presley had not been seen since he left home at 1 a. m. Saturday to go to a nearby sandwich shop for a hamburger.

His family was unable to furnish a clue to the slaying.

Police were searching for his car, which was loaded with the personal belongings of him and his wife, who were preparing to return to Seattle.

Robbery was discarded as the motive for the slaying after police found $2 in his pockets.

Police were still investigating the death of Harry Leon Helfman, Brooklyn business man, whose bullet-pierced body was dragged from a sewage disposal pit Wednesday. Robert Lacy, held in county jail on a charge of murdering Helfman, admitted he shot the New Yorker to obtain Helfman's new car.

PEANUT CO-OP SUCCESS SAYS ITS PRESIDENT

Objective of the Southwestern Peanut Growers association, pegging of prices, has been obtained and work this season is viewed as highly satisfactory, W. B. Starr of Cisco, president, declared Saturday at Eastland.

The Southwestern Peanut Growers association is one of three organizations of its kind in the United States formed this year. The associations in addition to the Southwestern are the Georgia-Virginia-Carolina and the Georgia-Southeastern states of Georgia, Florida and Alabama. Territory of the Southwestern Peanut Growers association is Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

The GFA and Southwestern associations are credited, with the cooperation of the marketing division of the Department of Agriculture, to have increased income by $18,000,000 to 250,000 growers. Cost of increasing the income was $1,500,000 which will be secured from a $130,000,000 fund representing 30 per cent of import duties. The sum was approved by Congress after the U. S. Supreme Court invalidated the processing taxes.

Starr stated growers in the Southwestern association territory were faced with a 50 to 55 cents a bushel price prior to organization. Price paid by the association was 92 cents a bushel and 87 cents a bushel. The association price was followed by commercial buyers, he stated.

Pointing to a communication from Roy E. Parrish, manager of the GFA, Camilla, Ga., Starr explained that although operation of the Southwestern was not on a large scale as the GFA the objective attained by both was the same—maintenance of higher prices for peanuts.

The Southwestern buying season is believed practically over. Approximately 50 tons have been purchased at warehouses in Ranger, Brownwood and Rising Star. Number of members is 150.

The GFA association bought approximately 30,000 tons from approximately 5,000 members at last reports. It maintained 69 warehouses in 48 towns.

The organizations will function again next year, it is stated. Prices the associations pay was set at a conference in Washington, D. C., of organization officials, officials of the marketing division of the agriculture department, shellers and others interested.

U. S. EMBASSY IS MOVED TO SAFE QUARTERS

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20.—American embassy archives were loaded on the gunboat Luzon at Nanking today and the embassy personnel prepared to leave, as the Chinese government announced, formally its abandonment of the republic's capital.

In making the announcement the government said its removal was made only in order to seek a more advantageous place from which to prosecute the war against Japan.

"The rally of the nation to resist Japan has laid the basis for a new Chinese people," the government statement said.

At Shanghai the Japanese announced the capture of Soochow 45 miles west of Shanghai by a strategy like that with which the Greeks took Troy.

Fifteen men gained admittance to the city gates from sleepy Chinese sentinels. In making their way they hoisted the Japanese flag as a signal to troops outside, who stormed the gates, cut down all Chinese and took the city.

At Shanghai, also coincident with the government announcement of the abandonment of Nanking, a statement was made public from Mao Tse-Tung, political chief of the Chinese communist army, now the eighth rout army. Issued at his headquarters in the far northwest, the statement urged a complete change in Chinese strategy from passive resistance to active attack and the massing of every able-bodied man and woman to fight.

World Lawlessness Taken for Granted

The Mediterranean world has got over the bad attack of jitters which afflicted it a few months ago.

Not long since, the air around that historic sea was charged with tension and nervous expectancy. War was in the wind, and a breakdown of international law, and strong-arm tactics of high and low degree. Everyone looked ahead to the worst.

Now, says Anne O'Hare McCormick in a dispatch to the New York Times, the tension is eased. The war scare has been raised so often that people are no longer scared by it. The state of tension has come to seem normal. People have stopped worrying.

But this is not good news. On the contrary, as Mrs. McCormick points out, it is just about the worst news possible. For it means that people are getting hardened to cruelty, lawlessness and fear. They are taking for granted a world in which all of the old securities have ceased to exist.

It is worth while to ponder over this fact for a moment, for it is perhaps the most dismaying fact on the horizon today.

Consider the state of affairs on the Mediterranean. Warships are patrolling the sea lanes on a war-time basis. Hidden submarines lurk in sheltered coves, to dart out every so often and sink unoffending merchant ships. Bombing planes cruise in the skies, dropping down ever and again to blast some peaceful carrier of goods. Every naval base on that sea, every fleet and squadron and flotilla, is kept constantly ready for action.

On shore things are little better. At least three great nations, technically at peace with the world, are up to their necks in war that is tearing Spain to bits. Rumors of revolt, of international plots and of mutiny are rife all along the African coast. In Palestine an ugly three-sided fight is taking its toll in murders, guerilla encounters, and bombings. And in no Mediterranean land have the common people the slightest assurance that they may not be called to arms day after tomorrow.

Yet it is this situation, as violent and unsettled as something out of the middle ages, which people are getting used to.

Now the point is this: in an orderly, civilized world, such a state of affairs does not exist. Order and civilization go hand in hand; international anarchy such as is evident in the Mediterranean today can appear only when the structure of society is in a state of collapse.

Yet, as Mr. McCormick remarks, people have grown used to this anarchy. It seems to be the normal condition for the world of 1937. And a world which accepts such a condition as normal is obviously a world that lies on the crumbling edge of the abyss.

After all, China's plight might be worse. They haven't yet formed an international non-intervention committee.

THERE'S LESS PEACE AND GOOD WILL AS SANTA CLAUS TOWN GAINS FAME

Legal Battles and Commercial Wars Beset Village

By NEA Service SANTA CLAUS, Ind. — Christmas is already within hailing distance, but peace on earth, good-will to ward men are not doing so well in Santa Claus.

Santa Claus, Ind., for years a sleepy little village near Evansville, never foresaw today's complications when it adopted its unique name. Here's the main street and the postoffice that handles all that mail for the Christmas saint.

Postoffice Department informed them that there was already a Santa Fe in Indiana. So they had to think up something else, quick. Santa Claus was the next thought.

That may be at stake are indicated by reports that a big auto company tried to acquire exclusive use of the Santa Claus postmark for $100,000 a year, and that a maker of soft drinks offered $750,000 for a concession that would put Santa Claus back of his product.

It is Barrett who built the granite monument to Santa, but thus far the courts have upheld Harris' claim to the land on which it stands, and have forbidden even a postcard likeness of the statue to be sold in the town.

Northland Playpark and Toy Center. Even the 40-ton granite statue of Santa Claus ("the only one in the world") stands on disputed ground.

The Price of Fame And the villagers are disturbed by a portrait of Santa in the Candy Castle built by a well-known candy company. They say he looks like a Cavalier and originally held a sword in his hand. Their protests forced the artist to paint out the sword and substitute a trumpet.

Another attempt to make use of the magic name of Santa Claus was made by Jack Cannon, a motor worker in Dearborn, Mich. Cannon had his name legally changed to Santa Claus and set out for his Indiana namesake town. He rented Postoffice Box No. 1, and prepared to claim all mail addressed to Santa Claus.

Yes, there is a Santa Claus. In fact there are several of him, several incorporated, certified, legal, existing, 22-carat Santa Clauses, all competing with each other to purvey Christmas spirit from the one and only Santa Claus, Ind.

CHAPTER III
 Heraldic crowing of Mary's roosters, amplified by the other sound, awoke Mary Lane next morning. "The out of bed, startled.
 Others had eaten. Hades
 and the younger man, Hollie-were already busy with the details of making packs mules and horses. Bob sat beside the parlor lamp,
 with pencil and papers.
 "Sorry to haul you out early, but it's a custom out
 here," he said.
 Mary Lane was embarrassed, but she smiled. "I'll get up—I hope. Please forgive me, I really had no idea about it. And no alarm clock."

Mary Melissa was highly excited as they rode away . . . on toward the Montezuma range and the cliff-dwelling.

need it. You will be miles from any water hole. Even old Hades can't pack in water for your bath every night. But it'll be all right."
 "I've made 'em generous size, ma'am," the store man said. "Most redskins are pretty fat hereabouts."
 MARY MELISSA regarded this with dismay. The little intimacious of her routine life, she realized, would have to be sadly altered. Silently she thanked herself, for the tenth time already, for deciding not to bring a maid to Arizona. But she just hadn't given any thought to such services
 as the hairdressers, manicurists,
 and her beloved shower bath.
 When Ma was through with her,
 she looked fine. She wore cowboy denim pants—"they're most practical of all," Ma declared—and a hiking boot, a mannish red shirt,
 and a real man's hat which Ma
 had given her with the promise that it would ward off the Arizona sun.
 "Great!" exclaimed Dr. Barry
 when he saw her. "I was afraid you'd be a little—well, dudsish.
 You know what I mean. But you look—"
 He swallowed. After all, he wasn't sure of himself now. Telling a girl she looks cute and smart takes finesse anywhere, and Dr.
 Robert Wilson Barry was more at home with prehistoric pots and shards, abandoned caves and Indian signs.
 "He likes me," Mary Melissa decided instantly. She hadn't even noticed what he was saying. But intuitively she saw and appreciated his glow. In the same fleeting moment she noticed that he himself was quite presentable, but he hadn't fooled her any. Over the night he had managed to get a hair cut and a shave, concessions to the fact that his new partner
 was a woman.
 With the storekeeper's help, she purchased two pair of trousers,
 two blue shirts, two sox and brogan shoes for the Indian cook.

The men had bought and outfitted all the saddle horses and pack mules, so that the party was ready to travel soon after noon.
 Mary Melissa was highly excited as they rode away. They wouldn't do all the 20 miles to Bob's cabin that afternoon, he told them, but would camp en route. They could pick up the Indian cook there next morning with only a 10-minute stop, then proceed on toward the Montezuma range and the cliff dwelling.
 Camp was simple that first night, and although Mary Melissa was saddle sore next day, the group rode on easily. Everybody had slept well. In his mind Bob Barry rechecked every detail carefully. He could think of no item of equipment lacking. Old Hades had proven a genius at outfitting.
 The Indian cook would complete
 the party's personnel.
 Bob Barry had already experienced one major surprise on this project, when M. M. Lane turned out to be a girl. Now, at his ranch cabin, fate took another dig at him.
 The Indian was waiting, as old
 Three Horses had promised.
 But—the young scientist halted in amazement—the redskin who waited there was not a man!
 "I am Honey Bee Girl," the new cook announced. "Three Horses,
 my grandfather, say you want one who cook thee white man's food.
 I have learn in white man's school.
 I cook thee white man's food. I am ready."
 Hades Jones, Bob Barry, Hollie-man, and Mary Melissa all were staring down from their horses at the Indian girl—as slender and pretty and wild-looking a creature
 as a mountain deer.

 The Golden Text is: "My soul, wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from him." (Psalms 62:5).
 Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "My flesh and my heart faileth; but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever" (Psalms 73: 26).
 The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:
 "Rightly understood, instead of possessing a sentient material form, man has a sensationless body; and God, the Soul of man and of all existence, being perpetual in His own individuality,
 harmony, and immortality, imparts and perpetuates these qualities in man — through mind, not matter" (page 280).

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent
 This is the first of six stories
 by Rodney Dutcher on the program and probabilities ahead of the special session of Congress.
 WASHINGTON.—The toughest
 Congress with which President Roosevelt has yet had to deal now convenes. This is the same Congress which balked the Roosevelt program last spring and summer.
 It was summoned into a special session opening Nov. 15 to enact the same program—minus that court plan.
 Plenty of stormy weather may be safely forecast, but more legislative results than were had from the last Congress seem fairly certain.
 The issue of centralization of power, both as to expanded federal control and increased presidential powers, will be almost constantly in the foreground.
 In the background will be general concern with the primaries and elections of 1938, the plottings
 of conservatives and liberals thinking in terms of 1940 and efforts of southern and other Democrats to see that Roosevelt doesn't control the next Democratic national convention.
 The problems before Congress are all familiar. The proposed wage-hour legislation has as its aim the same chief objective announced more than four years ago for NRA.
 Surplus crop control, tried first in 1933, is second on the list.
 The regional development proposal calls for an extension of the TVA idea through the nation.

Christian Workers

Text: I Corinthians 3:10-15; Galatians 6:6-10

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

IN the great work of building the house of faith and the Kingdom of God, the ordained minister is no more important than the ordinary church member. It might be said, in fact, that the ministry depends for its strength and power upon the church of which the minister is a part.
 Paul, who valued very highly his apostleship, and who was in some respects very insistent upon his place and status, recognized this importance of the individual church member.
 "We are members one with another," he wrote, and he pictured the church through the symbol of the body, in which every member had its proper function, and in which even the lowliest organ had as essential a part in a well-working organism as the most important organ.
 The head could not say to the hand or foot, "I have no need of thee." The strength of the body was in the compactness that every joint and part supplied.

HERE in this lesson upon Christian workers, Paul lays stress upon the same thing in a different figure, the figure of the building of the house in which the master builder makes the plan and lays the foundation, but in which the strength and beauty of the structure depend upon every man's work.
 Paul had a keen sense of judgment. There was a proving and a testing time for every man's work. Even good intentions and sincerity were not enough. A man might be saved by his faith and good intentions, but if he built weakly or unsafely, his work would be destroyed.

 How important it is that we should consider this. The fear of judgment, the hostility to criticism, are deep in the mind and attitude of many people. But the true workman wants his work to be judged. He resents the criticism of the incompetent and the ignorant, but he values above all else the approval of the intelligent critic, or some clear judgment that shows him wherein he may have failed or come short of the ideal.

CHRISTIAN work in this respect is no different from other work. Christian workers are tested by the same standards of competency and spiritual efficiency.
 There is no unusual law that protects men and women in the exercise of religious life and labor. If they sow sparingly they will reap sparingly. If they sow poor seed, they will reap a poor crop or no crop at all. If they sow in unprepared soil, there will be little yield, or the weeds will spring up and choke the grain.

For all in Christian work, as in all other work it is written, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." But there is no need either of poor seed or of poor sowing. To the Christian worker there opens up a wide field of opportunity, and to all these comes Paul's great appeal, "As we have opportunity, let us work that which is good toward all men, and especially toward them that are of the household of the faith."

Prune Sponge Pudding
 (4 to 6 servings)
 Four tablespoons quick-cooking apricots, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-1/2 cups prune juice and milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-8 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 3 tablespoons orange juice, 4 tea- spoons lemon juice, 1 cup finely cut cooked prunes, 3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon-colored, 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Combine apricots, sugar, salt, prune juice and milk in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water and bring to scalding point (allow 4 minutes), and cook 3 minutes, stirring frequently. Add butter, cinnamon, orange rind, orange juice, lemon juice, and prunes. Cool slightly while beating eggs. Add egg yolks and mix well. Fold in egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Bake in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 to 60 minutes, or until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise. If you must indulge, try this fruit candy.

Two-fruit Fudge
 Combine 1/2 cup milk, 2 cups sugar, dash of salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 4 tablespoons each candied cherries, candied pineapple, figs and raisins (rinsed, thoroughly dried, and finely cut), 4 tablespoons blanched pistachio meats.
 Add chocolate to milk and place over low flame. Cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar and salt and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue boiling, without stirring, until a small amount of mixture forms a very soft ball in cold water (292 degrees F.). Remove from fire. Add butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm (110 degrees F.); then beat until mixture begins to thicken and loses its gloss. Add fruit and nuts. Turn at once into greased pan, 8x4 inches. When cold cut in squares. Makes 18 large pieces. If desired, decorate each square with a blanched pistachio half inserted in center of maraschino cherry ring.
