City Taxes To Be Payable In Two Installments

NEW ORDINANCE IS ENACTED BY COMMISSION

City Taxes In Eastland To Be Due October 1 and Half May Be Paid Following April.

By virtue of an ordinance just enacted by the city commission, all taxes levied for the support of the City of Eastland are to become due each year on October 1, and may be paid, if so desired, in two installments, the first half due October 1, and delinquent December 1, the second half due April 1 and delinquent June 1. If the first half of the taxes is allowed to become delinquent, then the whole tax for the year becomes due and delinquent and penalty shall attach to the entire amount due for the year.

The penalty for delinquent taxes is ten per cent on the amount then due and an additional one per cent each month or portion of month on the amount due. The tax payer has the option of paying the entire tax for the year October 1st, if so desired.

The ordinance is to become effective so that taxes due the City of Eastland shall become due and payable this year on October 1, and one-half may be paid then or before December 1, and the second half may be paid April 1 of next year before June 1 of next year.

MAVERICKS ARE TRAINING FOR GRIDIRON PLAY

Thirty-Four Candidates For Team Thus Far With Three Letter Men Back In The Game.

Coach Joe Gibson of the Eastland Mavericks announces that the practice scheduled for Saturday has been called off, but that all to whom uniforms have been issued and all candidates to play football on the Eastland high team must report on the athletic field at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, bring their uniforms with them, if they have obtained uniforms, and get their lockers.

A new athletic building on the athletic field has just been built by the school board. It is new from the ground up, has concrete floor, and is provided with shower baths and lockers. The building is at the northeast corner of the grounds, just north of the entrance gate.

Coach Gibson has issued about 34 uniforms to the boys and said that all those who have received them must report at 3 o'clock Monday or turn in uniforms. Practice was begun about ten days ago and an average of 25 players has been out each day.

Gibson said the boys are showing marked improvement and he believes the Mavericks will have a strong team although it will have only three letter men.

Joe King, who played tackle and guard last year may play at center this year. Daniel and Foster, who played tackle and end last year will be back and Foster may be shifted to half back.

The opening game of the season in Eastland will be played on Saturday, September 22, when Cross Plains will be the contender. It will be an exhibition game.

Storm Damages New Hampshire

WESTRIDGE, N. H., Sept. 14.—A cyclonic storm swept through this town last night tearing the roofs from about 25 houses, destroying crops and totally disrupting wire communications. There were no casualties.

Troop 3, Boy Scouts, Called To Meet Tonight

Horace Condeley has returned from an absence of several weeks, much of it being spent in Toledo. He visited the home office of the Hickok Oil Corp. and was engaged most of the time on business.

CHESS PLAYERS ARE PLANNING TOURNAMENT

Meeting of Chess Club For Saturday Night and All Strategists Invited To Attend.

Chess players and prospective chess players have been called by Green Hazel, temporary chairman of a tentative organization formed last week to meet at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night in room 302 of the Connelley Hotel. The organization is to be perfected and arrangements may be made for a chess tournament among local players to begin about October 1.

So far little is known of the relative chess playing ability of local devotees of the game and the first tournament will try them out. Some of those who have been good players in other years have played so little recently that they have forgotten some of the science of the game.

Scott Key is reputed one of the best players in the city, but Oscar Chastain was no mean contender some years ago. Carl Springer aspires to win the second or third chess tournament, but will be merely a runner-up in the first tournament. Ted Ferguson and Joseph M. Perkins have been alternately defeating each other so regularly for several months that it is possible one of them will have to play Oscar Wilson in the finals, but Texaco Jones threatens to have something to say about that.

It is hoped to have a large attendance at the meeting in the Connelley, Saturday evening. All who care to play chess are invited to bring along a board and set of chessmen and some matches may be arranged. A regular meeting place will have to be selected, and it is possible that a room may be had on the fifth floor of the new courthouse where the noise of the game will not disturb automobile joy riders driving across the square.

Hurricane Headed To Strike Cuba

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—A West Indian hurricane which swept across the Virgin Islands Wednesday night and struck Porto Rico yesterday was believed to center today over or near Santo Domingo and So. Haiti. It was sweeping west and northward at the rate of 400 miles a day and was expected to strike Cuba unless its course changed.

While U. S. Bureau officials emphasized there is no definite cause for alarm on the Florida coast, as the storm probably will not reach there, they said the hurricane was even greater than the one which struck Haiti several weeks ago and might be as violent as the one that swept Miami in 1926.

Special to The Telegram. PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Sept. 14.—Reports of widespread damage in Porto Rico from yesterday's hurricane reached here today over communicable lines that worked only intermittently. Dispatches said 80 per cent of the public houses and other buildings in San Juan had been damaged. Unofficial and unconfirmed messages placed the damage at two million dollars.

UVALDE.—Central Power & Light company plans extension of ice making equipment and enlargement of plant.

Initial Building Fund for Eastland Baptist Church Now Being Subscribed

Nine teams, each composed of two men, began Friday morning to canvass the membership of the Eastland Baptist church for subscriptions to the building fund, which is to be used to erect a new house of worship. It is planned to try to complete the canvass of the entire membership Friday and Saturday, that the results may be announced at the Sunday morning service.

While it is too early to foretell results, the fine spirit of the committee, and the advance subscriptions already volunteered, indicate success, according to Pastor W. T. Turner, who is leading his congregation in the effort to build a modern church plant to take care of the rapidly growing Sunday School, which is now meeting in six different places. Some of the subscriptions volunteered are from people who are not members of the church. While the committee realizes that the church membership must give sacrificially if the enterprise is to succeed, it is hoped that others outside the congregation will aid in building a church that will add to the material progress of the city aside from its spiritual value.

The architects plan has already been adopted and all is in readiness to proceed with the building as soon as sufficient funds have been subscribed to justify the committee in letting the contract. The plan adopted has an auditorium with a seating capacity of six hundred and thirty without placing extra chairs, with basement and a three-story Sunday school annex in the rear. Six hundred and sixty can be taken care of in the Sunday School without crowding. The basement will be large enough to accommodate three hundred people at lunch. Modern kitchen equipment, heating plant, cool air circulation and all other necessary conveniences will be installed.

The goal set for this drive is a minimum of twenty-five thousand dollars. With this amount in hand the building can proceed.

Killed Trying To Quiet Quarrel Of Husband and Wife

PERRY, Okla., Sept. 14.—Ross Hurst, state game ranger of Pawnee, was shot and fatally wounded here late yesterday while acting as a peacemaker during a domestic quarrel, officers said. Authorities said Hurst was shot in the chest after he attempted to quiet a quarrel between Joe Toben, a friend, and Toben's wife. Hurst rallied enough from his wound to report to the police station. He was taken to a hospital in Guthrie, where he died.

Missing Plane Is Reported Safe

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 14.—The missing coastal plane from Ile de France was sighted today 28 miles off Bishops rock in tow of a sailing vessel, a British seaplane informed authorities here.

SCHOOLS IN EASTLAND TO OPEN MONDAY

New Pupils In High School Report Tomorrow, All Others Will Register Next Week.

"Parents and pupils are especially requested to study the course of study in order that they may intelligently select their work," said R. L. Speer, principal of the Eastland high school today. "These students who map their high school course out carefully and systematically seldom find difficulty in securing the subjects desired, or in registering for a desirable schedule. Attention is called to the fact that our home economics department is now placed on the vocational basis. Three different courses will be offered in this department. There will not be any fees charged parents registering for either of these courses. Also vocational agriculture will be offered and the course will be open to any high school boy."

Course of Study

The course of study required and elective, for the school year of 1928-29, is as follows:
Freshmen—Required: English 1, algebra 1, ancient history. Elective: Latin 1, Spanish 1, general science, home economy 1, agriculture.
Sophomore—Required: English 2, algebra 2. Elective: Biology, Latin 2, Spanish 1-2, history 2-3, home economics 2, agriculture.
Junior—Required: English 3, plane geometry. Elective: History 3, history 4, Spanish 1-2, Latin 1-2, home economics 3, chemistry, shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping, agriculture.
Senior—Required: English 4, history 4. Elective: Latin 2-3, Spanish 2, home economics 3, public speaking, mathematics 4, civics and economics, shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping, agriculture.

Explanation

1. Freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors may enroll in any subject under each respective heading as listed above.
2. A freshman is a student who is regularly admitted to high school. A sophomore is a student whose total work completed and in progress shall not be less than 8 credits. A junior is a student whose total work completed and in progress shall not be less than 12 credits. A senior is a student whose total work completed and in progress shall not be less than 16 credits.

DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE TO DEFEAT SMITH

Seventeen States Represented and Others To Come In. Headquarters In Missouri.

By United Press. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 14.—The first nation-wide democratic organization having for its purpose the defeat of Gov. Al Smith, regular democratic presidential candidate, has been formed here. The organization, self-styled "The National Constitutional Democratic Committee," will attempt to coordinate the activities of the anti-Smith and Hoover Democratic club in 20 or more states.

Seventeen states were claimed to be represented at a meeting which closed here last night. National headquarters will be at Springfield, Missouri, with M. D. Lightfoot, chairman of the committee, in charge.

Regional headquarters will be formed in three other cities and state headquarters in other states under plans announced at the meeting here.

The organization has for its declared purpose "The teaching of democrats how to vote for Hoover for president and at the same time support their democratic state, county and local ticket." The new organization would have no connection with the national Republican committee other than to cooperate "where it serves our best interest" Lightfoot said.

Ready to Fly

Here is a new picture of Richard E. James, 17, New York boy pilot who is at San Francisco ready to start on a transcontinental trip to New York. James will try to win a $1000 prize offered for the first flyer under 18 to make the trip.

CRAZED GIRL SAYS "I SHOT WRONG MAN"

Kills Fellow Passenger On Bus In California and Will Face Murder Charge.

POMONA, Calif., Sept. 14.—Murder charges will be filed here today against Ruth Sword, 31, who yesterday shot and killed Wilbur W. Ervin, 40, from El Paso, Texas, then declared, "I guess I shot the wrong man."

The girl was said by police to have been crazed by drugs when the shooting occurred on a transcontinental bus near here. Miss Sword boarded the bus at Ganuillo, Texas, while Ervin got on at El Centro, California.

When the girl leaned over to touch the heat register she was warned by Ervin that she would burn her hand. "You've been following me for eight months; now I'm going to give you one more chance," Miss Sword muttered, according to passengers. She drew a revolver and fired, killing Ervin instantly.

Flying Cadet Is Killed By Fall At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 14.—Cadet Gaynor Tostein, 23, of Racine, Wis., was killed and Cadet Sheldon B. Yoder, 22, of Almont, Mich., was saved by his parachute at Kelly field today when the planes they were piloting in practice maneuvers collided approximately 7,000 feet from the ground.

Tostein was piloting a pursuit plane in a squadron which was making a mimic attack upon the observation squadron in which Yoder was flying. Tostein's plane suddenly dived into Yoder's ship. The latter leaped free and made a safe descent in his parachute. Tostein fell from his plane, but his parachute failed to open. It was believed that he was killed by the impact of the crash and thrown from the plane.

Both were students at the army advance flying school.

Pyote Bandits May Be In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 14.—The two unmasked bandits who yesterday robbed a Pyote cave of $1100 are believed to have made their way to San Antonio. Police said a bullet ridden car bearing a Midland county license tag was found abandoned near here.

Alleged Robber of Ada, Okla., Bank, Is Identified

By United Press. ADA, Okla., Sept. 14.—Two months ago a bold, bad bandit stepped into the First National Bank of Allen, near here, obtained $2,200 and on leaving told the cashier, "Take a good look at me." The cashier, Mrs. Lorena Jones, gave him the once over.

Today Curtis Black stands identified as the gunman by Mrs. Jones. He will be given a preliminary hearing Monday.

Whitie Waller, alleged accomplice, is held for a similar accounting. The pair was arrested in Tyler, Texas. Both pleaded not guilty when arraigned late yesterday.

SIX MURDER INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED

They Charge Clyde Thompson, Thomas Davis With Killing Lucian and Leon Shook.

Reporting to Judge Elzo Been at noon today, the grand jury called to meet this morning in special session, returned six murder indictments, two each against Clyde Thompson, Thomas Davis and Woodrow Davis, charging them with the murder of Lucian and Leon Shook on Friday, September 7, about one mile from Leary, the indictment against Woodrow Davis, who is only 12 years of age, is returned against him as a delinquent child.

Judge Been cannot set the cases for trial until two days after they have been returned, but it is probable they will be set for September 26 or 27.

Thompson is said to be held in the county jail of Palo Pinto county at Palo Pinto, Thomas and Woodrow Davis are in the Eastland county jail.

W. H. Kilgore of Rising Star is foreman of the grand jury.

Beaumont On Way To Be Important Railway Center

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 14.—Beaumont will become an important railroad center of South Texas as a result of announcement of the K. C. & S. railroad that work will begin shortly on $1,000,000 improvement to the line properties here. Hal Gaylord, assistant to the president of the road, who made the announcement, is here to make arrangements for launching the project.

Total capacity of the transportation yard will be 2000 cars and the trackage will be increased to 17 miles. A roundhouse, power plant, machine shop, turntable, new station and office facilities are included in the expansion program.

Former Officer of Rosebud Bank Reported Missing

WACO, Sept. 14.—Officials of the Rosebud State Bank at Rosebud, near here, conferred here today with representatives of the State Banking Department, relative to irregularities in the bank, estimated at $15,000 by State Bank Commissioner Shaw.

Officers are seeking a former official of the bank who was last seen Monday afternoon, when he walked out of the bank as the examiner walked in. He said he was going to Waco.

COUNTY FAIR IN FULL SWING IN TWO WEEKS

Every Car Driver Will Have Chance To Win Opening Day Trophy. Three Days Entertainment.

Plans for the Eastland County Free Fair are developing rapidly. Two thousand catalogues are being placed with the exhibitors of the county. The fair management is receiving a large number of entries in all departments. Cheney, Colony, Alameda, Pleasant Hill and Scranton have held their community fairs and have notified the fair management that they expect to enter with their community booth, community chorus and community play.

Carbon, Flatwood, Bullock and Rising Star communities will hold their fairs the remainder of this week and next. These communities are also expecting to enter for the grand community prize.

The fair committees met Wednesday night with about 20 members present and arranged for additional entertainment for the three big days of the fair.

One exceptionally good event to be announced at this time is a big parade on the opening day, Sept. 27. A prize is to be given by each dealer of Eastland for the best decorated car in his make of car. A prize for best decorated car of the entire parade will be given by the Eastland County Fair Association. Also a prize will be given to oldest Eastland owner of the parade that will run for one block, pulled by its own motor power. A prize is to be given to the dealer that has largest number of his make of cars in parade. Any merchant, firm or individual in the county may enter in parade but must form in line with dealer of his make of car. The parade will be in charge of Alex Clark.

The fair management is getting in touch with all the fiddlers of Eastland county. The old fiddlers contest on Saturday night, followed by a square dance will be a big event of the fair.

The committee with Judge R. L. Rust, chairman, on community chorus contest had a meeting Thursday night. Plans for a splendid program was arranged for Thursday night, September 27.

A complete program of all the events of the fair will be announced as soon as arrangements have been made for the exact hour they appear on schedule of the fair.

TREE PLANTING PROJECT GETS ENDORSEMENT

Effort of Eastland Lions To Get More Shade Trees Planted Here Is Assured Success.

W. H. McDonald, secretary of the Lions Club, said today that several hundred additional signmen had been delivered to him in the past two days and that he was receiving many orders through mail, property owners who order blank published in monthly issue of this paper in planting the order with him for trees, and he believed he would be able to exhibit to the club a fine luncheon next Tuesday signed orders for as many as twenty-five hundred trees.

Frost Approves. Judge Cyrus B. Frost today said: "The property owners of Eastland should be glad indeed to have the opportunity to purchase these trees at the exceptionally low price obtained by the Lions Club."

He called attention to the fact that any property owner of a fifty-foot lot could obtain trees delivered and planted at a maximum cost of $1.25 for each tree or $2.50 for two trees on the one lot, by taking advantage of the plan now being promoted by the Lions Club.

Judge N. N. Rosegorn stated that he knew of no plan of civic improvement inaugurated in our city within the past several years that would do more to beautify the town and increase property values than this tree movement. He expressed his

WHO AM I?

New York is interested in the mystery of a young woman—well-dressed and attractive—who lost her memory and does not know who she is. She told a woman worshipper in a church of her loss of knowledge and she was taken to a hospital for treatment.

She stared at each person who came to her bedside in the hope that she would see a familiar face that would revive her memory.
She said that she was crossing the street when a motorist sounded
the horn on his car and something seemed to "snap" in her head.
When the buzzing and ringing of her head had cleared, she could not remember anything about herself.

The bewilderment and alarm
that a person, otherwise normal, would feel upon suddenly realizing that he did not know who he was can hardly be imagined. If you ever went to bed in a hotel in a strange city and suddenly awakened in your unfamiliar surroundings and you were startled by the thought, "Where am I?" then you have a faint conception of the "lost" feeling you would have if you did not even know who you were.

Two such cases came to our personal attention a number of years ago while we were police reporter for a metropolitan newspaper. A man called the police that he suddenly came to himself as he was walking down a crowded street.
The last thing he could remember was being in a hospital in Ohio
for treatment for nervous disease.
When his mind suddenly cleared, he remembered who he was but he recalled nothing of the events that had happened since he was in the hospital. He did not know the name of the city that he was then in nor how he got there nor how he had made a living during that interim. He did not know what day of the week or of the month was nor even what month it was.

The other instance was that of a young woman who asked the matron at the railroad station:
"Who am I?" After several days
the hospital she suddenly recalled her name. It was Smith.

A NOVEL SUGGESTION.

With the opening of schools
throughout the land, the public, quite naturally, is giving much thought to education. The following letter, written by G. G. Boyd of Omaha, Neb., while not couched in the most dignified of language, certainly advances a novel theory:

"Instead of building more school houses, why not get full service from the ones we have already?"

"What we need to handle the increasing number of pupils is a public shift, a morning and afternoon session; one group of pupils attend the morning session and the other the afternoon. Let the young pupils get their lessons at the afternoon before and the afternoon pupils in the morning of the same day. The schools are more of a checking station for kids than educational institutions. We have factories that work two and three shifts with the same space facilities and tools.

"Pupils can get to school at 8 in the morning as easily as they can get to work after they have left school. Four hours to a shift intensively applied to study and work is plenty for the average adolescent. Most of our kids are overworked in school and their minds are a muddle. Many students do most of their studying at home in the evening, or they could do it, instead of gadding around at night to movies and other places.
"The same teachers can teach both shifts without any increase in pay or a very slight increase."

TROUP—East Texas Fair will be held September 24-29.

CALENDAR
SATURDAY

Sunbeam Band, 9:30 a. m., Baptist church.

Eastland County Federation of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs convenes in Gorman, 3 p. m. opening day, or re-assembly day. Please be prompt.

Public Library open 2 to 5:30 p. m. New books for Sunday. Miss Cecile Hais, librarian.

MISS JOSEPHINE MARTIN ENTERTAINS JOLLY GROUP.
One of the most charming young hostesses of Eastland entertained a number of young friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Martin, who opened their home last evening to the merry party, guests of their daughter, Miss Josephine Martin.

After gathering at seven-thirty p. m., the girls went in a body to the Connellee Theatre, and had lots of fun in a balcony reserve, where they feasted on pop corn and chewing gum, merely an introduction, however, to the delicious spread served at the home of the hostess just before they retired.

This morning they were out bright and early for a sunrise breakfast and swim at Franson Lake, Olden. The delicious out-door breakfast of bacon, hot rolls, toast, scrambled eggs, fruit and coffee was keenly appreciated.

The jolly party included: Misses Thelma Brewer, Madelle Sikes, Elizabeth Day, Evelyn Hearn, Virginia Norton, Jane Rotramel, Rosalie Leslie, Dorothy McCannies, Brazell Hillyer, Adrean Parvin, Lucile Brogdon, Evelyn Taylor, Ima Mae Coleman, Madge Brelsford and Mary Cox.

MRS. CROSS ENTERTAINS BLUE BONNET CLUB

Mrs. George E. Cross entertained the Blue Bonnet Club yesterday afternoon, most delightfully, at her residence in the States Oil Camp. The yellow and white color scheme was carried out in all the pretty effects, and furnished the motif for the bridge tables and tallies for the same shades of yellow and white blossoms. Big bouquets of yellow and white xenias were scattered throughout the rooms. At close of an interesting game of bridge the club high score favor, a pair of hand-made and embroidered pillow cases, was awarded Mrs. Hampton. High score for guests, a card table cover embroidered in yellow and white, went to Mrs. John Fehl.

Guests of the afternoon were: Meses. W. F. Miller, John Fehl and G. W. Homer; club members present, Meses. Roy Allen, J. O. Earnest, S. C. Everingham, Ulysses Hampton, G. C. Kimbrell, E. R. O'Rourke, W. Z. Outward, Charles E. Overly, Guy Patterson, and hostess, Mrs. G. E. Cross, who served a delicious pear salad with whipped cream topping, and white cake iced in yellow traceries, sandwiches, olive and iced tea.

The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Earnest.

DRAGOO ENSEMBLE TO MEET ON SATURDAY

After a vacation period of several weeks the Dragoo Ensemble will resume practice Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the lower assembly room of the Methodist church. From now on Saturday will be the regular practice night, in order to accommodate a number of out-of-town pupils of the director, Miss Wilda Dragoo. The advance the orchestra made last season, after a little more than one year of work together, was remarkable, and still greater success is predicted for the organization this year, which, under its gifted director, is making an enviable reputation for itself throughout the state.

Mrs. Charles G. Norton will continue to act as accompanist. The Ensemble will make its first official appearance for the season at the opening meeting of the Thursday Afternoon Club on September 28 in the clubhouse, and a number of other public engagements are already suggested for the early winter. This organization numbered twenty-five last season and will probably reach thirty or more in the present season, as it is the ambition of all local and many outside violinists to belong to this group which is an unusually successful one of its kind.

MISS McCANLIES IS HOSTESS AT DINNER

The boys and girls soon to leave for school are being showered with parties and courtesies expressed in various ways by their young companions. That of Miss Argye Mary McCannies last evening honoring Preston and Vernon Briggs of Pampa, Texas, was especially attractive. The dining dinner table, laid for six, was centered with a bowl of roses and softly sandle lighted.

The delicious menu was served in three courses. At the table were:
Miss Dorothy McCannies, Miss
Adrean Parvin, Miss Argye Mary
McCannies; Preston Briggs, Vernon Briggs and Floyd Killingsworth of Ranger.

Bridge was the diversion afterwards.

MR. AND MRS. CATES ENTERTAIN INFORMALLY

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Cates of Frankel were at home last evening to Mrs. Cates' intimate girl friends who are leaving tomorrow and Monday for college, having two tables for bridge at their attractive home. Delicious refreshments were served and pretty favors awarded in the informal auction.

Guests included: Miss Virginia
Root, Miss Geraldine Dabney, Miss
Ada Martin; Messrs. Joe Thielle,
Poe Lovett, and Frank Zelfel.

DEMONSTRATION OF BIBLE HISTORY ATTRACTS

One hundred and one persons registered at yesterday's Church of Christ demonstration, which, this week, told of the laws received by Moses on Mt. Sinai, and was developed in a very unique and remarkable manner. The great mountain, with its hanging black clouds of smoke, the work of the talented artist, Mrs. Allen D. Dabney, was seen at the back of the setting. At the foot of the mount stretched the Camp of Israel, with soldiers, tents, horses, and accoutrements all clearly shown.

During the course of the lecture by Mrs. Anna Craig, who was assisted by Mrs. J. R. Boggess, the mechanical devices that supplied the thunder and the wind were operated by Mrs. E. D. Hurley and Masters Ed Hurley and Howell
Boggess.

As the children arrived they were received at the entrance by Mrs.
Harry E. Woods, and conducted to the demonstration room by Rev.
H. W. Wrye, the pastor of the church. The usual preliminary introduction was held, several hymns being sung in union before the opening of the lecture.

The competition is very keen between the contestants who are inducing the large audience of children to attend these lectures. The new attendants brought by the contestants to yesterday's lecture included Loretta Hefley, Bernice

EASTLAND COUNTY FEDERATION TOMORROW

Eastland women are again reminded of the meeting of the Eastland County Federation of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs tomorrow, Saturday afternoon, which convenes in the Gorman church at three o'clock. An executive board meeting has been called by the president of the Federation for two o'clock, preceding the hour of the opening of the Federation session.

As this is the opening of the club
season for the Eastland County Federation, it is hoped that Eastland will send a representative attendance.

TONIGHT IN ITALY WITH THE ELKS

Moonlight and harmony, the soft glamor of twilight, and southerly skies will be suggested by the splendid music to be furnished by the eight piece orchestra, "Rangers," for the Elks Club dance tonight, and the dreamy waltzes, and other special music will develop the Night in Italy in musical cadence.

The hours from nine to one, and the super-cooled Elks Club ballroom, invites your attendance at this wonderful offering of rhythm and harmony.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

Miss Mary Elizabeth Harris underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils, by Dr. Simmons, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. B. W. Rankin, and daughter, Nell Rose Rankin, of Big Spring, are visiting the former's sisters, Meses. W. A. Martin and W. R. Fairbairn, this week and will return home tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sheby Smith and little daughter have returned from a motor trip to Dayton, Ohio, which they took going through Oklahoma and St. Louis and returning by the way of Nashville, Tennessee, after six weeks visit.

W. Raleigh Fairbairn left for Hamilton, Texas, today for the purpose of installing the wiring for the electric lights of the high school in that city.

Preston Briggs and Vernon Briggs of Pampa are guests at the Texas Hotel for a few days on

SCHOOLS IN EASTLAND TO OPEN ON MONDAY

Progress shall not be less than 15 credits. Seniors who at the end of the semester preceding the date of graduating the following spring,
fail in as much as one-half credit and lack two and a half credits of graduation, will be dropped from the senior roll.

No freshman will be allowed to carry more than 4 subjects.
Every student will be required to carry 4 courses throughout the entire year. No student will be allowed to drop one course during the year and pick up an "easier"
one. Students other than freshmen whose general average the preceding term is 85 or above and whose grade is 5 or above, and candidates for graduation who lack more than 4 subjects, may with the consent of the principal, take 5 subjects.

One year of science is required of all students before graduation. Students who have credit for physiology and physical geography will not be eligible for general science. Students who select biology must take it in their sophomore year.

Civics will be given in the fall term and economics in the spring term.

Those students who elect languages will be required to take two years in the language selected for graduation, that is, one year of Latin or Spanish will not count toward graduation; two years are necessary.

Shorthand, typewriting and bookkeeping are open to juniors and seniors. Juniors who choose commercial work should take typewriting and shorthand and bookkeeping in their senior year. Sophomores will be permitted to take typewriting provided the department is not overworked. Commercial subjects will not be open to freshmen.

Registration of high school pupils will begin Saturday, September 15, 1 p. m. All pupils are urged to report at the time and place designated below. Pupils reporting late will find themselves at a disadvantage in securing the subjects desired. No pupil will be registered except as per schedule.
Pupils reporting for registration will report first to study hall 20 for preliminary instructions. These instructions will aid you in making a satisfactory schedule.

Judge Geo. J. Davenport stated that he was not only in sympathy with the movement but was actively thriftiest shade tree that could be planted in this part of the state,

it possible for the property owner
to purchase the tree and get it set out by competent and experienced nursery men at a total cost of $1.25

property owner familiar with the plan would fail to avail himself of the opportunity to purchase trees
for his property.

Donald Kinnaird, president of the Lions Club, reports that not only the citizens of Eastland are responding to the movement, and sending orders for the trees, but that a number of oil camps out of the city limits are taking advantage of the opportunity to purchase trees with which to beautify their property. Mr. Kinnaird points out the fact that these trees are to be

Run-Down, Nervous, Appetite
Gone, Lady Shows Great Improvement After Using Cardui.

Waterloo, S. C.—"I took Cardui at intervals for three years, and have been in good health since last fall," says Mrs. Noble J. Hayes, who lives near here. "My improvement
after taking a course of this medicine was really remarkable.

"I am much stronger and can accomplish so much more work now.
My weight increased twenty pounds,
and my color is fresh and good."
"For a long time I had been feeling poorly. Some days I dragged around the house and had not enough energy to do my housework.

"I worried a lot about myself. I did not seem like myself, and my nerves were all on edge. I did not sleep well, and my appetite left me."
"I found Cardui to be an excellent tonic. After I had taken it a few weeks, I began to pick up and to gain in weight and strength."
"Now I am in fine health. I have recommended Cardui to many of my friends, and shall continue to do so."

For over 50 years, Cardui has been used with success and recommended by thousands of women for weakness and similar ailments.

It is pointed out that the city

Chicago Police Fail To Locate Kidnaped Child

By United Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—A raid by Chicago police today on a cottage in the suburbs failed to clear up the mystery surrounding the kidnap-ing of William Ramieri, 10, son of a sewerage contractor. The police were accompanied by one of two suspects seized yesterday in a raid on a pool room.

Renaldo Scherio accompanied the police. He was employed by Ramieri at one time, but was discharged. It was thought the kidnappers were holding the boy in the cottage.

The boy was kidnaped by two men as he was returning from school a week ago. His parents were told they must pay $60,000 for his return. The boy's father, Frank Ramieri, appeared confident the child would be returned today despite the fact that the money has not been paid.

Deputy Commission John Stego
is frankly incredulous of several phases of the kidnaping. He said the parents remained silent when they should tell police several details.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Bertie Lou and Rod Bryer are happily married, until Lila Loree plots to separate them. She had once refused to marry Rod because he was poor. She meets and marries Cyrus Loree and persuades him to aid Rod in business while she gains Bertie Lou's confidence by showering her with favors.

Gradually she arouses Rod's interest and faith in her while she plants seeds of doubt about his wife. When Bertie Lou discovers that they see each other secretly, she is heartbroken and flirts with young Marco Palmer to retaliate. Rod will not commit himself to Lila, although he and Bertie Lou have drifted apart. Lila fakes a jewel robbery in which it appears that Rod is the thief and then insist on keeping it secret to save his reputation. He discovers her treachery, and she says she did it to gain his love.

He repudiates her disloyalty to her husband, and she reminds him that his wife is out with Marco. Rod drives to the Palmer estate where he sees Marco and Bertie Lou in lounging robes and departs without learning that they were merely eming upstairs from the swimming pool.

Rod leaves Bertie Lou with no explanation, and she thinks that Lila has won him. Both women try to find him without success. Bertie Lou obtains a position and waits for Rod to get a divorce. The suspense and dreariness of her lot cause her to seek forgetfulness in Marco's gay crowd. She has a nervous breakdown, and while convalescing decides to buy a "dream home" with the money Rod had sent her when he left.

Marco falls in love with Bertie Lou and is devoted through all her trouble. He begs her to marry him, and she is tempted by his wealth but tells him that she still loves Rod.

Now go on With the Story
CHAPTER XXI
Marco said good night to Bertie Lou with great reluctance. He thought she was really ill and needed the attention of a physician. But Bertie Lou would not consent to have him take her to the doctor who had attended her during her nervous breakdown, as he wished to do.

"Let's just stop at the hospital a minute," Marco pleaded when they got back to the city.

"No, no. I'm all right," Bertie Lou protested. Marco did not believe her. She looked so tortured, with a wild, feverish light in her eyes, and a heartbreaking way of pressing her finger-tips to her lips as though to keep back a cry of anguish.

"You shouldn't have come out today," Marco told her reproachfully. "Buying that house was too much for you, Bertie Lou. Of course, it's your own affair, but that sort of sentimental indulgence is worse for you than the kind of things you say you won't do any more."

Marco spoke harshly. It annoyed him that Bertie Lou wouldn't take him into her confidence about the house. He could guess that it meant something close to her heart. And he was jealous of her interests.

In reality he was gratified at the change in her—the way she was turning her back on the drinking, jazzing, youth-squandering life they had been leading. It would give him a strong factor in favor of his marriage to her when the time came to talk to his father about it.

But he wished that his reason for being pleased was the same as her reason for changing. Wished it had been for him that she'd settled down to live quietly and not for some secret cause. A cause that had to do with another man, no doubt.

He suspected, of course, that the man was her husband. The suspicion prodded him to harshness. Then, too, he dreaded leaving Bertie Lou without someone to look after her during the night.

He remembered, with a pang of remorse, that it had been he who had made it possible for her to follow the health-wrecking road that leads from pleasure haunt to pleasure haunt.

He thought of that day on the train when he'd met her for the first time. She had been aloof, unwilling to promise a future meeting. He'd never expected to hear from her again.

It was easy to guess now, in the face of his greater knowledge of her, that she had been driven by unhappiness to seek his companionship. She could, he offered in his own defense, have found another willing courier on her voyage to a hospital cot. But—and this was what troubled his conscience—there had been times when her spirit had lagged and her feet had grown weary—times when he knew she was tired of the brittle hollowness of their contact with a world of incandescent radiance, mad music, and "don't care" people.

Close to her laughter had been honest tears. Her dancing feet had wanted to stop. And Marco had known it. He admitted, to himself, that he had known it. And now it troubled him that he had urged her on, picked her when he could, done everything, in fact, that he could think of to keep her going.

He had always liked her, from the start of their friendship. He hadn't wanted her to drop out. "You're in no condition to be left alone," he burst forth crossly, seeking in a solicitude for her, to put down his troublesome self searching.

Bertie Lou's nerves were beginning to cover her body with the feel of a fine network of vibrating wires. She knew what that meant. The hospital cot again. Something she must hang on, must keep calm.

Marco had been right. The emotional crisis she had undergone in buying the house of Rod's dreams had upset her. No, it was Marco himself, with his unending desire to marry her.

She knew better. It wasn't Marco. It was her memory. Cameo clear. Dear God, couldn't she forget the past! That hot night in her room. So brave she'd been—to marry Lila Marsh's castoff suitor. The heat might have come from a crucible wherever he burned her chance for happiness. And then she had only to think a little further to feel Rod's kisses upon her hair, her eyes, her lips. Sweet, the hour of youth—

Marco was saying something. She would not listen. Why try not to relieve her brief joy when it was impossible to forget it? Marco would be talking sense and there was no sense in the world.

She could not ignore him, though; she must not. If she sank so far into the past as to forget him entirely she might lose consciousness. She felt as if she could sink into a stupor from sheer inability to let go her poignant remembrance. Marco would rush her off to the hospital.

If she gained her bed—by morning she would be better. It had never been quite so bad before—this looking backward. Induced by imagination, of course. She had pictured, too unendingly, herself with Rod in the little house at Moonfields.

But it must be dispelled, this mood of black regrets for a dead past. She must not be silly. Perhaps—if she had word of Rod—tomorrow she would do what she had resisted doing many times. She would telephone to Cyrus Loree. She could disguise her voice—oh, she would not have him speaking of it to Lila—Lila would carry it to Rod. Cyrus might tell her what Rod was doing, if she pretended to be a friend from Wayville.

She knew Rod was not working for Cyrus. Her mother had told her that much. But no one who would have told her about him seemed to know. Molly, she was sure, could have given her some information had she wished.

Bertie Lou had suffered over Molly's attitude; it indicated that Rod had made unkind remarks about her. That was hard to believe, though. Rod had never been contemptible. Hadn't he thought? Since he'd fallen under Lila's influence. Still, Molly never had liked her. It did need an effort on Rod's part to make her more unfriendly.

Bertie Lou was buoyed up by the promise to herself to try to get word of Rod. It was a comfort she had stoically denied herself, but now that she had made up her mind to do it, she felt better, in spite of the bruise she knew it would be to her pride to risk having Lila or Rod guess that the call had come from her.

She turned to Marco, and he glanced up from his steering long enough to see that she had grown calmer. There had been a silence of many minutes since his last remark to her.

"I'm out of it now," she said quietly.

"What the devil was the matter with you?" he replied peevishly. She had given him a good scare.

"A touch of homesickness," she told him. Marco did not like what she said because he did not believe it, but he was too much in love with her to express his doubt. He knew he had no right to his jealousy. Bertie Lou had never encouraged him to think she loved him.

When he left her at the door of her rooming house he gazed very earnestly into her eyes. Bertie Lou put out a hand to say good-night. Marco took it and did not let it go.

"I wish you would let me take care of you," he said. "This is so dumb, Bertie Lou; your living in a place like this."

"Maybe it is," Bertie Lou returned with a wistful smile, "but just now, just this minute, Marco, I'm glad I didn't listen to you."

She was thinking of the call she was going to make the next day—the telephone call to Cyrus Loree. There was no hope of a reconciliation with Rod—she wasn't sure that she could love the man Lila had made of him as she had loved him when he was her ideal—but still she found a faint measure of happiness in being unchanged herself; in being the same Bertie Lou that Rod had married.

A miracle might happen—she did not expect to, but it might. Cyrus could tell her something fine of Rod. It might be a mistake about him and Lila. It might be. And then she would be so indescribably, so deliriously, happy that she had not said yes to Marco.

She laughed at herself as she undressed for bed, laughed and called herself a little fool. It was a sad sound, her laughter. And partly on account of Marco. She hated to treat him shabbily, keep him hanging on until she made up her mind. Her mind was made up! Why had she thought such a thing?

Bertie Lou lay long awake, asking herself questions. And she found that under all her surface denials, and even her joy in being free to dream impossible dreams of a reunion with Rod there was a feeling of satisfaction in her heart over knowing that

Marco stood by to take her out to her hall bedroom whenever she was ready to leave it.

It made her feel like a cheat. To be subconsciously leaning upon his love, while professing her determination not to accept it, was deceitful, she realized.

She broke the next engagement she had with Marco. She told him over the telephone that she would not see him again.

Marco worked up a little huff over it. A huff that lasted several days, during which time he made no attempt to see her.

Bertie Lou went back to work. She was in a dual state of firmness and softness. She would be firm about Marco, but she was extremely tender over the house she was building. It was to be the temple of a ghostly love. Rod was dead. Her Rod, that is. The other? She would forget him.

Cyrus had spoken very abruptly to her when she had telephoned and asked about Rod. She had given a fictitious name and said she was from Rod's home. And Cyrus had let her understand that he had no interest in Rod whatsoever. His tone was so caustic, and short, that Bertie Lou had quickly hung up.

So Cyrus had come to hate Rod at last!

Theft of $3,000 Results in Heavy Fine for Eckles

A fine of $1,000 was assessed against Jimmie Eckles, former Ranger bank teller, who was found guilty of the theft of $3,000 of bank funds.

The case was tried in the 88th District court before Judge Elzo Been.

The punishment is an unusual one, but the offense of which he was found guilty was a misdemeanor. When a man commits a theft, but returns the property voluntarily before a complaint has been filed, the law provides that his act is only a misdemeanor. A fine of $1,000 is the maximum penalty in such a case.

Eckles, formerly teller of the Citizens State bank, took the stand and admitted that he took $3,000 from the bank vault. He had been discharged two days previous to his act, but was still remaining around the bank. When he saw the pile of money, he yielded to sudden temptation, he said, but realized soon afterward that he should not have committed the act.

W. W. Housewright, formerly active vice-president of the bank but now a merchant at McAllen, was the chief witness for the state. He said that within 45 minutes after the money had been taken, it had been recovered. Mr. Housewright said that he and officers searched Eckles' apartment without success but that Eckles then told him where the money was. It was in a store room in the apartment house and was thrust behind a heater.

Alameda Fair Has Fine Attendance; Exhibits Are Good

A crowd estimated at 250 attended the community fair Wednesday at Alameda, said Ben Whitehouse, vocational agriculturist. The exhibits were very good. Among the "relics" was a sidesaddle. It attracted much attention. The lady who owned it rode on the sidesaddle to the church the day she was carried in 1893.

Builders of a Greater Southwest

A College Whose Campus Is the Southwest

The constructive forces expressed in the Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges and in the Agricultural Experiment Stations and extension service of State Universities, in States where no separate A. & M. College is maintained, hold high rank among the influences which are building a Greater Southwest. The dependence of civic and industrial growth upon a healthy agricultural foundation is so commonly recognized that the service of the A. & M. schools is seldom mentioned for appreciation.

The contribution of the Magnolia Petroleum Company to the growth of a Greater Southwest takes the form of efficient production, refining and marketing of petroleum products. Departments for the control and improvement of its motor fuels, motor oils and lubricants and all its related products, with special provisions for research, testing and experiment, are constantly maintained.

In this way we assure the dependability of such well known Magnolia products as:

Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline
A gasoline for high compression motors and troubled with combustion knock. It gives extra for the heavy pulls and is knockless without poisonous foreign chemical compounds.

Magnolia Motor Oils and Lubricants
A grade of paraffine-base motor oil, transmission or grease especially refined to meet the conditions which it is to be used. The Magnolia Man knows which you should have.

Magnolia Gasoline (regular)
A clean, quick-starting, powerful gasoline refined to give the utmost in fuel economy, for motors of low and moderate compression which are not troubled with combustion knock.

The fruit growers, lumbermen, corn, cotton and wheat planters, cattlemen, poultrymen, dairymen, swine raisers; in fact, all workers in agriculture and its related fields in the Southwest, profit by the scientific research and practical experiments conducted by the A. & M. Colleges and departments. By a wide exchange of students and through the work of short courses and traveling extension departments, the Agricultural schools have extended their campuses until they overlap and include every county in the Southwest and even some distant States and countries.

Upon the firm foundation designed and built up by the Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges and departments the Greater Southwest of the future may rest in security.

SOAP-MAKING KING

DELPHOS, O.—John B. Holtz, 71, of Delphos, clams a new title—that of soap-making champion of Ohio.

Born here in 1857, Holtz has presided over the kitchen of his restaurant for 30 years. In that length of time, he has killed 60,458 turtles and has made 221,764 gallons of turtle soup—an average of more than nine turtles and 36 gallons a day.

The champion's greatest average was established before prohibition, when with the finest brands from shelves in his saloon, he flavored the broth.

With the aid of other broths included in his category, Holtz has brought his total production past the half-million gallon mark.

Whoofus Whiffletree's Wwozy Wonderings

A dispatch from College Station says that four backfields are working it for the Aggies. On one field are Dorsey, quarter; Conover and Zafonotis, halves; and Burgess and Varnell, alternating at full. Recollection is that all except Zafonotis were regulars last season so it looks as though the sophomore from Ranger is starting off splendidly.

Prexy Anderson, "the morning Muse" of the Abilene News, is back from a vacation and remarks as follows:

"Around the circuit, contemporaries have been prizing it up with our dear unprotected Abilene Eagles, who have been struggling along sans benefit of a press agent. It's a wonder Dewey Mayhew has survived the strain. Whoofus Whiffletree of Ranger-Eastland, whom we take to be the same Boyce House—who still gloats over that autumn day in 1924 when the Lobos robbed the Eagles of their district crown—foresees, although he hasn't openly said as much, a return of what triumph for the eastern end of the district in the graduation of Sellers, Walter, Andrus, Burger, Christian and Senter. So sad. Seriously, he may be right.

"Whence all those high school stars will go seems about definitely settled now. Jack Christian will cast his lot with the Texas Aggies, and Esco Walter will remain at Baylor. Andrus has been lured to Daddy Amis' Furman camp in Carolina, and Goodson Sellers after a term at A. & M. will try for a berth with the Simmons Cowboys. He should make the grade. "Fans regret to hear that Donald Burger will probably never play in a college game. He is working in Abilene and will not re-enter Baylor. It is also a lamentable fact that Oscar Senter has a trick knee that will keep him off the gridiron henceforth. He may enter Simmons after the fall term."

Here's an encouraging word for the Ranger Bulldogs from Coach Woodward of Brownwood as given by Bruce Francis, sports writer of the Brownwood Bulletin: "Mr. Anderson, the Abilene sports scribe, says it will be Abilene

Hits 'Em Hard

One thing Frank "Shanty" Hogan has done this year and that is establish himself as one of the best hitting catchers in baseball. His mark of 340 early in September topped all regular catchers in the majors. His work this season for the Giants indicates that John McGraw has solved a problem of years.

lene and Cisco this year in the Oil Belt District and we will not take issue with him on that question. Our knowledge of Class A football in the Oil Belt District is more or less limited, in that we have never as much as seen one of the class A teams in action. However, a rumor has been current around these parts for some time that Bill Bissett at San Angelo will be a thorn in the sides of aspiring champions this season. And again Coach Dutch Woodward, of the Lions, says he had rather meet Cisco than Ranger. Brownwood will not be a contender this year and maybe not in 1929 but the Lions will get their baptism of fire in class A circles this season and after that things may be different."

Sports Matter

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Sports Writer

Two California fighters—a left-handed Italian and sleek negro—have designs on the welterweight championship held by Joe Dundee. Technically Dundee is champion, but actually he is not. Jack Thompson, a new edition of Joe Gans, knocked out Dundee in the second round of their scheduled 10-round bout at Comiskey Park, Chicago, the night of Aug. 30. Dundee retained his claim to the title only because he forced Thompson to weigh in over the 147-pound limit. Thompson weighed 148 1/2 on the afternoon of the night the bout was scheduled. It rained that night, and the bout was postponed until the next night. Thompson worked his weight off and came into the ring weighing 143, four pounds under the divisional weight limit.

Thompson whipped Dundee, but an unfair weight technically saved the Baltimore Italian's crown from him. The Californian twice knocked down the so-called champion for a count of nine and Dundee was reeling and rocking helplessly about the ring when Referee Eddie Purdy stopped the bout.

Before Thompson left California to create a sensation around Chicago, he was beaten by Paul Giordano, called Young Corbett III, in the ring.

To Meet Baker Tonight
Until Corbett knocked out Nick Testo, the hardhitter from Troy, N. Y., in San Francisco, recently with a solar plexus blow, he was little known. Testo is one of the best punchers in the 147-pound division. He twice had Sergeant Sammy Baker on the floor, only to lose a close decision to the Mitchell Field aviator.

Corbett's victories over Testo and Thompson have gained him wide recognition as the outstanding contender for the welterweight crown. After four years of fighting on the Pacific coast, Corbett will make his eastern debut when he meets Sergeant Sammy Baker tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Baker himself falls just short of championship calibre, but he will be a good trial horse for Corbett. The Mitchell Field flyer gave Ace Hudkins two of the toughest fights the Nebraska Wildcat ever had, winning on a technical K. O. in the first one.

Lost Only One Decision
Corbett has lost only one decision in over 100 professional bouts. Jack McCarthy won the decision from Corbett on January 10, three years ago. Corbett began fighting professionally in 1924 and has scored 40 knockouts, won 58 decisions and shared in five draws. Corbett defeated Thompson in a 10-round bout at San Francisco last winter.

Corbett was born in Italy in May, 1905, and when he was only a few months old, his parents moved to the United States and settled in Pittsburgh. The Giorno family moved to Fresno, Cal., 10 years ago, where young Paul grew up and developed into a fighter. As a sideline, he is an insurance salesman.

He is a southpaw, and has a puzzling style of fighting. Many boxing critics attempted to change his style, but in the end they all saw that he was born to fight the unorthodox way.

Whatever the outcome of the welterweight tangle, Joe Dundee undoubtedly will come out of it minus his crown. Corbett may get it. Thompson may be the one. Or even Testo might come back and take it. Or perhaps Baker.

Hooks and Slides

Believe It or Not

Tough Roberto Roberti says he won't fight for anybody but Humbert Fugazy and it seems there is the same sort of loyalty in that decision as there was in the close pact between good old Charley Harvey and Tom Heehey.

You may remember that Tom Heehey didn't have a friend in the world to give him a helping hand when he first got here until Harvey stepped up and started steering him over the rough spots. And when things looked a bit easier and it appeared that Heehey was going some place in the racket, the smart Broadway boys tried to take him away from Harvey. But Heehey said no, emphatically.

Roberto came over here just a year ago from Italy and about the only nice thing said about him at the time was that he was a good subject for some pictures showing poses of herculean strength. He was broke and he owed a lot of money back home.

Today, he doesn't owe a dime and he has about 20 grand in the big vaults and his gratitude to Fugazy is unbounded.

That's why he says—"If Mr. Fugazy wants me to fight Hansen, or anybody else any other time, I will fight. Even for nothing."

Gee, I Hate Myself!

The boys in Pittsburgh are telling a story on Heine Mueller which is worth repeating.

Mueller has been with several clubs in the majors in his time and has spent most of this season with Toledo in the American Association after being castoff by the Giants. The Braves brought him back to the majors a few weeks ago, and he joined the club in Pittsburgh.

Some bird congratulated him on getting back in the majors.

"What! with this team?" replied Heine.

"Sure, why not? It's a pretty good team!"

"Who have they got besides me and Hornsby?" asked Mueller.

Of course, Heine was having his little joke. That's the only thing to be assumed. The Braves have Sisler and a few other players.

Congrats, Marion!

Any time any golfer goes out on a golf course that has any sort of a reputation about being hard and shoots an out in the low thirties, it's worth telling about. And when a member of the fair sex does it, it is all the more worthy of spreading.

Some few days ago, Marion Turpie, one of the best women golfers in the land, went out in New Orleans and shot the first nine holes of the Audubon club course in 34. And that's no easy course.

Her dad, a veteran New Orleans pro (who, incidentally, has taught Marion all she knows about the game), believes it a record for women players. And as this column conductor doesn't ever remember and score as low by a woman, we're inclined to agree.

And to make this 34 stand out all the more, it was the first time the southern champion had stepped on a course in weeks.

BREAKFAST—Peaches, cereal, cream, baked French toast, milk coffee.

LUNCHEON—Ham and veal timbales, creamed carrots, shredded celery cabbage, apple sauce, cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Vegetable plate, frozen cheese salad, fruit cup, milk, coffee.

This is the ideal time of year to serve "vegetable plate" dinners. Almost any combination can be chosen and the cook need only keep in mind the necessity of varying the method of cooking.

The ham and veal timbales are planned to use up any leftovers from the two previous dinners—the veal stew and baked ham menus.

In "Death Row," He Writes Poem

Eastland Countian is Doomed to Electric Chair for Murder.

HUNTSVILLE, Sept. 13.—O. C. Wells, formerly of Eastland county, convicted of the murder of J. C. Mitchell at Coleman in July, 1926, and sentenced to death, from which he has appealed, has turned to writing poetry for solace.

Tired of smoking endless cigarettes, Wells has written a poem in which he mentions God, the law and other things which he said he failed to consider during his days of freedom.

Wells is regarded among peace officers as one of the champion jail breakers of Texas. He has broken out of the prison several times during his present incarceration. He is fleet of foot.

Mitchell was slain during a hold up in his grocery store at Coleman. Wells denies that he was in Coleman that night, alleging that he was robbing a warehouse at Menard at the time of the holdup.

Wells' poem follows:
The Perfect Judge.
 (By O. C. Wells)
 Far out in the deep blue ether,
 Many millions of miles away
 There shall be a final judgment
 On some wonderful perfect day.

There will be no jury of morons;
 No pusillanimous judge in command.

For the truth shall be available
 Before He that fully understands.

There will be no politicians;
 No rush for greed and gold.
 All of those of truth and virtue
 Shall be awarded an everlasting soul.

There will be no false witnesses;

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

John Wallace, managing editor of the Wichita (Kan.) Evening Eagle, says:

"That 'thou shalt not fret thyself for the sins of flaming youth, for verily they are milder and fewer than those of former days.' Such is the view taken by our old friend Dr. L. Morgan Chambers, pastor of the St. Paul's Methodist church of Wichita. There's a world of common sense in Dr. Chambers' dictum. He displays a rare understanding of the moral laws governing humanity and tolerance altogether admirable in this day of social transition. When we of the older generation come to realize that there has been a social revolution in these United States, then we again will come to understand and think with our children.

Revolution, you say? Yes, and nothing less. Almost without seeming to understand what was being accomplished, the modern children have swept aside the double standard of morality. Girls have come to demand the same rights as are accorded to their brothers—and most of the garments and haircuts. They refuse to be simpering, prettifying models of the young woman depicted in Godey's Lady Book of 1870. Instead, they are their own, sweet, frank selves, mayhap a wee bit too frank, but nevertheless they are refreshingly natural. It has been a terrible shock to us oldsters. We were quite frank about shuddering at the change when our dainty Marcelline changed overnight from a pink-and-white hypocrite learning the rules of femininity to a fair replica of the youngest son. She covered her ears, and uncovered her knees and between twilight and dawn she learned how to talk the language of the rest of "those awful children."

Dr. Chambers has seen further into the situation than others less willing to give credit to their own children for inheriting the innate decency and morality of their forebears. Blood will tell. The proper childhood training is the best safeguard against evil. Our modern children are as fine as we were at their age. The difference is that they've quit pretending. They've revolted against being built to model—and by bringing

Prayer Meeting Tickets Sold By One Church

By United Press.
 EL PASO, Sept. 12.—Believing that people appreciate something they have to pay to see and hear more than they do something they can attend free of charge, Rev. H. D. Tucker, pastor of Asbury Methodist church, has begun selling tickets to his Wednesday night prayer meeting services.

As a result of the admission price, he reported an increased attendance. "I've always observed that people value things more, if they pay money for them," he explained. "I'm trying this admission charge idea as an experiment."

The pastor sells season tickets to his prayer meetings for $1.

their natural personalities to the fore they're making these days of speed and advancement somewhat hectic for the older ones who limp a bit.

Nothing is more hateful than deceit or the pretense of qualities we do not possess. Truly it would seem that the problem is not how to make the children better, but rather how to become their chums again; how to think brain to brain with them, and keep them closer to the family circle. They're all right. Give them a chance!

Absentee Ballot Enables College Students to Vote

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Frank L. Polk, president of the College League for Alfred E. Smith, yesterday made a direct appeal to all college men and women, graduates as well as undergraduates, to cast their ballots in the November election. He declared it was their civic duty to vote and that they were not living up to their responsibilities if they failed to do so.

Mr. Polk declared in his statement that the College League has already started an intensive drive to get out the vote. He pointed out that, in all but three states, the law provides for absentee voting and that college students can exercise their right of franchise without the expense or inconvenience of returning to their homes. "So many important issues are at stake in the coming election," Mr. Polk says in his statement, "that it is the duty of college men and women, whether they are students or graduates, to register and vote. They will be remiss in fulfilling the obligations of good citizenship if they fail to do so."

"The colleges and universities of the country will open soon, drawing thousands of students from their homes. I want to urge upon these undergraduates the necessity of making arrangements to cast their ballots under the absentee voting laws. They can do so in all but three states without the expense or inconvenience of returning home. If they delay too long, they will lose their right of franchise in the November election. They owe it to themselves and to their country to exercise this obligation of citizenship."

"The college men and women of the country are taking great interest in the present campaign. Hundreds of them have already enrolled in the college group advocating the election of Governor Smith because of the conviction that he has an available progressive program. They see in him a tested and experienced leader, an executive whose record proves he can organize public opinion in the interests of better government. He has been the successful leader, in his four terms as governor of New York, in government reorganization, in tax reduction, in the preservation of the natural resources of the people and in enlightened social welfare and educational reforms.

VETERAN VOTER SUFFERS SPELL OF CONSCIENCE

Detroit Man, 101, Confesses He First Cast Ballot When Only 19 Years Old

DETROIT, Sept. 13.—Edwin P. Doty, 101-year-old Detroit man, confronted an election registration clerk recently. "I want to register for the primary," he said, "but—"

He was handed a registration blank. "You know," the old man said, "I don't know whether I ought to register or not."

"What's the matter?" he was asked.

"You see," the centenarian explained, "I voted years ago when I was only 19 years old for 'Tippecanoe and Tyler, too,' but I wasn't old enough."

Washington Letter

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 WASHINGTON — Your correspondent was down in the bird department of the National Museum the other day and got to wondering whether it is nicer to be called a Pachycephala or a Thickhead. It all means the same thing.

The poor little bird to whom these names are applied, more often the second one, has no choice in the matter. He's dead—just like thousands of other birds embalmed and laid out in a great series of trays enclosed in long lines of what look like electric refrigerators.

There are about 90 kinds of pachycephalids — or thickheads—but the one your correspondent went to see was of a kind which had never visited the museum before. He is called pachycephala nudigula, which means a thick-head with a nude neck. His naked spot is not all neck, however; it's part throat and part chest which goes featherless and makes him different from all other thick-heads.

It is not surprising if you have never seen a thickhead, for they are found only in the Malay archipelago and the one with the funny neck is known to exist only in the Sunda Islands. In appearance it's something like a shrike.

Naturally, it was something of an event when the pachycephala nudigula came to Washington. The museum had heard that some European museum had two of them; it also found that it had duplicates of some rare Chinese bird which the European museum didn't have. So the two museums just swapped.

Charles W. Richmond, the National Museum's associate curator of birds, who knows about more than 20,000 kinds of birds, says that the term "thickhead," as used to describe this particular bird, has no relation to the popular understanding of the term. That is, no dumber and no smarter than the average bird.

"Most all birds," says Mr. Richmond, "operate under an inherited sense which is useful within certain limits."

"Of course, some birds are smarter than others. Crows and magpies, for instance. The English sparrow, from long association with man, has learned quite a few tricks. He knows when to jump. Sometimes parrots are supposed to be bright. At any rate, they can talk, which is more than most birds can do.

"Or, take the Mino bird out at the zoo. He says 'So's your old man' and 'How about appropriations?' But he won't say what you want him to when you want him to. If you want him to say 'How about appropriations?' he is just as likely to say 'So's your old man.' He represents a certain type of bird which has a minimum amount of intelligence. "But he can pick himself sometimes. There were two of them. They lost one and then it was explained to visitors who saw the surviving Mino bird that the other one died. Pretty soon that Mino bird was telling everybody: 'The other one died.'"
